1943

30.24 - 7941

30.24 - 7941

EIGHT DIVISIONS ROUTED AS SOVIET UNITS DRIVE AHEAD

SEP 2 1943

Germans Admit Withdrawal of Troops to Meet Allied Threat in West.

LOAN

NEW NAZI CRISIS LOOMS

Tremendous Russian Offensive Threatens Encirclement of Vast Force.

300 VILLAGES SEIZED

Reds' Artillery Smashes Foe's Counter-Attack on Smolensk Front.

LONDON, Thursday, Sept. 2 —(AP) The Red army advancing in the Donets basin has wiped out the German Taganrog army, killing or capturing more than 41,000 enemy troops and routing or mauling eight divisions totalling 120,000 men, Moscow announced early today.

London, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—Russian troops today completed the liquidation of the German forces encircled at Taganrog, killing more than 35,000, Moscow announced tonight.

The Soviet communique, broadcast by the Moscow radio, followed by only a few hours a German radio broadcast admitting that the Nazis had retreated in the Donets Basin area southwest of Voroshilovgrad. The Berlin broadcast, also recorded by the Associated Press, quoted a dispatch of DNB, the German official news agency.

The Moscow bulletin said that the Russians routed the German 111th and 294th Infantry and Fifteenth Airborne divisions at Taganrog and inflicted heavy defeats on the 304th, 306th and 336th Infantry and Thirteenth Tank divisions, adding:

"In these battles our troops destroyed 212 enemy planes, 537 tanks, 494 guns of various calibers, 1,500 machine-guns, 3,600 trucks, ten fuel dumps and twenty-nine ammunition dumps. The enemy lost in killed alone more than 35,000 officers and men."

It also said that 5,100 German officers and men were taken prisoner.

Berlin's Admission.

The DNB dispatch said:

"Another shortening of the front, involving the possibility of establishing operative reserves, was achieved by a planned withdrawal of German lines in the Voroshilovgrad area which the Soviets attempted in vain to impede."

The regular German communique, recorded by the Associated Press, said that numerous Russian attacks in the Mius, Rylsk and Vyazma sectors—on widespread sections of the front—were beaten off after violent hand-to-hand combat.

Russians Attack on Wide Front.

Voroshilovgrad, approximately seventy miles northeast of Stalino and ninety miles north of Taganrog, is already some distance behind the front, and the German announcement indicated the Nazis were falling back upon the defenses of Stalino, their Army headquarters for the entire southern front and seriously-threatened main bastion in the Donets Basin.

The German communique in effect disclosed the Russians were attacking along the entire 600-mile front from the sea of Azov to Smolensk.

Reds Crossed River.

Only yesterday, Moscow's guns thundered a salute to the forces of Gen. Vassilly Sokolovsky which swept forward several days ago in the Smolensk sector to take Yelnya, vital highway and railway junction, and crack the German defenses on the eastern bank of the Ugra River.

The Germans threw tanks, artillery, planes and infantry into their desperate defense and counter-offensives. The Russians finally succeeded in crossing the river, however, and Soviet tanks cut the railroad and opened a gap through which the following infantry poured.

In a twin drive a little to the south, forces of Gen. Constantine Rokossovsky's central army attacked from Sevsk on a sixty-mile wide front to push into the northern Ukraine. They were reported in Moscow dispatches to have exterminated or taken prisoner the entire German garrison of Klukhov the capture of which Stalin triumphantly announced yesterday.

Along the coast of the Sea of Azov, meanwhile, the Red Army pushed on toward the seaport of Mariupol.

The triple victories all took place within a day but news of the successes on the central and northern front were held back by the Soviet High Command to give Moscow an unprecendented two-day celebration.

In the north a drive on a thirty-mile front from Spas Demensk to Yelnya, whose fall was announced yesterday, threatened the Nazis with one of the major catastrophes of the summer campaign because it brought the Red Army within striking distance of the city of Smolensk, chief German operational headquarters for the whole northern Russia area.

Smolensk fell into German hands in the opening days of the war in 1941 and has since served as the hub of Nazi offensive operations.

Capture 200 Villages.

The Sevsk advance resulted in the capture of 200 villages, the Russian war bulletin said, and more than 3,000 Germans were killed and twenty-eight tanks were destroyed in the fighting. Eight hundred other Nazi troops were reported taken prisoner.

On the Sea of Azov the Russians were occupied principally with mopping up the last remnants of German units trapped by the rapid advance by Cossacks and armored divisions which pinched off the seaport of Taganrog, the Russians said.

Other units were already pushing westward along the coast toward Mariupol while a second spearhead was slashing northwest toward Stalino.

The Russians said that the Germans were attempting a Dunkirk in the Taganrog sector but declared that all counter-attacks designed at springing the encircled Nazis from the trap had failed and that their forces were systematically liquidating the last pockets of resistance.

An additional 6,000 Germans fell yesterday trying to stem Soviet armies hacking their way toward Stalino, Poltava, Bryansk, and Smolensk along a 600-mile front, said a communique recorded early today by the Soviet monitor.

The Taganrog debacle was the great single German defeat since Stalingrad. More than 35,000 Germans were killed and 5,100 captured in final liquidation of the encircled troops caught west of the Sea of Azon city, the communique said.

German troops were withdrawing in the Donets basin—Berlin military circles telling Swedish correspondents that Axis fears of an Allied invasion in the west prompted the retreat. German lines also were sagging east of Smolensk, south of Bryansk, and deep inside the Ukraine, the Russians indicated.

Nazis Shift Forces Quickly

The Germans, in a frantic effort to halt the wide Russian breakthrough beyond Taganrog, were declared in today's Moscow communique to have hurriedly shifted some of their inland forces to the south.

The Russians then promptly went over to the offensive southwest of Voroshilovgrad, punching out gains of four to six miles toward Stalino and Debaltsevo, which lie on the network of railways feeding the Germans in the central Donets.

Complete erasure of the collapsing German Donets front apparently was foreshadowed in a Berlin broadcast which said the Russians were amassing a tremendous striking force along the stretches of the middle Donets river. This area is on the "roof" of the extended German salient. A Russian breakthrough there probably would result in an even larger encirclement of German troops than those trapped at Taganrog.

Soviet bombers pounded German troop trains and truck convoys rushing into the area between Mariupol and Taganrog. Several trains were smashed, more than 100 trucks destroyed, and 25 planes shot down, the communique said.

300 Villages Seized

Advances of four to seven and one-half miles also were announced on the Bryansk and Smolensk fronts as the Russians recaptured 300 villages yesterday in their unprecedented display of summer power.

Of the Smolensk front, where Russian troops are reported within 45 miles of that central anchor, the Moscow communique said:

"The enemy is bringing up his reserves and throwing them into counter-attacks straight from the march."

These attacks collapsed under coordinated Russian artillery blasts and 2,000 Germans were killed in an unchecked Russian advance, the bulletin said.

The regular daily bulletin was issued without the fanfare of two previous days in which Marshal Stalin issued his orders of the day detailing the crumbling of the German front originally established in the 1941 Axis invasion of Russia.

Fabulous Capture of Booty

It told of fabulous German equipment losses in the Russian breakthrough at Taganrog, in which four enemy divisions were routed and four others suffered heavy casualties. The toll as announced by Moscow:

Destroyed — 537 German tanks; 212 planes; 494 guns of various caliber 1,500 machine-guns, 3,600 trucks, ten fuel dumps; 29 ammunition dumps.

Captured — 95 tanks; 198 guns of various caliber; 217 mortars; 409 machine-guns, 594 trucks and 22 ammunition dumps.

These figures answered a Nazi claim of a relatively bloodless withdrawal from Taganrog.

These were the spotlight salients in which the Russians said the Red army advanced during the day:

Donets basin—Krasny Luch, 35 miles southwest of Voroshilovgrad, and Shterovka, 25 miles east of the key German-held rail city of Debaltsevo, were among 30 villages captured in a four-to-six-mile gain West of Taganrog the Red army was reported within 35 miles of Mariupol, Sea of Azov port along the route to Melitopol, 100 miles farther.

Through Melitopol a German supply railway runs into the Crimea, whence the Axis Kuban bridgehead armies of the Caucasus are fed. Berlin said the endangered Kuban armies were under heavy Soviet attack.

West and south of Kharkov—Unspecified gains in which several villages were recaptured. The Russians also were reported enlarging their by-passing thrusts north of Poltava, 85 miles southwest of Kharkov. A Berlin broadcast heard by Reuters said Red tanks and troops were "successfully infiltrating into German lines" above Poltava.

Below Bryansk—Gains of four to six miles in which Komarichi, and 60 other villages were taken. Komarichi, a rail station, is 55 miles below Bryansk and 22 miles northeast of Sevsk. A Berlin broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said the Russians apparently intended to flank Bryansk in the hope of encirclement.

Smolensk—The Russians smashed four to seven and one-half miles deeper down the road toward Smolensk, winning back Dorogobuzh, 50 miles short of Smolensk. Dorogobuzh rail station had been recaptured in Tuesday's fighting, and Yelnya, German communications center and strong point 50 miles southeast of Smolensk, also had even overrun.

In the Taganrog disaster the Russians said their troops routed the 17th, 111th, and 294th German infantry divisions, and the 15th airborne division.

"Heavy defeats" were inflicted on the 304th, 306th, and 336th infantry and the 13th tank divisions, the communique said.

Swedish correspondents in Berlin quoted German military circles as saying for the first time that their withdrawals in Russia were caused by Allied threats in the west and in the Mediterranean.

Second-Front Threat Noted

The Stockholm Tidningen's correspondent, in a dispatch from Berlin, observed that "never before have military circles admitted that a second front threatened them to such an extent."

A German broadcast quoted Col. Ernst von Hammer, military correspondent, as admitting tonight that German troops were retreating southwest of Voroshilovgrad in the Donets basin, in "another shortening of the front." He added that "the Soviets attempted in vain to impede the move"—the same phraseology used in explaining the Taganrog reverse.

Reds Reinforcing Lines

Other German broadcasts recorded by the Associated Press said the Russians were pouring fresh men and equipment into the Donets lines in their effort to hurl back the Germans to the Dnieper river, 200 miles to the west.

The German high command made no mention of the withdrawal, but noted Soviet attacks against Rumanian troops holding the last German foothold in the Caucasus, a strip of territory on the Kuban river across the Kerch Straits from the German-occupied Crimea. The communique said the Soviet attacks "collapsed."

Pope Appeals for Just Peace To End War in Its Fifth Year

Text of the Pope's broadcast—Page 4

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Pope Pius XII appealed to the leaders of the world today to reach "a worthy peace" and expressed hope and faith that the fifth year of the war, beginning today, would end in such a peace.

SEP 1943

The Pope, declaring his views in a fourteen-minute world broadcast, called for "generosity" toward those nations "less favored than others by the trend of war at any given time" and admonished against actions which failed to encourage confidence, but, instead, renewed hatreds and strengthened determination to keep on fighting.

The Pontiff, referring to "the powerful and the leaders of peoples," continued: "May their wisdom, their moderation, their strength of mind and their deep sense of humanity throw a ray of comfort upon the tear-and-blood-drenched threshold of the fifth year of the war and give the survivors of the immense conflict, bent under a load of sorrow, the joyful hope that the year may not end under the sign and in the shadow of slaughter and destruction, but may be the beginning and the dawn of a new life, brotherly reconciliation and a thorough and concordant reconstruction."

It was with this hope, he said, that he bestowed the Papal blessing not only on all Catholics but also on "those who feel united to us in love and in the work for peace."

While he did not mention the "unconditional surrender" ultimatum under which the Allies are waging war, the Pope again and again urged a spirit of compromise. He did not identify specifically those nations whose present martial prospects are poor, nor did he mention Italy, the belligerent to which his phrase would apply most forcefully.

The Pope, in his message, translated here from the Italian and made available in English by the Ministry of Information, stressed his view that a spirit of tolerance toward any nation actually defeated, or in prospect of being defeated, would not endanger the victors. "Real strength," he said, "need have no fear of generosity."

The Pontiff began by recalling that a few days before the war started he appealed for peace. Then, he said, his words did not enlighten the minds or enter into the hearts of the world leaders.

With the war entering the fifth year, he continued, those leaders who had reckoned on a speedy victory now see about them "nothing but grief and contemplate nothing but ruins."

The war is approaching a climax, the Pope said, and its gigantic struggles are arousing in all nations an aversion against the brutality of total war, which exceeds all honest limits and all rules of divine and human right.

The minds and hearts of the people, he said, are torn by doubt whether the continuation of the war can be in accordance with national interest and can be justified in the Christian and human conscience.

He said that he prayed that those whose task it is to achieve a peace would give to all nations "the justified hope of a worthy peace which does not clash with their right to live and their sense of honor."

concern not for any one nation, but for the whole human family—to those he saw as asking now for nothing "but peace, bread and work."

Sense of Approaching Crisis.

He placed his special blessing on those "who understand the great work of a real new order," apparently an indirect thrust at Hitler's "new order" of passion and violence.

"Woe to those who incite to conflicts between peoples, who oppress unarmed and innocent peoples. Upon those the anger of God will descend," the Pope declared at another point.

The Holy Father's message to the world came at an hour which found Italy's "war impulse" dead and gone, as Prime Minister Churchill put it, and Russian armies storming forward along an immense and terrible battle line in the greatest successes they ever achieved.

A sense of approaching crisis in the course and direction and even duration of the struggle was implicit in the Pope's address. Although he mentioned no country specifically, what he said strongly suggested that he believed the time of crisis had arrived, and that the war was in or very near its last great act.

Reaching Culmination.

"The war seems to be reaching its culmination" and "the soul of all people is revolting against violence," a paragraph recorded by Reuters said. "In every nation, aversion to the methods of total war increases * * * a doubt whether the continuation of such war as this is conformable to national interests or to reason penetrates all hearts."

The holy father began with a reference to "the terrible day which saw the beginning of the war" and recalled that a few days before hostilities opened he had told the leaders of the nations:

"Not everything yet is lost."

"Our words," he went on, "were addressed to all peoples without any exception. We are now speaking words which will be of advantage to all without exception."

"After so many promises, after so many agreements which were not respected, confidence among nations has dwindled. That is why we are addressing ourselves to all those who are willing to co-operate for peace," he said.

The Pope blessed all those who "also lend their ears" to mothers bereft of sons lost in war and those "who lend their ear * * * to people who have suffered so much and who do not ask anything but peace, bread and work."

"Leaders of the peoples should lead nations toward reaching a just peace. Their moderation, their strength of will and of human feeling should give to the survivors of this conflict the hope that the present year will see the end of this conflict and a new dawn of peace over the world.

"In this hope, in this faith we give to all the peoples of the world our apostolic blessing."

Pope Hopes for End Of War in '43, Calls For 'Just Peace'

Suggests His Words Of Mediation Would Be Advantageous to All

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Pope Pius XII called on the world's leaders today to reach "a just peace," expressing his hope and faith that 1943 would see the end of war "and a new dawn of peace."

The Pontiff spoke for 14 minutes over the Vatican radio. The broadcast, in Italian, was recorded and translated at the Associated Press listening post.

Pope Pius recalled efforts to halt hostilities before they began and suggested that his present words of mediation—addressed especially to "all those willing to co-operate for peace"—would be to the advantage of every belligerent, without exception.

Speaking on the day which opened the fifth year of the greatest and bloodiest struggle in human history, the Pope took pains to stress his

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP).—The text of the address today by Pope Pius XII, as recorded in London and translated from the Italian by the British Ministry of Information, follows:

It is four years since the terrible day which marked the beginning of the most formidable, destruction and devastating war of all times. Foreseeing this brutal disaster which was threatening the great human family, we addressed, a few days before the outbreak of hostilities, a warm appeal to the leaders and the peoples as well as a suppliant warning.

We said: "Nothing, nothing is lost by peace. Everything may be lost by war." Our voice reached their ears but did not enlighten the minds and did not go deep into the hearts. The spirit of violence gained the victory over the spirit of concord and understanding.

A victory which was a defeat. Today, on the threshold of the fifth year of war, even those who then reckoned on swift war operations and a speedy, victorious peace, looking around at what is surrounding them, inside and outside the fatherland, see nothing but grief and contemplate nothing but ruins.

Warning Justified by Events

To many whose ears were deaf to our words, the most grevious spectacle which today presents itself teaches how much reality for the future there was in our warning and prophecy. Then our words were inspired by impartial love for all peoples without exception, and vigilant care for their well-being.

The same love and care move us now in this grave and anguished hour to utter words which are intended to benefit all and harm none, while we untiringly supplicate omnipotent God to open the way to the hearts and decisions of those who hold in their hands the fate of afflicted humanity.

Through gigantic struggles the exterior happenings of war approach us and converge toward their culminating point. Never was the exhortation of Scriptures, "Learn, O judges of the world," more invoked or urgent than in this hour in which tragic reality speaks to all. All peoples must now meditate within themselves with their eyes on ruins. Give them wisdom and encourage them, support them in their efforts. To discourage them would be disastrous blindness.

In every land the soul of the people shrinks from the cult of violence and, in the horrible spectacle of death and destruction, contemplates merited condemnation. In all nations aversion is growing against the brutality of the methods of total war, which goes beyond all honest limits, all rules of divine and human right.

Doubts on War Growing

More than ever the minds and hearts of peoples are tormented by doubt whether continuation of such a war can be in accordance with national interest, reasonable and justifiable before Christian and human conscience. After so many torn-up treaties, so many ignored conventions, so many broken promises, so many contradictory changes in feeling and action, confidence between nations has dwindled and has fallen so low as to deprive every generous resolution of spirit and hardihood.

Therefore we turn to all those whose task it is to promote agreement and harmony for peace, with a prayer which springs from our most intimate and sorrowful heart, and say to them that real strength need have no fear of generosity. It has always the means of guaranteeing itself against any false interpretation of its readiness and will for pacification and against any other possible repercussions.

Do not disturb or impede the desire of people for peace by actions which instead of encouraging confidence rather inflame hatreds anew and strengthen determination to resist.

Give all nations a justified hope of worthy peace which does not clash with their right to live and their sense of honor. Let it be clearly seen that there is a loyal accord between your principles and your decisions, between statements about a just peace and facts.

Road to True Peace

Only thus will it be possible to create a propitious atmosphere wherein peoples who are less favored than others by the trend of war at any given time may believe in the dawning and development of a new sense of justice and co-operation among nations and draw from this belief the natural consequences of greater confidence in the future—free from fear that the preservation of the integrity, of the honor of their fatherland may be compromised.

Blessed be those who, with firm and unswerving determination, help to prepare the ground where a sense of veracity and of international justice may germinate and blossom, thrive and ripen; blessed be those—to whatever group of belligerents they may belong—who, with just the same unswerving determination and with an eye to realities, co-operate so that the deadlock, wherein the fatal balance of war and peace is now kept in suspense, may be overcome.

Blessed be those who keep themselves and their peoples free from the bonds of preconceived opinions, from an influx of uncontrolled passions, inordinate egotism and an unjustifiable thirst for power.

Blessed be those who harken to the supplicating voices of the mothers who gave birth to their children so that they might develop in faith and in generous actions, not so that they might kill and be killed; and those who lend an ear to the anguished invocations of families torn by compulsory separations; to the even more insistent cries of people who, after so much suffering, so many privations and bereavements, ask for nothing better in life than peace, bread and work.

Blessed be those who realize that great work for a new and just order is not possible unless their eyes are lifted to God, keeper and ordainer of all human events, initial source, guardian and avenger of all justice and right.

Oppressors Will Be Punished

But woe to those who in this terrible moment do not reach full awareness of their responsibility for the fate of the peoples, who feed hatred and conflicts among them, who build their power upon injustice, who oppress and torment the unarmed and innocent. You will see that the wrath of God will be with them until the end.

May it please the divine Redeemer, from Whose lips came the words "Blessed be the peaceful," to enlighten the powerful and leaders of peoples; inspire their thoughts, their feelings and their deliberations, make them spiritually and materially vigorous and firm against obstacles, mistrust and perils which obstruct the path toward preparation and settlement of a just and lasting peace.

May their wisdom, their moderation, their strength of mind and their deep sense of humanity throw a ray of comfort upon the tear and blood drenched threshold of the fifth year of war and give the survivors of the immense conflict, bent under a load of sorrow, joyful hope that the year may not end under the sign and in the shadow of slaughter and destruction, but may be the beginning and dawn of a new life, of brotherly reconciliation and a thorough and concordant reconstruction.

With such confidence, we impart upon our beloved sons and daughters of the Catholic world, as upon all those who feel united to us in love and in the work for peace, our fatherly apostolic benediction.

Berlin Is Battered by R. A. F. In 45-Minute Saturation Raid

British Mark Opening of Fifth Year of War With Fierce Attack—Nazi Capital's Plight Likened to Stalingrad.

London, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—Great fleets of heavy bombers of the Royal Air Force blasted Berlin last night with a flaming forty-five-minute concentrated assault of blockbuster and fire bombs, to usher in the fifth year of war for the Germans with an ordeal of fire and exploding steel.

Great damage was inflicted on the Nazi capital in this second massive assault in eight days, the Air Ministry announced, while other planes attacked air fields and other targets in France and the Low Countries. Forty-seven bombers and one fighter were lost, the communique added, and several Nazi fighters were shot down.

To reach Berlin, the bombers bored through a stiff defense by fighters. The Germans relied again on their new tactic of throwing out swarms of fighters while hundreds of searchlights probed for the attackers and the anti-aircraft fire was reduced. This had been tried out during last week's raids on Berlin and Nuremberg.

Eight Canadians Are Lost.

"Last year when I took part in two attacks on Berlin there seemed to be even more guns there than in the Ruhr, but then there were few fighters around," said one veteran of the 1942 attacks. "Now it's the other way around. There were droves of fighters last night, but the anti-aircraft fire was only moderate."

The first formations—the Canadians also threw their heaviest bombers into the attack—began pouring down explosives on Berlin at 11:30 P. M. and continued the hail into the morning of the new year of war. Eight of the heavy bombers lost in this rekindling of the fires in Berlin were Canadian.

It was the seventy-seventh raid of the war upon the German capital, the second all-out attack since the saturation raid of a week ago last Monday night, when 2,240 tons of bombs were dropped; and the fourth raid within that period, counting the two intervening attacks by Mosquito bombers.

Characteristically the German radio described the assault as a "new terror raid" and asserted that the British bombers had been dispersed with heavy losses by newly reorganized anti-aircraft defenses.

30.24-1943

The German air force struck back at England on a comparatively small scale. A few Nazi planes were reported to have swept over the east coast of England during the night, dropping bombs which caused only slight damage.

BERLIN SET AFIRE IN R.A.F. NIGHT RAID

Day Attacks on Rail Yards in Holland, Large Barge Staged in Follow-Up.

SEP 2 1943

LONDON, Sept. 1. — (AP) Hundreds of R.A.F. bombers tore through a powerful German fighter screen last night to rock Berlin with a 45-minute deluge of block-levelling explosives that again gutted sections of the Axis military heart and left flames visible 70 miles away.

The British Air ministry indicated that this second concentrated assault in eight days equalled the 1,800-ton Aug. 23 blow which wiped out entire districts in western and southern Berlin, paralyzed utility services, and sped the evacuation of thousands haunted by the specter of the blackened skeleton of Hamburg.

Serving notice that the new year of the war probably will be the bitterest for the Axis, Allied planes followed up last night's hail of bombs on Berlin with daylight attacks on railway yards in Holland and a big Nazi sea-going barge off the Dutch islands.

Forty-seven bombers, eight of them Canadian, and one fighter were lost in the latest Berlin attack and in auxiliary night assaults on airfields and other targets in France and the low countries.

Today, at the beginning of the fifth year of war, large formations of Allied planes still roared across the Dover straits toward France, while German heavy artillery in the Boulogne area hurled shells across the channel.

The British Air ministry said "great damage" was inflicted on Berlin, although clouds and great fires set by the British and Canadian airmen prevented assessment of the full results. Berlin, however, acknowledged "considerable damage."

631 AXIS FIGHTERS DOWNED IN MONTH BY 8TH AIRFORCE

O'QUINN

August Total Eclipses Previous Record by 90 Planes.

LONDON, Sept. 1 — (AP) The U. S. Eighth Air force, pulverizing German airfields one by one and wrecking vital war factories, set a new monthly record for the destruction of Nazi aircraft in combat in August by shooting 631 fighters out of the sky, it was announced today.

Headquarters of the European theater of the U. S. Army announced also that its Thunderbolt fighters proved by actual experience that they could break up enemy fighters attacks sufficiently to cut down bomber losses and take enough pressure off the bombers to give them a better chance to destroy their objectives.

Flying Fortresses, Marauders and Thunderbolts all figured in taking the toll of 631 Nazi planes, headquarters said. The previous high was 506 German planes bagged in July. Fortresses set an individual record by destroying 541 planes, which is five percent more than the July total.

100 Fortresses Lost

The bombers lost by enemy action in August were slightly worse than the four per cent announced for July. One hundred Fortresses, less than five per cent of the number dispatched, failed to return during August, headquarters said. A total of 16 U. S. fighter planes was lost.

The air-sea service saved 96 crewmen from Flying Fortresses, including 40 picked up in the Mediterranean following the bombing of Regensburg. One of the downed fighter pilots was rescued.

Operational days for the Fortresses in August were 20 per cent fewer than in July, but the tonnage of bombs dropped only 3.9 per cent under the July figure, the announcement stated.

High spot of the month's activities was the twin raid Aug. 17 when Flying Fortresses hit Schweinfurt and Regensburg. The Regensburg raiders proceeded on to North Africa to complete the first leg of the initial American shuttle bombing.

Most of the Eighth Air force's August raids were directed against objectives in France and the Low Countries.

30.24-1943

Exiled Regimes In London Get Quebec Report

DANIEL

Eden Tells Them of Broad Decisions; British Expect Parley With Stalin Soon

SEP 2 1943

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden acquainted the foreign ministers of the exiled governments in London today with the broad decisions of the recent Quebec conferences as the work of preparing an agenda for a possible Anglo-American-Soviet conference proceeded.

It was believed in London, however, that it might be some days before a formal announcement of the tri-power meeting would be made. All three parties were said to be agreed that such a conference, on the level of either Prime Minister or Foreign Minister, would be more successful if considerable spadework were done beforehand.

For this reason, it was expected that Ivan Maisky, former Soviet Ambassador to Great Britain and now Vice-Commissar for Foreign Affairs, would be here some time before returning to his duties in Moscow.

Churchill's speech in Quebec yesterday did much to reinforce the belief here that talks between the American President, the British Prime Minister and the Soviet Premier would be held soon.

Commenting on the speech, "The Times" said a preliminary step to the conference of the three government leaders would be a "conference of foreign ministers," as proposed by Churchill and foreshadowed by the talks Eden has been having here with Maisky and John G. Winant, American Ambassador to the Court of St. James's.

Foreseeing a "danger of our winning the war in the field before we have settled the broad foundations upon which Europe's future must be built," the liberal "News Chronicle" advocated "prompt, wholehearted and practical expression" of Churchill's desire for a three-power conference.

The Laborite "Daily Herald" said a "greater stride must yet be made—and urgently" toward a "smoothly working partnership." The Labor Party organ added, "That the Allies do not see eye-to-eye on strategy was frankly acknowledged by Mr. Churchill last night."

WAR STARTED 4 YEARS AGO

AGNEW

Axis Disintegrating After Early Triumphs.

London, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—World war II enters its fifth year today, with the United Nations everywhere on the march and the dream of Adolf Hitler and his Axis satellites of world domination slowly but surely disintegrating.

It was just four years ago that the then mighty German military machine began history's most catastrophic conflict by attacking Poland. It took the Nazis only eighteen days to conquer most of that country, Warsaw alone holding out until September 27. Poland disappeared from the map, divided between the Third Reich and Russia, which had moved in to recover what she claimed was originally Russian territory.

In 102 days more this most terrible of all wars will have lasted as long as the first world war, and today's headlines blazon the upward surge of the United Nations against the might of the Axis.

Nazis on Run in Russia.

The Nazis are on the run in Russia, Germany is trembling under mighty Allied aerial blows, Italy is facing catastrophe and American forces are on the march in the Pacific.

Signs multiply that the nerve of the German people is breaking. Nazi commentators are warning the harassed and harried population of the imminence of an Allied invasion of Europe. One Berlin broadcast said today:

"As soon as Gen. Eisenhower has brought his divisions up to strength he intends to attack Calabria and Apula. Southern Greece and the Adriatic appear to offer a better chance to the Allied forces and there is also a strong possibility of an attack against the southern French coast."

The commentator told the German people of "strong contingents of troops in southeastern England and of concentrations of invasion boats along the south England coast" but attempted to reassure his audience by telling them that "Germany has countered British invasion preparations by the appropriate regrouping of her forces."

Berliners Warned.

Berliners had another warning dinned into their ears from the Berlin radio—to remove their furniture and other belongings "without delay to a place out of the reach of the R. A. F."

A third spokesman warned Germans against giving in to "weakness and despair."

"We have gone so far," this voice said, "that if we despair we shall never complete the job we have begun."

Foe Loses 140 Ships in Month

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP).—The United Nations radio at Algiers said today that 140 enemy vessels were destroyed in one month's operations in the Aegean and Ionian Seas.

VAN OYEN TO GO TO INDIES

General to Command Netherland Army in Islands

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP)—Maj. Gen. L. H. van Oyen will be appointed Commander in Chief of the Netherlands Indies Army and will leave the United States soon for Australia to take over his new post. The Netherlands News Agency carried the announcement today.

In Jackson, Miss., General van Oyen announced yesterday he was relinquishing command of the Royal Netherlands Military Flying School, established there in 1942, to take up an "unspecified" post.

General van Oyen became commander of the Netherlands Indies Army Air Force in 1935 and served in that capacity during the Japanese invasion of the archipelago.

Berlin Radio Says Rome Peace Strike Failed

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The Berlin radio quoted a Rome dispatch today as saying an anti-Fascist appeal to the citizens of the city to stage a 15-minute strike this morning in a peace demonstration had "proved a complete failure."

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said no interruptions of work had been observed.

SEP 2 1943

BARS RED DOMINATION

London, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—Lord Queensborough, in a monthly message as president of the Royal Society of St. George, a patriotic organization, asserted today that Britain "cannot allow Russia to dominate Europe" after the war.

"With all friendliness to Moscow, Britain could not permit Russia any more than erstwhile Germany to dominate a weakened concourse of European Powers," Lord Queensborough said.

Britain's destiny also is allied to that of America, he declared, adding that "it would be so even if we never recovered lost possessions in the Far East."

Staten Island Man Held In Welsh Knifing Case

London, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—Frank Darrell Todd of Staten Island, N. Y., 36-year-old officer in the United States Merchant Marine, was held for trial today in the Criminal Court at Cardiff, Wales, on a charge of wounding a former Welsh boxer, William Pritchard.

The prosecution said the Welshman was stabbed after an argument with Todd about Dunkirk.

German Long Range Guns Shell Dover

London, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—German long range guns on the French coast opened fire at 8 A. M. today. The shelling lasted about a half hour, with the Germans lobbing over a steady stream of two-gun salvos. Buildings in the Dover area were shaken by explosions.

The firing ended abruptly when R. A. F. planes streaked out across the English Channel. During the night firing was heard in the Channel and German guns in the Boulogne area went into action.

King George, Poland's Chief Trade Greetings

HERBERT

London, Sept. 1 (AP)—Firm faith in an Allied victory was expressed today in an exchange of greetings between King George VI of England and President Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz of Poland in commemoration of the fourth anniversary of the Nazi invasion of Polish soil.

"Our common efforts are now bearing fruit and the day is in sight when, after the final defeat of the enemy, the bonds forged in war will prove their worth in the task of reconstruction," said King George.

The Polish President said: "It is through Britain's loyal friendship and support that the Polish people are able to continue the struggle, not only on the soil of their own tormented country but in the proud ranks of the Allies, with the unshakable assurance that the day of victory and liberation is at hand."

Italy Denies Transferring Any Captives to Reich

Rome Says None Has Been Sent Since Fall of Mussolini

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP).—War Secretary Sir James Grigg announced today that assurance had been received from Italy that no British prisoners had been transferred from her hands to Germany since the fall of the Fascist regime on July 25.

"We know a certain number were transferred shortly before the change of government, but still await details from the protecting power," he said.

Inquiries had been made through the International Red Cross.

General Dwight D. Eisenhower told the Italians in a radio broadcast message on July 29 urging surrender that the hundreds of thousands of Italians captured by his Allied armies in Tunisia and Sicily would be returned home "provided all British and Allied prisoners now in your hands are restored safely to us and not taken away to Germany."

Belgians Halt Train To Free 1,500 Jews

London, Sept. 1 (AP)—The Belgian news agency today said armed Belgian patriots had intercepted a train on which 1,500 Jews were being taken from Malines, Belgium, to Poland, fought a gun battle with the German guards and released part of the captives from the cattle cars in which they were being transported.

As the Jews fled, the guards turned machine guns on them, killing twenty and wounding forty, but several hundred escaped, it was reported.

BULGARIAN PREMIER AGAIN CONSULTS HITLER

LONDON, Sept. 1 — (AP) The Rome radio said tonight that Premier Bogdan Philov of Bulgaria had held a second meeting with Adolf Hitler.

The broadcast, which was recorded here by the Associated Press, did not say where or when the meeting took place, but presumably the conference concerned the recent death of King Boris III.

At the same time the German news agency DNB broadcast a dispatch from Sofia saying Premier Philov had called a special session of the national assembly for Sept. 3.

DANISH RULE IN EXILE TERMED INADVISABLE

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(AP) At the first public meeting of the Free Danish council in London since Denmark was placed under German martial law Sunday, the conservative leader Christmas Moeller reiterated today the council's stand against setting up an "exile" government now.

"If the head of the state of Denmark (King Christian X) had been outside the frontiers of the country, our position would have been clear," Mr. Moeller said. "Then he could have set up a government which would have the recognition of all."

Mr. Moeller, however, called for an even greater Danish war effort, saying "Denmark was an ally in spirit and she must now become one in fact."

Mountbatten in Britain

New East Asia Commander Reaches London From Washington

LONDON, Sept. 2 (Thursday) (AP).—Vice-Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, newly appointed Allied Commander in Chief in Southeast Asia, returned to London today from Washington and went immediately to the headquarters of Combined Operations.

After the Quebec conferences of Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt, at which his selection as leader of the Allied forces in the Southeast Pacific was announced, Lord Mountbatten conferred with Allied military leaders in Washington.

B. B. C. SELECTS W. S. HALEY AS CHIEF EDITOR

Guardian's Director Will Serve With Foot, Chief Executive

[By the Associated Press]

London, Sept. 1—Robert Foot has been named sole director-general and chief executive officer of the British Broadcasting Corporation, it was announced today, following the resignation of Sir Cecil Graves. Both were directors-general.

W. J. Haley was selected to fill the new job of editor in chief. Haley is joint managing director of the Manchester Guardian and Evening News and a director of Reuters and Britain's Press Association.

Amazing Luck Runs Out, R.A.F. Flier Is Missing

LONDON, Thursday, Sept. 2—(AP) Pilot Officer Derek M. Sharp, the Flying Yorkshireman who rode the tail of a training plane to earth after being unseated in mid-air over Alabama, is missing in action.

His name was included in a casualty list issued by the Air ministry today but no details were given.

Officer Sharp was training at Tuscaloosa, Ala., with a group of Royal Air force cadets in January, 1942, when he missed death by inches twice in one week.

A training plane in which he was riding with an instructor hit bumpy air and tossed Sharp out of the cockpit. He landed astraddle the tail, held on tightly and gave the instructor the thumbs up salute as he rode to safety.

Six days later Sharp was seated in a grounded plane when another student's craft swooped down, sheared away a large piece of Sharp's plane, swung aloft and then returned undamaged to a perfect landing.

The moving plane's propeller missed him only by inches, but Sharp emerged unhurt and smiling.

SEP 2 1943

28 Are Transferred To U. S. Army Air Force

London, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—Twenty-eight officers and enlisted men of the Royal Canadian Air Force were transferred to the United States Army Air Force at brief London ceremonies yesterday.

They included:

Sergeants Emanuel O. Kamen of Brooklyn, Jack D. Shattuck, Rutherford, N. J., and William Gorman, Brooklyn.

Lt. A. V. de Genaro Wins Cross

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP)—Lieut. August V. de Genaro of Hamden, Conn., has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism as the pilot of a fighter plane over enemy-occupied Europe, Lieut. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commander of United States forces in the European theatre, announced today.

British Children Work In Ordnance Plants

By the Associated Press.

LONDON.—Thousands of British school children who would normally be on holiday now are working instead for the Royal Army Ordnance Corps, helping to send vital supplies to the British armies.

In the vast depots of the RAOC these boys and girls, working voluntarily and without pay, count, pack and stencil stores to be shipped to overseas theaters. The experiment has only just started, but already favorable reports are pouring in.

One colonel, who has 250 children under him at a depot in the Midlands, reported to the War Office that their enthusiasm has to be seen to be believed. At another depot a sergeant gave a group of 130 children enough work to last them, as he thought, for two days. Three hours later he returned and found the job completed.

DANES KILLED AS THEY WAIT FOR TROLLEYS

King Christian Tells His People Not to Stop Using Their Native Language.

OUTWARD CALM PREVAILS

Germans Arrest Danish Admiral After He Gives Order to Fleet to Flee or Scuttle.

Stockholm, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—Encouraging words from popular King Christian X today heartened the Danish people who have refused to crack under a German military dictatorship enforced, eyewitnesses said, by merciless street executions.

Refugees who fled to Sweden through Nazi patrols, declared they had seen German mechanized troops pour volleys of machine-gun fire into groups of Danes waiting on safety-zone platforms for street cars.

Three Danes, who laughed and joked when German soldiers marched by, were shot to death without a word of warning, eyewitnesses added.

King Christian, who has been imprisoned with Queen Alexandria in Sorgenfri Castle since the Germans took over the Danish Government on Sunday, made his first public appearance yesterday—a short automobile outing under the watchful eyes of a German military guard.

1,000 Danes Cheer King.

In the little town of Lyngby, near Sorgenfri Castle, a thousand Danes ignored Hannecken's prohibition against assemblies to cheer their King and Queen.

King Christian's words to the gathering were brief — "I am happy to hear the Danish language still spoken in my country, continue with that." They were significant, however, for the Danes, who apparently interpreted them as an approval of their stout-hearted resistance against overwhelming odds. Yet there was nothing in the King's remarks against which the Germans could protest.

The dictator's iron-hand methods restored at least surface calm to much of Denmark, and in Copenhagen the Nazi-controlled radio said that some normal public services were being resumed today.

Details on conditions inside Denmark came from eyewitnesses who were brought to Sweden in a Danish minesweeper.

Admiral Gave Order.

The dramatic last moments when the scuttling order came from Admiral Vedal, the navy's commander, were also disclosed. Vedal went to the Navy Ministry early Sunday before German soldiers reached his home. When he discovered that the Germans were definitely taking over the entire country he radioed his commanders: "Now or never, fly to Sweden or sink your ships. May God protect our King and country."

German soldiers arrested Vedal in his office in the general round-up of members of the Scavenius Government.

DANISH ENVOY SEVERS TIES WITH NATION

Says Constitutional Government Has Ceased Under Nazi Yoke

SEP 2 — 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Stockholm, Sept. 1—The Danish Minister to Sweden, Johan C. W. Kruse, severed diplomatic ties with his homeland tonight, declaring that a constitutional government had ceased to exist there with the advent of a German military dictatorship.

Kruse's announcement was considered significant by Danes hoping to form an exiled Government affiliated with the United Nations because the 62-year-old Minister is a personal envoy of the interned King Christian X.

Passive Resistance Continued

The Kruse announcement said that the King, as a prisoner of the Germans, was unable to perform his consitutional functions.

Asked by the Danish Free Press in Stockholm whether the move meant the Minister was joining the Free Danish movement, the Minister said: "I can add nothing to this at the moment."

The major political development came as the revolting Danes, inspired in their resistance by encouraging words from King Christian during a brief trip from his castle under German guard, continued passive resistance and, apparently, sabotage.

Refugees reaching Sweden said an 8,000-ton barracks ship in Copenhagen harbor was blasted by a magnetic mine early today.

Nazi Curbs Relaxed Slightly

The German-controlled Danish radio said Gen. Hermann von Hannecken, the Nazi commandant, relaxed martial law restrictions slightly.

Industrial slowdowns were reported in factories in Copenhagen, Aalborg, Aaarhus, Ringsted and Roskilde as limited telephone and mail service was resumed within the country.

The radio announcement said the curfew, which had been in effect at 9 o'clock nightly since martial law was imposed August 29, would be effective at 11 P. M. in the future.

Leading Editors In Jail

The Danes are getting their only news from the heavily censored Nazi newspaper and radio stations, as the leading editors of their own newspapers are in jail. And what news of their country they are getting is extremely meager. Today's morning newscast, for example, was almost exclusively devoted to a so-called "crisis in Begal."

Refugees crossing the three-mile-wide straits to Sweden said acute food shortages continued in Copenhagen and other cities.

State Of War Disclaimed

No political statement has come from von Hannecken since King Christian was made prisoner and the Danish Cabinet resigned, but a governmental spokesman in Berlin said, "the precaution of the state of emergency was without any political aim." The spokesman emphasized that no state of war existed between the two countries.

A German Foreign Office spokesman touched briefly on the Reich's dispute with Sweden over the sinking of two Swedish fishing vessels by Nazi mine sweepers, saying the dispute was of no significance as far as relations between the two countries are concerned.

The spokesman was quoted in Stockholm newspapers as saying, "One mustn't forget that there were fishermen in that area near Denmark just at the time there were rumors about a possible invasion of that part of Europe. It is clear that Germany must be careful as to what happens in that section."

Nazi Troops Patrol Cities

Squads of German troops cautiously patrolled the streets of every Danish city and Gestapo men directed all police operations, preventing by gunfire the assembly of more than five persons.

Copenhagen University reopened today, the Danish radio said, but the traditional opening-day student festival was prohibited.

The German dictator's iron-hand methods had restored at least an outward calm to most of Denmark, although Copenhagen and many other towns gave the appearance of besieged cities.

MINIMIZE SINKING

Stockholm, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—A German Foreign Office spokesman has voiced the belief that the dispute between Germany and Sweden over the sinking of two Swedish fishing boats by Nazi minesweepers is of no significance so far as relations between the two countries are concerned, Berlin correspondents of Stockholm newspapers reported today.

"One must not forget that there were fishermen in that area near Denmark just at the time there were rumors about a possible invasion of that part of Europe," the spokesman said. "It is clear that Germany must be careful as to what happens in that section."

Four representatives of the Swedish west coast fishermen's organization came to Stockholm today to ask the Government to arrange a protective fishing treaty with Germany.

30.24-7945

30.24-7945

Nazi View of Churchill Talk

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 1 (AP).—A spokesman for the German foreign office, commenting in Berlin on the speech by Premier Winston Churchill yesterday, agreed with the British leader on only one point—now is not the time for Allied overoptimism.

Swedish correspondents reported today that the spokesman added: "France can't be too happy about the promised liberation, for if the Allies try an invasion across the English Channel the events of 1940 in France will fade into insignificance."

Fell Short of Records.

Stockholm, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—The destruction wrought by last night's assault on Berlin was not so extensive as that caused by the saturation raid of August 23, whcih was the heaviest blow ever struck at the German capital, the Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm Aftonbladet reported today.

Censorship prevented his giving any details of last night's damage. He said, however, that German fighter pitlots patrolled the skies over Berlin for half an hour before the first wave of Pathfinders started dropping incendiaries and target-locating flares. Berliners, expecting an attack for a week, lolled outside air raid shelters until the sirens sounded.

Made Into a Stalingrad.

Berne, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—British bombers attacking Berlin in six waves on August 23 created the greatest havoc in the Mariendorf area, and the southern periphery of the capital was "transformed into a miniature Stalingrad" of destruction, a German frontier dispatch to the Gazette de Lausanne said today, quoting an eyewitness. Western Berlin was left a mass of flames, he said, and the fires were still burning last Friday. The most impressive destruction was reported in the Fehrbelliner Platz, the most modern sector of the city.

It was estimated that 6,000 buildings were smashed and burned, the account said, in addition to 2,500 which had been hit in the raid of March 1. All buildings in the Fehrbelliner Platz, the Bayrisched Platz and the Guntzelstrasse were smashed, and the Eteglitz Quarter was destroyed, the eyewitness said.

This same witness also visited Hamburg and reported that that city "completely ceased to exist as a living metropolis" with only 20 per cent of its buildings not damaged, and with the greater ortion of its people fled.

Arrest of Ciano Not Confirmed

Chiasso, Switzerland, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—The Swiss telegraphic agency said today that well informed Italian circles have no confirmation of reports of the arrest of Count Galeazzo Ciano.

The agency added the general impression was that the Italian Government would announce it to the people if the former Fascist Foreign Minister, reported to have fled from Rome, had been captured.

Madrid, Sept. 1 (AP)—A La Linea dispatch said today forty-five Allied merchantmen of varying tonnages had anchored in the Bay of Gibraltar after arrival from the Atlantic and a powerful British naval force and three transports were among other units at the fortress.

The warships included four aircraft carriers, two battleships, three cruisers and twenty destroyers, the dispatch said.

Franco Leaves Summer Residence For Madrid

Madrid, Sept. 1 (AP)—Spain's official summer season ended today with an announcement from La Coruna that Generalissimo Franco, his wife and daughter had left their summer residence at Pazo de Mieras and were returning to El Prado Palace outside Madrid.

United States Ambassador Carlton Hayes, his wife and daughter returned to Madrid yesterday by motor car from San Sebastian, seasonal seat of the Spanish Foreign Office.

U. S. BOMBERS ATTACK PISA WAR TARGETS

Other American Planes Blast Railways in East and South of Italy.

KENNEDY

BRITISH SHIPS SHELL COAST

Two Big Battleships Join With Cruiser and Destroyer Force in Heavy Bombardments.

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—Pressing the aerial offensive against Italy with ever greater vigor, American Flying Fortresses yesterday made a thousand-mile round trip from their northwest African bases to pound the railway lines, air fields and an aircraft factory at Pisa.

SEP 2 - 1943

Medium bombers meanwhile delivered strong blows at railway communications at Salerno, Cosenza and Catanzaro in the south of Italy.

The attack on the railway yards at Salerno, which is thirty miles or so below Naples, was made last night following daylight raids on Cosenz at Catanzaro, the communique disclosed. Other west coast railway targets at Sapri, near Salerno, and at Cetraro, about midway between Salerno and Reggio Calabria, were attacked by fighter-bombers by daylight.

East Coast Also Hit.

On the other hand, Liberator bombers of the Ninth United States Air Force, according to Middle East headquarters at Cairo, pounded railway installations at Pescara, on the east coast of Italy. The freight yards "were well covered by bombs with resulting fires and explosions," the communique declared, and the big four-engined bombers scored direct hits on the railway station and a railway bridge, and shot down ten enemy fighters which rose to the attack.

The formations from North Africa destroyed six enemy planes and lost two of their own, Headquarters said, while the Cairo communique listed only one American plane missing from the group.

[In a communique broadcast by the Rome radio and recorded by the Associated Press, the Italian High Command said that the raids on Pisa, Pescara, Salerno, Cosenza and Catanzaro resulted in considerable damage and numerous casualties, that four Allied planes were shot down by Italian and German fighters, and that others were destroyed by anti-aircraft batteries.]

British Battleships Attack.

Two British battleships joined in the daylight offensive against the Italian mainland. Their 16-inch guns poured a heavy bombardment into enemy coastal batteries in the area of Reggio Calabria, on the Italian toe, knocking out at least one gun and causing fires, apparently from exploding ammunition. The same battleships, with a cruiser and several destroyers, engaged batteries in the area of Cape Pellaro, also on the Strait of Messina.

The vessels involved were the battleships Nelson and Rodney, the cruiser Orion and the destroyers Quillian, Quail, Queensborough, Troubridge, Tyrian, Offa, Petard and Tartar, all of the Royal Navy, and the Piorun of the Polish Navy. Enemy opposition was ineffective.

They steamed into the Strait by daylight and opened up a withering fire of 2000-pound projectiles from the sixteen-inch guns and of countless other shells from the smaller cannon.

Local Men Bag Enemy Plane.

Pisa, almost 200 miles north of Rome, is an important railway junction where the east-west line to Florence splits off from the coast line running between Genoa and Rome. The famous leaning tower, the cathedral and other historic monuments there were spared by the great formations of Fortresses which went for the railway yards, tracks and other military objectives.

The railway running through Pisa is electrified and damage to the electrical system was achieved, undoubtedly perhaps halting traffic over a large section. The bombs blew up the yard tracks, and struck a repair shop and a nearby gas works. The San Guisto air field on the outskirts of the city and the nearby Piaggio airplane factory also received heavy loads of explosives.

Twenty-five enemy planes attempted to intercept the unescorted Fortresses, which shot down six of them. One of these was bagged by the ace Fortress gunner of North Africa, six-foot six-inch Staff Sergt. Benjamin F. Warmer of San Francisco, who was decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross only last Saturday for shooting down seven planes in a day. Yesterday's Messerschmitt brought his total to ten.

AIR FORTS STRIKE AT NORTH ITALY

NORGAARD

Pound Rail Yards And Flying Field At Pisa But Spare Leaning Tower

SEP 2 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters In North Africa, Sept. 1—Suddenly switching their hammer assaults to northern Italy, United States Flying Fortresses delivered a mighty blow to vital railroad yards at Pisa, of leaning tower fame, yesterday, while Britain's big battleships Nelson and Rodney shelled the western Italian toe.

The Fortresses, on a 1,000-mile round-trip, poured bombs onto the center of freight yards at Pisa and the electrified system capable of handling at least ninety-six trains daily between Rome and Genoa. The nearby San Guisto airfield and Piaggio aircraft factory also were hit.

Pisa lies 170 miles north of Rome. The famous tower, completed in 1350, and other historic monuments were spared by the bombers.

Also Bomb South Italy

Assault on southern Italy continued with medium bombers and fighter-bombers attacking Salerno, Cosenza, Catanzaro, Sapri and Cetraro, and American Liberators from the Middle East, attacking Pescara on the eastern coast, opposite Rome.

Leading the cruiser Orion and nine destroyers, the Nelson and Rodney steamed into the southern end of the Messina strait and bombarded Italian coastal defense batteries with their sixteen-inch, one-ton shells, meeting only feeble shore resistance. The warships also shelled the area near Reggio Calabria and near Cape Pellaro. They knocked out at least one big enemy coastal gun.

The shift in strategy for the Fortresses in the Pica raid appeared highly effective. The unescorted heavy bombers met only twenty-five enemy fighters, and quickly shot down six of them.

Fires Show Effectiveness

Repair shops with a capacity of 100 to 150 locomotives, were among the targets in the railyards across the Arno river from the town and six miles from the leaning tower.

Many fires and a big explosion in the gas works testified to the precision of Fortress bombardiers. One pilot, Capt. George A. Robinson, of Ann Arbor, Mich., called it "one of our best bombing days." Pisa is forty miles south of the harbor of La Spezia, raided June 5 by Fortresses in their longest hop from North Africa.

The Liberators of the United States Ninth Air Force cut down ten enemy fighters as they dropped bombs on the freight yards, railway station and a railroad bridge at Pescara by daylight. The freight yards were "well covered" by bombs.

RAF and Canadian Wellingtons drove home one of the heaviest attacks on southern Italian targets, hitting Salerno thirty miles south of Naples, last night. A gas works was blown up and bombs burst on the rail lines.

Bomb Seaplane Bases

Invaders bombed the seaplane bases at Sapri, near Salerno and at Cetraro, one hundred miles farther south, and hit railroad and harbor installations.

Nearly fifty tons of bombs were dropped by American Mitchells on rail targets at Cosenza on the Italian instep, and later in the day RAF Baltimores and United States Mitchells pounded communications at Catanzaro, a main supply route for the naval base at Taranto.

Other formations of medium bombers attacked other targets in southern Italy.

Only two Allied planes were lost in all attacks, but it was not specified where they fell. Cairo said one plane was missing from the Liberator attack on Pescara.

Yank, Minus Arm, Decorated For Valor By General Patton

Sergeant Moritz, Army Medical Worker, Hit Aiding Wounded Soldier, Insists Other Man Be Saved First

By HAROLD V. BOYLE

[Associated Press Correspondent]

A United States Evacuation Hospital in Sicily, Aug. 30 (Delayed). The room was full of wounded soldiers and they all lay facing an open door—waiting.

In one bed Sergt. Martin Moritz was propped up, his brown hair combed neatly. There was a fresh white bandage on the six-inch stub which was all that was left of the right arm with which he used to do the chores on the family farm back in Benson, Ill. It was cool in the ward. But Moritz was perspiring.

Down the corridor echoed the tread of many feet. The first man through the door was the colonel in charge of the hospital. He was followed by Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., head of the United States Seventh Army. The group walked up to the bed where Moritz lay, dry-throated and nervous.

Gets Highest Army Honor

He was waiting for them to give him the highest honor in the power of the American army to bestow.

The general's aide, Lieut. Col. Charles Codman, of Bernardsville, N. J., was nervous, too. His voice shook a little as he read the citation. It told how Moritz, after his arm was shattered by an enemy bullet while he was aiding a wounded soldier, tried to amputate the arm himself so he could continue treating the other man.

It told how, when litter bearers came to save him, he insisted that the other man be picked up first. It told how he suffered an abdominal wound eight hours later when the Germans shelled the aid station in which he was lying.

Courage An Inspiration

"The courage displayed by Moritz both on the battlefield and in the hospital," the citation concluded, "was an inspiration to all who saw it and within keeping of the finest traditions of unselfish valor."

As Codman finished reading he opened a small leather box and held it out to Patton. The general took out the Distinguished Service Cross and held it briefly in his hand.

"Soldier," he said, "I have pinned medals on none more worthy than you."

He bent down and pinned the medal on the neck cord from which dangled the sergeant's "dog tags" or identification discs. He gripped the sergeant's left hand tightly in both his hands and turned and walked out.

Sergeant Is Silent

The sergeant had not uttered a word. The tears that filled his eyes were tears of pride, not sorrow. Some of the nurses wept, too, and some of the men turned away to stare at the wall. Then the hospital staff filed by to congratulate Moritz and look at his new medal, and the tension was over.

"He is such a good boy," said Nurse Mary McCracken, of Louisville, Ky. "He is a wonderful patient. He never complains, never asks for anything."

Self-pity is as foreign to the sergeant as cowardice. Only 28 years old, he is looking forward to finding a type of work where courage and character are more important than right arms. He felt sure that he could be fitted with some sort of artificial arm. His mother and father are dead and his only close relatives are six brothers back home on the farm.

Army Medical Worker

Moritz is an army medical worker with a front-line batallion which made two amphibious landings behind the German lines along the north coast of Sicily.

He was unarmed and wearing a Red Cross badge on his left arm the day the German sniper hit his right arm above the elbow.

"It happened at Brolo on August 11," Moritz said. "It was my fourth amphibious landing since we left the United States last October. We came ashore sixteen miles behind the enemy's lines and were trying to get into position.

"One of the boys got hurt. I cared for him and got him under cover, but then it began to get hot around our position and we had to move. A German sniper caught me in the right arm. He must have been using some kind of a dumdum bullet because, instead of going through, it mushroomed and tore most of the flesh and bone away.

Tried To Cut Off Arm

"I ran a few steps and got behind a hill. My arm felt heavy as a ton of lead. It flopped around and got in my way when I tried to help the other fellow. I tried to get my knife out of my pocket with my left hand so I could amputate it. It was just hanging by a small flap of flesh but I couldn't get the knife open. I jammed a handkerchief and a glove into the wound to make it stop bleeding.

"I saw another soldier moving forward and asked him to help me get the other wounded fellow to an aid station. He looked at my arm and said, 'Boy, I'd like to, but I'm on a mission to knock out some German tanks that are giving us hell, and I just can't stop. But if you're here when I come back I'll help you.'

"After he left I blacked out. I could hear things around me and my mind seemed to be all right. I had no fear of death and there wasn't any pain in my arm. I just couldn't see.

Amputated At Aid Station

"I don't know how long that lasted but when my eyes cleared I saw two litter bearers from our squad below me. I called to them about this wounded fellow and told them to keep low so the German snipers couldn't get them. They got me down by crawling up to me and pulling me down the hill by my legs."

Lieut. Roy Hanford performed the amputation at the first-aid station.

Liberators Attack Pescara

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 1 (AP)—American Liberators from the Middle East attacked railway installations at Pescara, on the east coast of Italy, in daylight yesterday, an Allied communiqué announced today.

The switch yards were well covered with bombs and many fires were started, the bulletin said. Direct hits were scored on the railway station and on a bridge over the river.

Ten enemy fighters that attempted interception were shot down by the bombers.

British Beaufighters attacked and damaged an enemy merchant vessel off the west coast of Greece on Aug. 30, the bulletin said.

One plane was reported missing from these operations.

Iran To Seek U. S. Supplies

Teheran, Iran, Sept. 1 (AP)—The Iranian Parliament today approved a bill authorizing the War Ministry to buy $1,500,000 worth of war material from the United States.

SMASH BURMA JAPS

New Delhi, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—R. A. F. dive bombers attacked Japanese installations and the jetty area at Buthedaung in Burma yesterday, a British communique announced today, scoring numerous direct hits on the target.

Hurricanes on offensive sweeps along the Irrawaddy shot up a number of country craft in the Pakokku area, sinking a two-masted boat and damaging a steamboat, a motor vessel and fifteen sampans. Other Hurricanes attacked country craft in Combermere Bay, setting fire to one and damaging seven others.

No British planes are missing, the bulletin said.

Reds Indicate Priority Claim In Reparations

Professor Says Millions of German Workers Should Come to Repair Damage

MOSCOW, Sept. 1 (AP).—Germany has inflicted on the Soviet Union damage amounting to billions of dollars and on all other Allies only about half as much, Professor Eugene Varga estimated today in a lecture, adding that the Russians would claim reparations to prevent the Germans from having a higher standard of living than the country on which they inflicted the damage.

As a matter of economic necessity, said Varga, Hungarian former professor at the University of Budapest, reparations should be first paid to the Soviet Union and other countries which suffered occupation, and then to the United States and England where the relief is not needed immediately.

He specified that Russia would not claim reparations as a punishment for the defeated powers.

Varga said ten years of work by 10,000,000 skilled laborers would be required to repair the property damage, but that after the war in Germany and the vassal states "there will be unemployment, and it will be possible for several million of their workers to come to Russia to repair the damage."

He said the labor should be supplemented by repayment to Russia in money, goods, livestock, machines and other deliveries.

Varga asserted Germany and associated states would have funds available for the payment since they would be disarmed and relieved of large arms budgets after the war.

Polish Division Joins Reds at Front

Moscow, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—A Polish division which has undergone ten weeks of intensive training at a camp on the Oka River has departed for the Soviet-German front, the Russian Army newspaper Red Star announced today. This is "the first step on the path to the liberation of enslaved Poland," Red Star said.

Reds Name Mikhailov As Iran Envoy

Moscow, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—The appointment of Konstantin Aleksandrovich Mikhailov as new Soviet Ambassador to Iran was announced by the Government newspaper Izvestia today. He succeeds Andrei Smirnov, who has been "transferred to other work."

The Iran post is considered important in Russia's relations with the United States and Great Britain, since it is through that country that the main Allied war material aid has been flowing to the Soviet Union, calling for close diplomatic co-operation.

Chinese Recapture Hengli

CHUNGKING, Sept. 1 (AP).—Chinese forces have recaptured the town of Hengli, near Canton, after killing more than 200 Japanese, a Chinese High Command communique declared today.

JAP PLANE BASE SENT FAR BACK

Flyers Retire 550 Miles From Salamaua Drome.

Allied Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—Japanese air force units in New Guinea have been forced by Allied raids to fall back 200 miles to bases 550 miles from the Salamaua airdrome in northeastern New Guinea.

Todays communique of Gen. Douglas MacArthur said that heavy damage inflicted by recent attacks on Wewak, 350 miles northwest of Salamaua, have caused the enemy to base at Hollandia. The Japanese air force, designed to support the forward areas in New Guinea, now is dangerously removed from the ground garrisons, Allied Headquarters said.

Nipponese losses at Wewak soared to more than 360 planes as a result of a ninety-two-ton raid Monday when twenty to twenty-five craft were wrecked on the ground. The communique said that the Japanese have been rushing reinforcements to New Guinea from the Netherlands East Indies, the Philippines and Formosa.

Many Supplies Wrecked.

Allied air attacks on Wewak have destroyed great quantities of supplies intended for Salamaua, threatened with capture by American and Australian ground forces.

Another victory over Japanese air units was disclosed by a spokesman at the South Pacific headquarters, who said American fighting planes destroyed thirty-six Zeros which attempted to intercept a raid against Kahili airfield on Bougainville Island in the northern Solomons.

United States losses in the Monday battle against fifty to sixty enemy planes over that important Solomons base, were described as very light.

Enemy Plane Loss Heavy.

The spokesman for Admiral William F. Halsey Jr., commander of the South Pacific Naval Forces, also reported that 227 enemy planes were destroyed during August in the Solomons.

The South Pacific headquarters announced the Japanese were using a new fighter plane, called Type 3, in that area for the first time.

The new plane has a liquid cooled engine with more speed and power than the eZro's air-cooled, radial engine. Also, it is believed to have more armament and a self-sealing gasoline tank.

ALLIES TIGHTEN SALAMAUA RING

MCDANIEL

Japs Driven from Two Strong Positions Close to Key Airbase.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Thursday, Sept. 12—(AP) Japanese in two strongly dug in positions south and southeast of the Salamaua, New Guinea, airdrome finally have been overwhelmed by American and Australian jungle fighters now closing in on the enemy base.

Several days ago, Allied forces approaching the airfield from the west and southwest, supported by artillery, were reported within rifle range but today's communique was the first in more than a week to tell of an advance along the coast.

(Last previous advices concerning the right flank were that the Japanese were holding to Dot inlet as their only position south of the Francisco river which flows below the airdrome into Bayern bay.)

No Response at Santa Isabel

In the Solomons sector, an attack Monday by a small force of Liberators on Santa Isabel island, site of a Japanese seaplane base, for the first time drew no anti-aircraft fire, prompting conjecture that the Japanese may have evacuated it.

Such an evacuation would mean the Japanese had decided the island was untenable because it has been outflanked by American occupation of New Georgia and Vella Lavella islands to the west.

On other recent attacks on Santa Isabel, the American raiders had encountered intense ack ack.

The communique did not elaborate on the Salamaua showdown battle but a spokesmen for Gen. Douglas MacArthur said Japanese rearguards were contesting from long prepared positions the forward-moving Americans and Australians.

From ridge positions overlooking Salamaua, Allied artillery commands most of the enemy defenses.

12 Barges Sunk

The sapping of the Salamaua garrison's power to resist by sinking supply barges went forward with motor torpedo boats now augmenting bombing planes in New Guinea coastal waters where until recently Allied ships scarcely dared venture. Today's communique said these light surface craft sank 12 barges in the Huon gulf, into which the isthmus town of Salamaua extends, during the week ending Aug. 30.

Monday, airforce Mitchells, flying along the south New Britain coastline, sank 10 barges.

In the vicinity of New Ireland, where a Japanese destroyer and cargo ship were attacked among small enemy convoys Monday, Allied reconnaissance planes Tuesday night attacked another enemy destroyer and an 8,000-ton merchantman.

Corsairs Score

Barges, on which the Japanese also must rely almost-entirely to supply their isolated garrison of 10,000 men at Vila, on Kolombangara in the Solomons, were targets in that area. In the Vella gulf, between Kolombangara and American-occupied Vella Lavella motor torpedo boats sank a loaded supply barge and damaged two others Monday morning. The day previously, Navy Corsairs destroyed two barges and a small cargo vessel.

Jap Plane Loss at Wewak Now Reported Over 360

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 1 (AP).—The Japanese Air Force, so badly mauled on New Guinea that its reinforcement bases are being pulled back, counted losses at Wewak alone above 360 as the result of a new Allied raid in which from 20 to 25 Japanese planes were wrecked on the ground.

Big four-engined raiders, meeting not a semblance of opposition in the air, in contract with 60 Zeros sent up in sky battles the day before, blasted Wewak's airdromes with 92 tons of bombs Monday, today's communique reported. Sunday's raiders, which shot down 25 planes and destroyed at least 12 more on the ground, suffered light losses, but Monday's attacking force got home without a loss.

Headquarters disclosed that the Japanese have been rushing in air reinforcements to New Guinea, probably from the Netherlands Indies, the Philippines and Formosa. But these are being pulled back dangerously far from the garrisons they are intended to support and are being based at such points as Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea.

Blasted to Bits.

The majority of Monday's bag were medium enemy bombers blasted to bits on the Dagua airfield. Fires set there by the raiding Liberators were so intense they could be seen 50 miles away. These were believed to be in fuel dumps.

30.24 - 7947

30.24-7947

At the airdrome of But, three huge blazes broke out among aircraft in revetments. Other raiders struck at Tadji, 75 miles north of Wewak.

The Liberators swept over the Wewak area Monday afternoon in six waves. They left virtually all planes in that sector unserviceable, hit by 500 and 1,000 pound bombs.

Allied planes have been pounding at the Wewak airdromes, 350 miles above the land fighting at Salamaua, since mid-August.

In the first two raids there, 215 out of 225 planes were wiped out, most of them on the ground. By August 21 it was estimated at least 306 planes had been destroyed, many of the latter victims in the air. Sunday's raiders added at least 37 and possibly 49 to the total.

The latest reports on the fighting for the big airdrome at Salamaua told of see-saw action at close range yesterday. American and Australian troops scored limited advances. A few days ago, one force was at the southwestern edge of the airstrip, but since then the Allies gave ground slightly before bitter Japanese counterattacks.

Directly above Salamaua on the Huon Peninsula, Allied bombers went in low to wreck barges in hideouts around Finschhafen.

In the vicinity of New Ireland, across New Britain from the Salamaua battleground, four-engined reconnaissance planes bombed and strafed a Japanese destroyer early Monday and also attacked an enemy cargo vessel.

Nearer Salamaua, the enemy's New Britain airdrome of Cape Gloucester was pounded with 13 tons of bombs by two-engined raiders and five Japanese bombers were destroyed on the ground.

36 Enemy Planes Des...

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTH PACIFIC, Sept. 1 (AP)—United States fighters battled fifty to sixty Zeros that attempted to intercept an American blow against Kahili airfield, on Bougainville Island, and destroyed thirty-six of the enemy planes, a spokesman at South Pacific headquarters disclosed today.

The air victory was achieved Monday by Corsair, Warhawk and Airacobra fighter units. Our losses were "very light," the spokesman said.

The fight took place over Kahili Field, which is Japan's strongest and largest remaining air base in the northern Solomon Islands. It is being pounded daily by American planes.

At the same time the spokesman for Admiral William F. Halsey Jr.'s command announced that a total of 227 Japanese planes were knocked down during August in the South Pacific by Army, Navy and Marine Corps planes and anti-aircraft defenses. This was better than five times the American losses, he said.

For the first time South Pacific headquarters disclosed that a new Japanese fighter plane, called Type 3, had been in action in the South Pacific area. One was shot down in Monday's raid on Kahili airdrome.

"We are seeing increasing numbers of the new Type 3s," the spokesman added, "but so far there is no reason to believe they are greatly superior to the Zero."

Has Stronger Engine

The new plane has a liquid cooled engine with greater speed and power than the Zero's air-cooled, radial engine. The Type 3s are thought to have more armament than the Zeros, according to information here. Those shot down by American pilots have not burned and exploded like the Zero, indicatiing that they may be equipped with a form of self-sealing gasoline tank, such as is used by Allied aircraft.

Marine fliers report United States Corsairs are superior thus far, and Japanese pilots have been reluctant to test the speedy new fighter in single combat. Usually the enemy remains in formations of four or more and will not attack unless American fliers are outnumbered heavily.

Discussing the quality of Japanese planes, the spokesman said there was no indication that the enemy was short of metal or that the workmanship in their planes was deteriorating. On the contrary, Japanese plane construction is still "good," the spokesman said.

The situation on recently occupied Vella Lavella, northwest of Kolombangara Island, was termed satisfactory. The few remaining Japanese on the island are being hunted down. The cleaning-up process also is proceeding at Arundel Island, which was occupied Aug. 27. Most of the Japanese fled from Arundel, leaving behind several artillery pieces.

Japanese barge traffic in the northern Solomon sea lanes has not been choked off, but "we are coping with it adequately," the spokesman declared. He said barges were virtually the only form of sea traffic remaining to the enemy south of Rabaul, New Britain.

Japanese warships, even light destroyers, venture less frequently into the Bougainville area, Admiral Halsey's spokesman said, because of formidable United States air strength and the alertness of United States naval forces.

Jersey Flyer Downs Zero

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Sept. 1 (AP).—First Lieutenant Andrew Kish, of Nixon, N. J., was credited with destroying one Japanese Zero fighter plane and probably shooting down another Sunday as the 5th Air Force bombed enemy concentrations along the north coast of New Guinea. He is a Lightning fighter-plane pilot.

AUCKLAND HONORS MRS. ROOSEVELT

SEP 2 7 1943

Auckland, New Zealand, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—New Zealanders attending a civic reception today for Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt applauded a declaration of Auckland's Mayor J. A. C. Allums that "so long as American sons and daughters are serving here we regard their welfare as a sacred trust."

They also cheered when he asked the American First Lady to convey to President Roosevelt New Zealand's appreciation for his service to the Allied cause.

Mayor Allums said the visit of Mrs. Roosevelt to this British Dominion has "given us great pleasure."

In reply, the President's wife expressed a hope for international unity after victory has been attained as a surety for a happier world, especially for young people.

The reception today marked another high point in Mrs. Roosevelt's tour for the Red Cross which, despite its strenuous nature, has seemingly not wearied her. She has been visiting service hospitals and clubs and New Zealand's women's organizations.

Today's ceremony followed a reception last night at Rotorua where Mrs. Roosevelt was greeted by Maori tribal chiefs as the "Queen of a great democracy."

FIRST LADY VISITS NAVAL HOSPITAL

Wounded U. S. Servicemen in New Zealand Greet Mrs. Roosevelt.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Sept. 1—(AP) Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, still not fatigued from her tour for the Red Cross, visited U. S. Marines and sailors in the naval hospital here today and told them:

"Victory is coming our way. I hope we will be able to help you after the war to build the kind of world that will make your sacrifices worth while.

"It is not enough to win the war. We must win the peace. To do that we must maintain the international friendship made in the days of war."

From early morning until her appearance at the Red Cross ball in Auckland this evening, Mrs. Roosevelt was busy. She met hundreds of American and New Zealand service personnel.

At the hospital, where she was greeted by a band of Marines and hundreds of sailors, she went from bed to bed, questioning patients about their experiences.

She became especially enthusiastic when she met several men who had served with her son, Lt. Col. James Roosevelt.

Earlier, at a reception for Mrs. Roosevelt, Mayor J. A. C. Allums of Auckland declared that "so long as American sons and daughters are serving here, we regard their welfare as a sacred trust."

(NBC reported in New York that at the reception Mrs. Roosevelt had quoted a radiogram from the President saying "I feel that everything went very well at Quebec," where Mr. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill held a war conference.)

Story of Kiska: The Little Men Weren't There

A. P. Photographer Tells How It Feels To Be in a One-Sided Invasion

"This is the best article yet written on the Kiska occupation, even if it is a personal letter. There is no objection to your printing such parts of it as you desire. The Censor," said a penned memorandum attached to the following report from Grant MacDonald, Associated Press photographer, to his bureau chief, Frank G. Gorrie, Seattle.

BACK IN ADAK (AP)—Dear Boss: Well, the Battle of Kiska is over. It was a clambake, but good.

Secrecy was the word for days in advance. I was not able to send you any plans or information. Pictures of advance preparations were sent to Washington to be held until the story of Kiska was released there. If there had been a major battle it would have been the most photographed one in history.

There is an outfit from the Army, under a Major S. (spelling doubtful) who had a complete Hollywood camera outfit with him . . . including sound and cries of "Roll 'em!" "Cut" "Action!" etc. . . . and all this made me very homesick. But not nearly as sick as Major S., who shot thousands of feet of film on the preparations for the great battle, expecting to shoot the final super-stuff on Kiska, as heroic American doughboys dashed ashore into the devastating machine-gun and mortar fire and the whirring shutter blades of countless Eyemo cameras manned by other of our intrepid cameramen.

Major S. Is a Sad Pigeon

All the latter failed to materialize, and Major S. is a very sad pigeon. His dreams of an Aleutian "desert victory" were shattered by those nasty little Nippos who took it on the lam, leaving the world and a deserted Kiska to the now glumly silenced eries of Major S. —and to me, happily. (I am not at all upset over the absence of the machine-gun and mortar fire.)

Starting back with the secrecy. Every one was on edge. Countless questions were asked of the oldtimers who covered the Attu show as to what gear to take . . . how to dig fox holes in the least possible time. . . . Which is the best way to run in a hurry, etc.

The tension grew to fever-pitch as the zero hour neared.

At the last battle conference of the generals, admirals, etc., with the press corps, I was sitting on Admiral Kinkaid's right, quietly shaking in my mukluks, when suddenly it dawned on me that we were to take off on this hazardous mission on, of all days in the world, Friday, Aug. 13.

I interrupted: "Gee, Admiral, couldn't we change the take-off day? After all, Friday the 13th is a helluva day to start a battle!"

He had a hearty chuckle, and assorted serious-minded characters around the conference table glowered appropriately . . . and my suggestion was ignored.

In No Hurry to Go Ashore

That brings us to departure day. About 10 in the morning we boarded a troop transport, and, with no end of misgivings on the part of this particular war correspondent, set sail. More tension . . . growing hourly. Finally "D day" had arrived. Gee, boss, was I scared!

"We had a choice of when to go ashore in the invasion barges. I . . . along with the only other honest coward in the press corps . . . chose the last possible moment. The two of us were put down for that boat.

Imagine my dismay when, after only one trip of the boats, the loud speaker blared, "All correspondents going ashore report to Debark Station 9, portside, immediately!" I hastily shouldered my rucksack and another camera bag containing film, bulbs, notebook, etc., etc. This all weighed around fifty or sixty pounds and was damned awkward, if I may say so.

Somehow I made it, down into the landing barge. With grave misgivings about being in the wrong business (me and my big mouth, yipping for a war assignment!) we shoved off, headed for the dim outline of the Kiska shore.

By now it was obvious I couldn't chicken-out, what with a mile of water bet... old solic... back out t... of those mc... chine-gun bullets, ... bothered me no end.

The beach loomed nearer (this is still nearer than the last paragraph). With a grinding crunch, we ran aground. The ramp went down. The troops piled out. It looked quite easy. Just like in the movies. Still no mortar fire. Maybe this was going to be a pushover.

"If I can only make it from here to the shelter of that solid looking cliff 200 yards away, I'm safe," I thought. (I hadn't remembered those little stinkers called landmines, yet . . .)

I hoisted up my gear. I bravely strode to the edge of the landing ramp. The Bering Sea was lapping the same edge. I took a deep breath, said "tohellwithit,' then thought again and stepped back. Another deep breath, another step forward. Stepped back again. By this time it was apparent that I soon would be left alone in the damned boat, with only the coxswain to leer at me in my palsy of fear.

Realizing that the water was deeper than it looked, I gingerly sat down on the edge of the ramp with by legs dangling in the water. I slid off.

Wrings Out Mukluks

Eventually I clambered out on the sandy beach. I looked around. No sign of Japs yet . . . but the distant gunfire was sounding off to the right. I said again, "Tohellwithit!" and ran like mad to the base of that cliff. My heavy trousers were tucked into the top of my mukluks, and both were so full of water it felt like walking in water-filled balloons.

I unwound the old Rollei and started shooting. I shot picture after picture. Then I stopped to rest. Then I started out for the advance command post. I shot more pix.

I sat down, took off my mukluks and emptied out at least a cupful from each. It was about 3 p. m., then . . . and they'd been full since 8:30 that morning. I wrung out their felt insoles, and got another half cup.

If you see some of my pictures used in the locals, will you please send me some clippings.

Luv and stuff . . . your favorite photographer, "Gmac."

Mine Sweeper Breaks In Two In Arctic Storm—Nobody Hurt

Wasmuth's Skipper Tells Of Rescue Of His Crew Of 136 By Tanker In North Pacific

Lieut. Com. Joseph Leverton, Jr., commander of the mine-sweeper Wasmuth, whose sinking in the North Pacific was announced yesterday, gives a graphic description of the rescue of the 136 men aboard in the following interview with an Associated Press war correspondent.

By EUGENE BURNS

[Associated Press Correspondent]

At a Far Western Base in the Andreanof Islands, Alaska, April 7 (Delayed) — One hundred and thirty-six men fought death when the old 1,200-ton four-piper U. S. S. Wasmuth, converted from a destroyer to mine sweeper, broke in two within fifty-three seconds after two of her depth charges slipped overboard and exploded.

It took three and a half hours for a tanker to get a ten-inch line aboard in the storm and blackness. Then the ships rammed holes into each other. And yet, not one casualty occurred.

In telling the story—three months and ten days after it happened—the skipper, Lieut. Com. Joseph Wilson Leverton, Jr., of Washington, credited the saving of those aboard wholly to his sturdy men and to Lieut. Com. (now Commander) Alfred J. Homann, of Santa Rosa, Cal., captain of the rescue tanker Ramapo.

Commander Leverton's Story

"The U. S. S. Wasmuth," said Leverton, "left Kodiak Christmas Eve (1942) to escort seven vessels out the Aleutian chain.

"The first night out it began to blow. It started mildly at forty knots and built up into a good blow. Waves were seventy-five feet high at times.

"Spray washed into our stacks as the ship was rolling fifty degrees to a side—more than half over—the seas flattened everything on our forecastle except anchors and guns and carried away stanchions of two-inch steel pipes, life lines and jackstaff.

"The bridge didn't bust up because we were going slow for the convoy.

"The temperature dropped to 12. Spray froze.

Three Days Of Arctic Storm

"We secured everything possible. We bolted down boats, closed doors, restricted passage. We decided even to secure depth charges. But men could not reach the outside two without loss of life.

"Three days on end we rode the storm, pounding and pitching and rolling. Men lashed themselves into their bunks.

"During the height of the storm at 4.45 P. M. December 27, I was on the bridge and over the wind's ungodly screeching I heard an explosion.

"Some equipment of the fantail had carried away, smashing loose the depth charge rack and some rolled into the sea. At fifty feet the first exploded. In fifty-three seconds a second exploded.

Ship Breaking In Half

"I knew my ship was hurt. I ordered the engines stopped. That was a gesture. We did not have high speed or reverse engines.

"I immediately sent my executive (Lieut. Frank Bampton, of Tacoma, Wash.) aft and he came back running. He said 'Sir, our ship is breaking in half.'

"There was a funny motion and a crunching so that you knew it could be nothing else but a ship breaking. You could almost tell when the keel broke. Then the bottom. Then the deck.

"I rang up McDonald (Lieut. Frank H. McDonald, of Harpers Ferry, W. Va.) in the engine room. He said that he had no further control of the engines and that the water was foaming in underneath the after bulkhead.

Leap 2-Foot Crack On Deck

"By that time, I knew where to expend our damage control effort and my first Lieut. Rue Green (of La Porte, Ind.) got to work quickly.

"Between explosions everyone aft rushed forward. The last man jumped over a widening two-foot crack on the main deck.

"There Goes Our Stern"

"Then a wave teeter-tottered the rear section and 500 tons, almost half of my 1,200-ton ship, broke off.

"It was perhaps the damndest sight any captain ever saw."

[Leverton had been on the Wasmuth two and a half years, the last six months as skipper.]

"Five minutes later," he continued, "my signalman said 'There goes our stern, sir.'

"She sank seventy-five yards behind us because the wind was sweeping us forward.

"Our work was cut out. I messaged the oiler Ramapo 'It looks like we need a tow.' At that point we were thirty-odd miles from Unimak Island and if we could get into its lee we might save our end of the ship.

"Sixty-foot waves were running then, washing up our stern and breaking on the ship as though we were abeach, while our bow stuck twenty feet out of the water. . .

"There were thousands of examples of nerve. Little Billy Edwards from Oklahoma or Arkansas sprained his foot. He was limping, but helped enormously on the bridge. I promoted him to quartermaster as soon as I could. . . .

Oil On Turbulent Waters

"The oiler Ramapo put oil over her side to quiet the water.

"While waiting for the Ramapo to get alongside, my communications officer (Ensign Leon Rathbun, of East Aurora, N. Y.) took lead-lined sacks and dumped codes, ciphers and secret papers overboard.

"For three and a half hours the Ramapo tried to shoot a line to us. She finally got upwind about seventy-five yards and put the third one over. We shot one back and within minutes there were many lines across. His first big line was a 10-inch hawser. After it was across we still had lots to do. The ship had to be kept afloat. Getting the men over would be a long process.

"Finally we got spring lines rigged and at 8 P. M. we started crossing. It was dark black.

"Each time the ships slammed together, men hurtled over the intervening space and fell forward.

"Finally, everyone was over except Bampton and I. He inspected from galley aft, I forward to see that no one was left in the ship. After Bampton I swung clear."

NEW PLANE GAINED IN RELATIONS OF MEXICO AND U. S.

Cooperation Was Never Better, Says President Camacho.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 1. — (AP) President Manuel Avila Camacho said in his annual address to Congress today that relations between Mexico and the United States "never before have attained the quality they have now and we trust they shall increase in the future."

The Mexican president said that 11,215 Mexicans were enlisted in the armed forces of the United States and that the sacrifices made by those Mexicans who already have fallen in battle "stiffens our will to carry on."

Avila Camacho told the Congress that 58,000 Mexicans had gone to the United States to work and he said that they have equal rights with American labor.

Discussing national defense plans, the President said Mexican warships were carrying out patrol duty and convoying merchant ships.

Victory Free of Vengeance

President Camacho declared that the United Nations "are seeking the final defeat of the dictatorships. We seek a victory without hate or vengeance. x x x"

Referring to his conferences with President Roosevelt last April at Monterey, Mexico, and Corpus Christi, Tex., President Camacho said their meeting "made manifest the sentiment of friendship and reciprocal esteem of our two peoples."

He said that an Allied victory would be an empty one if not accompanied "by the interior purification of democracy" which will give absolute equality to all peoples.

By equality, he said, he was not thinking of domination by the strong and rich but "a general pledge of cooperation which, grouping the weak and the powerful together, will give a proper share to all and rule out oppression."

The Mexican President said that one of the measures necessary to cement the political friendships in the future would be progressive disarmament of all nations.

Sale Of Puerto Rican Molasses Authorized

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Sept. 1 (AP)—Directors of the Puerto Rican Sugar Producers Association today authorized its Washington committee to negotiate the sale to the United States of 58,000,000 gallons of surplus molasses, presumably for use in making industrial alcohol.

Because of the shipping situation there long has been a surplus of molasses which has taxed Puerto Rican storage facilities. The island normally produces 50,000,000 gallons a year.

Fails In Plan To Take Horse To Joseph Stalin

Buenos Aires, Sept. 1 (AP)—The alertness of Brazilian border authorities has done Joseph Stalin out of a horse, and Marcelino Soule, the gaucho, out of a unique journey.

Astride a stallion and followed by eight more, Senor Soule set out two weeks ago for Moscow, where he planned to present one of the string to Stalin.

The gaucho, who in 1940 made a 16,000-mile trip on horseback through eighteen countries to the United States, intended to board a ship at Recife, Brazil, for Lisbon and get to Russia with his horses "by hook or by crook." He was back in Buenos Aires today, explaining he could not get across the Brazilian border because he lacked the proper Brazilian entry papers.

NaziRadioSays GermanSoldier Expects to Win

Broadcaster Lingers Over Early Victories, Barely Mentions Current Trends

General Count Waldemar Stillfried, a Berlin radio commentator, said yesterday in a review of Germany's side of the four years of war that the German soldier "is fighting with the conviction that he will attain the final victory."

The broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press, was devoted mainly to the years when the Nazi forces were sweeping over Europe. The Allied victories in North Africa and Sicily and the current fighting on the German-Russian front were mentioned only briefly.

Stillfried said lessons learned from the German Army enabled the Allies to conquer North Africa, and blamed the vast distances of Russia and her "great superiority in men and material" for Germany's inability to smash the Red Army. "In the East . . . fighting already has produced a result which undoubtedly is very important for the further course of the war," he said.

Stillfried declared that the "intellectual superiority of German military leadership was evident immediately after the outbreak of the war," adding that the training and equipping of German soldiers had taken into account "a complete change in warfare since 1918."

Germany's quick victories in France were furthered, Stillfried said, by mistakes made by the British and because the French had "broken down morally."

"Germany got a free hand in the first phase of the war, and since then dominates all conquered territories with labor of high quality and first-rate front soldiers," he said.

PISA'S TOWER DATES FROM 1173

By Associated Press.

Allied bombers of the Northwest African Air Force last night bombed historic Pisa, home of the Leaning Tower, which is considered one of the wonders of the medieval world. Begun in 1173 by Romano Pisano and William of Innsbruck, the eight-story marble tower was completed in 1350.

The building leans more than sixteen feet out of the perpendicular, and continues to heel over at a very slow rate year after year, despite the 1,000 tons of high-strength cement injected into the foundation in 1932. Scientists say the phenomenon is caused by the clay soil on which the building is built giving way on one side.

Tokio Transfers Admirals

The Tokio radio said yesterday that the chief of staff of the China Sea Fleet and the chief of staff and chief of personnel at the Yokosuka naval base have been "transferred" to "important sea duties."

The changes in command, as announced by Tokio, made Vice-Admiral Kanji Ugaki chief of staff of the China Sea fleet. The broadcast, which was heard by The Associated Press, did not name his predecessor.

Rear Admiral Katsuzo Akiyama was named as the new Yokosuka personnel chief, succeeding Rear Admiral Masatsugo Hoshino, and Rear Admiral Tadayuki Matsunaga as chief of staff, succeeding Vice-Admiral Minoru Karui.

Grandi Trip To U. S. Discredited In Rome

New York, Sept. 1 (AP)—The Rome radio said today there is no "confirmation whatsoever" of reports that Count Dino Grandi, former Italian Ambassador to Great Britain, is en route to Washington 'with special political assignments."

The Swiss Telegraphic Agency, in a dispatch from Chiasso, Italy, said the Grandi report was "fantastic," with Grandi far from persona grata to the Badoglio Government.

The Swiss agency added that Italian circles have no confirmation of reports of the arrest of Count Galeazzo Ciano.

CHINESE TROOPS SET TO FIGHT ON ANY FRONT

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(AP) Dr. Chang Tao-Fan, Chinese minister of information, declared today that Chinese troops would operate against the Japanese "outside China, independently or in conjunction with the Allied forces, wherever the enemy is found," the Chungking radio said in a broadcast recorded by the U. S. Foreign Broadcast Intelligence service.

The broadcast quoted the information minister as adding during a press conference that he was "very much impressed by Prime Minister Churchill's emphasis on "the defeat of the enemy in the Far East" in his speech at Quebec yesterday.

Dr. Chang said it was still premature to say whether Chinese forces would be placed under the command of Vice Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, newly-named Allied commander in southeastern Asia.

What's Behind The War News

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK

Japan appears to have the jitters as a result of the well-advertised Anglo-American preparations for "heating and inflaming" — as Winston Churchill put it—the war against her.

Nervous anxiety is clearly reflected in the Tokyo radio's shocked declaration that American sea and air forces which bombed and shelled Marcus island, 1200 miles southeast of Tokyo, could have raided the Japanese mainland itself just as well.

That is a far cry from the boasts Tokyo used to voice that the Japanese homeland was safe from attack—a boast which was being broadcast at the very moment that General Jimmy Doolittle's raiders came winging over 16 months ago.

The quick reference to the mainland is another symptom, too, of Japan's haunting fear, repeatedly manifest since the Doolittle raid, that American bombers will return to her cities.

The depth of that fear was expressed in the execution of some of the American fliers who fell into Japan's hands and in the slaughter and destruction in Chinese villages which sheltered others of the airmen.

30.24-7949

30.24-7949

Many of the far-flung islands which Japan has occupied were seized not for their riches but to keep American airpower remote.

In this light, it is probable that neither the Marcus island demonstration of American seapower nor the frank talk from Quebec, London and Washington of an early, large-scale campaign in Burma is as ominous news for Tokyo's warlords as the word from General Henry H. Arnold that a new and revolutionary bomber will be in use in the near future.

Amazing Bombing Range

The chief of the Army Air forces described battleships of the air capable of carrying half a carload of bombs and with flying range for a round trip to Europe.

To that may be added Lieut. General John L. DeWitt's estimate, given to a press conference in San Francisco, that the matter of supplying bases in China and the Aleutians is the only major problem to be solved before shuttle-trip bombing of Japan will be possible.

This country, General DeWitt observed, now has airfields as close to Japan's home islands as was the aircraft carrier Hornet when General Doolittle's men took off for their bombing raid. That would be about 88 miles.

Presumably, his reference was to the bases on Attu and Kiska in relation to Paramushiro at the north end of the Japanese island chain. But his calculation of possible shuttle bombing was based on the performance of the Liberators and Flying Fortresses now in use.

Attu lies about 2,000 miles from Tokyo with Chinese bases 1,000 miles or so beyond—a distance only a little more than American bombers covered in the round trip flight to bomb Rumania's Polesti oil fields.

Putting aside the problem of supplying Chinese bases, the bombers General Arnold tells us are on the way could fly the round trip from Attu to Tokyo and return. That might be, in fact, no more than half the operating range of a plane able to carry a bomb load from United States shores to Europe and return.

And there can be no question of Army-Navy ability to supply the Attu base which was wrested from the enemy.

It is not an isolated raid from sea-borne aircraft such as hit Marcus island that Tokyo has to fear, but sustained air attack from land-based planes.

And that, we may judge from General Arnold's statements, is in store for the early future.

HULL DECLARES THREE-POWER TALK IS NEEDED

SEP 2 1943

Secretary of State Favors Anglo-Russo-American Conference Soon.

CAPITAL AWAITING CHURCHILL

British Prime Minister Expected in Washington for New Series of Meetings.

Washington, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—Secretary of State Hull said today that an Anglo-Soviet-American conference to discuss urgent problems of the war was highly desirable. Asked if he was prepared to attend a London parley of British, American and Russian foreign ministers, Mr. Hull told a press conference that he had no plans and that he did not know yet if the proposed conference would be held.

He added that he had expressed himself during the summer as not being in a position to go to London. That was after Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's conferences in Washington, during which Mr. Hull was invited to visit the British capital.

Later the department issued the following statement:

"The Soviet Government has been consulted and has been kept fully informed by the United States and British governments in regard to all aspects of the military situation as it has developed in connection with operations against Italy and other operations in the European theater and with respect to political situations arising directly out of military operations."

New Series of Talks.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill are heading toward a new series of talks against a backdrop of resurging upheavals in Nazi-fettered Europe which sound here like the first rumblings of an Allied storm over that freedom-parched continent.

There are indisputable signs that the focal point of some of the forthcoming discussions will be the question of how to bring Russia into the Allied councils not only for the coordination of military operations but also for the solution of post-war political problems.

Russian participation in future meetings, at least in some degree, was described as necessary and urgent by Mr. Churchill in his speech from Quebec yesterday. And the President said at his press conference a little later that things were going along pretty well with respect to a three-power conference.

Then, too, one of Mr. Churchill's close associates, Brendan Bracken, British Minister of Information, declared that while in his opinion the war against Germany certainly would continue into next year, "post-war problems must be discussed because obviously you never know when the war is going to end."

Churchill Expected Soon.

Mr. Bracken, at a press confrence here last night, classed as security information the time of Mr. Churchill's arrival here, but in line with disclosures at Quebec last week it was expected soon.

Mr. Churchill laid considerable emphasis in his speech on the unrest in Europe, and it was noted in informed quarters here that this is the sort of violence designed to pave the way for invading forces, whether they strike Europe in the Balkans, Norway or France.

"All of the Balkans is aflame," the Prime Minister said at one point in his broadcast. At another he declared: "Certainly we see all Europe rising under Hitler's tyranny. What is now happening in Denmark is only another example."

To Russia the British leader held forth three different methods of meeting with officials of the United States and Great Britain:

1. A three-way conference among Marshal Stalin, President Roosevelt and himself. He remarked that he and the President are not averse "to undertake further immense journeys."

Meeting Called Urgent.

2. A meeting among the British, American and Russian Foreign Ministers or their representatives. This could be held prior to the conference of the chiefs, and Mr. Churchill called it "most necessary and urgent."

3. Participation by Russian representatives in "the political decisions which arise out of the victories Anglo-American forces have gained in the Mediterranean."

CHURCHILL, F.D.R. RESUME TALKS

SEP 2 1943

Prime Minister in Washington to Discuss Greater Collaboration with Reds.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—(AP) War discussions which President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill adjourned in Quebec eight days ago were resumed here tonight with the emphasis, apparently, on greater collaboration with Russia.

The British Prime Minister, accompanied by Mrs. Churchill, reached Washington late in the day on a fourth war-time visit.

Official silence prevailed on the channels into which he and Mr. Roosevelt were directing their conversations but there was evidence that the Allied leaders would center a large share of their attention on the means of attaining closer military and political relations with the Soviet union.

Mr. Churchill arrived by special train from Quebec, where, in a broadcast yesterday, he invited Joseph Stalin to join with himself and the President later in a three-way conference, and spoke of Anglo-American-Russian talks as "most necessary and urgent."

The stress he laid on collaboration with Russia and on a prospective invasion of continental Europe for which Red spokesmen have been clamoring, accented the idea that these were among the primary considerations which brought him again to Washington.

Plans Completed

Plans for Allied arms to hammer their way into Hitler's European stronghold obviously have been completed, so the political aspects of the war and the post-war period appeared likely to dominate the war talks at the White House.

The President and Prime Minister said at Quebec that discussions would continue among numerous interested governments on the problem of administrations for European countries which are to be liberated from Axis control. Russia would be particularly interested in the Balkans and in Poland.

And, to be effective, any formula for lasting peace and for readjustment of European boundaries after the wor would require an understanding between Russia and her western Allies. Mr. Roosevelt has disclosed that post-war problems figured in the Quebec councils.

The discussions here were described authoritatively as on a smaller and less elaborate scale than those in Quebec, since most of the major decisions needed in the current phase of the war were reached in Canada.

Partly Social Visit

White House officials said the Prime Minister's visit would not be entirely on business and that the President hoped it could be partly social.

It started with a social angle tonight at a small, informal family dinner at the White House. In the absence of Mrs. Roosevelt, who is in New Zealand, the President's hostess was Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, wife of his second son, Col. Elliott Roosevelt, who recently returned from the Mediterranean theater where he commanded Allied aerial photographic forces.

tion with operations against Italy and other operations in the European theater, and with respect to political situations arising directly out of military operations."

It was the latest of a series of British and American official utterances emphasizing Anglo-American willingness to consult and collaborate with the Soviet Union on all aspects of the war in Europe.

Follow-Up of Repudiation

It followed also a sharp repudiation by Secretary of State Hull and President Roosevelt of accusations that Mr. Hull and other high officials of the State department had exhibited an anti-Russian attitude. Mr. Hull further pointed up today the general agreement that a joint Anglo-Soviet-American war conference is desirable, but nobody was inclined to expect the heads of the three governments to go into a tete-a-tete right away.

The reason boils down to this: Responsible chief executives ordinarily do not commit themselves to the extent implied by a personal conference, unless a fairly definite outline of agreement has been reached in advance.

Officials and diplomats call it "spadework" and "clearing the ground," but it all comes out to insurance against getting together with the unavoidable fanfare, only to find that nothing important, or worse, comes of it.

Mr. Hull told his press conference that a three-power meeting to talk over urgent war problems is highly desirable. But he said he had no plans to attend a session of Foreign ministers in London and did not know yet whether there would be such a conference.

Churchill Supports Plan

Prime Minister Churchill in his speech yesterday at Quebec gave unqualified support to the idea of a meeting.

"It seems most necessary and Russian Foreign ministers, or their responsible representatives, should be held not merely to explore the important questions connected with the future arrangements for world security, but to carry their discussions to a point where the heads of state and government may be able to intervene."

Close integration of the Anglo-American war effort, it was pointed out, provides a perfect background for the frequent Roosevelt-Churchill meetings.

That is a much closer relationship than was indicated for Russian dealings, even by today's statement that the Soviet had been "consulted and kept informed" on both military and political matters. For one thing the Russians are not fighting the Japanese.

Way Cleared

Mr. Churchill's speech yesterday is generally regarded as having helped to clear the way to a better understanding with Russia. His depiction of the Russian problem and viewpoint was balanced against a subtle but firm injection of the British and Allied view of Russia's record before Germany attacked her in 1941.

Realism, it is held here, is a language the Russians speak and understand.

Soviet in Close Touch With Mediterranean Drive

State Department Contradicts Story Reds Were Kept in Dark.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 — (AP) The State department today sharply contradicted recently published reports that Britain and the United States have been playing a lone game in the Mediterranean, keeping Soviet Russia in the dark.

A statement by the department asserted:

"The Soviet government has been consulted and has been kept fully informed by the United States and British governments in regard to all aspects of the military situation as it has developed in connec-

U. S. CASUALTIES EXCEED 103,000, REPORTS SHOW

Army List Numbers 69,358, Navy 21,556 and Marines 7,904.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 — (AP) More than 100,000 members of United States military forces and the Merchant Marine have been killed in action, wounded, reported missing or taken prisoner, latest figures showed today.

The Army said its casualty total through last week was 69,358. Navy casualties totalled 21,556, Marines 7,904 and Coast Guard 363. The latest Merchant Marine summary showed a total of 4,751 dead and missing.

All these add up to 103,932.

However, the Army said that 8,748 of its men classed as wounded have left the hospital or returned to duty.

A total of 19,581 persons in all services are listed as dead, and 35,895 are listed as missing, the total of those two figures being 55,476.

Latest Summaries

Following are the latest casualty summaries for the services:

Army (through the end of last week): Killed 8,927 wounded 19,391, of who 8,748 have left the hospital or returned to duty missing 21,406; prisoners of war 19,634; total 69,358.

Navy (to date): Dead 7,840; wounded 2,553; missing 8,917; prisoners of war 2,246 total 21,556.

Marines (to date): Dead 2,005; wounded 2,501; missing 663; prisoners of war 1,925; total 7,904.

Coast Guard (to date:) Dead 182; wounded 22; missing 158; prisoner of war 1; total 363.

Merchant Marine (from Sept. 27, 1941, to Aug. 1, 1943): Dead 627; missing 4,124; total 4,751.

Aircraft Output 12 P. C. Behind July Schedule

SEP 2 1943

Summer Slump Believed to Threaten Production Goal for Arms This Year

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP).—July aircraft production was 12 per cent behind schedule, a War Production Board spokesman disclosed today, despite Monday's announcement that plane output was 4 per cent above June, with a total of 7,373 aircraft produced.

As a result of the summer slump some W. P. B. officials have concluded that this year's $65,000,000,000 overall arms production goal will not be met.

Top officials stoutly assert that the goal still can be achieved, but qualified observers within the agency reckon that $62,000,000,000 is closer to the attainable.

Cooler weather and the end of the summer vacation period is expected to have an accellerating effect.

In recent statements W. P. B. chairman Donald M. Nelson has emphasized that production increases at this stage of the war program come harder month by month, and that even small gains on some items "can be obtained only by efforts far more intensive than anything in our previous experience."

Three of these "tough" programs, he disclosed in his monthly production report Monday, are aircraft, Army ammunition and signal equipment.

Army ammunition did not gain at all in July; signal equipment went up 17 per cent, and the aircraft gain of 4 per cent was tempered by the disclosure that this still was far under the scheduled output.

W. P. B. and the War Man Power ommission now are working jointly on a program for particular application to airplane producers on the West coast, where acute man power problems have retarded production.

A more liberal draft deferment policy for aircraft workers is part of the proposed program, it was ascertained, but other details have not yet been made public.

Army Drops Officers Who Are Over-Age

Reinstates Active-DutyBan; Bulk of 900 Affected Are of the Regular Army

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP).—The Army reinstated its ban on active duty for over-age officers today. It was reported that a high percentage of those relieved of active duty were regular Army officers.

"Whether justified or not," a well informed authority said, "the opinion appears to be general among them that the effect of the order will be to provide opportunities to promote to senior grades a number of officers who have been commissioned directly from civil life."

Circumstances rather than the nature of the order made it apply more heavily to old-time military men. Relatively few men past middle age without extensive military background have been brought into the service.

It was said 900 officers—a few major generals and brigadier generals but the majority colonels—would be returned to inactive status. The War Department has declined to give the number or say what ranks they hold.

The laws governing the Army provide for mandatory retirement at sixty-four years of age for major generals or higher ranks, at sixty-two for brigadier generals and at sixty for colonels and lower grades.

However, retired officers can be recalled to active duty, and a great many were called back when this country entered the war. Moreover, so great was the demand for officers as the Army mushroomed from its peace-time token size to the present strength of nearly 8,000,000 that many officers were retained on active duty as they reached retirement age.

Now, the Army says, the need is less with the expansion having reached a leveling-off period, and with greater numbers of senior officers available.

Exceptions under the reinstated retirement rules are confined to those who can show definitely "that they are physically and mentally capable of vigorous performance of full duty commensurate with their grades, and that their special qualifications for the duty to which they are assigned are of such character that the best interests of the service require their retention."

Two notable exceptions are General Malin Craig, former chief of staff, now heading a special War Department officer-procurement board, who is sixty-eight, and Lieutenant General Ben Lear, former commander of the 2d Army, who retired last spring when he reached sixty-four, but was recalled immediately to active duty.

The War Department would not give figures on exceptions, but it was said they would be few.

The Honor Roll

ARMY CASUALTIES

Washington, Sept. 1.—The War Department made public today the names of 222 United States soldiers wounded in action. The announcement includes casualties in the European, North African, Pacific and Southwest Pacific areas. The names listed in North African area include casualty reports received from operations in Sicily. The next of kin included in the list have been notified.

WOUNDED

North Africa Area

NEW YORK.

BURGREEN, ALFRED, private; mother, Mrs. Minnie D. Burgreen, 85 Lewis street, New York.

COMMERTON, ROBERT E., sergeant; mother, Mrs. Anna Commerton, 27 164th Drive, Hamilton Beach.

COUNIHAN, TIMOTHY J., private; mother, Mrs. Hannah Counihan, 316 East 89th street, New York.

COVOTSOS, THOMAS A., sergeant; father, Louis Covotsos, 1140 49th street, Brooklyn.

CURRAN, CHARLES W., staff sergeant; mother, Mrs. Josephine Curran, 437 West 56th street, New York.

DIRENZO, ARMAND M., private first class; father, Angelo J. Direnzo, 511 West 171st street, New York.

FUCHS, NAT., corporal; mother, Mrs. Anna Fuchs, 44 East 95th street, Brooklyn.

HUGHES, JAMES F. JR., captain; wife, Mrs. Florence A. Hughes, Box 44, Yorktown Heights.

KEOGH, WILLIAM J., private; father, James J. Keogh, 200 West 84th street, New York.

PELTZ, DAVID, private; father, Joseph Peltz, 2 Bristol street, Brooklyn.

PITILLI, FRANCIS A., private first class; sister, Miss Rose Pitilli, 45-16 44th street, Long Island City.

PRIORE, FRANK, private; father, Dominick Priore, 836 East 222d street, New York.

PROVENZANO, SALVATORE A., private; mother, Mrs. Theresa Provenzano, 1331 71st street, Brooklyn.

REILLY, FRANCIS T., corporal; sister, Mrs. Gergetta Coogan, 2159 Belmont avenue, New York.

RENAULT, ALFRED E., private first class; wife, Mrs. Esther Marie Renault, 529 Palisade avenue, Yonkers.

RIZZO, FRANCIS A., corporal; wife, Mrs. Anna M. Rizzo, 20-34 41st street, care Berger, Astoria.

SCHEBLEIN, JOSEPH G., private first class; mother, Mrs. Anna Scheblein, 241-03 137th avenue, Rosedale.

VERA, PETER, fifth grade technician; uncle, Santiago Sanchez, 509 West 159th street, New York.

WILCZEWSKI, STANLEY J., private first class; mother, Mrs. Adella Wilczewski, Montauk Highway, Speonk.

YANKOWSKI, EDWARD J., private; mother, Mrs. Anna Yankowski, 8 Abendroth Place, Port Chester.

NEW JERSEY.

CHRISTIANO, WILLIAM A., corporal; father, Anthony Christiano, 16 Sycamore street, Bloomfield.

McGLONE, ROBERT J., private; mother, Mrs. Anna McGlone, 163 Grove street, Bloomfield.

PENNACCHIO, ANTHONY M., private; mother, Mrs. Lenora Pennacchio, 54 Grelle avenue, Garfield.

YEHLE, HERMAN J., staff sergeant; wife, Mrs. Herman J. Yehle, 43 Union Place, North Arlington.

Southwest Pacific Area

NEW YORK.

LEVINE, ABE I., private; mother, Mrs. Minnie Levine, 294 Snediker avenue, Brooklyn.

Calls Allied Stand Target of Pope

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP).—Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for Prevention of War, said today that Pope Pius in his peace message apparently "was condemning Axis tyranny on the one hand and the Roosevelt-Churchill demand for unconditional surrender on the other."

"The Pope's denunciation of 'those who are building their power on oppression' and of 'those who interfere with the building of a just and lasting peace' is obviously well balanced and impartial," said Mr. Libby, whose organization advocates a negotiated, "honorable" peace at the earliest possible moment.

OWN DEPTH CHARGES SINK U.S. MINESWEEPER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 — (AP) The Navy revealed today the loss of the minesweeper Wasmuth in the Aleutians area last December after the vessel was wrecked by the explosion of two of its own depth charges.

The charges were wrenched from their racks by a raging gale 30 miles off the Aleutian islands. They exploded under the Wasmuth's fantail and blew off a portion of the ship's after section.

As the vessel slowly sank Commander Alfred J. Homann, Santa Rosa, Calif., skillfully maneuvered his ship, the tanker Ramapo, alongside and, after a three and a half hour battle with the stormy sea, succeeded in rescuing the nine officers, 125 men and two passengers from the Wasmuth.

U. S. Merchant Ship Sunk in Atlantic

Washington, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—The Navy reported today that a medium-sized United States merchant vessel was torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine during the middle of July in the South Atlantic. Survivors were landed at Miami, Fla.

OFFICERS OF WAAC ENTER WACS TODAY

Washington, Sept. 1 (A. P.).—The officers of the Waac dropped a letter today to become officers of the Wac—no longer auxiliaries but in the Army.

At headquarters, officials said they expected "all but a very few" of the slightly more than 5,000 officers of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps to be sworn in by nightfall as officers of the Women's Army Corps.

The shift of the entire organization to its new status as an integral part of the Army, however, is not scheduled to be completed until September 30. There was no estimate available today of how many of the approximately 60,000 enlisted auxiliaries would re-enlist in the Army.

COL. ROOSEVELT HOME

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 — (AP) Col. Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, has returned from North Africa for a visit. He has been in charge of a photographic reconnaissance group.

RUSSIA KEY TO WAR, HOPKINS DECLARES

Victory Would Take Much Longer If She Drops Out, He Writes

[By the Associated Press]

New York, Sept. 1—Harry Hopkins, adviser to President Roosevelt, in a signed article, "We Can Win in 1945," appearing in the current issue of the American magazine, declared today:

"Russia, the keystone of the war, is still fighting grimly. If we lose her, I do not believe for a moment that we will lose the war, but I would change my prediction about the time of victory.

"Then, indeed, we would have a long war ahead of us. But we are on the offensive with soldiers, sailors and marines trained to the hilt and equipped as no army or navy in history was ever equipped. We know how well they can fight."

Sees Two Years Of Fighting

Hopkins analyzed the military and industrial strength of Japan and Germany and cited individual cases of optimism for a quick victory.

"In my opinion we're not going to have it," he wrote. "The German-Japanese portion of the Axis isn't a pushover.

"I believe two years of hard fighting on the fronts of the world and two years of increasing sacrifice at home lie ahead of us. Two years at least. We must work harder, go without more things, lose more and more lives.

Confident Of Victory

"I say all this with a deep conviction of our ultimate and inevitable victory. Call me gloomy, if you wish, but my optimism has been unwavering from the beginning and will not change until we have won.

"Considering all the realities of this vast conflict, I am really predicting a short war. Five more years of it would make a long one, and we can have a long one if we let down the war effort because of overconfidence."

SAYS MILITARY POWERS GROW

Leon Henderson, Former OPA Chief, Cites Control Over Civilian Economy

[By the Associated Press]

New York, Sept. 1—Leon Henderson today raised the question of the growing power of the military services over the civilian economy in his first published magazine article since he resigned as director of the Office of Price Administration.

SEP 2 1943

In his article for Common Sense, a monthly publication, he said that any considerations of the post-war period must include the role military powers will play in disposing of $50,000,000,000 worth of goods, half of which would be immediately available for sale.

"One thing is crystal clear," Henderson wrote, "the military services in the post-war period, and even today, can make or break the markets for most industries and most enterprises by their allocation of contracts and contract terms.

Control Nor-War Materials

"This is particularly true when their control over the allocation of raw materials for other than military purposes is so strong.

"If the generals and the admirals do not see the necessity of diaper pins they can make it pretty tough for the civilian requirements representative to get the steel allocation. The military services never let up for a minute on their pressure for control of raw materials. They are now urging James F. Byrnes to give them control over certain non-combat articles against the opposition of Donald Nelson and the War Production Board industry divisions."

Says Folk Are Concerned

Henderson pointed out that the military services now have over $200,000,000,000 to spend.

"No wonder folk are concerned," Henderson said. "The total sums for public works available or estimated look puny beside this concentration of economic power in the hands of the military.

"This is big stuff—too big to be under the control of the bureaucrats, unless, of course, they have met a pay roll or run an investment house. Better keep away, also from the boys who have carried precincts!"

Henderson said one of the focal points in the post-war strategy of reconversion will be the next tax bill in Congress. He predicted that the fight for power would be carried out in the tax debates, and that it is possible that Congress will become a manager of post-war programing.

All Government agencies, he

30.24-7951

said, were eying with envy the acquisition of powers over post-war programing, and Henderson named the War Production Board's setup as the "logical contender."

Britain Has 'Just Enough' Food, Mission Head Says

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—There is "just about enough food" in Great Britain now, and the supply is very monotonous, Robert M. Brand, head of the British Food Mission in this country, said last night on his arrival on a Pan-American clipper at La Guardia Field's marine terminal.

The food situation in Great Britain is about the same as it was six months ago, Mr. Brand said. This year's harvest will be good, he added. He was in London for five weeks.

ENGINES BEING BUILT FOR SUPER-BOMBERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 — (AP) Engines for super-bombers predicted by Gen. H. H. Arnold yesterday are under construction now in a plant of the Wright Aeronautical corporation, the U. S. Army Air forces announced today in a statement made public by the corporation.

General Arnold, commanding general of the Air forces, forecast that the new bombers, soon to go into action, would dwarf the Flying Fortresses and could carry half a car-load of bombs across the Atlantic and fly home without a stop.

The Wright corporation said the Air force announcement contained information that the new bombers would be powered by Cyclone 18 engines, which it said were the most powerful service engines now being built in this country.

...t Classification

New York, Sept. 1 (AP)—Joseph Curran, president of the CIO National Maritime Union, was reclassified from 2-B to 2-A, local draft board 18 announced today.

The reclassification shifted Curran's status from that of a man essential in war production work to that of a worker essential in civilian activity.

The board also gave Curran another six-month occupational deferment, his previous deferment having expired last Friday. Curran, 37, shipped recently as a boatswain on a merchant ship for what the NMU said was a survey of maritime conditions overseas.

SUB CAPTAIN CITED

NEW LONDON, Sept. 1 — (AP) For his "able leadership and efficient direction of submarines" in the North Pacific, Capt. Charles W. Gray, U.S.N., was presented the Legion of Merit at the submarine base today by Rear Admiral F. A. Daubin, U.S.N.

British Destroyer Launched At Boston

Boston, Sept. 1 (AP)—Just eight and one half days after the laying of the keel, the destroyer-escort H. M. S. Fitzroy slid down the ways of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation's Hingham shipyard today, establishing a second new national record in two days at a Bethlehem shipyard in the Boston area in the construction of these husky foes of submarines.

Only yesterday, at the Fore River yard, another of these 300-foot fighting ships, the U. S. S. Harmon, was delivered ready for service ninety-two days after the laying of its keel.

The Fitzroy, built for the British navy under the Lend-Lease Act, was christened at the launching today by Mrs. J. M. Irish, wife of a United States Navy supervisor of shipbuilding in New York.

...even Die in Air Collision

Four N. Y. Men Victims as Army Planes Crash Over Florida Base

AVON PARK, Fla., Sept. 1 (AP).—All seven members of the crew of an Army bomber were killed when it collided with an Army fighter north of Orlando yesterday, the public relations office of the Avon Park bombing range reported today. The pilot of the fighter made an emergency landing and was unhurt.

The dead included:

Second Lieutenant Edward P. J. Hetherington, 2255 Walton Avenue, the Bronx.

Sergeant Anton Christensen, Penn Yan, N. Y.

Sergeant Harold Gottlieb, 2230 Eighty-second Street, Brooklyn.

Sergeant Rene Gay, 37-44 102d Street, Corona, Queens.

Mary Churchill Reveals Her Main Post-War Wish

Prime Minister's Daughter Wants To Be a Homemaker

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Sept. 1 (AP).—Subaltern Mary Churchill's greatest desire after the war will be to become a homemaker, the British Prime Minister's daughter declared in a brief interview at the 2d Training Center of the Women's Army Corps here today.

"I am proud to be in uniform," said the twenty-year-old member of the Auxiliary Territorial Service of Great Britain who is now on a tour of the United States, "but I don't believe I'd like the service in peace time."

"Anyway," she added, "we don't know that the A. T. S. will be continued in post-war days."

Miss Churchill's eyes grew moist when asked how she felt upon learning that the King had called her father to become Prime Minister.

"I hardly know," she replied. "It was such a solemn and profound moment for the British Empire that it is difficult to recall one's personal feelings."

She expressed amazement at the size of United States W. A. C. training centers, explaining that training establishments for women in England are much smaller by comparison.

Miss Churchill attended a W. A. C. review and was present when a number of women officers of the W. A. A. C. were sworn into the W. A. C.

Conductor Hitler Ousted Begins 'Revenge' Today

Werner Janssen Goes to Work on Plane Plant Swing Shift

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 1 (AP).—Nine years ago Adolf Hitler ousted Werner Janssen as guest conductor of the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra and ran him out of the Reich because the noted musician-composer refused to eliminate Mendelssohn's third symphony from his programs.

Now Janssen is ready to take a measure of revenge: the conductor, who earns thousands of dollars weekly through his film, radio and concert commitments, announced today that he is going to work as a swing-shifter for the Douglas Aircraft Company at $45 a week.

"I passed my examinations yesterday and I'm very proud of it," Mr. Janssen declared. "I go to work at 4:15 p. m. tomorrow. I'm carrying my lunch, and I'll be through at 12:45 in the morning. I'll stick with the job, if they'll have me, until the war is over, and I'll take a great deal of pleasure in thinking that I'll have a small part in building the bombers which are helping make things miserable for Adolf."

Janssen is forty-three years old and is the husband of Ann Harding, film star.

30.24-7951

ADD LONDON - POLAND (HERCHER) XXX "STAND"

BRITISH HOME SECRETARY HERBERT MORRISON DECLARED IN A SPECIAL BROADCAST TO THE POLISH PEOPLE: SEP 2 1943

"POLAND, SO LONG HUMBLED AND OPPRESSED, WILL STAND AGAIN, STRONG AND INDEPENDENT."

MORRISON SAID THAT POLISH AIR FORCE BOMBER SQUADRONS HAD DROPPED 13,000,000 POUNDS OF BOMBS ON GERMANY.

THE NAZI ASSAULT ON POLAND SEPT. 1, 1939, WAS THE SPARK THAT SET OFF THE SECOND WORLD WAR.

HJ1055PEW

ADD LONDON-RUSSIAN (LONG) XXX COLLAPSED

MOSCOW DISPATCHES GAVE ADDITIONAL DETAILS OF RUSSIAN SUCCESSES, ANNOUNCED TUESDAY, WHICH TOOK YELNYA, NEAR SMOLENSK, AND GLUKHOV AND RYLSK IN THE NORTH UKRAINE.

THE DRIVE ON YELNYA, A RAILWAY STATION AND CENTER OF SEVEN HIGHWAY AND DIRT ROADS, BEGAN AFTER GERMAN DEFENSES ON THE EASTERN BANK OF THE UGRA RIVER WERE CRACKED, THE DISPATCHES SAID.

AFTER TWO DAYS HEAVY FIGHTING TANK FORCES CROSSED THE RIVER AND OPENED THE WAY FOR AN INFANTRY ADVANCE. DESPITE STRONG GERMAN RESISTANCE, RUSSIAN TANKS AGAIN BROKE THROUGH ENEMY LINES, SEVERED THE RAILROAD AND PULLED THE INFANTRY INTO THE GAP.

GERMAN LINES IN THIS AREA CONSISTED OF DEEP TRENCHES CONNECTING AN INTRICATE SYSTEM OF PILLBOXES, STEEL LID DUGOUTS AND FIRING POSITIONS IN SWAMPS AND ALONG THE NUMEROUS STREAMS CRISS-CROSSING THE AREA. HEAVY FORESTS MADE THE ATTACK EVEN MORE DIFFICULT AND STRONGLY FORTIFIED HILLS SURROUNDED YELNYA ITSELF.

TWO TANK BRIGADES ENTERED THE CITY FROM THE EAST AND NORTHEAST SIMULTANEOUSLY AND BEGAN THE BATTLE FOR YELNYA. AFTER STREET FIGHTING INFANTRY GROUPS QUICKLY PENETRATED TO THE CENTER, SPREAD OUT AND MOPPED UP THE GERMAN DEFENDERS IN A FEW HOURS.

IN THE FIGHTING FOR GLUKHOV AND RYLSK WHERE THE SOVIETS SMASHED INTO THE NORTHERN UKRAINE, DISPATCHES SAID, THE RUSSIAN INFANTRY TOOK THE LEAD. THEY CLEARED A PATH FOR TANKS IN THE GERMAN LINES AND THE DECIMATED DEFENDERS, UNABLE TO HOLD, BEGAN TO FALL BACK UPON STRONGHOLDS. FRESH RUSSIAN TROOPS POURED IN FROM NEARBY BASES AND THE RED ARMY BY-PASSED AND BLOCKADED THE STRONGPOINTS. ADVANCING GERMAN RESERVES WERE SCATTERED WITH THE COMBINED ATTACKS OF TANKS, INFANTRY AND AVIATION.

SEP 2 1943

IN GLUKHOV, THE SOVIET ARMY NEWSPAPER RED STAR SAID, THE ENTIRE GERMAN GARRISON, CAUGHT BY SURPRISE, WAS UNABLE TO RETREAT AND THOSE WHO WERE NOT KILLED WERE TAKEN PRISONER.

THE OCCUPATION OF RYLSK WAS MORE DIFFICULT AND WAS PRECEDED BY ATTACKS TO THE NORTH WHICH DREW AWAY PART OF THE GERMAN GARRISON. THE RUSSIANS SUCCEEDED IN SEVERING THE RYLSK-GLUKHOV HIGHWAY, AND CRACKED DEFENSES IN THE SOUTH OF THE CITY. THEN THE CITY FELL UNDER SIMULTANEOUS BLOWS FROM THE NORTH, SOUTH AND EAST.

CAPTURE OF GLUKHOV AND RYLSK BROUGHT THE RUSSIANS TO WITHIN SEVEN MILES OF THE GERMAN SUPPLY RAILWAY KIEV-KONOTOP-BRYANSK. THE CUTTING OF THIS RAILWAY WOULD MENACE THE GERMANS IN BRYANSK, ALREADY THREATENED BY OTHER RUSSIAN FORCES TO THE EAST.

WHETHER THE GERMANS WOULD BE ABLE TO ESTABLISH A NEW LINE, PERHAPS ALONG THE DNIEPER, REMAINED TO BE SEEN, MOSCOW DISPATCHES SAID. BUT THE LINE [illegible]F HELD NEARLY TWO YEARS, BASED ON TAGANROG, KHARKOV, OREL, BRYANSK AND SMOLENSK HAS NOW BEEN RIPPED TO SHREDS.

BY GLADWIN HILL

LONDON, SEPT 1-(AP)-HUNDREDS OF RAF HEAVY BOMBERS TORE THROUGH A POWERFUL GERMAN FIGHTER SCREEN LAST NIGHT TO ROCK BERLIN WITH A 45-MINUTE DELUGE OF BLOCK-LEVELING EXPLOSIVES THAT AGAIN GUTTED SECTIONS OF THE AXIS MILITARY HEART AND LEFT FLAMES VISIBLE 70 MILES AWAY.

SEP 2 1943

THE BRITISH AIR MINISTRY INDICATED THAT THIS SECOND CONCENTRATED ASSAULT IN EIGHT DAYS EQUALLED THE 1,800-TON AUG. 23 BLOW WHICH WIPED OUT ENTIRE DISTRICTS IN WESTERN AND SOUTHERN BERLIN, PARALYZED UTILITY SERVICES, AND SPED THE EVACUATION OF THOUSANDS HAUNTED BY THE SPECTER OF THE BLACKENED SKELETON OF HAMBURG.

FORTY-SEVEN BOMBERS, EIGHT OF THEM CANADIAN, AND ONE FIGHTER WERE LOST IN THE LATEST BERLIN ATTACK AND IN AUXILIARY NIGHT ASSAULTS ON AIRFIELDS AND OTHER TARGETS IN FRANCE AND THE LOW COUNTRIES.

TODAY, AT THE BEGINNING OF THE FIFTH YEAR OF WAR, LARGE FORMATIONS OF ALLIED PLANES STILL ROARED ACROSS THE DOVER STRAITS TOWARD FRANCE, WHILE GERMAN HEAVY ARTILLERY IN THE BOULOGNE AREA HURLED SHELLS ACROSS THE CHANNEL.

THE BRITISH AIR MINISTRY SAID "GREAT DAMAGE" WAS INFLICTED ON BERLIN, ALTHOUGH CLOUDS AND GREAT FIRES SET BY THE BRITISH AND CANADIAN AIRMEN PREVENTED ASSESSMENT OF THE FULL RESULTS. BERLIN, HOWEVER, ACKNOWLEDGED "CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE."

A TWO-HOUR PARADE OF RAF PLANES ACROSS THE BRITISH COAST LINE PRECEDED THE SATURATION ATTACK ON HITLER'S CAPITAL, WHERE THE WORD WAS GIVEN FOUR YEARS AGO FOR THE INVASION OF POLAND. THE FIRST PLANES OVER THE CAPITAL OPENED THEIR BOMB BAYS AT 11:30 P.M., AND THE CASCADE CONTINUED INTO THE MORNING OF ANOTHER YEAR OF WAR.

THE GERMANS SPRANG A NEW DEFENSE TACTIC, THE AIR MINISTRY SAID. BUT THIS BACK-FIRED, AND POSSIBLY ACCOUNTED FOR LESS RAF LOSSES THAN THE 58-PLANE CASUALTY SUFFERED IN THE AUG. 23 YARD.

30.24 - 7953

INSTEAD OF RELYING WHOLLY ON HUNDREDS OF AXIS SEARCHLIGHTS, SWARMS OF GERMAN NIGHT FIGHTERS--A BERLIN BROADCAST SAID THERE WERE TWICE AS MANY OF THEM ALOFT AS RAF RAIDERS--DROPPED FLARES FROM A GREAT HEIGHT.

SEP 2 1943

THESE WERE INTENDED TO SILHOUETTE THE RAF PLANES AND MAKE THEM EASIER TO PICK OFF. BUT RETURNING CREWMEN SAID THAT THESE BRILLIANT SLOW-BURNING AERIAL TORCHES NOT ONLY OUTLINED THE GERMAN FIGHTERS, BUT ALSO LEFT A WELL-MARKED LANE STRAIGHT TO THE CAPITAL. "SEVERAL" GERMAN FIGHTERS WERE DESTROYED, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID.

THE GERMANS AGAIN WITHHELD MOST OF THEIR GROUND FIRE TO ALLOW GERMAN FIGHTERS GREATER SWAY IN ATTACKING THE RAF FORMATIONS UNDER THE CONVERGING CONES OF HUNDREDS OF POWERFUL SEARCHLIGHTS. BUT CLOUDS REDUCED THE EFFECTIVENESS OF THIS DEFENSE.

A BERLIN DNB BROADCAST RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS DECLARED THAT ONLY HALF OF THE RAF RAIDERS REACHED THE CAPITAL, AND A COMMUNIQUE SAID THAT ALL THE 47 BRITISH PLANES SHOT DOWN WERE LOST IN THE BERLIN ATTACK.

NEUTRAL DISPATCHES TO STOCKHOLM SAID THE GERMAN FIGHTERS WERE PATROLLING THE SKIES OVER BERLIN FOR 30 MINUTES BEFORE THE FIRST WAVE OF BRITISH PATHFINDER PLANES STARTED DROPPING THEIR INCENDIARIES.

CENSORSHIP PREVENTED THE SWEDISH CORRESPONDENTS FROM GIVING DETAILS OF THE NEW DAMAGE TO THE CAPITAL WHERE SOME GOVERNMENT OFFICES ALREADY HAVE BEEN EVACUATED AS WELL AS THE LEGATIONS OF OTHER COUNTRIES. MANY BERLINERS, EXPECTING THE RAID, WERE REPORTED TO HAVE STOOD BY THE DOORS OF AIR RAID SHELTERS INTO WHICH THEY JUMPED AT THE FIRST SIREN WAIL.

G407PEW

30.24-7953

London, Sept. 1-(AP)-London newspapers today found grounds for solid encouragement in Prime Minister Churchill's speech at Quebec yesterday, although its lack of sensations was generally disappointing to the British public.

The Daily Mail said a three-power conference, advocated by the Moscow press as well as churchill, "may be held before long."

SEP 2 1943

The Times said a preliminary step would be "a conference of foreign ministers," as proposed by Churchill and foreshadowed by here talks among Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky and U.S. Ambassador John G. Winant.

Foreseeing the "danger of our winning the war in the field befor we have settled the broad foundations upon which Europe's future must be built," the liberal News Chronicle advocated a "prompt wholehearted and practical expression" of Churchill's desire for a tripartite conference.

"A greater stride must be made -- and urgently" toward a "smoothly working partnership," said the Daily Herald, organ of the labor party, which ob[illegible] observed:

SEP 2 1943

"That the allies do NOT see eye-to-eye on strategy was frankly acknowledged by Mr. Churchill."

The privincial Sussex Daily News found the speech "platitudinous x x x defensive and rather apologetic." #

LONDON, SEPT 1-(AP)-THE DNB GERMAN NEWS AGENCY IN A DISPATCH BROADCAST BY TME BERLIN RADIO AND RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS TODAY ANNOUNCED GERMAN SUBMARINE SINKING CLAIMS FOR AUGUST WHICH WERE THE LOWEST FOR AT LEAST NINE MONTHS.

THE AGENCY SAID U-BOATS SANK 23 MERCHANT SHIPS TOTALLING 142,500 TONS AND FOUR SAILING SHIPS IN AUGUST. IN MAY WHEN THE GXS UMOOVONTGLY

TONS.

THE GERMAN INTERNATIONAL INFORMATION BUREAU IN ANOTHER BROADCAST SET TOTAL SUBMARINE SINKINGS BY THE GERMANS DURING THE FOURTH YEAR OF THE WAR AT 6,054,800 TONS.

THE BUREAU CLAIMED 18,428,800 TONS OF MERCHANT SHIPPING AND WARSHIPS HWD BEEN SUNK DURING THE FOUR YEARS OF THE WAR AND ADDED THAT NAVAL AND AIR FORCES OF THE AXIS POWERS HAD SUN "GOUGHLY" O 33.400,000 TONS.

THE BUREAU ALSO SAID GERMAN SUBMARINES HAD SUNK 55 PER CENT OF THE TOTAL, "£3:£ .3-,' 5£-5 5£36 -)9,3 £-;3 '7, MORE THAN GECMAN SURFACE CGAFT AND OHE GERMAN AIV FOGCE AS WELL AS THE JAPANESE AND ITALIAN AIR AND NAVAL FORCES VUT TOGETHER."

SEP 2 1943 G1148AEW

LONDON, SEPT. 1-(AP)-CHAIRMAN NORMAN H. DAVIS OF THE AMERICAN RED CROSS, WHOSE NAME HAS BEEN LINKED WITH POSSIBLE ARRANGEMENTS FOR A THREE-POWER CONFERENCE, SAID TODAY HE "HASN'T BEEN INVITED" AND THAT, ANYWAY, HE IS DEVOTING HIS FULL TIME TO THE RED CROSS DURING HIS PRESENT TRAVELS.

"I'M CONCERNED EXCLUSIVELY WITH THE RED CROSS," HE SAID AT A PRESS CONFERENCE. "I'VE GOT LOTS OF FRIENDS TO SEE HERE. I HAVEN'T TIME NOR THE INCLINATION TO CONFER WITH MAISKY, FORMER SOVIET AMBASSADOR TO GREAT BRITAIN) AND (BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY ANTHONY) EDEN."

FROM BRITAIN, DAVIS PLANS TO GO TO NORTH AFRICA AND SICILY BUT THE DATE OF HIS DEPARTURE HAS NOT BEEN SET.

HE DISCLOSED THAT AT THE REQUEST OF THE U.S. ARMY, THE RED CROSS IS TAKING OVER THE OPERATION OF THE EXPANDING PROGRAM OF REST HOMES FOR AMERICAN AIRMEN, WITH THE MILITARY RETAINING CONTROL OVER DISCIPLINE.

FD952AEW

LONDON, SEPT.1-(AP)-HENRY FRANDSEN, 33, DANISH FISHING BOAT CAPTAIN, SAVED NINE AMERICAN FLIERS FORCED DOWN AT SEA RECENTLY AND BY HIS ACT OF MERCY HE ESCAPED THE GERMANS, WHO ESTABLISHED A MILITARY DICTATORSHIP IN HIS HOMELAND SUNDAY.

FRANDSEN SIGHTED A DINGHY BEARING THE SURVIVORS OF THE CREW OF A FLYING FORTRESS ABOUT A 100 MILES WEST OF HELGOLAND. HE TOOK THEM

30.24-7955

30.24-7955

ABOARD AND, INSTEAD OF RETURNING HOME, HEADED FOR ENGLAND.

THE AMERICAN FLIERS HAD BEEN INJURED WHEN THE FORTRESS CRASHED AND BURNED AFTER BEING HIT BY ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE OVER HELGOLAND. FRANDSEN SAID THE BRITISH WHISHED THEM AWAY SO FAST HE NEVER LEARNED THEIR NAMES.

"ALL I KNOW IS THE PILOT WAS A COWBOY FROM TEXAS AND THE NAVIGATOR A GARDENER FROM BROOKLYN," HE SAID IN BROKEN ENGLISH.

"THEY GAVE ME AND THE THREE MEMBERS OF MY CREW AMERICAN CIGARETTES, WATCHES AND OTHER THINGS, BUT I DIDN'T GET THEIR NAMES. HOWEVER, I AM HAPPY TO HAVE SAVED THEM. IF I HADN'T A GERMAN PATROL BOAT MIGHT HAVE FOUND THEM. AND IT TURNS OUT I AM NOW SAFE IN ENGLAND."

SEP 2 1943

HOWEVER, FRANDSEN IS WORRIED OVER THE FATE OF HIS WIFE, A DAUGHTER, 5, AND A THREE-YEAR-OLD SON HE LEFT IN DENMARK.

HJ1122PEW

BY A.I.GOLDBERG

LONDON, SEPT. 1-(AP)-RENE MAYER, COMMISSIONER OF COMMUNICATIONS AND MERCHANT MARINE OF THE FRENCH COMMITTEE OF NATIONAL LIBERATION, SAID TONIGHT THAT UNITED FRANCE STILL HAD 1,000,000 TONS OF MERCHANT SHIPPING SERVING THE ALLIED WAR EFFORT.

MAYER, AT A PRESS CONFERENCE, HINTED THAT NEGOTIATIONS WERE IMPENDING AIMED AT RESTORING TO THE FRENCH FLAG THE U.S.S. LAFAYETTE, THE FORMER LINER NORMANDIE WHICH WAS GUTTED BY FIRE AND CAPSIZED IN NEW YORK AND IS NOW BEING RIGHTED.

"I CAN'T SAY MUCH ON THAT QUESTION NOW," MAYER DECLARED, HOWEVER.

HE SAID THAT THE BRITISH AND AMERICANS, WHO USED A GREAT AMOUNT OF FRENCH TONNAGE IN THE NORTH AFRICAN EXPEDITION, WOULD BE ASKED TO HELP REBUILD THE FRENCH MERCHANT MARINE. HE SAID THAT "DICKERING" ON A BROAD SCALE ALREADY HAD BEGUN.

MAYER SAID NO DECISION HAD BEEN REACHED BY THE COMMITTEE AS TO WHETHER THE CROSS OF LORRAINE OR ANOTHER FRENCH FLAG MIGHT FLY OVER THE MERCHANT MARINE. THE LORRAINE CROSS WAS GEN. CHARLES DE GAULLE'S FIGHTING FRENCH SYMBOL.

SEP 2 1943

OTHER PERTINENT REMARKS BY MAYER, A PROMINENT RAILWAY EXECUTIVE IN FRANCE BEFORE THE COUNTRY FELL WHO WAS BARRED FROM ACTIVITY BY ANTI-JEW DECREES AND ESCAPED TO NORTH AFRICA LAST JANUARY:

FRANCE STARTED IN THE WAR WITH 3,000,000 SHIPPING TONS. LOSSES AT SEA AND SEIZURES CUT THE TONNAGE BY TWO-THIRDS. ALTHOUGH FRENCH SHIPYARDS NOW ARE PRIME ALLIED AERIAL TARGETS, THE FRENCH PEOPLE REALIZE SUCH ATTACKS ARE ESSENTIAL.

THE ATTACKS PROMISE AN ADDED POST-WAR BURDEN WHEN THE FRENCH FLEET WILL HAVE TO BE REBUILT AND THE COUNTRY WILL HAVE TO FURNISH CARRIERS FOR FOOD AND OTHER RELIEF SUPPLIES TO FRANCE--AS DECIDED AT THE HOT SPRINGS CONFERENCE. HERE, BRITISH AND AMERICAN SHIPYARDS HAVE A MORAL OBLIGATION TO AID.

BECAUSE OF THE NATION'S COASTLINE, NUMEROUS SAILORS AND COLONIAL POSSESSIONS, FRANCE MUST BE A MERCHANT MARINE POWER. THE FLEET ALREADY IS ACTIVE IN FRENCH INTER-COLONIAL TRANSPORT WORK.

AN ADVISORY COMMITTEE IS WORKING IN ALGIERS TO SET UP WAGE SCALES AND WORKING CONDITIONS THAT WILL BE ATTRACTIVE TO FRENCH SAILORS.

MAYER PRAISED THE WORK OF U.S. ARMY ENGINEERS AND OTHER FORCES IN BUILDING UP RAILROADS IN NORTH AFRICA.

HJ1103PEW

ADD STOCKHOLM - DANISH xxx "GOVERNMENT"

REFUGEES ALSO REPORTED THAT PRINCE KNUD, THE YOUNGEST SON OF KING CHRISTIAN, AND PRINCE AXEL, COUSIN OF THE MONARCH, HAVE BEEN INTERNED WITH A NUMBER OF DANISH OFFICERS IN THE HOTEL D'ANGLETERRE IN COPENHAGEN. DANISH SOLDIERS AND NON-COMMISSIONED OFFICERS WERE SAID TO HAVE BEEN DEMOBILIZED AND SENT HOME.

SEP 2 1943

AMONG THE PROMINENT PERSONS ARRESTED WERE K.A.J.MUNK, NOTED POET AND PRIEST; FREDERICK SCHYBERG, AN OUTSTANDING LITERARY CRITIC, AND ELSE SKOUBOE, DENMARK'S LEADING ACTRESS.

AT LEAST 2,000 PERSONS WERE KILLED IN SUNDAY'S BRIEF BUT FURIOUS CLASHES BETWEEN THE DANES AND GERMANS, REFUGEES ESTIMATED, AND SAID THE TOTAL WOULD PROBABLY BE MUCH MORE AS A RESULT OF VON (CQ) HANNECKEN'S ORDERS TO SHOOT INTO GROUPS OF FIVE OR MORE CONGREGATING ON STREETS OR PUBLIC PLACES.

(A REUTERS DISPATCH QUOTED THE STOCKHOLM NEWSPAPER SVENSKA DAGBLADET AS SAYING IT HAD LEARNED THAT SERIOUS DISTURBANCES BROKE OUT IN COPENHAGEN TUESDAY NIGHT AND THAT THE GERMANS WERE BRINGING ARTILLERY INTO POSITION IN THE CITY'S STREETS. NO FURTHER DETAILS WERE AVAILABLE.)

GERMAN TROOPS WERE REPORTED GUARDING KEY RAILWAY DEPOTS AND ALL MOTOR TRAFFIC WAS BANNED EXCEPT FOR MILITARY PURPOSES AND BY PHYSICIANS.

SOME REFUGEES SAID THAT COPENHAGEN GAVE EVERY APPEARANCE OF BEING A BESIEGED CITY. GERMAN SOLDIERS COULD BE SEEN AT NEARLY EVERY STREET CORNER AND MOBILE GUNS HAD BEEN WHEELED INTO POSITION IN THE CITY'S MOST IMPORTANT SQUARES AND INTERSECTIONS.

THE FOOD SITUATION SUDDENLY BECAME CRITICAL MONDAY WHEN THE BREAKDOWN IN TRANSPORTATION PREVENTED SUPPLIES FROM REACHING THE CITIES. IN COPENHAGEN CITIZENS SEARCHED IN VAIN FOR BREAD.

A WAVE OF PASSIVE RESISTANCE BEGAN TO SLOW DOWN ALL PRODUCTION. WORKMEN IN THE PRINCIPAL INDUSTRIES LED IN THE MOVEMENT AND ONE ENGINEER WHO REACHED SWEDEN SAID THAT ON MONDAY INDUSTRIAL PLANTS IN COPENHAGEN USED ONLY ONE-THIRD OF THE AMOUNT OF ELECTRICAL POWER CONSUMED ON THE PREVIOUS MONDAY AS THE MACHINERY REMAINED PARTIALLY IDLE.

SEP 2 1943

THREE ARMY OFFICERS WHO ELUDED NAZI PATROLS AND SPENT SEVEN DANGEROUS HOURS CROSSING THE NARROW THREE-MILE WATER PASSAGE TO SWEDEN IN A ROWBOAT BROUGHT ADDITIONAL DETAILS OF INCREASING TENSION THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY.

ONE REFUGEE SAID THAT IN ONE SECTION OF COPENHAGEN ALONE ON SUNDAY GERMAN SOLDIERS KILLED 17 DANES AND WOUNDED NEARLY 100 OTHERS. ONE NAZI GUARDSMAN OPENED FIRE ON THREE SMALL BOYS WHO THREW ROCKS AT HIM, HE SAID.

MADRID, SEPT. 1-(AP)-DESPITE ITALIAN MILITARY CENSORSHIP WHICH HAS LEFT SIGNIFICANT BLANKS CONCERNING ROME AND MILAN, A LITTLE NEWS HAS DRIBBLED OUT OF ITALY MIRRORING EFFORTS OF PREMIER MARSHAL PIETRO BADOGLIO TO KEEP THE NATION IN ORDER WHILE CONTINUING IN THE WAR.

ONE DISPATCH IN ITALIAN NEWSPAPERS WHICH ARRIVED HERE TODAY TOLD OF SIX ROMANS BEING SENTENCED BY A MILITARY COURT TO PRISON TERMS--FOUR OF THEM FOR "ATTACKING PUBLIC OFFICIALS" AND THE OTHERS FOR COMMITTING ROBBERIES DURING BLACKOUTS.

ONE MAN WAS REPORTED ARRESTED IN A TOWN NEAR BOLOGNA FOR ADDRESSING AN UNAUTHORIZED MASS MEETING "AGAINST THE KING EMPEROR" AND THE AUTHORITIES. SIMILAR ARRESTS IN OTHER TOWNS WERE RECORDED ALSO.

THE NEWSPAPER LA STAMPA REPORTED AUG. 30 THAT 75 OF BENITO MUSSO-

30.24- 7957

LINI'S POLITICAL PRISONERS WHO HAD BEEN HELD IN CONCENTRATION CAMPS AND JAILS IN THE GENOA REGION WERE RELEASED AUG. 27. AMONG THEM WERE LISTED PROFESSORS, EDITORS, LAWYERS AND POLITICIANS.

MINOR FASCIST LEADERS ARE BEING ARRESTED DAILY FOR SUCH OFFENSES AS GRAFT IN OFFICE, ACCORDING TO THE REPORTS.

(A SWISS TELEGRAPHIC AGENCY DISPATCH RECEIVED IN BERN SAID IT WAS ANNOUNCED IN MILAN THAT RAFFALLO RICCARDI, MUSSOLINI'S UNDER-SECRETARY OF AIR, AND ALBANIAN AMBASSADOR FRANCO JACOMINI HAD BEEN ARRESTED.)

SEP 2 1943

UX1146PEW

ADD ALLIED H.Q. AFRICA (KENNEDY) xxx TEN

OTHERS CREDITED WITH SHOOTING DOWN ONE ENEMY PLANE EACH YESTERDAY WERE:

SGT. EDWARD C.DAVIS, FRAMINGHAM, MASS., MESSERSCHMITT.

STAFF SGT. GEORGE R. BURG, 34 N. 11TH ST., MINNEAPOLIS, MESSERSCHMITT.

SGT. JAMES C.BOSWELL, NEWBERN, TENN., MESSERSCHMITT.

STAFF SGT. PETER P.SKRIPKA, 3604 PARK AVE., WEEHAWKEN, N.J., MESSERSCHMITT.

SGT. ROBERT N.CARLINO, STAMFORD, CONN., AN UNIDENTIFIED TRANSPORT.

EN1042AEW

ALLIED H-Q AFRICA (JORGAARD) xxx "PESCARA"

AT THE SAME TIME AMERICAN LIBERATORS FROM THE MIDDLE EAST POUNDED ENEMY RAIL INSTALLATIONS AT PESCARA ON THE EASTERN COAST OF ITALY. A CAIRO COMMUNIQUE SAID THE FREIGHT YARDS "WERE WELL COVERED BY BOMBS WITH RESULTING FIRES AND EXPLOSIONS."

THE FOUR-ENGINED BOMBERS SCORED DIRECT HITS ON THE RAILWAY STATION AND A RAILROAD BRIDGE AND SHOT DOWN TEN ENEMY FIGHTERS WHICH ATTEMPTED TO INTERCEPT THEM.

TWO BRITISH BATTLESHIPS JOINED IN THE DAYLIGHT OFFENSIVE

3024-7957

AGAINST THE ITALIAN MAINLAND. THEIR 16-INCH GUNS POURED A HEAVY BOMBARDMENT INTO ENEMY COASTAL BATTERIES IN THE AREA OF REGGIO CALABRIA ON THE ITALIAN TOE, KNOCKING OUT AT LEAST ONE GUN AND CAUSING FIRES. APPARENTLY FROM EXPLODING AMMUNITIOM.

THE SAME BATTLESHIPS, WITH A CRUISER AND SEVERAL DESTROYERS, ENGAGED BATTERIES IN TME AREA OF CAPE PELLARO, ALSO ON THE STRAIT OF MESSINA. SEP 2 1943

THE SHIPS ENGAGED IN TMESE BOMBARDMENTS WERE THE BATTLESHIPS NELSON AND RODNEY, THE CRUISER ORION AND THE DESTROYERS QUILLIAN, QUAIL, QUEENBOROUGH, TROUBRIDGE, TYRIAN, OFFA, PETARD AND TARTAR AS WELL AS THE PIORUN OF THE POLISH NAVY. ENEMY OPPOSITION WAS INEFFECTIVE.

(AN ITALIAN COMMUNIQUE, BROADCAST BY THE ROME RADIO AND RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, SAID ALLIED PLANES RAIDED PISA, PESCARA, SALERNO, COSENZA AND CATANZARO, CAUSING CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE AND NUMEROUS CASUALTIES. THE BULLETIN SAID FOUR ALLIED PLANES WERE SHOT DOWN BY ITALIAN AND GERMAN FIGHTERS AND THAT OTHERS WERE DESTROYED BY ANTI-AIRCRAFT BATTERIES.)

THE ATTACK ON THE RAIL YARDS AT SALERNO, ABOUT 30 MILES BELOW NAPLES, WAS MADE LAST NIGHT FOLLOWING DAYLIGHT RAIDS ON COSENZA AT CATANZARO, AN ALLIED COMMUNIQUE DISCLOSED.

OTHER WEST COAST RAIL TARGETS ~~NEAR THE ISLAND OF~~ CAPRI AND AT CETRARO, ABOUT MIDWAY BETWEEN SALERNO AND REGGIO CALABRIA, WERE ATTACKED IN DAYLIGHT BY FIGHTER-BOMBERS.

THE FORMATIONS FROM NORTH AFRICAN BASES DESTROYED SIX ENEMY PLANES AND LOST TWO OF THEIR OWN, THE HEADQUARTERS COMMUNIQUE SAID, WHILE THE CAIRO BULLETIN LISTED ONLY ONE AMERICAN PLANE MISSING FROM THE GROUP WHICH RAIDED PESCARA AND KNOCKED DOWN 10 ENEMY FIGHTERS.

PISA, ALMOST 200 MILES NORTH OF ROME, IS AN IMPORTANT RAIL JUNCTION ERE THE EAST-WEST LINE TO FLORENCE SPLITS OFF FROM THE COAST LINE UNNING BETWEEN GENOA AND ROME.

THE FAMOUS LEANING TOWER, THE CATHEDRAL AND OTHER HISTORIC ONUMENTS AT PISA WERE SPARED BY TME GREAT FORMATIONS OF FORTRESSES HICH WENT FOR THE RAIL YARDS, TRACKS AND OTHER MILITARY OBJECTIVES.

THE RAILWAY RUNNING THROUGH PISA IS ELECTRIFIED AND DAMAGE TO HE ELECTRICAL SYSTEM UNDOUBTEDLY WAS ACHIEVED, PERHAPS HALTING RAFFIC OVER A LARGE SECTION.

SEP 2 1943

THE BOMBS BLEW UP THE YARD TRACKS, AND STRUCK A RAILWAY REPAIR HOP AND A NEARBY GAS WORKS. THE SAN GUISTO AIR FIELD ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF THE CITY AND THE NEARBY PIAGGIO AIRPLANE FACTORY ALSO ECEIVED HEAVY LOADS OF EXPLOSIVES.

TWENTY-FIVE ENEMY PLANES ATTEMPTED TO INTERCEPT THE UNESCORTED ORTRESSES, WHICH SHOT DOWN SIX OF THEM.

ONE OF THE MAIN ATTACKS ON SOUTHERN ITALIAN OBJECTIVES WAS MADE BY BRITISH AND CANADIAN WELLINGTONS IN THE NIGHT BOMBING OF SALERNO, WHERE SEVERAL STICKS OF BOMBS WERE LAID ACROSS THE RAILWAY LINES, CAUSING GREAT FIRES. A GAS WORKS WENT UP IN A HUGE EXPLOSION, FOLLOWED BY A PALL OF SMOKE WHICH COVERED THE WHOLE AREA.

THE ATTACKS ON RAILROADS AND A SEAPLANE BASE AT SAPRI AND ON RAILWAY AND HARBOR INSTALLATIONS AT CETRARO WERE MADE BY AMERICAN A-36 INVADER DIVE BOMBERS.

AMERICAN MITCHELL MEDIUM BOMBERS ESCORTED BY RAF SPITFIRES OF THE DESERT AIR FORCE DROPPED NEARLY 50 TONS OF BOMBS ON THE FREIGHT YARDS AND RAILWAY SHEDS AT COSENZA.

LATER IN THE DAY RAF BALTIMORES AND AMERICAN MITCHELLS ESCORTED BY AMERICAN WARHAW FIGHTERS MADE ANOTHER ATTACK ON RAIL AND ROAD COMMUNICATIONS AT CATANZARO, ALREADY HIT SEVERAL TIMES. THE RAIL LINE RUNNING THROUGH CATANZARO IS THE MAIN SUPPLY ROUTE FOR THE TARANTO NAVAL BASE.

THE BRITISH NAVAL FORCE POUNDING THE MAINLAND COAST ACROSS THE STRAIT OF MESSINA FROM SICILY STEAMED INTO THE STRAIT IN DAYLIGHT AND OPENED A WITHERING FIRE.

TWO-THOUSAND POUND PROJECTILES FROM THE 16-INCH GUNS AND COUNTLESS OTHER SHELLS FROM SMALLER CANNON COVERED THE TARGETS.

ONE OF THE SIX ENEMY FIGHTERS SHOT DOWN BY FORTRESSES ON THE PISA RAID WAS BAGGED BY THE ACE FORTRESS GUNNER OF NORTH AFRICA, SIX-FOOT, SIX-INCH STAFF SGT.BEN-.3, !.WARMER (CORRECT) OF 3405 HAYES ST., SAN FRANCISCO, WHO WAS DECORATED SATURDAY WITH THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS FOR SHOOTING DOWN SEVEN ENEMY PLANES IN A DAY. YESTERDAX'S MESSERSCHMITT BROUGHT WARMERS TOTAL TO 10.

SEP 2 1943 G1036AEW

AN ALLIED AIR BASE IN SICILY, AUG. 31--(DELAYED)--(AP)---IT'S A YOUNG MAN'S WAR, BUT 44-YEAR-OLD SQUADRON LEADER WALTER STERNE OF SOUTH AFRICA HAS SHOWN THERE IS A PLACE FOR IN IT FOR A MIDDLE-AGED MAN WITH THE RIGHT PHYSIQUE AND SPIRIT.

FOR DARING LEADERSHIP OF HIS SQUADRON ON SPECIALIZED RECONNAISSANCE MISSIONS IN THE MEDITERRANEAN AREA, THIS WEALTHY SPORTSMAN WHO IS ONE OF THE OLDEST COMBAT FLIERS IN BRITISH UNIFORM HAS JUST BEEN AWARDED THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE OR ORDER FOR GALLANTRY IN ACTION. THE AWARD WAS APPROVED BY KING GEORGE VI.

STERN IS ONE OF SOUTH AFRICA'S BEST KNOWN RACING FLIERS. HE WON THE FIRST GOVERNOR GENERAL RACE AROUND SOUTH AFRICA IN 1936.

1943

30.24-7959

SIX FEET TALL AND WEIGHING A TRIM 160 POUNDS, HE WAS IN ENGLAND WHEN WAR WAS DECLARED SEPT. 3, 1939, AND HE ENLISTED AT ONCE. HE FLEW IN THE BATTLE OF BRITAIN, THE TUNISIAN CAMPAIGN AND THE ASSAULT ON PANTELLERIA AND IN THE LAST FOUR MONTHS HAS BEEN PARTICULARLY ACTIVE ON RECONNAISSANCE WORK OVER SICILY AND ITALY.

APRS 13 BOYLES 01017 JRT

30.24-7959

BY HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, SEPT 1-(AP)-THE RED ARMY WAS BEARING DOWN HEAVILY UPON THE SOUTHERN SECTOR OF THE GERMAN EASTERN FRONT TODAY, SMASHING TO BITS THE REMNANTS OF THE FORTIFICATIONS WHICH THE NAZI ARMY HAS HELD FOR TWO CONSECUTIVE WINTERS ALONG A 600-MILE FRONT WHICH STRETCHES FROM TAGANROG TO SMOLENSK.

THE ARMY OF GENERAL VASSILLY SOKOLOVSKY ON THE WESTERN FRONT, WHICH WAS HONORED YESTERDAY BY A SALUTE FROM MOSCOW'S GUNS FOR THE VICTORY AT YELNYA, BEGAN THE OFFENSIVE AGAINST THAT VITAL RAILWAY STATION AND HIGHWAY JUNCTION BY CRACKING THE GERMAN DEFENSES ON THE EASTERN BANK OF THE UGRA RIVER SEVERAL DAYS AGO.

THE RUSSIANS REPORTED THAT FIERCE BATTLES ON THE EASTERN BANK OF THE UGRA RIVER CONTINUED FOR TWO DAYS BEFORE TANK FORCES SUCCEEDED IN CROSSING THE RIVER TO PAVE THE WAY FOR RED ARMY INFANTRY DIVISIONS.

SEP 2 1943

THE GERMANS PUT UP TERRIFIC RESISTANCE AND LAUNCHED TANKS, ARTILLERY AND PLANES INTO A COUNTER OFFENSIVE IN AN EFFORT TO KEEP THE RUSSIANS CLOSE TO THE RIVER, BUT FINALLY THE RUSSIAN TANKS BROKE THROUGH THE ENEMY LINES AND CUT THE RAILROAD AND PULLED THE ENEMY INFANTRY INTO THE GAP.

TWO TANK BRIGADES ENTERED THE CITY AUG.30 FROM THE EAST AND NORTHEAST SIMULTANEOUSLY AND BEGAN TO BATTLE FOR THE CITY ITSELF. STREET FIGHTING WAS TAKEN UP BY THE GZHATSK INFANTRY UNDER MAJ. GEN. STUCHENKO. INFANTRY GROUPS QUICKLY PENETRATED TO THE CENTER OF THE CITY AND SPREAD OUT AND COMPLETELY CLEANED IT OUT IN A FEW HOURS.

GEN.CONSTANTINE ROKOSSOVSKY'S CENTRAL ARMY WHICH BROKE INTO THE NORTHERN UKRAINE WAS REPORTED TO HAVE EXTERMINATED OR TAKEN PRISONER THE ENTIRE GERMAN GARRISON OF GLUKHOV.

GERMAN RESERVES WHICH HAD BEEN SENT INTO THE CITY ARRIVED AFTER SOVIET INFANTRY HAD ALREADY OCCUPIED LARGE SECTORS. THE CLEAN-UP WAS MADE BY RUSSIAN INFANTRY MOUNTED ON TANKS WHICH RODE INTO THE CENTER OX THE CITY.

SEP 2 1943

G1046AEW

BY VERN HAUGLAND

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA,AUG.30-(AP)-(DELAYED)-LIBERATOR BOMBERS LOOSED MORE THAN 50 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES ON DAGUA AND BUT (Co; CAP B) AIRSTRIPS, 27 MILES NORTH OF WEWAK, TODAY AND ONE OFFICER ESTIMATED THAT ALL BUT FIVE OF 25 TO 30 GROUNDED AIRCRAFT WERE DESTROYED OR BADLY DAMAGED.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE WAS REPORTED LIGHT AND INACCURATE.

(THE DAY'S COMMUNIQUE FROM GENERAL DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S SOUTHWEST PACIFIC HEADQUARTERS SAID THAT HEAVY BOMBERS WITH STRONG FIGHTER ESCORT ATTACKED ENEMY AIRDROMES AND INSTALLATIONS AT DAGUA, BUT AND TADJI WITH 92 TONS OF 500 AND 1,000 POUND BOMBS. AT DAGUA 20 TO 25 AIRCRAFT, THE MAJORITY OF THEM MEDIUM BOMBERS, WERE DESTROYED ON THE GROUND AND THREE LARGE BLAZES IN REVETMENTS AT BUT (CAPITAL B) INDICATED ADDITIONAL AIRCRAFT WERE DESTROYED. HUGE EXPLOSIONS AND FUEL FIRES WERE VISIBLE FOR 50 MILES.)

THE ENEMY FAILED TO OFFER FIGHTER INTERCEPTION. ALL THE LIBERATORS RETURNED TO THEIR BASE SAFELY.

SEP 2 1943

LT.DONALD DALE, GUYMON,OKLA., BOMBARDIER IN A LIBERATOR PILOTED BY MAJOR HAROLD ROBERTSON, BUFFALO,N.Y., SAW ONE OF HIS BOMBS HIT SQUARELY UPON A GROUNDED MEDIUM BOMBER, HURTLING THE ENTIRE PLANE END OVER END.

2ND LT.RICHARD LOUGHMAN, NEWARK,OHIO, LIBERATOR CO-PILOT, SAID HIS BOMBARDIER, 1ST LT.LOUIS SMITH, BEARDSTOWN,ILL., AND OTHER PLANES IN THEIR FORMATION, "DROPPED TEN GOOD STRINGS OF BOMBS ALONG DAGUA AIRSTRIP."

LOUGHMAN WAS IN A PLANE PILOTED BY 1ST LT.WILLIAM JENNINGS, HOLLYWOOD,CALIF., WITH 2ND LT.BURNELL LEONARD, WOODSTOCK, ILL., NAVIGATOR.

MEANWHILE PHOTOGRAPHS OF SUNDAY'S BOMBING OF BORAM STRIP NEAR WEWAK DISCLOSED THAT ACTION WAS AMAZINGLY GOOD WITH NEARLY ALL EXPLOSIVES LANDING SQUARELY ON THE TARGETS, RIGHT DOWN THE DISPERSAL AREAS, BOTH SIDES OF THE STRIPS, WHERE MANY PLANES WERE PARKED.

ONE OFFICER, LOOKING AT THE PICTURES COMMENTED, "WE DON'T DO THAT WELL EVEN IN PRACTICE UNDER PERFECT CONDITIONS. WITH HEAVY ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE AND OPPOSITION OF 30 ZEROS THEY ENCOUNTERED, ITS AN AMAZING JOB."

....FURTHER CHECKING SUNDAY'S RESULTS, THESE LIBERATOR GUNNERS NOW ARE CREDITED WITH SHOOTING DOWN ONE JAPANESE PLANE EACH:

TECH SGTS.LAURENCE LAUFER, NORSHAM,PA.; MICHAEL ELPHINGSTONE, ST.LOUIS,MO.; STAFF SGTS.ROBERT MOELLER, WALTHILL,NEB.; BENJAMIN BERG, AITKIN, BERG ALSO DAMAGED ONE.

TECH SGT.CHARLES DUBLE, PRESQUE ISLE,ME., WAS CREDITED WITH ONE PROBABLE WHILE TECH SGT.ARCHIE LEAZER, GREENSBORO, N.C., AND SGT.SHELBY GRIFFIN, PENNELL,TEX., DIVIDED A PROBABLE BETWEEN THEM.

SEP 2 1943

SGT.WILLIAM BOYD, CENTRAL CITY,NEB., DAMAGED ONE.

IN SUNDAY'S AIR BATTLE ONE LIBERATOR BOMBER SQUADRON SHOT DOWN 13 ENEMY CRAFT AND PROBABLY DESTROYED SEVEN MORE.

TODAY THE SCORES OF THIS SQUADRON WERE ADJUSTED IN LIGHT OF LATER INFORMATION, ARRIVING AT THE NEW TOTAL, AND APPEARING ON THE REVISED LIST WERE THESE ADDITIONAL INDIVIDUAL EXPLOITS:

STAFF SGTS.DONALD CRANDALL OF BLOOMFIELD,IOWA, AND ROBERT PEERSTORFF OF CELINA,IOWA., DESTROYED TWO PLANES EACH.

STAFF SGTS.ROBERT KREBS OFDES MOINES,IOWAV FRANCIS GRAY OF ALEXANDRIA,VA.; KENNETH HOFUS OF CASSEVILLE,MO.; JOHN L.JONES OF ROCKH MOUNT,N.C.; AND SGT.JAMES JAYNES, NILES ,MICH., ONE EACH.

ONE PROBABLE EACH WAS CREDITED TO GRAY, JAYNES, AND 2ND LT. JAMES WOODALL,JR., JACKSONVILLE,FLA;. ,S 53:S.SGT.ALBERT FUHRE, BRAINERD,MINN.

MOST OF THESE PILOTS WERE NAMED IN EARLIER LISTS, BUT THEIR FULL ACCOMPLISHMENTS HAD NOT THEN BEEN NOTED.

FJ629ACW

30.2K-7961

BY OLEN CLEMENTS

A NEW GUINEA BATTLE ZONE, SEPT.1-(AP)-UNDERSECRETARY OF WAR ROBERT P.PATTERSON PRAISED PAST SURPRISES HANDED THE JAPANESE IN THE PACIFIC BY AMERICAN FORCES AND HINTED STRONGLY THAT NEW ONES ARE IN THE OFFING, IN A STATEMENT ISSUED AUGUST 23 IN NEW GUINEA AND RELEASED HERE TODAY.

SEP 2 1943

TO THE YANKS DOWN UNDER, PATTERSON BROUGHT WORD OF PRIDE IN THEIR ACCOMPLISHMENTS FROM THEIR HOME FOLKS.

"OUR FLIERS ARE IN DAILY CONTACT WITH THE ENEMY," HE SAID. "OUR GROUND TROOPS HAVE GONE OUT TO MEET THE JAPANESE IN THE PACIFIC ISLAND JUNGLES AND THEY HAVE SHOWN THEM THAT THE AMERICANS HAVE PLENTY OF SURPRISE PLAYS TO THROW INTO THE GAME. THERE WILL BE MORE SURPRISES BEFORE LONG.

"UNDER GENERAL DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S INSPIRING LEADERSHIP, THE UNITS OF HIS COMMAND HAVE REACHED A HIGH STATE OF COMBAT EFFICIENCY. I AM IMPRESSED, WHEREVER I GO, WITH THE ALERTNESS AND EAGERNESS OF OFFICERS AND MEN ALIKE TO PRESS HOME THE ATTACK. IT IS A BIG JOB AND YOU ARE DOING WELL.

"ONE THING THAT PLEASED ME PARTICULARLY IN AUSTRALIA WAS THE HIGH REGARD IN WHICH YOU ARE HELD AS INDIVIDUALS, NOT ONLY BY THE MILITARY BUT BY THE CIVILIAN POPULATION.

"YOU AND THE AUSTRALIANS FIGHT SIDE BY SIDE. YOU FIGHT IN A COMMON CAUSE. I SAY AGAIN, EVERY AMERICAN IS PROUD OF WHAT HOU HAVE DONE."

FJ421ACW

ADD AUCKLAND - ROOSEVELT xxx "CONFERENCE"

INFORMALITY WAS THE KEYNOTE OF MRS.ROOSEVELT'S LUNCHEON WITH MRS.PETER FRASER, WIFE OF NEW ZEALAND'S PRIME MINISTER, AT A NAVAL HOSPITAL.

ENTERING THE CHOW LINE WITH ENLISTED MEN, SHE TOOK A METAL TRAY, CUTLERY AND CHINA DISHES AND SELECTED HER MEAL FROM FOOD CONTAINERS. THEN SHE MOVED INTO THE MESS HALL AND SAT DOWN WITH MRS.FRASER ON A WOODEN BENCH BEFORE A TRESTLE TABLE. SERVICE MEN WERE EATING ALL AROUND THEM.

MRS.ROOSEVELT CHATTED THERE WITH MEN FROM UTAH AND TEXAS.

30.24-7961

MARCUS ISLAND

Y CHARLES MCMURTRY

SEP 2 1943

PEARL HARBOR, SEPT.1-(AP)-THE UNITED STATES NAVY TASK FORCE RAID ON JAPAN'S MARCUS ISLAND, WHICH THE NAVY SAID TODAY "IS PRESUMABLY IN PROGRESS," IS THE DEEPEST NAVAL PENETRATION OF THE ENEMY'S DEFENSE PERIMETER SINCE MAJ.GEN.JAMES DOOLITTLE'S SQUADRON BOMBED TOKYO IN A TAKEOFF FROM "SHANGRI-LA" IN APRIL, 1942.

THE QUESTION OF THE VALUE OF THE MARCUS ATTACK AT DAWN AUG.31 (U.S.TIME), SO FAR AS LONG-RANGE WAR PLANNING IS CONCERNED, NATURALLY ARISES. THERE HAS BEEN NO OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

WAS IT A DIVERSIONARY BLOW TO DRAW JAPANESE FORCES OUT OF THE SOLOMONS IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC IN FEAR OF AN ATTACK ON JAPAN ITSELF, OR WAS IT AN OPENING BLOW IN A FULL-SCALE OFFENSIVE IN THE CENTRAL PACIFIC, WHERE THERE HAS BEEN NO ACTION SINCE THE BATTLE OF MMIDWAY IN JUNE, 1942?

IF THE LATTER, THEN JAPAN WELL MAY EXPECT A STRONG CENTRAL PACIFIC OFFENSIVE CONCENTRATED, POSSIBLY, ON THE MARSHALL AND GILBERT ISLANDS OR WAKE ISLAND, AND ALWAYS WITH THE PROBABILITY OF ANOTHER STRIKE AGAINST TOKYO ITSELF.

THE INVASION OF PARAMAUSHIRO, JAPANESE NAVAL BASE ON THE NORTHERN TIP OF THE KURILE ISLANDS AND ALREADY THE TARGET OF THREE U.S.ARMY BOMBING RAIDS FROM THE ALEUTIANS, IS NOT UNLIKELY. BUT THE WEATHER UP THERE IS A GREAT HANDICAP.

ADMIRAL CHESTER W.NIMMITZ, COMMANDER IN CHIEF IN THE PACIFIC, OF COURSE KEEPS MUM ON THIS SUBJECT.

THE MARCUS RAID WAS AN AUDACIOUS STROKE FAR PAST WAKE ISLAND, WHICH IS WELL DEFENDED BY THE JAPANESE WHO CAPTURED IT FROM US SHORTLY AFTER PEARL HARBOR. IT WAS A BLOW NEARLY 1,000 MILES INSIDE THE ENEMY'S DEFENSE PERIMETER.

BUT IT APPEARS TO HAVE LITTLE IMMEDIATE MILITARY VALUE. MARCUS ISLAND IS REPORTED TO BE WITHOUT A HARBOR AND USELESS EXCEPT FOR THE SMALLEST BOATS. THE ISLAND, HOWEVER, UNDOUBTEDLY HAS A FAIRLY STRONG AIR BASE WHICH COULD BE USED BY ENEMY RECONNAISSANCE PLANES OR AS RELAY BASE FOR JAPANESE PLANES EN ROUTE TO WAKE.

THE ATTACK ON MARCUS, HOWEVER, DID PROVE THAT JAPAN STILL CAN BE SURPRISED IN HER OUTLYING BASES. BUT IT IS DOUBTFUL WHETHER ANYBODY TAKES VERY SERIOUSLY THE TOKYO RADIO'S BROADCAST THAT "THE ENEMY COULD HAVE RAIDED THE MAINLAND IF HE WANTED TO."

GENERAL DOOLITTLE'S "SHANGRI-LA" ATTACK, WHICH LATER WAS ANNOUNCED AS MADE FROM THE NAVY CARRIER HORNET ABOUT 800 MILES OFF THE COAST OF JAPAN, UNDOUBTEDLY SERVED THE PURPOSE OF PULLING A PORTION OF THE ENEMY'S NAVAL AIR FORCE TOWARD HONSHU, PRINCIPAL ISLAND OF THE JAPANESE ARCHIPELAGO AND THE LOCATION OF TOKYO, YOKAHAMA AND OTHER BIG CITIES.

THIS CONSTRICTION OF ENEMY AIR POWER TO HIS HOMELAND TO PREVENT ANOTHER AMERICAN AIR ATTACK AND THE ABSENCE OF THE JAPANESE FLEET ANYWHERE IN THE PACIFIC IN STRENGTH SINCE THE BATTLE OF MIDWAY, IS TAKEN AS A STRONG INDICATION THAT A CONSIDERABLE JAPANESE FORCE IS STILL HOVERING AROUND TOKYO.

SEP 2 1943

THE MARCUS RAID IS INTERPRETED IN SOME QUARTERS AS A CHALLENGE TO THE JAPANESE FLEET TO COME OUT AND FIGHT, BUT THE SURPRISE STAB IN WHICH THE U.S.TASK FORCE SLIPPED IN AND BOMBED AND SHELLED THE TINY ISLAND THROWS DOUBT ON THAT SPECULATION.

IF THE MARCUS RAIDING FORCE REMAINS IN THAT AREA THERE IS A CHANCE THAT THE JAPANESE MAY BE LURED OUT FOR A SCRAP. BUT IT APPEARS MORE PROBABLE THAT THE TASK FORCE WILL RETURN TO PORT.

IF THE TASK FORCE WAS SENT PRIMARILY ON A NUISANCE STRIKING MISSION, AS APPEARS LIKELY, IT PROBABLY WAS NOT LARGE ENOUGH FOR A MAJOR NAVAL ENGAGEMENT. HOWEVER, THE UNITED STATES SHIPS HAVE SOUNDLY WHIPPED OVERWHELMINGLY LARGER JAPANESE FORCES IN VIRTUALLY EVERY NAVAL ENGAGEMENT TO DATE.

THE GREATEST DANGER TO UNITED STATES WARSHIPS REMAINING IN THE VICINITY OF MARCUS ISLAND IS THE VULNERABILITY TO ATTACK BY LONG-RANGE, LAND BASED JAPANESE BOMBERS.

THE MARCUS ATTACK MIGHT BE THE OPENING BLOW IN A UNITED STATES PINCERS MOVEMENT AGAINST THE MARSHALL AND GILBERT ISLANDS WITH THE HEAVILY DEFENDED ENEMY BASE AT TRUK ISLAND, ABOUT 600 MILES SOUTHWEST OF MARCUS AND 700 MILES WEST OF THE MARSHALLS AND THE GILBERTS, AS THE MAJOR OBJECTIVE.

SUCH A PINCERS MOVEMENT COULD INVOLVE ADMIRAL NIMITZ' CENTRAL PACIFIC FLEET AND VICE ADMIRAL WILLIAM F.HALSEY'S SOUTH PACIFIC FORCE WHICH SOUNDLY DEFEATED THE JAPANESE IN EVERY ENGAGEMENT IN THE SOLOMONS ISLANDS AREA.

FR/HG/FR940PCW NM

30.24- 7963

30.24-7963

ADD ANDREANOF ISLANDS (BURNS) XXX "CLEAR"

"BETWEEN US AND THE COLD NORTH PACIFIC WAS A BULKHEAD WHICH FORMERLY SEPARATED THE ENGINE ROOMS. LIEUT.GREEN GOT EVERY SCRAP OF WOOD WE HAD TO SHORE UP THAT BULK HEAD. CARPENTER'S MATE HANNON (JAMES PATRICK HANNON OF TRENTON,N.J.) AND SHIPFITTER HARVEY ECHOLS OF OKLAHOMA OR ARKANSAS, HELPED. MEANWHILE, ENSIGN MILTON SMITH OF CLEVELAND WITH A CREW BROKE UP MESS TABLES AND BENCHES AND THE OFFICERS' TABLE AND CHAIRS.

"WHAT WAS LOOSE WE THREW OVERBOARD. MY GUNNERY OFFICER, LIEUT.RAE (LIEUT.,JG.EDWIN RAE OF BOSTON,MASS.) PITCHED OVERBOARD AMMUNITION AND THEIR CONTAINERS. HE SET DEPTH CHARGES ON SAFE AND HEAVED THEM OVERBOARD, TOO.

B46WX

"CARPENTER'S MATE HANNON CUT HIS ARM--OUR ONLY CASUALTY--BUT HE DID NOT NOTICE IT UNTIL DR.QUIN DE MARSH OF SEATTLE, BANDAGED IT. THAT DOCTOR WAS ALL OVER THE SHIP. BESIDES BEING A DAMN GOOD DESTROYER DOCTOR HE WAS A GOOD NAVAL OFFICER.

"THEN THERE WERE A COUPLE OF 'BITTY' KIDS ON BOARD. ONE WAS SUPPOSED TO BE 18 BUT HE LOOKED 14. HIS NAME WAS 'FLOYD MACOMBER FROM THE MIDDLEWEST SOMEWHERE. HE KEPT EMERGENCY CALLS ROLLING ON OUR RADIO, THE GAME LITTLE FELLOW. THE OTHER WAS WALTER GORMAN (OF LOS ANGELES). WE THOUGHT HE WASN'T OLD ENOUGH TO KEEP MAN'S COMPANY BUT HE WAS ALL OVER THE SHIP DOING MORE THAN A MAN'S JOB.

SEP 2 1943

"THE OILER RAMAPO PUT OIL OVER HER SIDE TO QUIET THE WATER.

BY NORMAN BELL

AN ADVANCED ALEUTIAN BASE, SEPT. 1-(AP)-IF THE JAPANESE HAD FOUGHT AT KISKA WITH THE WEAPONS THEY ABANDONED IN HASTY FLIGHT, THEY UNDBUBTEDLY WOULD HAVE KILLED MANY MORE AMERICANS THAN FELL IN THE CONQUEST OF ATTU.

SEP 2 1943

A CHECK OF THE MATERIAL LEFT BEHIND AT KISKA SHOWED THE WILY WARRIORS OF THE RISING SUN GOT AWAY WITH LITTLE MORE THAN THEIR SKINS IN THEIR FIRST NON-BELLIGERENT RETREAT OF THE WAR.

KISKA, FOUND DESERTED WHEN UNITED STATES AND CANADIAN AMPHIBIOUS TROOPS SWARMED ASHORE FROM THEIR LANDING CRAFT AUGUST 15-16, WAS FIVE TIMES AS HEAVILY FORTIFIED AS WAS ATTU, WHICH WAS TAKEN AFTER 20 DAYS OF BLOODY FIGHTING IN MAY.

THE ABANDONED MATERIALS, INCLUDING MACHINE GUNS, HEAVY ARTILLERY, ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS, POWER PLANTS, COMMUNICATION LINES AND RUBBER TIRES, WERE LEFT VIRTUALLY INTACT. THE JAPANESE DIDN'T EVEN DESTROY THEIR AMMUNITION DUMPS.

THEY MAY HAVE BEEN IN TOO MUCH OF A HURRY TO GET AWAY OR THEY MAY HAVE DECIDED AGAINST ANY FIRES OR EXPLOSIONS THAT MIGHT HAVE REVEALED THEIR FLIGHT PLANS.

BOTH THE LARGE GUNS AND THE SMALLER AUTOMATIC WEAPONS WERE CLEAN, OILED AND IN FIRINO CONDITION EXCEPT FOR PARTS WHICH HAD BEEN REMOVED AND HASTILY HIDDEN.

OFFICERS SAID THE BROAD BEACH ON THE NORTH OF KISKA WAS SO HIGHLY ORGANIZED FOR DEFENSE THAT THE AMERICAN FORCE WHICH RUSHED ASHORE THERE UNOPPOSED MIGHT WELL HAVE BEEN REPULSED.

IT WAS ESTIMATED THE JAPANESE HAD AS MANY AS 10,000 MEN ON KISKA

AT ONE TIME AS AGAINST THE 2,000 ON ATTU. MATERIEL WAS IN THE SAME PROPORTION.

IT IS POSSIBLE THAT AFTER THE FALL OF ATTU THE TOKYO WAR LORDS DECIDED THE ALEUTIAN VENTURE WAS TOO COSTLY AND DECIDED TO SNEAK THE KISKA GARRISON AWAY GRADUALLY UNDER COVER OF FOG AND DARKNESS. THE CONDITION OF THE GUNS AND SUPPLIES INDICATED THAT AT LEAST A SKELETON FORCE REMAINED UNTIL PROBABLY WITHIN HALF A DAY OF THE AMERICAN-CANADIAN ASSAULT.

SEP 2 1943

MUCH OF THE SEIZED EQUIPMENT IS BEING PUT TO USE BY THE OCCUPATION FORCE IN BUILDING UP A BASE FROM WHICH TO CARRY THE WAR TO JAPAN. THIS INCLUDES GOOD RUBBER TIRES, SOME OF THE GUNS AND AN AIRFIELD.

THE JAPANESE HEAVY ARTILLERY, UP TO 6-INCH GUNS, WAS SO PLACED THAT IT COULD BE TURNED AGAINST ANY OF THE LANDING BEACHES FROM OBSERVATION POSTS ON RANGER AND ROSE HILLS, AN OFFICER SAID.

IN ADDITION TO THESE GUNS AND ANTI-AIRCRAFT WEAPONS PREVIOUSLY REPORTED CAPTURED, THE CHECK OF ABANDONED WAR MATERIALS INCLUDED:

12 TONS OF SMALL ARMS AND AMMUNITION; ANTI-PERSONNEL AND ANTI-MATERIEL MINES; FOOD; CLOTHING AND MEDICAL SUPPLIES.

THREE MIDGET SUBMARINES, ABANDONED AND DAMAGED BEYOND REPAIR AND TWO MORE SMALL SUBS WRECKED ON A BEACH, THEIR BATTERIES STILL CHARGED; A BIG JUNK PILE OF MORE THAN 50 PLANES; ONE LARGE STEAM POWER PLANT AND NUMEROUS AUXILIARY DIESEL PLANTS AND WATER, LIGHTING AND COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEMS.

THE HOSPITAL IN THE KISKA GULF AREA WAS UNDERGROUND, CONNECTED WITH 2,400 FEET OF TUNNELS AND EQUIPPED WITH AN OPERATING ROOM, LABORATORIES, FOOD AND MEDICAL SUPPLY ROOMS, SHINTO SHRINES AND ITS OWN POWER PLANT.

NEWSPAPERS FROM JAPAN WERE DATED AS LATE AS JUNE 17.

JUNEAU, ALASKA, SEPT. 1-(AP)-SENATORS HARLEY KILGORE (D-WVA) AND HOMER FERGUSON (R-MICH) ARRIVED TODAY TO VISIT MILITARY AND NAVAL ESTABLISHMENTS THROUGHOUT ALASKA AND NORTHERN CANADA.

THE MEN, ACCOMPANIED BY BRIG.GEN.FRANK E.LOWE AND LIEUT.COL. MILES KNOWLES, COMPRISE A SPECIAL SUB-COMMITTEE OF THE TRUMAN INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE. THEY ARE MAKING THE TRIP TO SCRUTINIZE THE NATION'S WAR EXPENDITURES IN THE FAR NORTH.

SEP 2 1943

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, SEPT 1-(AP)-ONLY THREE MEN OUT OF A CREW OF MORE THAN 70 SURVIVED A COLLISION AND SUBSEQUENT FIRE AT SEA THAT TRANSFORMED AN ALLIED FREIGHTER INTO A BLISTERED HULK, ACCORDING TO EVIDENCE GIVEN TONIGHT AT A CORONER'S INQUEST.

TESTIMONY DISCLOSED THAT OF THE COMPLEMENT OF THE SHIP--WHICH WAS TOWED IN HERE AFIRE YESTERDAY FROM A SPOT 300 MILES OFF NOVA SCOTIA--THREE SURVIVORS HAVE BEEN TAKEN TO ST. JOHN'S, NFLD., WHILE 34 ARE KNOWN DEAD AND MORE THAN 30 ARE "MISSING."

THE SHIP LAY BEACHED IN A CORNER OF THIS HARBOR TODAY WITH SMOKE AND FLAME STILL RISING FROM HER CARGO. APPARENTLY, SHE HAD CARRIED AMMUNITION, FOR FROM TIME TO TIME IN THE LAST 24 HOURS A SERIES OF EXPLOSIONS SUCH AS MIGHT COME FROM SMALL ARMS AMMUNITION COULD BE HEARD.

ONLY THREE OF THE BODIES BROUGHT IN ABOARD THE SHIP HAD BEEN IDENTIFIED TONIGHT. THEY WERE THOSE OF PIERRE TRAHAN, JR., ARNOLDVILLE, LA., AND J.L.BAKER AND CHARLES E. HICKS, HOME ADDRESSES UNKNOWN.

IDENTIFICATION WAS MADE BY TAGS ON THE SEAMEN, WHICH WERE SUBMITTED AS EVIDENCE AT THE INQUEST.

M1255AEW

30.24 - 7965

30.24-7965

OTTAWA, AUG 31-(AP)-NAVY MINISTER ANGUS MACDONALD (SMALL D) TODAY ANNOUNCED APPOINTMENT OF REAR ADMIRAL VICTOR G.BRODEUR, 51, AS COMMANDING OFFICER, PACIFIC COAST, AND HIS TEMPORARY REPLACEMENT AS NAVAL MEMBER OF THE CANADIAN JOINT STAFF IN WASHINGTON BY CAPT.V.S. GODFREY, 45, FORMERLY ADMIRAL BRODEUR'S CHIEF OF STAFF.

COMMODORE W.J.A.REECH, 48, FORMER COMMANDING OFFICER PACIFIC COAST IS PROCEEDING ON LEAVE BEFORE TAKING UP A NEW APPOINTMENT, NOT ANNOUNCED.

B721OAEW

REYKJAVIK, ICELAND, SEPT. 1-(AP)-THE ICELANDIC GOVERNMENT TODA ANNOUNCED THAT IT HAS RECOGNIZED THE FRENCH COMMITTEE OF NATIONAL LIBERATION AT ALGIERS AS "THE LAWFUL AUTHORITY TO LOOK AFTER AND PROTECT ALL FRENCH INTERESTS."

NEW YORK, SEPT. 1-(AP)-THE KREMLIN HAS NAMED TEN NEW LIEUTENANT GENERALS AND 30 MAJOR GENERALS A MOSCOW RADIO BROADCAST SAID TONIGHT.

THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT MONITORS, LISTED THE TENPROMOTED FROM MAJOR GENERAL TO LIEUTENANT GENERAL AS D.I.ANDREEV, P.BARANOV, M.I.DRATVIN, F.N.SZELENTSOV, MT.T.POPOV, Z.I.KONDRATYEV, E.G.TROTSENKO, M.D.KUDRYATSEV, A.I.CHEREPANOV AND I.M.LOGINOV.

SEP 2 1943

H.I120SAEW

NEW YORK, SEPT 1-(AP)-THE JAPANESE DOMEI AGENCY IN A DISPATCH BROADCAST BY THE TOKYO RADIO ASSERTED TODAY THAT TWO FORMATIONS OF AMERICAN FIGHTER AND BOMBER PLANES BASED IN CHINA BOMBED AND STRAFED TARGETS IN THE HANOI AREA OF FRENCH INDO-CHINA YESTERDAY.

THE BROADCAST WAS RECORDED BY THE U.S. FOREIGN BROADCAST INTELLIGENCE SERVICE.

THE DOMEI ENGLISH-LANGUAGE DISPATCH SAID THE ATTACK WAS CARRIED OUT IN THE AFTERNOON BY PLANES THAT APPEARED FROM THREE DIRECTIONS "OVER THE NORTHERN FRONTIER."

#

UNDATED EARTHQUAKE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY, ON SEPT 1, 1923, JAPAN WAS ROCKED BY WHAT HAS BEEN DESCRIBED AS THE GREATEST EARTHQUAKE DISASTER OF MODERN TIMES.

SEP 2 1943

TOKYO, YOKOHAMA, NAGOYA AND HUNDREDS OF VILLAGES AND PLEASURE RESORTS WERE DEVASTATED. EARTH TREMORS, FIRE AND SEA-WAVES, BESIDES KILLING 99,331 PERSONS, LEFT 103,733 WOUNDED AND 43,476 MISSING. PROPERTY DAMAGE RAN INTO THE BILLIONS. MORE THAN 1,000 AFTER-SHOCKS WERE RECORDED IN THE FOLLOWING FIVE DAYS.

THE ENTIRE CIVILIZED WORLD CAME TO THE RESCUE OF THE STRICKEN JAPANESE. THE UNITED STATES CONTRIBUTED MILLIONS OF DOLLARS AND IMMENSE QUANTITIES OF FOOD, CLOTHING AND MEDICAL SUPPLIES AS WELL AS SENDING HUNDREDS OF RED CROSS WORKERS AND OTHER PERSONNEL TO AID IN THE CARE OF THE WOUNDED AND TO ASSIST IN THE WORK OF RECONSTRUCTION.

M/N553AEW

UNDATED PARIANI

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

GEN. ALBERTO PARIANI, FORMER REPRESENTATIVE OF KING VITTORIO EMANUELE IN ALBANIA, HAS BEEN NAMED ITALIAN AMBASSADOR TO BERLIN REPLACING DINO ALFIERI, THE ROME RADIO SAID YESTERDAY (WED.) IN A BROADCAST RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

ALFIERI HAD BEEN REPORTED ARRESTED IN ROME AUG. 14. HE WAS SAID THEN TO HAVE GONE TO ROME TO ATTEND THE MEETING OF THE FASCIST GRAND COUNCIL WHICH LED TO THE DOWNFALL OF BENITO MUSSOLINI.

PARIANI WAS BORN IN MILAN IN 1876. HE WAS CHIEF OF THE IT. MILITARY MISSION TO ALBANIA IN 1927 AND WAS NAMED LIEUTENANT GEN. IN 1934, WHEN HE BECAME ASSISTANT CHIEF OF THE ITALIAN GENERAL STAFF.

SEP 2 1943

HE WAS UNDER-SECRETARY OF WAR FROM 1936 TO 1939.

THE ROME RADIO ALSO ANNOUNCED THAT GUIDO ROCCO, 56, HAD BEEN APPOINTED AMBASSADOR TO ANKARA. HE SUCCEEDS RAFFAELE GUARIGLIA, WHO RECENTLY WAS APPOINTED FOREIGN MINISTER IN THE CABINET OF PREMIER BADOGLIO.

ROCCO WAS NAMED MINISTER OF PROPAGANDA IN BADOGLIO'S CABINET AFTER THE FALL OF MUSSOLINI, BUT RECENTLY WAS REPLACED BY CARLO GALLI.

HJ843PEW

THE WAR TODAY

- - -

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

- - -

BRITAIN'S PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL IN HIS SPEECH AT QUEBEC YESTERDAY BROUGHT OUT THAT "IT WOULD NOT HAVE BEEN SUITABLE" FOR RUSSIA TO BE REPRESENTED AT THE RECENT ANGLO-AMERICAN CONFERENCE WHICH "WOULD LARGELY IF NOT MAINLY BE CONCERNED WITH HEATING AND INFLAMING THE WAR AGAINST JAPAN, WITH WHOM THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT HAS A FIVE YEAR TREATY OF NON-AGGRESSION."

THAT GIVES US ONE ANSWER TO THE INTERMINABLE QUERY AS TO WMY RUSSIA DOESN'T MAKE WAR ON JAPAN, OR AT LEAST GRANT BRITAIN AND AMERICA THE USE OF SIBERIAN AIRFIELDS SO THAT WE CAN GET AT THE JAPANESE MAINLAND. IF CYNICS SNIFF AT THIS, THERES A MUCH MORE REALISTIC EXPLANATION OF MOSCOW'S ATTITUDE.

QUITE APART FROM THE NON-AGGRESSION PACT, IT'S UNLIKELY THAT THERE'S ANYONE IN THE ALLIED COUNCILS WHO WOULD DREAM OF ASKING AN ALREADY OVERBURDENED SOVIET TO TAKE ON THE ADDED TASK OF FIGHTING JAPANM MY UNDERSTANDING IS THAT HIGH ALLIED CIRVLES FEEL IO WOULD BE POSITIVELY BRUTAL TO SUGGEST ANY SUCH THING.

MR. CHURCHILL HIMSELF DECLARED THAT NO COUNTRY EVER HAD WITHSTOOD SUCH A DEVASTATING ATTACK AS THAT THROWN AT THE RUSSIANS BY THE HITLERITES. HE SAID HE DIDNT BLAME RUSSIA FOR ANY CRITICISM IT HAD LEVELED AT ITS ALLIES FOR NOT HAVING OPENED A SECOND FRONT ON THE CONTINENT. HE ADDED THAT THE TERRIFIC ALLIED AERIAL ATTACK ON GERMANY WOULDN'T HAVE BEEN POSSIBLE WITHOUT THE MAGNIFICENT STAND OF THE RUSSIANS AGAINST THE GERMANS.

SEP 2 1943

WERE THE SOVIET AT WAR WITH JAPAN, MOSCOW TODAY WOULDN'T BE CELEBRATING ITS THIRD MAJOR VICTORY IN THREE DAYS. THE MAZI MILITARY GIANT FACING THE REDS WOULDN'T BE ROCKIMG ON HIS HOB-NAILED HEELS. THE ALLIES LIKELY WOULD BE VIEWING THE WAR "THROUGH A GLASS, DARKLY."

MOSCOW HAS TOLD US THAT THERE ARE MORE THAN 3,000.000 GERMAN TROOPS, APART FROM SATELLITE FORCES, ON THE EASTERN FRONT. FROM THE START HITLEG MASSED THE BULK OF HIS TERRIFYING STRIKING POWER AGAINST THE REDS IN WHAT PROBABLY HAS BEEN THE BLOODIEST FIGHTING OF ALL TIME.

EVEN IX XOU LOO ON THE MON-AGGRESSION PACT AS A SCRAP OF PAPER, IT WOULD BE SHEEG MILITARY FOLLY FOR STALIN TO OPEM HOSTILITIES AGAINST JAPAN WHILE STILL ENGAGED WITH HITLER. TRUE, RUSSIA IS SUPPOSED TO HAVE BETWEEN 750,000 AND 1,000,000 TROOPS CLOSE TO MANCHUKUO; THE SOVIET IS SAID TO HAVE A STRONG AIR-FORCE IN SIBERIA, AND A LARGE FLEET OF SUBMARINES AT VLADIVOSTOK. THE RUSSIANS COULD HOLD THEIR OWN, BUT THE JAPS ALSO HAVE PERHAPS A MILLION MEN AVAILABLE IN MANCHUKUO AND NORTHERN CHINA AND ARE SET FOC CONTINGENCIES.

BUT, ASKS SOMEBODY, WHY CAN'T RUSSIA LET BRITAIN AND AMERICA USE SIBERIAN AIR BASES FOR ATTACS AGAINST JAPAN? WELL, THE ANSWER IS THAT THIS WOULD BE TANTAMOUNT TO A SOVIET DECLARATIOM OF WAR ON THE JAPS.

3024 - 7967

3024 - 7967

WILL RUSSIA JOIN THE ALLIES AGAINST JAPAN AFTER THE EUROPEAN CONFLICT IS EODED? WE'LL HAVE TO PAGE MARSHAL STALIN FOG THAT ONE. HOWEVER, WE CAN SEE FOR OURSELVES THAT THE NON-AGGRESSION PACT LOOMSH LARGE. THAT HISTORIC DOCUMENT WAS SIGNED APRIL 13, 1941, AND DOESN'T EXPIRE UNTIL 1946. IF NEITHER PARTX DENOUNCES IT ONE YEAR BEFORE EXPIRATION, IT'S AUTOMATICALLY RENEWED.

SEP 2 1943

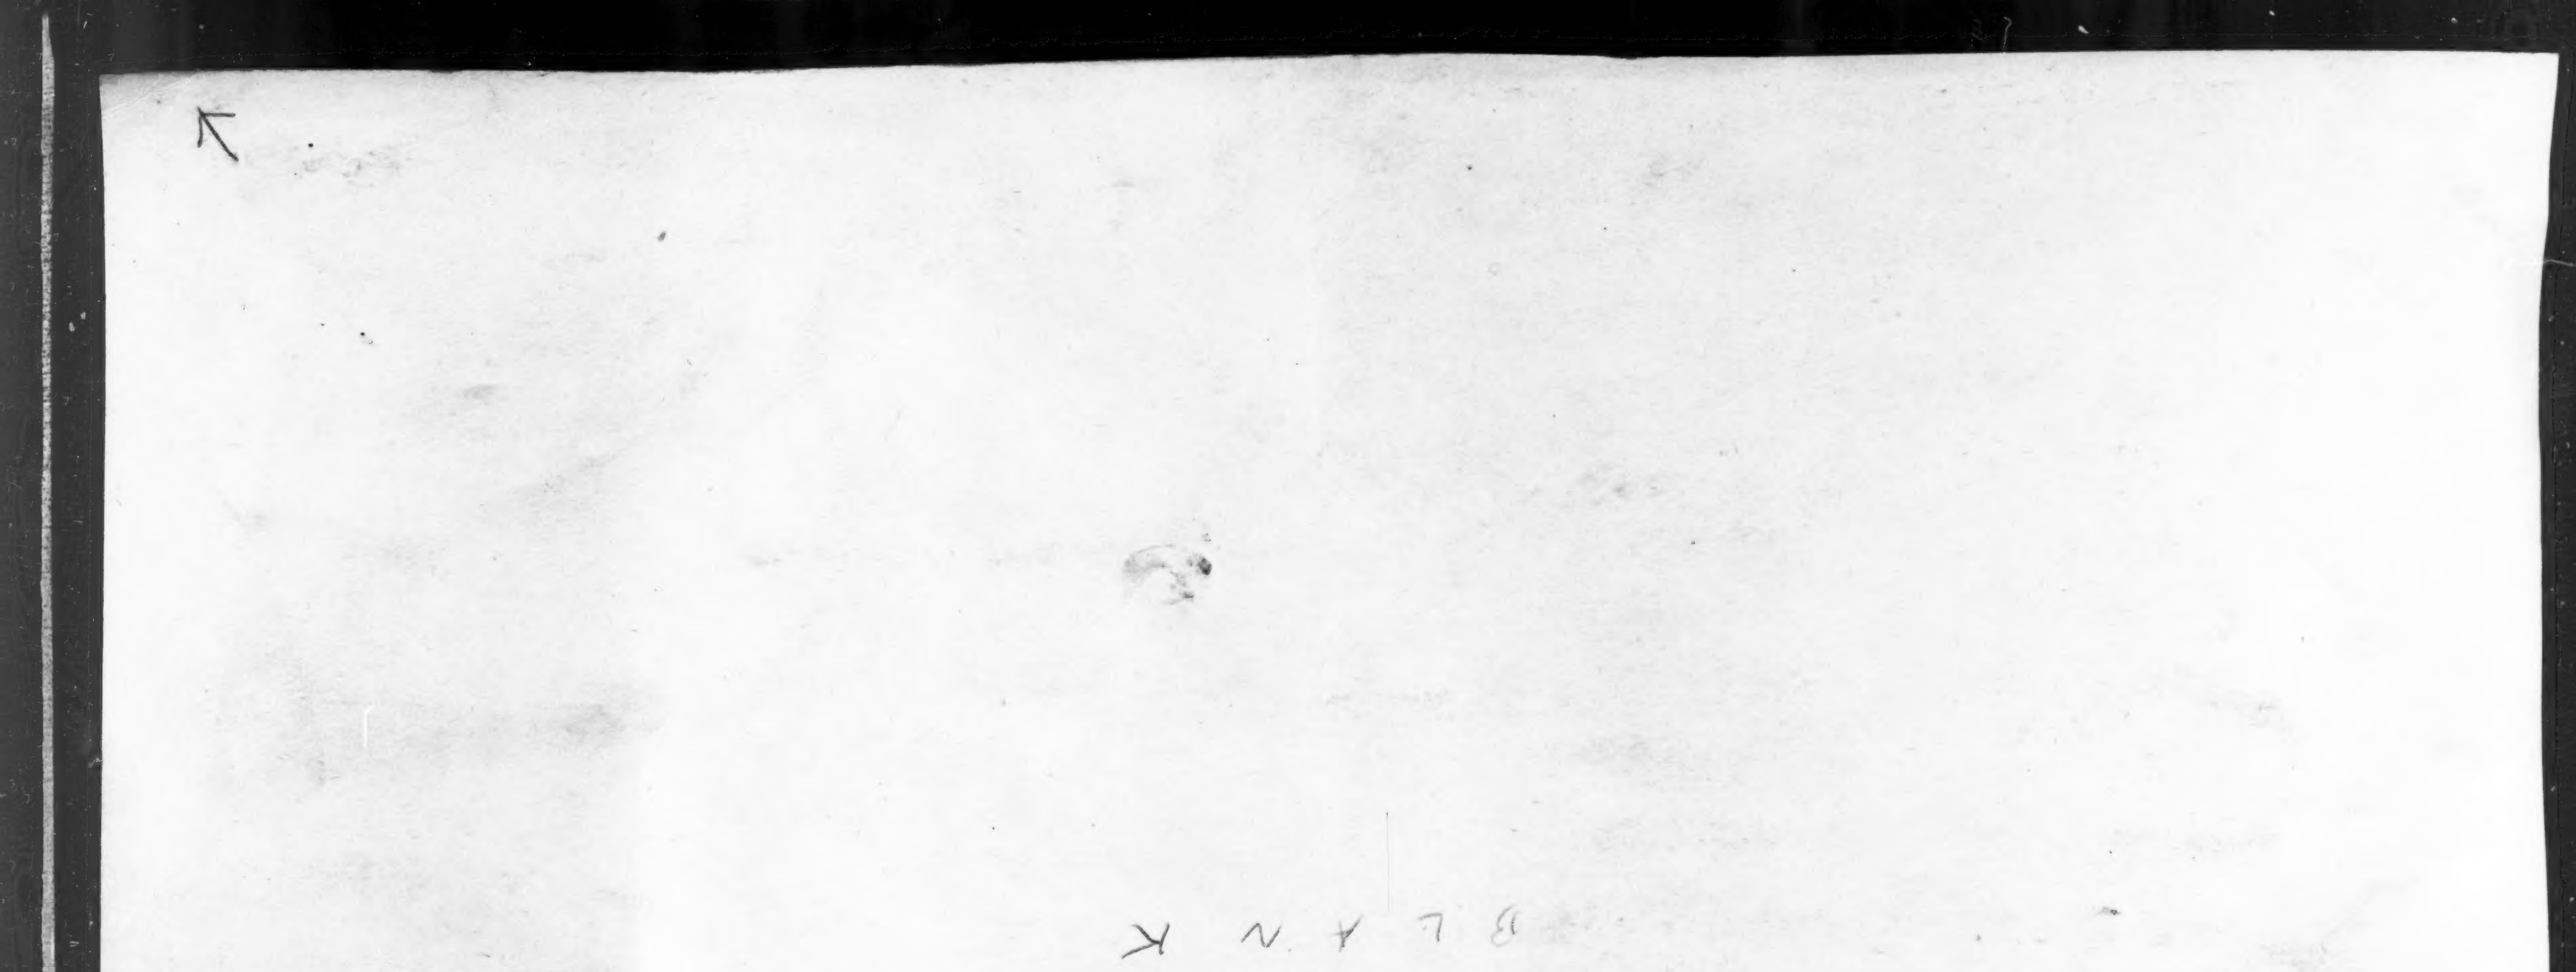
SO UNLESS JAPAN GIVES JUST CAUSE, RUSSIA CAN'T DECLARE WAR WITHOUT BREAKING HER BOND. WHO ASKS HER TO DO THAT? IF YOU WANT THE REDS TO FIGHT AGAINST JAPAN YOUD BETTER PRAY MIGHTY HARD THAT THE JAPS VOMMIT SOME HOSTILE ACT--AND STRANGER THINGS THAN HOSTILE ACTS HAVE HAPPENED.

VIEWING THE MATTER FROM THZ PURELY "PRACTICAL" STANDPOINT, WMAT REASON IS THERE TO EXPECT THAT RUSSIA WILL DO OTMER THAN BE GOVERNED BY HONOR AND PERSONAL INTERESTS AFTER THE WAR WITH GERMANY IS FINISHED? GETTING DOWM TO CASES, DO YOU KNOW ANY NATION THAT'S IN THIS VLOBAL MOLOVAUST PURELX FOR ALTRUISTIC REASONS?

SHOULD CIRCUMSTANCES RELEASE MOSCOW FROM ITS NON-AGGRESSION PACT, WHERE'S NO PRESENT GEASON TO DOUBT THAT THE REDS WOULD AT LEAST THROW OPEN THEIR AIRPORTS TO THE ALLIES. IT SHOULDN'T BE FORGOTTEN THAT JAPAN IS RUSSIA'S MORTAL ENEMY.HTHE PACT NOTWITHSTANDING. STILL, THAT DOESN'T NECESSARILY GUARANTEE THAT RUSSIA WILL GO ALL-OUT IN WAR AGAINST JAPAN.

FD900AEW

BLANK



30.24-7969

30.24-7969

ALLIED TROOPS LAND ON SOUTHERN ITALY, CROSSING STRAIT OF MESSINA FROM SICILY TO OPEN SECOND FRONT DRIVE IN EUROPE

Eisenhower In Command Of Invasion

New Front Is Opened Up on Fourth Anniversary of Britain's War Entry

Canadians Taking Part in Onslaught

Landing Follows Furious Bombardment by Allies From Air and the Sea

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 3 (Friday).—British and Canadian forces under the command of General Dwight D. Eisenhower swept across the Strait of Messina in today's dawning light and landed on the beaches of Italy.

Thus, the Allies had made good their promise to invade the European mainland. The long-awaited and historic assault came on the fourth anniversary of the day that Great Britain declared war on Germany.

The invading forces of the American commander less than three weeks ago brought to a conclusion the victorious Sicilian campaign. It was from footholds won in that thirty-eight-day campaign, from the eastern shore of Sicily, that the mainland invaders sprung. From there, it was only a brief boat ride, twenty minutes or a half hour ride, to the mainland—and possibly another good step toward Berlin.

SEP 2 1943

8th Army in Van

British and Canadian troops of the 8th Army, famed for its fighting in North Africa and Sicily, made up the attacking force. Allied naval units escorted the landing barges. Overhead, American and British airmen swept away the enemy.

[The American 7th Army, which mopped up the greater part of the western half of Sicily, presumably was being held in reserve, for the time being at least.]

The landings were preceded by days of violent aerial bombardment which knocked out Axis railway communications between southern and northern Italy and reduced Axis positions on the toe of the Italian boot to a shambles.

Follows Attack From Sea

British and American warships also had participated in the mighty pre-invasion bombardment on the Italian mainland.

It was the first time Allied troops had set foot on European soil since the Dieppe raid in August, 1942, when allied forces landed on the coast of France but later withdrew.

The new blow was struck about dawn today.

Invasion of the continent came quickly on the heels of the cleanup of the Sicilian campaign, begun at dawn July 10 and brought to a victorious conclusion thirty-eight days later with all Axis troops either killed, routed or prisoners.

A special communique, announcing the mainland landings, said the forces "of General Eisenhower continued their advance. British and Canadian troops of the 8th Army, supported by Allied sea and air power, attacked across the Straits of Messina early today and landed on the mainland of Italy."

By moving across the Straits of Messina from the eastern shore of Sicily, the Allied forces had only a few miles of water to cross. The Straits at the narrowest point at the extreme northeastern corner of Sicily are only a little over two miles wide and can be crossed by fast boat in about 20 minutes.

The announcement of the landing was issued here soon after 7 a. m. (1 a. m., Eastern war time.)

The complete text:

"Allied forces under the command of General Eisenhower have continued their advance. British and Canadian troops of the 8th Army, supported by Allied sea and air power, attacked across the Straits of Messina early today and landed on the mainland of Italy."

It was recalled that Canadian troops had been withdrawn from the Sicilian fighting some days before it ended. At that time, it was generally understood, the Canadians were preparing to help spearhead some new attack.

Fourth Anniversary of War

Significantly, the invasion came on the fourth anniversary of the day Great Britain declared herself at war with Germany.

It was possible this factor was taken into consideration at the recent Allied war conference at Quebec. Final plans undoubtedly were made during that historic meeting, for which Prime Minister Churchill crossed the Atlantic and President Roosevelt journeyed to the historic city of the United States' northern neighbor.

In final preparation for the invasion, Allied bombers pummelled every target sighted yesterday on the virtually paralyzed toe of Italy nearest Sicily.

Bivouac Area Hit

Wednesday night R.A.F. Bostons raided what official reports described as "army targets including a bivouac area" in the region of Reggio di Calabria, where the enemy would be expected to concentrate whatever anti-invasion troops were available.

As American Flying Fortresses and medium bomber squadrons were grounded for the first time in weeks, lighter planes took up the attack and in five separate missions by United States and British planes failed to encounter opposition either in the air or from the ground.

In relays they blasted highways and railroads, halting the trucks and trains that moved civilian and military necessities.

Radio Station Blasted

British Bostons and Baltimores and American B-25 Mitchells, escorted by Spitfires, attacked at Cape Spartivento, Oliveta, La Marina, Gambrie and Bouamrino American A-20 attack bombers smashed an Axis radio station at Cape Spartivento in another raid.

Allied pilots said they sighted only a single Messerschmitt 109 during the continuous forays and it avoided a fight.

R.A.F. Wellingtons also returned to the railway targets of Aversa, north of Naples last night with two-ton blockbusters. American Warhawks attacked a zinc factory at Iglesias in southwest Sardinia and strafed a factory at Gennesa, also without opposition.

news agency DNB asserted in a Berlin broadcast that "it cannot be denied that the Anglo-Saxon have succeeded in assembling a great flotilla consisting of transport and landing craft for their plans in the Mediterranean."

In another broadcast, the Paris station said that a second amphibious force was assembling in Britain and that "the moment is approaching when an Anglo-American invasion armada will cross the channel and disembark its armies on the French coast."

Nazis See Invasion Armadas

BALL

Jittery Axis Radios Tell of Vast Forces in Mediterranean and Britain.

SEP 2 1943

London, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—In a series of nervous broadcasts, Axis radio commentators declared today that the Allies were massing vast invasion armadas both in the Mediterranean and in Britain for a two-directional continental assault which might be sprung at any moment.

Whether based on fact or fancy, or in the hopes of gleaning information on Allied plans, the sudden spurt in the enemy's invasion speculation betrayed his uneasiness over what the immediate future will bring.

The Nazi-controlled Paris radio gave considerable attention to reports from La Linea, Spain, telling of the presence at Gibraltar of two battleships, four aircraft carriers, twenty cruisers, forty-eight destroyers and forty-five merchantmen.

At the same time a military commentator of the German

See Great Clash Coming.

"Two gigantic armies will come to grips in the near future," the broadcast added, "and Frenchmen will witness far more vicious battles than anything experienced in 1940. Allied air attacks on French towns have only been a foretaste of things to come."

Earlier this week, Berlin came out for the first time with an assertion that German troops were being withdrawn from the Russian front to meet the Allied invasion threat in the Mediterranean and western Europe.

This appeared to be more of an attempt to discourage Allied invasion plans, for the best information in London was that instead of reinforcing troops in western Europe the Germans may well have been diverting them from France and the Low Countries to Italy, Denmark and the Balkans.

ALLIES READY FOR INVASION, AXIS WARNS

Great Forces Massed In Mediterranean And England, Radio Says

[By the Associated Press]

London Sept. 2—Axis radios broadcast a series of reports today declaring large Allied invasion forces were massed and ready to strike any time now both in the Mediterranean and against the western wall of Hitler's European fortress.

Whatever the Nazis' reasons for broadcasting these reports, they came at a time when the toe of Italy was battered soft by continued Allied bombing of a pre-invasion nature, when Portugal was undertaking unusual defensive military precautions, and when Scandinavia and the Balkans were seething restively under Nazi bonds.

Churchill's Prediction

They came, too, at a time when leaves are beginning to fall in London, recalling Prime Minister Churchill's prediction to a Guildhall audience last June 30:

"Very probably there will be heavy fighting in the Mediterranean and elsewhere before the leaves of autumn fall."

Since that prediction, Sicily has been conquered and the Allies now stand poised to strike at the Italian mainland a few miles away. The "elsewhere" which Churchill mentioned may well be tormenting the Nazis' minds.

The Nazi-controlled Paris radio gave much attention to Spanish reports of the massing at Gibraltar of two battleships, four aircraft carriers, twenty cruisers, forty-eight destroyers and forty-five merchantmen.

Allied Armada Feared

To this report a German military commentator added:

"It cannot be denied that the Anglo-Saxons have succeeded in assembling a great flotilla, consisting of transport and landing craft for their plans in the Mediterranean.

In another broadcast the Paris station said a second amphibious force was being assembled in Britain, and it was added that "the moment is approaching when an Anglo-Saxon invasion armada will cross the channel and disembark its armies on the French coast."

Big Battles Forecast

"Two gigantic armies will come to grips in the near future," the broadcast went on, "and Frenchmen will witness far more vicious battles than anything experienced in 1940. Allied air attacks on French towns have only been a foretaste of things to come."

The Berlin radio observed in connection with a discussion of the Allied invasion plans: "Nothing can surprise the German high command."

The London press gave its most prominent positions to the Axis accounts of the massing of Allied invasion armadas. Some papers speculated that Italy might be left until spring if the invasion of the big islands of Corsica and Sardinia —between Sicily and France—should come first.

May By-Pass Italy

In this event, the Allied North African armies could by-pass Italy and attack France.

The German radio indicated possible Nazi tension over the Channel situation when a "front reporter" of the German public works TODT organization disclosed over the radio that maneuvers had been held in the Nazi-held Channel islands against an assumed enemy invading from the sea and air simultaneously.

"A ring of pillboxes surrounds the islands," he said. "They are part of a wall which runs for miles and is so well camouflaged that nothing can be detected from either air or sea."

Adding to apparent German jitters was the necessity to shift troops on the vast European checkerboard to meet diverse military possibilities. Swedish correspondents reported military circles in Berlin had announced German withdrawals from the Russian front to meet western invasion threats.

Nazis Spread Thin

The Nazi forces were being spread thin, with political unrest in Denmark and the Balkans and with the Red army offensive in Russia apparently gaining momentum by the hour.

A broadcast by the French radio at Algiers tonight said that German Field Marshal Albert Kesselring, air commander for the Axis in the Italian war theater, had taken over control of all Italian railways and roads.

The French radio said it was assumed that this move was a consequence of the Allies' having asked the Italians to wreck communications to hamper the Germans.

Portugal was disclosed today to have received new arms from Britain and to be planning a series of defensive military measures which Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salzar said, in a communique issued in Lisbon, were necessary because of the war situation.

The communique disclosed that the new war material would be used in large-scale military maneuvers to be held late in September and October.

Invasion Spearhead Is Manned By 500,000 Seasoned Fighters

Planes, Tanks and Ships Supporting British and American Veterans of Victorious Campaigns In North Africa and Sicily

By The Associated Press SEP 3 1943

The invasion spearhead ramming into Southern Italy is forged with planes, tanks, ships and tough, battle-seasoned men half a million to a million strong.

Their invasion springboard is one wrested from the enemy in one of the brilliant victories of the war, climaxed by a triumph in Tunisia that bled the enemy of ground and air strength.

In North Africa at the end of the Tunisian campaign, the Allies had at least 500,000 men—Americans and British—and thousands upon thousands more of Frenchmen rapidly being trained and equipped with the most modern armaments of war.

Among the forces at General Dwight D. Eisenhower's disposal are hardened, battle-tested and victory-confident units: The U. S. Second Army Corps, the British Eighth Army, the British First Army, and the Fighting French.

These were the men who pushed the Axis out of Africa, who met and bested some of the finest German troops and shattered—in all the African warfare—thirty-six divisions of enemy troops.

In reserve during the Tunisia warfare, and now possibly destined to carry much of the weight of the assault after the first toe-holds are won by veteran troops is the American Fifth Army commanded by Lieutenant General Mark W. Clark, hero of the dangerous expedition to North Africa before the allied landings to clear the way.

Activities, strength, and disposition of this Fifth Army have been secrets jealously-kept, but it is known that the army was stationed in Morocco.

Convoy after convoy coming from the United States and England to Africa brought armaments and probably troops to reinforce this army.

In Tunisia the Americans, British and French learned the vital lesson of fighting together in perfect co-ordination. Hundreds and thousands of troops gained battle-front experience. Armored units, airplanes and artillery were used in concert, supply services performed prodigious feats and increased their efficiency.

At the battle's end, the Allies had nearly half a million trained, experienced men, and had accounted for 324,000 Axis troops—30,000 killed, 27,000 wounded and 267,000 captured, all this in Tunisia alone. The prisoners included twenty-seven Axis generals, headed by Colonel General Jurgen von Arnim. The Axis had lost 1,700 planes. Three of Germany's best armored divisions had been destroyed, and so, too, in the long campaigns of Africa, had every Italian armored division that ever existed.

After the clean-up, the Allied troops rested and re-grouped and trained for the assault across the sea.

The United States played a major role in rearming the French, and in May five divisions—two armored and three infantry—already were being armed in addition to a tank battalion, tank destroyer battalion, anti-aircraft battalion, and parachute regiment.

The French were to have an army of at least eleven divisions, men eager for revenge upon the Nazis. On May 26 it was announced that General Henri Giraud's military forces in French Africa had received military supplies valued at $60,000,000 from the United States in April, bringing the total to date to $75,000,000.

The American forces in the thick of the Tunisian battle were the 1st Armored Division, led by Major General Ernest Harmon; the 1st Infantry Division commanded by Major General Terry Allen, the 9th Infantry Division led by Major General Maton S. Eddy, and the 34th Infantry Division, led by Major General Charles W. Ryder. The latter is a National Guard division composed largely of troops from Iowa, Minnesota, North and South Dakota.

At the very close, these forces, grouped into the 2d Corps, were commanded by Lieutenant General Omar N. Bradley, who took over from Lieutenant General George S. Patton Jr., on April 17 when the Americans were shifted from the central sector in Tunisia to the north for the final drive that led them to Bizerte.

General Patton's whereabouts and duties since then were subjects for speculation. Famous as a leader of armored warfare, he is a logical choice to command such units in this invasion.

The Allied troops in the final phase of the Tunisian drive numbered seventeen divisions, commanded by General Sir Harold Alexander, deputy commander in chief in charge of ground forces under General Dwight D. Eisenhower. Besides the four American divisions, the seventeen included three infantry divisions and an armored division of the British 1st Army, and eight divisions of General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's brilliant 8th Army which drove up from the south in Tunisia after chasing Field Marshal Erwin Rommel across Africa.

CLEARED OF GERMANS

Vital Railway Center of Sumy in Ukraine and Lisichansk in Middle Donets Area Are Captured.

SEP 3 1943

London, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—The hard-driving Russian forces, pushing the Germans back all along the far-flung Russian front in one of their most successful weeks of the war, today captured the important Ukrainian town of Sumy and the Middle Donets town of Lisichansk and drove the Nazis out of the entire Kursk region north of Kharkov, Moscow announced tonight.

A special communique, broadcast by the Moscow radio and recorded by the Soviet monitor here, announced the capture of Lisichansk and many other populated points in the Donets Basin. Earlier Premier Joseph Stalin had issued a special order of the day telling of the liberation of Sumy, a vital railway center about 100 miles northwest of Kharkov.

South of Bryansk, the communique said, the Russians captured over 130 populated places in addition to Sumy. The district center of Grushkovo in the Kursk region fell to the advancing Russians.

"Thus the Kursk region is completely freed from German Fascist invaders," the bulletin declared.

Russians Sweep On Powerfully.

The Special Order of the Day was the fourth to be issued by Stalin in four days as the Russians rolled the Germans back along the 600-mile front from the Smolensk-Moscow road to the shores of the Sea of Azov.

Lisichansk, in the Middle Donets region, has been between Isyum and Voroshilovgrad, about thirty-seven miles east of the important rail junction of Slavyansk.

The Donets River point of Slavyanosevsk also fell to the Russians, along with several other towns of that region, indicating that the break-through was at least thirty miles across.

In the Smolensk region the Russians advanced four to six miles and captured over 100 populated places, the communique said. Other Russian forces attacking from the coast of the Sea of Azov captured the town of Budennovka, Moscow reported.

Called Sumy Division.

The capture of Sumy carried the Russians to within 185 miles of Kiev in their westward drive across the northern Ukraine.

The new Order of the Day said that the Russian divisions involved in the fighting for the liberation of Sumy would be called Sumy divisions hereafter "to commemorate the success."

"For the excellent military operations and valor I express my gratitude to all troops which participated in the fighting for the liberation of Sumy," Stalin's order said.

WHOLE KURSK REGION

30.24-7971

30.24-7971

The newest gain in the dead center of the sagging Nazi front widened and deepened the Russian by-pass salient north of Poltava, heightening the flanking hazard to the Germans in the Stalino bulge of the southern Ukraine and strengthening the Russian arc being drawn around Bryansk from the south.

The victory touched off another 124-gun salute in the Soviet capital, where thundering salvos have signaled the quickening cadence of German reverses since August 5, when Orel and Belgorod fell, and on through successive victories at Kharkov, Izyum, Sevsk, Rylsk, Taganrog, Yelnya and Dorogobruzh.

A Russian war bulletin recorded today by the Soviet monitor, giving figures that made Taganrog the greatest single German defeat since Stalingrad, said charging Red Army troops had killed more than 35,000 Germans and captured 5,100 in the final liquidation of enemy forces encircled west of the Sea of Azov port.

Eight Nazi Divisions Routed.

In all eight Nazi divisions totaling 120,000 men were routed and mauled by the smashing Russian attack, the bulletin said.

Keeping up the steady pace of enemy attrition, Moscow reported, Stalin's troops yesterday cut down an additional 6,000 of the foe who got in the way of Russian drives reaching toward Stalino, Poltava, Bryansk and Smolensk, along a 600-mile front.

The Nazi High Command was said in today's Moscow bulletin to have shifted part of the inland German forces to the south in an effort to halt the Russian breakthrough, but the Russians, in a strong charge southwest of Voroshilovgrad, punched out gains of four to six miles toward Stalino and Debaltsevo.

Both cities lie on the rail network feeding the German forces in the central Donets.

SUMY IS CAPTURED IN RUSSIAN SWEEP ALONG WIDE FRONT

Ukraine Citadel Falls in New Soviet Victory 90 Miles North of Kharkov.

AZOV PUSH CONTINUES

Reds Take Towns 20 Miles from Mariupol in Coast Drive.

SEP 3 1943

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 3—(AP) Russia announced early today that five Red armies plunging westward had cut the Bryansk-Kiev railway 150 miles from Kiev, smashed German reinforcements in a six-mile gain on Smolensk, and rolled up Axis lines in a new 45-mile-wide spurt in the Donets basin.

Marshal Stalin's Thursday order of the day said that the Ukraine citadel of Sumy, 90 miles northwest of Kharkov, had fallen to Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's army, and a communique announced the capture of Krolevets and Yampol, two points on the vital Bryansk-Kiev railway linking the enemy's central and southern fronts.

Lisichansk, Voroshilovsk, Slavyanoserbsk, and other cities were seized in the Donets basin, while Budenovka, 20 miles from Mariupol, was taken in the push along the rim of the Sea of Azov, said the communique recorded by the Soviet monitor.

Nazis in Great Retreat

The swiftness of the Russian advances and the tone of the communique indicated that the Germans were engaged in a large-scale retreat toward the Dnieper river, particularly in the huge Donets basin. The bulletin, however, emphasized that the Germans were fighting stubbornly all along the 600-mile front.

More than 9,000 Germans were killed yesterday as the Red armies overran nearly 250 cities and villages, many of them strategic prizes, for a two-day bag of nearly 550 localities.

Germany's 1941 invasion lines now have been cracked by the Russians in a 1943 offensive that has carried the Red army more than half-way along the come-back trail from historic Stalingrad to the Polish border.

150 Miles from Kiev

The capture of Krolevets, 25 miles north of the rail junction of Konotop, put the Red army 150 miles from Kiev after a 130-mile summer lunge from Kursk. Moreover, its fall further flanked Bryansk from the south and may force Germany's south-central armies to fall back on Kiev. Captured Yampol lies 32 miles northeast of Krolevets.

"Soviet units are inflicting unceasing blows on the mauled divisions of the enemy, not giving them the possibility of disengaging from pursuit and organizing their defenses," said a communique supplement telling of the fighting southwest of Sevsk that spilled across the Bryansk- Kiev line. One Soviet formation alone was said to have wiped out 2,000 Germans in that area during the day.

On the Smolensk front the Russians swept on six miles after toppling Yelnya and Dorogobuzh. German trops there were being reinforced by fresh reserves hurled into battle straight from the march, but the communique said:

"All attempts of the Hitlerites, however, to stem our attacking units met with failure."

It added that 4,000 Germans were killed and 44 tanks knocked out west and south of Yelnya in an advance which apparently puts the Russians only 40 miles from Smolensk.

Scores of Tanks Destroyed

Scores of tanks were knocked out and large quantities of enemy booty captured during the day, and Soviet airmen were attacking Konotop, Debaltsevo and other rail junctions glutted with German troop trains trying to reinforce the sagging Axis fronts.

German radio broadcasts told of "extremely bitter defensive fighting of undiminished violence" on the entire front. It said that Russian troops again were attacking the narrow Axis toehold in the Caucasus opposite the embattled Donets basin.

In announcing Sumy's fall Stalin issued his fourth triumphant order of the day since Monday. As usual he ordered salvoes from 120 guns in Moscow fired to celebrate the event, and his order also ended in the usual grim ultimatum: "Death to the German invaders."

Krolevets' capture was the deepest southern penetration yet made in the 1941 German lines established below Bryansk a few months after the original Axis invasion. In the south the Germans appeared to be making their hastiest retreat.

The coal and iron center of Lisichansk fell to Russians plunging across the middle Donets river on a 45-mile-wide front. This army also took Voroshilovsk, Slavanyoserbsk, Chistyakpvo, and other important points to imperil the German-held network of railways feeding the Donets garrisons.

New Trap Prepared

Hundreds of thousands of German troops based along the Slavyansk-Artemvosk-Stalino railway apparently were threatened with envelopment—unless they withdraw or get needed reinforcements—because of the breakthrough across the middle Donets and the speedy Russian drive along the Sea of Azov to the south.

Along the Sea of Azov Col. Gen. Feodor I. Tolbukhin's Russian Army, which overran Taganrog and killed or captured more than 41,000 encircled Germans, swept on westward after the broken remnants of eight German divisions reeling back toward Mariupol.

On the basis of the Russian announcement Gen. Tolbukhin's troops were believed to be only 25 miles from Mariupol. Their ultimate goal is Melitopol, the rail landgate to the Crimea. Their immediate objective, however, is to flank the huge over-extended German army jutting into the rich Donets basin to the north.

Russian troops hit the Germans from the east as well as across the middle Donets. Chistyakovo, 36 miles east of Stalino, and Krasny-Kut, 20 miles southeast of another important Axis-held rail junction, Debaltsevo, were recaptured, the communique said.

Naz's Watch Reserves Move Up

The Berlin radio anticipated the new Russian onslaught across the middle Donets Wednesday night, telling of tremendous Russian reserves swinging up to the front there. Today's Soviet bulletin bore out that German broadcast.

Striking between Lisichansk and Voroshilovgrad the Russians overran Slavyanoserbsk, Voroshilovsk, Rodakovo, and other localities only a few miles from the vulnerable German railway supply network.

Voroshilovsk is only 20 miles from Debaltsevo on the railway running southwestward from Voroshilovgrad. Lisichansk, which the Germans recaptured July 13, is only 30 miles from Artemvosk and 19 miles from the German-held rail city of Popasnaya.

At the other end of the long front the communique said the Red army under Gen. Vassilly Sokolovsky had re-won more than 100 villages in new gains of four to six miles beyond Dorogobuzh and Yelnya on the road to Smolensk.

The German High command communique recorded by the Associated Press indicated that the Axis airforce had flung all the weight it could muster in an effort to halt the Red army plunge toward Smolensk—a prize whose capture would reopen White Russia to the advancing Russians.

The Russians already had cracked two-year-old German lines to recapture Dorogobuzh Wednesday in a night assault from the north and south climaxed by bitter block-to-block street fighting.

One Moscow dispatch said the Russians struck westward with such speed that 2,500 Russian civilians whom the Germans were herding toward Smolensk had been overtaken and freed.

Stalin singled out the 340th, 167th and 232nd Soviet infantry divisions for particular praise in the recapture of Sumy. Henceforth they will attach the name of Sumy to their regular names.

STALIN'S ORDER OF THE DAY

LONDON, Sept. 2 (AP)—The special order of the day announcing the capture of Sumy, as broadcast by the Moscow radio and recorded by the Soviet monitor:

Our troops of the Voronezh front today captured the important Ukrainian regional center, the town of Sumy.

In fighting for the liberation of Sumy, troops under command of Lieutenant General Chibissoff distinguished themselves, and particularly the 340th Infantry Division under the command of Colonel Zubareff, the 167th Infantry Division under Major General Melnikoff and the 232d Infantry Division under command of Major General Ulikinoff.

To commemorate the success achieved, the 340th, the 167th and the 232d Infantry Divisions will henceforth be called Sumy Divisions.

For the excellent military operations and valor I express my gratitude to all troops who participated in the fighting for the liberation of Sumy.

Today at 8 P. M. the capital of our motherland will, in the name of the motherland, salute the gallant troops who liberated the town of Sumy by twelve salvos from 124 guns.

Eternal glory to heroes who fell in fighting for the freedom of our motherland! Death to the German invaders!

Supreme Commander in Chief, Marshal of the Soviet Union,

J. STALIN.

APPEAL FOR PEACE BY ITALY HINTED IN NEW RUMORS

Allies and Axis Engage in Guessing Game of Propaganda.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—(AP) A fresh crop of rumors poured into London today saying a major Italian peace move is imminent and, while no official confirmation was available, it appeared that both the Allies and the Axis might be playing a propagandistic guessing game.

SEP 3 1943

There appeared no doubt that many of the rumors springing from European sources were inspired by the eGrmans, and one view held here was that these were feelers through which the Nazis hoped to learn what if any peace moves had been made by Italy.

Under the circumstances it would be good strategy to keep the Germans guessing, and this appeared to be the aim of the British Foreign office. One line of reasoning was that even if Italian capitulation steps are not now in progress, they might be at any time and it would be poor policy to confirm them ahead of the accomplished fact.

Some significance was attached here, moreover, to the indications that the Nazis thought the situation suficiently serious to start a flow of feelers.

There also were stories carried in the London press that British newspapermen covering the visit of Prime Minister Churchill to Washington had been advised not to take any holidays.

Reuters reported that Enrico Galeazzi, governor of Vatican City, who arrived in Lisbon Tuesday, actually is on his way to Washington, presumably with a message from Pope Pius XII to President Roosevelt. The Algiers radio broadcast a report that peace demonstrations, including strikes as peace gestures, had been held in Rome, Milan and Turin.

Also an underground Italian station was said to have broadcast a warning to Marshal Badoglio, head of the Italian government, that if peace negotiations were not started immediately the Italian people would rise and form a peace government.

R. A. F. Hits Dutch Canal Lock

Daylight Raiders Destroy Waterway Gate—

Allied Squadrons Roar Over France.

London, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—British Hurricane bombers today destroyed the lock gates at the south end of the Hansweert Canal, one of Holland's busy waterway links for seagoing shipping. The Air Ministry news service announced tonight that the Hurricanes, escorted by Typhoons, scored "bull's-eyes" on the gates.

SEP 3 1943

The lock enabled ships to approach Antwerp without going into the sea where they would be exposed to air and naval attack.

Flying at rooftop height, the planes smashed through strong anti-aircraft fire to reach the target. The escorting Typhoons damaged three tugs, a barge and a 400-ton coastal vessel, and machine-gunned sentries standing near the lock gates.

The announcement declared that the gates were destroyed and that the debris flew so high in the air that one plane was damaged flying through it.

Three Hurricanes and one Typhoon were reported missing from this daylight attack.

Late this afternoon great waves of Allied planes were seen heading across the English Channel toward the continent. A big force of bombers, flying high without an escort, crossed the southeast coast of England on a southeasterly course with one squadron leaving a huge vapor trail across the sky. Later another large force of bombers and fighters headed in the direction of Cape Gris Nez and Calais.

[By the Associated Press]

London, Friday, Sept. 3—United States Flying Fortresses bombed airfields at Mardyck and Denain late yetserday and other battle planes ushered in the fifth year of the war with further attacks on French targets under the largest fighter cover used in air operations so far in 1943, it was announced today.

"Good bombing results were observed on all targets," said a communique issued jointly by United States Army headquarters and the Air Ministry.

Thunderbolts For Escort

Squadrons of Thunderbolts escorted and covered the Flying Fortresses.

"Marauders and RAF Bostons, Mitchells and Venturas bombed targets in Pas de Calai.," the communique said. "Other Marauders attacked the power station at Mazingarbe and Bostons attacked the freight yards at Serqueux."

Serqueux is an important junction between the Paris-Dieppe and Amiens-Rouen lines and the Bostons attacking there flew so low the men in them could feel the concussion of their own bombs.

RAF, Dominion and Allied Spitfires escorted and supported the light and medium bombers.

Down 4 Enemy Planes

Four enemy aircraft were reported destroyed, one by Fortress guns and three by Spitfires. One of the medium bombers, a light bomber and two fighters failed to return.

The raiders struck zones clustered into areas on a 110-mile front.

Serqueux is thirty miles southeast of Dieppe; Mazingarbe forty-five miles inland from Calais; Denain twenty-six miles southeast of Lille, and Mardyck is six miles from Dunkerque.

Destroy Lock Gates

In earlier operations Hurricane bombers weaved through heavy anti-tircraft shells at tree-top height to destroy vital lock gates at the southern end of Holland's Handweert Canal, while escorting Typhoons damaged a small coastal vessel and three tugboats.

The Air Ministry's announcement of the Handweert Canal raid said three of the Hurricane bombers and one Typhoon were missing, but declared flatly that the gates were destroyed, blocking Antwerp from vessels except by sea, where they would be exposed to aerial and naval attacks.

95,000 Tons On Reich

British bombers have plastered Germany with 96,000 tons of bombs so far this year, of which 50,000 tons were dropped on the highly industrialized Ruhr, the Air Ministry announced.

The weight of high explosives was almost three times that dropped on the Reich in the same period of 1942 when the tonnage was 33,000.

[These RAF figures are all in long tons. The long ton is 240 pounds heavier than the American standard of 2,000 pounds.]

Berlin Gets 6,000 Tons

Hamburg was by far the most bombed city of the year, thus far receiving the total of 11,000 tons. Essen ranked next at 9,000 tons.

Berlin to date this year has been hit by 6,000 tons, the announcement said.

After Hamburg and Essen, the five most heavily bombed German cities this year were listed as Cologne, 8,000 tons; Duisburg and Berlin, 6,000 tons each, and Duesseldorff and Nuernburg, 5,000 each.

Sorties flown by the fighter command up to September 2, 1943, numbered 145,000, equaling those for the same period of 1942. In the same period of 1941, fighters made 173,000 sorties.

A sortie is one flight by one plane.

HEAVY COVER OF FIGHTERS SETS RECORD

O'QUINN

Good Results Reported By Other Groups Hitting At Rail Links

RAF Smashes Canal's Gates In Holland By Direct Hits

AIR FORCE CHIEF TO MEET BRITISH

Gen. Arnold's Trip to London Hints Expansion of Bomber Attacks.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—(AP) Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the U. S. Army Air forces, and Maj. Gen. William C. Lee, commander of an airborne division who is known as the father of American parachute troops, arrived in Britain today from the United States.

Both these high-ranking representatives of American air power immediately plunged into a study of the military set-up and recent operations by the Eighth U. S. A.A.F.

To Confer With Leaders

Gen. Arnold is here for conferences with British Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Portal, Lt. Gen Jacob L. Devers, commanding U. S. forces in the European theater; Maj. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander of the Eighth air force; and other British and American officers.

The arrival in England of the two top U. S. air chiefs was seen as an immediate conversion of the Quebec decisions of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill into military action.

Gen. Arnold's scheduled conferences with Generals Devers and Eaker, and the presence of Gen. Lee suggested further coordination of ground and air forces for the expected invasion of the continent.

But regardless of whether the President and the prime minister decided on an invasion or a continuation of the air war on Germany's war plants and defenses, it is believed that air activity will be stepped up to an even larger scale than the present almost-daily attacks.

NAZI LEADERS MEET

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 3.—(AP) The Daily Mail, quoting Vichy reports relayed through Madrid, said today that Adolf Hitler's chief military advisers had just completed an extraordinary four-day war council at the Fuehrer's headquarters at which the German retreat on the Russian front was discussed.

The conclusion of the meeting "probably foreshadows further and more dramatic German withdrawals," the Mail's dispatch said.

Raid Alarm in Rome

LONDON, Sept. 2 (AP).—The Swiss radio said today in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press that an air-raid alarm was sounded yesterday in Rome, but that no bombs were dropped. Allied announcements have said nothing of such a raid

British Leaders Return Home

LONDON, Sept. 2 (AP).—General Sir Alan Brooke, chief of the Imperial General Staff, and Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Portal, chief of the air staff, returned to England today from the Quebec war conference. Vice Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, new Allied commander in chief in southeast Asia, returned yesterday.

Dutch Queen Pledges Aid In War On Japan

London, Sept. 2 (AP)—Queen Wilhelmina said tonight that the people of Holland, once their homeland has been liberated, "must march with our Allies against the Japanese, thus jointly liberating the Netherlands East Indies."

The Netherlands Queen spoke in a broadcast to her countrymen from Radio Orange, official Dutch station here.

CHANNEL GUNS ROAR

LONDON, Sept. 2—(AP) Heavy cannonading broke out on the British side of the English channel in the Dover area shortly after 10 p.m. tonight and continued 15 minutes.

The fire from the British coastal batteries, normally a sign that an enemy convoy is attempting to run through Dover strait, attained a rate of one shell a minute.

About 11:15 p.m. enemy guns on the French shore replied. Coastal towns about Dover were given shellfire warninge.

Madam Chiang Predicts Victory

LONDON, Sept. 2 (AP).—Madam Chiang Kai-shek foresees British and Chinese fighting "literally shoulder to shoulder as comrades in arms toward certain victory." In a message today to the British people on the anniversary of the declaration of war against Germany, she said she anticipated the strengthening of bonds between China and Britain in the near future.

Says Forts Defeat Fighters

British Air Marshal Finds Bombers Dooming Present Combat System

LONDON, Sept. 2 (AP).—British Air Chief Marshal Sir Philip Joubert said tonight that "it almost looks as though the Fortress type of bomber has defeated the contemporary fighter." If that is so, he said, "a new solution to the problem of defense will have to be found" in aerial combat.

Joubert's recognition of the deadliness of America's Flying Fortress bombers, which specialize in precision work by daylight, was made in a radio war commentary.

"The great fire power of a close formation of Flying Fortresses was the reason why they could battle their way through a horde of enemy fighters, reach and bomb their target accurately and get away with losses which in the circumstances were moderate," he stated in a talk on recent activity of the U. S. 8th A. A. F.

Franco Pledge Reported

London Hears of Withdrawal From Russia; Berlin Is Contradictory

LONDON, Sept. 2 (AP).—The diplomatic correspondent of "The Evening Standard" wrote today that Generalissimo Francisco Franco gave verbal assurance recently to Sir Samuel Hoare, British Ambassador to Spain, that the Spanish "Blue Division" would be withdrawn from the Russian front.

SEP 3 1943

[However, United States government monitors recorded a D N. B. broadcast from Berlin saying that a battalion of more tha 1,000 Spanish volunteers arrive recently at the French frontier e route to the Eastern front. Th would indicate reinforcemer rather than withdrawal.]

Premier Urges Close Czech Ties With Russia

London, Sept. 2 (AP)—Msgr. Jan Sramek, Premier of the Czecho-Slovakian Government in exile, in a message broadcast today to his German-occupied homeland on the fourth anniversary of the war, urged his nation to continue close relations with Soviet Russia.

"We wish to deepen our bonds of alliance with Great Britain, the United States and, as well with France, whose return to the ranks of the great European powers we consider absolutely essential," he said. "We also wish to continue in in our close collaboration with the Soviet Union. We believe it unconditionally necessary for Russia to take a permanent part in European politics. . . ."

Norse Coup Costly.

London, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—The Germans lost 65,000 men killed or disabled in their invasion of Norway in 1940, Rear Admiral Hjalmar Riiser-Larsen, chief of the Norwegian Air Force, declared today.

At the end of the campaign, the Admiral said, the Germans demanded that the Norwegians pay pensions to the widows and dependents of the Nazi soldiers killed or wounded in the invasion. Norway promptly agreed.

"I am surprised that you accept," said the German general who transmitted the demand.

"Not at all," replied the Norwegian official with whom the general was dealing. "Hitler has announced that you lost only 1,163 killed and wounded. We can afford to pay pensions for them."

The Germans, Riiser-Larsan said; thereupon dropped their demands.

He declared that when Norway was attacked there were 1,024 Norwegian ships on the high seas and Major Vidkun Quisling Nazi-appointed Premier, ordered them to make for Axis ports. Not a single ship obeyed the order.

HINTS FRANCE MAY GET NORMANDIE

London, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—Rene Mayer, Commissioner of Communications and Merchant Marine of the French Committee of National Liberation, hinted last night that the former liner Normandie may be returned to the French flag.

The liner, now the U. S. S. Lafayette, was damaged by fire in New York and is now being righted. Mr. Mayer declined to elaborate, however, after throwing out his hint.

At the present time, he said, United France has 1,000,000 tons of merchant shipping serving the Allied war effort. He said the British and Americans would be asked to help rebuild the French merchant marine.

Weds Despite Loss of Leg

New York Soldier Marries English Fiancee on Schedule

LONDON, Sept. 2 (AP).—Second Lieutenant Morton Schlesinger married his English fiancee today despite the loss of his right leg in a recent accident.

Schlesinger was determined to be married on the date set before his accident, and the ceremony took place in the officers' ward of a United States Army Hospital with the bridgegroom seated in a wheel chair.

The bride was Rita Clare Shenker. Schlesinger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin R. Schlesinger, of 1240 Wheeler Avenue, New York.

Officer Saves Six Lives After Plane Falls Into Sea

Major Piper Gets His Crewmen Into a Rubber Raft

LONDON, Sept. 2 (AP).—Major Preston Piper, 8th AirForce squadron commander, from Santa Ana, Calif., helped save the lives of six members of his crew when his Flying Fortress Lulu Belle crashed into the sea thirty miles off the English coast recently, it was disclosed today.

Piper's plane was forced down when two engines gave out on the return from the shuttle raid on Regensburg, Germany. Only one rubber dinghy with a capacity of five men opened—upside down—and all equipment, including the oars, was lost.

Piper worked desperately to inflate the raft and get the crew safely on it as thirty-foot waves swept over them.

Although wearing flying clothes, Piper trod water long enough to grab Technical Sergeant Harry Jablon, of 303 East Forty-ninth Street, New York, a radio operator, and hoist him aboard. Four of the crew died trying to reach the raft.

Some of the men lost consciousness from chill and shock, and lay half submerged in the raft while Piper alternated between attempts to revive them and vain efforts to recover another raft dropped by an air-sea rescue plane. The seven survivors were rescued by a launch after twenty-two hours.

Praises U. S. Reporters For Coverage Of War

London, Sept. 2 (AP)—Robert Waithman, chief correspondent in the United States for the London News Chronicle, says that "coverage of the war from London by United States reporters has been from the very beginning painstaking, accurate and intelligent—I don't see how it could be improved."

Waithman's view was expressed to the magazine Newspaper World, which published the interview today. Back in Britain after six years in the United States, Waithman expects to return to Washington soon.

Legless Fighter Pilot Happy, Yet He's A Bit Worried, Too

SEP 3 1943

Colonel West Being Fitted With Artificial Legs, But He Fears Age May Ground Him

JAMES KING

(By the Associated Press)

An RAF Hospital in England, Friday, Sept. 3—Col. Graham West was happy today, and yet a bit worried, too.

He was happy because doctors are fitting him with artificial legs so he can fly again, and worried because he is approaching his thirty second birthday, which the army might think a little old for a fighter pilot.

The colonel, who came through eighty-seven fighter-combat missions without a scratch in North Africa, lost both legs in a ground accident last June.

He was directing a group fighting a fire at an airdrome near Tunis when the flames ignited a JU-52 which the Germans had abandoned. The plane's ammunition exploded, and West, who was only thirty feet away, was hit by shrapnel in his legs and a hand.

"Lots Worse Off"

Both his legs were amputated, but he would be angry if he were considered a martyr.

"There are lots of guys worse off than I," he said. "I just want to fly again."

He's sure he can still do the job.

Recovering at this RAF hospital, he is one of the most cheerful men around the place and, in the words of his nurse, is "really a perfect patient."

Jokes About Tea

He jokes about the tea served him "every ten minutes," and when a photographer wanted a picture of him reading a book on politics which lay on the table beside his bed, West cracked:

"The guys back in my home town of Portland, Ore., are going to kid the life out of me for going in for this heavy stuff."

West admitted that the was depressed at first, saying:

"I told the doctor that if he couldn't save at least one leg to leave me alone and let me die. But after a couple of days I decided to fight."

Precedent Cited

There is precedent for legless fighter pilots.

The British ace, Wing Commander Douglas R. S. Bader, lost his legs in a crash before the war, but rejoined the RAF when hostilities began and shot down nine German planes before he was shot down himself and captured.

Bader served as an inspiration for West, and Group Captain W. E. Barnes, commanding the hospital, says:

"There is no reason why West can't do the same thing Bader did."

West is in good physical condition and exercises morning and night by chinning himself on a bar above his bed. In a little wheelchair which he calls "a 1919-model buggy," he goes around the hospital visiting and cheering up other patients.

Faces Slow Recovery

West faces a slow recovery—it will be at least three months before he even tries to walk again—but he is determined to beat "this thing."

"I'm going to fly again," he insisted. "I'm going to play golf, too. I'm going to prop myself on a log and shoot a deer. I'm determined to do all the things I did before."

The doctors agree that a man with that determination will, too.

While he talked, the colonel fingered his lucky charm—a piece of shrapnel that he picked out of his earphone after a combat flight before the accident.

Joined Air Force In '37

West, who has been flying since 1929, joined the air force in 1937.

Getting his wings at Kelly Field, he served at three California airfields—March, Hamilton and Moffett—before he was assigned to a fighter group at Florence, S. C., in 1942. He was later attached to the Manchester (N. H.) base and at Fort Dix before coming overseas in July of that year.

He flew Spitfires on a few sweeps from Britain before going to Africa to command one of the first American Spitfire fighter units in that theater.

NAZIS DESIRE COUNCIL FOR RULING DANES

COLBURN

King Christian, Backed By People, Would Have To Approve Group

SEP 9 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Stockholm, Sept. 2—Faced with a rebellious Danish population, the Nazis sought today to form an eighteen-man administrative council similar to that set up in Norway in 1940 to enable them to step out of their role as military dictators of Denmark.

King Christian, however, assured of the absolute loyalty of his people, appeared to hold the key to the situation.

Under the administrative council, the country would be governed by a group composed of the present three directors general of the Government, who are German, and fifteen departmental chiefs who are now cooperating with the Germans pending further orders from King Christian, who is under guard at Sorgenfri Castle.

Hands Off Home Policy

A spokesman for the Government in Berlin told foreign correspondents the Germans had no intention of changing Danish home policy and wanted to keep all departments in Danish hands.

Reports from the Free Danish bureau in Stockholm said the Germans were prepared to ask the King to approve the administrative council.

This had its ironical side, for the Germans informed Christian on Sunday that his political functions were ended. Now, however, they are forced to return to him for approval of any form of administration they hope to ge the Danish people to accept.

Whether the Germans are willing to modify their still-drastic regulations in Denmark to an extent acceptable to the King is problematical.

Definite Move Awaited

Christian is not expected to take any formal stand until German Gen. Hermann von Hannecken submits a definite governing proposal. And until the King makes his statement, Danes outside the country are not expected to make any further moves toward forming a Free Danish Government affiliated with the United Nations.

In this connection, the action of Johan C. W. Kruse, Danish Minister to Stockholm, who is reputed to have close personal connections with Christian, in declaring himself independent of his Nazi-ruled country was noted here.

Sabotage continued throughout Denmark today, but on a smaller scale than previously as the Danes hung to their passive resistance program.

Air traffic was resumed between Stockholm, Copenhagen and Berlin today, and refugees arriving in Sweden said few if any Nazi soldiers could be seen patrolling the streets of Copenhagen.

Proclamation Refused

Last Monday the German Minister Werner Best, who is handling civil functions under General von Hannecken, asked the directors general and departmental chiefs to continue their duties. They agreed because the Germans had no staff to take over the administration.

However, when Best asked the directors and departmental chiefs to issue a proclamation approving the German action they refused flatly and also spurned a German proposal to form a new government.

Any consideration of forming a Danish free government also has been handicapped by the lack of Danish political leaders who are outside Denmark. Some had planned to escape to Sweden but the Germans started arresting them even before the military dictatorship was announced.

Scavenius Refuses Nazi Offer to Form New Danish Cabinet

Other Members Who Resigned Also Reported To Have Rejected Plea

By the Associated Press.

COLBURN

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 2.—Eric Scavenius, Danish Prime Minister who resigned when Germany clamped a military dictatorship on Denmark last week end, has refused an offer by the Nazis to form a new government, Danish refugees said today.

Scavenius, one of the few Danish political leaders to escape arrest following Sunday's bloody revolt, had been asked by Gen. Hermann von Hannecken, Nazi military dictator, to head a new cabinet. Other members of the cabinet who resigned in a body with Scavenius, refused even to meet the Germans to discuss the situation, the refugees reported.

Gen. Von Hannecken is expected to explore further the possibility of establishing a Danish government. He is reported to be anxious to have the Danes handle the civic affairs of the country with the Nazis retaining the power, through martial law, to punish saboteurs and suppress disorders.

Striving for Compromise.

Danish refugees arriving here today said it was apparent that Gen. von Hannecken is striving to reach a compromise with the Danes but that his efforts so far have been unavailing. They said that for the first time in more than 10 days no German soldiers were seen patrolling Copenhagen streets and that disorders appeared to be diminishing under the rigid controls set up by the Germans.

Sabotage was said to be continuing, though on a scale smaller than that of a week ago, and industrial slowdowns were reported prevalent throughout the country despite all German efforts to speed up production.

One refugee asserted that while Gen. von Hannecken was in control of the military dictatorship, Warner Best, German Minister to Denmark, still was at the head of the civil authority. He said Danish newspaper editors who had been arrested were released and allowed to resume operations under a strict Nazi censorship only after they had agreed to follow Best's instructions.

Gen. von Hannecken's reported attempt to win over Scavenius followed by a few hours the resignation of Johan C. W. Kruse from his post as Danish Minister to Sweden. Kruse declared that a constitutional government had ceased to exist in Denmark with the advent of the German military dictatorship.

Refuses to Join Free Movement.

His announcement, made at a press conference in Stockholm last night, was considered significant by Danes hoping to form an exiled government affiliated with the United Nations because the 62-year-old Minister is a personal envoy of the interned King Christian X.

Kruse said the King, as a prisoner of the Germans, was unable to perform his constitutional functions. He refused, however, to say that he was joining the Free Danish movement.

(In London, the Danish conservative leader, Christmas Moeller, declared the Free Danish Council was against setting up an "exile" government at the present time.

("If the head of the state of Denmark (King Christian) had been outside the frontiers of the country our position would have been clear," Moeller said at a public meeting of the council yesterday. "Then he could have set up a government which would have the recognition of all.")

Restrictions Are Eased.

The German-controlled Danish radio said Gen. von Hannecken had ordered martial law restrictions eased.

It said the 9 o'clock curfew, imposed when martial law went into effect on August 29, would be effective at 11 p.m. in the future, and limited telephone and mail service was ordered resumed within the country. Food shortages, however, continued in the larger cities, refugees said.

Gen. Von Hannecken's move to ease martial law restrictions was interpreted by the Danish people as a "feeling out" process to see how much freedom could be given before resistance flared again.

FINNS WILL DEBATE ON FOREIGN POLICY

Parliament to Conduct Secret Session on World Affairs.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 2—(AP) A showdown on Finland's foreign policy may come tomorrow when the doors are opened to criticism of the present course at a parliamentary session devoted to the first general discussion of foreign relations since November, 1941. The debate will be secret.

The country's eight political parties conducted separate private meetings today reviewing the action of 33 prominent political leaders who on Aug. 20 warned President Risto Ryti that Finland's position was growing more dangerous. They urged the government to investigate every avenue for a separate peace and particularly beseeched improvement of "deteriorating relations with the United States."

Although the liberal press of Finland in recent days has been advocating a "realistic view of the present situation and a change of policy" there is no general expectation that any immediate shift will take place in Finland's position as a co-belligerent with Germany.

The Finns want peace, but want Britain and the United States to guarantee any agreement made with Russia.

Germans Deny They Want Change

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 2 (AP)—All indications today pointed toward a pressing desire to get out of the situation that the Germans got into when the Danes forced the urgent dispatch of German troops to bolster the occupying garrisons. A spokesman in Berlin said that the Germans had no intention of changing Danish home policy and wanted to keep all departments in Danish hands.

King Christian is not expected to take any formal stand until Gen. Hermann von Hanneken has submitted a definite governing proposal. Until the King has made his statement, Danes outside the country are not expected to make any further moves toward forming a free Danish Government affiliated with the United Nations.

FINNS WEIGH PEACE

Stockholm, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—Finland's eight political parties held separate meetings today to discuss privately the critical foreign policy and agitation for a separate peace with Russia.

A showdown on foreign policy may come tomorrow when criticism will be leveled in Parliament against the present policy. It will be the first general discussion of foreign policy since November, 1941, when the Finns, aided by the Germans, drove the Russians out of territory they had taken after the winter war and Moscow peace of 1940.

450 Fires Reported in Berlin

Stockholm Says Many Set by R. A. F. on Tuesday Are Still Too Big to Handle.

Stockholm, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—Dispatches from Berne today said that 450 fires were still burning in Berlin after Tuesday night's block-buster attack by the Royal Air Force, and that estimates of the dead ran as high as 5,000. The correspondent of the newspaper Allehanda said that some of the fires were so large that no effort was made to extinguish them, the firemen attempting no more than to keep them from spreading.

Allehanda said fire-fighting equipment was called to Berlin from Frankfurt-am-Oder, Stettin, Kuestrin, Dresden and Leipzig. The main force of the raid was felt in central Berlin, it declared; in the district of Stettiner, Bahnhof, Alexander Platz and Hallesches, Tor, and damage was also suffered in the southeast and southerly suburbs such as Steglitz, Lichtenberg and Kottburger Tor.

The attack was described as fully as heavy as the 2,000-ton raid of August 23. It paralyzed the Berlin trammway system, the underground and other communication facilities, and roads leading to Potsdam were closed to traffic, the dispatches said. Bombed-out Berliners were said to be streaming into the countryside, and the police were reported attempting to check the crush at railway stations.

On the other hand, German military experts claimed a big air victory over the British bombers. Tuesday night, though, by their own admissions it was apparent that the R. A. F. had succeeded in dumping a huge load of bombs on the city.

Neutral Swedish correspondents reported that the Germans massed nearly 1,400 night fighters in their effort to keep the British bombers from reaching Berlin.

Nazi experts told the Swedish newspaper men that the R. A. F. used about as many planes on Tuesday's raid as they did on August 23.

Neutral correspondents in Berlin reported that the city was just beginning to clean up from the August 23 raid when the new devastation occurred.

lehanda said that the Berlin street car and subway systems were halted as a result of bomb damage and that roads leading to Potsdam were closed.

Bombed-out Berliners were said to be streaming out of the city. Police attempts at railway stations to check the crush were reported to have caused many brushes with civilians. The newspaper said some residents had been arrested at Stettiner Bahnhof.

German military experts admitted to Swedish correspondents that 350 British planes broke through the anti-aircraft and fighter defenses of Berlin and damage was described as "heavy both inside the metropolitan area and on the outskirts."

Berlin was just beginning to clear up from the last raid when the new 45-minute attack added new devastation.

Some reports said about 500,000 persons had been moved from the city for the duration of the bomb war.

450 FIRES SWEEP OUT OF CONTROL IN BERLIN BUILDINGS

Firemen Seek to Isolate Flames, Make No Attempt to Quell Blaze.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 2 — (AP) Round-about reports from tightly censored Berlin said tonight that 450 fires were still burning in the German capital after Tuesday night's R.A.F. raid that killed an estimated 5,000 persons and paralyzed the city's transportation system.

Swiss dispatches in Swedish newspapers said that some of the fires were so large firemen merely tried to isolate them instead of saving the blazing buildings. Fire apparatus was called from five German cities to aid.

Center of City Hit

Central Berlin felt the main force of the raid which was believed to be fully as heavy as the attack on Aug. 23 when about 700 bombers dropped 1,800 tons of bombs.

Despite a German fighter force reported as high as 1,400 planes, the Allied planes dropped their loads on the Stettiner Bahnhof, (railroad station,) Alexander Platz and Hallesches Tor sections of inner Berlin. Southeast and southwest suburbs, including Steglitz, Lichtenberg and Kottburger Tor also were pounded.

The newspaper Nya Daglight Al-

1,400 Axis Fighters Reported Used in Defending Berlin

Nazis Claim Victory Over RAF Raiders, But Admit Damage

By the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 2.—German military experts claimed a big air victory over British bombers in Tuesday night's raid against Berlin, but it was apparent today from their own accounts that the RAF succeeded in dumping a huge load of bombs on the Reich's capital.

Neutral Swedish correspondents reported that the Germans massed nearly 1,400 night fighters in their effort to keep the British bombers from reaching Berlin.

About Same Number of Planes.

Nazi experts told Swedish newspapermen the RAF used about as many planes on Tuesday's raid as they did on August 23, when 1,700 tons of bombs from 700 heavy British bombers devasted the west and south sections of the city and left fires which burned for two days.

(The London Daily Express reported that the Germans sent up 1,000 fighters Tuesday night in an attempt to beat off the RAF bombers, which the paper said dumped 1,500 tons of bombs on Berlin.

(The Express called the raid "the greatest air battle of the war." If the Express tonnage figure is correct the Tuesday raid was lighter by 200 tons than the attack of August 23.)

When the British bombers returned to Berlin Tuesday night Nazi commentators acknowledged to foreign correspondents that about 350 planes broke through the German antiaircraft and fighter defenses, which on the basis of the August 23 raid meant that about 850 tons of bombs and incendiaries were dropped on the capital.

Details Still Restricted.

It was on that scale that the RAF raided Berlin three times during March, causing tremendous destruction.

Details of Tuesday's raid still were restricted by Nazi censorship, but the Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Tidningen was permitted to say that since a large number of bombers got through to the city damage was "heavy both inside Berlin and on the outskirts."

(The British Air Ministry said the Germans sprang a new defense tactic during Tuesday's raid, but it back-fired and this possibly accounted for smaller RAF losses than the 58-plane casualty suffered on August 23.

(German night fighters dropped flares from a great height to silhouette the RAF planes, but returning British pilots said these slow-burning aerial torches outlined the Nazis fighters as well.)

Neutral correspondents in Berlin reported that the city was just beginning to clean up from last week's raid when the new devastation occurred. They said, however, that the number of casualties was small because most of Berlin's population has been evacuated from the city. The latest information to reach Stockholm said that about 500,000 persons have been moved from Berlin.

PLAY UP POPE'S PLEA

Berne, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—The Italian press prominently displayed the entire speech of Pope Pius XII appealing yesterday for "a worthy peace." Today the Swiss Telegraphic Agency said that the broadcast appeared under such headings as "Give Nations Hope of Dignified Peace" and "Do Not Offend Rights to Life and Honor."

The dispatch said that the display was significant in view of the fact that the Pope's words were only published briefly, if at all, on the back pages of newspapers during the Mussolini regime.

CRY FOR PEACE

BERN, Switzerland, Sept. 2—(AP) A Milan dispatch to Der Bund Bern newspaper, reported today that thousands of persons assembled in St. Peter's square of Vatican City following the speech yesterday by Pope Pius XII and cried:

"Long live the Pope. We want peace."

The dispatch said that the Pope then appeared at a window to give the benediction and the people knelt, many of them sobbing.

CIANO'S FORTUNE SEIZED BY PREMIER

New Government Investigates Wealth Acquired by Leaders Under Mussolini.

MADRID, Sept. 2—(AP) Part of the "immense fortune" of Count Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini's son-in-law, and his wife Edda, was reported tonight to have been seized by the government of Premier Pietro Badoglio.

The Italian news agency Stefani said a committee, investigating the fortunes made by Fascist leaders through graft, announced that the couple's villa in Rome and large quantities of their cash and jewels had been seized.

Stefani said that a long list of Fascist leaders, all of whose property had been seized by the government, included Lt. Gen. Achille Starace, former chief of the general staff of the Fascist militia; Edmondo Rossoni, a former member of the Fascist Grand council; Tullio Cianetti, former minister of corporations; Giuseppe Bottai, former governor of Rome, and Roberto Farinacci, former secretary of the Fascist party.

(A Milan dispatch to the Bern newspaper, Der Bund, said Cavaller Galbiati, former chief of the Fascist militia, had been arrested. Marshal Emilio de Bono, former supreme commander of the Italian army, also was reported in custody).

PETAIN VETOES ASSEMBLY

Restoration Failure Is Laid to Lack of 'Popular Support'

MADRID, Sept. 2 (AP)—Paris dispatches said today that a group of French politicians of pre-war days had tried to restore the French National Assembly but failed when Marshal Henri-Philippe Pétain vetoed the idea on the basis that it had no popular support.

Pierre Laval "did not discourage the initiative," according to the ABC correspondent in Paris, perhaps because the National Assembly presumably could reduce Marshal Pétain's power as Chief of State and give more to M. Laval, the government chief.

The Spanish accounts said the plan was put forward to give the Vichy regime another "front" of national unity and liberalism.

Among the backers were listed Paul Faure, former secretary of the General Socialist party; Albert Chichery, president of the Radical Socialists; Anatole de Monzie, former independent Leftist leader, and Louis Rollin, once a deputy of the Republican Alliance.

New Defense Plans Reported

Madrid, Sept. 2 (AP)—Dispatches from Berlin today said the Germans began new aerial defense tactics during the Tuesday night raid, using more fighter planes and fewer anti-aircraft batteries. The correspondent of the newspaper Ya noted the German claim that thirty-four Allied aircraft had been shot down, but added: "despite everything, when we awoke today (Wednesday) Berlin was again filled with the ruins of new fires."

French Rail Workers Arrested by Nazis

Madrid, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—Reports reaching Madrid said that German occupation authorities in France had arrested all eight employees of the Morbihan railway station in Brittany on charges of stealing merchandise and packages off trains.

The line through Morbihan skirts the coast and is reported completely devoted to coastal defenses.

Salazar Hints That Portugal Girds for War

'Mobilization' May Portend

30.24 - 7975

30.24 - 7975

Action Against Japan; Britain Supplying Arms

LISBON, Sept. 2 (AP).—Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar announced today that Portugal's stepped-up military preparations are defensive but, "in the unfortunate times in which we are living, may have to be used against foreign enemies as much as against internal elements of national disintegration."

Placing a censorship on speculation regarding the military preparations, Salazar cautioned against expecting any change in the country's foreign policy.

[New arms, it was disclosed at London, have been supplied to Portugal by Great Britain. The extent and type of armament were not disclosed. The arrangement was not considered unusual, in view of the friendly relations between Britain and Portugal.

[The London "Evening Standard" interpreted the "mobilization" of Portugal as a possible indication that the country was ready to declare war on Japan in protest against Japanese actions at Macao and Timor, Portuguese possessions in the Far East.]

Salazar said in a communique that it might be "necessary to reinforce the colonial garrisons according to the evolution of events concerning them."

"In any case," he continued, "there will be a change of guard of those troops long stationed overseas that will in itself justify certain military activities."

The communique added that new war material being received in Portugal would be used in large-scale military maneuvers to be held late in September and October, and said it did not indicate "that a change in the country's policy regarding war should be expected, although the development of the international situation and the dangers it involves are sufficient to impose on the people the greatest attention, and on the government the greatest prudence and care in developing the defensive machine."

Opposition to Continue

ISTANBUL, Sept. 1 (Delayed) (AP)—Bulgarian Opposition leaders headed by Nicolas Mouchanoff have informed Premier Philoff that so long as he clings to his pro-German policy, the opposition will continue, late reports from Bulgaria said today.

However, the Germans have brought a "military councilor" into the country to help Premier Philoff keep order.

The Opposition leaders, when Premier Philoff met them Monday, were reported to have demanded that the "Kiosseivanoff memorandum" be taken as a guide to future policy.

This memorandum is said to have been written by the predecessor of Philoff and submitted to the late King early last month. According to reports at that time, Mr. Kiosseivanoff had counseled edging out of the Axis camp.

Premier Philoff rejected the Opposition's proposal, it said, and in his next interview with the German Ambassador gave formal assurances that Bulgarian policy would remain unchanged.

Reports that Premier Philoff had gone to Berlin and that Field Marshal General Erwin Rommel had arrived in Sofia could not be confirmed today, but it was pointed out here that if the Premier had gone to Germany even before the burial of the King, it probably was because the Germans feared popular disturbances immediately after the funeral services and wished to dictate steps to prevent an upheaval.

Nazi Chrome Ship From Turkey Sunk

Istanbul, Aug. 31 (Delayed, A.P.)—The first big Axis shipment of chrome ore from Turkey was sunk in the Black Sea yesterday within a few hours after leaving Istanbul harbor for a Balkan port, it was learned today.

The 2,000-ton shipment, sought by Hitler for his war industries, was aboard the 1,400-ton German freighter Thisbe, which received two torpedoes about ten miles out in the Black Sea from the mouth of the Bosporus. The attacking submarine presumably was Russian.

The Thisbe sank with the loss of all hands, estimated at forty.

ALLIES MASS BOMBINGS ON TOE OF ITALY

MORGAARD

RAF Raids Bivouac Area Near Reggio; Transport Links Also Targets

SEP 3 1943

(By the Associated Press)

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 2—Allied bombers pummelled every target sighted yesterday on the virtually paralyzed toe of Italy nearest Sicily, Allied headquarters in North Africa announced today.

As the artillery of the air softened the target a short ferry ride across the Strait of Messina, Allied armies stood ready at the southern gateways to continental Europe.

Last night RAF Bostons raided what official reports described as "army targets including a bivouac area" in the region of Reggio di Calabria, where the enemy would be expected to concentrate whatever anti-invasion troops were available.

Larger Planes Grounded

As American Flying Fortresses and medium bomber squadrons were grounded for the first time in weeks, lighter planes took up the attack and in five separate missions by United States and British planes failed to encounter opposition either in the air or from the ground.

In relays they blasted highways and railroads, halting the trucks and trains that moved civilian and military necessities.

British Bostons and Baltimores and American Mitchells, escorted by Spitfires, attacked at Cape Spartivento, Oliveta, La Marina Gambrie and Bouamrino. American Havoc attack bombers smashed an Axis radio station at Cape Spartivento in another raid.

"It was good attack, said Capt. Theodore Broman, of West Duluth, Minn., who celebrated his fiftieth mission.

See One Messerschmitt

Allied pilots said they sighted only a single Messerschmitt 109 during the continuous forays and it avoided a fight.

RAF Wellingtons also returned to the railway targets of Aversa, north of Naples, last night with two-ton blockbusters. American Warhawks attacked a zinc factory at Iglesias in southwest Sardinia and strafed a factory at Gennesa, also without opposition.

Photographs of recent raid at Civitavecchia, north of Rome showed forty-three direct hits on the railyards and buildings with the station half destroyed and the Rome-Leghorn line blocked.

2-TON BOMBS HIT ITALIAN RAILROAD

KENNEDY

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—The Allied air offensive against Italy has been concentrated on the toe of the peninsula for the past thirty-six hours and has been carried on mainly by fighters and fighter-bombers, Allied headquarters said today.

American Flying Fortresses and most American medium bomber squadrons were held on the ground by bad weather for the first time in weeks.

Big Wellington bombers of the Royal Air Force, however, returned to the railway targets of Aversa, north Naples, and scattered two-ton blockbusters there last night, and American Warhawks stabbed at a zinc factory at Iglesias in southwest Sardinia.

Fighter and fighter-bombers over the toe of Italy aimed their blows chiefly at Axis communications and defensive establishments, already shattered and virtually paralyzed by daily raids ever since the fall of Sicily two weeks ago.

It was announced at Cairo meanwhile that heavy bombers of the R. A. F., Middle East Command, attacked the air field at Grottaglie, near the Italian naval base of Taranto, on Tuesday night, and that all planes returned safely.

No Allied planes were lost during the foregoing operations and the lack of mention in today's communique of any enemy planes shot down indicated that the enemy opposition was dwindlind even further.

2-Ton Bombs Dropped On Naples Area by RAF Wellingtons

By the Associated Press.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 2.—RAF Wellington bombers carried another Allied aerial blow to enemy communications in the Naples area last night by scattering 2-ton bombs over rail yards at Aversa, north of the Italian port, Allied headquarters announced today.

American heavy bombers were grounded yesterday by unfavorable weather for the first time in nearly two months, but American Warhawks attacked a zinc factory at Iglesias, in Southwest Sardinia, and light bombers harassed communications on the toe of Italy.

The air offensive against Italy has been concentrated on the toe of the peninsula for the last 36 hours and has been carried on mainly by fighters and fighter-bombers, Allied headquarters said.

From the Middle East, British heavy bombers Tuesday night struck at the Axis airfield at Grottaglie, near the Italian naval base of Taranto, in a raid from which all aircraft returned safely, a Cairo announcement said.

(The Italian communique today said limited damage was caused by Allied air raiders in the province of Naples.)

No Allied planes were lost during the operations, and the lack of mention in today's communique of any enemy planes shot down indicated that enemy opposition was dwindling again.

The concentrated bombing of the Italian toe was carried out in five raids by British Bostons and Baltimores and American Mitchells escorted by Spitfires.

Rail and highway communications were attacked at Cape Spartivento, Oliveta, La Marina Gambrie and Bova Marina. A-36 Invaders also damaged the radio station at Cape Spartivento.

Medical Corps Man Gets D. S. M.

A UNITED STATES EVACUATION HOSPITAL IN SICILY, Aug. 30 (Delayed) (AP)—A Distinguished Service Medal was presented today to Sgt. Martin Mortiz of Benson, Ill., a member of the Medical Corps, who tried to amputate his shattered right arm himself so he might better aid a wounded soldier in Sicily.

The citation was read by Lieut. Col. Charles Codman of Bernardsville, N. J., aide of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., who presented the medal.

Grottaglie Airfield Raided

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 2 (AP)—British heavy bombers attacked the airfield at Grottaglie, near the Italian naval base of Taranto, on Tuesday night, a Middle East communiqué said today.

South Africa Recognizes French

Pretoria, Union of South Africa, Sept. 2 (AP)—The South African Government has recognized the French Committee for National Liberation, it was announced today.

MANDALAY BOMBED BY U. S. LIBERATORS

Mitchells Attack Other Targets in Central Burma

SEP 3 1943

NEW DELHI, India, Sept. 2 (AP)—Liberators of the Tenth United States Air Force dumped a "great weight" of explosives on the railway yards at Mandalay yesterday, it was announced today in a communiqué that said that "excellent results were reported, with numerous hits in the target area."

While the Liberators concentrated on Mandalay, Mitchells attacked Japanese rail installations and communications in other parts of central Burma. All planes returned safely from the day's operations, the bulletin said.

The Mitchells demolished several buildings at Monywa and scored direct hits on rail yards at Hsipaw. Hits on a cliff near the Hsipaw yards were believed to have caused a landslide on the tracks.

Rolling stock was destroyed at the Ywataung yards, where all bombs fell in the target area, causing a large explosion. At Sagaing, storage buildings were damaged heavily and a huge fire was started.

The communiqué disclosed that heavy and medium bombers had raided enemy installations in central and northern Burma on Aug. 29 without loss. Mitchells unloaded more than twenty-two tons of bombs on Myitkyina, about 250 miles north of Mandalay, demolishing the railway station, tracks and rolling stock and damaging many buildings.

The targets of the Liberators were Monywa, where heavy damage was done and large fires were set; Kalewa, where direct hits were scored on a warehouse, and Tungbaw, where the weather obscured the results.

Soviet Article Assails AMG as 'Undemocratic'

CASSIDY

Moscow Magazine Attacks Allied Regime in Sicily, Urges Turks to Join Allies

MOSCOW, Sept. 2 (AP).—The Soviet magazine "War and the Working Class," which has come to the forefront recently with frequent comment on controversial matters in foreign affairs, carried in its latest issue today a sharp criticism of the Allied Military Government of Occupied Territory (AMG) as being Fascist in type and non-democratic.

The same issue also questioned the position of Turkey as a neutral, and took up the second front controversy again in an article denying assertions published in the United States that Russia had refused certain military co-operation with the Allies.

Now that Germany needs all her army divisions, her final defeat could be accelerated if Turkey should abandon her neutrality and join the Allies, the magazine said. It declared Turkish neutrality "becomes increasingly more favorable and necessary to Germany."

"Turkey secures the safety of the Balkan flank of the German armies and allows the Germans to continue to hold very limited forces here and concentrate the overwhelming part of the German troops on the Soviet-German front," it declared.

Second-Front Comment

On the issue of establishment of a land front in western Europe, Major General M. Galaktinov said that "notwithstanding repeated Soviet offers, the Allies never once expressed a desire to have troops side by side with our armies on the Soviet-German front."

He said that "the second and third fronts," as he described the operations in Sicily and the air offensive over Europe, "not only did not drag away a single German division from our front, but they did not even hinder Hitler from greatly increasing the number of German divisions operating on the Soviet-German front."

The general's article, entitled "What Is the Real Situation?" was published as an answer to comment in the American press, in particular statements that the Russians had refused to allow the Allied air forces to operate from Black Sea bases and that the Russians had declined an English offer of assistance when the Germans began to break into the Caucasus.

Sicily Regime Assailed

Various dispatches were quoted as stating that there is no freedom of speech in Sicily, where the AMG—formerly AMGOT—is operating, and that high former Fascists are on the Allied pay list. Then the magazine remarked that it was no wonder that "sharp criticism in press and political circles in England and America" had resulted.

The magazine remarked that "even those circles of the United Nations which do not voice doubts about the activity of AMGOT in enemy countries decisively protest against its future possible appearance in their own territories."

"AMGOT," said the article, "is not undertaking the necessary measures for the actual destruction of Fascism." It said "the administration itself is of a military government based on principles which have nothing in common with the principles of democracy."

Observing that "the Soviet government does not participate in this organization," the magazine said, "AMGOT has retained the old Fascist government apparatus and is not attracting democratic elements to its administration."

REDS CRITICIZE TURKS

Moscow, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—The latest issue of the Soviet magazine, War and the Working Class, in an article titled, "Who Gains From the Neutrality of Turkey?" said "The neutrality of Turkey becomes increasingly more favorable and necessary to Germany."

The magazine said that "Turkey secures the safety of the Balkan flank of the German armies and allows the Germans to continue to hold very limited forces here and concentrate the overwhelming part of the German troops on the Soviet-German front."

The article asserted that now when Germany is treasuring all her army divisions, her final defeat could be accelerated if Turkey would abandon her neutrality and throw in her lot with the Allies.

Stilwell'sFlyers Blast Shipping Off Hongkong

Sink Freighter and Damage Another; Two Gunboats Sent Down in Yangtse

CHUNGKING, Sept. 2 (AP).—American air attacks on Japanese shipping off Hongkong were reported today by Lieutenant General Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters, together with sweeps over the Yangtse River and an assault on the Canton-Hankow Railway.

A communique said the enemy air base at Kingmen, near the Yangtse port of Ichang, had been blasted. Off Hongkong one freighter was left sinking and another badly damaged, while a submarine chaser was set afire. Two gunboats and a large river boat were also attacked and left sinking in the Yangtse.

All planes returned safely, the communique added.

ALLIED PINCERS PRESS NEARER TO SALAMAUA

BONI

SEP 3 1943

MacArthur Spokesman Sees Enemy's Resistance as Rearguard.

JAPS ARE GIVING WAY THERE

Nipponese Are Believed to Have Evacuated Santa Isabel and Plane Base at Rekata.

Allied Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—The coastal jaw of a slowly closing Allied pincers pressed nearer the Salamaua, New Guinea, airdrome from the southeast today as Japanese defenses cracked.

A spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur characterized the enemy's crumbling resistance as rearguard, an indication that the Japanese are giving way.

On the coast, below the airdrome and the Francisco River mouth, the Japanese for some time have been holding out on the western end of Roosevelt Ridge at its junction with Scout Ridge, which runs northeast from that point. Latest reports indicate that the Americans have skirted enemy pillboxes and foxholes, sent the main spearhead along Scout Ridge, and assigned another force to eliminate the virtually surrounded Japanese at that point.

Aussies Near River's Mouth.

Out of the mountains and along the south bank of the Francisco River, hard bitten Australians have reached a point within two miles, possibly less, of the river's mouth. The river flows south of the long-south airdrome into Bayern Bay.

North of the river, considerable activity indicated that the Japanese after the first shock of finding the Allies driving in from above as well as below the airstrip now are making a determined effort to hold positions. The Japanese are reported making small local counter-attacks in that sector against Australians intrenched on Kila Ridge.

In the Solomons, there was some basis for believing the Japanese, emulating their garrison which pulled out of Kiska in the Aleutians, have evacuated Santa Isabel Island, with its seaplane base at Rekata Bay. Liberator pilots returning from a raid Monday on that base northeast of New Georgia reported that for the first time no anti-aircraft fire was encountered.

RECORD RAID HITS JAP BASES ABOVE SALAMAUA FIELD

MCDANIEL

206 Tons of Bombs Wreck Madang, New Guinea Supply Point.

BUILDINGS SMASHED

Headquarters Destroyed, Ammunition Dumps Are Blasted by Bombers.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Friday, Sept. 3—(AP) Japanese army headquarters, fuel and ammunition stores have been blown up in the Madang, New Guinea sector above ground-menaced Salamaua by more than 206 tons of bombs dropped from fighter-escorted bombers, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

Fire which erased warehouses and buildings sent their flames up for 1,500 feet as the heavy and medium bombers spread ruin after the fashion of raids in early August which virtually levelled Salamaua.

Strike at Low Level

The raiders, which added to the havoc by sweeping down to treetop height to pour 90,000 rounds of machinegun and cannon fire on enemy installations, struck at Madang, Amron mission and Alexishafen.

"Widespread havoc and destruction was wrought in all three target areas with warehouses, buildings and headquarters sites left in ruins, fuel and ammunition dumps exploding and over 50 fires raging through the area," the communique said.

The big fires set could be seen for 30 miles. Not a Japanese plane was encountered in the air in the Madang area, which is just below the Wewak sector where more than 360 Japanese planes have been destroyed recently. The enemy sent up anti-aircraft fire but some of these positions were attacked and silenced.

Record Weight of Bombs

The Madang raiders, carrying the heaviest load of bombs yet to be dropped in the southwest Pacific in a single day, were Liberators, Mitchells and Lightnings of the Fifth Air force. They made the raid Wednesday.

Only one plane was sighted on the ground and it was destroyed. Japanese air defenses appeared helpless against the fury of the American onslaught.

The communique today omitted any reference to the fighting at Salamaua where American and Australian troops are clamping a pincers within rifle fire range of the airdrome.

In the Solomons, gun positions guarding the isolated Japanese garrison at Vila on Kolombangara were destroyed in new attacks by dive-bombers.

Across the Kula gulf on New Georgia, American artillery poured shells on Vila, where the Japanese are estimated to have 10,000 men.

Above Vila on American-occupied Vella Lavella island, the Japanese air force attempted to raid United States positions and lost nine planes.

In the New Guinea sector, Allied planes destroyed 12 more supply barges off the nearby New Britain coast.

In the vicinity of New Ireland, where Allied planes recently have bombed two destroyers and a cruiser, today's communique reported that medium bombers "effectively bombed and strafed a flotilla of small cargo vessels and barges."

The latest raid reported on Vila was made Tuesday by Avenger torpedo bombers and Dauntless dive bombers of Admiral William F. Halsey's command. Among the gun positions they destroyed was that of a five inch coastal gun. They also blew up a radio station.

On the same day, the Japanese five times sent their dive bombers with a fighter escort against American positions on Vella Lavella. American Warhawks and ground battery fire greeted the raiders. Five dive bombers and four other unclassified planes were bagged.

Purple Heart to Tenafly Man

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC (Delayed) (AP)—Staff Sgt. Herbert J. Meyer, 26, U. S. M. C., of 12 Moller Street, Tenafly, N. J., has received the Purple Heart Medal. He was with the first assault wave to land on Gavutu Island, in the Solomons, later seeing action at Tulagi and Guadalcanal.

In the battle of the ridge, Sept. 14, 1942, on Guadalcanal, he was wounded in both legs.

Sergeant Meyer enlisted in 1939 and saw duty in Cuba for eight months before the United States entered the war.

Bomber Shoots Down 7 Zeros

BURGESS

SEP 3

Liberator's Crew Balked Japs as They Attacked Flyers on Chutes.

Guadalcanal, Aug. 30 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Thanks to Lieut. Homer W. Faucett, 1941 National A. A. U. middleweight wrestling champion from Indiana, and the gallant crew of his Liberator bomber, the Japanese have paid dearly for firing on American flyers dangling helplessly in parachutes, floating down to sea.

It happened after today's smashing raid by four-engined Liberators and escorting Lightning fighters on Japan's Kahili airdrome on Bougainville in the Solomons. The total bag of Japanese planes for the day was thirty-seven.

But Lieut. Faucett and his companions supplied some of the most dramatic moments on the trip back. Near Vella Lavella Island, one of the Liberators was hit by pursuing Zeros. Four men parachuted from the stricken bomber.

Twenty Zeros went after the descending flyers, their guns blazing.

All Willing to Turn Back.

Lieut. Faucett, 25 years old, whose home town is Hillsboro, Ind., was in a nearby formation of bombers.

"I checked with the crew first on the interphone, talking with every man," Lieut. Faucett said.

" 'Pilot to turret gunner: Shall we go back?"

" 'Turret gunner to pilot: Let's go back'."

It was that way in each case.

"All well knew there was a strong probability we would never come back," Lieut. Faucett continued.

"When we turned back, one man in a chute was hanging limp after a Zero strafed him. Our gunner drove off another Zero trying the same dirty trick. Then twenty Zeros started working on us at 4,000 feet. We went down to 200 feet and dropped a life raft to the men who had jumped from the other bomber. The Zeros made a co-ordinated attack, using as many as six coming at us at the same time.

Did Not Have a Chance.

"We would have been shot down if it hadn't been that our gunners were good marksmen. We half figured we didn't have a chance, so we voted to get all the enemy we could before they got us.

"When we got home, there were more than eighty bullet holes and several cannon holes in the fuselage."

But Lieut. Faucett's Liberator had bagged seven out of the twenty parachute-attacking Zeros.

With Faucett were Lieut. Richard Mattingly of Palo Alto, Cal., co-pilot; Lieut. Fred Schrack, 26, of 56 Graham avenue, Brooklyn, bombardier; Lieut. James Muldoon, 21, of 100 Arden street, New York city, navigator.

His gunners who downed the Zeros were: Sergt. Flory R. Szmania, 27, flight engineer, of Elyria, Ohio, who was credited with one zero and part of another; Sergt. John Sisson, 28, radio operator, of Chattanooga, Tenn., credited with part of one and already having two to his credit; Sergt. Ray McDonough, 24, of Grand River, Ohio, who bagged one Zero and was credited with part of another; Sergt. Edward T. McAnney, 22, of Hamden, Conn., who gained credit for part of a Zero, holding up a window with one hand while he handled twin machine guns with another; Sergt. Roy A. Fitzgerald, 25, of Wheeling, W. Va., credited with one Zero, and Sergt. Donald O. Harrison of Annapolis, Md., the tail gunner, who got two Zeros.

Kolombangara Shelled.

Guadalcanal, Aug. 31 (Delayed) (A. P.).—The Americans opened fire with heavy artillery today for the first time in the process of softening up southern Kolombangara Island for capture as fighter and bombing planes carried the war spectacularly to the Japanese by air.

The artillery was placed on northern New Georgia Island, only recently taken from the Japanese in the Allied offensive up through the Solomons.

PREPARE TO GREET MRS. ROOSEVELT

Canberra, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—In anticipation of an impending visit by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Australia's capital already is planning a series of functions in honor of the American President's wife, who now is in New Zealand.

Tentative plans call for a small dinner to be given on Mrs. Roosevelt's arrival by Lord Gowrie, Governor-General of Australia. The Government will give a state luncheon in her honor the second day and this will be followed by a reception arranged by the American Minister, Nelson Johnson.

The program is subject, however, to Mrs. Roosevelt's approval

30.24-7977

Argentina May Reject U. S. War-Criminal Plea

'La Prensa' Cites Precedents for Granting Asylum

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 2 (AP).—Commenting on President Roosevelt's request that neutral countries refuse refuge to "war criminals," the newspaper "La Prensa" indicated today that Argentina would adhere to "her traditional attitude" of granting asylum to political leaders.

The newspaper, one of the largest and most influential in Argentina, added that the policy of asylum for political leaders has been accepted by all American republics except the United States and Haiti. As a precedent for the purported decision of the Argentine government, it cited the protection offered by certain South American Embassies in Madrid during the Spanish Civil War.

"La Prensa's" editorial said Argentina's position was determined by the international agreement on criminal law signed at Montevideo in 1889. "So Argentina," "La Prensa" concluded, "maintaining the principles she has always upheld, already had a ready answer."

Anti-Air-Raid 'Smoke' Produced By Germans

New York, Sept. 2 (AP)—A Zurich dispatch to the Stockholm newspaper Aftontidningen reports that the Germans have manufactured a new "smoke" from chlorine, sulphur and oxygen to "protect" all war-essential industries from air attacks.

It went on to say that Nazi authorities handling war damage compensations had decided to grant compensation when damages are incurred from the smoke, which burns lungs and also affects smaller machine parts unless the parts are well oiled.

INVASION BOAT LOADED FOR NEW SMASH AT AXIS

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(AP) Merrill Mueller, NBC reporter, said in a broadcast from Algiers tonight that "the other day I spent a few hours in the French dockyard here, watching an invasion boat take on freight."

The statement was passed by military censors.

Mueller did not amplify as to the task assigned the vessel, but the implication was that the cargo was being stowed for another Allied plunge at Axis shores.

STRIKES SWEEP GREECE

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—(AP) Radio France at Algiers said tonight that a new general strike had broken out in Greece, because Bulgarian troops had extended their occupation to "the whole of Greece," except Salonika.

German and Italian troops have been sharing in the occupation of Greece, but a general withdrawal of Italian forces from the Balkans has been reported in recent weeks. Extension of the Bulgarian garrisons might indicate a closer collaboration between the Germans and Bulgarians since the death of King Boris III.

The French language broadcast, recorded by United States monitors, said that Greek patriots had cut "all communications" between Albania and Athens by wrecking eight bridges.

Japs Says 150 Planes Raided Marcus Island

New York, Sept. 2 (AP)—Two aircraft carriers which sent off "ninety Grumman fighters" and "about sixty carrier bombers" participated in the American attack on Marcus Island, a Domei broadcast from Tokyo said today.

The broadcast declared twelve of the planes were shot down in the attack on the island less than 1,200 miles from Tokyo, but admitted that damage to Japanese grounded planes resulted.

Quotes Communique

Another Tokyo broadcast to Japanese areas quoted an imperial headquarters communique as follows:

"In regard to the enemy raid upon Minamitori Shima (Marcus) on September 1, according to a later report the enemy task force consisted of approximately 160 fighters and bombers based on aircraft carriers. The force raided our air base facilities.

"During this operation our force shot down twelve enemy planes.

"Although we received slight damages on our planes on the ground, damages inflicted upon our personnel and military facilities were almost negligible."

What's Behind The War News

By HAMILTON W. FARON

Until details of the attack upon Marcus island by a carrier task force of the United States fleet are revealed, its significance must remain in doubt, but certainly the daring assault will have far reaching effects upon the entire Pacific theater of war.

It indicates definitely a major increase in Pacific strength of the Navy and brings sharply into focus the central Pacific area in which little major action has taken place in recent months.

If merely a "raid," the attack could be the first of a series of harassing actions which might develop into a war of attrition with destruction of enemy ships, planes and personnel placed in a balance against American losses.

Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the Navy, recently asserted emphatically that the Navy engages in no "eccentric" operations. He explained that all naval actions could be fitted into the overall war picture.

The Marcus assault, even if merely a raid, may force the Japanese to move defensive strength into the area to meet threats of an invasion with consequent weakening of enemy sea and air power elsewhere.

The action conceivably could be part of a coordinated movement of which other parts are the stepped up aerial offensives against the Japanese in the south Pacific, the continuing drive on Salamaua on New Guinea, and other actions prepared or initiated but not yet disclosed.

However, a general closing in on the Japanese from the southwest Pacific, from China, in Burma, possibly even from the Aleutians, likely will await at least the arrival of Lord Louis Mountbatten at his headquarters as supreme commander of Allied forces in southeast Asia, and most probably the end of the monscon season.

The general situation may have the effect of drawing the Japanese fleet into action — an accomplishment long hoped for by the Navy. This seems possible particularly if carrier task forces which are poised for action against Japan should disrupt seriously the movement of merchant ships over the enemy's long supply lines in the south Pacific.

Those lines are already feeling the effects of regular bombing attacks and submarine actions. In the Solomons-New Guinea area, once a stronghold of the Japanese, the enemy is risking only barges in attempting to keep supplies and equipment moving to the few remaining beleaguered garrisons. Those barges have been taking a terrific pounding.

On Kolombangara in the central Solomons the Japanese forces are virtually isolated, with Allied troops occupying all important nearby island. Its abandonment by the Japanese, or its loss to invading American forces, probably is near.

CHURCHILL SEES ROOSEVELT ON WAR POLITICS

Closer Co-ordination Among Three Most Powerful Allies Is Problem.

AWAIT WORD FROM MOSCOW

Talks Regarded as Conclusion of Business Begun at the Quebec Conference.

Washington, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—In the easy atmosphere of a semi-official visit Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt today settled down to a discussion of political problems of the war, while official Washington awaited some response from Russia to Anglo-American overtures for a three-power conference this year.

After dinner, Mr. Roosevelt and his guest talked in the President's study until 1 o'clock this morning and the President left most of his work day free for further conferences.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said that regular routine had been discarded so that the President and the Prime Minister could talk whenever they feel like it.

Mr. Roosevelt had only two appointments today, with Brazil's War Minister, Gen. Eurico Gaspar Dutra, at noon, and with his Cabinet at 2 P. M.

Mr. Churchill had an appointment with Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, around noon, and was seeing British military leaders and chiefs of British missions in this country after lunch.

Despite all that the President and the Prime Minister have said about meeting Russia there still was no indication from Moscow as to whether the suggestion was considered favorably there, nor was there much concrete evidence in Washington thus far of success in arranging a preliminary get-together of top diplomats of the three Governments.

The need for closer co-ordination among the three most powerful Allied nations thus remained the number one political problem pointed up by the recent Anglo-American conference in Quebec and obviously held open for further discussion in Washington.

Dinner at White House.

Mr. Churchill arrived from Quebec late yesterday, accompanied by Mrs. Churchill and his staff. The only function immediately announced for his entertainment was an informal family dinner at the White House last night.

White House officials stressed that the visit should not be considered as of a purely business nature since Mr. Roosevelt hoped to make it partly social. They also described the talks as representing not the beginning of a story but the conclusion of one begun in Canada.

Two State Department disclosures yesterday bore directly upon Russia's prospective participation with the United States and Britain in the solution of these problems. The department issued a statement saying that Russia had been consulted about and kept fully informed of military operations in the European theater of war and also "with respect to political situations arising directly out of military operations."

This latest evidence of Anglo-American efforts to work closely with the Soviet Union was coupled subsequently with a press conference comment by Secretary Hull that he considered a tripartite meeting highly desirable but had no plans for attending such a meeting himself.

Meeting in London Possible.

Prime Minister Churchill had proposed in his Quebec speech Tuesday that a meeting of the Foreign Ministers of the three governments should be held preliminary to any conference of the chiefs of those governments.

Possibly the nearest approach to the realization of that proposal is found in the presence in London of Russia's Vice-commissar of Foreign Affairs, Ivan Maisky. To a meeting with him and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain, President Roosevelt might send a ranking State Department official, some authorities here believe.

What official information the President and Prime Minister have regarding Marshal Stalin's willingness to meet them is of course a State secret. Diplomatic custom normally would require that any public announcement along that line should come from Moscow rather than from Washington or London.

In fact there was little expectation that anything further in the way of new proposals and suggestions would be forthcoming from Anglo-American sources since the joint Roosevelt-Churchill pronouncement at Quebec and later the Prime Minister's speech put the issue squarely up to Marshal Stalin.

The Chief Executive and the Prime Minister talked until 1 o'clock this morning in Mr. Roosevelt's study, and resumed their discussions during the day.

President Meets Brazilian

Mr. Roosevelt took time out to meet Maj. Gen. Eurico Gaspar Dutra, Brazil's War Minister, and to preside at a meeting of his Cabinet.

Dutra apparently came to the White House more to pay his respects than to engage in any serious conversations about the war, in which his country also is engaged. He is in the United States surveying the American war effort.

Churchill, meanwhile, conferred with Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the United States Army, and with British military leaders and chiefs of British missions in America.

The Roosevelt-Churchill conversations are to continue tomorrow morning, and Mr. Roosevelt's regular Friday press and radio conference has been canceled.

WAR TALKS GO ON NIGHT AND DAY SCHEDULE

Roosevelt And Churchill Confer Until 1 A. M., Resume Later

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, Sept. 2—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill are back on a night and day schedule in their war talks.

While no word is forthcoming from the White House or the subjects uppermost in their deliberations, there is nothing to detract from the theory that they are giving attention to international political issues of the present and future, with particular emphasis on ways of getting greater political collaboration with Russia.

HULL PRAISES DANES' REVOLT AGAINST NAZIS

Declares Uprising Heartens All Peoples Under German Tyranny.

CONSIDERS NATION AN ALLY

Scavenius Refuses Berlin's Offer to Form Another Danish Cabinet.

Washington, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—Secretary of State Hull said today that revolt of the Danes against German rule would hearten all the peoples of subjugated Europe.

The recent events in the little kingdom were an eloquent reminder, he told his press conference, that "German rule in any circumstance is intolerable to a free and democratic people."

Asked if the Danes now could be considered allies of the United States, Mr. Hull expressed the belief the Danes really have been allies of the United Nations during the whole period of their subjugation. He added that this status as an ally might become more definite.

In a statement later Mr. Hull said:

"Recent events in Denmark are an eloquent reminder that German rule in any circumstance is intolerable to a free and democratic people. Germany, on the defensive in the Mediterranean area and on the Russian front, has gained another brutal and illusive 'victory' over a small, defenseless country. The resistance of the Danish King and people of German domination will give new heart and encouragement to all peoples of Nazi subjugated Europe."

Refuses Nazi Bid.

Stockholm, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—Eric Scavenius, Danish Prime Minister who resigned his post when Germany clamped a military dictatorship on Denmark last week end, has declined an offer by the Nazis to form a new government, Danish refugees said today.

Scavenius, one of the few Danish political leaders to escape arrest following Sunday's bloody revolt, had been asked to head a new Cabinet by Gen. Hermann von Hannecken, Nazi military dictator. Other members of the Cabinet who resigned in a body with Scavenius refused even to meet the Germans to discuss the situation, the refugees reported.

Danish refuges arriving here today said that it was apparent von Hannecken is striving to reach a compromise with the Danes but that his efforts so far have been unavailing.

Several refugees reported that the Germans had ended strikes at Helsingoer and Elsinore Monday by threatening to shoot every tenth worker.

Other refugees reaching Sweden in steadily fewer numbers said they had difficulty in getting through the German patrols. So far, Sweden has given asylum to nearly 500 Danes, all of whom are regarded as political refugees.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2—(AP) Sgt. John Basilone, the only Marine enlisted man now wearing a Congressional Medal of Honor won in this war, reported today that the Japanese are rugged fighters, but "I don't believe they have the brains" needed for victory.

Sgt. Basilone, who piled up 38 Japanese bodies before his hotly contested machine gun position on Guadalcanal last October, described his experiences today in a press conference at the Navy department.

He is on his way to Raritan, N. J., for a brief visit with his Italian-born father and other members of his family before beginning a Treasury department tour in the interest of the Third War Bond drive.

The trouble with the Japs, Sgt. Basilone said, is that their military tactics are poor. "They just look like a bunch of gorillas rushing us," he commented. "They ought to have known better than to rush a machine gun that way."

Asked what the Japs yelled as they rushed forward, Sgt. Basilone replied, "They yelled 'Banzai' and stuff like that, but that didn't bother us any."

"What did you yell back?" he was asked. "Aw, well," he grinned, "that's off the record."

May Shroud Vital Move.

Washington, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—The big unanswered question in the Pacific today was whether the American Navy's daring raid on Marcus Island, in Japan's home waters, was a feint or a well-aimed knockout punch. Japan could profit by the answer to that riddle right now.

Three possibilities emerged from the meager accounts of the spectacular raid:

1. The carrier task force which bombed and shelled the island may have been preparing the way for occupation. It's not a big place but in American hands it could serve as an outpost that would harry Japan's communications with the South Pacific.

2. The attack could have been a feint to cover some highly important move elsewhere, conceivably the occupation of Wake Island, or a drive on the vital Japanese positions in the Kuriles.

3. The Navy may have moved in for a slashing hit-and-run blow for its psychological effect alone.

Enough to Worry Japs.

But whatever the truth may be, the action served notice on Tokio's admirals that the Allies can hit now from many directions. If worried enough by this, the Japanese may be egged into dispersing their available forces to meet all possible threats, in which case, a vulnerable hole may open up in their defenses.

It was a worried Tokio that first broadcast the news that the American forces had hit tiny Marcus at dawn yesterday with many planes. The Navy said only that such an attack had been planned and was "presumably in progress." This willingness of the Navy to speak at all before the fleet breaks its radio silence to supply the details was another indication of growing Allied confidence in the Pacific. It put an exclamation point behind Secretary Knox's recent statement that a warship a day is going into that theater, and it translated into action the word that the Churchill-Roosevelt conferences are dealing largely with ways of getting at the Japanese for a showdown.

Japs Rugged but Not Smart, Says Guadalcanal Marine Hero

TOTAL CASUALTIES LISTED AT 104,658

Figure Since War Began Includes All Services And Merchant Marine

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, Sept. 2—Army losses in the thirty-eight-day conquest of Sicily numbered 7,500 killed, wounded and missing to bring the army's overall war losses to 70,872 and lift the announced casualties for the armed services and merchant marine to 104,658 since Pearl Harbor.

The latest army figures were given at a press conference today by John J. McCloy, Assistant Secretary of War. He said that of the 70,872 casualties in all combat zones 9,209 were killed in action or died of wounds, 20,159 were wounded, 21,764 were missing and 19,740 have been officially reported prisoners of war.

SEP 3 1943

9,000 Wounded Recover

Of the army wounded, McCloy told a press conference, more than 9,000 have recovered completely and returned to active duty. He added that the total of missing included a large number of Philippine Scouts lost in Bataan and Corrigedor.

Navy casualties announced to date are 21,593; Marines, 7,099, and the Coast Guard, 363. The latest Merchant Marine summary showed 4,751 dead and missing.

In all the services, the dead now total 19,875.

No British Report

McCloy said he had no report on British and Canadian casualties in the Sicilian campaign but recalled Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's August 18 announcement that the total in his command was approximately 25,000.

Casualty summaries of services other than the army:

Navy—7,852 dead; 2,561 wounded; 8,914 missing; 2,245 prisoners of war.

Marines — 2,005 dead; 2,506 wounded; 663 missing; 1,925 prisoners of war.

Coast Guard—182 dead; 22 wounded; 158 missing; 1 prisoner of war.

Merchant Marine (from September 27, 1941, to August 1, 1943)—627 dead; 4,124 missing.

MAKES SURVEY OF WAR FRONTS

McCloy Says Allies Are Resting After Sicily.

Washington, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—Here is a survey of the war fronts as given to a press conference by John J. McCloy, Assistant Secretary of War:

The Allies won an appreciable tactical victory in Sicily, and an important strategic victory, but the opposition was desperate, particularly around Catania, and will grow more desperate as we move into the fortress of Europe.

If favorable weather continues, the Russian forces that have destroyed the southern anchor of the German line at Taganrog may accomplish the liberation of the entire Donets Basin this fall. They threaten all German positions along the northern shore of the Sea of Azov and may even break the Nazi hold on the Crimea.

Important German communications and supply centers at Poltava, Bryansk and Smolensk are threatened. The ability of the Red armies to strike hard at these points, while maintaining their constant pressure along the entire 1,500-mile front, is very heartening.

In the Mediterranean Allied forces are resting and reorganizing.

Americans Captured 121,000.

Complete reports are not yet available, but preliminary estimates are that the Americans captured 121,000 prisoners, most of them Italians. The British and Americans captured or destroyed 290 tanks, 1,250 field guns, and large quantities of military supplies and equipment.

In both the Mediterranean and North European areas, the continuing Allied air offensive against the Axis is encountering greater enemy fighter opposition, indicating that the Germans have pulled more of their air strength off the Russian front to protect Germany itself.

In the south and southwest Pacific, American Army troops have completed the conquest of New Georgia and most of Vella Lavella in the Solomons, and are closing in slowly on Salamaua in New Guinea. The Japanese suffered very heavy losses attempting to reinforce their air base at Wewak and as a result appear to have fallen back on Hollandia.

Despite the monsoon, the American 10th Air Force in India is making almost daily attacks on Japanese positions in Burma, and the 14th Air Force in China is carrying out heavy attacks on enemy positions from Indo-China to Hankow.

Between 5,000 and 6,000 American lives may have been saved by the flight of the Japanese garrison from Kiska in the Aleutians. This estimate is based on a personal inspection of gun emplacements and other installations of enemy troops.

GRIPSHOLM SAILS TO BRING HOME 1,250 AMERICANS

Japs from U. S. Will Be Exchanged in Portuguese Colony.

SEP 3 1943

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 — (AP) The exchange liner Gripsholm put out from New York harbor for the Orient today, carrying with her the high hopes of relatives back home for a safe return with 1,250 American men, women and children who have been in Japanese hands since Pearl Harbor.

The big Swedish liner, made a bit less than luxurious by expansion from her usual peacetime load of some 500 passengers, had aboard 1,330 Japanese civilians who are being repatriated. Another 173 Japanese are to be picked up at Rio de Janeiro.

To Return in December

On the basis of the Gripsholm's time on her first exchange trip last year, it may be early December before the Americans being brought back may walk on the free soil of their homeland again.

In the Gripsholm's hold are large quantities of relief supplies and medicines for American prisoners of war and civilians still interned in the Orient, including the Philippines.

To make the Gripsholm as free as possible from any mistaken attack on her journey, she was provided with brilliant electric lights, including some billboard-type reflectors projected over the side and shining on the hull. She travels without convoy, under guarantee of safe conduct by all belligerents.

Tremendous letters run the length of the ship on each side spelling the one word "Diplomat." Bulbs form a huge cross. The colors of neutral Sweden, yellow and blue, cover her and the Swedish flag is painted brightly on decks. Radios announce her position at intervals.

This is one ship that tries to be conspicuous.

Sails to Portuguese Colony

Culminating more than a year of negotiations with the Japanese government through neutral intermediaries, the Gripsholm's voyage this time is to Mormugao, chief port of the Portuguese colony of Goa on the west coast of India.

There, about Oct. 15, the exchange will take place, and about 1,250 United States nationals and some 250 nationals of the other American republics and Canada will be picked up. The Japanese are bringing these Americans in their exchange ship, Teia Maru.

The first exchange took place more than a year ago at Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East Africa.

Because the new exchange point is much nearer Japan, the Teia Maru will not leave Japan until Sept. 15. It will touch at ports in China, the Philippines and Indo-China to take on American passengers and will call at Singapore for fuel and water.

JAPAN'S HEART NEXT, HE SAYS

Admiral McCain Says Raid On Marcus Island Was "Only A Token"

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, Sept. 2—Forecasting attacks on the "heart of the Nipponese empire," Vice-Admiral John S. McCain, deputy chief of naval operations for air, declared tonight that American sea and air power are now "being coordinated in such strength that we eventually will sink the major part of Japan's fleet."

The raid Wednesday on Marcus island is "only a token," McCain said, asserting that "such blows will increase in tempo, in power and in fury, until finally—for Japan—in continuous attack we lay waste in blood and ashes the home islands of this treacherous, brutal and savage people."

First Official Comment

McCain's was the first official comment on the attack on Marcus Island, which is only about 1,200 miles from Tokyo. Details of the action have not yet been given out by the navy.

The admiral predicted an important role for aircraft carriers in carrying the battle into Japan's home territory and reported that "today our aircraft carrier plane strength is double what it was at the beginning of the war." This includes planes based on small escort carriers as well as on the regular combat types, of which seven new ones have now been launched.

1943

30 24-7979

U. S. "Well On Way"

McCain asserted that "tonight we are well on way" with preparations for destroying the enemy's army, navy and air force.

"Tonight," he said, "our navy—now the greatest navy in our history—is poised to strike on the surface, under the surface and in the air. Gradually but certainly we are accelerating the offensive that began when the marines landed on Guadalcanal. Since that time we have not taken a backward step and radio commentators in Japan last night and this morning expressed fear of an attack on Tokyo and other Nipponese industrial centers.

Power Coordinated

"The success of our present offensive is based on realistic conceptions of how we are going to defeat Tojo's forces. Our surface and air power is being coordinated in such strength that we eventually will sink the major part of Japan's fleet.

"We are going to knock every fighting and bombing plane she has out of the air. Our attacks on Japan herself will spearhead our ground forces' advance on Tokyo and the heart of the Nipponese empire."

THIRD LOAN DRIVE WILL OPEN WITH ROOSEVELT SPEECH

President to Broadcast on Wednesday During Hollywood Radio Show.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 — (AP) About seventy million Americans will hear President Roosevelt open the $15,000,000,000 Third War Loan drive next Wednesday night.

Speaking from Washington over a radio network that will embrace virtually every station in the country, the chief executive is expected, the Treasury said, "to call for a rededication of America to the war aims of the United Nations and for maximum sacrifice to hasten an early and decisive victory."

He will speak about 10 minutes, beginning shortly after 9:40 o'clock.

Full-Hour Show

The full-hour, $20,000,000 show will open from Hollywood at 9 p. m., with a series of sketches highlighting the war from Pearl Harbor to its present offensive stage.

"In anticipation of an imminent invasion of the European continent and the relentless pursuit of the Japanese aggressors from the south Pacific," the Treasury's announcement said, "The Hollywood program will also carry a gayer note, reflecting the battle song of the services."

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau will present Mr. Roosevelt to the radio audience after greeting members of the Hollywood bond cavalcade who also will take part in the program.

In addition to being carried on the four networks, the broadcast will be made available to all independent radio stations. It will be carried into movie theaters throughout the country and will be broadcast overseas.

War Loan Director Ted Gamble said the program would represent $20,000,000 worth of talent and time, all of it contributed to the campaign aimed at selling at least an additional $100 war bond to every American during September.

From Washington the bond cavalcade, headed by James Cagney as president of the Screen Actors guild, will make a nation-wide tour — one of several that will take stage and screen stars and battlefront heroes into scores of cities.

POST WAR PLANNING URGED BY JOHNSON

Chamber Head Suggests Meetings of Business Men, Labor, Farmers.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 — (AP) President Eric A. Johnston of the United States Chahber of Commerce, said today a three-weeks' visit to England impressed upon him more than ever "the great necessity" for immediate post-war economic planning.

As a method of approach, he suggested meetings first of business men of Great Britain and America followed by later conferences including labor and agriculture leaders of both nations, and, finally, representatives of all Atlantic countries.

"After that," he added, "we ought to work with Russia."

Speaking glowingly of prospects for the post-war world, Mr. Johnston told a press conference he could see no reason for the apprehension he reported on the part of some Britishers that Great Britain has lost her South American trade contracts to the United States. He said he explained that while Britain had been unable to ship goods to South America since the war, so had we.

Besides, he added, there will be "plenty of opportunity after the war for Great Britain and us both to do more business in South America than ever before—and I hope we can do it on a competitive basis."

Although expressing a hope that Congress will do some post-war planning of its own, Mr. Johnston said he saw no necessity for immediate governmental participation in the conferences he has suggested.

AIRCRAFT OUTPUT NEARS 8,000 MARK

7,700 Planes Built in August, Says WPB in Preliminary Report.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(AP) Aircraft output in August climbed to 7,700 planes, by preliminary estimates, and War Production board officials said today this month's production might hit the 8,000 mark.

The August figures, subject to revision when final reports are in, exceeded July's output by 327

Although the August deliveries to the armed forces were just about as far behind schedule as July—12 per cent—officials said the rate of climb was very close to expectations.

More important, said one official, was the fact that "we got the planes we wanted". Such bad spots as developed in August were in types of planes not rated as critically needed, he said.

This was taken to indicate a continued satisfactory climb in heavy bombers, on which the greatest production pressure now is being exerted, along with certain new fighter types.

Officials deprecated the emphasis which has been placed on meeting aircraft production schedules, stating that it would be very easy to meet astronomical schedules if military leaders were content to keep piling up production of types which have become outmoded.

The original 1943 schedule was an "unrealistic" objective, one source said, pointing out that it was trimmed about 10 per cent early in the year and has undergone two downward revisions since.

No estimates were obtainable on the various categories of planes produced in August.

WAR SPENDING UP IN AUGUST

Hits $7,232,206,853 For Second Highest Total On Record—Receipts Rise

(By the Associated Press)

Washington, Sept. 2—War spending in August rebounded from the July slump to total $7,232,206,353, only $237,059,821 short of the June record, the Treasury disclosed today.

War activity expenditures in July was more than $1,000,000,000 below the $7,469,266,674 for June, although the Treasury daily statement for August 31 said about half the drop represented a bookkeeping transaction.

Second Highest On Record

Except for June, the August spending for war was the highest on record for any month—$140,000,000 above that for May, first month to pass the $7,000,000,000 figure.

Spurred by the pay-as-you-go tax collections, receipts for the month netted $2,720,821,506, a $713,398,127 increase over July. Of that amount $547,726,863 came directly from pay-roll deductions in contrast to only $19,378,195 reported for July.

Debt Up $2,684,207,676

Although the current collection system was started July 1 much of the month's receipts did not show until August. Likewise some August withholdings still are to be deposited with the Treasury.

The public debt at the end of August stood at $148,000,071,037.67, an increase of $2,684,207,676.56 for the month.

VISITS ARLINGTON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 — (AP) Mrs. Winston Churchill made a pilgrimage today to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at nearby Arlington National cemetery, where she placed a wreath on the white marble memorial. The wife of the British prime minister was accompanied by her daughter, Mary, and Lt. Col. Chester Hammond, White House aide.

164 Vessels Delivered To U. S. During August

Washington, Sept. 2 (AP)—The Maritime Commission reported today 164 cargo vessels were delivered by the nation's shipyards last month, six more than were produced in July.

August's total included 110 Liberty ships, fifteen C-types, fifteen Maritime Commission tankers, one private tanker, four Maritime Commission coastal tankers, two private coastal tankers, six special types, six seagoing tugs, two ore carriers, and four concrete barges.

The Liberty ship production was one vessel more than the 109 produced in July.

THREE OFFICERS PROMOTED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(AP) President Roosevelt today approved recess promotions, subject to Senate approval later, for three Marine corps officers. They are Brig. Gen. Allen H. Turnage to be promoted temporarily to Major General and Cols. Oscar R. Cauldwell and Alfred H. Noble to the temporary rank of brigadier general.

NAVY CASUALTIES

Washington, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—The Navy announced today twenty-two casualties, including seven dead, thirteen wounded and two missing. In addition, five men previously listed as missing now are reported dead.

The casualties announced today included:

KILLED

NEW YORK.

GERST, ROBERT FRANCIS (reported missing August 21); mother, Mrs. Helen Gerst, 1126-06 93d avenue, Richmond Hill, L. I.

MAGENHEIM, FRED MANDEL; brother, Louis Magenheim, 43 East 85th street, New York.

NEW PARCELS FOR PRISONERS

WASHINGTON (AP)—American prisoners of war will receive a new type of parcel called the "Capture Parcel," announces the American Red Cross.

The packages contain bandages, razor blades, clothes, hair, shoe and tooth brushes, cascara, carton of cigarettes, pipe cleaners, a pocket comb and cover, shaving cream, a pair of light drawers, 4 handkerchiefs, a "housewife" (comprising needles, thread, buttons, safety pins, pins and darning cotton), shoelaces, pajamas, pipe, shoe polish, tooth powder, safety razor, bedroom slippers, 2 bars of laundry soap, 6 cakes of toilet soap, 2 pairs of socks, sweater, 3 packages of smoking tobacco, 2 bath towels, 2 face towels, a light undershirt, a box of vitamin tablets and gum.

Army Nurse Gets Soldier's Medal

Washington, Sept. 2 (A. P.).—Second Lieut. Margaret M. Decker of the Army Nurse Corps and daughter of Mrs. Llewelln Decker, 38 Hill street, Rockaway, N. J., was awarded the Soldier's Medal for heroism yesterday. She is the second woman to win the award.

Lieut. Decker rescued a soldier from drowning last June 19 in the Colorado River at Topaz, Cal.

Second Lieut. Edith E. Greenwood of Massachusetts, also a nurse, was the first to receive the award for saving patients in a hospital fire last April 17 near Yuma, Ariz.

WAAC OFFICERS REMAIN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(AP) Over 96 per cent of the 5,000 officers of the WAAC have been commissioned as officers in the WAC. Announcing this tonight, the War department said some not sworn in were unable to pass the physical examination, others did not desire to enter the Army, and still others were not recommended for commissioning by the board which passed on all the applications.

SILVER STAR AWARDED TO MERCHANT SEAMAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—(AP) The Silver Star medal for extraordinary heroism in action was awarded Chief Officer Walter A. Equils today—the first member of the merchant marine ever to be decorated by the Army.

Equils, 32, who lives in Washington, D. C. received his medal from Col. T. L. Crystal, commanding officer of Fort Jay, after a parade and review at Governor's Island.

Equil's citation told of his gallantry in action during a bomb attack on Tripoli harbor the night of March 19, 1943. The citation commended the chief officer for his action in moving his ship out of danger when an ammunition vessel, moored alongside his ship, was struck by bombs and burst into flames.

"A delay of a few minutes," the citation said in part, "probably would have resulted in the loss of the ship and her valuable cargo. Later by his excellent handling and maneuvering, he avoided another threatening fire and a torpedo."

HALF OF SHIP'S CREW LOST IN INDIAN OCEAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 — (AP) Survivors of a medium-sized United States merchant ship, torpedoed and sunk in the Indian ocean last April, have arrived in New York, the Navy announced today. Half of the merchant crew of 42 was lost, some killed by the blast and others perishing while adrift.

The ship was torpedoed at dusk, after the captain had sighted two periscopes and tried to evade the U-boats. After the torpedo struck, two submarines surfaced and shelled the vessel while the crew, in liferafts and lifeboats, stood by and watched their ship go down. The survivors were picked up after being afloat several days and were landed at an African port, from which they made their way to the United States.

WARNS ON TIES WITH REDS

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 — (AP) Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party, said tonight that failure of the United States and Great Britain to land "in full force in western Europe before the summer is ended" would lead to "profound deterioration" in their relations with Soviet Russia.

DUTCH ADMIRAL ARRIVES

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 — (AP) Jan W. Termijtelen, rear admiral and chief of staff of the Royal Netherlands navy, arrived at LaGuardia airport tonight aboard a Pan American trans-Atlantic clipper en route to the Dutch West Indies. He declined to discuss his mission.

SEEK AID FOR JEWS

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(AP) The American Jewish conference tonight asked the governments of the United Nations to take "special practical measures" to rescue Jews who still survive in Axis Europe.

Thunderstorms Tough On Glider Pilots

NEW YORK (AP) — Thunderstorms have provided weird experiences for glider pilots who flirt with it, according to Air Pilot and Technician Magazine.

Numerous cases were reported in Germany before the war, the magazine says, when eager pilots, playing too close to the central vertical updrafts of thunderheads, would see their ships broken by the turbulence. Bailing out, they apparently opened their chutes only to find that, instead of descending, they were rapidly rising. Shot up to substratosphere levels these pilots died from lack of oxygen and froze stiff in the sub-zero atmosphere.

That's why, says the magazine, glider pilots are cautioned not to pull the rip cord until they're in the clear, beneath old man thunder's fury.

Men on Two Liberators Deliberately Chose Death to 'Shorten War.'

TREMENDOUS BLASTS CAUSED

Survivor of American Raid on Rumanian Oil Fields Tells Story of Sacrifice.

Miami, Fla., Sept. 2 (A. P.).—Technical Sergt. Frank B. Kozak of Carbondale, Pa., arrived in the United States today with a gripping story of how the crews of two big, four-engined Liberator bombers sacrificed their planes and lives by deliberately diving into targets in the Ploesti oil fields in Rumania, causing tremendous explosions and fires.

Kozak, a member of the crew of a Liberator piloted by Lieut.-Col. Julian Bleyer, said the two heavy bombers were hit and smoking before they dived downward as a sacrifice "to shorten the war." He saw one other big plane crash to earth a moment after releasing a cascade of bombs on a refinery.

"From my window I saw a Liberator rush in near us, smoking heavily, almost out of control," he reported at the Army air base here. "I could see the pilot working the controls. He headed the bomber at a big refinery and dove into it. The plane, its crew of ten and the refinery exploded together.

"It was catastrophic. A minute later I saw another big bomber do the same thing. It was further off, flying for an important cracking plant. Smoke was trailing from that one, too. Just before reaching the target the pilot dove down into the cracking plant and blew it up."

Explaining why the Americans plunged to death with their bombs, Sergt. Kozak said:

"High officers had told us our mission would be vital, essential to the Allied Armies, and if successful we'd shorten the war We'd all practiced for weeks each bombardier had his target pinpointed. From what I know not one bomb missed its target."

Kozak Gets D. F. C.

Sergt. Kozak earned the Distinguished Flying Cross for his part in the recent 2,400-mile, fourteen - hour round trip that blasted the Rumanian oil field and refineries. He said the formation of bombers made the trip at fifty feet and dropped 600,000 pounds of bombs.

"The other waist gunner, Tech. Sergt. Frank Beauregard of Salem, Mass., and I lifted four big boxes of incendiaries from the floor and spilled them out of the window," related Kozak.

"Our pilot had to pull up to 450 feet to clear smokestacks. The plane was filled with smoke from fires already rolling through the target area when we got there. I saw other incendiaries hit oil tanks, and some of the bombs I flung from the window must have done damage, too. A roar and roll of flames and black smoke mounted from oil tanks."

He said the planes were so low that heavy anti-aircraft fire was ineffective but light flak was "the fiercest I've ever seen."

"Col. Bleyer dropped to fifty feet again and opened up to get away from there," he said. "We were in formation with other bombers. Our top gunner, Tech. Sergt. Bob McCown of Los Angeles, shot down two pursuit planes after we dropped our bombs. The rest of us couldn't get in a shot because those high-altitude fighters never came down to our level."

SUICIDE DIVES BY AMERICAN PLANES CITED

Gunner Says Two Liberator Crews Sacrificed Lives At Ploesti

SEP 3 1943

(By the Associated Press)

Miami, Fla., Sept. 2—The crews of two four-engined Liberator bombers were credited by a returning gunner today with deliberately sacrificing their lives during the recent raid on the Ploesti oil fields by diving their big planes into vital targets.

Technical Sergeant Frank B. Kozak, of Carbondale, Pa., a waist gunner aboard a raiding plane piloted by Lieut. Col. Julian Bleyer, said he saw both planes had been hit and were smoking as they smashed into their targets.

Headed At Refinery

"I saw a Liberator rush in near us, smoking heavily, almost out of control," Kozak related upon his return to the United States. "I could see the pilot working the controls. He headed the bomber at a big refinery and dove into it. The plane, its crew of ten and the refinery exploded together.

"It was catastrophic. A minute later I saw another big bomber do the same thing. It was farther off, flying for an important cracking plant. Smoke was trailing from that one, too. The pilot dove down into the cracking plant and blew it up."

His plane filled with smoke from fires in the target area when his plane flew over, Kozak said he and the other waist gunner, Technical Sergeant Frank Beauregard, of Salem, Mass., hoisted four big boxes of incendiaries and spilled them out of a window.

Incendiaries Hit Oil Tanks

"Our plane had to pull up to 450 feet to clear smoke stacks," he related. "I saw some of the incendiaries hit oil tanks, and some of the bombs I flung from the window must have done damage, too. A roar and roll of flames and black smoke mounted from oil tanks."

The planes had flown up to the target area at an altitude of fifty feet. Survivors began the 1,200-mile return flight to bases at low level.

Technical Sergeant Bob McCown, of Los Angeles, shot down two pursuit planes that hovered overhead, and Kozak destroyed another as the tattered formation droned over the Ionian Sea. Kozak was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Japanese Cut Arms Off Dead

U. S. Captain Tells of Unexplained Custom at Attu

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 2 (AP).—Captain Jack J. Henley, of Missoula, Mont., said today that the Japanese on Attu had a "habit of cutting the right arms from their dead and stacking them in a storage tent."

"This custom aroused a lot of comment but no satisfactory explanation," Henley said at an interview. He won his captaincy at Attu and is en route to a new assignment.

"Apparently the arms were amputated by surgeons, as they were not mutilated or hacked," he said. 'The rest of the body was burned. After the campaign was well under way, however, the Japs didn't have time for such practices."

Urges Real Peace for Poland

DETROIT, Sept. 2 (AP).—The Most Rev. Edward Mooney, Catholic Archbishop of Detroit, said today in a statement in the current issue of "The Michigan Catholic" that "if we compromise with any kind of totalitarian aggression against Poland, the end of this war will mark only another armistice, not a good and enduring peace." The Archbishop urged prayers for America as well as for Poland during Polish week, Sept. 5 to 11.

Bronx Flier Is Killed in Crash

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Sept. 2 (AP)—Ten crew members of a four-engined bomber from the Great Falls Army air base were killed today in the crash of their plane five miles east of Fort Benton. The dead included Second Lieut. Arnold J. Gardiner of the Bronx, New York.

ARD LONDON—PEACE (CHESTER)
LONDON MORNING NEWSPAPERS TODAY CONJECTURED THAT A REPORTED EXCHANGE OF COMMUNICATIONS AMONG WASHINGTON, LONDON AND ROME CONCERNING AN ITALIAN SURRENDER WAS THE PROBABLE CAUSE FOR CESSATION OF THE ALLIED BOMBING OF THE CITIES OF INDUSTRIAL NORTHERN ITALY. THERE HAVE BEEN NO RAIDS NORTH OF THE PO RIVER SINCE THE TURIN ATTACK 16 DAYS AGO.

A SWISS TELEGRAPHIC AGENCY DISPATCH FROM CHIASSO QUOTED THE ITALIAN PRESS AS SAYING THAT A SPECIAL COMMISSION WAS ABOUT TO START AN INVESTIGATION CONCERNING A LARGE NUMBER OF RICH FASCISTS. THOSE NAMED INCLUDED ROBERTO FARINACCI, FORMER SECRETARY OF THE FASCIST PARTY; LT.GEN. ACHILLE STARACE, EX-CHIEF OF THE FASCIST MILITIA GENERAL STAFF, AND EDMUNDO ROSSONI, ONCE FASCIST SYNDICATE ORGANIZER AND FORMER MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE AND FORESTS.

THE DISPATCH SAID AN ESPECIALLY STRINGENT INQUIRY WOULD BE MADE TO SURVEY THE "IMMENSE" HOLDINGS OF COUNT GALEAZZO CIANO AND HIS WIFE, THE DAUGHTER OF BENITO MUSSOLINI.

THE DISPATCH ADDED THAT THE ITALIAN PRESS HAD FRONT-PAGED A LETTER FROM GIOVANNI ROVEDA, VICE-COMMISSIONER OF THE FEDERATION

SEP 3 1943

30.24-7981

OF INDUSTRIAL WORKERS, ACCUSING CESARE MARIE DE VECCHI, MEMBER OF THE FASCIST GRAND COUNCIL AND FORMER AMBASSADOR TO THE HOLY SEE, OF RESPONSIBILITY IN THE DECEMBER, 1922, MASSACRE OF TURIN WORKERS. HE ASKED A SENATE INVESTIGATION.

SEP 3 1943

SB644PEW

ADD LONDON-RUSSIAN (LONG) xxx NAMES

"FOR THE EXCELLENT MILITARY OPERATIONS AND VALOR I EXPRESS MY GRATITUDE TO ALL TROOPS WHICH PARTICIPATED IN THE FIGHTING FOR THE LIBERATION OF SUMY," HIS ORDER OF THE DAY SAID. "ETERNAL GLORY TO THE HEROES WHO FELL IN THE FIGHTING FOR THE FREEDOM OF OUR MOTHERLAND. DEATH TO THE GERMAN INVADERS."

SUMY'S FALL AND THAT OF KROVELETS OPENED THE WAY FOR A PINCERS MOVEMENT ON THE IMPORTANT RAIL JUNCTION OF KONOTOP ON THE SEVERED BRYANSK-KIEV RAILWAY. THIS OPERATION ALSO WAS PART OF THE STEADY FLANKING MOVEMENT ON BRYANSK WHERE OTHER RUSSIAN UNITS ARE ONLY 25 MILES EAST OF THAT GERMAN HINGE BETWEEN THE CENTRAL AND SOUTHERN FRONTS.

MORE THAN 130 LOCALITIES WERE CAPTURED IN THIS WESTWARD SWEEP TOWARD KIEV AND THE DNIEPER RIVER, AND STALIN'S ORDER OF THE DAY SAID THE ENTIRE KURSK REGION NOW "IS COMPLETELY FREED FROM THE GERMAN FASCIST INVADERS."

THE CAPTURE OF SUMY, KROLEVETS AND OTHER AREAS BETWEEN BRYANSK AND POLTAVA GAVE THE RUSSIANS A SOLID 200-MILE FRONT WHICH THEY ARE PUSHING STEADILY WESTWARD TOWARD THE DNIEPER RIVER.

POLTAVA, 85 MILES SOUTHWEST OF KHARKOV, ALSO WAS MENACED BY A FLANKING MOVEMENT THE SAME AS BRYANSK. THE COMMUNIQUE GAVE FEW DETAILS, BUT SAID THAT GEN.IVAN S.KONEV'S STEPPE ARMY HAD STABBED OUT FRESH GAINS WEST AND SOUTHWEST OF KHAR[illegible]. THESE TROOPS LAST WERE REPORTED WITHIN 30 MILES OF POLTAVA, AN IMPORTANT GERMAN BASE ON THE APPROACHES TO THE DNIEPER RIVER BEND.

THE COMMUNIQUE SAID THE RUSSIANS HAD KNOCKED OUT 108 GERMAN TANKS ON ALL FRONTS IN WEDNESDAY'S FIGHTING, AND DESTROYED 51 ENEMY PLANES.

A GERMAN BROADCAST DECLARED THAT GERMAN TROOPS HAD DESTROYED 4,339 SOVIET TANKS AND CAPTURED MORE THAN 14,000 PRISONERS IN SIX WEEKS' FIGHTING IN THE "OREL SECTOR." THIS CLAIM APPEARED TO BE A PROPAGANDA MOVE TO COUNTERACT THE JUBILANT RUSSIAN ANNOUNCEMENT WEDNESDAY OF THE MAJOR GERMAN DISASTER AT TAGANROG.

JS554PEW

ADD LONDON-RESCUE xxx HOURS

COMMENTING ON THE ORDEAL LATER, STAFF SGT.LUTHER (TEX) DANIELS OF LULING, TEX., TOP TURRET GUNNER, SAID: "I'D GO TO HELL AND BACK FOR THAT MAN (PIPER)."

THE OTHER SURVIVORS WERE LT.PAUL SCHULZ OF DETROIT, MICH., NAVIGATOR; LT.AL MORGAN OF CROSSETT, ARK., CO-PILOT; AND STAFF SGT.WILLIAM ARMES OF 3274 S.E.FRANKLIN ST., PORTLAND, ORE., BALL TURRET GUNNER.

SEP 3 1943

BY ROBERT [illegible].STURDEVANT

LONDON, SEPT. 2-(AP)-SIX SURVIVORS OF AN AMERICAN LIBERATOR CREW WHO DRIFTED FIVE DAYS IN THE BAY OF BISCAY AFTER BEING SHOT DOWN BY 10 JUNKERS-88S HAVE BEEN RESCUED BY A NAVAL VESSEL AND LANDED AT A SOUTH COAST PORT, THE AIR MINISTRY NEWS SERVICE REPORTED TODAY.

THE PLANE "G FOR GEORGE," WORKING IN COOPERATION WITH THE COASTAL COMMAND, FOUGHT FOR AT LEAST HALF AN HOUR BEFORE BEING FORCED DOWN INTO THE SEA, BADLY DAMAGED.

THE FIRST MAN WHO STRUGGLED FREE FROM THE SUBMERGING AIRCRAFT WAS 2ND LT.CHARLES H.MOORE, SEGUIN, TEX., SECOND PILOT, WHO INFLATED ONE OF THE PLANE'S DINGHIES. HE THEN SAW SGT.FRANK G.ANTOSZ, 44 E. HALLENBACH AVE. WILKES BARRE, PA., AND TOGETHER THEY INFLATED ANOTHER DINGHY.

SEP 3 1943

THE TAILGUNNER, SGT.H.E.BISCHOFF, CLARKSDALE, MISS., WAS FOUND HANGING ON THE UNDERSIDE OF THE AIRCRAFT'S WING. THE RADIO OPERATOR, SGT.GEORGE PEEBLES, 93 LIBERTY ST., AUGUSTA, GA., WAS THROWN 30 FEET FROM THE PLANE AND HIS ASSISTANT, SGT.LANCELOT ROSENBERGER, 120 EIGHTH AVE., WATERVLIET, N.Y., WAS AFLOAT THE SAME DISTANCE AWAY.

THE PILOT, LT.SILAS M.GIRDER, COMPTON AVE., SAN ANTONIO, TEX., WAS ALSO FOUND NEARBY.

ALL WERE INJURED EXCEPT MOORE AND ANTOSZ, BUT THE SURVIVORS MANAGED TO LASH THE TWO DINGHIES TOGETHER AND SALVAGE A KEG OF WATER AND A BOX OF RATIONS FROM THE SINKING PLANE.

"THE SEA WAS PRETTY ROUGH, BUT WE MANAGED TO HANG ON TO OUR FOOD AND WATER FOR THE MAJOR PART OF THE FIVE DAYS WE WERE IN THE DINGHIES," SAID ANTOSZ. "ONE DAY, WE WERE OVERTURNED FIVE TIMES.

"ON THE FIRST DAY WE SAW A DISTANT AIRCRAFT AND FIRED ONE OF OUR FOUR FLARES, BUT NO LUCK. ON THE NEXT DAY WE REPEATED THE PERFORMANCE WHEN ANOTHER ONE WAS SIGHTED. ON THE THIRD DAY FOUR AIRCRAFT SHOWED UP AND WE FIRED THE REST OF THE FLARES. BUT STILL THEY DIDN'T SEE US AND IT JUST ABOUT BROKE US."

ON THE FOURTH DAY, HOWEVER, A LIBERATOR SIGHTED THE DINGHIES, DROPPED SMOKE FLARES AND, LATER IN THE DAY, A HALIFAX DROPPED A FIRST AID KIT. THE NEXT MORNING A SHIP PICKED THEM UP. BISCHOFF AND GIRDER SUFFERED HEAD INJURIES. PEEBLES' INJURIES WERE UNDETERMINED AND ROSENBERGER HAD SPINE INJURIES.

SEP 3 1943

EJ1258PEW

LONDON, SEPT. 2-(AP)-THE AMERICAN LEGION OF MERIT WAS AWARDED TODAY TO COL.WALDINEW (CORRECT) MESSMORE, OF 417 WEST AVE., HOLDREGE, NEB., FOR "EXCEPTIONALLY MERITORIOUS CONDUCT IN THE PERFORMANCE OF OUTSTANDING SERVICES AS LIAISON OFFICER TO THE BRITISH AIR MINISTRY FROM JUNE, 1942, TO DECEMBER, 1942."

THE CITATION BY LT.GEN.JACOB L.DEVERS SAID MESSMORE, AN EIGHTH AIRFORCE OFFICER, PLANNED THE ORGANIZATION AND OPERATING SYSTEM FOR POOLING AMERICAN EQUIPMENT FOR COMBINED USE OF THE BRITISH AND U.S. AIR FORCES.

LONDON, SEPT. 2-(AP)-THE BOARD OF BRITISH FILM CENSORS HAS REQUESTED CUTS OF WHAT IT TERMED CERTAIN OBJECTIONAL SCENES FROM THE FILM, "STAGE DOOR CANTEEN," WHICH IS SCHEDULED TO OPEN NEXT WEEK IN LONDON.

A SPOKESMAN DECLINED TO DISCUSS THE PARTICULAR PARTS THE CENSORS ASKED BE DELETED, BUT IT WAS UNDERSTOOD THAT ONE MAIN OBJECTION WAS RAISED TO GRACIE FIELDS SINGING THE LORD'S PRAYER.

LONDON, SEPT 2-(AP)-A JAPANESE IMPERIAL HEADQUARTERS COMMUNIQUE SAID TODAY 160 BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS PARTICIPATED IN THE AMERICAN RAID ON MARCUS ISLAND, LESS THAN 1,200 MILES FROM TOKYO, AND THAT "SOME DAMAGE WAS SUFFERED BY OUR GROUNDED PLANES."

THE COMMUNIQUE, BROADCAST FROM TOKYO AND RECORDED BY REUTERS, ADDED THAT THERE WERE SOME CASUALTIES AND DAMAGES TO GROUND INSTALLATIONS AND DECLARED 12 OF THE AMERICAN PLANES WERE SHOT DOWN.

M545AEW

30.24-7983

ADD STOCKHOLM-DANISH (COLBURN) XXX "AIVNOUNCED"

BESIDES THE CONSERVATIVE CHRISTMAS MOELLER, WHO IS PRESIDENT OF THE DANISH COUNCIL OF LONDON, THE ONLY OTHER OUTSTANDING POLITICAL FIGURE OUTSIDE DENMARK NOW IS C.V.BRAMSNAES, FORMER FINANCE MINISTER, WHO HAS BEEN VISITING IN FINLAND. HE CAME HERE TODAY AND IS EXPECTED TO CONFER WITH KRUSE.

SEP 3 1943

GENERAL VON HANNECKEN'S EFFORTS TO ESTABLISH A NEW GOVERNMENT ALSO ARE HANDICAPED BY THE FACT HE AND BEST KNOW NO QUISLING WOULD BE ACCEPTABLE TO KING CHRISTIAN AND THAT NO OUTSTANDING DANE WOULD PARTICIPATE IN A GERMAN-DOMINATED GOVERNMENT.

STOCKHOLM, SEPT 2-(AP)-AIR TRAFFIC BETWEEN STOCKHOLM AND COPENHAGEN, SUSPENDED SINCE SUNDAY, WAS RESUMED TODAY. THIS ALSO RESTORED AIR TRAFFIC BETWEEN THIS CAPITAL AND BERLIN, SINCE STOCKHOLM-BERLIN PLANES FLY VIA COPENHAGEN.

ADD MADRID-CIANO XXX "CUSTODY)I

(THE MILAN DISPATCH SAID IT WAS EXPECTED SOON OTHER FASCIST DIPLOMATS WOULD ALL BE RETIRED--SUCH A MOVE ALREADY HAS BEEN TAKEN AGAINST DINO CIANO GRANDI, FORMER FASCIST AMBASSADOR TO ENGLAND, THE REPORT SAID.

(THE MILAN DISPATCH FURTHER SAID THAT MILAN AUTHORITIES SET UP MACHINE-GUNS AND STRENGTHENED PATROLS YESTERDAY BECAUSE OF THE PUBLICITY GIVEN LEAFLETS ASKING FOR A GENERAL STRIKE AND PEACE DEMONSTRATION ON THE FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE START OF THE WAR. IT REPORTED THE POPULACE REMAINED QUIET, ADDING ONLY "HALF OF THE PEOPLE ARE WORKING, THEREFORE IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO SAY WHETHER THE STRIKE WAS OBSERVED.")

(EDITORS: TENTH AND ELEVENTH GRAFS OF LONDON ITALIAN STARTING "A SWISS TELEGRAPHIC" AND ENDING "BENITO MUSSOLINI" ARE SUPERSEDED BY THE ABOVE AND MAY BE DELETED.)

30.24-7983

ADD ALLIED H.Q. N.AFRICA (KENNEDY) XXX "FURTHER"

THE CONCENTRATED BOMBING OF THE ITALIAN TOE WAS CARRIED OUT IN FIVE RAIDS BY BRITISH BOSTONS AND BALTIMORES AND AMERICAN MITCHELLS ESCORTED BY SPITFIRES.

RAIL AND HIGHWAY COMMUNICATIONS WERE ATTACKED AT CAPE SPARTIVENTO, OLIVETA, LA MARINA GAMBRIE AND BOVA MARINA. A-36 INVADERS ALSO DAMAGED THE RADIO STATION AT CAPE SPARTIVENTO.

"IT WAS A GOOD RAID", SAID CAPT.THEODORE BROMAN OF WEST DULUTH, MINN., WHO WITH HIS BOMBARDIER, SGT.ROBERT T.VEITCH, WENT ON HIS 50TH MISSION. "WE GOT SEVERAL DIRECT HITS ON THE TARGET."

FLAMES WERE SEEN TO LEAP UP OVER WIDE AREAS AFTER THE WAVES OF PLANES LAID THEIR BOMBS IN NEAT AND CLOSE-KNIT PATTERNS AT THE OTHER TARGETS.

LEAVES FROM A CORRESPONDENT'S NOTEBOOK

SICILIANS ROBBED OF INITIATIVE
BY FASCISM

SEP 3 1943

THEY MUST BE TOLD
WHAT TO DO (800)

BY HAROLD V.BOYLE

(ADVANCE) PALERMO, SICILY, AUG 27-(DELAYED)-(AP)-LEAVES FROM A WAR REPORTER'S NOTE BOOK:

MOST IMPRESSIVE TO THE MEN WHO HAVE THE JOB OF PUTTING SICILY'S PARALYZED CITIES BACK ON THEIR FEET IS THE WAY FASCISM HAS ROBBED THE SICILIANS OF ALL INITIATIVE.

WHOLE TOWNS HAVE BEEN FOUND STARVING WITH AMPLE FOOD STORES NEARBY--MERELY BECAUSE THE MACHINERY OF DISTRIBUTION BROKE DOWN AFTER FASCIST OFFICIALS FLED.

"ON ONE OCCASION WE FOUND 6,000 TO 8,000 PEOPLE HAD BEEN WITHOUT BREAD FOR NINE DAYS BECAUSE NO ONE HAD GIVEN THEM AUTHORITY TO GET WHEAT, ALTHOUGH IT WAS READILY OBTAINABLE LESS THAN 50 MILES AWAY," SAID LT.GEORGE MARINKOV, YOUNG FORMER POLICE OFFICER OF ST.PAUL, MINN.

SEP 3 1943

"THEY HAD LIVED ON HAZELNUTS UNTIL WE CAME IN. WITHIN 12 HOURS WE HAD FOOD IN THE CITY AND HAD ARRANGED FOR SHIPMENTS OF A CONTINUOUS SUPPLY."

MARINKOV SAID THAT THE LIVES OF THE PEOPLE HAD BEEN SO ORDERED BY THE COMPLICATED GOVERNMENTAL MACHINERY OF FASCISM THAT THEY WERE AFRAID TO MAKE A DECISION OF ANY KIND THEMSELVES.

"BUT THEY ARE VERY AMBITIOUS AND HARDWORKING. THEY HAVE SUPREME CONFIDENCE IN US AND ARE EAGER TO OBEY ANYTHING WE TELL THEM TO DO. THEY JUST HAVE BEEN STUNNED BY THE WAR AND TURNED INTO AUTOMATONS BY THE FASCISTS. THEY'LL LET A DEAD BODY STAY IN FRONT OF THEIR HOMES FOR DAYS UNTIL SOMEONE ORDERS THEM TO REMOVE OR BURY IT. THEY WON'T EVEN COMPLAIN. THEY SEEM ABLE TO ENDURE ANYTHING IN THE WAY OF TRIBULATION AND HARDSHIP."

THE FIRST PROBLEM WAS TO CLEAN THE SICILIAN CITY TO REDUCE DISEASE AND SOMN AFTER THEY WERE TAKEN THE INHABITANTS WERE GIVEN SIX TO EIGHT HOURS TO SWEEP THE STREETS OF RUBBISH.

"SOME OF THE STREETS LOOKED LIKE THEY HADN'T BEEN SWEPT FOR 200 YEARS," SAID MARINKOV.

--DASH--

UNDER ALLIED MILITARY GOVERNMENT, THE CARABINIERI, COLORFULLY DRESSED ITALIAN FEDERAL POLICE, HAVE BEEN RETAINED TO KEEP ORDER IN SICILY. ON HIS FIRST PAY DAY ONE OF THE POLICEMEN, IMMACULATE IN DARK BLUE UNIFORM WITH RED STRIPED TROUSERS, DEMANDED AN EXTRA 59 LIRE--59 CENTS.

SEP 3 1943

"I HAVE A NEW BABY," HE EXPLAINED. "MUSSOLINI-HE PAY BONUS FOR EACH BAMBINO."

"BOY, YOU ARE LIVING IN THE PAST," AN OFFICER TOLD HIM. "IF YOU HAVE ANY MORE BAMBINOS, YOU'LL HAVE TO HAVE THEM ON YOUR OWN RESPONSIBILITY. MUSSOLINI ISN'T PAYING OFF ANY MORE."

HE THOUGHT IT WAS SUCH A GOOD JOKE, HOWEVER, THAT HE PAID THE POLICEMAN THE 59 LIRE OUT OF HIS OWN POCKET.

--DASH--

THE PEOPLE OX ONE SMALL SICILIAN TOWN DIDN'T WANT THEIR HOME STREETS TURNED INTO A BATTLEFIELD. THEY HEARD THAT A SMALL GROUP OF AMERICAN SOLDIERS WAS ON THE WAY. SO DID SIX GERMAN SOLDIERS, ALL THAT WAS LEFT OF THE GARRISON.

THE HEINIES SET UP A MACHINEGUN NEAR THE SQUARE, PLANNING TO AMBUSH THE AMERICANS. THEN THE SICILIANS, WHO HAD BEEN JEERING AT THE GERMANS FOR DAYS, BEGAN TO COME UP ONE AFTER ANOTHER WITH CUPS AND BOTTLES OF WINE. EACH INSISTED ON A FAREWELL DRINK WITH THE GERMANS.

THE JERRIES COULDN'T WITHSTAND EITHER THE WINE OR THE HOSPITALITY. THEY DRANK CUP AFTER CUP OF STRONG WINE AND, WHEN ALL SIX WERE ROARING DRUNK, A MOB OF SICILIANS CARTED THEM OFF TO THE LOCAL BASTILLE WHERE THE AMERICANS FOUND THEM A LITTLE LATER, STILL SNORING PEACEFULLY.

--DASH--

30.24-7985

30.24-7985

THE GERMANS HAD COUNTED ON MAKING MUCH MORE OF A DELAYING STAND IN SICILY THAN THEY DID. THEIR BIGGEST DISAPPOINTMENT WAS THE FACT THAT THEIR EXPENSIVE BRIDGE AND ROAD DEMOLITION HELD UP THE AMERICANS ONLY FOR A MATTER OF HOURS INSTEAD OF DAYS.

SEP 3 1943

THE RAPID PROGRESS WAS POSSIBLE ONLY BECAUSE OF SUPERB REPAIR WORK BY AMERICAN ENGINEERS WITH DYNAMITE, PICK AND SHOVEL AND BULLDOZERS. ON SOME JOBS THE NAZIS USED AN ESTIMATED 5,000 POUNDS OF EXPLOSIVES. THEN THEY WOULD SURROUND THE DEMOLITION WITH SCORES OF TERROR ROADMINES AND BOOBY TRAPS.

AMERICAN ENGINEERS QUICKLY DUG UP THE ROAD MINES, USED THEM AND CAPTURED ITALIAN DYNAMITE TO BLOW DEBRIS OUT OF THE WAY AND WITH PICK AND SHOVEL SQUADS AND BULLDOZERS SOON HAD A MAKESHIFT ROAD READY TO CARRY MILITARY TRAFFIC PRESSING AFTER THE ENEMY.

THE NIGHT BEFORE WE WENT INTO MESSINA A SQUAD OF ENGINEERS LED BY LT.ROBERT SPRINGMEYER OF PROVO, UTAH, AND WITH CORP.JOHN A.PETERS OF EDGAR, WIS., AT THE BULLDOZER, CONSTRUCTED EIGHT SEPARATE BYPASSES.

NEXT MORNING DON WHITEHEAD, ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT, AND I FOUND LT.SPRINGMEYER STARING DISGUSTEDLY AT A HUGE CRATER THAT RIPPED THE ROAD APART SEVEN MILES FROM MESSINA. LESS THAN 200 YARDS FROM THE CRATER, BUT FURTHER ON, ANOTHER BRIDGE HAD BEEN BLOWN. IT LOOKED SO HOPELESS THAT WE PARKED OUR CARS AND WENT INTO MESSINA ON FOOT WITH RECONNAISSANCE TROOPS.

APPROXIMATELY TWO HOURS LATER, WE WERE SURPRISED TO MEET LT.SPRINGMEYER DRIVING ABOUT THE MESSINA DOCK INSPECTING THE BOMB DAMAGE.

"WHAT ABOUT THOSE TWO BLOWN BRIDGES?" WE ASKED HIM.

"FIXED," HE ANSWERED LACONICALLY.

AMERICAN VEHICLES WERE STREAMING INTO THE CITY. THE LIEUTENANT AND HIS MEN HAD TAKEN ONLY A LITTLE LONGER TO REPAIR THE BRIDGES THAN IT HAD TAKEN THE GERMAN ENGINEERS TO BLOW THEM UP. THIS IS THE KIND OF YANKEE BATTLEFIELD EFFICIENCY THAT IS BREAKING THE HEART OF THE NAZIS.

(END AP SPECIAL ADVANCE FOR PMS OF WEDNESDAY, SEPT.1-MOVED AUG 31)

ISTANBUL, SEPT. 1-(DELAYED)-(AP)-ALBANIAN PATRIOTS OPPOSING ITALIAN RULE HAVE ESTABLISHED A FREE GOVERNING COUNCIL UNDER THE LEADERSHIP OF A MAJOR ABASKUPI, CALLED THE ALBANIAN NATIONAL COMMITTEE, AN OFFICIAL ALBANIAN SOURCE HERE SAID TODAY.

HE SAID HEADQUARTERS WERE IN THE MOUNTAINS OF SOUTHERN ALBANIA.

MOUNTAIN GUERRILLAS WHO HAVE STUBBORNLY FOUGHT THE OCCUPATION FORCES SINCE 1939 HAVE RALLIED TO THE COMMITTEE FROM ALL OVER THE NATION, AND ONLY THIS WEEK, A COLONEL LED TWO ARMED BATTALIONS OF ALBANIAN POLICE INTO THE COMMITTEE'S FORCES, THE OFFICIAL SAID.

RETALIATING AGAINST THE INCREASING RESISTANCE WHICH IN SOME PLACES HAS GROWN TO OPEN REVOLT, AND AGAINST THE COMMITTEE'S FORMATION, ITALIAN PLANES RECENTLY BOMBED AND INFLICTED HEAVY DAMAGE ON A NUMBER OF TOWNS IN THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT, HE SAID.

THE ALBANIAN MINISTER TO TURKEY, ASAF DJADJOULI, SAID RECENTLY THAT "ALBANIANS EVERYWHERE ARE PROFOUNDLY DISAPPOINTED, INMITMENTS OF THE BRITISH-AMERICAN POLICY OF IGNORING THEM AND THEIR HISTORIC RESISTANCE."

SEP 3 1943

MOSCOW, AUG 29-(AP)-THE DEATH OF KING BORIS III OF BULGARIA WAS ANNOUNCED TODAY TO THE RUSSIAN PEOPLE IN A FOUR-LINE DISPATCH FROM SOFIA BURIED ON THE BACK PAGES OF THE NEWSPAPERS.

KING BORIS HAD TAKEN HIS COUNTRY INTO WAR AT GERMANY'S SIDE AGAINST GREAT BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES, BUT BULGARIA WAS NOT AT WAR WITH RUSSIA.

ADD ALLIED H-Q PACIFIC (MCDANIEL) XXX "BAGGED"

LIBERATOR PILOTS RETURNING FROM AN ATTACK ON REKATA BAY, ONCE A STRONG ENEMY SEAPLANE BASE ON SANTA ISABEL, REPORTED THAT FOR THE FIRST TIME NO ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE WAS ENCOUNTERED.

SANTA ISABEL WHICH LIES NORTHWEST OF NEW GEORGIA ISLAND, WAS CUT OFF FROM DIRECT COMMUNICATION WITH MAIN JAPANESE SUPPLY BASES TO THE WEST BY THE AMERICAN CAPTURE OF NEW GEORGIA AND VELLA LAVELLA ISLAND.

SEP 3 1943

LAST WEEK THE ENEMY ABANDONED ITS BASE AT BAIROKO HARBOR ON NEW GEORGIA, FOLLOWING THE PRECEDENT SET AT KISKA, ALASKA. JAPANESE RESISTANCE CONTINUED, HOWEVER, AT VILA ON KOLOMBANGARA ISLAND, ACROSS THE NARROW KULA GULF FROM BAIROKO.

AMERICAN ARTILLERY, MOVED UP TO THE GULF AFTER THE OCCUPATION OF THE HARBOR, OPENED FIRE ON VILA IN ANOTHER MOVE TO SOFTEN DEFENSES THERE FOR THE FINAL THRUST TO ELIMINATE ALL JAPANESE GARRISONS IN THE CENTRAL SOLOMONS. VILA, OUTFLANKED BY AMERICANS ON VELLA LAVELLA, HAS BEEN THE TARGET OF MANY BOMBINGS AND NAVAL BOMBARDMENTS.

IN NEW GUINEA, 750 MILES WEST OF THE SOLOMONS, THE MOST NOTABLE GAIN IN THE TIGHTENING DRIVE ON SALAMAUA WAS CREDITED TO YANKEE INFANTRYMEN WORKING SEVERAL MILES SOUTH OF THE OBJECTIVE ALONG THE COASTAL AREA.

IT WAS INDICATED THAT THE AMERICANS HAD BY-PASSED A TOUGH JAPANESE POSITION, WHICH NOW IS VIRTUALLY SURROUNDED, AND THEN PUSHED ON THREE-QUARTERS OF A MILE ALONG A RIDGE WHICH OVERLOOKS SALAMAUA ITSELF.

MEANWHILE AUSTRALIAN TROOPS, WORKING FROM THE SOUTHWEST, HAD REACHED A POINT TWO MILES OR LESS FROM THE MOUTH OF THE FRANCISCO RIVER. THIS WOULD PLACE THE AUSSIES ALMOST AT THE EDGE OF THE AIR STRIP BECAUSE THE RIVER FLOWS PAST THE FIELD TO EMPTY INTO REKATA BAY.

SEP 3 1943

AIR AND SURFACE FORCES CONTINUED THEIR ATTACKS ON SUPPLY ROUTES OF THE SALAMAUA DEFENDERS. TEN BARGES WERE DESTROYED ALONG NEW BRITAIN'S SOUTH COAST.

B142PCWNM BJT

ADD GUADALCANAL (BURGESS) XXX SOLOMONS"

THE HEAVY SHELLING BEGAN ON THE HEELS OF A RAID BY AMERICAN ARMY BILLY MITCHELL TWO-ENGINED MEDIUM BOMBERS ON VILA IN THE SAME AREA.

AT THE SAME TIME NEAR VELLA LAVELLA FOUR ARMY WARHAWK FIGHTER PLANES DARINGLY ATTACKED SIX TO TEN ZEROS AND 12 DIVE BOMBERS WHICH WERE ASSAULTING OUR SHIPPING. FIVE ENEMY PLANES WERE DOWNED, AND PROBABLY TWO OTHERS.

LT.CYRUS R.GLADEN, GUTHRIE, MINN., SHOT DOWN THREE OF THE DIVE BOMBERS AND PROBABLY ANOTHER. CAPT.ROBERT C.BURNS, WINFIELD,LA., GOT ONE FOR SURE AND A PROBABLE.

IN ONE OF THE MOST UNUSUAL SINGLE AERIAL COMBAT ACTIONS OF THE CURRENT SOLOMON CAMPAIGN, A LAND-BASED NAVY B-24 BOMBER ON PATROL DUTY SHOT DOWN A JAPANESE FOUR-ENGINE FLYING BOAT WHILE ON RECONNAISSANCE OVER BOUGAINVILLE ISLAND.

WAISTGUNNER W.G.LLOYD, SPENCER, N.C., SPOTTED THE ENEMY FROM A LIBERATOR PILOTED BY LT.(JG) JOHN ALLEY, 25, FORT ATKINSON, WIS.

THE NAVY PILOT, OUT ON HIS FIRST MISSION, IN DESCRIBING THE ACTION SAID:

"WE CLIMBED FROM 5,000 TO 8,000 FEET, SNEAKING UP ON THE ENEMY.

30.24-7987

30.24-7987

WE OPENED FIRE FROM A DISTANCE OF 1,200 FEET, HITTING THE OUTBOARD ENGINE WHICH BURST INTO FLAME. THEN THE NUMBER 3 ENGINE WAS HIT AND WITHIN 10 SECONDS WE STARTED DOWN. PART OF ONE WING FELL OFF JUST BEFORE THE JAP PLANE HIT THE WATER."

SEP 3 1943

BOW GUNNER A.J.LYNENSTEUEL, QUINCY, ILL., AND LLOYD SCORED HITS, EACH FIRING ABOUT 50 ROUNDS AT THE ENEMY.

AERIAL PHOTOGRAPHER F.S.MANALEY, SALISBURY, N.C., OBTAINED A SERIES OF UNUSUAL ACTION SHOTS. IT WAS HIS FIRST EXPERIENCE WITH COMBAT PHOTOGRAPHY.

LLOYD WAS THE ONLY MEMBER OF THE LIBERATOR'S CREW TO HAVE SEEN THIS PARTICULAR TYPE OF ENEMY PLANE BEFORE THE FIGHT.

LT.WHITNEY WRIGHT OF WATERBURY, NE., ALSO FLYING A LIBERATOR ON THE SAME DAY, FLEW TO THE NEW IRELAND AREA NORTHWEST OF NEW BRITAIN AND SPOTTED AN ENEMY GUNBOAT OR SUB-CHASER BETWEEN 85 AND 100 FEET IN LENGTH. HE STRAFED THE LIGHT WARSHIP 10 TIMES FROM 500 FEET, KNOCKING OUT ITS ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS AND THEN LOOSED HIS BOMBS, LEAVING THE ENEMY LISTING HEAVILY.

IN ANOTHER ACTION CMDR.HARRY E.SEARS, BEVERLY HILLS, CALIF., (AND CHEVY CHASE, MD.) LED A FLIGHT OF EIGHT PATROL BOMBERS NORTHEAST OF BUKA AREA AND MADE A DIRECT HIT AS WELL AS THREE NEAR-MISSES UPON A JAPANESE DESTROYER LEADER WHICH WAS LAST SEEN SMOKING AND MOVING AT SLOW SPEED WITH NEARBY ENEMY SHIPS MOVING IN ITS ACT ON. (THE ACTION WAS REPORTED IN TDAY'S ALLIED HEADQUARTERS COMMUNIQUE.)

GUADALCANAL FIRST ADD BURGESS' KAHILI RAID EYEWITNESS

(TOP ON AAA) X TWO ZEROS.

THERE WERE OTHER HEROES LIKE CAPT. KENNETH A.WALSH. THIS 27-YEAR-OLD MARINE CORSAIR PILOT, FROM 1222 NEWTON, NORTHEAST, WASHINGTON,D.C., RAN HIS STRING OF BAGGED JAPANESE PLANES TO 20 BY DOWNING FOUR ZEROS WITHIN A HALF HOUR.

THIS GREEN-EYED, GRINNING ACE WAS SHOT DOWN IN FLAMES INTO THE OCEAN FOR HIS THIRD SUCH EXPERIENCE BUT HE WAS RESCUED WITHOUT SUFFERING A SCRATCH. FELLOW PILOTS HAVE NICKNAMED WALSH "EAGER EAGLE" BECAUSE HE IS SO ANXIOUS TO GET AT THE JAPANESE.

THE BOMBER SQUADRON WAS LED ON THE RAID BY MAJOR MARSHALL VOSE, OF FARMINGTON,ME., WITH CAPT. LEX (CORRECT) SOUTER, OF FALL RIVER,MASS., FORMER CLERGYMAN, MIDDLEWEIGHT WRESTLER AND REFEREE OF FIGHTS IN THE BOSTON AREA, AS AN OBSERVER.

SGT.JOHN BUSH, OF ELYRIA,OHIO, TAIL GUNNER ON A PLANE PILOTED BY LT.WILLIAM FRANCIS, OF JACKSON,TENN., GOT TWO ZEROS.

"APPARENTLY I HIT THE PILOT OF ONE AS IT WENT STRAIGHT DOWN AND HIT THE WATER WITHOUT ANY FLAMES," BUSH SAID. (EDITOR'S NOTE: SOUTH PACIFIC ADVICES ON THIS RAID SAID THE JAPANESE PUT A NEW TYPE OF PLANE INTO THE BATTLE WHICH APPARENTLY HAD MORE ARMOR AND DID NOT BURST INTO FLAMES SO READILY WHEN HIT).

SGT.WALT D.WIDMAN, OF PORT TOWNSEND,WASH., NOSE GUNNER FOR LT.FRANK CALDWELL, OF CHATTANOOGA,TENN., SENT A ZERO FLAMING INTO THE WATER.

SEP 3 1943

ST9.GEORGE LABRIE, OF MANCHESTER,N.H., BELLY TURRET GUNNER ON CALDWELL'S PLANE MADE SURE OF HIS ZERO BY SHOOTING OFF HALF OF THE RIGHT WING.

SGT.BUSTER BAILEY HARDSHELL, WINCHESTER,KY., IN A PLANE PILOTED BY LT.GEORGE HOELFER, ST.PETERSBURG,FLA., DOWNED A ZERO.

SGT.JAMES S.CRITCHFIELD, CLAYSBURG,PA., WAIST GUNNER FOR LT.D.E.MCDONALD, BROOKLINE,MASS., HAD FIRST BAD LUCK THEN GOOD. AS FOUR ZEROS CAME IN, CRITCHFIELD'S GUN JAMMED. IN A SECOND ATTACK, HOWEVER, HE GOT THE GUN FIRING AND BAGGED AN ENEMY PLANE.

CRP.ROLLAND BEIRNER, OF MACHESTER,N.H., BALL TURRET GUNNER FOR LT.HARRY MCDONALD, KANSAS CITY, DESCRIBED HIS SUCCESS THIS WAY:

"THE ZERO SEEMED TO HANG ON ITS PROP, THEN CAUGHT FIRE AND WENT DOWN INTO THE SEA."

TOP TURRET GUNNER SGT.NORMAN C.MEKER, OF BOWLING GREEN,OHIO, WITH LT.JAMES MCFARLAND, OF WILKSBORO,N.C., SENT A ZERO SPINNING OUT OF CONTROL.

SEP 3 1943

CAPT.ELDON STRATTON, OF ANDERSON,MO., TEAMED WITH FLIGHT OFFICER CECIL MOORE, OF SAN ANTONIO,TEX., IN A BIT OF DRAMATIC ACTION.

BOTH WERE FLYING AIRACOBRAS. A ZERO GOT ON MOORE'S TAIL. STRATTON SHOT HIM DOWN. A ZERO GOT ON STRATTON'S TAIL. MOORE SHOT HIM DOWN.

AFTER STRATTON GOT TWO MORE PLANES, HE WAS SHOT DOWN BUT WAS RESCUED.

AMERICAN LOSSES FOR THE RAID WERE ONE LIBERATOR AND FIVE FIGHTERS, BUT FOUR OF THE PILOTS WERE SAVED.

THE CREW ON ONE AMERICAN BOMBER REPORTED SEEING A JAPANESE PLANE WITH JAP INSIGNIA ON THE BOTTOM OF THE PLANE -- AND UNITED STATES INSIGNIA ON THE TOP.

FJ437ACW NM

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC,SEPT.1-(DELAYED) (AP)-LT.COL.EDGAR WARE HAMPTON, 30-YEAR-OLD CHIEF OF STAFF OF THE TROOP CARRIER COMMAND, FIFTH AIRFORCE, HAS BEEN PROMOTED TO A FULL COLONEL.

SEP 3 1943

COLONEL HAMPTON, WHOSE MOTHER LIVES AT NORTHFIELD,N.J., WAS ONE OF THE KEY FIGURES IN ESTABLISHING THE ORGANIZATION WHICH HAS PLAYED SUCH A VITAL PART IN THE NEW GUINEA WARFARE AGAINST THE JAPANESE. THESE CARRIERS TRANSPORT TROOPS AND SUPPLIES AT TIMES WHEN THEY ARE MOST CRITICALLY NEEDED.

COLONEL HAMPTON CAME OUT OF THE PHILIPPINES, WHERE HE HAD BEEN AN AIDE TO MAJ.GEN.LEWIS BRERETON, IN JANUARY, 1942. THREE MONTHS LATER, HE LED THE FIRST FORMATION OF AMERICAN TRANSPORT PLANES IN NEW GUINEA.

FJ1147PCW

MELBOURNE, SEPT. 2-(AP)-THE JAPANESE HAVE FOUND IT NECESSARY TO INTRODUCE A QUOTA SYSTEM ON THE RUBBER PLANTATATIONS OF JAVA, NETHERLANDS EAST INDIES, IN ORDER TO KEEP "DOMESTIC PRODUCTION AND CONSUMPTION IN PERFECT BALANCE," THE TOKYO RADIO SAID TODAY IN A BROADCAST REPORTED BY THE ANETA (NETHERLANDS) NEWS AGENCY.

ANETA VIEWED THE ANNOUNCEMENT AS A VIRTUAL ADMISSION OF THE JAPANESE "INABILITY TO UTILIZE FULLY THE VAST RUBBER RESOURCES OF THE N.E.I. AND OTHER OCCUPIED RUBBER-PRODUCING AREAS." #

HEADQUARTERS 7TH AIR FORCE, HAWAII,SEPT.2-(AP)-THE CREW OF "THE PACIFIC TRAMP," A BOMBER, STOOD EYE TO EYE WITH DEATH ON A PRACTICE BOMBING MISSION RECENTLY AT SEA. A FUSED BOMB HAD BEEN RELEASED ACCIDENTALLY ONTO THE CLOSED DOORS OF THE BOMB BAY. THEN

30.24-7989

30.24-7989

ALL THE BOMBS SLID FROM THEIR RACKS AND FELL ON THE FUSED MISSLE.

THE MEN THOUGHT FAST AND SANELY.

SEP 3 1943

TWO STAFF SERGEANTS, RAYMOND J.KEEPER OF KLEMME, IOWA, AND RALPH S.CALLAWAY OF ELLENWOOD, GA., VOLUNTEERED TO DO WHAT HAD TO BE DONE--STEPPING DOWN INTO THE BOMB BAY AND DISPOSING OF THE FUSED BOMB WHICH LAY UNDER A HEAP OF 100-LB BOMBS.

THERE WAS A CHANCE THAT HAD TO BE TAKEN--THE CHANCE THAT THE ADDED WEIGHT ON THE BOMB BAY DOORS MIGHT OPEN THEM AND SEND THE TWO SERGEANTS INTO SPACE.

THE MEN LOWERED THEMSELVES INTO THE BOMB BAY, PICKED UP THE 100-LB BOMBS, AND PASSED THEM ON TO A CHAIN OF CREW MEMBERS WHO THREW THEM OUT OF A WINDOW.

THE LAST BOMB AT THE BOTTOM OF THE HEAP WAS THE FUSED BOMB WHICH, HAD IT EXPLODED, WOULD HAVE BLOWN UP THE SHIP. THIS, TOO, WENT THE WAY OF THE OTHERS, AND EXPLODED HARMLESSLY FAR BELOW, INTO THE SEA.

AMONG THE CREW MEMBEVRS WHO HELPED DI POSE OF THE BOMBS WERE TECH.SGT.GLEN MARCKMANN, GINNER, OF FONTANELLE, IA.; STAFF SGT.THOMAS SHAFFER, RADIO OPERATOR, OF (681 FAYETTE ST.) CUMBERLAND, MD., AND CORP.HERBERT BAUER, PHOTOGRAPHER, (84 HARDY PONT ROAD) WALTHAM, MASS.

JQ107Q12

RIO DE JANERIO, SEPT. 2 (AP)--AIR MINISTER JOAQUIM PEDRO ~~XXX~~ SALGADO, JR. OF BRAZIL ~~RECEIVED~~ WAS AWARDED THE UNITED STATES ~~ARMED~~ LEGION OF MERIT IN THE GRADE OF COMMANDER AT SPECIAL CEREMONIES--THE FIRST EVER HELD AT THE U.S.EMBASSY HERE.

THE PRESENTATION WAS MADE BY MAJ. GEN. HENRY PRATT OF PUERTO RICO, WHO CAME HERE BY PLANE.

THE AWARD WAS MADE TO SALGADO FOR THE EFFECTIVE COLLABORATION OF THE BRAZILIAN AIR FORCE WITH THE WAR EFFORT OF THE UNITED NATIONS. ##

SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO, SEPT. 2-(AP)-ONE OF THE FIRST PUERTO RICANS SENT NORTH BY THE WAR MANPOWER COMMISSION FOR WAR JOBS IN THE UNITED STATES HAS GONE ABOUT AS FAR AS POSSIBLE.

ANGEL M.SEGRARA, 21, WHO LEFT WITH A GROUP MAY 24, NOW IS WORKING ON A CONSTRUCTION PROJECT AT SEWARD, ALASKA.

WINSTON RILEY JR., LOCAL DIRECTOR OF THE COMMISSION, SAID HE HAD RECEIVED WORD OF SEGRARA'S PLACEMENT.

EV514PEW

OTTAWA, SEPT. 2-(AP)-THE CANADIAN ARMY REPORTED TONIGHT THAT GUNNER JACK WILLIAM WISSON, WHOSE MOTHER, MRS. MARY MONEY, LIVES AT 305 FORBES AVE. E. ~~KENNEY~~ FLINT, MICH., WAS WOUNDED DURING THE SICILIAN CAMPAIGN. THE ANNOUNCEMENT SAID WISSON'S WIFE WAS OVERSEAS.

SEP 3 1943

SW--CP 11--750P

REYKJAVIK, ICELAND, SEPT. 1-(AP)-THE ICELANDIC GOVERNMENT TODAY ANNOUNCED THAT IT HAS RECOGNIZED THE FRENCH COMMITTEE OF NATIONAL LIBERATION AT ALGIERS AS "THE LAWFUL AUTHORITY TO LOOK AFTER AND PROTECT ALL FRENCH INTERESTS."

HJ1231AEW

NEW YORK, SEPT 2-(AP)-A BATTALION OF "MORE THAN 1,000 MEMBERS OF A SPANISH VOLUNTEER DIVISION" ARRIVED RECENTLY AT THE FRENCH FRONTIER ENROUTE TO THE EASTERN FRONT, THE GERMAN AGENCY DNB REPORTED TODAY.

IN A DISPATCH TO GERMAN NEWSPAPERS, INTERCEPTED BY U.S.GOVERNMENT MONITORS, THE AGENCY SAID THE VOLUNTEERS INCLUDED MEN WHO HAD FOUGHT PREVIOUSLY ON THE RUSSIAN FRONT.

THE WAR TODAY

- - -

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

SEP 3 1943

- - -

THE MYSTERY SURROUNDING OUR ASSAULT ON JAPAN'S MARCUS ISLAND IS OF COURSE PURPOSEFUL AND A PART OF THE HIGH COMMAND'S STRATEGY, BUT WE ARE WARRANTED IN REGARDING THIS OPERATION AS A COLORFUL ADVERTISEMENT THAT UNCLE SAM IS RAPIDLY APPROACHING THE TIME WHEN HE CAN DO BUSINESS ON A BIG SCALE IN THE PACIFIC.

THIS DOESN'T MEAN THAT WE ARE TO EXPECT THE OPENING UP OF GRAND OFFENSIVES IMMEDIATELY. IT DOES MEAN THAT OUR STRENGTH IN THE ORIENT HAS INCREASED TO THE POINT WHERE OUR FIGHTING FORCES ARE WEARING THEIR CAPS COCKED AT A RAKISH ANGLE. THAT STRENGTH IS CUMULATIVE AND IS MOUNTING MORE RAPIDLY EACH DAY.

ALL SORTS OF SPECULATION IS GOING THE ROUNDS AS TO THE EXACT MEANING OF THIS STARTLING MOVE IN WHICH OUR TASK FORCE HAS BOLDLY SAILED IN AND TAKEN A PUNCH AT A POINT IN THE VERY PERIMITER OF THE DEFENSES OF THE JAPANESE MAINLAND. ONE GUESS IS ABOUT AS GOOD AS ANOTHER, BUT THERE ARE SOME THINGS WHICH WE CAN PIN DOWN.

FOR INSTANCE, WE KNOW THAT MARCUS ISLAND, WHILE ONLY A PIMPLE ON THE FACE OF THE PACIFIC, IS HIGHLY IMPORTANT TO THE JAPS FOR BOTH DEFENSE AND OFFENSIVE. LYING AS IT DOES SOME 1,200 MILES FROM THE JAPANESE MAINLAND, IT'S A VITAL LISTENING POST--A SENTINEL TO WARN OF THE APPROACH OF DANGER. IT ALSO IS A STRONG AIR-BASE, AND IS A STEPPING STONE BETWEEN JAPAN PROPER AND HER ISLANDS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC. THAT'S PART OF THE SPADE WORK WHICH NATURALLY WOULD BE DONE IN PREPARATION FOR A BIG-SCALE OFFENSIVE. IT'S A STEP IN THE PREPARATION OF THE BIG PAIR OF PINCERS WHICH THE ALLIES ARE GOING TO CLAMP ONTO THE JAPANESE IN DUE COURSE--AN ATTACK FROM THE SOUTH AND FROM THE ALEUTIAN ISLANDS IN COOPERATION WITH A DRIVE AGAINST BURMA BY UNITED NATIONS FORCES UNDER LORD LOUIS MOUNTBATTEN.

SEP 3 1943

THE PSYCHOLOGICAL EFFECT OF THE MARCUS ISLAND EXPEDITION ALREADY HAS BEEN TOP-HOLE. WE HAVE SUCCEEDED IN SCARING THE STUFFING OUT OF THE LITTLE MEN OF THE RISING SUN WHO YESTERDAY RUSHED THEIR SPOKESMEN TO THE MICROPHONES TO WARN THE PUBLIC THAT THEIR ISLAND KINGDOM WAS IN PERIL. THE RADIO SPREAD THE NEWS--AND IT WAS QUITE ACCURATE--THAT WE COULD HAVE ATTACKED THE JAPANESE MAINLAND HAD WE SEEN FIT.

THERE IS SOME SPECULATION WHETHER OUR FORCES HAD THE HOPE OF DRAWING THE JAPANESE NAVY OUT INTO THE OPEN WHERE WE COULD GET AT IT. WELL, THAT'S AN INTERESTING THOUGHT, BUT THE BEST WE CAN SAY WITHOUT FURTHER INFORMATION IS THAT THE AMERICAN NAVY WOULD BE HAPPY TO GET A CRACK AT THE JAP HOME FLEET UNDER FAVORABLE CONDITIONS.

THE NIPPONESE HAVE BEEN KEEPING THEIR MAIN NAVAL STRENGTH CLOSE TO HOME BASES--AND WHO CAN BLAME THEM? IF THEY SHOULD LOSE THEIR FLEET, THE LITTLE ISLAND OF JAPAN CERTAINLY WOULD BE EXPOSED TO SOME NASTY WINDS. IT IS FOR THIS REASON THAT THUS FAR THEY HAVEN'T DARED RISK AN ALL-OUT SEA COMBAT WITH US.

IS OUR TASK FORCE BENT ON OCCUPYING MARCUS ISLAND? OBVIOUSLY THIS BASE, SO CLOSE BY AIR TO TOKYO, WOULD BE A GREAT ASSET TO US, IF IT COULD BE HELD WITHOUT TOO MUCH SACRIFICE. IT WOULDN'T BE EASY TO MAINTAIN THIS POSITION, SO CLOSE TO THE JAP MAINLAND. LIKELY THE QUESTION OF WHETHER THE TASK FORCE WOULD TRY TO OCCUPY THE ISLAND WOULD DEPEND ON HOW SUCCESSFUL WE WERE IN PARALYZING JAP RESISTANCE. IT WOULD REPRESENT A VERY DIFFICULT OPERATION.

RN902AEW

30.24-7991

30.24-7991

8th Army Fights to Widen Italian Bridgehead, Fortresses Shatter Brenner Pass Rail Link; Russians Hasten Nazi Rout on Four Fronts

SEP 4 1943

LOSS OF TWO TOWNS ADMITTED IN BERLIN

KENNEDY

Montgomery's Troops Reported to Have Captured Reggio Calabria and Scilla After Crossing From Sicily.

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. (A. P.).—British and Canadian troops, spearheading the first of several expected invasions of Hitler's Europe, won a foothold in southern Italy today after a pre-dawn crossing from Sicily under cover of a terrific land, air and sea bombardment.

Allied headquarters said, however, that no official announcements concerning the progress of the offensive were expected before tomorrow.

The seasoned warriors of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth Army, under the over-all command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, stormed across the choppy strait in close-packed little boats in the dark hours before dawn under a screaming canopy of steel thrown by land batteries and a sea force of cruisers, destroyers, monitors and gunboats.

Overhead flew dark formations of hundreds of planes which smashed a path through the beach defenses and scrambled the enemy's network of communications throughout the Italian toe.

[A Berlin broadcast acknowledged that the invasion forces quickly captured Reggio Calabria across the Strait of Messina from Sicily, and Scilla, small seaport, twelve miles to the northeast. The German broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press in London, said that one invasion column headed by many tanks already was pushing eastward beyond Reggio Calabria after a stiff fight in which, it was claimed, many landing barges were sunk and considerable losses suffered by the attacking forces.

[The United Nations' radio at Algiers, in a broadcast heard by United States Government monitors, said that the British stormed through the wreckage of pillboxes, coastal batteries and road blocks under the first impact of the attack and were pushing through lemon and olive groves criss-crossed with ditches and mine fields toward 6,000-foot Aspromonte—bitter mountain.]

SEP 4 1943

Bombers Aid Invaders.

United States and British bombers and fighters flew in a series of great waves across Messina Strait today to bomb and machine-gun enemy positions where British and Canadian troops were landing and in the hills farther north, an Air Force announcement said.

One of the R. A. F. Spitfire pilots maintaining a constant patrol over the landing area, without encountering enemy planes, said:

"We saw hundreds of craft darting to and fro unmolested in the strait."

There still was no definite word of the degree of resistance, but it was certain the invaders had cut out a difficult task for themselves as the fighting was over rugged terrain, marked by crags and cliffs close to shore which lent themselves naturally to defense.

Tells of Italian Invasion.

Thus once again Adolf Hitler's legions, which had boasted they held the continent secure, were being engaged on the European mainland.

The first of the invaders, British and Canadian contingents of Gen. Montgomery's famed command, set foot on the Calabrian coast opposite eastern Sicily at 4:30 A. M. (10:30 P. M. Thursday, Eastern war time).

The crossing of the strait was made under cover of a moonless night. It entailed the moving of a great armed force across the narrow arm of the sea, only two miles wide at its narrowest. But even in the starlight the outline of the mountains rising from the Italian toe could be seen from Sicily.

While troop-laden barges churned across the narrow Strait of Messina, artillery on Sicily thundered a heavy barrage against enemy gun positions, warships bombarded the beaches, and a big concentration of aircraft hovered protectively overhead.

The attack came on the fourth anniversary of Britain's declaration of war on Hitler's Germany.

Battle Starts on Mainland.

First announcement from Allied Headquarters came shortly after 7 A. M. (1 A. M., Eastern standard time). The text:

"Allied forces under the command of Gen. Eisenhower have continued their advance. British and Canadian troops of the Eighth Army, supported by Allied sea and air power, attacked across the Strait of Messina early today and landed on the mainland of Italy."

It was emphasized here that the new assault was not to be regarded as a "second front" but as a continuation of a campaign begun in North Africa and moving into Europe step by step—Tunisia, Pantelleria, Sicily, and now Italy itself.

That was the meaning of the phrase, "Allied forces have continued their advance"—from Sicily. The first announcement gave no details of the fighting on the beachhead.

There was no mention of American ground forces taking part in the amphibious attack, but Yankee flyers teamed up with their British comrades to batter enemy positions and provide a protective sky screen for the assault troops.

The landing came after two weeks of intense air bombardment of Southern Italy, attacks that almost without exception were aimed at railway and other communication facilities to disrupt enemy troop and supply movements.

On frequent occasions, too, Allied warships steamed up to the coasts for inshore bombardments. Fierce German opposition was expected on the mainland.

Enemy Guns Silenced.

Explosives cast from Sicily by Allied artillery in the early stages of the landings were said to have silenced several enemy guns even before the first assault craft neare dshore. The thrust was made opposite Messina in the vicinity of Reggio Calabria, mainland ferry port which has been attacked by air almost daily for several months.

The strait there is a mere seven miles wide, and northward it narrows down to about two miles—distances that could be spanned by boat in less than half an hour.

The landings were preceded by several reconnaissance stabs at the enemy shore, Commando-type jabs which Axis radios had described as attempts at invasion but which in reality were only exploratory.

The invasion, the first Allied land attack on the European mainland since the Dieppe raid in August, 1942, came just nineteen days after the final cleanup in Sicily on August 18 in a campaign that lasted thirty-eight days.

The enemy apparently knew the attack was coming, for yesterday German and some Italian planes made several attacks on points along the Sicilian side of the strait, including Augusta. They lost at least four planes in these attacks.

INVASION TROOPS PLUNGE INLAND IN ADVANCE ON ROME

Montgomery Orders His Army to Knock Italy Out of the War.

PLANES GUARD LANDINGS

Fliers Report No Opposition as Barges Shuttle Across Messina Strait.

NEW ATTACKS HINTED

More Allied Forces Poised to Strike from North Africa.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 3. — (AP) British and Canadian troops landed successfully on the toe of Italy before dawn today on the long road to Rome and plunged inland under Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's order to "knock Italy out of the war."

(Scilla and Reggio Calabria, Italian ports 12 miles apart, already had fallen, the Berlin radio indicated. A Rome broadcast in phrases reminiscent of the Axis debacle in Sicily also said: "The enemy's invasion now is in full swing. The enemy has set foot on the Italian mainland and is taking full advantage of his material superiority.")

More Attacks Awaited

This was the first of several expected invasions of the Hitler-held European continent. The American Seventh army of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., was not yet in action. Other powerful American and French forces were poised in North Africa.

Hours after the assault at 4:30 a. m. across the narrow Messina strait from Sicily, there was no official word of the progress of the strong Allied forces involved. None was likely until tomorrow.

But returning airmen who witnessed the early hours of the invasion indicated its continuing success. One R.A.F. Spitfire pilot said he had maintained constant patrol over the landing area without encountering any Axis planes, and added: "In the strait we saw hundreds of craft darting to and fro unmolested."

Allies Wield Vast Power

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander in chief, directed the assault with assets never before avaNable to him. His air strength was prodigious; the Royal Navy and American naval forces dominated the Messina strait and other southern coastal areas of Italy; he had hundreds of thousands of seasoned warriors under him.

With excellent coordination, Flying Fortresses made their deepest strike into northern Italy to wreck the Brenner pass railroad feeding German troops into Italy; U. S. Mitchell bombers also tore up the rail network radiating from Cancello above Naples in order to seal off southern Italy and make it ripe for land conquest.

The United Nations radio appealed to the people of Italy to receive "the Allied forces of liberation" in the same manner their ancestors had received those of Garibaldi, and the broadcast concluded: "Out with the Germans." It made no mention of Marshal Pietro Badoglio's government that took over after the Sicilian invasion saw Benito Mussolini's exit from power.

"Allied forces are prepared to face the most bitter resistance since it can be foreseen that German resistance will increase in violence as Allied forces advance within the so-called fortress of Europe," this broadcast said.

(A German broadcast recorded by the Associated Press told of fierce Axis resistance in the rugged mountains between Reggio Calabria and Scilla, but indicated the fall of those two points when it said British tank forces had pushed eastward from Reggio Calabria and also had penetrated up the coast as far as Scilla.

(It declared the Allied landing was "on a large scale" and that "considerable losses" had been inflicted on the invaders.)

Hundreds of Barges Cross Strait

Hundreds of small invasion barges crossed the moonless two-mile-wide Messina strait at 4:30 a.m. (10:30 p.m. Thursday, E.W.T.).

Land guns mounted in Sicily arched a canopy of shells overhead, the Royal Navy stood offshore to obliterate Axis beach resistance, and hundreds of American and Allied planes bombed and machine-gunned Axis shore defenders to pave the way for the first shock troops.

It was a terrific barrage that first hit the beaches and crawled up into the mountains, wiping out enemy pillboxes, dugouts, barbed wire entanglements and large gun mounts studding the uplands.

The dim outline of the peninsular mountains could be seen from the Sicilian shore as the troops, hunched under the weight of their armaments, shoved off for the short channel crossing.

Daniel de Luce, Associated Press war correspondent attached to the famous British Eighth army that has been the spearhead of so many victories, said General Montgomery's personal message to his departing stalwarts declared:

"We have a good plan and air support on a greater scale than we ever had before.

"There can only be one end to this next battle; another success.

"Forward to victory.

"Let us knock Italy out of the war."

Bridgeheads Established

The first waves of British and Canadians struck the beaches, fanned out and established a bridgehead for other oncoming barges that spilled their loads of men and equipment on the shores below the foothills of Aspromonte — bitter mountain—a range that is the spinal column of the toe of Italy.

By that time the Allied land and sea barrage had lifted to gnaw at Axis defenses in the crags above, and dawn found the protecting mantle of Allied planes overhead.

"Allied forces under the command of General Eisenhower have continued their advance," said the brief bulletin issued two hours after the landing.

Spokesmen here emphasized that the new assault was not to be regarded as "a second front," but merely a sequel to the North African and Sicilian campaigns. That was the meaning of the communique phrase saying Allied troops had "continued their advance."

The rugged terrain ahead of the invaders, ideal for Axis defenders, also was stressed. There was no official word of Axis opposition, but the Germans were believed to be resisting to the hilt. The Italian factor still was a question mark.

Two German divisions escaped from Sicily to southern Italy, and other large Nazi forces are known to be in the area to fight a long, bitter delaying action to keep the Allies away from the German border.

300 Miles to Rome

From Reggio Calabria it is more than 300 land miles to Rome and another 350 air line miles to the Brenner Pass, whose approaches yesterday felt the explosive blows of Flying Fortresses for the first time.

The Germans and Italians have had months to prepare fortifications on the intervening mountains overhanging the coastal roads which are the most feasible routes of invasion. Most of the German forces, however, are believed entrenched in northern Italy.

But political repercussions from the invasion may play an even more important part than the military factors involved. The strike into Sicily routed Mussolini and his Fascists and installed the Badoglio regime which thus far has held a war-weary people largely in check. Obviously Allied leaders hope the new invasion will knock out Italy, and open the first glaring crack in the Axis camp.

Weeks of intensive land, sea and air bombardment preceded the stab into southern Italy. Railroad yards, coastal roads, arsenals and supply dumps were devastated by Allied airmen.

Commandos Strike Coast

British Commandos also landed on the coast in the last few days to reconnoiter strongpoints, wiping out some gun emplacements. Most of these Commandos returned to Sicily with valuable information despite Axis broadcasts declaring the bulk of them had been caught and annihilated.

The Germans knew the invasion was imminent, judging by their declarations and their military operations of the last few days. This only underscored their inability to prevent the landing.

Two hundred or more Axis planes had attempted to fend off American bombers yesterday, and the Germans also made a small scale air raid on British shipping in the port of Augusta.

This effort cost them 34 planes and the question which no one here yet has been able to answer is how long the Nazi High command can afford to pay such a price in the futile effort to beat back the steady encroachments of Allied air might.

Another paramount question is the degree to which Italian troops will join the Germans in fighting on the mainland. In Sicily whole battalions surrendered en masse to the Allies, but others fought bitterly until they were wiped out or escaped to the mainland.

How well the Italians will fight now that their mainland soil has been invaded remains to be seen. Military men here sought to discourage undue optimism, and said the Allied peoples must be prepared to accept a long and savage fight in Italy.

Civilian morale was another factor. Calabria has known many battles through the ages, but the area is improverished as is Sicily. Many Calabrians emigrated to the United States, especially after the disastrous earthquakes between 1905 and 1908.

The Allies chose the fourth anniversary of the British and French entry into the war against Germany for the invasion. It came 17 days after the 38-day conquest of Sicily, and was the first foothold established by the western Allies on the European mainland since the British were driven out of Greece late in April, 1941.

2 Italian Ports Already Captured, Berlin Hints

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 3 (AP)—Hours after the Allied assault at 4.30 A. M. today across the Messina Strait from Sicily to the Italian mainland there was no official word of the progress of the strong forces involved. None was likely until tomorrow.

But returning airmen who wit-

30.24 - 7993

30.24-7993

nessed the early hours of the invasion indicated its continuing success..

[Scilla and Reggio Calabria, Italian ports twelve miles apart, already had fallen, the Berlin radio indicated. A Rome broadcast, in phrases reminiscent of the Axis debacle in Sicily, also said: "The enemy's invasion now is in full swing. The enemy has set foot on the Italian mainland and is taking full advantage of his material superiority."]

Appeals To People Of Italy

The United Nations radio appealed to the people of Italy to receive "the Allied forces of liberation" in the same manner their ancestors had received those of Garibaldi, and the broadcast concluded: "Out with the Germans." It made no mention of Marshal Pietro Badoglio's government that took over after the Sicilian invasion saw Benito Musolini's exit from power.

"Allied forces are prepared to face the most bitter resistance, since it can be foreseen that German resistance will increase in violence as Allied forces advance within the so-called fortress of Europe," this broadcast said.

Axis Resistance Cited

[A German broadcast recorded by the Associated Press told of fierce Axis resistance in the rugged mountains between Reggio Calabria and Scilla, but indicated the fall of those two points when it said British tank forces had pushed eastward from Reggio Calabria and also had penetrated up the coast as far as Scilla.

[It declared the Allied landing was "on a large scale" and that "considerable losses" had been inflicted on the invaders.]

The first waves of British and Canadians struck the beaches, fanned out and established a bridgehead for other oncoming barges that spilled their loads of men and equipment on the shores below the foothills of Aspromonte—Bitter Mountain—a range that is the spinal column of the toe of Italy.

Advance Continued

By that time the Allied land and sea barrage had lifted to gnaw at Axis defenses in the crags above and dawn found the protecting mantle of Allied planes overhead.

"Allied forces under the command of General Eisenhower have continued their advance," said the brief bulletin issued two hours after the landing.

Spokesmen here emphasized that the new assault was not to be regarded as "a second front," but merely a sequel to the North African and Sicilian campaigns. That was the meaning of the communique phrase saying Allied troops had "continued their advance."

Terrain Favors Axis

The rugged terrain ahead of the invaders, ideal for Axis defenders, also was stressed. There was no official word of Axis opposition, but the Germans were believed to be resisting to the hilt. The Italian military factor still was a question mark.

Two German divisions escaped from Sicily to southern Italy, and other large Nazi forces are known to be in the area to fight a long, bitter delaying action to keep the Allies away from the German border.

From Reggio Calabria it is more than 300 land miles to Rome and another 350 air-line miles to the Brenner Pass.

The Germans and Italians have had months to prepare fortifications on the intervening mountains overhanging the coastal roads which are the most feasible routes of invasion. Most of the German forces, however, are believed entrenched in northern Italy.

The Germans knew the invasion was imminent, judging by their declarations and their military operations of the last few days. This only underscored their inability to prevent the landing.

A paramount question is the degree to which Italian troops will join the Germans in fighting on the mainland. In Sicily whole battalions surrendered en masse to the Allies, but others fought bitterly until they were wiped out or escaped to the mainland.

Optimism Discouraged

How well the Italians will fight, now that their mainland soil has been invaded, remains to be seen. Military men here sought to discourage undue optimism, and said the Allied peoples must be prepared to accept a long and savage fight in Italy.

Civilian morale was another factor. Calabria has known many battles through the ages, but the area is impoverished as is Sicily. Many Calabrians emigrated to the United States, especially after the disastrous earthquakes between 1905 and 1908.

Flyer Sees Invasion Barges Sweep In on Calm Italian Coast

R. A. F. Pilot Gives Eyewitness Picture—American Sees Colossal Explosions During Landing Operations.

SEP 4 1943

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—A few fires on the hills inland were the only signs of activity on the Calabrian coast when the great fleet of invasion craft carrying the British and Canadian forces approached the landing area on the Italian mainland today.

This report was brought back by a Spitfire pilot of the Royal Air Force who was one of the first men to get a complete view of the opening stage of the invasion.

At the end of a reconnaissance flight over military areas in the toe of Italy early today, Flying Officer George Craig passed over the Messina Strait.

"The first sign of the invasion visible from the air was a flotilla of large warships skirting the coast," he said. "They were going at top speed causing a zig-zag wake. In the Strait of Messina I could see many scores of small craft sailing in formation. From my height they appeared like large shoals of fish turning with their leaders as one unit toward the Italian mainland.

"During the time I was in that area I think mine was the only aircraft in the sky. A few miles inland I could see fires in the hills, but otherwise no activity."

Pilot Officer Craig, who is 24 years old, is a veteran reconnaissance flyer who had also witnessed the first Allied landings on Sicily. Today's attack was much different in appearance from the air, he was quoted as saying in an R. A. F. announcement, because the large vessels used in the Sicilian landings had been displaced by fleets of much smaller landing craft better suited to the narrow strait.

Another eye-witness account came from the pilot of an American bomber, Pilot Officer G. Basrich of Iowa.

Returning from a flight over the invasion area, Basrich said:

"We saw colossal explosions and watched what appeared to be a great artillery duel near the Strait of Messina."

Flyers Support Invasion

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 3 (AP).—Allied air formations were thrown across Messina Strait continuously today to bomb and machine-gun Axis positions ahead of invading Allied troops and blast the enemy in the hills farther north.

They gave constant protection to landing forces, meeting no enemy planes, and one pilot said: "In the Strait we saw hundreds of craft darting to and fro unmolested." NORGAARD

Aerial reconnaissance after yesterday's raids on Bolzano, Trento and Bologna showed that "this main artery of German reinforcements which have been pouring into Italy is now clogged with wreckage, at least temporarily," a headquarters announcement today said.

This railroad snaking down from the Brenner Pass carries half of all traffic between Germany and Italy, 95 per cent of the oil needed for the Axis war machine in Italy and 80 per cent of Italy's steel and coal requirements.

Lieutenant John S. Morris, of 44 Prospect Place, Newark, N. J., bombardier on one of the Fortresses participating in the Bologna raid, said: "I was in the fourth and last wave to go over Bologna. Bombs were going down and terrific fires had already been started. We cut ourselves a nice chunk of Bologna this afternoon."

Thirty-four enemy planes were destroyed during all of yesterday's widespread flights and fifteen Allied planes were missing.

Mitchell bombers blew up camouflaged enemy positions near Reggio Calabria, A-36 dive bombers struck the freight yards at Lamezi and Catanzaro and Royal Air Force and South African Baltimores and Bostons hammered troops and gun positions on the Italian toe.

A-36s touched off an ammunition dump at Sapri on the west coast and P-40 Warhawks hit a barge and scored near hits on seven others in the Gulf of Santa Eufemia.

Besides the disruption of the railroads in the Naples area and below the Brenner Pass, official reports also disclosed that the Fortress raid on Pisa, on the northwest coast of Italy, on Tuesday had blocked all railroads from Pisa to Leghorn, Florence, the naval base of La Svezia, and Marina di Pisa, while the coastal railway and the city's freight yards were damaged heavily.

nent of Europe.

"We Have A Good Plan"

"We have a good plan and air support on a greater scale than we ever had before.

"There can only be one end to this next battle; another success.

"Forward to victory.

"Let us knock Italy out of the war.

"Good luck, and God bless you all."

SEP 4 1943

Then the general sent his famous British-Canadian infantry against the battered Axis defenses on the mainland side of the Messina Strait.

Crossed On "Bridge Of Ships"

The khaki-clad troops crossed the narrow blue stretch of water on a veritable "bridge of ships" and under a vast air-force umbrella to reach European soil.

It was on the fourth anniversary of Britain's declaration of war against the Axis that the Eighth Army surged from conquered Sicily to the vulnerable extremity of Hitler's continental fortress.

Not since two outnumbered, overwhelmed Anzac divisions were routed from Greece in April, 1941, had a British expeditionary force fought inside Europe.

Canadians Get Key Role

Canadian troops, who shared honors with British-American forces of the Sicilian triumphs, were given an important role in today's all-out attack against Italy itself.

British artillery, in long duels with Axis guns, and daily smashing attacks by American and RAF bombers had softened up the enemy's beach defenses for this morning's amphibious assault.

There was utmost determination manifested among officers and men that this assault must succeed regardless of cost.

Massed batteries south of Messina carried on a preliminary engagement with Axis artillery.

Bombers Provide Cover

The invasion fleet sailed noiselessly in darkness into the strait and turned toward the Italian coast while Allied bombers dropped huge loads of explosives in the rear and to the south of the landing points.

Heavy forces of Allied fighter planes were marshaled to protect the invasion fleet from enemy bombing reprisals after daylight.

British gunners believed they already had lessened enemy artillery strength by counter-battery firing.

Landing craft, landing ships and the efficient "ducks" all participated in ferrying the troops into Europe, while Allied warships guarded the flanks of this great fleet.

Montgomery Calls on Men to Knock Italy Out

'We Have a Good Plan' and Air Support on Greatest Scale, He Tells Veterans

By Daniel de Luce

Associated Press Correspondent for the combined American press

WITH BRITISH 8TH ARMY, Sept. 3 (AP).—British 8th Army veterans stormed the toe of Italy before dawn today in the first Allied invasion of Axis Europe. Their commander, General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, told them in a personal message to "knock Italy out of the war."

"We have a good plan, and air support on a greater scale than we ever had before," he declared.

Battle-hardened British and Canadian troops crossed the narrow Strait of Messina on a veritable bridge of ships and under a vast air force umbrella to reach European soil. There was the utmost determination among officers and men that the attack must succeed, regardless of the cost.

The invasion fleet sailed noiselessly in darkness into the strait and turned toward the Italian coast while Allied bombers dropped thundering loads of explosives in the rear and to the south of the landing points.

Heavy forces of Allied fighter planes were marshaled to protect

By DANIEL DE LUCE

[Associated Press Correspondent]

With the British Eighth Army, Sept. 3—British Eighth Army veterans stormed the toe of Italy before dawn today in the first Allied invasion of Axis Europe.

Their commander, General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, had told them to "knock Italy out of the war." In a personal message to his troops before the battle he said:

"Having captured Sicily as our first slice of the Italian home country, the time has now come to carry the battle onto the mainland of Italy.

"To the Eighth Army has been given the great honor of being the first troops of the Allied armies to land on the mainland of the Conti-the invasion fleet from enemy bombing reprisals after daylight.

Landing craft, landing ships and the efficient "ducks" all participated in ferrying the troops into Europe. Allied warships guarded the flanks of the great fleet.

General Montgomery's message to his troops follows:

"Having captured Sicily as our first slice of the Italian home country, the time has now come to carry the battle onto the mainland of Italy.

"To the 8th Army has been given the great honor of being the first troops of the Allied armies to land on the mainland of the Continent of Europe.

"We have a good plan, and air support on a greater scale than we ever had before.

"There can only be one end to this next battle; another success.

"Forward to victory.

"Let us knock Italy out of the war.

"Good luck, and God bless you all."

Gen. Montgomery Declares Success Can Be Only Outcome of Attack

With the British Eighth Army in Italy, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery addressed the following personal message to his troops just before they attacked the Italian mainland today:

"Having captured Sicily as our first slice of the Italian home country, the time has now come to carry the battle onto the mainland of Italy.

"To the Eighth Army has been given the great honor of being the first troops of the Allied Armies to land on the mainland of the continent of Europe.

"We have a good plan and air support on a greater scale than we ever had before.

"There can only be one end to this next battle—another success.

"Forward to victory.

"Let us knock Italy out of the war.

"Good luck, and God bless you all."

By ALAN MOORHEAD,
Representing the Combined British Press. (Distributed by the Associated Press.)

A Sicilian Invasion Port, Sept. 3.—The first wave of Allied attacking forces went into the toe of Italy at night and without a moon. On a sea which has been consistently calm for a week, many hundreds of ships and barges began setting out for the Italian coast with only starlight to guide them to the enemy beaches.

Extraordinary scenes led up to the moment when the first wave of the expedition got under way. For ten days past vast numbers of men and vehicles have been feeding down to the invasion ports. If you can imagine a pre-war London or New York traffic jam magnified a hundred times, then you can guess what the roads have been like.

New and complex road signs sprang up all over the country to guide the columns down to the right coves and beaches.

Meanwhile, invasion barges—that same fleet that made the landing on Sicily—stole up the coast to take the Army aboard.

By last night everything was pretty well set. Stores and vehicles which had not already embarked were waiting in long lines on the lava plains ready to go down to the shore.

It looked like a huge motor car park. In the darkness you could hear many thousands of voices and the rumble of treads on docks and shouted orders of officers calling their men to come forward. Practically every man had already made at least one landing before.

Although they had not yet been told their exact destination, the troops knew they were bound on their biggest adventure yet and the atmosphere was tense. They either talked about something else or not at all. Two weeks of rest and quiet have given them great steadiness and confidence.

Just before the invasion Gen. Eisenhower flew here for a final check-up with Gens. Alexander and Montgomery. Gen. Eisenhower fashions the strategy. The same veteran battle planners—unidentified major-generals and brigadiers—who designed the Sicilian campaign are at work on this job.

Brenner Pass Railway to Italy Is Knocked Out by Fortresses

Americans Cut Vital Artery of German Reinforcement—Other Fortresses Batter Plane Factory Near Paris.

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—United States Flying Fortresses knocked out the vital railroad line from the Brenner Pass into Italy—the German highway for defense of the peninsula—yesterday in their deepest blow into Italy from North Africa.

They blasted Bolzano, Trento and Bologna, and an official headquarters announcement today declared photographic reconnaissance showed "this main artery of German reinforcements which have been pouring into Italy is now cluttered with wreckage at least temporarily."

Most of the railway line was severed when bombs destroyed the railway bridge at Bolzano thirty-five miles south of Brenner pass, and the railroad at Trento thirty miles farther south was cut by four direct hits.

Freight yards at Bologna, 170 miles below the pass were torn by great fires and explosions. Bologna is an important rail and highway junction near the center of the northern neck of the Italian peninsula.

American Mitchells blasted the railroads near Cancello, northeast of Naples, and the official report asserted that "when the bombing was over, all lines to Naples, Salerno, Torre Annunziata, Capua and Benevento had been blocked. Five sheds and fifty railway cars were destroyed in the yards and nine sheds were destroyed in the warehouse area."

German fighters threw up strong resistance and thirty-four enemy planes were destroyed during all the widespread operations, against loss of fifteen Allied aircraft.

Only one of the unescorted Fortresses was missing in the 1,500-mile round-trip attack, called at headquarters today, "perhaps the best day the Fortresses from North Africa ever had."

It was one of the war's most spectacular raids, staged only a few hours before Allied troops began pouring into southern Italy.

At Cancello "lines radiating from the yards were blocked" by the attack of Mitchell bombers. They bagged one enemy fighter and their Lightning escorts got twenty-two more.

Between forty to fifty enemy fighters challenged the bombers, but were beaten off.

Bombardier Lieut. John S. Morris of 44 Prospect Place, Newark, N. J., said "I was in the fourth and last wave to go over Bologna. Bombs were going down and terrific fires had already been started. We cut ourselves a nice chunk of Bologna this afternoon."

Four enemy fighters were downed at Bolzano. Tech. Sergt. Allan R. Booska of Hartford, Conn., a radio-gunner, said "the bombs did more damage to the railway yards at Bolzano than the hurricanes of 1938 did to New England. Smoke and fire covered the place."

Great Air Battle Fought.

One of the largest aerial battles ever waged over Italy was precipitated when sixty or seventy fighters tangled with the Mitchells and protecting P-38 Lightnings at Cancello.

Twenty of the enemy had attacked the Mitchells shortly after they dumped their bombs and the dogfight continued to the coast. Then more fighters swept in to continue the battle out over the sea. Ten Lightnings were lost.

BRENNER PASS BLOCKED BY ALLIED BOMBS

Flyers Wreck Foe's Vital Railway—Others Pave Way For Invaders

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 3—Allied air power broke the vital German reinforcement railroad from the Brenner Pass and blocked rail routes near Naples in crippling pre-invasion blows today.

At the same time, waves of Allied planes supporting their ground forces smashed at the enemy on the toe of Italy in continuing assaults.

The Brenner Pass is the funnel for Nazi troops rushing into Italy. Flying Fortresses cut the rail line below it yesterday, wrecking the tracks and bridges at Bolzano and Trento thirty-five and sixty-five miles, respectively, south of the strategic gateway, at least temporarily halting traffic.

Deepest Raid Into Italy

It was their deepest raid—1,500 miles roundtrip—into Italy, and other formations blasted the freight yards at Bologna on the same rail route 170 miles below the Pass.

Mitchell medium bombers shattered freight yards at Cancello, northeast of Naples, and headquarters declared that afterward photographs showed that "all lines to Naples, Salerno, Torre Annuziata, Capua and Benevento had been blocked."

Twenty-three Axis planes were shot down at Cancello in a fierce air battle, and ten Lightning fighters were lost.

Steady Cover Provided

Allied air formations thrown across Messina Strait gave constant protection to landing forces, meeting no enemy planes. One pilot said, "in the strait we saw hundreds of craft darting to and fro unmolested." Another airman described it as "like the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace" as new patrols arrived every fifty minutes to provide cover.

Aerial reconnaissance after the Fortress raids on Bolzano, Trento and Bologna showed that "this main artery of German reinforcements which have been pouring into Italy is now clogged with wreckage at least temporarily," a headquarters announcement today said.

Railroad's Importance

This railroad snaking down from Brenner Pass carries half of all traffic between Germany and Italy, ninety-five per cent. of the oil needed for the Axis war machine in Italy and eighty per cent. of Italy's steel and coal requirements.

Only one Fortress was lost in the long unescorted plunge, described officially as "perhaps the best day the Fortresses from North Africa ever had."

At Bolzano, they scored direct hits on the main tracks and on the railway bridge, sent ledges from overhanging cliffs tumbling onto the rail lines, and hit the station. Four enemy planes were shot down there.

Two Keys Bridges Damaged

Two important river bridges were damaged at Trento and a highway bridge was broken.

Cargoes of high explosives tore up the railway yards, warehouses and railway cars at Bologna, and great fires were set.

Thirty-four enemy planes were destroyed during all of yesterday's widespread flights, and a total of fifteen Allied planes were missing.

Mitchell bombers blew up camouflaged enemy positions near Reggio Calabria, invader dive bombers struck the freight yards at Lamezi and Catanzaro and RAF and South African Baltimores and Bostons hammered troops and gun positions on the Italian toe.

Ammunition Dump Hit

Invaders touched off an ammunition dump at Sapri on the west coast, and Warhawks hit a barge and scored near hits on seven others in the Gulf of Santa Eufemia.

The Mitchells and Lightning escorts raiding Cancello were attacked by sixty to seventy enemy fighters to touch off one of the heaviest dogfights ever waged over Italian soil. The fight continued out to sea.

Besides the disruption of the railroads in the Naples area and below the Brenner Pass, official reports also disclosed that the Fortress raid on Pisa on the northwest coast of Italy Tuesday had blocked all railroads from Pisa to Leghorn, Florence, the naval base of La Svezia, and Marina di Pisa, while the coastal railway and the city's freight yards were damaged heavily.

Invasion of Italy Gives London Lift, Probably Won't Satisfy Reds

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Word that Allied soldiers are surging onto the mainland of Europe brought a strong psychological lift today to London although the news was no surprise.

While there was a measure of disappointment among the more ardent "second fronters" who had hoped the next blow would fall from the west, there seemed general acceptance of the idea that the battle of Italy would have to be fought through to victory before the United Nations would be free to bring their fullest land, air and sea forces to bear on the main European enemy.

30.24 - 7995

30.24-7995

The invasion of Italy was not expected to satisfy fully the Russians, whose press only yesterday was complaining that the Sicilian campaign had not drawn off a single German division from the Russian front.

Prime Minister Churchill in his broadcast Tuesday from Quebec acknowledged the sharp division of strategical opinion between the British and Americans and their Russian allies when he declared that an invasion of Western Europe would not be attempted until there were sound military grounds for confidence in success.

Slow-But-Sure Offensive.

Mr. Churchill also indicated the Allies' determination that an invasion would not end in tragic failure like the attempted rescues of Norway and Greece early in the war.

The drive across the Strait of Messina fell into the familiar pattern of the slow-but-sure Allied offensive in the Mediterranean, but it was quickly noted that American and French ground forces and many British divisions were not involved at this stage, leaving them free for other jobs—jobs that might send them ashore anywhere from Southern France to the Balkans.

There is scant feeling here that the Italian Peninsula might fall by default—even if peace were made with Rome. It is believed the Germans are prepared to make determined efforts to keep the invaders away from air and land bases in Northern Italy as long as possible.

The German strength—probably around 13 divisions—is reported largely north of Rome, but about half of the strength of the three Nazi divisions which fought in Sicily escaped to the mainland to join two or three others then stationed south of Naples.

Italians May Fight Well.

It is not known here how much of this force was moved north, but it is believed certain the Germans left sufficient numbers of men behind to make extensive demolitions and fight a delaying action of the type which made the last stage of the Sicilian conquest a slow business.

The quality of the Italian resistance is more of a question mark, but many Italian troops certainly are made of sterner stuff than the Sicilian coastal divisions and may fight well, at least for a while.

Although the first landings put the British and Canadians on the longest path to Rome—and Berlin—the Allies were believed to have plenty of men, ships and planes to strike in at the peninsula farther north and cut off the southern defenses if the going in the south became too slow.

SEP 4 1943

Such a shortcut thrust also would speed the capture of Italy's good harbor at Naples and speed the progress toward Foggia and Bari on the east coast, where lie great airfields only about 550 miles from Ploesti—only half as far as the bases from which the American Liberator force raided that vital Rumanian oil target last month.

Facing Large German Force.

There are no definite indications where the Germans might make a major stand, but it is assumed they would take advantage of the rugged Apennines line running diagonally across the peninsula from La Spezia to Rimini, probably falling back from there to Po and perhaps ultimately to Alpine defenses from the northern tip of the Adriatic to the Swiss border.

At any rate, unless Hitler changes his plan to defend his failing partner, it appears likely the Allies will have to defeat by far the largest German force they have yet encountered—even if Hitler doesn't reinforce the divisions already poured into Italy from France and Germany.

A concentration of German forces in Southern Italy might mean that the Allied leaders would have to call in considerably more than the 10 or 11 divisions used in Sicily and perhaps more than the 15 to 20 employed in the final stages of the Tunisian triumph, with a resultant lessening of the chances for a big push elsewhere while the battle of Italy was still being fought.

Topography facing the Allied forces lends itself naturally to defense, for it is almost uniformly mountainous except for the plain of Sibari and the plains just south of Salerno and Metaponto.

The Calabrian Apennines run like a yardstick down the middle of the lower peninsula and there are many rivers throughout the area. The railways hug the coast.

READY FOR ACTION

WHITE

U.S. Troops Held in Reserve in Early Stages of Italian Invasion.

LONDON, Sept. 3—(AP) Officia silence hiding the whereabouts of American forces in the invasion of Italy prompted speculation tonight that new landings would be made soon, perhaps including a large-scale assault to the north on Italy's west coast to hit the enemy from the rear.

Silence regarding the menace of the Americans lay heavily over the enemy in the whole of the southern theater, and the Berlin radio said the Axis was prepared for "two or three blows against the continent" simultaneously.

American Troops Ready

As Gen. Montgomery's Eighth army of British and Canadians burst through the first barricade in the Axis defenses of Europe's continental mainland, there stood behind them the highly-mechanized and heavily-gunned forces of the American Seventh army under Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., which had swept through two-thirds of Sicily in a record campaign to clear the way for today's invasion.

And somewhere in the Mediterranean another powerful American force, the Fifth army of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark, awaited battle orders. This army under the cover of much secrecy has been training intensively in North Africa since last January.

Not only might some of these forces land above the Eighth army, but some elements might join the British and Canadians in early moves.

Could Strike Further North

Although the first landing put the British and Canadians on the longest path to Rome—and Berlin—the Allies have plenty of ships and planes to strike farther north and cut off the southern defenses if the going there is too slow and rough.

Such a short-cut thrust also would speed the capture of Italy's southernmost good harbor at Naples and accelerate progress toward Foggia and Bari, where there are big airfields only about 550 miles from the Rumanian oil fields and relatively near to other central European targets.

The Axis desperately tried to guess the real scope of the plan of the supreme Allied commander, the American general, Dwight D. Eisenhower, and whether he intended far more than was immediately apparent and whether other and greater forces now being held back would leap at other points.

With the usual secrecy covering much of the action, two points were already apparent or at all events highly probable:

1. Gen. Eisenhower's minimum immediate design was to clean up the Messina strait on both sides, thus immensely relieving the Allied supply and communicatione problem and freeing Allied fleets to cruise up and down the coast of Italy, laying the whole country bare to landings if they are deemed necessary and advisable.

2. Opinion was strong in London that it was in one sense a political offensive as well, intended to cause among the Italian people, who have long been clamoring for peace, such an upheaval as to force the Badoglio government to get out of the war or possibly give him the opportunity to do so.

10 German Divisions

Estimates of German strength in Italy ran from ten to 18 divisions, with the bulk of these in the north but enough in the south to cause considerable trouble to Allied invaders unless Hitler should elect to fall back as he has done consistently since Tunisia.

It was generally accepted here that the Nazis would stand and fight this time regardless of the strong possibility that the war for Italy might soon be over so far as the Italians themselves are concerned.

The alternative for Hitler—loss of Italy—would gravely wound his position in all southeastern Europe, nakedly exposing a flank of tremendous length and imminently endangering him all through the Balkans, where he would immediately lose the services of an estimated 27 Italian divisions.

Many in London believe that the next major development will be invasion of the Balkans through Crete and Greece by British, Empire and Allied forces of great but secret strength based in the Middle East.

A final collapse of Italy could be expected to undermine or even bring down the whole rickety Axis military structure in the Balkans, where the Hungarians are openly angling for peace and leaderless Bulgaria is attempting to set a new course in the war.

AMERICAN FORCES

Landing by U.S. 7th Army Hinted by British Press

'Star' Speculates on Big Task Assigned to Americans

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP).—"The London Star" speculated today that the United States 7th Army, not mentioned in the communique on the Italian invasion, had "a very important task" assigned to it.

In an article in "The Star," General Sir Robert Gordon-Finlayson said, "we can be quite sure that the 7th United States Army . . . is destined by General Eisenhower to land somewhere in Italy very soon, but it is impossible yet to say where. The 7th Army will have been assigned a very important task."

"Messina is just the beginning," an "Evening Standard" editorial said. "It is not likely that Allied strategy foresees only a landing at the toe and steady, sober progress up the foot of the mainland."

BULLETIN.

London, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—The Rome radio said tonight that Allied forces were "taking full advantage of material superiority" in their invasion of Italy.

"The enemy's invasion is now in full swing," said a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press. "The enemy has set foot on the Italian mainland and is taking full advantage of material superiority."

SEP 4 1943

Asks Italy to Aid Invaders

United Nations' Radio Appeal Urges People to Welcome Soldiers as Liberators.

London, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—The United Nations radio at Algiers broadcast a special appeal to the Italian people today asking them to welcome the Allied forces landing in southern Italy "as liberators in the same fashion their forefathers welcomed Garibaldi."

Broadcasting in the Italian language a spokesman said:

"Italians, on the threshold of this fifth year of war the forces of the United Nations are filtering into the so-called European fortress. Italians, remember the words of Mr. Churchill when he told you Italy is paying a terrible price fo rthe Germans' war. Italy is becoming a battlefield.

"Germany is trying to keep the war as far from her soil as possible.

"Italians, these were the words of Churchill on the eve of the Allied landing on the Italian peninsula.

"The advance of the United Nations' forces is the logical and inevitable consequence of recent events. The Sicilian people already are enjoying the fruits of liberation.

"Italians, welcome the Allied liberating forces in the same fashion your forefathers welcomed Garibaldi.

"Out with the Germans."

Word that Allied soldiers are surging on to the mainland soil of Europe brought a strong psy-

London, Saturday, April 4 (AP)—The London Daily Express said in its early edition today: "From the Italian battlefront early today came news that the Eighth Army had enlarged its bridgeheads to a depth of ten miles at some places.

"The advance was continuing in a northerly direction toward the first substantial Axis defenses near Palmi, more than twenty miles by road from the landing beaches at Reggio Calabria."

SEP 4 1943

chological lift today to London, although the news was no surprise.

While there was a measure of disappointment among the more ardent "second frontiers" who had hoped the next blow would fall from the west, there seemed general acceptance of the idea that the battle of Italy would have to be fought through to victory before the United Nations would be free to bring their fullest land, air and sea forces to bear on the main European enemy.

AXIS TRIES TO TAKE OPTIMISTIC VIEW ON INVASION BLOW

Landing on Italy No Surprise, Says Berlin Radio.

LONDON, Sept. 3—(AP) The beleaguered Axis called the Allied invasion of the Italian mainland today "no surprise," but reaction as expressed through the two propaganda machines ranged from silence in the first few hours to nervous professions of optimism.

Both Rome and Berlin seemed to have a tough time explaining satisfactorily how the Allies succeeded in setting foot on the ramparts of Adolf Hitler's "Fortress of Europe."

Invasion Was Expected

The Berlin radio gave details of the invasion, emphasizing all the time that the storming of Italy had been expected. Rome in a carefully worded communique told the Italians that the conqueror had come.

In an apparent attempt to rouse Italian soldiers to genuine resistance of the Allied forces, the Rome radio in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said:

"A new period began for our country today when the enemy set foot on our peninsula.

"It is our duty to match our heroism with theirs. It is our duty in the face of the growing enemy threat to strengthen our unity of spirit."

The broadcast added that Italians must "become a marble rock of energy and concentrate all our energies in order to take up the defense of our land and our honor."

Independence at Stake

Rome added that national independence was at stake and was "the one issue that must supplant all others."

The broadcast concluded, "Therefore, let us gather around the monarchy and face the present situation with all the moral and material means at our disposal."

Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, military commentator of the German news agency DNB, took the unusual line that the Allied landings in force with strong air and naval support was exactly what the defenders wanted.

Apparently trying to quiet fears of other immediate invasions, he said that if the Allies are now employing their maximum forces against the Italian mainland, then Italy will become Europe's battlefield and the probability of a second front threat to France or the Balkans will have vanished.

He hastened to add, however, that from statements by Prime Minister Churchill in his recent Quebec speech it can be deduced that "the potential of the Anglo-Americans is so great as to allow them to deliver two or three blows against the continent."

AXIS PROFESSES LACK OF SURPRISE

Belated Comment From Rome and Berlin Rings Some Changes on Invasion

ITALY URGES HARD FIGHT

German Analyst Hints at Attacks Elsewhere on Continent by American Forces

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP)—The Axis called the Allied invasion of Italy today "no surprise," but the reactions of the propaganda machines ranged from silence in the first few hours to nervous professions of optimism.

Both Rome and Berlin seemed to have difficulty explaining satisfactorily how the Allies had succeeded in setting foot on the ramparts of the "fortress of Europe." The Berlin radio gave details of the invasion, emphasizing all the time that the storming of Italy had been expected. Rome, in a carefully worded communiqué, told the Italians that the invaders had come.

In an apparent attempt to rouse Italian soldiers to genuine resistance, the Rome radio said:

"A new period began for our country today when the enemy set foot on our peninsula. It is our duty to match our heroism with theirs. It is our duty in the face of the growing enemy threat to strengthen our unity of spirit."

Independence Called Issue

The broadcast added that Italians must "become a marble rock of energy and concentrate all our energies in order to take up the defense of our land and our honor." It said that national independence was at stake and was "the one issue that must supplant all others."

The broadcast concluded: "Therefore let us gather around the monarchy and face the present situation with all the moral and material means at our disposal."

A later broadcast said that Allied forces were "taking full advantage of material superiority" in their invasion of Italy, which "is now in full swing."

After having started the day by telling the German public that there was nothing to report "from any of the fronts," the Berlin radio finally told of the invasion hours after the Allies had announced it.

Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, German military commentator, took the unusual line that the Allied landings in force with strong air and naval support were exactly what the defenders wanted. Apparently trying to quiet fears of other immediate invasions, he said that, if the Allies were now employing their maximum forces against the Italian mainland, Italy would become Europe's battlefield and the probability of an invasion of France or the Balkans would vanish.

Hints at Other Blows

He hastened to add, however, that, from statements by Prime Minister Churchill in his recent Quebec speech, it might be deduced that "the potential of the Anglo-Americans is so great as to allow them to deliver two or three blows against the Continent." Noting that so far only British and Canadian forces were involved in the landings, Captain Sertorius said that "it is to be expected that the Americans will not remain idle in Sicily for long" and that other landings were likely, "possibly in an adjacent sector."

Arnold Arrival Stirs London Speculation

Invasion Thrust From British Isles Hinted

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Arrival in London of Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the United States Army Air Forces, a few hours before Allied troops landed on the Italian mainland today heightened speculation that he was here to effect a further co-ordination of ground and air forces for an anticipated invasion of the continent from the British Isles.

Gen. Arnold was accompanied by Maj. Gen. William C. Lee, commander of an air-borne division, who is credited with the development of American parachute troops.

The two top American air chiefs plunged into a study of the Allied military setup immediately after their arrival yesterday. They also reviewed recent operations of the 8th Air Force and planned visits to American air combat stations scattered throughout the British Isles.

Whether or not an invasion of Western Europe is in the offing, it was believed certain that air activity would be intensified to an even greater scale than the present almost daily softening-up attacks on Germany's war plants, communication lines, harbors and airfields.

VAST NEW RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE REPORTED

Reds Tell of Driving Nine Miles Forward on Donets Front—Berlin Says Grand Attack Is On There.

SEP 4 1943

London, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—The Russian forces today advanced by from nine to twelve miles and captured more than 150 populated places in the Donets Basin, Moscow announced tonight, a few hours after the German radio had said that the Russian Army early this morning launched a grand offensive on the central Donets Basin front.

In a special communique broadcast by the Moscow radio and picked up by the Soviet monitor here, the Russians declared that in the drive across the North Ukraine, the Russians moved westward by another nine to twelve miles and overran more than 100 more inhabited localities including the town of Putivl, on the Belgorod-Sumy-Kiev railroad twenty-eight miles east of Konotop.

Moscow also said that the Russians advancing on Smolensk moved ahead by from two and a half to four miles and captured more than 100 populated places, and that the Red Army forces south of Bryansk took more than fifty localities in driving forward by from four to six miles.

In a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, Berlin said only: "Since the early hours of today the expected Russian attack in the central Donets has been in full swing. The Russians employed hundreds of heavy artillery batteries and fighter formations, according to the principles of their well known attrition tactics. There are as yet no further details about the course of this new large-scale action."

Germans Reeling Back.

Meanwhile today, along all the rest of the 600-mile Russian front, the Germans reeled back under staggering blows that cut the main Nazi rail link between the Central and Southern sectors 150 miles from Kiev, and crashed into the Smolensk defense perimeter for a gain of six miles. Five Russian armies were engaged in the gigantic offensive which threatened the entire German battle line on the eastern front.

The speed of the Russian advance, which already has cracked the enemy's 1941 invasion line, indicated that the Germans were retreating along the whole southern front in an apparent attempt to get behind their Dnieper River defense system. Russian generals were giving them no rest, throwing immense forces of men and motorized equipment into the offensive.

Announced by Stalin.

Capture of the Ukraine stronghold of Sumy, ninety miles northwest of Kharkov by Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's command was announced personally by Marshal Stalin in an order of the day yesterday, while a communique told of the storming of Krolevets and Yampol on the important Bryansk-Kiev railway linking the southern and central fronts.

The Donets Basin drive yielded the cities of Voroshilovsk, Slavyanoserbsk and Lisichansk, while Budenovka, twenty miles from Mariupol, fell to the Red Army troops in their push along the rim of the Sea of Azov, the communique said.

The Russian bulletin, which was recorded by the Soviet monitor here, emphasized that the Germans were battling stubbornly all along the 600-mile front in their effort to get the bulk of their armies safely across the Dnieper.

Nearly 10,000 German dead were counted in yesterday's fighting as the Soviet troops carried their advance through 250 villages and towns, many of them of strategic importance, for a two-day bag of nearly 550 enemy-held localities.

Stalin's 1943 offensive to date has brought the Red armies more than half way along their comeback trail from Stalingrad to the Polish border.

With the capture of Krolevets, twenty-five miles north of the vital rail junction of Konotop, Soviet spearheads are a bare 150 miles from Kiev. This operation further flanked Bryansk from the south and placed the Nazi south-central armies in a position where they may be forced to fall back on Kiev to avoid disaster. Yampol, also captured in the drive toward Kiev, lies thirty-two miles northeast of Krolevets.

STALINO PERILED BY RUSSIAN DRIVE ON DONETS FRONT

Steel Center, Hitler's Headquarters, Expected Soon to Fall.

11,000 NAZIS SLAIN

Konotop, Ukraine Citadel, Also in Danger of Capture by Reds.

LONDON, Saturday, Sept. 4 — (AP) A conquering Red army overran more than 400 villages yesterday in smashing 12-mile gains that threatened early seizure of the Donets steel center of Stalino and the northern Ukraine citadel of Konotop, Moscow dicloscd officially early today.

30.24 - 7997

30.24 - 7997

A four-mile lunge on the central front also carried the Russians over the bodies of 4,200 enemy troops to a point within 40 miles of the major base of Smolensk whence the Germans tried to take Moscow in 1941.

Nazis in Headlong Retreat

The Germans apparently were in headlong retreat in the Donets basin, but also were hurled back at other major points along the 600-mile front, Moscow said in a communique recorded by the Soviet monitor.

One Russian unit was only 20 miles east of Stalino, after capturing Zuevka, and other Soviet forces had spilled across the network of railways radiating from that hub.

The Germans captured Stalino Oct. 21, 1941, then triumphantly terming it the "Essen of Russia," and comparing its importance with the once great, but now battered Krupp armament works in the Ruhr valley.

In the Ukraine the Russians reached a point only 14 miles north of Konotop.

Report Great Red Offensive

The Germans, perhaps preparing the homeland for news of the fall of Stalino, long Hitler's headquarters for southern front operations, made the unusual announcement last night that the Soviet army had launched a "grand scale" offensive in that area.

A German radio commentator, Gen. Kurt Dittmar, also declared in a broadcast recorded by the Ministry of Information that military developements in Russia were "repeatedly critical," because of the necessity of dividing German strength to cover the Allied threats in the west.

The Moscow bulletin said the Germans were "retreating under the blow of Soviet troops" in the Donets, and "mining roads, constructing obstacles and blowing up bridges" in apparent abandonment of the huge region so rich in vital war ores.

"Our men, overcoming all kinds of obstacles are relentlessly pursuing the Germans," it added.

11,000 Germans Slain

Of the more than 11,000 Germans killed yesterday on the entire front, Moscow said 4,000 of them fell in a fighting retreat westward from the Donets basin. The rapidity of the flight also was indicated in the communique's declaration that 54 German tanks and more than 600 trucks had been destroyed, and great quantities of intact equipment seized. This material included artillery, dozens of ammunition, engineering, supply and food dumps.

Bearing out of the indication of a precipitate German withdrawal from the Donets was the savage resistance being put up by Axis forces south and southwest of Kharkov. The Russians have not announced any significant progress in this area for days, and the latest bulletin told of "ferocious enemy counterattacks" in the region.

Thus the Germans apparently were protecting the withdrawal of their exposed forces in the Donets to the southeast. A Russian breakthrough south of Kharkov would cut off that retreat.

Altogether the Russians reoccupied 150 localities in the Donets basin, the Soviet bulletin said, in continuing forward plunges ronging from nine to 12 miles deep in the German lines established since the fall of 1941.

Hold 60 Miles of Rail Line

Overrunning the Bryansk-Kiev railway above Konotop in the converging movement directed both against the rail junction and the big base of Bryansk, the Russians indicated their troops now held a 60-mile stretch of that vital line connecting the sagging German central and southern fronts.

Kiev, Ukraine capital, is now only 135 miles from the nearest Russian troops.

The Russian troops that broke across the middle Donets above Stalino's network of railways captured the junction of Popasnaya, only 13 miles east of the larger junction of Artemvosk, and the distance north of Debaltsevo. Another Russian column hitting from the east took Chernukhino, only five miles from Debaltsevo.

To the northwest the Soliet unit that had taken Lisichansk swept on 15 miles west to seize Proletorsk, only 20 miles from the big rail city of Slavyansk.

In a second swift drive westward across the northern Ukraine the Red army gained from nine to 12 miles and ran through 100 populated places, including Altynovka, only 14 miles north of the big rail junction of Konotop. The town of Putivl 30 miles northeast of the big Axis base also fell.

Konotop thus was threatened with imminent seizure by Red army units that already had captured a big stretch of the Bryansk-Kiev railway above that city.

Today's Red army advances brought the total area recaptured from the Germans since the beginning of the July 12 drive to more than 20,000 square miles along the 600-mile active front.

The new line, still fluid as the offensive appeared to gain strength daily, already showed the recapture of some 230,000 square miles by the Russians since the time of the greatest Nazi advances, which carried to the highwater mark of Stalingrad.

Putivl apparently was taken by the same forces which had driven down from the north upon Konotop to take the rail town of Krolovets on Thursday. Forces which captured the big German base of Sumy 75 miles east of Konotop, on Thursday plunged ahead westward along the Belgorod-Sumy-Konotop railway to take the large towns of Belopole and vorozhba.

This railway goes on through Konotop, the main line west to Kiev and the upper Dnieper, approximately 130 miles away. The Germans, falling back steadily since the Russians launched their current offensive on July 12, have shown no signs of making a halt or determined stand, and under the heavy Soviet blows still seem likely to fall back to the Dnieper line.

100 Places To North Taken

To the north the Russians captured one hundred populated places in the important Smolensk sector, yesterday's bulletin said, scoring gains of from two and a half to four miles, and in the central Bryansk area occupied more than fifty populated places in advances of from four to six miles.

In the area west and southwest of Kharkov, Russian troops, "overcoming enemy resistance and counter-attacks, continued offensive engagements for improvement of their positions," the communique said, not announcing any specific gains made or towns captured.

The Russians' most spectacular drives at the moment were those through the Donets basin toward Stalino and through the northern Ukraine upon Konotop, with indications that the Nazis were the more concerned over the former.

RAF BOMB TONNAGE SETS NEW RECORD

August Raids Heavier Than Those Pressed Home in July.

LONDON, Saturday, Sept. 4 — (AP) Although restricted by weather, British bombers dumped more than 19,000 tons of bombs on Germany and Italy during August — 3,000 tons more than in July, the Air ministry said today in a monthly review.

(These tons in the R.A.F. announcement are long tons, 240 pounds heavier than the standard, 2,000-pound American ton.)

Germany alone was the target last month for 16,000 tons — as much as British planes hurled on the entire Axis in July. The bulk of the deadly loads were concentrated on Hamburg, Nuernberg and Berlin.

Milan was hit four times during the month, Turin three times and Genoa once.

Despite the fact that weather conditions were good for only 14 nights of the month, the Allied air offensive was kept at a high pitch with medium and light bombers and fighters hammering away at the Axis transport system, air bases and sea traffic.

With the bombing fleets and their unprecedented loads steadily increasing and the smaller planes out every possible day, the R.A.F. lost 381 planes during the month compared with 258 in July.

The enemy also lost more heavily with a total of 161 planes over Europe and Britain. The July total was 129.

LANDING IS HAILED BY FREE ITALIANS

London, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—Free Italians in Britain, cheered the Allied landings in Italy today as heralding Italy's quick exit from the war.

Andrea Simoni, head of the pro-Allied Italian group here, said: "The Italians at last will be able to give up the game, and quickly. The Badoglio government has been unable to do so before the Allies occupied the country, but he knows the Allies will help throw off the German rule.

"Even the Italians in the north of Italy have been helping the Allies. They welcome the invading forces."

R. A. F. Raiders Batter Berlin In Night Attack

Fortresses Found Renault Plant at Paris; 5 Plane Bases in France Blasted

LONDON, Sept. 4 (Saturday) (AP).—Royal Air Force heavy bombers battered Berlin last night for the second time in four nights, the British announced today, as Allied air fleets based in Britain maintained their assaults on western Europe.

Flying Fortresses hammered the Caudron-Renault aircraft factory in the outskirts of Paris and an airplane assembly plant near by yesterday and other fleets of Fortresses, Marauders and fighters joined to give western Europe its heaviest bomb-lashing of the war.

Axis radios began leaving the air last night soon after the British bombers streamed across the channel, indicating that Germany itself might have been the target for the night raiders.

Aircraft Factory Hit

The Caudron-Renault aircraft factory on Paris' outskirts and an assembly plant nearby were the targets for the daylight raid by the big four-engined American bombers. Marauders and fighters also swarmed across the channel yesterday to give western Europe one of its worst bomb-lashings of the war.

Last night, the Berlin, Cologne and Calais radios were silenced soon after southeast coast observers reported hearing the R.A.F. armada head out over the coast. Then the Prague, Toulouse, Breslau and Vichy radios left the air to make the blackout almost a record one, and indicating that the R.A.F. raid was possibly widespread.

Third Night Attack

It was the third night attack for the British bombers this week. They rained heavy bombs on the Rhineland Monday night and on Berlin Tuesday night.

Five Airfields Blasted

Five airfields in northern France were drubbed by the heavy and medium bombers in a furious two-ply blow against Nazi air strength in roaring accompaniment to the invasion of Italy, and 29 enemy planes were shot from the skies during the day.

The Fortresses, ripping through determined clouds of enemy defenders, shot down 23 and planted heavy bombs on the important Caudron-Renault factory and the assembly plant at Meulan les Mureaux northwest of the French capital. The last raid on the Paris area was a Fortress attack on Villacoublay airfield Aug. 24. Renault factories were attacked by Fortresses last April, and by the R.A.F. last year.

Few German fighters challenged the other fleets hitting the five airdromes, and Allied protecting fighters smacked down six of them, four falling to P-47 Thunderbolts and two to Spitfires.

One of the fields hit was Romilly-Sur-Seine 75 miles from Paris. It was attacked by Fortresses with Thunderbolt escorts with bombs laid on hangars and on or near workshops.

Eight Bombers Lost

Eight heavy bombers and two fighters were lost, a joint American-British communique announced tonight.

The first great formations swung across the channel with the dawn of Britain's fifth year of war, and their numbers swelled by the hundreds as the blazing offensive progressed in striking similarity to the pre-invasion bomb paralysis inflicted on Italy.

A Nazi broadcast said the industrial western suburbs of Paris were hard hit, and that some bombs fell in the center of the French capital for the first time. Targets in the Netherlands also were hit, Berlin declared.

Two Subway Stations Hit

The Italian news agency Stefani said a heavy load of explosives and incendiaries was dropped on Paris with "many casualties among the French population," and the Paris radio said two subway stations were hit, causing numerous casualties.

The Paris alert lasted an hour and 55 minutes, a Vichy broadcast also heard by the Asociated Press reported.

Foretaste, London Thinks

Every type of plane was thrown into the day's operations—heavy Fortresses, speedy medium Marauders, and clouds of protecting fighters including Thunderbolts and Spitfires piloted by Dominion and Allied airmen.

Britons and Americans at a war anniversary in London were thrilled by the spectacle of 150 homing Fortresses which droned overhead.

The presence of Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of United States Army Air Forces, in Britain lent support to prospects that today's aerial onslaught was only the foretaste of what is to come.

These assaults followed RAF raids last night against enemy airfields and other objectives in northern France and the Low Countries, and a heavy Fortress attack Thursday at airdromes at Mardyck and Denain and Marauder hammering of the Mazingarde power station and targets in the Pas de Calais area of France.

Plane Plant Attacked.

London, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—American Flying Fortresses attacked the Caudron-Renault aircraft factory on the outskirts of Paris and an aircraft assembly plant at Meulan Les Mureaux, northwest of Paris, in a daylight attack today as Allied invasion forces stormed onto the Italian mainland, a joint British-American communique announced.

Other formations of Flying Fortresses and Marauder medium bombers attacked five enemy air fields in northern France, said the bulletin issued by the British Air Ministry and the United States Army's European theater headquarters.

The Fortresses attacking the plane factory and assembly plant met heavy opposition and shot down twenty-three enemy fighters. Only a few enemy planes were encountered by the bombers carrying out the other attacks.

Late in the day the Air Ministry announced that R. A. F. Typhoon bombers attacked enemy shipping off the Dutch coast this morning and that Mitchell and Ventura bombers escorted by Spitfires bombed targets in northern France this afternoon. The Typhoons sank a small coastal vessel and a steam dredger, the communique said. Two of the British planes were reported missing.

Maisky Agrees 3-Power Parley Is Good Idea

Meeting of Russia, Britain and U. S. Would Be on Foreign-Minister Level

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP).—Ivan Maisky, former Soviet Ambassador to Great Britain and now Vice-Commissar of Foreign Affairs, has agreed with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and American Ambassador John G. Winant that it would be a good idea to hold a three-power conference on a foreign-minister level, it was disclosed today.

So far, however, neither the place nor the date for such a parley, as was suggested by Prime Minister Winston Churchill in Quebec earlier this week, has been agreed upon.

Spadework for the big three session was slowed down temporarily today by the illness of Mr. Maisky, who was described as indisposed and not seriously ill.

RALLIES CZECHS

LONDON, Sept. 3. — (AP) Gen. Sergej Ingr, commander in chief of the Czech army, sounded the old Hussite battle cry, "Beat them, kill them, leave none alive," in a broadcast from London today urging Czechs to prepare for the day of uprising against the Germans.

"Everyone should look around now for the most appropriate weapon in order to harm the Germans most," Gen. Ingr said. "If there is no firearm at hand, any other kind of weapon that cuts, stabs or hits should be prepared and hidden."

The general called the coming year a "year of victory."

VATICAN GOVERNOR ON MISSION TO U. S.

London, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—Enrico Galeazzi, Governor of the Vatican City, left Libson by clipper Wednesday night for the United States, a Reuters dispatch reported today. The purpose of his visit was not disclosed, Reuters said, but there was speculation here on the possibility that it was connected with negotiations to make Rome an open city.

Galeazzi visited the United States in October, 1941, when he was Chief of Economic Services at Vatican City, to buy supplies for the city's 700 inhabitants.

A Swiss telegraphic agency dispatch from the Vatican City said that the possibilty was not excluded that Galeazzi was the bearer of a personal message from Pope Pius XII to President Roosevelt. This agency called Galeazzi one of the closest counselors of the Pope, and said his journey was believed to be in connection with the intense Vatican diplomatic activity of recent days.

Son Of Late King Boris Proclaimed Bulgar Ruler

London, Sept. 3 (AP) — Simeon, 6-year-old son of the late King Boris, was proclaimed ruler of the Bulgarians by the Bulgarian Parliament, the Germans news agency DNB reported today from Sofia.

In an appeal for loyalty to the child, Christo Kalfoff, president of the Bulgarian Chamber, said, "His Majesty faces stormy days and many trials," DNB added in a dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by the Associated Press.

NAZI GENERAL IS SUICIDE

Moscow Reports Finding Body of Tank Division Commander

LONDON, Saturday, Sept. 4 (AP) —The Moscow radio said today that Soviet units advancing on the Kharkov front had found the body of a German lieutenant general who had committed suicide by shooting himself through the temple.

The broadcast identified him as Lieutenant General Schmidt, the commander of the Nineteenth Tank Division, which it said had suffered heavy defeat at Kharkov. It said he was the holder of Germany's highest military award, the Oak Leaf Cluster.

Envoy Of The Vatican Arrives In London

London, Saturday, Sept. 4 (AP)— Traveling under diplomatic privilege and honor-bound to "see and hear" nothing of military or political importance, the Italian banker, Signor Giovanni Fummi, technically an enemy citizen, arrived here yesterday to discuss Vatican finances with British capitalists.

Four-Day Nazi Council Ends

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP).—A dispatch to "The Daily Mail," via Vichy and Madrid, said Adolf Hitler's staff advisers have just ended a four-day extraordinary war council at Hitler's headquarters at which the retreat on the Russian front was discussed.

"Break-up of the meeting probably foreshadows further and more dramatic German withdrawals," the dispatch said.

Some German leaders wanted to bring the German line back as far as the frontier in eastern Poland established with Russia in 1939 but it was finally decided to make the major stand on the Smolensk-Kiev-Dniepropetrovsk line, the dispatch said.

Cable-Cutting Planes

London, Saturday, Sept. 4 (AP)— The Air Ministry disclosed today that every British bomber plane is fitted with sixteen cable-cutting devices, which are so powerful that they can cut through the heaviest cable in one-thousandth of a second.

British Lose Sloop

London, Sept. 3 (AP)—The Admiralty announced tonight the loss of the British sloop Egret.

BIG GUNS IN DUEL

LONDON, Saturday, Sept. 4 — (AP) Big guns on both sides of the straits of Dover began an earth-shaking duel shortly before midnight last night and continued the heavy firing for about 40 minutes.

The British guns were believed to have been shelling enemy ships near the French coast. Long-range German guns at Cap Gris Nez and Calais quickly replied.

Col. Briggs Gets Citation

Receives Legion of Merit for Role in Moving 12th Air Force to Africa

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP). — In recognition of his contribution to the success of the North African campaign, Colonel James E. Briggs, of the United States 8th Air Force, was awarded the Legion of Merit today by Lieutenant General Jacob L. Devers, United States commander in the European theater.

The citation said Briggs, who formerly lived at West Point, N. Y., served as senior operations officer in the movement of 12th Air Force echelons from the United Kingdom to North Africa "by long and hazardous overseas flight with many types of aircraft of varying ranges," and "through untiring efforts and devotion to duty was largely responsible for the successful accomplishment of this mission," the citation read.

English Town Raises Money To Purchase American Bomber

By JAMES M. LONG,
Associated Press Foreign Correspondent.

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND.—This is New Hackensack, Little Paducah, Oshkosh East—a quaint little quiet town in England that has got jive in its walk and slang on its tongue-tip from almost a year of rubbing elbows with American troops.

The setting is still old England: Oaks standing stately guard along the commons footwalk, chimneypots jutting from steep tiled roofs, ivy and grey stone walls, tandem bicycles and tailored gentlemen with canes.

The atmosphere that stems from the infectious grins and boisterous good humor of the Yanks on leave has set in so quietly the townspeople have hardly noticed the change.

But it has come.

Adopt American Slang.

Boys in striped English school caps drawl a "so long, bud" that comes as naturally as "cheerio," and chew the gum they get from Americans as vigorously as any youngster from the Bronx to Berkeley.

One little tyke whose father wears the coronet pips of an English officer parades proudly in a jacket adorned with the shoulder bars of an American captain. And when asked why he doesn't wear English insignia he has the answer pat: "Humph! Promotion's faster in the American Army."

The scrubwoman of the little local hotel sudses down the doorstoop singing to herself—"I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy."

And at the hospitality league dances the town girls forsake the walking waltz for jive.

Mingle at Pubs.

Buses bring in the boys from outlying camps. From nearby stations they walk in over the hedge-lined country lanes. And they sit for hours in service clubs and Red Cross hostels reading old newspapers from home in rooms hung with pictures of President Roosevelt and decorated with security mottos such as "Keep Your Mouth Shut."

They mingle with the townsfolk in the pubs, at shows and on the streets.

Many of the camps are air stations. Many of the Americans are air and ground force personnel. And the English do not regard them as just so many more troops in training and in waiting. For overhead there is visual evidence that the Americans are carrying the war to Europe.

When the townspeople say "Our boys gave it to Hamburg again yesterday" they mean by "our boys" the Yanks at the big bomber base over the hill.

Watch Returning Planes.

A little group of farmers at the edge of town watched confidently as a Fortress came coughing home, low overhead, two motors conked out and propellers feathered.

"He'll make it," said one, turning back to his team. "Eat birdseed, those boys do."

Just the same the townspeople count the planes that roar overhead closing into formation and pointed east and hurry out again later to count them coming back. Some of the boys they know by name. Some have been guests at their homes.

Every city and village in England had its quota of funds to raise in England's "Wings for Victory" campaign this summer. But one little town near a Liberator station talked it over and decided:

"We'll raise ours, provided it's all pledged to buy a Liberator—a United States Liberator for our station."

Raising the Money.

It was a town of less than 10,000 population. The cost of a Liberator in tens of thousands of dollars was explained to the town's committee. But it stuck grimly to its purpose. A few weeks ago the goal was in sight and the last of the funds was trickling slowly in.

Because of security—to prevent disclosure of the location of bomber stations—tribute to the town and its long, hard fund drive cannot be paid even by identifying it.

But someday, from a bomber field in England, a glinting new Liberator will take off in formation with other planes named "Yankee Babe" and "Slugging Sam," and the townsfolk nearby will read newly painted on its side: "The Spirit of ——," the name of a little English town with pride in "our Americans."

'Nerve' Patients Get Rest Cure Close to Front

Army Doctors Use Sedative, and Exhausted Soldiers Recover in a Few Days

U. S. ARMY MEDICAL DEPOT IN BRITAIN (AP).—When a front-line soldier begins to show signs of cracking up, a doctor slips him a sedative and he sleeps it off. Frequently he is recovered and ready for action within a few days.

This simple formula for treating nervous exhaustion right on the spot before it becomes acute is a striking example of the Army's latest medical technique which gives today's American soldiers "a far greater chance of avoiding or surviving wounds than in the World War.

Captain Robert Beaudet, of Franklin, N. H., who went through the North African campaign as chief surgeon of one of the new mobile medical units with the 1st Armored Division, said that much of the mental distress suffered by soldiers in modern battle is due to extreme physical exhaustion.

So instead of sending "nerve" cases long distances back to base hospitals — by which time many probably would become really ill—they are treated immediately on the battlefield and then at clearing stations much closer to the front than in the last war; often within range of enemy gunfire. They get special medicines to relax taut nerves and reduce tension built up through a siege of active combat.

Before the soldier has a chance to start worrying about his condition—either mental or physical—he is asleep. He is aroused only for meals, then "knocked out" again. This process continues for three, four or five days, until the doctor is satisfied the victim is completely rested.

When he finally wakes up, an army psychiatrist is there to talk to him and get his mind off his troubles. Pretty soon he has forgotten his ills and rejoins his outfit feeling like a new man.

"This cure — perfect rest — enables a big majority of victims to return to active duty in a very short time," Captain Beaudet explained.

More Wacs Reach Africa

Take Clerical Jobs in Support of Troops Invading Italy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 3 (AP).—A new detachment of Wacs arrived today to take over clerical jobs at Allied headquarters, supporting the fighting men who moved onto the Italian mainland a few hours earlier.

Wearing steel helmets and carrying heavy packs on their backs, the girls lined up in military formation to be greeted by Major General E. S. Hughes, deputy theater commander, who said, "We're glad to see you; we've been waiting for you a long time. We'll house and feed you and make you work like hell."

When the Wacs were recently made a part of the regular army those in North Africa were given the choice of going home to civilian life or remaining here for the duration of the war. More than 80 per cent signed up to stay.

SUNSPOTS DELAY LANDING REPORT

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—Sunspots delayed accounts of the Allied landing today in Italy. Wireless technicians attributed to the spots the faulty transmission from the Mediterranean area to the United States.

Dispatches piled up beside the operators as they tried various wave lengths in an effort to get through.

French Indict Vichy Government, Decide to Try Petain After War

ALGIERS, Sept. 3—(AP) In a sweeping indictment of the Vichy government for its collaboration with Nazi Germany, the French Committee of National Liberation voted today to bring Marshal Philippe Petain and other members of his government to justice.

The committee, meeting under Gen. Charles de Gaulle, charged Petain and his "pseudo government" with capitulating, striking at the constitution, collaborating with the enemy, delivering French workers to the Germans, and forcing French forces to fight against the Allies or against those Frenchmen who continued the struggle.

30.24 - 7999

30.24-7999

It said the Vichy officials would be brought to justice "as soon as circumstances permit."

The committee also voted complete military or civil mobilization of all French subjects throughout the empire or in foreign countries to speed the organization of the French army, navy and airforce and to bring closer coordination with the underground forces in France.

A special committee consisting of de Gaulle, Gen Henri Giraud, co-president of the National Committee, and Andre Philip, commissioner of the interior, was formed to deal with the leaders of the French underground organization.

The committee announced also that it would shortly fix conditions under which a provisional French assembly, which is to establish a provisional government in France, will operate.

Gen. Giraud will retain control of the secret military police charged with guarding the security of French and Allied forces on French territory, and of military installations.

DEGAULLE TELLS FRENCH HOUR OF COMBAT HERE

ALGIERS, Sept. 3.—(AP) Referring to the Allied plunge onto the toe of the Italian boot, Gen. Charles de Gaulle, co-leader of the French Committee of National Liberation, told the people of France by radio today that "the hour of supreme combat and sacrifice has struck."

Speaking over the United Nations radio on the fourth anniversary of France's entry into the war, Gen. de Gaulle declared that recognition of the committee by 26 nations "has just given striking proof of our solidarity for triumph and peace."

Gen. de Gaulle said that France, despite her misfortune, "is first and foremost determined to develop her internal and external effort so that the enemy will be beaten, completely beaten, beaten as soon as possible, beaten by itself as well as others."

Cairo, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—Royal Air Force Beaufighters attacked concentration of enemy transport vehicles on a highway south of Preveza on the western coast of Greece yesterday and made a direct hit amidships on a merchant vessel near Preveza, a Middle East air communique said today.

FINLAND STUDIES MOVES TO SEVER TIES WITH BERLIN

COLBURN

Parliament Indicates Pro-Allied Sentiment in Secret Session.

SEP 4 1943

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 3. — (AP) The Finnish Parliament, in a secret session lasting an hour and ten minutes today, discussed means of getting Finland out of her military alliance with Germany and making a separate peace with Russia.

Parliament took no action, but the best information was that the members generally were pro-Allied.

Members opposed to Finland getting out of the war, political leaders and government officials were reported in agreement that a peace guaranteeing Finland's pre-1939 boundaries was their mutual aim and home front while all opportunities for getting the country out of the conflict were investigated.

The official Finnish communique issued tonight gave no details of the session but did quote Premier Edwin Linkomies as saying "our mutual aim is for a safe peace," which the Finns describe as a peace guaranteeing their democratic independence.

The government was reported as viewing the present military alliance with Germany as an economic necessity. Also, some 80,000 German troops occupy the northern section of the country.

Finland has made some peace soundings but the government wants Russia to outline her demands. Russia, on the other hand, maintains Finland is fighting on the losing side and should offer terms.

Finland made an effort to negotiate a peace through the United States, but this fell through because the Finnish government declined to make any move to break her Axis ties, although a large majority of the Finns are convinced Germany can't win the war.

Finns, however, still hope the United States will help guarantee any peace made with Russia.

7,000 Homeless In One Berlin Suburb Alone

Stockholm, Sept. 3 (AP)—Seven thousand bombed-out persons in one southwest Berlin suburb alone are receiving their meals daily in a small movie house where an emergency kitchen has been set up following the last RAF raid on the German capital Tuesday night, the newspaper Berliner Lokalanzeiger said.

In the same suburb, the newspaper said, the Nazi district leadership headquarters was destroyed, so the Nazis moved to the town hall "where they are giving help to a stream of people which at no time of day lessens."

Although the destruction caused by Tuesday night's raid was not as great as that of the previous week, Lokalanzeiger said, "nevertheless the damage was heavy enough. Houses simply fall together under the force of high explosives and air mines."

The newspaper disclosed that Berlin's southwest sector and fashionable west end especially suffered.

"Norwegian Rhapsody" Is Banned In Sweden

Stockholm, Sept. 3 (AP) — The stage play "Norwegian Rhapsody," telling the story of Nazi occupation in Norway, was banned by Swedish authorities today after a two-day run.

A Government spokesman said the action was taken on Swedish initiative because of disparaging remarks about the Germans which Sweden, as a neutral country, could not permit.

New Danish Sabotage Brings 8 P. M. Curfew

Stockholm, Saturday, Sept. 4 (AP). Continued anti-German sabotage has caused the Germans to rescind their recent modification of martial law in Denmark, the Nazi-controlled Danish radio said last night.

The Germans had permitted theaters to reopen and had extended curfew from 9 P. M. to 11 P. M., but hereafter every establishment must be closed by 8 P. M., and all traffic except for the military and physicians will be prohibited on the streets between 9 P. M. and 5 A. M.

Finn Parliament Talks Of Ending Nazi Ties

Stockholm, Sept. 3 (AP)—The Finnish Parliament, in a secret session lasting an hour and ten minutes today, discussed means of getting Finland out of her military alliance with Germany and making a separate peace with Russia.

QUISLING AIDE IS SLAIN

Charles Hoff, Sports Director, Once Held Pole Vault Record

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 3 (AP)—Charles Hoff, one-time holder of the world pole vault record and for the past three years director of the Quisling sport movement in Norway, was found murdered near Oslo, the Swedish press reported today.

Hoff was regarded here as one of Nazi puppet Premier Vidkun Quisling's closest collaborators.

Forty-one years old, Hoff set his pole vault record in 1922. He also was an outstanding 400 and 800 meter runner. After a tour of the United States he returned to Norway as a sports writer.

Invasion Aided by Saboteurs

Italians Friendly to Allies Wrecked Supply Dumps and Airfields Behind Lines.

Madrid, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—A fortnight of sabotage by underground forces, aimed at communication lines, supply dumps, repair shops and airfields, has helped pave the way for Allied invasion of continental Italy, according to reports reaching here.

To the accuracy of the Allied bombings has been added persistent wrecking behind the lines by Italians willing to risk the firing squad in order to make the invasion of Italy easier and bring an earlier end of the war.

Saboteurs have been active particularly against railroads and rolling stock, according to reports reaching Italians here and received through neutral channels. As a result locomotives are scarce in southern Italy, although they have been guarded day and night by German soldiers.

Germans found that locomotives left under the guard of Italian soldiers frequently were sabotaged, it was said.

Representatives of the Yugoslav Government in Madrid said that Gen. Draja Mihailovic and his partisans remain in radio communication with the Allies "and will strike only when their action is co-ordinated with Allied action."

These guerrillas already may be feeling the effect of the Allied invasion, however, for Italians have been saying for weeks that a continental landing would start a trek of Italian troops from the Balkans to the homeland.

News from the French-Spanish frontier this morning said the landing led to a burst of activity among German garrisons along the French Mediterranean coast.

Spanish correspondents in Berlin recently reported the official German view that an attack on southern Italy was likely to be simultaneous with attacks against Sardinia and Corsica and perhaps the French coast itself.

Who's Defending Italy? Berlin, Rome Won't Say

Madrid, Sept. 3 (AP)—Both Berlin and Rome carefully refrained tonight from saying just who was resisting the Allied invasion of southern Italy, dispatches to the Spanish press indicated.

Berlin appeared to be leaning over backward to avoid taking the responsibility for the defense of southern Italy, while the only Italian communique published here tonight said not a word about Italian or German land resistance and limited itself to a reference to "German planes" attacking Allied convoys and shipping.

Nazis in France Jittery

MADRID, Sept. 3 (AP). — Reports from the French frontier this morning said the Allied landing in Italy led to a burst of activity among German garrisons along the French Mediterranean coast.

Spanish correspondents in Berlin recently reported the official German view that an attack on southern Italy was likely to coincide with attacks on Sardinia and Corsica and perhaps the French coast itself.

Pisa's Leaning Tower Unaffected by Raids

MADRID, Sept. 3 (AP).—The leaning tower of Pisa is still leaning.

SEP 4 1943

The official Spanish foreign news agency Efe, in a dispatch from Pisa, said today the tower was leaning exactly at the same angle as before, apparently undisturbed by near-by Allied bombings.

U. S. BOMBERS SMASH AT PYAWBWE, BURMA

Drop 40 Tons on Rails, Barracks —RAF Bags 13 Big Trucks

NEW DELHI, India, Sept. 3 (AP) —American heavy and medium bombers dumped approximately forty tons of explosives on rail yards and barracks at Japanese-held Pyawbwe, ninety-five miles south of Mandalay, in a heavy daylight attack yesterday, United States Tenth Air Force Headquarters announced today.

A headquarters communiqué said the Liberators and Mitchells demolished several buildings, including warehouses and destroyed considerable trackage and rolling stock.

In other daylight attacks on Japanese installations in Burma yesterday, twin-engined Mitchells destroyed warehouses and work shops at Chauk, about 100 miles southwest of Mandalay, and scored direct hits on docks and storage buildings at Toungoo, about 210 miles south of Mandalay, which itself was the target of American heavy bombers the previous day.

British fighter planes, attacking enemy communications over a wide area of western Burma, destroyed or damaged thirteen three-ton trucks yesterday on the highway from Taungup to Prome and six locomotives and two trains between Toungoo and Yamethin, it was announced today.

A sawmill was set ablaze and two factories damaged by other fighters, a communiqué said. River craft damaged included a paddle steamer with four boats in tow, one of which was left sinking and two afire. Another boat exploded and burned.

In the Arakan district a formation of Vengeances dive-bombed the town of Paletwa, scoring direct hits on two large buildings and starting fires.

Soviet Press Bureau Aids Killed at Front

Moscow, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—Mikhail Vasiev, vice-chief of the Press Department, and Viktor Kozhemiako, a censor, were killed while accompanying foreign correspondents on a trip to the front on Wednesday when their automobile ran over a buried mine.

Foreign correspondents following a car behind were not hurt.

U. S. FLIERS POUND JAP BASES IN CHINA

Hanoi Airfield One of Numerous Targets Blasted in Wide Sweeps.

CHUNGKING, Sept. 3—(AP) American planes striking at widely-separated targets in Japanese-occupied China and Indo-China bombed a number of points Tuesday including the airdrome near Hanoi, Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

Medium Mitchell bombers attacked a new enemy air field at Ichang and P-40's dive-bombed and left sinking a 450-foot ship off Hongkong, the announcement said.

Targets along the Canton-Hankow railway south of Hankow also were severely bombed.

One plane failed to return from the day's operations.

A spokesman for the Chinese army said at a press conference today that recent Japanese air activity indicated the invaders were preparing for a showdown with the American air force in China.

This spokesman also said the Japanese have increased the strength of their ground forces in Burma to seven and one-half divisions, approximately 112,500, and were reported to be increasing their air strength in Burma where recently they had only slightly more than 100 planes.

Japs Take Full Control

The Chinese army spokesman said three and a half Japanese divisions had been sent to Burma from Malaya, including 10,000 troops from Singapore. He asserted that the Japanese, with the acquiescence of the Vichy government, had taken over "full protection" of the Indo-China border.

The Chinese high command reported heavy fighting in western Yunnan and in the inner Mongolian province of Suiyuan, and said the Japanese suffered more than 200 casualties in Yunnan, including many killed.

Russia Promotes Kavtaradze

MOSCOW, Sept. 3 (AP)—The Council of People's Commissars today appointed Sergey Ivanovich Kavtaradze a Vice Commissar for Foreign Affairs. Mr. Kavtaradze previously was chief of a department in the Soviet Foreign Office.

JAP LANDING REPULSED

CHUNGKING, Aug. 30—(Delayed)—(AP) Japanese troops attempted to land Sunday on Santuao island, 45 miles north of Foochow, in Fukien province, but were repulsed by shore batteries, Chinese dispatches announced today.

The attempt was made under cover of a barrage from Japanese warships which pounded the Chinese shore positions from comparatively close range, the dispatch said.

The exact purpose of the attempted landing was not known but might have been either for the purpose of foraging supplies or to establish a base for a drive inland.

The Japanese are known to fear the establishment of air bases in Fukien from which attacks on Japan could be launched.

Ambush in Shansi Frees 7,000 Chinese Held by Foe

Disguised Troops Join Labor Gang and Help Spring Trap

CHUNGKING, Sept. 3 (AP).—The high command told in a communique today how Chinese troops in southwestern Shansi Province liberated 7,000 Chinese who had been rounded up by the Japanese with the intention of forcing them to dig trenches.

After learning of the plan, the communique said, the Chinese prepared an ambush along a highway and detailed troops to mix with the labor gang. When the Chinese attacked Japanese troops marching the laborers along the highway, the soldiers disguished as workers shouted: "Here come Chinese troops; let's run fast."

The laborers scattered as the Chinese closed in, killing many of the Japanese, routing the others and capturing a quantity of ammunition, the high command said.

THREE JAP SHIPS SUNK AT WEWAK BY ALLIED PLANES

MCDANIEL

Freight Transports Destroyed in Harbor at New Guinea Base.

TWO SET ABLAZE

Cargo Vessel, Destroyer Damaged in Low-Level Attack.

SEP 4 1943

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Saturday, Sept. 4.—(AP) Three 7,000-ton Japanese freight transports were sunk and a destroyer and a fourth transport out of a seven-ship convoy were set ablaze by Allied planes in a raid Thursday morning on the harbor at Wewak, New Guinea.

Today's communique, reporting the raid, said the Japanese tried frantically to protect the ships, sending in 35 fighter planes, of which 12 were downed for certain and 13 others probably destroyed or damaged. They also reported a balloon barrage.

Japs to Stand at Wewak

The presence of the convoy and the Japanese efforts to shield it were taken to indicate that the enemy intends to hold to Wewak, 350 miles above his tottering garrison at Salamaua, as a major operating base.

The balloons were aloft and the Zeros and twin-engined fighters were in the air when the raiders came in at mast height through a curtain of Japanese anti-aircraft fire. The convoy had arrived during the previous night.

This was the first mention in months of Japanese convoys in the vicinity of northern New Guinea where the enemy has relied almost entirely recently on barges for supply and reinforcement.

Ground Positions Unchanged

At Salamaua, headquarters said there was little change in ground positions but that the Japanese had suffered heavy losses in fighting south of the airdrome.

Last definite reports on positions placed the Americans and Australians in control of the south bank of the Francisco river except along the coast where it empties into Bayern bay. The river, which has been crossed inland to the north bank by the Australians, flows just before the airdrome. Fighting there has raged as near as the southwestern edge of the field.

The convoy, consisting of five transports and two destroyers, was attacked in the Wewak harbor where the ships had arrived with reinforcements and supplies for the enemy garrison there.

Mitchell medium bombers with a strong escort of Lightnings made the attack.

Attack Is Masthead Height

"Coming in at masthead height, our bombers scored direct hits with thousand-pound bombs on three freighter transports, each of 7,000 tons, sinking them," today's communique said.

"In addition, one of the escorting warships and a 1,000-ton cargo ship sustained direct hits and were left ablaze."

The low-flying raiders strafed and sank several small craft in the harbor.

Thirty-five Japanese planes intercepted after being "flown in from the rear," the communique said. After the recent destruction of more than 360 planes at Wewak, a spokesman for General MacArthur said, the Japanese had been forced to withdraw their air reinforcement bases back 200 miles to Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea.

In addition to shooting down 12 of the 35 enemy fighters, the raiders probably destroyed eight others and damaged five. Three Allied bombers and one fighter were lost.

The Japanese resort to a balloon barrage was something new in the sector. The communique said the balloons were employed "from ship and shore."

Two Jap Ships Bombed

Damaging "near hits" were reported in today's communique to have been scored by reconnaissance bombers on two more ships in the New Ireland vicinity, a 7,000-ton vessel off Cape St. George and a 5,000-ton cargo ship west of Mussau island. Reconnaissance fliers recently have made almost daily attacks in that area on shipping targets ranging from merchantmen to a Japanese cruiser.

Across the Vitiaz strait from New Guinea's Huon peninsula, a 60-ton raid was reported made on the Cape Gloucester, New Britain, airdrome in daylight by two and four-engined Allied bombers, escorted by fighters.

Eleven enemy fighters were intercepted. Seven were shot down and two others were listed as probably destroyed. One Allied bomber was reported missing.

In the Solomons, another of a growing series of raids was directed at Japan's big Kahili airdrome on South Bougainville.

The latest raid was made at dawn by American fighters which destroyed four Japanese planes on the ground and inflicted casualties among enemy personnel. Two launches and a barge were destroyed along the shore. The raid cost the Americans one plane.

In the sector northwest of Australia, a 500-ton enemy ship, loaded with Japanese troops, was hit by a bomb dropped from a two-engined Allied reconnaissance plane off Timika, Dutch New Guinea.

U. S. RULES AIR AT NEW GUINEA

Jap Opposition There Is Practically Ended.

Allied Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—The Allied campaign for northeastern New Guinea appears, for the moment at least, to have knocked out the Japanese air force from besieged Salamaua all the 550 miles to the Dutch New Guinea border.

In earlier stages of the Allied drive on Salamaua, Japanese planes raided forward mountain positions, ranged far to strike across the Owen Stanley Mountains at Port Moresby and down the coast from Salamaua in the region of Buna.

Today's Allied communique, reporting the wiping out of Japanese army headquarters, warehouses, fuel and ammunition stores in and around Madang, said the raiding Liberators and Mitchells found only one grounded enemy plane among targets for their more than 206 tons of bombs. Escorting Lightnings did not encounter an interceptor.

The Salamaua airdrome, now within rifle range of Allied jungle fighters, is unserviceable to the enemy. Fifteen miles above it at Lae, site of another Japanese airdrome, today's communique reported a twenty-three-ton bombing raid without mention of air opposition.

Roughly 100 miles above Lae and Salamaua there is an airdrome at Alexishafen. There Tuesday's raiders spotted the one plane and destroyed it.

Three hundred and fifty miles above Salamaua, there are at least four airdromes around Wewak. Since August 17, more than 360 enemy planes have been wiped out there in a series of raids. In the last raid Monday, not a Japanese plane was in the air and Gen. MacArthur's headquarters disclosed the enemy had pulled back his reinforcement base 200 miles to Hollandia Dutch New Guinea.

NINE ARMY AIRMEN HONORED IN PACIFIC

SCHEDLER

Lieut. Layhee of Dannemora Is in Group Receiving Oak Leaf Cluster for Heroism

SEP 4 1943

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 3 (AP)—Nine American airmen reecived today the Oak Leaf Cluster award from Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of the Fifth Air Force.

Tech. Sgt. Archie L. Leazer of Greensboro, S. C., and First Lieut. Harold F. Layhee of Dannemora, N. Y., participated in 200 hours of operational flight missions, bombing enemy ships, attacking installations and carrying out armed reconnaissance. It was Lieutenant Layhee's second Oak Leaf, equivalent to a third Distinguished Flying Cross.

Staff Sgt. Wesley R. Grow of Rib Lake, Wis., and Capt. Charles Andrews of Grenada, Miss., participated in February in a flight over New Britain. With Captain Andrews the pilot and Sergeant Grow the gunner, they sighted an enemy cargo vessel near Powell Point. On the first run, the plane failed to release its bombs but on the second run the bombs hit and damaged the vessel's bow. Three Japanese fighters attacked the plane. In a 45-minute battle, one of the enemy was downed. The American plane also was hit and smoke and fumes filled it but Sergeant Grow stuck to his post until the plane slipped into a cloud, then he helped extinguish the fire. Despite blinding weather conditions and a damaged left aileron, Captain Andrews returned the plane to the base. The awards were equivalent to a fourth D.F.C. for the captain and a third for the sergeant.

First Lieut. Francis L. Schneiders of Los Angeles and Staff Sgt. Stanley Poole of Jacksonville, Fla., were on fifty operational missions. They dropped supplies and transported troops over mountainous terrain, often in adverse weather.

Staff Sgt. James W. Miller of Roebuck, S. C., over Lae, New Guinea, in May, 1942, was attacked by Zeros during a bombing run. He destroyed three of the attackers.

State Luncheon Is Planned For First Lady in Australia

EVNSON

Wartime Customs, Old Traditions Discarded at Canberra.

CANBERRA, Australia, Sept. 4—(Saturday)—(AP) Wartime customs and an old tradition go into discard today at a state luncheon in honor of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt who arrived yesterday by air from New Zealand.

The wife of the American President is the first woman ever invited to eat in the Parliament House dining room. She beats Australia's first women Parliament members, recently elected, to this distinction by a short time.

A red carpet, reserved usually for royalty, has been brought out for use on the Parliament steps.

Prime Minister Curtin and other cabinet members are relaxing the wartime custom of refraining from formal dress.

Personally Approves Menu

The prime minister personally approved the menu of turkey, crayfish, vegetable, fruit, cranberry sauce and loganberry tart.

The luncheon is just one indication the greatest flutter of excitement this capital has been since the arrival of General Douglas MacArthur here in the early, dark days of the war. General MacArthur was the first American to appear before the Australian Parliament. Mrs. Roosevelt will be the second.

Mrs. Roosevelt was greeted at the

30.24 - 8001

30.24 - 8001

Mrs. Roosevelt at Canberra

EUNSON

Tells American Women's Gratitude for Care Given U. S. Soldiers in Australia.

Canberra, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—The women of America are very grateful to the Australians for the care they have given American soldiers, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said in a special broadcast to the nation shortly after she and her party had arrived in the capital city this afternoon.

"I am very happy to have this opportunity to say a ward to the citizens of Australia," America's First Lady declared. "It is a great pleasure for me to be here. I have only just arrived, and my impressions are of a very beautiful country with limitless opportunities. I hope to see a great deal more of the country in the next few days.

"I would like to thank the people of Australia for their great welcome to our American soldiers. We at home have tried to do what we could for your soldiers passing through America, but I do not know that we've been able to do anything like what you've done for us."

Tells Women's Gratitude.

"The women of my country are very grateful to you. I hope to see much of the work of your women for the war effort and to meet many of them. I also hope to see many of my own compatriots in camps and hospitals.

"My husband also sends his greetings to you all and to them. He would have liked to come here himself, but that was impossible, so I am here with the privilege of carrying his greetings to you."

The address was rebroadcast to Great Britain.

Mrs. Roosevelt, while here, is the guest of the Commonwealth Government. She and her party were greeted by the Governor-General and Lady Gowrie, who then introduced the Prime Minister, John Curtin.

Smiling warmly as she stepped from the plane, Mrs. Roosevelt showed no trace of fatigue after a rapid flight in a multi-engined United States Army Bomber from New Zealand.

To Address Parliament.

Mrs. Roosevelt will appear before the Australian Parliament, the second American to be accorded that honor. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commanding Allied troops in the Southwest Pacific, also has been guest of Parliament.

New York, Sept. 3 (AP)—Gen. Hermann von Hanneken, the German commander in chief has decreed the death penalty for all Danes failing to surrender arms in their possession by September 7, said the Nazi-controlled Kalundborg radio today in a Danish domestic broadcast.

This decree followed extension of the curfew in Copenhagen because of continued sabotage. The new regulations order a city-wide curfew from 9 P. M. to 5 A. M. nightly, with places of public entertainment to close at 8 P. M. The broadcast added that 110 persons had been arrested the last two days for curfew infringements.

Nazis Reported Sending Civilians From Greece

New York, Sept. 3 (AP)—The British radio said today that the Germans "are evacuating civilians from Greece and all German women must leave the country before September 20."

The broadcast, recorded by CBS, said fifteen persons, including a priest, had been executed in Greece in reprisal for the killing of a German soldier.

Butch O'Hare, Early War Hero, Is Training New Squadron

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Remember "Butch" O'Hare? The guy who shot down five twin-engine Japanese bombers and won the Congressional Medal?

Butch hasn't been in the news lately, but he's still busy. Sergt. Merle Miller, writing from "Somewhere in the Pacific," tells about him and what he's doing in Yank, the Army weekly magazine. Here is Sergt. Miller's story:

Some people, especially the Japs and particularly Radio Tokio, said it was luck when Lt. Edward H. O'Hare took off from his carrier in a Grumman Wildcat and shot down five twin-engine Jap bombers on February 20, 1942.

President Roosevelt did not agree. In presenting Butch O'Hare with the Congressional Medal of Honor, the President called his achievement "one of the most daring, if not the most daring, single action in the history of combat aviation."

Citation Is Quoted.

"Conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity in aerial combat," the citation read.

The Japs jeered. Butch O'Hare was a one-battle fighter, they said. He was afraid to return to the Pacific. Tokio Rose, Japan's Lady Haw-Haw, declared he probably was dead.

Lt. Comdr. O'Hare is, of course, very much alive. He is in the Pacific, and he is much too busy to worry about Japanese radio propaganda. At this advanced Pacific base he is training a squadron of Navy fighter and pursuit pilots. He calls them "The Lads"; they call themselves "Butch's Busy Babies."

The "Babies," many of them veterans of a year or more of Pacific combat with Zeros and bombers to their own credit, expect to repeat their skipper's "luck" with aerial-combat techniques so new they won't even discuss them.

"And they're ready," Comdr O'Hare will tell you. "Damned if they're not."

Veteran at 22.

For example, take Lt. (j. g.) Foster Blair of Stroudsburg, Pa. Lt. Blair left Muhlenberg College in 1940 to join the Navy and at 22 is a veteran of 2½ years of combat training and flying. He was on the carrier Wasp a few days after December 7, 1941.

He flew his Wildcat over Guadalcanal on August 7, 1942, when the marines were landing.

On August 8 his plane went down and Lt. Blair was in the drink "for a while—not more than half an hour or so, I guess." A destroyer picked him up, he was transferred back to the carrier and was flying another plane within an hour.

A few weeks later he was land-based at Henderson Field, helping to beat back Jap bomber and fighter attacks. The number of American fighter planes was so small the Nips would blush with shame if they knew. But Lt. Blair's squadron held fast.

After a short liberty in the United States, Lt. Blair came to this base for advanced training with Comdr. O'Hare. He's no beginner.

Saw Doolittle Take Off.

Neither is Lt. (j. g.) Al Fairbanks of Stockton, Calif., who has flown from three carriers, including the Hornet and the Wasp. He saw Gen. Doolittle's boys take off for Tokio and took part in the Battle of the Coral Sea and in later raids over Bougainville and other Jap strongholds.

Lt. (j. g.) Robert Merritt of Arcadia, Calif., was the last man to take off from the Hornet before it sank, and was in the naval battle of Guadalcanal on November 15, 1942, the one that finally settled the fate of the island. Now he's flying four to five hours daily with Comdr. O'Hare, preparing for what he calls "super-duper" action.

"The Japs will be surprised," he says when you ask him about the lessons he's learning.

Lt. Paul C. Rooney of Haddam, Kans., is learning, too. Lt. Rooney, a red-faced Irishman with a streak of gray in his hair, always wanted to fly, but he had to wait a long time to do it. He had four years at Annapolis and two years at sea.

Finally, in 1941, he was sent to Pensacola, Fla., for preliminary training, then to Miami and later to San Diego for more advanced pursuit flying. Eventually he came to the Pacific.

Others Less Experienced.

Others in the squadron are less experienced in combat flying. One is only 19, several are just past their 20th birthdays. More than a third are only 21. They are called the "embryos" by the "old men," those in their mid-20s. Comdr. O'Hare himself is 29.

Most days are pretty routine: Four or five hours of flying, games of checkers with coke-bottle caps, red dog, an occasional round of poker.

While on the ground, the men sit in the ready room, writing letters, talking, wondering why they don't get started, asking Butch almost daily, "what the hell are they keeping us here for?"

Then Butch comes in and reads off the flight orders, and they rush to their lockers and get on their coveralls, parachutes, helmets and goggles. When they're ready for the take-off, Comdr. O'Hare gives them a few final pointers on new tactics.

As they roar overhead, you ask one of the relief pilots, "where's the commander's medal?"

"I don't know," he replies. "There's a hell of a lot of medals in this squadron. We've put 'em away for the duration. You can't wear medals on work clothes."

Invaders Find Terrain Much Like Sicily's

Calabrian Peninsula Chiefly Mountainous; Only Good Roads Are Along Coasts

Allied soldiers who landed yesterday on the toe of the Italian boot found terrain very similar to that through which they fought in Sicily, The Associated Press notes.

The Calabrian Peninsula, 140 miles long and 18½ miles wide at its narrowest point between the Tyrrhenian and Ionian Seas, has the same densely mountainous inland region surrounded by a narrow coastal plain as Sicily has. The Apennine Mountains, extending through the entire peninsula, are continued in Sicily, which is believed to have been joined to the Italian mainland at one time.

The coastline along the Tyrrhenian Sea, the Strait of Messina and the Ionian Sea is followed by a highway and trunk railway in the interior, however, there are few roads, and only one railroad which joins Catanzaro and Nicastro on opposite sides of the peninsula.

Rivers are numerous but short, generally running down from the mountains to the coast.

Although Calabria is rich in history, most traces of it have been destroyed by numerous earthquakes.

Pre-war visitors to the region have described the Calabrians, though rough and impulsive, as hard working and hospitable. As in Sicily, many American soldiers may encounter relatives in the region, since thousands of Calabrians emigrated to the United States.

Chief towns are the provincial capitals of Cosenza, Catanzaro and Reggio di Calabria, all of which have been subjected to months of "softening up" by Allied bombers.

The mountains are mainly covered with olive groves, but the peninsula is otherwise a poor country.

Allies, Starting From Scratch, Must Win Battlefield in Italy

By the Associated Press.

At last the Western Allies are fighting again on the continent of Europe.

Two years and four months after the British expeditionary force was driven from Greece, four years to the day after Britain's entry into the war, a British Army again is locked in combat with Hitler's legions on the continent.

The spearhead of the invasion for which the world has waited so long is that battle-tested British 8th Army which turned back the Nazi surge at El Alamein. Canadians are fighting alongside Gen. B. L. Montgomery's British veterans.

The announcement of the big push made no mention of the 8th's companion army, the American 7th Army, now ranked its equal in skill and fighting qualities. This raises the possibility that the landing in Southern Italy may be only the first of a series of thrusts at the bastions of Hitler's fortress Europe, to come soon in rapid succession.

New Phase of War Opening.

The offensive opens a new phase in the world's most brutal, costly and destructive war.

These general background facts stand out. Hitler is caught in a squeeze between the Red Army and the British-American combination.

While his lines are bending in the Ukraine before the relentless pounding of Stalin's warriors, he must now make major dispositions to meet the new onslaught from the south and the threat of others from the west.

The scope of the new campaign remains to be revealed, but it is certain that its development will involve amphibious operations that will dwarf the previous landings in North Africa and Sicily.

Must Defend 11,000 Miles.

What the Allies have begun is an assault on an entire continent, well defended by a formidable, centralized military and industrial power.

This continent is inhabited by 300,000,000 persons. The frontiers Hitler must defend total some 11,000 miles. If his satellites remain loyal—of which there is much doubt—he may have 10,000,000 men for its defense.

To carry out an offensive against an objective of these proportions, the Western Allies had not an inch of solid ground in Europe on which to mass the millions of men and mountains of supplies needed for the attack. Now they are establishing their first beachhead.

They start from scratch without even a battlefield to fight on.

The scores of divisions and millions of tons of material and machines must be taken by sea and air to win their own battlefield.

In June, 1940, more than three years ago, the Germans drove the British into the sea at Dunkerque.

In less than two weeks, on June 17, France sued for peace. The Germans had smashed what was believed before the war to be the greatest army in Europe.

Allies Staging Comeback.

The next spring, on April 6, 1941, they had launched their amazing Balkan campaign, ripping through Yugoslavia and Greece, through the pass of Thermopylae, and thrown the Allies out of their last foothold in Europe. This campaign was concluded April 30.

Previously, in the Norwegian invasion begun April 9, 1940, the Germans had laid secure hold in Scandinavia, isolating Sweden.

All Europe was theirs and they set about organizing the "new order."

Now the Allies have come back, threatening to overrun them with overwhelming forces.

The story of the comeback will be written large in world history.

The chronicle begins with the battle of Britain in August and September of 1940 and on through that winter. It continues with the rash decision of Hitler to hurl his forces on Russia in expectation of a quick 30 or 90-day victory that would fortify him with industrial and agricultural resources for a long war with Britain and the United States —who already had pledged a lease-lend arsenal to his defeat.

To the side of the working alliance thus fortuituously created between Britain and Russia came the United States with the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941.

May Be Ahead of Schedule.

The invasion which was launched today may have come several months ahead of the date the Allied command had scheduled.

As the months of 1943 wore on with the British and Americans still fighting in North Africa and then with the Canadians in Sicily, it appeared that United Nations strategists were not yet ready to risk an all-out assault on the fortifications with which Hitler had studded the coasts of Europe.

The strategy, it seemed, was to soften up Hitler's industrial and transport machinery with devastating air attack, and hit him with invasion at his weaker spots.

The collapse of the Fascist regime of Mussolini on July 25, only 15 days after the invasion of Sicily and less than a week after one bombing of Rome on July 19, revealed unexpected depth in the cracks of the Axis, however.

It was then recalled that Prime Minister Churchill in an Armistice Day statement in 1942 warned that preparations for attack on Germany "across the Channel or the North Sea" take time.

SEP 4 1943

Long Road Lies Ahead.

But he hinted that the Allies might strike on short notice—"should the enemy become demoralized at any moment, the same careful preparations would not be needed. Risks would be run on a large scale."

Soon after the Mussolini debacle and indications of shaking German nerves as a result of the virtual destruction of Hamburg and many other German cities by bombing, Mr. Churchill and President Roosevelt held their momentous August planning conference at Quebec with hundreds of their highest advisers.

However German morale may be damaged by bombing, defeat on the Russian front and the general attrition of four years of war, a long road lies ahead of the Allied troops after they have gained beachheads

8th Army of 80,000 To 160,000 Backed By 1,000,000 More

By the Associated Press.

Britain's 8th Army, about which a great military tradition has gathered in less than a year and which spearheaded the Allied invasion of the European mainland today, received its accolade from its equally famous commander, Gen. Sir Bernard Law Montgomery — "Fighting Monty" — last April 10.

"I doubt," he said, "if our empire has ever possessed such a fighting machine as the 8th Army; you have made its name a household word all over the world."

The units of an army change from campaign to campaign; the 8th as it drove into Sicily nearly two months ago differed slightly in make-up from the force which stopped Marshal Rommel at El Alamein and then chased his Afrika Korps halfway across Africa to its doom in Tunisia.

The most notable addition for Sicily was the Canadian 1st Division, and the Canadians are in there again. In Africa and Sicily the 8th has included famous divisions from Scotland and the north of England, veteran troops from New Zealand, fierce fighting men recruited in India, notably the Gurkhas from Nepal.

Ranged Up to 160,000 Men.

Many of these units doubtless are fighting today on the Italian toe, but which will not be disclosed until operations are well under way.

The 8th Army has varied from four to seven or eight divisions, from 80,000 to 160,000 men, counting supporting and supply units.

For this first landing on the continent the Allied commander in chief, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, used the army most fully tested in battle.

But along the African coast and Sicily were at least four other armies, including the American 7th, commanded by Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, jr., which made a record in the conquest of Sicily that caused military men to rank it alongside the 8th as one of the world's elite fighting forces.

Gen. Eisenhower's other armies are the British 1st, under Gen. Sir K. A. N. Anderson; the American 5th, under Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark, and the newly formed and Armed French forces led by Gen. Henri Giraud.

Backed by 1,000,000 More Men.

In addition the Allies have in the Eastern Mediterranean area the British 9th and 10th armies commanded by Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson. The six armies which back the 8th probably total between 750,000 and 1,000,000 men.

In addition to ground forces the Allies are throwing against the southern bulwarks of the European fortress tremendous concentrations of naval and air power, the former commanded by Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, the latter by Air Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder. Americans make up sizable portions of both the naval and air forces.

The immediate commander in Italy, Gen. Montgomery, perhaps is the most picturesque general produced by this war.

"There is only one standard of fitness—the standard of total war," Gen. Montgomery said on one occasion, and the troops under his command have always been trained in as much of an atmosphere to total war as he could devise. The results have justified his stern discipline.

Ruthless Efficiency Keynote.

Thoroughness and ruthless efficiency are the keynotes of his character and he has imparted as much of these characteristics to the men under him as was humanly possible.

A teetotaler and a non-smoker, he has led an austere and Spartan life and has demanded the highest possible dergee of mental and physical alertness in his troops.

His army swears by him. Admiringly they called him "the Professor of Pep" and are at ease with him.

Gen. Montgomery took over the 8th Army on August 18, 1942. He had been in Egypt barely three weeks when he stopped Rommel's spectacular advance toward Alexandria. The army soon found out that he had no intention of being a desk commander. Whenever possible he was out with his men in the field.

Last June, even before the battle of Sicily, speculation in London newspapers picked Gen. Montgomery and the 8th Army as the spearhead of any Allied invasion of Europe by way of the Mediterranean.

Today that speculation came true.

What's Behind The War News

By HAMILTON W. FARON

New demands from the Italian people for an end to the war certainly will follow the Allied invasion of Italy, but there is no peace in sight.

For even if Marshal Badoglio's government could negotiate a surrender it would fail to prevent large-scale battles on Italian soil. At least 10 and maybe more German divisions are in Italy, equipped and placed for bitter fighting.

Hitler's forces may be expected to fight all the way up the boot to northern Italy. There is every indication they will make a final stand to prevent valuable air fields from falling into Allied hands. The Nazis don't want those fields made a means of bombing hitherto-unreached industrial sections of Germany.

A campaign that, if 100 per cent successful, could bottle up the Nazis on the plains of northern Italy is under way with Allied airplanes pouring bombs on to Brenner pass and other escape routes through the Alps.

Such a campaign, however, is hardly likely to succeed wholly. It could at the most only delay the supplying of Nazi troops, or possibly eventually handicap a retreat, because bomb damage to the Iasses' bridges and roads could hardly be beyond repair by engineer troops.

New invasion moves against the Italian boot appear logical, and plans for such thrusts may have prompted a decision to hold back American armies from the Messina crossing negotiated by British and Canadian troops. It seems reasonable that American troops, if sent into the Italian mainland campaign, will move on to the western shores flanking Axis troops pressed from the south by the British and Canadians.

Sardinia and Corsica, both Axis held, stand in the way of invasion well up the boot, but perhaps they could be successfully bypassed. They would be desirable to hold but may not be worth the cost of capture.

However, if the invasion thrusts should turn further northward to southern France, for example, Corsica at least would be the scene of landing operations to protect invasion fleets steaming in toward the French shore.

Much attention also is being given to the possibility of further invasions through Crete, Greece, and the Balkans. Consolidation of Allied positions along the Italian boot would ease the way for control of the Adriatic, where the Italian fleet may be hiding.

However, despite the outlook for invasion through the Balkans with its active underground providing much assistance, some strategists here believe the time is wrong. The mountainous territory there would handicap operations in the approaching winter. Generally, it seems that the best time for a Balkans operation, although it remains possible at any time, would be in spring months when there is more assurance of good weather.

Italian mainland scarcely stirred a ripple in official Washington. That was the only logical conclusion to be drawn from the reactions of highly placed authorities when the news of the leap across the Sicilian straits was made known.

It would have been a minor miracle if some top-ranking officials here had been unaware of the Allies' timetable calling for the drive across the Sicilian straits to Italy proper. But none either would say they knew about it, or express any comment.

Capital War Parleys Go On

SEP 4 1943

Roosevelt Sees Danish Envoy—Churchill Talks to Somervell, King and Baruch.

Washington, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill followed closely today the progress of the Allied invasion of Italy's mainland with the aid of official communiques from the new battle zone.

The two were up until 1 o'clock this morning waiting for a flash notifying them officially that troops have landed in Italy proper, but they retired before it came.

Their war conferences continued today, but each scheduled some separate engagements.

Emphasizing the attention the President and Prime Minister have given the Danish revolt against Nazi oppressors, Mr. Roosevelt had an engagement with the Danish Minister, Henrik de Kauffmann.

Churchill Sees Somervell.

Mr. Churchill's engagements were more numerous. The list included Brendan Bracken, British Minister of Information, and Bernard Baruch, adviser to the Office of War Mobilization, in the forenoon; Lieut.-Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, chief of the United States Army Service Forces, at noon, and Admiral Ernest J. King, Commander in Chief of the American Fleet, half an hour later. In addition, several off-the-record visitors were scheduled to call at the Whiee House.

Allied chiefs have worked out their war destiny so far in advance that the invasion of the Italian mainland scarcely stirred a ripple in official Washington. That was the only logical conclusion to be drawn from the reactions of highly placed authorities when the news of the leap across the Sicilian straits was made known.

It would have been a minor miracle if some top-ranking officials here had been unaware of the Allies' timetable calling for the drive across the Sicilian straits to Italy proper. But none either would say they knew about it, or express any comment.

The presence of Prime Minister Churchill at the White House was double reason for the official silence. The stress at the moment is on the war in the Pacific, with the implication that immediate plans for Europe already have been perfected.

No Details Offered.

White House attaches were aware that the historic jump from Sicily to Italy had been taken, even before the news was flashed, but they declined to become excited or to offer additional details.

Mr. Roosevelt already had cancelled his usual Friday morning press conference. There was reason to believe that the cancellation had nothing to do with the Italian invasion. Some observers felt that Mr. Roosevelt and Britain's Prime Minister wanted even that time to complete their momentous talks. In other words, this fresh assault on the Axis was planned from way back.

United States leaders may have been especialy silent because the leap into Italy was primarily a British affair, engineered by the fabled Eighth Army of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery.

CHURCHILL OPENS WAR LOAN DRIVE, BUYS $100 BOND

Successful Campaign Can Shorten Conflict, Says Prime Minister.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 — Prime Minister Churchill started off the Treasury's Third War Loan drive ahead of time today, receiving a $100 bond from Secretary Morgenthau and declaring that the war would be shortened appreciably if the $15,000,000,000 total is subscribed fully.

At a ceremony in the diplomatic reception room of the White House, the British statesman said that if the campaign fails the war will be prolonged and for that reason "everyone should give it utmost support."

Urges $10 Purchase

Secretary Morgenthau said 50,000,000 Americans are going to be asked to buy an extra $100 bond during the drive starting next week.

He handed Mr. Churchill his bond, which was attached to a cover elaborately engraved with a crossed American flag and the Union Jack. "Mr. Secretary," the prime minister said, "I am very glad indeed to come here today and it is a great pleasure to me to receive from your hands this first bond of your great new victory loan.

"I have often thought, Mr. Secretary, you must be one of the bravest men in the world and that you ought to have the Congressional Medal of Honor and the Victoria Cross and all the other decorations of all the Allies for being able to lie down and sleep quietly amongst all these astronomical figures of modern finance. You've borne this great burden with success.

Britain Thankful

"It is the fourth anniversary of the British entry into the war and we certainly have a right to be extremely thankful that we are in such good posture after such a long period of peril and tribulation. This loan will undoubtedly have the effect of appreciably affecting the shortening of the struggle if fully subscribed. But if it fails, it would entail a prolongation. For that reason everyone should give it utmost support.

30.24- 8003

30.24—8003

"I am happy to be selected to participate in the ceremonies and demonstrations.

"This bond, which you have given to me, providing you make sure the legal details are satisfactorily arranged, I shall hand over to my wife for sale for the benefit of Mrs. Churchill's Russian relief fund. That brings us all together on what is this joyous occasion."

(These "legal details," it was said at the Treasury department, will require the naming of the relief fund as co-owner. However, there was no expectation that the bond would ever be redeemed, as Mr. Churchill predicted to Secretary Morgenthau that it would bring "several thousand pounds" at auction in England.

Japan's Cargo Ship Losses Bar Full Use of War Gains

Third of Merchant Vessels Sunk, Secretary Knox Declares.

SEP 4 1943

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3. — (AP) A third of Japan's merchant shipping has been destroyed and the warlords of Tokyo find themselves in the "embarrassing" position of a burglar who has stolen more than he can carry.

Secretary of the Navy Knox drew this comparison today in telling a press conference that Allied forces —principally American submarines —have sunk more than 2,500,000 tons of shipping on which the enemy had depended to help make use of his rich, sprawling Pacific empire.

And, he added, the rate of destruction is growing.

Cannot Develop Resources

The shipping deficit means, Secretary Knox said, that the Japanese are having difficulty maintaining communications with their outlying bases and cannot develop the vast resources of their territories in the southwest Pacific, which, fully employed, might make them almost impregnable.

How this is affecting their war effort is expected to show up in the remaining months of this year as the Allied grand offensive against Nippon is due to get rolling powerfully from all sides at once.

On the basis of indications that the American-British High command has laid out a four-pronged strategy employing simultaneously forces based in India, in the southwest, central and north Pacific, enemy cargo capacity should be badly overworked by some time this fall.

As the Japanese find themselves unable to maintain effective forces at distant points from the homeland they almost certainly will have to evacuate more bases as they evacuated Kiska and positions in the central Solomons last month.

Promise Attack on Japan

Moreover, Navy officials now promise attacks on the Japanese homeland; ship construction facilities there may be put down as a prime target.

While Secretary Knox gave it as official that one-third of Japan's total available cargo tonnage has been destroyed since the war began, he used unofficial published estimates to arrive at an actual tonnage total. He said that when the war began the Japanese were credited in published reports with having on hand 6,368,891 tons of merchant ships. In addition, he said, they have built or seized or otherwise acquired an estimated 1,250,000 tons since the war started, giving them a total available tonnage of 7,618,891.

"We've sunk a third of this," Secretary Knox said. One-third is 2,539,630 tons, but the secretary preferred the more inexact expression of "more than 2,500,000 tons."

Of this total destroyed, Secretary Knox continued, 77 per cent has been sunk by submarines, mostly American, and the remainder was destroyed by the combination of all other forces, surface and air.

Submarine Force Expanding

Moreover, Secretary Knox said, the American submarine force is steadily growing in the Pacific and this means a steadily increasing rate of destruction of enemy craft. The submarine service "has been doing an outstanding, a perfectly splendid job in the Pacific," he declared.

The secretary declined to say flatly that the evacuation of Kiska and the other islands by the Japanese was due primarily to loss of merchant shipping on which they must depend to keep their troops supplied, but he did say the obvious effect of this loss is to "make communications more difficult." Therein, he said, lies one of the reasons for the evacuation.

A reporter asked whether the losses had not made it impossible for the Japanese to exploit profitably their conquered territories in the southwest area where they hold the rich Dutch East Indies as well as the rubber plantation of Malaya.

"Yes," Secretary Knox declared. "Obviously the loss of cargo ships must be embarrassing to them. We are striking one of their vital activities. All their war-gained territories have to be reached by overseas means and the steady destruction of that means of communications is bound to impair the use they can make of their war loot."

TO ISSUE PAPAL BULLETIN HERE

Church Group Will Publish Acta Outside Italy.

Washington, Sept. 3.—For the first time, so far as is known, the Acta Apostolicæ Sedis (Acts of the Apostolic See), the official bulletin of the Holy See, is to be published outside Rome; it will be published in the United States by the National Catholic Welfare Conference, according to an announcement here today.

The war conditions are responsible for this innovation, said Mgr. Michael J. Ready, general secretary of the conference. He explained that the war has made extremely difficult the distribution of the publication through which the Holy See officially promulgates ecclesiastical legislation to the entire Catholic world.

A copy of the "Acta" is to be sent to this country every month, or more often if the occasion warrants. To insure absolute accuracy in reproduction the whole periodical will be photostated before being distributed through the N. C. W. C. throughout North, Central and South America, Australasia, Africa and China.

The "Acta" was established in 1908 by Pope Pius X. It is the organ for publication of decrees, decisions, encyclical letters and other official pronouncements of the Holy See. It also contains the decisions of the Roman Congregations, Tribunals and Commissions; a diary of Curia Romana, and notices of all ecclesiastical appointments and honors. Leglislative acts of the Holy See are promulgated by their appearance in the publication unless promulgation is otherwise provided for.

Concerning the "Acta," it is set forth in the Catholic Encyclopedia: "For ecclesiastical legislation, one must follow the Acta Apostolicae Sedis, a monthly official bulletin published in Rome; the promulgation of laws, authentic interpretations, decisions and rescripts of the Roman Curia is now effected ipso facto by publication in this periodical."

Galeazzi Coming to U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP).—The State Department announced tonight that the Vatican has applied for an American visa for Enrico Galeazzi, an official of Vatican City, who is preparing to visit Washington.

A Lisbon dispatch today said Mr. Galeazzi left there by clipper Wednesday night for the United States.

The information bureau of the National Catholic Welfare Conference at Washington said that "information received from Vatican City is to the effect that the purpose of the journey" of Mr. Galeazzi "concerns financial and administrative matters" of the Vatican. Mr. Galeazzi, the information bureau said, "has for cial delegate of the pontifical commission for Vatican City state."

Soviet Envoy Presents Communication To Hull

Washington, Sept. 3 (AP)—Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet ambassador-designate, called on Secretary of State Hull today with a communication from his Government.

Gromyko did not divulge the subject of his visit, and was noncommittal when asked about prospects for a tripartite conference of British, Soviet and American foreign ministers soon. When Allied invasion of the Italian mainland was mentioned, however, he smiled and said emphatically:

"That's good news."

URGE GEN. RICHARDSON TO EASE COURT STAND

Washington Officials Take Steps Looking to Habeas Corpus Test

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Robert C. Richardson Jr. is reported to have been requested by the Washington authorities to withdraw his military order forbidding any further court action in the Hawaiian habeas corpus controversy.

It was said that unless General Richardson, commander of the Army's Hawaiian Department, backed down in his dispute with a Federal court judge there the matter might be taken over by War and Justice Department officials.

As a face-saving measure, Federal Judge Delbert Metzger may be asked to withdraw ' is order holding the general in contempt for refusing to produce two military prisoners on habeas corpus writs. It was after the contempt ruling that General Richardson issued his order suspending civil court action in the case.

Although the War Department has supported General Richardson publicly it is said the general feeling here is that such an example of military rule should be tempered as soon as possible.

Accordingly, conversations among the War, Interior and Justice Departments on the one hand and territorial officials in Hawaii on the other have resulted in the decision that the issue is a constitutional one which should be decided by the civil courts.

FOOD AIDE CLASHES WITH STATE DEPT.

James D. Lecron Resigns in Dispute on South American Policy.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3—(AP) A bitter, new administration quarrel exploded into the open today when James D. Lacron tossed up the job of increasing food production in South America, and accused the State department of "interference, obstruction and unintelligent dictation."

SEP 4 1943

Mr. Lecron, a close associate of Vice President Wallace for many years, resigned as director of the food supply division in the Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American agricultural Affairs. In this post, his duties included increasing Latin-American agricultural output in accordance with the over-all needs of the United Nations.

Sends Letter to Rockefeller

He told Nelson Rockefeller, the coordinator, in a letter that the State department was making it impossible to carry out needed projects, and added:

"I am unwilling any longer to beat my head against this wall of incompetence and interference."

Mr. Rockefeller was out of town and there was no immediate word as to his reaction to the resignation of his lieutenant.

Asked for comment, a State department spokesman said the department and Mr. Rockefeller's office were in "complete accord" on the food program. He declared, too, that the department had always "facilitated the carrying out of the food programs which have had the approval of other appropriate agencies of the government."

Managed Wallace Campaign

Mr. Lecron has been with the government for the last 10 years except for a period in 1940 when he resigned to manage Mr. Wallace's campaign for vice-president. Formerly an editorial writer on the Des Moines Register Tribune, he came here in 1933 as an assistant to Mr. Wallace, then Secretary of Agriculture.

After the 1940 campaign, he returned to the Agriculture department to help manage the food stamp program and in June of last year transferred to Mr. Rockefeller's office.

His resignation thus marked the departure from handling of foreign economic affairs of another of the men generally classed here as one of the Wallace group. President Roosevelt abolished the Board of Economic Warfare, headed by Mr. Wallace, in July and rebuked the vice president and Secretary of Commerce Jones for publicly airing their dispute over stockpiling of strategic war materials. Milo Perkins, who had been Mr. Wallace's right-hand man in the BEW, departed a short while later from the Office of Economic Warfare, set up under Leo T. Crowley to succeed BEW.

Mr. Lecron's resignation pointed up signs of discontent in various government agencies over State department control of foreign economic activities.

Authority "to unify" the foreign economics operations of all government agencies insofar as they affect phases of foreign policy was given to Secretary of State Hull in a Presidential directive last June 3.

Requests Early Retirement

In submitting his resignation in a letter made public today, Mr. Lecron told Mr. Rockefeller that he wished to be relieved of his duties "at the very earliest date that is convenient to you" because of "interference, obstruction, delay and unintelligent dictation on the part of certain officials of the State department, particularly those in the division of economic operations which have been given primary authority by the State department to control our operations."

Mr. Lecron said his food supply division, which is charged with increasing food production in Latin America, was hampered by "hamstringing tactics" of State department officials.

He asserted that the interference he charged was not new, but that it had been going on since his division was created in June 1942.

Meanwhile, sources close to the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations under former Governor Herbert Lehman of New York said that it was apparent that various government agencies were attaching interpretations in some cases different from those of the State department concerning the manner and extent to which the department's power to control foreign economic activities should be applied

Though there have been recent reports that the department was gathering into its control all agencies concerned in foreign economic activities, Secretary Hull said today nothing new along this line had been done beyond what the department was already empowered to carry out.

Mr. Lecron's resignation was in line with President Rocsevelt's recent order to the effect that officials who wish to criticize government policy publicly should resign.

ROOSEVELT SEIZES SHIP REPAIR YARD

President Acts on Recommendation of WLB as Work Stoppage Looms.

SEP 4 1943

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3. — (AP) President Roosevelt directed War Shipping Administrator Emory S. Land today to take over and operate the plant of the Atlantic Basin Iron Works, Inc., at Brooklyn.

The company, which repairs and converts ships, was accused by the War Labor board of failing to obey a WLB order for maintaining union membership and arbitration of grievances.

The board submitted the case to the President earlier today, recommending government seizure of the plant. In his executive order, the Chief Executive said that there was a threatened interruption of operations of the plant and that "the war effort will be unduly impeded or delayed by such interruption."

This is the first defiance case in which the board publicly recommended to the President a definite course of action. In previous cases, it simply urged "such action as you deem appropriate." In most instances the President successfully appealed to the defiant party. Several plants, however, have been taken over.

Government possession and operation are to end within 60 days after Mr. Roosevelt determines that its productive efficiency has been restored.

COL. NETHERWOOD MISSING ON FLIGHT

Army Says No Trace Can Be Found of Plane Since It Left Florida for Capital Aug. 19

IN AIR SERVICE 29 YEARS

Former Commander at Mitchel Field Was a Pioneer Flier—Corporal Was With Him

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—The Army announced today that Col. Douglas B. Netherwood, veteran Army pilot, and Corp. Kelly M. Cates had disappeared Aug. 19 on a flight from Orlando, Fla., to Washington.

"Diligent search has been pressed since the plane's departure Aug. 19 from the Air Forces School of Applied Tactics at Orlando, but no trace has been found of the plane or of its personnel," the announcement said.

Colonel Netherwood was coming to his home in Washington before returning to duty at the Engineers School at Fort Belvoir, Va. He was one of the Air Force's pioneer pilots and had more than 29 years of flying service to his credit. His wife and daughter live in Washington. Three sons are in the armed forces.

Enlisted in Army in 1908

Colonel Netherwood was born at Birmingham, England, on Feb. 4, 1885, and was graduated from Texas A. and M. College in 1908 with the degree of Bachelor of Science in mechanical engineering.

He enlisted as a private in the Twentieth Company of the Coast Artillery on July 31, 1908. He was commissioned a second lieutenant on July 20, 1911. In 1914 he was detailed to the aviation section of the Signal Corps and in July, 1916, was promoted to first lieutenant. In May, 1917, he was made a captain, and in July, 1918, a major.

In 1920 the aviation section of the Signal Corps became part of the Army Air Corps, and he had remained with the Air Corps since, winning promotion to lieutenant colonel in August, 1935. He was graduated from the Air Corps Technical School, the Army Industrial College, and the Army War College, and received an M. A. degree from the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

On Feb. 14, 1940, he was in command at Mitchel Field, L. I., succeeding Brig. Gen. James E. Chaney. In October of that year he was assigned to duty with the Panama Canal Department and for a time had the rank of brigadier general, succeeding General Darque. In July, 1941, he was ordered to Puerto Rico.

He married Miss Harriet V. C. Bowne, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Francis Draper Bowne.

Additional Casualties Announced by Navy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP).—The Navy announced today fifty-seven casualties, including five dead, fifteen wounded and thirty-seven missing. Among them were the following:

NEW YORK

BALLARD, ERNEST JOSEPH, wounded. Parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Vivian Ballard, 622 Ovington Avenue, Brooklyn.

BUBELNIK, GEORGE, Marine, wounded. Parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bubelnik, 132 North First Street, Brooklyn.

WEBER, ROBERT HERBERT, missing. Father, Robert H. Weber, 53-52 Seventy-third Street, Maspeth, Flushing, Queens.

ZAMUNER, ENZO BRUNO, missing. Father, Antonio Zamuner, 4433 Carpenter Avenue, the Bronx.

NEW JERSEY

VAN DUSEN, WARREN, dead. Mother, Mrs. Jeannette Van Dusen, 35 Farley Avenue, Newark.

VENEZIANO, ARMANDO PAUL, missing. Father, Alphonso Veneziano, 246 Newark Avenue, Bloomfield.

CONNECTICUT

VITALE, ANTHONY E., wounded. Parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vitale, 245 Woodrow Avenue, Bridgeport.

Military Aides Asked To Tell Of Force Needs

Washington, Sept. 3 (AP)—In a move which may reopen the whole question of the armed services' manpower needs, Senator Downey (D., Cal.), today asked army, navy and selective service officials to testify next Thursday at hearings on labor shortages in the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast States.

Downey, chairman of a Military Affairs subcommittee investigating Western labor conditions, said he would ask Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, for a definite forecast of the number of men the Western States will be expected to furnish the army and navy in the next two or three months.

Army Carbine Passes Test in Actual Fighting

Details Revealed of Gun Ideal for Night Battles, Fire Rate Equal to Garand

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 3 (AP).—The Army has a new carbine, deadly, light in weight, equal to the famed Garand rifle in speed of fire.

The gun met its major test in the Sicilian campaign, and its story was released today.

The carbine weighs little more than half as much as the Garand, is only three feet long, and each of its fifteen shots is fired with only a pull of the trigger. It can be fired with one hand, like a pistol, if necessary.

But it is not designed to replace the Garand; it is a new weapon for paratroopers, Rangers and other shock troops and for the 60 per cent of American soldiers—engineers, signal corpsmen, officers, and the like—who previously did not carry rifles.

The new bullet is 30 caliber, almost a third of an inch in diameter. Bullet and cartridge were specified by the Ordnance Department, and the gun was built around this cartridge, as is always the case in gun-making.

The Winchester Repeating Arms Company here, a division of the Western Cartridge Company, made the cartridge. The specifications were an effective range of 300 yards, a muzzle velocity of 2,000 feet a second. This is not as fast as standard 30-caliber government ammunition, but is 500 feet faster than the ammunition used in the Japanese Arisaka rifle.

Built Gun Around Cartridge

Next the Army asked gun inventors to tackle the problem of a weapon to shoot the cartridge, and six leading designers participated. The Winchester Company was not at first among them, but when sample guns were submitted in June, 1942, Winchester made some suggestions and the Ordnance Department then asked Winchester also to work on a model. The company made a model gun in thirteen days, beginning Aug. 1.

The carbine fired its first clip on Aug. 13. Ordnance Department experts and Major General Courtney H. Hodges, chief of infantry, liked it. He asked for a finished model for competitive tests on Sept. 15.

That allowed exactly one month for the job. Winchester gunsmiths began working around the clock. Thousands of precision operations were involved, in producing the sixty-three parts.

A single gun was completed on Friday night, Sept. 12, three days to the good, but it failed to fire satisfactorily. Word came on Saturday morning that the competition had been advanced one day. That left twenty-four hours to discover and remedy the defect. This took much of Saturday.

The engineers decided that the trouble was in a tiny opening, sixty-thousandths of an inch in diameter, located in the barrel, three inches from the chamber of the gun. It draws off a little of the gas generated by the smokeless powder which propels the bullet. The tiny stream of withdrawn gas operates the mechanism that ejects the used cartridge and automatically reloads the gun.

Drill Breaks in Hole

The hole had to be enlarged. As this was being done the drill broke off inside the hole. Not until 10 o'clock Saturday night, with the deadline next day at Aberdeen, Md., was the bit removed and the hole completed with a new drill. The enlargement was thirteen-thousandths of an inch.

On the testing range here the revised gun fired 300 shots as fast as cartridge clips could be fed into the gun. At that time each clip contained twenty cartridges.

At Aberdeen, in competition with six other guns, the carbine was the unanimous choice of the Army board of judges.

A soldier armed with the new carbine can carry more than twice as much ammunition as a soldier using either a Garand or a Springfield. This is because the cartridges weigh only half as much.

The carbine is said to be one of the best night-fighting weapons, because it has a minimum flash. A soldier can dismount and reassemble it in two minutes. His only tools are the rim at the base of a carbine cartridge, serving as a makeshift screw driver, and a small rod which is one of the carbine's parts.

BRITISH SHIP SPONSORED BY NINE-YEAR-OLD GIRL

BOSTON, Sept. 3 — (AP) Nine-year-old Carol E. Pyne of Marblehead, one of the youngest sponsors in the history of the Boston Navy yard, christened the H.M.S. Domette a British destroyer escort vessel, which was launched today at the Navy yard.

She is the daughter of Lt.-Comdr. Charles C. Pyne, U.S.N.R., aide to the commandant of the Boston Navy yard.

The Domette is a type of ship being built for the British under the Lend-Lease act and is similar to those being constructed for the U. S. Navy. Although most of the ships have American sponsors, they are named for British naval heroes.

SEP 4 1943

Jersey Naval Officer Wins Fourth Decoration

Philadelphia, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Commander Harold H. Larsen, U. S. N., of Collingswood, N. J., commander of the Navy's famed torpedo Squadron Eight, has been awarded his fourth major decoration, a Gold Star in lieu of a second Navy Cross, the Fourth Naval District announced today.

The award was for leading several successful air attacks that harried Japanese forces in the Solomons area between September 16 and October 23, 1942. Lieut.-Commander Larsen previously received the Navy Cross, the Distinguished Flying Cross and a Gold Star in lieu of a second Flying Cross, all for action in the Solomons.

Archbishop Opposes Compromise.

Detroit, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—The Most Rev. Edward Mooney, Catholic Archbishop of Detroit, said today in a statement in the Michigan Catholic that "if we compromise with any kind of totalitarian aggression against Poland the end of this war will mark only another armistice, not a good and enduring peace."

Foreign Policy Unity Expected By Republicans

Spangler and Austin, at Mackinac, Say Council Will Fuse Varied Views

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., Sept. 3 (AP).—With confidence that they can fuse divergent viewpoints into a foreign policy declaration for the 1944 campaign, Republican leaders gathered here today for sessions of the party's Post-War Advisory Council, opening Monday.

Harrison E. Spangler, chairman of the National Committee, expressed the hopeful attitude of the advance guard in a press conference prediction that the advisory group will point the direction in which the party is going so that all may see.

"I don't believe there will be any disagreement on fundamental policies," he told reporters in discussing what he described as the major problem of formulating a statement of the party's proposals for preserving the peace of the world after the war.

Austin Also Hopeful

The same conciliatory attitude was displayed by Senator Warren R. Austin, of Vermont, representing the internationalist wing, who said he saw no reason why the advisory council should not pick up where the National Committee left off with its Chicago resolution of April, 1942.

At that time the committee said the Republicans realized that the post-war responsibility of the nation will not be circumscribed within the continental limitations of the United States and declared for "understanding, comity and co-operation among the nations of the world" to halt future wars.

On the other hand, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, who seems likely to emerge as the chief of the reservationists, made it plain he will insist that a heavy accent be laid on nationalism and the retention of full American sovereignty in any pledge to collaborate with other nations.

That was the underlying tone of a resolution offered recently in the Senate by Senators Vandenberg and Wallace H. White, of Maine, both members of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, which called for "faithful recognition of American responsibilities and American interests" in any post-war collaboration with other nations.

Will Explore All Problems

Mr. Spangler told reporters he had no doubt that the "basic thoughts" of several resolutions now pending before Congress would be used by the advisory council in drafting its statement. This would include the Ball-Burton-Hill-Hatch proposal of full-bown co-operation to estabish an international police force.

30.24-8005

30.24-8005

Expressing certainty that a foreign policy declaration would be forthcoming, the national chairman pointed out, nevertheless, the advisory council's chief task would be to explore all the major problems for recommendations to the party's nominating convention next year.

In this connection, he said, the work of the group would be broken up into subcommittees which would continue in existence until the convention meets, working with experts supplied by the National Committee. Mr. Spangler said there would be an attempt to maintain "balance" as between viewpoints of these committees.

the halls of peacemaking."

He proposed that peace be arranged in four steps:

One, agreement before firing ceases that a few leading nations among the Allies be appointed joint managers of peace and that there will not be the usual armistice or general peace conference.

Two, agreement before victory that these peace managers shall impose provisional peace terms on defeated nations.

Three, that nothing else be done until expiration of a transition period of several years "in which the world can cool off."

Four, creation of "some sort of world institution to replace the managers and preserve peace."

Cooling-Off Period Urged By Hoover After Allies Win

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 3—(AP) Former President Herbert Hoover tonight declared "victory is now inevitable," and said the United Nations should refrain from too much haste in drawing up final peace settlements after the war.

In a speech for delivery before the Foreign Policy association and the University of Minnesota, Mr. Hoover declared "The world must have time to cool off and recover a balance of judgment if a lasting peace is to be made." He continued:

Violent Emotions Let Loose

"When firing ceases the world will be filled with violent emotions. There will be white-hot hate and indignation at the enemy for having brought the world to this state. The air will be filled with vengeance. This is no atmosphere for long-viewed statesmanship, which must distinguish between guilty leadership and misled peoples."

The former President said that if the world had had five years in which to consider the Treaty of Vienna in 1814 and the Treaty of Versailles in 1919 those documents never would have been signed. He recalled that "it was six years from the victory of Yorktown and the Constitution of the United States," and said "it was time well spent."

Declaring that Americans "for over 170 years have fought on a thousand battlefields and always that men might be more free and have peace," Mr. Hoover added: "Their million graves demand of us that we do not fail them in

Good Peace Preserves Itself

The former President said the fourth step should not be taken until "the foundations of real peace have been laid," because "if we make a good peace, it will largely preserve itself; if we make a bad one like Versailles, we shall simply be laying the kindling for world war III."

Another reason Mr. Hoover advanced in support of his plan revolved around returning service men. "They are bound to bring home all their dislikes and opinions of the strange peoples with whom they have been operating; at home the people will be war-weary (and) all the suppressed frictions between Allies will come to the surface," he said, and added:

"If there be a general peace conference in the midst of all these emotions, as has been the practice hitherto, then 40 nations will send 2,000 diplomats to orate, to conspire, quarrel, and grab."

Mr. Hoover predicted that once the peace proposals were explained in a calm atmosphere, "the whole sovereignty question will become academic."

Mr. Hoover said that during enforcement of the provisional peace that he proposed, the managers should first restore order in conquered territories, next feed hungry people, and then restore economic production.

"There must be total disarmament of the enemy," he said. "Their leaders must be punished for crimes against mankind. They must return their loot, prisoners and displaced peoples. There must be restoration of sovereignty to those nations deprived of it. The trustees would at once need to determine temporary boundaries for everybody."

7 FLYERS KILLED IN BOMBER CRASH

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 3 (A. P.).—Two four-engined bombers collided today over nearby Birdville, killing all seven men who Major L. L. Gilbert said were aboard. Both planes burned.

Melvin Lucas, 17 years old, said one of the planes hit the other near the tail causing it to plunge straight downward, while the other went into a short glide before crashing.

The ships were from the airfield here.

Sioux City, Iowa, Sept. 3 (A. P.).—All ten members of the crew of an Army bomber from the Sioux City air base were killed when their plane crashed five miles from the base last night while on a routine training flight, Lieut. Austin W. Marshall, public relations officer, announced today.

The dead included Second Lieut. Robert M. Seltzer of Newark, N. J.

Bunkerhill, Ind., Sept. 3 (A. P.).—The Public Relations office of the United States Naval Reserve aviation base announced today that Aviation Cadet Robert Gordon Tucker, 26 years old, of East Rockaway, N. Y., heavyweight boxer, died last night of injuries suffered on Wednesday in a plane crash.

The plane, in which Tucker was making a routine flight, crashed near Converse, Ind., about fifteen miles southeast of the base.

Tucker, the son of Dr. Vernon Tucker of East Rockaway, enlisted in the Navy April 7, 1941, as a boatswain's mate, first class. He transferred to the aviation branch and had nearly completed his course here.

He held the fleet heavyweight boxing championship last year.

ADD LONDON - "NAZI SUICIDE IN CLUSTER"

THE LT.-GEN. SCHMIDT REFERRED TO IN THE BROADCAST APPARENTLY WAS NOT COL.-GEN. SCHMIDT, NOTED NAZI TANK AUTHORITY WHOSE FORCES WERE LAST REPORTED IN THE OREL SECTOR.

WM956PEW

ADD LONDON - CENSORSHIP XXX "MAINLAND"

SURMISING THAT THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY PROBABLY HAD CROSSED THE STRAIT OF MESSINA IN SMALL BOATS CARRYING ONLY LIGHT EQUIPMENT, GENERAL GORDON-FINLAYSON PREDICTED THAT INITIAL PROGRESS WOULD BE SLOW IF OPPOSITION WERE MET.

FOR SEVERAL HOURS THE LONDON CENSORS HALTED DISPATCHES QUOTING SPECULATION APPEARING IN LONDON NEWSPAPERS. DISPATCHES WERE RELEASED WHEN THE GERMANS DREW THE OBVIOUS CONCLUSION THAT AMERICAN FORCES MIGHT GO INTO ACTION LATER.

SEP 4 1943

GORDON-FINLAYSON, A CAREER SOLDIER AND VETERAN OF THE LAST WAR, FORMERLY WAS GENERAL OFFICER AND COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF BRITAIN'S WESTERN COMMAND AND WAS AIDE-DE-CAMP GENERAL TO THE KING WHEN HE RETIRED IN 1941. HE NOW IS MILITARY CORRESPONDENT OF THE STAR.

FB1207PEW

ADD LONDON (WHITE) - INVASION XXX "WAR"

AFTER THE BERLIN RADIO HAD MENTIONED THE POSSIBILITY THAT AMERICAN TROOPS MAY BE THROWN INTO THE ITALIAN INVASION AT ANY MOMENT, BRITISH CENSORSHIP PERMITTED DISPATCH OF A QUOTATION FROM AN ARTICLE IN THE LONDON EVENING NEWSPAPER THE STAR, IN WHICH GEN. SIR ROBERT GORDON-FINLAYSON, ITS MILITARY CORRESPONDENT, SAID:

"WE CAN BE QUITE SURE THAT THE SEVENTH U.S. ARMY X X X HAS BEEN DESTINED BY GEN. EISENHOWER TO LAND SOMEWHERE IN ITALY VERY SOON, BUT IT IS IMPOSSIBLE YET TO SAY WHERE. X X X THE SEVENTH ARMY WILL HAVE BEEN ASSIGNED A VERY IMPORTANT TASK."

AN EDITORIAL IN THE EVENING STANDARD SAID THAT "MESSINA IS JUST THE BEGINNING. IT IS NOT LIKELY THAT ALLIED STRATEGY FORESEES ONLY A LANDING AT THE TOE AND A STEADY, SOBER PROGRESS UP THE FOOT OF THE MAINLAND."

SEP 4 1943

WM259PEW

ADD LONDON-RUSSIAN (LONG) XXX "FORMER"

TODAY'S BERLIN RADIO ANNOUNCEMENT THAT THE RUSSIANS HAD LAUNCHED A "GRAND SCALE" OFFENSIVE IN THE DONETS, RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, SAID THAT -SINCE THE EARLY HOURS OF TODAY THE EXPECTED RUSSIAN ATTACK IN THE CENTRAL DONETS HAS BEEN IN FULL SWING."

THE RED ARMY WAS USING HUNDREDS OF HEAVY ARTILLERY BATTERIES AND FIGHTER PLANE FORMATIONS IN "THIS NEW LARGE SCALE ACTION," THE BROADCAST SAID.

A DISPATCH TO THE LONDON DAILY MAIL, VIA VICHY AND MADRID, SAID THAT ADOLF HITLER'S STAFF ADVISERS HAVE JUST ENDED A FOUR DAY EXTRAORDINARY WAR COUNCIL AT HITLER'S HEADQUARTERS AT WHICH THE RETREAT ON THE RUSSIAN FRONT WAS DISCUSSED.

"BREAKUP OF THE MEETING PROBABLY FORESHADOWS FURTHER AND MORE DRAMATIC GERMAN WITHDRAWALS," THE DISPATCH SAID.

SOME GERMAN LEADERS WANTED TO BRING THE GERMAN LINE BACK AS FAR AS THE FRONTIER IN EASTERN POLAND ESTABLISHED WITH RUSSIA IN 1939 BUT IT WAS FINALLY DECIDED TO MAKE THE MAJOR STAND ON THE SMOLENSK-KIEV-DNIEPEROPETROVSK LINE, THE DISPATCH SAID.

WD548PEW

(EDITORS: THE FOLLOWING SUMMARY OF BRITAIN'S OUTLOOK ON THE FOURTH ANNIVERSARY OF HER DECLARATION OF WAR ON GERMANY AND THE DAY OF THE INVASION OF THE CONTINENT WAS WRITTEN BY A VETERAN MEMBER OF AP'S LONDON STAFF, E.C.DANIEL. IT MAY BE USED AS A SUB OR A LEAD TO THE ANNIVERSARY STORY BY ROBERT BUNNELLE, MOVED IN ADVANCE FOR AFTERNOON PAPERS OF TODAY. IF THE TWO DISPATCHES ARE COMBINED IT IS SUGGESTED THAT THE BYLINEHEAD: BY ROBERT BUNNELLE AND E.C.DANIEL.)

LONDON, SEPT 3-(AP)-BRITISH AND CANADIAN FORCES LED OFF THE INVASION OF EUROPE TODAY WHILE EAGER AMERICANS, TRIED AND PROVED IN THE SWIFT CONQUEST OF SICILY, WERE POISED FOR THEIR CHANCE OF JOINING THE CAMPAIGN TO ENFORCE UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER TERMS ON SHATTERED ITALY.

ON THE FOURTH ANNIVERSARY OF BRITAIN'S ENTRY INTO THE WAR, THE TROOPS OF THE FAMOUS EIGHTH ARMY, SOME OF WHICH HAD DRIVEN 2,000 MILES FROM EL ALAMEIN TO SICILY SINCE LAST OCTOBER, HUSTLED ACROSS THE NARROW STRAITS OF MESSINA TO FORCE THE FIRST BREACH IN THE AXIS CONTINENTAL FORTRESS.

SEP 4 1943

STANDING BEHIND GEN.SIR BERNARD LAW MONTGOMERY'S VETERANS WERE THE HIGHLY MECHANIZED, HEAVILY-GUNNED FORCES OF LIEUT.GEN.GEORGE S. PATTON, JR., WHICH HAD SWEPT THROUGH TWO-THIRDS OF SICILY IN A RECORD CAMPAIGN TO CLEAR THE WAY FOR THE INVASION OF ITALY.

SOMEWHERE IN THE MEDITERRANEAN ANOTHER POWERFUL AMERICAN FORCE--LIEUT.GEN.MARK W.CLARK'S FIFTH ARMY, WHICH UNDER COVER OF MILITARY DISCRETION HAS BEEN TRAINING INTENSIVELY IN NORTH AFRICA SINCE LAST JANUARY--AWAITED BATTLE ORDERS.

OBSERVERS IN LONDON, THOUGH NATURALLY WITHOUT OFFICIAL INFORMATION, WOULD NOT BE SURPRISED IF SOME OF THESE FORCES JOINED MONT-

30.24-8007

30.24-8007

COMERY'S MEN ON THE ITALIAN MAINLAND BEFORE ANOTHER DAWN.

WHILE SKY-BLACKENING SWARMS OF ALLIED PLANES FROM BRITAIN SWEPT OVER THE CONTINENT IN A MIGHTY AERIAL DIVERSION TO THE MEDITERRANEAN ATTACK, THE EIGHTH ARMY ADVANCED INTO THE MOUNTAINOUS TOE OF ITALY UNDER THE FIERY COVER OF AN ARTILLERY AND AIR BARRAGE, WHICH ALREADY HAD WRECKED THE ITALIAN TRANSPORT SYSTEM THERE AND HAD DRIVEN THE GERMAN FORCES NORTHWARD.

NOTING THE ABSENCE OF PATTON'S HARD-DRIVING FORCES FROM THE INITIAL LANDING, OBSERVERS IN LONDON DID NOT OVERLOOK THE POSSIBILITY THAT SUBSEQUENT LANDINGS MIGHT BE MADE ELSEWHERE IN ITALY.

SEP 4 1943

THE ASSAULT ON THE ITALIAN MAINLAND BEGAN WHILE THE RESURGENT RED ARMY WAS STORMING FORWARD ON A 600-MILE FRONT, ROLLING BACK THE GERMAN ARMY TOWARDS THE DNIEPER RIVER IN RUSSIA'S FIRST SUMMER OFFENSIVE--A DRIVE WHICH POSED SERIOUS PROBLEMS FOR HITLER IN THE CONSERVATION OF HIS FORCES AND THE MAINTENANCE OF HIS BATTLE LINES THROUGH ANOTHER WINTER OF WAR.

FOLLOWING QUICKLY UPON THE QUEBEC CONFERENCE, WHICH LOOKED BEYOND THE END OF THE EUROPEAN WAR TO AN ALL-OUT CAMPAIGN AGAINST JAPAN, THE INVASION OF THE CONTINENT CAME WHILE PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL WAS STILL IN WASHINGTON, REPORTEDLY CONFERRING WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT ON THE POSSIBILITIES OF A TRI-POWER MEETING WITH PREMIER STALIN OF RUSSIA.

THE INVASION OF ITALY WAS FULLY EXPECTED IN LONDON AS THE NEXT STEP IN THE MEDITERRANEAN CAMPAIGN WHICH PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL SO STAUNCHLY DEFENDED IN HIS WEDNESDAY BROADCAST, BUT IT WAS NOT EXPECTED TO FULLY SATISFY THE RUSSIANS, WHOSE PRESS ONLY YESTERDAY WAS COMPLAINING THAT THE SICILIAN CAMPAIGN HAD NOT DRAWN OFF A SINGLE GERMAN DIVISION FROM THE RUSSIAN FRONT.

CHURCHILL ACKNOWLEDGED THE SHARP DIVERSION OF STRATEGICAL OPINION BETWEEN THE ANGLO-AMERICANS AND THE RUSSIANS IN HIS STATEMENT WEDNESDAY THAT AN INVASION OF WESTERN EUROPE WOULD NOT BE ATTEMPTED UNTIL A REASONABLE CHANCE OF SUCCESS WAS ASSURED.

SEP 4 1943

CHURCHILL ALSO MADE CLEAR THE ALLIES' DETERMINATION THAT AN INVASION WOULD NOT END IN FIASCOS LIKE THE ATTEMPTED RESCUE MISSIONS TO NORWAY AND GREECE IN THE EARLY STAGES OF THE WAR.

THE CHANCES FOR SUCCESS IN THE LANDING ON ITALIAN SOIL APPEARED SUPERB AS THE WELL-EQUIPPED, BATTLE-TESTED FORCES WENT ASHORE UNDER THE PROTECTION OF ALMOST IMPREGNABLE AIR COVER AND AN UNCHALLENGED NAVAL DOMINANCE IN THE MEDITERRANEAN.

THE SERIOUSNESS OF ITALY'S PLIGHT UNDER THE MAKESHIFT BADOGLIO GOVERNMENT, WHICH OBVIOUSLY HAS BEEN ATTEMPTING TO RESCUE THE NATION FROM WAR EVER SINCE MUSSOLINI'S PTLITICAL DEMISE, WAS HIGHLIGHTED TUESDAY BY POPE PIUS IN HIS APPEAL FOR PEACE BEFORE THE END OF THE YEAR AND FOR GENEROSITY TO BEATEN NATIONS.

IN LONDON IT WAS THOUGHT FOR WEEKS THAT IT WOULD BE TOUCH AND GO BETWEEN AN INVASION AND THE SURRENDER OF ITALY, BUT PREMIER PIETRO BADOGLIO, DESPITE RIOTS, STRIKES AND PEACE PLEAS FROM THE PEOPLE, RESISTED THE ALLIED UNRELENTING DEMAND FOR UNCONDITIONAL CAPITULATION.

LITTLE EVIDENCE WAS SEEN IN LONDON THAT ITALY'S WILL OR ABILITY TO RESIST HAD BEEN IMPROVED BY THE EFFORTS OF ITS MILITARY GOVERNMENT, EXCEPT FOR THE FACT THAT 10 OR MORE GERMAN DIVISIONS WERE INSTALLED

IN THE NORTH TO DEFEND ITALIAN INDUSTRIAL CENTERS AND THE LAND LINES TO GERMANY.

THE PRESENCE OF THESE TROOPS, WHOSE REMOVAL FROM FRANCE TO ITALY WAS CONFIRMED BY CHURCHILL WEDNESDAY, AND HIS INABILITY TO DRIVE THEM OUT WITHOUT MAKING ITALY A BATTLEGROUND, IS BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN ONE OF THE STRONGEST FACTORS IN BADOGLIO'S DECISION TO PLAY FOR TIME.

THE UNILATERAL DECLARATION OF ROME AS AN OPEN CITY AND OTHER DEVELOPMENTS PLAINLY HAVE SHOWN ITALY'S EAGERNESS TO QUIT THE WAR, HOWEVER.

SEP 4 1943

THE ALLIES' CONFIDENCE OF SUCCESS HAS BEEN DEMONSTRATED ALSO BY THE FACT THAT THEY BY-PASSED SARDINIA AND CORSICA WHICH OUTFLANK THE INVASION FORCES AND WHICH, IN THE HANDS OF A STRONG FOE, MIGHT IMPERIL THE FORWARD BASE IN SICILY.

MOVING DIRECTLY TO THE CONTINENT THE ALLIES ALSO CAME NEARER SATISFYING RUSSIAN DEMANDS FOR A CONTINENTAL FRONT. THE INVASION, HOWEVER, IS OBVIOUSLY FOLLOWING A WELL-MATURED PLAN AND WAS NOT IMPROVISED HASTILY TO SATISFY WHAT CHURCHILL CALLED "POLITICAL CONSIDERATIONS." IT WAS CONSIDERED LIKELY IN LONDON THAT THE PLAN WAS FORMULATED AS LONG AGO AS THE CASABLANCA CONFERENCE IN JANUARY AND BROUGHT UP TO DATE AT THE ROOSEVELT-CHURCHILL MEETING IN MAY.

WIDESPREAD OPINION IN LONDON IS THAT THE NEXT DEVELOPMENT WILL BE AN INVASION OF THE BALKANS THROUGH CRETE AND GREECE BY BRITISH, EMPIRE AND ALLIED FORCES OF GREAT BUT SECRET STRENGTH, BASED IN THE MIDDLE-EAST.

THE FINAL COLLAPSE OF ITALY WOULD BE EXPECTED TO UNDERMINE OR EVEN BRING DOWN THE WHOLE RICKETY AXIS MILITARY STRUCTURE IN THE BALKANS, WHERE THE HUNGARIANS ARE OPENLY ANGLING FOR PEACE, AND LEADERLESS BULGARIA IS ATTEMPTING TO SET A NEW COURSE IN THE WAR.

IT WAS BELIEVED HERE THAT THE FALL OF ITALY WOULD NOT ONLY WITHDRAW 27 ITALIAN DIVISIONS FROM THE BALKANS, BUT WOULD MAKE POSSIBLE A LARGE-SCALE OFFENSIVE ON HITLER'S SOUTHEASTERN FLANK, WITH ALLIED GROUND FORCES BASED IN TALY COLLABORATING WITH

WITH ALLIED GROUND FORCES BASED IN ITALY COLLABORATING WITH GREEK AND YUGOSLAV GUERRILLAS.

SEP 4 1943

THE GREEK GOVERNMENT IS ALREADY ESTABLISHED IN THE MIDDLE EAST AND THE YUGOSLAV GOVERNMENT IS MOVING SOON FROM LONDON.

MEANTD3AEW

LONDON, SEPT 3-(AP)-A MUTUAL BROADCASTING COMMENTATOR, REPORTING FROM ALGIERS, QUOTED AN OFFICIAL ALLIED SPOKESMAN TODAY AS SAYING THAT BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY TROOPS WHICH LANDED IN SOUTHERN ITALYA THIS MORNING WERE "APPARENTLY ENGAGED IN HEAVY FIGHTING."

MK352AEW

LONDON, SEP 2-(AP)-GERMAN BROADCASTS INDICATED TODAY THAT THE ALLIED FORCES LANDING ON THE ITALIAN MAINLAND HAD OCCUPIED BOTH SCILLA AND REGGIO CALABRIA.

BOTH THESE CITIES ARE ON THE ITALIAN WEST COAST, DIRECTLY ACROSS THE STRAIT FROM MESSINA.

THE GERMAN INTERNATIONAL INFORMATION BUREAU, IN A BROADCAST RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, SAID THE ALLIED INVASION FORCES HAD PENETRATED AS FAR AS SCILLA ON THE COAST ROAD. IT SAID ANOTHER FORCE, LED BY MANY TANKS, HAD PENETRATED EASTWARD FROM REGGIO CALABRIA.

SW1214PEW

30.24-8009

30.24-8009

LONDON, SEPT. 3-(AP)-THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND ANNOUNCED IN A COMMQNIQUE TODAY THAT GERMAN TROOPS ARE HELPING ITALIAN FORCES IN THE DEFENSE OF THE CALABRIAN SHORES, INVADED EARLY TODAY BY THE ALLIES.

THE NAZI WAR BULLETIN, BROADCAST BY THE BERLIN RADIO AND RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, SAID SEVERAL ALLIED TRANSPORTS HAD BEEN HIT BY GERMAN BOMBERS IN ATTACKS OFF THE EAST COAT OF SICILY AND IN

BY GERMAN BOMBERS IN ATTACKS OFF THE EAST COAST OF SICILY AND IN WATERS WEST OF ALGIERS.

FD916AEW

SEP 4 1943

LONDON, SEPT. 3-(AP)-NEUTRAL REPORTS THAT THE GERMANS ARE USING IRRITATING, GASEOS, ARTIFICIAL SMOKE TO SCREEN THEIR FACTORIES FROM AIR ATTACKS CAUSED NO ALARM IN LONDON TODAY.

THE LONE VIEW EXPRESSED WAS THAT THE GERMANS MERELY WERE HINDERING THEIR OWN WORKERS. THE USE OF GAS ON THE GROUND IS NO THREAT TO ALLIED BOMBERS CREWS.

(USE OF THE GAS WAS REPORTED IN A ZURICH DISPATCH TO THE STOCKHOLM NEWSPAPER AFTONTIDNINGEN. THE DISPATCH SAID THE NAZIS HAD MANUFACTURED A NEW "SMOKE" FROM CHLORINE, SULPHUR AND OXYGEN.)

WHILE NO OFFICIAL COMMENT ON THE USE OF SUCH SMOKE HAS BEEN ISSUED, IT IS NOT REGARDED AS BY ANY MEANS OPENING GAS WARFARE.

BRITONS ARE INCLINED TO DOUBT THE SMOKE IS REALLY HARMFUL AND SEE NO POINT IN ADDING POISONOUS SUBSTANCES SINCE NORMAL SMOKES WOULD BE QUITE EFFECTIVE IN SCREENING THE OBJECTIVES.

(EDS-ABOVE 2ND LINE READ IRRITATING, GASEOUS, ARTIFICIAL ETC)

FD1023AEW

LONDON, SEPT 4-(AP)-MAJ.GEN.K.C.APPLEYARD, WHO WAS CHIEF ENGINEER TO THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, IS NOW IN THE UNITED STATES NEGOTIATING FOR STRIP MINING MACHINERY BY WHICH BRITAIN HOPES TO OBTAIN 20,000,000 TONS OF COAL FROM OPEN PITS NEXT YEAR, IT WAS DISCLOSED TODAY.

THE PRESENT ANNUAL PIT OUTPUT IS ABOUT 5,200,000 TONS.

DA2AEW

PROBLEM-CABINET

OF YUGOSLAVS IS MOVING TO CAIRO

CALLED 'FASCIST,'

OFFICIALS WORRY

OVER FUTURE (450)

SEP 4 1943

BY A.I.GOLDBERG

(ADVANCE) LONDON, SEPT. 2-(AP)-STILL CONSIDERED THE "PROBLEM CHILD" AMONG ALLIED GOVERNMENTS-IN-EXILE, THE YUGOSLAV CABINET OF PRIME MINISTER BOZIDAR PURIC IS PACKING FOR A MOVE THAT BY MID-SEPTEMBER MAY FIND IT BASED IN CAIRO.

THERE IT WOULD JOIN THE EXILED GREEK REGIME IN HEADQUARTERS PERMITTING CLOSER LIAISON WITH THE UNITED NATIONS MIDDLE EAST COMMAND. SITUATED IN CAIRO, BOTH THESE BALKAN GOVERNMENTS WOULD BE IN MORE ADVANTAGEOUS POSITION IF ALLIED INVASION OF EUROPE OCCURRED FROM THAT QUARTER, AND IN BETTER TOUCH WITH ANGLO-AMERICAN MILITARY LEADERS DIRECTING IT.

DEPARTING LONDON, YOUNG KING PETER'S NEW CABINET LEAVES IN ITS WAKE DENUNCIATION BY SOME SECTIONS OF THE BRITISH PRESS. LIBERAL AND LEFTIST PUBLICATIONS HAVE BRANDED IT "FASCIST."

ADDING TO THE PERPLEXITIES OF A REGIME WRESTLING WITH BOTH WIN-THE-WAR PROBLEMS AND POST-WAR PROSPECTS ARE THE AGE-OLD DIFFERENCES BETWEEN THE CROAT AND SERB SEGMENTS OF THE HOMELAND'S POPULATION.

SEP 4 1943

THE SITUATION IS COMPLICATED STILL FURTHER BY DOUBT OVER THE ATTITUDES OF THE BIG ALLIED POWERS TOWARD WHAT SORT OF GOVERNMENT SHALL BE ESTABLISHED IN YUGOSLAVIA AFTER VICTORY.

THIS, IN FACT, IS THE SAME PROBLEM FACING ALL THE SMALL EXILED REGIMES: SHOULD CURRENT DULY-CONSOITUTED OR PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENTS RETURN TO ADMINISTER THEIR RESPECTIVE COUNTRIES? OR SHOULD ANGLO-AMERICAN OCCUPATION AUTHORITIES CONTROL THESE COUNTRIES UNTIL THE LIBERATED PEOPLES CAN REGISTER A CHOICE AT THE POLLS? PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL SAID TUESDAY THAT HE HOPED THE FREED PEOPLE WOULD VOLUNTARILY RETURN THE KINGS OF YUGOSLAVIA AND GREECE TO THEIR THRONES, BUT DID NOT GO INTO DETAILS AS TO THE PROCESS.

AS THEY PONDER THESE QUESTIONS, THE VARIOUS LEADERS WONDER ALSO IF ALLIED OCCUPATIONAL RULE, WHEN IT COMES, WILL INVITE COLLABORATION BY THE EXILED GOVERNMENTS BASED IN LONDON AND CAIRO, OR IF THESE WILL BE IGNORED. EXILED LEADERS HAVE SEARCHED HOPEFULLY FOR COMFORT IN THE RECENT STATEMENT OF ADOLF A.BERLE, U.S. ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE, THAT WASHINGTON IS NOT BACKING "REACTIONARY" REGIMES FOR POST-WAR EUROPE.

DEFENDERS OF THE PURIC CABINET EMPHASIZE THAT ITS MEMBERS ARE VETERAN CIVIL SERVANTS WHO HAVE RALLIED AT THE KING'S CALL TO DEAL WITH PROBLEMS CONNECTED WITH WINNING THE WAR AND POST-WAR RECONSTRUCTION WITHOUT HOPE OF PERSONAL GLORY.

SEP 4 1943

"THEY ARE NOT POLITICIANS WHO WANT TO SEIZE RULE," SAID ONE SUPPORTER, "BUT MEN WORKING FOR THE GENERAL INTERESTS OF YUGOSLAVIA, WITHOUT REGARD TO DIFFERENCES BETWEEN CROATS, SERBS AND SLOVENES."

CRITICS ASSERT THAT THE YUGOSLAV PEOPLE, WHILE STILL INTENSELY ANTI-AXIS, WOULD REACT UNFAVORABLY TO THE PURIC CABINET'S MAKEUP. THEY PROPHESY FURTHER DIFFICULTIES IF KING PETER ATTEMPTS TO RETURN TO THE HOMELAND WITH HIS PRESENT GOVERNMENT.

"THERE IS NO DOUBT, HOWEVER," ONE YUGOSLAV INSISTED, "THAT THE PEOPLE WILL FIGHT ON TO THROW OUT THE AXIS AND RESTORE DEMOCRATIC PRINCIPLES IN YUGOSLAVIA. THIS DOESN'T MEAN ENMITY TOWARD THE THRONE, SINCE THE NATION CAN BE A DEMOCRATIC-MONARCHY, JUST AS ENGLAND IS."

(END AP SPECIAL ADVANCE FOR AMS OF FRIDAY, SEPT. 3. SENT SEPT. 1)

CHASSEN

LONDON, SEPT 3-(AP)-TWO AMERICAN EDITORS, W.W.WAYMACK AND WILLIAM F.MAAG, CONCLUDING A SEVERAL WEEKS' TOUR OF BRITAIN SPONSORED BY THE MINISTRY OF INFORMATION, REPORTED TODAY THAT THEY HAD GAINED A COMPREHENSIVE PICTURE OF BRITAIN'S WAR EFFORT AND PREPARATIONS FOR THE FUTURE.

WAYMACK IS VICE PRESIDENT AND EDITOR OF THE DES MOINES, IA., REGISTER AND TRIBUNE AND MAAG IS PUBLISHER AND EDITOR OF THE YOUNGSTOWN, O., VINDICATOR.

THEY VISITED INDUSTRIAL PLANTS AND MILITARY ESTABLISHMENTS,

30.24 - 8011

30.24-8011

ESPECIALLY IN THE NORTH OF ENGLAND, BUT CONCENTRATED MAINLY ON TALKING TO THE GREATEST POSSIBLE VARIETY OF PEOPLE, BOTH BRITISH AND AMERICAN.

SEP 4 1943

DURING THE TRIP THEY DISCUSSED THE TREND OF AFFAIRS WITH LEADERS IN POLITICAL AND INDUSTRIAL AS WELL AS MILITARY FIELDS.

KA125PEW

LONDON, SEPT. 3-(AP)-IN THE HEART OF LONDON ON THE SQUARE WHERE AMERICAN MILITARY QUARTERS IS SITUATED, UNITED STATES SOLDIERS, SAILORS, MARINES AND WACS JOINED THE BRITISH TODAY IN OBSERVING THEIR NATIONAL DAY OF PRAYER WITH A PROMISE THAT THE BRIDGEHEAD ESTABLISHED IN SOUTHERN ITALY WOULD BE EXTENDED FOR THE LIBERATION OF ALL SUBJUGATED EUROPE.

IN A MESSAGE ON THIS, THE FOURTH ANNIVERSARY OF BRITAIN'S ENTRY INTO THE WAR, LIEUT. GEN. JACOB L. DEVERS, AMERICAN COMMANDER IN THE EUROPEAN THEATER, ASSERTED:

"OUR PRAYERS TODAY ARE LINKED WITH ACTION. X X X THIS IS THE FIRST OF THE BRIDGEHEADS WHICH IN THE FIFTH YEAR OF WAR, WITH GOD'S HELP, WE WILL ESTABLISH AND BREACH THE FORTRESS OF EUROPE ON LAND, EVEN AS IT ALREADY HAS BEEN REACHED FROM THE AIR.

"ITS ANNIHILATION IS CERTAIN. DURING THE FIFTH YEAR OF THEIR SUFFERING THE PEOPLES OF THE OCCUPIED LANDS MAY HOPEFULLY TURN THEIR EYES TOWARD DELIVERANCE."

VISIBLE EVIDENCE OF THE CAMPAIGN FOR THE DELIVERANCE OF EUROPE WAS GIVEN WHILE THE CEREMONIES WERE UNDER WAY WHEN DOZENS OF FLYING FORCES DIRECTLY BACK FROM A NEW ASSAULT ON NAZI AIR POWER IN OCCUPIED FRANCE SOARED OVER THE HEADS OF THE AMERICANS.

DEVERS' MESSAGE WAS READ BY HIS CHIEF OF STAFF, MAJ. GEN. IDWAL EDWARDS. THE ABSENCE OF DEVERS AND VICE ADMIRAL LORD LOUIS MOUNTBATTEN, NEW ALLIED COMMANDER IN SOUTHEAST ASIA, FROM THE CEREMONIES PRESUMABLY WAS DUE TO THE URGENCY OF MILITARY BUSINESS OCCASIONED BY THE INVASION OF ITALY.

SINCE BOTH HAD BEEN SCHEDULED TO APPEAR, THEIR ABSENCE LED TO SPECULATION THAT NEW MILITARY MOVES WERE IN THE WIND.

AS THE FOURTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE WAR WAS OBSERVED SOLEMNLY AND HOPEFULLY THROUGHOUT THE NATION, KING GEORGE VI, QUEEN ELIZABETH AND THE PRINCESSES WENT TO PRAYERS AT A COUNTRY CHURCH SOMEWHERE IN BRITAIN. THE DUKE AND DUCHESS OF GLOUCESTER ALSO ATTENDED.

THE SOLEMN CEREMONY HERE WAS LIKE A PATRIOTIC SERVICE WHICH COULD HAVE BEEN HELD IN ANY NEW ENGLAND TOWN--WITH OLD RED BRICK BUILDINGS IN THE BACKGROUND.

AN AMERICAN UNIFORM WAS THE ONLY PASSWORD NEEDED TO GET INTO THE ROPED-OFF SQUARE IN ONE OF LONDON'S BUSIEST SECTIONS.

THE SERVICE WAS ONE OF MANY AS BRITAIN'S MILLIONS PRAYED FOR VICTORY IN CHURCHES, HOMES, FACTORIES AND EVEN IN HARVEST FIELDS.

SEP 4 1943

FD929AEW

(ADVANCE)-LONDON,SEPT. 3 (AP)--KING GEORGE VI TONIGHT APPROVED THE APPOINTMENT OF SIR THOMAS RUTHERFORD,GOVERNOR OF BIHAR, TO ACT AS GOVERNOR OF BENGAL, IN VIEW OF THE SERIOUS ILLNESS OF SIR.JOHN HERBERT, PRESENT GOVERNOR OF BIHAR.

R.F.MUDIE,PRESENTLY CHIEF SECRETARY TO THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED PROVINCES, WAS NAMED ACTING GOVERNOR OF BIHAR,DURING SIR. THOMAS' ABSENCE.

(END ADVANCE FOR USE AT 7:30 P.M.,EASTERN WAR TIME TODAY,SEPT.3)

2006-WAM436PEW

A U.S.FLYING FORTRESS BASE IN ENGLAND, SEPT. 3-(AP)-CAPT.ALEXANDER STRICKLAND OF SLATON,TEX., AND THE MEMBERS OF HIS CREW REALLY CAN SAY NOW THAT THEY ESCAPED A BULLET WITH THEIR NUMBER ON IT.

IN THE AUG. 27 RAID ON NORTHERN FRANCE A GERMAN ANTI-AIRCRAFT SHELL MADE A DIRECT HIT IN THE BELLY OF THEIR FLYING FORTRESS. ALL MIRACULOUSLY ESCAPED INJURY EXCEPT THE NAVIGATOR, LT.CARL HOKANS OF HOLLY, MICH., WHO LOST THE LITTLE FINGER OF ONE HAND, AND THE BOMBARDIER, LT.EDWIN LAMME OF FRESNO, CALIF., WHO GOT TINY GLASS AND METAL FRAGMENTS IN ONE HAND.

SEP 4 1943

THE PLANE'S NAME IS THE "VICIOUS VIRGIN," BUT ITS CUSTOMARY OPERATIONAL DESIGNATION IS THE LAST THREE DIGITS OF ITS SERIAL NUBER--341.

TODAY MECHANICS REPAIRING THE DAMAGE FOUND THE BASE OF THE FLAK SHELL EMBEDDED INSIDE THE SHIP. IN THE RING OF METAL WAS STAMPED THE GERMAN INSCRIPTION "LD" AND THE NUMBER 341.

OTHER MEMBERS OF THE CREW WERE THE CO-PILOT, CAPT.RICHARD BUBELL OF CINCINNATI, AND SGTS.RALPH STRONSAK OF ELYRIA, O., ALBERT MARTELL OF ALLSTON,MASS., RAYMOND PECK OF TWIN FALLS, IDA., JAMES BART OF PORTLAND, ORE., EDWARD E.MCGILL OF NASHVILLE, TENN., AND ANTHONY SHERG, OF EL RENO, OKLA.

STRICKLAND AND MCGILL COMPLETED THEIR FINAL MISSIONS IN THE UROPEAN THEATER TODAY AS MEMBERS OF THE CREW OF THE FORTRESS "WINNING RUN" WHICH PARTICIPATED IN ATTACKS ON ENEMY AIR FIELDS IN FRANCE.

RQ331PEW

BY GLADWIN HILL

A FORTRESS BASE IN ENGLAND, SEPT 3-(AP)-ESCORTING P-47 AMERICAN THUNDERBOLTS MADE TODAY'S FLYING FORTRESS EXPEDITION THROUGH WHAT ONCE WAS ONE OF THE TOUGHEST FIGHTER DISTRICTS IN WESTERN EUROPE A VERITABLE BOMBER'S PARADISE.

SEP 4 1943

THESE FIGHTERS WITH LONG-RANGE GAS TANKS HAVE GOT THE GERMAN FOCKE WULFE SCARED OR AT LEAST THE NAZIS ARE SHOWING THE THUNDERBOLTS A HEALTHY RESPECT, ONE PILOT REPORTED AFTER FLYING WITH THE LARGE FORTRESSES INTO FRANCE TO BOMB A NAZI REPAIR DEPOT ON AN AIRFIELD AT ROMILLY-SUR-SEINE, 75 MILES FROM PARIS.

THE FLIERS SAW ONLY A HANDFUL OF GERMAN FIGHTERS AND THEY SCATTERED FAST WHEN THE THUNDERBOLTS GOT AFTER THEM. THIS WAS IN SHARP CONTRAST WITH THE LAST AMERICAN RAID ON ROMILLY DEC. 20, 1942, WHICH STPLL IS TALKED OF AS A TOUGH GRIND.

THE BOMBER BOYS GAVE THEIR ESCORT FULL CREDIT FOR FACILITATING THEIR GOOD BOMBING OF THE NAZI'S HANGARS AND WORKSHOPS.

"THAT P-47 FIGHTER COVER SAVED OUR NECKS," SAID MAJOR KIRK MITCHELL, OKLAHOMA CITY, WHO LED THIS GROUP IN THE FORTRESS, "SATAN'S WORKSHOP."

"THERE COULDN'T HAVE BEEN MORE THAN 20 OF THEM AROUND US--MOSTLY FOCKE WULFS WITH A COUPLD OF ME-109S," SAID BOMBARDIER LT.EDWIN LAMME, FRESNO, CALIF.

"AND I SAW ONE JU-88 WAY DOWN BELOW PICKING OUT STRAGGLERS. THEY WON'T COME IN WITH THOSE 47S AROUND--GEE, THERE WERE A LOT OF THEM!"

30.24-8013

30.24-8013

OTHER FLYING FORTRESS CREWMEN BACK FROM RAIDS OVER NORTHERN FRANCE REPORTED TO THE U.S. EIGHTH AIRFORCE HEADQUARTERS THAT THE GERMANS WERE DEFENDING THE PARIS REGION WITH HORDES OF FIGHTERS AND HEAVY FLAK.

SEP 4 1943

THE FIRST GERMAN FIGHTERS DIDN'T COME IN UNTIL THE FIRST GROUP OF ESCORTING THUNDERBOLTS TURNED BACK JUST BEFORE THE TARGET. THE ENEMY FIGHTERS CONTINUED SNIPING AT THE FORTRESE FORMATION INTERMITENTLY FROM THERE ON ALL THE WAY BACK TO THE ENGLISH CHANNEL.

"WE GOT THE LAST BUNCH TEN MINUTES FROM THE FRENCH COAST," SAID CAPT. ALEXANDER STRICKLAND, SLATON, TEX. WHO PILOTED THE FORTRESS, "WINNING RUN."

"THREE OF THE FIGHTERS I SAW WERE EAGER BEAVERS," SAID SGT.WILLIAM FLEMING,JENKINS,KY., LEFT WAIST GUNNER IN "SATAN'S WORKSHOP." HE ADDED, "THEY CAME IN TO ABOUT 50 YARDS BUT DIDN'T STICK AROUND."

LT.JACK FAWCETT,BRUSH, COL., FLYING ON MITCHELL'S SHIP ON HIS 19TH RAID AND HIS FOURTH RAID AS LEAD GROUP BOMBARDIER, SAID THEY RAN INTO "SOME OF THE HEAVIEST CLOUDS WE'VE EVER SEEN, BUT THERE WAS A PATH THROUGH THEM RIGHT DOWN TO THE TARGET. RIGHT OVER THE TARGET, WE RAN INTO ANOTHER BUNCH OF THICK CLOUDS, BUT I THINK WE WERE ALL SYNCHRONISED ON OUR AIMING SO THE BOMBS WENT RIGHT DOWN ALL RIGHT.

"PICTURES SHOWED WE HIT THE RIGHT HAND CORNER OF A GROUP OF HANGARS, SOME WORKSHOPS AND SOME STRAYS HIT SOME ANTI-AIRCRAFT POSITIONS--WHICH WE WEREN'T SORRY TO HAVE HAPPEN.

"THERE WERE TEN HANGARS--TWO ROWS OF FOUR AND TWO AT ONE SIDE. I THINK WE GOT THOSE SIDE TWO DEAD AND HIT ABOUT SIX ALTOGETHER. IT LOOKS LIKE WE KNOCKED OUT THE WORKSHOPS TOO."

THE FLIERS SAID THE ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE ALL ALONG THE ROUTE WAS MODERATE.

"IT WASN'T TOO BAD," SAID LT.JOE BRADBURY, BEXLEY, O., PILOT OF THE FORTRESS "THUMPER AGAIN."

IT WAS THE FINAL RAID FOR CAPT.STRICKLAND AND TWO OF HIS CREW, FLEMING AND RIGHT WAIST GUNNER, SGT.EDWARD E.MCGILL, NASHVILLE, TENN.

STRICKLAND WHOSE WIFE LIVES IN GROOM, TEX., IS HOPING FOR AN ASSIGNMENT BACK IN THE UNITED STATES BECAUSE "I'VE GOT A SON OR DAUGHTER DUE SEPTEMBER SIXTH I WOULDN'T MIND SEEING."

OTHER "WINNING RUN" CREWMEN WERE: CO-PILOT CAPT.RICHARD DUBELL, CINCINNATI, O., NAVIGATOR LT.PAUL SCOGGINS, TIOGA, TEX., GUNNER SGTS.CLARENCE BAGGS, COLQUIT, TEX., ANGELO TAMBE, ROCHESTER,N.Y., AND ANTHONY SHERG, EL RENO, OKLA.

SEP 4 1943

OTHER CREWMEN OF THE "SATAN'S WORSHOP" WERE: CO-PILOT CAPT.MERLE HUNGERFORD, EL PASO, TEX., NAVIGATOR LT.RICHARD E.MCELWAIN, NEW PARK, PA., GUNNER SGTS.ANDREW BERZANSKI, WOOD, PA., ALBERT BEAVERS, FREETOWN, PA., CARYL ZELLER, ROCHESTER,MINN., CLAYTON BAGWELL, OKLAHOMA CITY, WAYNE BRIGGS, SPRINGFIELD, ILL., AND GEORGE E.EDWARD WRIGHT, ONTARIO, CALIF.

ANOTHER FORTRESS ON THE RAID WAS THE "EIGHT BALL," PILOTED BY LT. JAMES NIX, FELLOWS, CALIF.

OTHER CREWMEN WERE: CO-PILOT LT.ROBERT PHELPS, FLINT,MICH., NAVIGATOR LT.BENJAMIN STREET, HOUSTON, TEX., BOMBARDIER LT.

LEROY GORDON, NORTH ATTLEBORO,MASS., AND GUNNER SGTS.ARNOLD DORAN, JAMAICA PLAIN, MASS., LLOYD JORDAN, FREDERIKA, IOWA, PAUL MCGEE, LOCUST GAP, PA., PAUL LEMANN, NEW BEDFORD,MASS., JOSEPH KERR, ST.LOUIS,MO., AND MARVIN POWELL, DEWITT, ARK.

AT U.S.EIGHTH AIRFORCE HEADQUARTERS, THESE COMMENTS WERE HEARD:

"THE FIGHTERS REALLY WERE PERSISTENT," SAID LIEUT.L.A.WICKENS, 22, OF ROCKFORD, ILL., NAVIGATOR OF THE "NINE YANKS IN A JERK." "THEY'D COME IN IN BUNCHES OF SIX OR SEVEN. THEY'D COME IN NOSE HIGH AND LET US HAVE IT THE FULL LENGTH OF THE FUSELAGE."

SEP 4 1943

STAFF SGT.FLOYD L.THOMPSON, 22, THE BALL TURRET GUNNER, FROM DURANT, OKLA., SAID HE SAW BLACK SMOKE RISING SEVERAL THOUSAND FEET OVER THE FACTORIES IN THE TARGET AREA. THOMPSON SAID "WE WENT THROUGH A THICK BARRAGE OF FLAK OVER THE TARGET. ENEMY FIGHTERS HIT US HARDEST OVER PARIS."

CAPT.SAM BARR, 27, OF LELAND,MISS., CO-PILOT OF THE "DAMFINO," SAID HE HAD BEEN OVER ST.NAZAIRE AND KIEL, "BUT IT WAS NOTHING COMPARED TO THE FLAK OVER PARIS."

LIEUT.LEONARD W. HERMAN OF 2419 PARKSIDE AVE., PHILADELPHIA, BOMBARDIER ON "HEAVENLY DAY," SAID "MY BOMBS HIT FACTORIES ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE RIVER, BUT I WAS MOST INTERESTED IN PARIS. WHEN WE WENT OVER, THE FIRST THING I SAW WAS THE EIFFEL TOWER STICKING UP LIKE AN OIL DERRICK."

"IT WAS MY FIRST MISSION AND I LIKED IT--AS LONG AS WE CAME BACK," HE ADDED.

LIEUT.RICHARD A.HOLMES, OF 1423 TWENTY-SIX AVE., SAN FRANCISCO, SAID THE SIGHT OF "ALL THOSE B-17S IN FORMATION GIVE YOU A FEELING OF CONFIDENCE."

LIEUT.JAMES P.SITTON, 25, OF CRANSTON,R.I., SAID HE WASN'T LOOKING AT THE FLAK.

SEP 4 1943

"I HAVE A NEW SYSTEM NOW--I JUST WATCH THE INSTRUMENTS AND TRY TO FORGET THE FLAK."

LIEUT.JOSEPH P.ARMENINI, 23, OF SANTA CRUZ, CALIF., BOMBARDIER ON THE "DAMFINO," A FORMER BANK TELLER, REPORTED:

"WHEN WE WENT INTO FRANCE, I THOUGHT WE WERE GOING DOWN. BROWNIE (LIEUT.JAMES R.BROWN, 24, 2327 TAYLOR ST., MINNEAPOLIS,MINN.) AND I REACHED FOR THE SAME PARACHUTE. IT WAS MY 'CHUTE AND I TOLD HIM:

"'GO GET YOUR OWN, THE AGE OF CHIVALRY IS OVER.' ABOUT THIS TIME, WE REALIZED WE WERE NOT OUT OF CONTROL, SO WE WENT TO WORK WITH THE GUNS."

FROM ANOTHER FORTRESS, RETURNING FROM A RAID ON MEULAN, CAME THESE REPORTS:

LIEUT.WARREN FOOT, 26, OF IDAHO FALLS, IDAHO, CO-PILOT OF THE "SILVER DOLLAR 11," SAID:

"ONE OF OUR ENGINES FLUNKED OUT OVER MEULAN BUT WE WERE ABLE TO STAY IN FORMATION. OUR FIGHTER ESCORT WAS VERY GOOD AND NOT A SINGLE GERMAN FIGHTER MADE A PASS AT US."

STAFF SGT.HOWARD R.LEE, 19, WAISTGUNNER ON THE "HOLY MACKERAL," WHOSE HOME IS AT LA HABRA, CALIF., SAID:

"I'LL TAKE ALL OF THEM LIKE THIS ONE--NO FIGHTERS AND NO FLAK."

MARAUDER CREWMEN, IN OTHER OF THE DAY'S WIDESPREAD OPERATIONS, REPORTED GOOD HUNTING.

LIEUT.STANLEY S.BOLESTA, 9436 EAST FOREST AVE., DETROIT, BOMBARDIER NAVIGATOR, SAID "I SAW A LARGE PORTION OF A BUILDING IN THE TARGET AREA BLOW UP. AFTER THAT THERE WAS TOO MUCH DUST AND SMOKE TO SEE THE RESULT."

1943

30 24- 8015

30.24-8015

"WE WON'T HAVE TO GO BACK TO THIS TARGET AGAIN," SAID LIEUT.RALPH W.LOWREY OF BOISE CITY, OKLA., BOMBARDIER-NAVIGATOR ON THE "MOUNTAIN VIEW."

"WE REALLY LAID OUR BOMBS IN THERE."

SEP 4 1943

LIEUT.WELDON R.RAWLINGS, 1017 GAMBRELL ST., FORT WORTH, TEXAS, CO-PILOT OF THE "IMPATIENT VIRGINIA," SAID "OUR BOMBS WALKED RIGHT ACROSS THE RUNWAY INTO THE DISPERSAL AREA."

THE ONLY CLOSE CALL FROM FLAK WAS REPORTED BY STAFF SGT.BRUNO P.RICCARDI, 1103 WYLIE AVE., PITTSBURGH, TAILGUNNER ON THE "BLUE-BIRD," WHO SAID "HEAVY BURSTS OF FLAK ROCKED OUR SHIP JUST AS WE DROPPED OUR BOMBS, BUT IT WAS THE ONLY FLAK WE SAW ON THE TRIP."

LIEUT.ANDREW C.STOLEN, 2909 ST.PAUL AVE., MADISON, WIS., BOMBARDIER ON THE "BLACK MAGIC" DECLARED "WE REALLY BLEW HELL OUT OF THE TARGET TODAY. I SAW OUR BOMBS ALL THE WAY DOWN AND THEY HIT THE AIRDROME BUILDINGS RIGHT ON THE NOSE."

STAFF SGT.JOSEPH R.HAVRILLE, 400 12TH ST., PITTSBURGH, GUNNER ON "THE BLACK MAGIC" SAID "OUR BOMBS FELL NEAR FIVE ENEMY AIRCRAFT PARKED ON ONE SIDE OF THE FIELD."

STAFF SGT.W.A.WINFREE, NORFOLK,VA., RADIO GUNNER OF THE "SECKSMA-CHEEN" SAID HE SAW SOME "PRETTY BIG COLUMNS OF SMOKE AND MANY FIRES.

"I DON'T WISH ANYBODY ANY HARD LUCKAN BUT IT'S THEM OR US," HE ADDED.

THE RED INDIAN SQUADRON OF THE ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE SHOT DOWN TWO OF FOUR ME-109S THEY SPOTTED FOLLOWING A FORTRESS FORMATION.

FLIGHT OFFICER M.C.LOVE FROM WYNNEWOOD,PA., SHOT DOWN ONE AND SQUADRON LEADER R.W.MCNAIR OF NORTHBATTLEFORD, SASK., GOT THE OTHER. IT WAS MCNAIR'S SECOND GERMAN PLANE IN THREE DAYS.

SNRQYW9PEW

BY W.W.HERCHER

U.S.EIGHTH AIRFORCE HEADQUARTERS IN ENGLAND, SEPT. 3-(AP)-BECAUSE ITS CREW REFUSED TO GIVE UP THE SHIP, THE B-26 MARAUDER, "IDIOT'S DELIGHT 2ND", CAME BACK FROM A RECENT BOMBING RAID ON FRANCE A VERITABLE WRECK--BUT FATED TO FLY AND FIGHT AGAIN.

NAZI FOCKE-WULFE-190S ATTACKED THE BOMBER 15 MILES OFF THE ENEMY COAST, SHOOTING AWAY ITS TAILTURRET AILERON, ITS CONTROL CABLE AND HALF OF ITS RUDDER SURFACE. BULLETS PUNCTURED THE GASOLINE TANK, KNOCKING OUT THE FUEL TRANSFER PUMP AND BLOWING A THREE-FOOT HOLE IN THE RIGHT WING.

SEP 4 1943

SPLINTERS FROM 20-MM.SHELLS WOUNDED LIEUT.HORACE C.RODGERS OF MARSHALL, TEX., THE CO-PILOT, AND SET OFF FLARES WHICH FILLED THE COCKPIT WITH SMOKE.

THE PILOT, FLIGHT OFFICER FRANK M.REMELLE OF ROSWELL, N.M., STARTED TO REACH FOR THE ALARM BELL IN THE SMOKE--THEN DECIDED TO TRY TO BRING THE SHIP IN.

WHILE REMELLE FOUGHT WITH THE CONTROLS, RODGERS WORKED THE FIRE EXTINGUISHER UNTIL RELIEVED BY STAFF SGT.RALPH MORRINE, OF 4735 N. 10TH ST., PHILADELPHIA.

MORRINE PLACED THE BURNING FLARES IN A HELMET, CHOPPED A HOLE IN THE REAR BOMB-BAY AND DROPPED THEM OUT. HE CARRIED WATER IN HIS HANDS TO PUT OUT A SMALL MOTOR FIRE, THEN ADMINISTERED FIRST AID TO THE WOUNDED RODGERS.

LIEUT.ROSS H.BUK OF HERNDON,KAS., TOOK OVER THE CO-PILOT'S DUTIES.

FOUR RAF SPITFIRES ESCORTED THE BOMBER TO SAFETY AND REMELLE, WITH HIS RUDDER AND AILERON CABLES SHOT AWAY, LANDED THE SHIP SOLELY BY MANIPULATING THE THROTTLES. BEFORE GOING DOWN HE TOLD THE CREW HE WOULD TRY TO LAND ON AN EMERGENCY FIELD AND ASKED IF ANYONE WANTED TO BAIL OUT.

HE GOT NO ANSWER.

SEP 4 1943

RQ834PEW

STOCKHOLM, SATURDAY, SEPT 4-(AP)-ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS AT MALMOE ON THE SOUTHERN TIP OF SWEDEN SENT UP THE HEAVIEST BARRAGE OF THE WAR EARLY TODAY AS AN ALMOST UNBROKEN STREAM OF FOREIGN WAR PLANES PASSED OVER THE COAST FOR AN HOUR.

LOW CLOUDS MADE IT IMPOSSIBLE TO IDENTIFY THE PLANES, BUT IT WAS BELIEVED THEY MIGHT BE BRITISH RAIDERS RETURNING FROM ANOTHER LARGE SCALE ATTACK UPON GERMANY--PROBABLY UPON BERLIN.

KK1219AEW

STOCKHOLM, SATURDAY SEPT 4-(AP)-SWEDISH PRESS DISPATCHES FROM BUDAPEST TODAY SAID THE GERMANS WERE EVACUATING MOST OF THE WOMEN AND CHILDREN FROM VIENNA.

THE ALLIED INVASION OF ITALY WAS BELIEVED TO BE THE DETERMINING FACTOR FOR THE EVACUATION OF THE AUSTRIAN CAPITAL, WHICH THE NAZIS APPARENTLY THOUGHT WAS IMMUNE FROM ALLIED BOMBING RAIDS UNTIL RECENT FLYING FORTRESS ATTACKS ON A MESSERSCHMITT FIGHTER PLANT AT WEINER NEUSTADT 30 MILES SOUTHWEST OF VIENNA AUG.15.

KK1214AEW

ALLIED H-Q- N-AFRICA (NORGAARD) XXX LOST"

U.S. MITCHELLS OPENED YESTERDAY'S ONSLAUGHT ON THE TOE OF ITALY WITH A HEAVY BLOW ON ENEMY TROOP CONCENTRATIONS NEAR REGGIO CALABRIA. ALTHOUGH THESE POSITIONS WERE WELL-CAMOUFLAGED, CAPT. MARSHALL LAMBERT, FLIGHT LEADER FROM AKALAILA, MONT., REPORTED "WE MESSED THEM UP WITH OUR BOMBS," AND LT. W.O.E. SILVEY OF HARRIMAN, TENN., NAVIGATOR, SAID "THEY WERE PRETTY WELL DUG IN, BUT WE DUG THEM OUT AGAIN."

LATER AMERICAN A36 INVADER DIVE-BOMBERS SCREAMED THROUGH INTENSE GROUND FIRE TO PULVERIZE FREIGHT YARDS AT LAMEZIA AND CATANZARO, SENDING BLACK SMOKE BILLOWING FROM THE TARGETS.

SEP 4 1943

RAF AND SOUTH AFRICAN BALOIMORES AND BOSTONS ATTACKED TROOPS AND GUN POSITIONS.

THE NIGHT BEFORE, RAF BOSTONS FLEW THROUGH RAINSTORMS TO BOMB ENEMY HIGHWAY MOVEMENTS FROM LOW LEVELS, AND PILOT G. BASIRICH FROM IOWA (HOMETOWN UNAVAILABLE) SAID "WE SAW COLOSSAL EXPLOSIONS."

THE ONE ENEMY PLANE BAGGED BY A MITCHELL GUNNER ON THE CANCELLO RAID WAS A MACCHI 202 SHOT DOWN BY STAFF SERGT. RAY KLIMER OF SOUTH NAMPA ST., CANYON, IDAHO.

LT. FRED A.SELLE OF PARKER, IDAHO, WHO HAD NEVER BEFORE BEEN CREDITED WITH DESTROYING AN ENEMY AIRCRAFT, WAS THE HERO OF MANY HEROES IN THE BIG BATTLE BETWEEN P-38 LIGHTNINGS AND AXIS FIGHTERS. HE SENT DOWN THREE MESSERSCHMITT 109'S.

FOUR OTHER LIGHTNING PILOTS EACH BAGGED TWO VICTIMS: LT. WILLIAM A.MURPHY OF 8530 165TH ST., JAMAICA, N.Y., AN ME 109 AND MACCHI 202, HIS FIRST AND SECOND VICTORIES; LT. JAMES R.GANT OF 2116 HILLCREST ST., FORT WORTH, TEX., TWO MACCI 202'S; 2ND LT. ROBERT B.WILLIAMS, 9962 MELABAR ROAD, HUNTINGTON BEACH, CALIF., TWO ME 109'S, AND LT. LESLIE E.ANDERSON, CHEVERLY, MISS., TWO ME 109'S FOR HIS FIRST AND SECOND VICTORIES.

30.24- 8017

LIGHTNING PILOTS CREDITED WITH ONE VICTORY EACH WERE:

LT.THOMAS A.HODGSON, BAKERSFIELD, CALIF., A REGGIANE 2001; LT. JAMES A.LIPPERT, NORTHFIELD, MINN., ME 109; LT.JOSEPH C.SOLKO, ONAWA, IOWA, ME109; LT.CLIFFORD L.RAGLAND, ROSELLE PARK, N.J., ME109; LT.WILLIAMD.SHOEMAKER, BANNER

SEP 4 1943

ONAWA, IOWA, ME109; LT.CLIFFORD L.RAGLAND, ROSELLE PARK, N.J., ME109; LT.WILLIAM R.SHOEMAKER, BANNER ELK, N.C., FW190; LT.GARRET D.FULLER, WEST NEWTON, MASS., ME 109; LT.WILLIAM T.VANTREAS, 103 19TH AVE., SOUTH NASHVILLE, TENN., ME 109; LT.CLARENCE A.JOHNSON, ADA MINN., ME 109; FLIGHT OFFICER FRANK D.HURLBUT, 1701 SOUTH BOULEVARD, CHARLOTTE, N.C., ME 109; LT.DONALD W.JOHNSON, 2122 Q STREET, NORTHWEST, WASHINGTON, D.C., MACCHI 202. HURLBUT'S VICTORY WAS HIS NINTH.

FORTRESS GUNNERS CREDITED WITH FOUR FIGHTERS AT BOLZANO WERE SGT.JOHN L.BALL, 127 KENTUCKY ST., WINCHESTER, KY., REGGIANE 2001; SGT.VINCENT S.JAKUBCZAK, 346 STATE ST., PERTH AMBOY, N.J., ME109; SERGT.HOWARD B.CAMPBELL, 812 CROSS ST., HUNTSVILLE, ALA., REGGIANE 2001; SERGT.FRED HOOPS, BESSEMER, ALA., ME109.

KA4JS1214PEW

ADD ALLIED H-Q-N-AFRICA (KENNEDY) XXX 'STAY'

SOME OF THE WACS ARRIVED AT A NORTH AFRICAN PORT DIRECT FROM THE UNITED STATES A FEW DAYS AGO.

THEY WERE COMMANDED BY TALL, BRUNETTE CAPT. HANNAH J. ASHBY, NORMAN, OKLA. OTHER OFFICERS ARE:

LIEUTENANTS ELIZABETH RAY, OKLAHOMA CITY, ELLEN C. BUTNHAM, CINCINNATI, O., SECOND LIEUTENANTS BEATRICE LEVIN, BALTIMORE, SARA KENDALL, BOSTON, AND GEORGENE V. MCCAULEY, LUBBOCK, TEX.

30.24-8017

THE ENLISTED CONTINGENT INCLUDED PFC. ADINE VANCOUTREN, ST.LOUIS, MO., WHO HAS EIGHT BROTHERS IN THE ARMED FORCES AND TWO SISTERS IN THE WAC. THAT CONTRIBUTION TO THE WAR HAS EARNED HER MOTHER, MRS.LEO VANCOUTREN, THE TITLE OF "NUMBER ONE WAR MOTHER," BESTOWED BY MAYOR FIORELLO LA GUARDIA OF NEW YORK ON BEHALF OF THE AMERICAN WOMEN'S VOLUNTARY SERVICES.

THE GIRLS STARED AT THE ARAB WOMEN WEARING THE CUSTOMARY VEILS. WITH PVT. CLAUDIA RINALDI, LOS ANGELES, CALIF., VOICING THE CONTINGENT'S GENERAL VIEW, "THEY ARE FASCINATING." THE ARABS STARED RIGHT BACK, UNACCUSTOMED TO SEEING THE WACS IN THEIR OLIVE DRAB UNIFORMS. THE WACS ALREADY HERE WEAR SUMMER WEIGHT KHAKI.

THE WACS WERE IMPRESSED BY THE WELCOME THEY GOT AT THE PORT WHERE THEY LANDED. "THEY ALL SEEMED AWFULLY HAPPY TO SEE US," PVT. MARY ELIZABETH KOVY, GERARD, O., SAID OF THE FRENCH. ONE FRENCHWOMAN RUSHED FORTH WHEN THE GIRLS MARCHED FROM THE SHIP AND PLANTED RESOUNDING KISSES ON BOTH CHEEKS OF PVT. ALICE MILLER, CINCINNATI, O., DECLARING, "WE ARE FRIENDS--FRIENDS FOREVER."

KA13OPEW

INVASION PREPARATIONS

SEP 4 1943

BY DON WHITEHEAD

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, SEPT.3-(AP)-THE ALLIED LANDING IN ITALY TODAY WAS THE FRUITION OF PLANS LAID WELL OVER A YEAR AGO IN MANY PARTS OF THE WORLD.

IN THE WORDS OF AN OFFICIAL SPOKESMAN, "DON'T GET THE IDEA THAT THIS IS A NEW CAMPAIGN OR A NEW 'SECOND FRONT.' THAT STARTED A LONG TIME AGO WHEN WE FIRST CAME TO NORTH AFRICA."

THE SPECIAL COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCING BRITISH AND CANADIAN TROOPS

HAD PUSHED ACROSS THE NARROW STRAIT OF MESSINA FROM SICILY WHOSE CONQUEST WAS FINISHED ONLY 17 DAYS AGO, EMPHASIZED THE SAME POINT WITH THE WORDS, "ALLIED FORCES UNDER THE COMMAND OF GENERAL EISENHOWER HAVE CONTINUED THEIR ADVANCE."

MOST SIGNIFICANT PERHAPS WAS THE FACT THAT GEN. DWIGHT D.EISENHOWER BEGAN THE ACTUAL SMASH AT HITLER'S SO-CALLED "EUROPEAN FORTRESS" WITH BY FAR THE BIGGEST, MOST POWERFUL, MOST VERSATILE, SINGLE AIRFORCE EVER MASSED TO SUPPORT AN ARMY IN THE FIELD--AN AIRFORCE WHOSE LEADERS COULD CLAIM TO HAVE REDUCED THE ONCE-DREADED GERMAN AIR FORCE AS A VITAL FACTOR IN FURTHER OPERATIONS ANYWHERE IN THE MEDITERRANEAN AREA.

SEP 4 1943

THIS AIR FORCE HAS GIVEN SOUTHERN ITALY A LONG "SOFTENING UP" PROCESS WITH SPECIAL EMPHASIS ON THE DESTRUCTION OF AIRDROMES, FROM WHICH THE LUFTWAFFE COULD MENACE AN INVASION FLEET AND LANDING ARMIES, AND RAIL AND OTHER COMMUNICATIONS BY WHICH THE ENEMY COULD DISPATCH REINFORCEMENTS, WEAPONS AND SUPPLIES TO ANY THREATENED POINT.

SOON THE AIR OPPOSITION OVER THE TOE OF ITALY WHERE THE EIGHTH ARMY IS NOW BATTLING FOR A FOOTHOLD HAD VIRTUALLY VANISHED AND LONG-RANGE AMERICAN HEAVY AND MEDIUM BOMBERS STABBED WITH LIGHTNING-LIKE RAIDS AT VARIED TARGETS OVER A 300-MILE STRETCH FROM NAPLES TO PISA, CHOOSING NOW A RAILWAY JUNTION, FREIGHT YARD OR AN AIRFIELD TO BOMB JUST WHEN THE NAZIS HAD MASSED THEIR OVERTAXED DEFENSIVE FIGHTER STRENGTH TO DEFEND ANOTHER POINT.

PLANNERS OF THE DRIVE ONTO THE ITALIAN MAINLAND DIDN'T EVEN WAIT TO CLEAN UP THE MESS THAT WAS ONCE THE PROUD CITY OF MESSINA WHERE THE ALLIED CONQUEST OF SICILY WAS COMPLETED.

WITHIN AN INCREDIBLY SHORT PERIOD, THE ALLIES WERE ABLE TO CONCENTRATE ENOUGH MEN, SUPPLIES AND SHIPPING TO CONTINUE THEIR OPERATIONS, THIS TIME AGAINST THE MAINLAND ITSELF.

THEY DIDN'T WAIT TO CLEAR MESSINA'S HARBOR OF SUNKEN SHIPS, DROWNED BARGES AND GAUNT SKELETONS OF SMALL BOATS WHICH WERE SMASHED BY THE HEAVY AIR BOMBARDMENTS WHILE THE ENEMY WAS RETREATING FROM THE ISLAND IN THE FACE OF THE POWERFUL AMERICAN AND ALLIED DRIVES.

SEP 4 1943

WHEN THE ARMADA OF INVASION CRAFT MOVED ACROSS THE MESSINA STRAIT UNDER THE STARLIT SKY WITH THE FLASHES OF GUNS SPARKLING LIKE FIREFLIES AGAINST THE DARK HILLS ON EITHER SIDE OF THE WATER, IT WAS SENT OVER LOADED WITH MEN AND SUPPLIES BROUGHT UP AND PREPARED FOR THE TASK IN ONLY 17 DAYS.

WITH THE ALLIED AIR FORCE AND ARTILLERY POUNDING THE MAINLAND AND NEUTRALIZING THE ENEMY'S COUNTER-FIRE FROM BATTERIES HIDDEN IN THE HILLS, IT WAS NO RISK TO MEN OR EQUIPMENT TO CONCENTRATE SMALL BOATS ALONG THE WEST SHORES OF THE STRAIT FOR THE INVASION MOVE.

WITHOUT THE ALLIED AERIAL SUPERIORITY, HOWEVER, IT WOULD HAVE BEEN ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE.

THE SPOKESMAN HERE, WARNING AGAINST EXCESSIVE OPTIMISM, CAUTIONED THAT THE GERMANS WITHOUT DOUBT WILL WAGE A FIERCE FIGHT FOR ITALY AND "WE WILL LOSE MEN AND MATERIALS" AS THE FIGHT PROGRESSES. TO SUPPORT THE GROUND FORCES, THE GERMAN COMMAND WILL PROBABLY SEND WHATEVER AIR RE-INFORCEMENTS HE CAN SPARE TO ITALY.

BUT THE ALLIES STILL WILL RULE THE AIR OVER THE ITALIAN BATTLEFIELDS AND WILL POUND AIRFIELDS STEADILY UNTIL THE GERMAN AIR FORCE AGAIN RETREATS.

WM434PEW

30.24-8019

30.24-8019

BY DON WHITEHEAD

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, SEPT. 3-(AP)-IT WAS ONLY A HOP, SKIP AND A JUMP FOR THE ALLIED FORCE ACROSS THE NARROW STRAITS OF MESSINA INTO ITALY ON THE 17TH DAY AFTER THE FIRST DOUGHBOY PATROLS MARCHED INTO BOMB-GUTTED MESSINA.

SEP 4 1943

THE ALLIES DIDN'T EVEN WAIT TO CLEAR AWAY THE TERRIBLE WRECKAGE AND THE LITTER OF ENEMY EQUIPMENT ON THE SHORES FROM WHICH THEY EMBARKED FOR THIS GREAT NEW MOVE AGAINST THE AXIS.

WHEN THE ARMADA MOVED ACROSS THE STRAIT UNDER A STARLIT SKY WITH FLASHES OF GUNS SPARKLING LIKE FIREFLIES AGAINST THE DARK HILLS ON EITHER SIDE OF THE WATER, THEY LEFT BEHIND MESSINA'S HARBOR CLUTTERED WITH SUNKEN SHIPS.

PREPARATIONS WERE UNDERWAY TO CONTINUE THE DRIVE ACROSS THE STRAIT BEFORE THE RETREATING ENEMY HAD A CHANCE TO RECOVER FROM THE SHOCK OF THE BEATING. THE WATER ACROSS WHICH THE INVASION WAS MADE IS LESS THAN TWO MILES WIDE AT ITS NARROWEST POINT AND IN SOME PLACES IS ONLY TEN FEET DEEP.

FROM THE DOCKS AT MESSINA THE STRAIT LOOKS LIKE A BROAD, PLACID RIVER. ITALY'S MOUNTAINS RISE ABRUPTLY ON THE OTHER SIDE. WITH FIELD GLASSES YOU COULD SEE SMALL BOATS, BARGES AND FERRIES ON THE OPPOSITE SHORE AND COLUMNS OF SMOKE RISING FROM BURSTS OF AMERICAN ARTILLERY WHICH KEPT HARASSING FIRE ON THE ENEMY WITHDRAWING INTO THE MAINLAND.

WITH THE AIRFORCE AND ARTILLERY POUNDING THE MAINLAND AND NEUTRALIZING THE ENEMY'S COUNTER FIRE FROM BATTERIES HIDDEN IN THE HILLS IT WAS NO RISK OF MEN OR EQUIPMENT TO CONCENTRATE SMALL BOATS ALONG THE WEST SHORES OF THE STRAIT FOR THIS INVASION.

THE BOATS WERE ABLE TO CROSS THE STRAIT WITHIN 20 MINUTES IN A QUICK SHORE TO SHORE DASH.

THE HILLS ABOVE AND TO THE NORTH AND SOUTH OF MESSINA PROVIDED GOOD HIDING PLACES FOR ARTILLERY TO LOB SHELLS ONTO ENEMY POSITIONS AND WITH AERIAL AND GROUND OBSERVATION IT WAS NO GREAT TASK TO PICK TARGETS.

FD1127AEW

BY RONALD MONSON

SEP 4 1943

REPRESENTING THE COMBINED BRITISH PRESS
DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN SICILY, SEPT 3-(AP)-BRITISH AND CANADIAN TROOPS SWEPT ACROSS MESSINA STRAIT BEFORE DAWN TODAY AND SCRAMBLED ASHORE ON THE ITALIAN MAINLAND, QUICKLY ESTABLISHING THE FIRST ALLIED FOOTHOLD IN EUROPE PROPER.

BEFORE DAYBREAK ON THE FOURTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE OUTBREAK OF THE WAR, CROWDED INVASION BARGES, TROOP LANDING CRAFT AND AMPHIBIOUS JEEPS CREPT AWAY FROM THE SICILIAN SHORE UNDER COVER OF A HEAVY ARTILLERY BARRAGE AND CONVERGED ON THE BEACHES.

AS THE BARRAGE LIFTED FROM THE BEACHES THE MEN LEAPED ASHORE.

ARTILLERY FIRING FROM SICILY, ALLIED BOMBERS AND GUNS OF THE NAVY COOPERATED IN GIVING THE TOE OF ITALY A TERRIFIC POUNDING BEFORE THE INVASION COMMENCED.

SUCH WAS THE ACCURACY OF OUR ARTILLERY FIRING ACROSS THE STRAIT THT SOME ENEMY GUN POSITIONS ON THE OPPOSITE SHORE WERE KNOCKED OUT BEFORE THE FIRST TROOPS LANDED.

THE PRE-INVASION DARKNESS WAS DISSIPATED BY THE FLASHES OF HUNDREDS OF OUR GUNS POURING A CONTINUOUS STREAM OF HIGH EXPLOSIVES ON THE BEACHES AND THE ENEMY POSITIONS FURTHER INLAND.

THE FIRST TROOPS SOON WERE SCRAMBLING ASHORE AND OUR FIRST FOOTHOLD IN EUROPE HAD BEEN ESTABLISHED.

(THE ABOVE IS FOR IMMEDIATE PUBLICATION BUT MAY NOT BE BROADCAST BEFORE 7:30 P.M. EASTERN WAR TIME TODAY, FRIDAY, SEPT. 3)

SB450AEW

ADD ALLIED H-Q. S.W. PACIFIC xxx "NEWGUINEA"

ENCOUNTERING ONLY ANTI-AIRCRAFT OPPOSITION, TUESDAY'S RAIDERS IN THE MADANG AREA SKIMMED THE TREES TO POUR 90,000 ROUNDS OF MACHINEGUN AND CANNON FIRE INTO THE BEWILDERED JAPANESE. THE ATTACKERS STARTED 50 FIRES, SOME SENDING UP FLAMES FOR 1,500 FEET.

THERE WAS NO FURTHER REPORT ON THE FIGHTING AT SALAMAUA.

THE COMMUNIQUE REPORT ON THE SOLOMONS TOLD OF THE DESTRUCTION BY DIVE BOMBERS AND TORPEDO PLANES OF A FIVE-INCH COASTAL DEFENSE GUN, SEVERAL ARTILLERY POSITIONS AND A RADIO STATION AT VILA, KOLOMBANGARA.

FIVE TIMES TUESDAY, JAPANESE PLANES ATTEMPTED TO RAID AMERICAN POSITIONS ON VELLA LAVELLA ABOVE KOLOMBANGARA. PATROLLING WARHAWKS SHOT DOWN FIVE ENEMY DIVE BOMBERS. GROUND BATTERIES BAGGED FOUR OTHER PLANES.

SEP 4 1943

HW&DM1142PPW NM

BY WILLIAM F.BONI

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC,SEPT.3-(AP)-INDICATIVE OF THE HEIGHTENED TEMPO OF WAR IN THE PACIFIC, ALLIED PLANES DURING AUGUST TOOK THE LARGEST TOLL OF ENEMY AIRCRAFT YET REPORTED.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS' SUMMARY OF ITS AUGUST COMMUNIQUES TODAY DISCLOSED THE DESTRUCTION OF 534 JAPANESE PLANES AND THE PROBABLE ANNIHILATION OF 33 MORE AND THE DAMAGING OF 31.

ALLIED LOSSES FOR THE PERIOD WERE LISTED AT 145 PLANES, TWO THIRDS OF THEM BOMBERS.

A RECORD NUMBER OF JAPANESE PLANES -- 272 -- WERE DESTROYED ON THE GROUND. THE 312 DESTROYED IN THE AIR WERE CONSIDERABLY LESS THAN DURING JULY WHEN 421 WERE SHOT DOWN.

MOST OF THE PLANES DESTROYED ON THE GROUND WERE NOT IDENTIFIED AS TO TYPE. OF THE AUGUST TOLL, 67 WERE IDENTIFIED AS BOMBERS AND 255 AS FIGHTERS.

AUGUST ALSO SAW THE LONGEST BOMBING MISSION YET UNDERTAKEN IN THIS THEATER -- A 2,600-MILE FLIGHT TO BALIKPAPAN IN BORNEO, REPEATED THREE TIMES DURING THE MONTH.

SEP 4 1943

SUPPLY AND TROOP-CARRYING BARGES REPRESENTED THE GREATEST FIELD OF SHIPPING LOSSES FOR THE ENEMY DURING THE MONTH. MORE THAN 500 OF THESE SMALL CRAFT WERE DESTROYED, AND MANY MORE WERE DAMAGED.

THE ALLIES ALSO SANK A JAPANESE CRUISER, TWO DESTROYERS, TWO TENDERS, TEN MERCHANT SHIPS AND TANKERS. THEY PROBABLY SANK TWO DESTROYERS AND ONE MERCHANT SHIP, AND THEY DAMAGED A CRUISER, SIX DESTROYERS, TWO TANKERS AND 13 TRANSPORTS AND TANKERS.

AGAINST THESE, THE ALLIES HAD ONLY ONE ANNOUNCED LOSS -- A SHIP SUNK OFF NORTHERN AUSTRALIA.

FJ618ACW NM

(THE FOLLOWING STORY WAS WRITTEN BY STAFF SERGEANT EARLE W.JOHNSON, OF 224 1/2 MAIN STREET, NORTH LITTLE ROCK, ARK., A MARINE CORPS COMBAT CORRESPONDENT, AND SITRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC--(DELAYED)--PRIVATE FIRST CLASS JAMES O.WALKER, U.S.M.C., 22-YEAR-OLD SON OF MR. AND MRS.BERT WALKER OF IDAHO FALLS, IDAHO, HAS BEEN PRAISED BY HIS COMMANDING OFFICER FOR KILLING 11 JAPS ON VANGUNU IN THE NEW GEORGIA GROUP OF SOLOMON ISLANDS, DURING AN ATTACK BY MARINES IN JULY.

WALKER ACCOUNTED FOR SEVEN JAPS IN ONE MST. CARRYING A LIGHT MACHINE GUN, THE MARINE CIRCLED TO THE LEFT FLANK OF HIS SQUAD AND SCOUTED THROUGH THE JUNGLE.

SUDDENLY, HE SAW A JAP LIFT HIS HEAD ABOVE A LOG. AT THE SAME TIME HE HEARD A CLICKING SOUND CAUSED BY THW WORKING OF A BOLT

30.24-8021

30.24-8021

ON A MACHINEGUN. THE MARINE CONTINUED HIS CIRCLING MOVEMENT, AND STOPPED WITHIN FIVE YEARDS OF THE THE END OF THE LOG.

BEHIND THE LOG WERE SEVEN JAPS, LYING SIDE BY SIDE, AND WITH TWO .25 CALIBRE MACHINEGUNS BETWEEN THEM. ONEJAP WAS FRANTICALLY WORKING THE BOLT ON ONE GUN WHICH MADE WALKER BELIEVE THE WEAPON WAS JAMMED. THEIR ATTENTION MEMENTARILY DIVERTED TO THE GUN, THE JAPS DID NOT HEAR HIM AS HE CREPT WITHIN SIGHT.

THE IDAHO MARINE WIPED OUT THE JAPS WITH A LONG BURST OF MACHINEGUN FIRE.

"I WAS IN A PERFECT POSITION TO SPRAY THE NEST," HE SAID. "IT WAS NOTHING THAT ANY OTHER MARINE COULDN'T DO."

BACK AT THE MARINES' ORIGINAL POSITION, HEWAS FIRED ON BY A SNIPER. DUCKING INTO HEAVY BRUSH HE WAITED UNTIL HE COULD SPOT THE JAP. SUDDENLY, A GUST OF WIND BLEW BACK THE LEAVES OF A NEARBY TREE AND HE SAW A PLATFORM HIGH UP IN THE BRANCHES. HE RAISED HIS MACHINE GUN AND FIRED. THREE JAPS TUMBLED OUT AND FELL TO THE GROUND.

THE NEXT MORNING HE GOT NUMBER 11. HE SAW A LONG JAP WADE INTO A NARROW RIVER, ACROSS WHICH ENEMY GRENADES HAD HURTLED ALL NIGHT. A BURST OF MACHINE-GUN FIRE DROPPED HIM IN THE WATER.

VH920AEW

BY VERN HAUGLAND

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, SEPT. 1-(DELAYED)-(AP)-WAVES OF AMERICAN BOMBERS HAMMERED JAPANESE SUPPLY CENTERS, BARGE CONCENTRATIONS AND STAGING AREAS IN NORTH CENTRAL NEW GUINEA AND ALONG THE WESTERN END OF NEW BRITAIN TODAY WITHOUT INTERFERENCE FROM ENEMY PLANES.

(THIS ACTION WAS DISCLOSED IN TODAY'S COMMUNIQUE FROM GENERAL DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS).

JAPANESE INSTALLATIONS IN THE MADANG-ALEXISHAFEN AREA SHUDDERED UNDER THE IMPACT OF 206 TONS OF BOMBS. THE BOMBLOAD DROPPED ON ALEXISHAFEN WAS ONE OF THE GREATEST EVER USED AGAINST THAT POINT.

FLYING FORTRESSES BOMBED LABU ISLAND STORAGE BASE IN THE MOUTH OF THE MARKHAM RIVER OFF LAE. B-26 MARTIN AND B-25 MITCHELL MEDIUM BOMBERS SWEPT NEW BRITAIN FROM REIN BAY ON THE NORTH COAST AROUND THE TIP TO CAPE BUSCHING. STORES AND SUPPLIES IN BORGEN BAY WERE DEMOLISHED.

THE JAPANESE SENT UP HEAVY ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE, ESPECIALLY AT ALEXISHAFEN BUT FAILED TO OFFER ANY AERIAL INTERCEPTION ANYWHERE.

MORE THAN A HUNDRED BOMBERS WITH LAROE FIGHTER ESCORT TOOK PART IN THE DAY-LONG SERIES OF SWEEPS. ALL PLANES RETURNED SAFELY.

TWO AIR STRIPS AT ALEXISHAFEN WERE EMPTY OF PLANES EXCEPT FOR ONE AIRCRAFT UNDER HEAVY CAMOUFLAGE. SHARP-EYED 2ND LT. JAMES WARNER, OTTUMWA, IOWA, BOMBARDIER AND CO-PILOT IN A B-25, SPOTTED THE PLANE AND DROPPED HIS BOMBS ON IT.

TECH.SGT. JAMES JOHNSON, HAVERHILL, MASS., GUNNER IN ANOTHER B-25 FORMATION, SAID HE COULD SEE THE GROUNDED PLANE BURNING VIOLENTLY.

ONE FORMATION OF MITCHELL MEDIUM BOMBERS WAS CREDITED WITH DESTROYING 14 BARGES OUT OF A LARGE CONCENTRATION AROUND ALEXISHAFEN. ONE B-25 PILOTED BY 1ST LT. MAX MORTENSON, CHAMPAIGNE, ILL., DESTROYED FIVE OF THE CRAFT.

MITCHELLS PILOTED BY 1ST LTS. GEORGE COOPER, SOUTH FORK, PA., AND JACK GEORGE OF WESTALLIS, WIS., TEAMED TO DESTROY ONE BARGE.

STRAFING IT HEAVILY.

IN ANOTHER B-25, STAFF SGT.NEIL FIORELLO, 544 NORTH 53RD, PHILADELPHIA, GUNNER, SAID HE STRAFED THE JAPANESE HEADQUARTERS BUILDING ON ADMOSIN ISLAND NEAR ALEXISHAFEN "SO THOROUGHLY, I BET ITS NOT THE HEADQUARTERS ANY MORE."

B-25S IN WHICH STAFF SGT.ISADORE BARON, 2045 UNION STREET, BROOKLYN,N.Y., AND JOE FEZIO, PAULSBORO,N.J., WERE GUNNERS, STRAFED ENEMY INSTALLATIONS ALONG BOGADJIM ROAD AFTER HITTING ALEXISHAFEN.

SEP 4 1943

ONE OF THE HEAVIEST B-25 ATTACKS UPON ALEXISHAFEN DURING THE DAY WAS LED BY THE VETERAN PILOT, CAPT.WILLIAM GAY, MIAMI,FLA. MEDIUM BOMBERS STARTED SEVEN LARGE FIRES AND A NUMBER OF SMALL ONES AND SILENCED SEVERAL MACHINE GUN AND ANTI-AIRCRAFT POSTS, CLEARING THE WAY FOR THE HIGH-FLYING HEAVY BOMBERS.

SUCCESSIVE FORMATIONS OF B-24 LIBERATOR HEAVY BOMBERS DROPPED ALMOST A HUNDRED THOUSAND-POUND BOMBS UPON THE ALEXISHAFEN TARGET AREA WITH "EXCELLENT RESULTS."

1ST LT.HOWARD R.THOMAS, ENDICOTT,N.Y., CO-PILOT IN A LIBERATOR FLOWN BY 1ST LT.JOHN E.BOND, SMICKSHINNY,PA., SAID HE SAW ONE TERRIFIC EXPLOSION, EVIDENTLY FROM A HIT ON AN AMMUNITION DUMP. HE ALSO REPORTED SEEING SEVERAL HUGE FIRES.

THE BARRACKS AREA ALSO WAS HIT AND PERSONNEL DESTRUCTION PROBABLY WAS GREAT.

B-17 FLYING FORTRESSES CONCENTRATED ON JAPANESE MUNITION AND FOOD STORES ON LABU ISLAND. 2ND LT.HENRY BYMINSKI, SYRACUSE,N.Y., WAS AMONG FORTRESS PILOTS REPORTING THE RAID A GREAT SUCCESS.

FJ636ACW

CHUNGKING--SECOND ADD AERIAL XXX MANY KILLED. SEP 4 1943

MEANWHILE, A BELATED REPORT FROM THE HEADQUARTERS OF MAJ.-GEN. CLAIRE L.CHENNAULT'S 14TH AIRFORCE SAID THAT AMERICAN P-40 FIGHTERS STRAFING JAPANESE SHIPPING ON THE YANGTZE RIVER LAST FRIDAY LEFT A 125-FOOT STEAMER AND A 65-FOOT BOAT BURNING NEAR YUCHOW. A GUNBOAT AND ANOTHER SMALL STEAMER ALSO WERE SHOT-UP DURING THE ATTACK.

OTHER SHARK-MOUTHED FIGHTERS LED BY CAPT.MARTIN LUBNER OF MONTGOMERY, ALA., RAKED A JAPANESE TROOP TRUCK CONVOY, RAILWAY CARS AND A WATER TOWER.

ANOTHER FLIGHT LED BY MAJ.ROBERT COSTELLO, OF 1661 ECHO PARK, LOS ANGELES, CAUGHT THE SAME CONVOY AND DAMAGED 15 OF THE REMAINING TRUCKS, LEAVING FOUR OF THEM BURNING.

XB1139PEW

AUCKLAND, N.Z., SEPT.3-(AP)-ASSISTANT U.S.SECRETARY OF WAR ROBERT PATTERSON DECLARED TODAY AT A PRESS CONFERENCE THAT "THE BOMBING OF TOKYO IS COMING AGAIN, JUST AS SURE AS YOU ARE BORN."

PATTERSON AND LIEUT.GEN.WILLIAM S.KNUDSEN ARRIVED HERE TODAY FROM AUSTRALIA TO VISIT U.S.TROOPS AND MILITARY INSTALLATIONS.

THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF WAR, DECLARING HE WAS ANXIOUS TO CORRECT THE IMPRESSION THAT THERE ARE TWO WARS GOING ON--ONE IN EUROPE AND THE OTHER IN THE PACIFIC SAID:

"IT IS ALL THE SAME WAR AND IT IS OF TREMENDOUS PROPORTIONS. ALL STRATEGICAL PLANS ARE BEING MAPPED OUT FROM THAT POINT OF VIEW. ANY OTHER APPROACH TO THE PROBLEM OF DEFEATING THE VAST MILITARY POWER OF THE ENEMY IS MANIFESTLY IMPOSSIBLE."

PATTERSON AND KNUDSEN PLAN TO CONFER WITH NEW ZEALAND MILITARY AND POLITICAL LEADERS DURING THEIR VISIT.

XB1153PEW

30 24 - 8023

30.24-8023

ADD CANBERRA-ROOSEVELT (EUNSON) XXX ZEALAND"

CANBERRA, ABLAZE WITH GOLDEN ACACIAS, PROVIDED MILD SPRING WEATHER FOR HER ARRIVAL. THOUSANDS OF CITIZENS FORSOOK WORK TO GIVE AN ENTHUSIASTIC WELCOME TO THE AMERICAN PRESIDENT'S WIFE. CROWDS THRONGED FAIRBAIRN AIRDROME SOME MILES FROM THE CITY AND ALSO WAITED OUTSIDE PARLIAMENT HOUSE AS SHE WAS DRIVEN TO GOVERNMENT HOUSE.

HER OFFICIAL PARTY INCLUDED AMERICAN MINISTER NELSON T.JOHNSON, REAR ADMIRAL CAREY JONES, MAJ.GEN.CLARK EICHELBERGER, MAJ.GEORGE BURNS AND COL.W.R.HODGSON, AUSTRALIAN SECRETARY OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS.

SEP 4 1943

MRS.ROOSEVELT, AFTER INSPECTING A ROYAL AUSTRALIAN AIR FORCE HONOR GUARD, SCHEDULED NO FURTHER ENGAGEMENTS FOR THE DAY. SHE DINED INFORMALLY AT GOVERNMENT HOUSE.

TOMORROW SHE IS TO INSPECT THE NEW AMERICAN LEGATION, CALL ON U.S. NAVY PERSONNEL, VISIT A DEFENSE SERVICES WELFARE HUT AND BE THE GUEST OF PRIME MINISTER CURTIN AT A STATE LUNCHEON. A FORMAL DINNER AND RECEPTION WAS TO FOLLOW AT GOVERNMENT HOUSE.

MRS.ROOSEVELT WILL APPEAR BEFORE THE AUSTRALIAN PARLIAMENT, THE SECOND AMERICAN TO BE ACCORDED THAT HONOR. GENERAL DOUGLAS MACARTHUR, COMMANDING ALLIED TROOPS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, ALSO HAS BEEN GUEST OF PARLIAMENT.

FJG07ACW

HOWITZERS STOP JAP INFILTRATION
ON NEW GEORGIA
--
U.S.SOLDIERS KISS
GUNS IN GRATITUDE
FOR SAVING LIVES (950)
BY LEIF ERICKSON

(ADVANCE)-HONOLULU,SEPT 3 (AP)-THE PERFORMANCE OF U.S.ARMY FIELD ARTILLERY WAS ONE OF THE MOST DECISIVE FACTORS IN AMERICAN CONQUEST OF NEW GEORGIA AND ITS MUNDA AIRFIELD.

GENERALS, CORRESPONDENTS, AND INFANTRY DOUGHBOYS ARE UNANIMOUS ON THAT. JAPANESE PRISONERS GIVE THE SAME VERDICT.

MAJ.GEORGE P.GUTHRIE, 38, COLUMBUS, OHIO, AND MAJ.ROBERT W. KENNY, 41, PROVIDENCE, R.I., WERE TWO KEY MEN BEHIND THOSE FIELD HOWITZERS--GUNS THAT ACTUALLY WERE KISSED BY INFANTRY OFFICERS AND MEN IN GRATEFULNESS FOR SAVING THEIR LIVES.

AS AN OHIO STATE SOPHOMORE OF 19, GUTHRIE RAN THE 120-YARD HIGH HURDLES IN THE 1924 PARIS OLYMPIC GAMES. HE WAS BUYING HIGHWAY MATERIALS AND EQUIPMENT IN THE OHIO STATE GOVERNMENT'S PURCHASING DEPARTMENT WHEN CALLED TO ACTIVE DUTY WITH HIS NATIONAL GUARD OUTFIT IN 1941.

NEATLY-MUSTACHED MAJOR KENNY WAS A BROWN UNIVERSITY PHILOLOGIST "IN LOVE WITH LOVELY LETTERS" WHEN HIS NATIONAL GUARD REGIMENT WAS CALLED TO SERVICE. HIS LOVE FOR LITERATURE NOW RANKS SECOND TO INFATUATION WITH HIS GUNS.

"OUR ARTILLERY ACCOMPLISHED TWO IMPORTANT THINGS," EXPLAINED MAJOR GUTHRIE.

SEP 4 1943

"FIRST, WE MESSED UP COMPLETELY THE JAPS' TACTIC OF NIGHT INFILTRATION AND HARRASSING ATTACK IN THE JUNGLE. THAT WAS THE KIND OF THING THEY GOT AWAY WITH ON GUADALCANAL AND MADE THINGS SO TOUGH THERE.

"OUR NIGHT ARILLERY FIRE JUST PINNED 'EM TO THE GROUND. THEY GAVE UP TRYING THAT KIND OF STUFF.

"SECOND, OUR SHELLS BLASTED OPEN THE JUNGLE, SWEEPING AWAY TREES, VINES AND FOLIAGE. THEN OUR INFANTRY COULD SEE WHERE THE JAPS WERE. ONCE OUR BOYS COULD SEE WHAT THEY WERE FIGHTING, THE JOB BECAME SIMPLE."

SEP 4 1943

AT THE START OF THE MUNDA OFFENSIVE, THE JAPANESE DID TRY THEIR NIGHT INFILTRATIONS TO SANDPAPER THE NERVES OF FRONT LINE SOLDIERS WITH YELLS, DERISIVE SHOUTS IN ENGLISH, AND BLASTS OF CLOSEIN GUNFIRE.

IN ONE SUCH ATTACK, THEY WOULD HAVE SUCCEEDED IN SURROUNDING AND WIPING OUT THE 43RD DIVISION COMMAND POST IF A RECKLESSLY CLOSE COVERING BARRAGE OF HOWITZER FIRE HAD NOT STOPPED THEM.

BRIG.GEN.HAROLD BARKER, OF PROVIDENCE, R.I., DIVISION ARTILLERY COMMANDER, WAS IN THE COMMAND POST ON WHICH THE ENEMY PRESSED SOON AFTER DUSK.

THE SUPERIOR ENEMY FORCE WOULD HAVE OVERPOWERED THE C.P.DEFENDERS AND MOST OF THE DIVISION STAFF IF GENERAL BARKER HADN'T CALLED HIS HOWITZERS FAR BACK ON BARAULU ISLAND INTO ACTION.

JUDGING HIS RANGES ENTIRELY BY SOUND, GENERAL BARKER GRADUALLY CLOSED DOWN THE FIRST GUN UNTIL HE COULD HEAR SHELL FRAGMENTS RIPPING THROUGH THE TREES.

FINALLY HE GAVE THE WORD TO THE FIRE DIRECTOR CENTER ACROSS ROVIANA LAGOON, IN WHICH MAJOR GUTHRIE WAS STATIONED, TO OPEN UP WITH THREE MORE HOWITZERS. FOR NEARLY 12 HOURS UNTIL DAWN, THE BARAULU ISLAND BATTERY RINGED THE C.P. WITH A PROTECTIVE BARRAGE OF SHELLS, DROPPING LITTLE MORE THAN 50 YARDS OUTSIDE THE C.P.PERIMETER.

IT WAS THE MEN FROM THIS POST, GUTHRIE SAID, WHO CAME OUT TO THE HOWITZER BATTERY NEXT DAY AND, "BY GOD, ACTUALLY KISSED THE GUNS."

SEP 4 1943

"THAT WAS SOMETHING TO SEE. THOSE MEN TOLD US AND THEY MEANT IT, 'YOU SAVED OUR LIVES!'"

THROUGHOUT THE NEW GEORGIA CAMPAIGN, GENERAL BARKER PERSONALLY DID MUCH OF THE SCOUTING AND TARGET-FINDING FROM THE FRONT LINES. OFTEN HE WENT OUT WITH SCOUTING PARTIES INTO THE JUNGLE NO MAN'S LAND. ON AT LEAST ONE OCCASION HE WAS LUCKY TO COME BACK.

"THE GENERAL IS ALL NERVES AND ENERGY. I THINK THAT'S WHY HE PICKED LT.'PETE' PETERSILL FOR HIS AIDE. PETE ALWAYS WENT WITH THE GENERAL, AND PETE IS A BIG, RUGGED GUY, ALWAYS CALM AND COOL AS A CUCUMBER," GUTHRIE SAID.

"ONE DAY THE GENERAL AND PETE WENT SCOUTING AHEAD OF OUR LINE. THEY RAN INTO TWO JAP MACHINEGUN POSTS. AFTER THEY'D HIT THE FIRT, THEY FOUND THEY WERE CUT OFF WITH THE FIRE OF THOSE MACHINE GUNS CONVERGING BEHIND THEM.

"PETE ROLLED OVER TO MAKE ROOM FOR A PRIVATE IN A DEPRESSION IN THE GROUND. JUST THEN A MACHINE GUN BURST SMACKED THE PRIVATE THROUGH THE CHEST. HE WAS DEAD IN THE SPOT WHERE PETE HAD BEEN SECONDS BEFORE.

"AFTER THAT, THE GENERAL AND PETE DECIDED, 'WHAT THE HELL, THIS IS NO PLACE TO HANG AROUND. WE'D BETTER GET OUT OF HERE.'

"ON THE WAY OUT A SOLDIER AHEAD OF THE GENERAL WAS HIT AND KILLED. PETE WAS BEHIND THE GENERAL. A SOLDIER BEHIND PETE GOT IT. THE GENERAL AND PETE GOT BACK ALONG. THEY WERE REALLY LUCKY."

ARTILLERYMEN OBSERVERS FLYING OVER MUNDA IN PLANES GUIDED THE FIRE OF FIELD GUNS EFFECTIVELY.

3024—8025

3024-8025

"THOSE BOYS WOULD GET TIRED OF NOT BEING ABLE TO SEE ANYTHING," GUTHRIE REPORTED. "SO THEY'D COME RIGHT DOWN OVER THE TREES TO GET THE JAPS TO OPEN UP ON THEM. THEY DID THAT A COUPLE OF TIMES TOO OFTEN. THEY WERE SHOT DOWN."

ONE AERIAL OBSERVER, LT.W.B.CRAIG, WAS SHOT DOWN TWICE, BUT WAS RESCUED BOTH TIMES BY PLUTO, A CRASH RESCUE BOAT.

SEP 4 1943

"I HEARD HIM ON THE RADIO SAYING, "THIS PLANE'S ON FIRE.' THAT WAS ALL. THEY HEADED OUT FOR WATER AND WE LATER HEARD THEY WERE PICKED UP ALL RIGHT," GUTHRIE SAID.

"ONE OF THESE OBSERVERS SPOTTED OUR FIRE ONE DAY AND HAD US HITTING RIGHT ON A JAP STRONG POINT. HE COULD SEE JAPS RUNNING OUT FROM THERE AND HE GAVE US A QUICK RANGE CHANGE.

"WE FIRED HIS NEW RANGE AND THEN HE TOLD US, 'GOOD WORK. YOU HIT RIGHT IN THOSE JAPS. I SAW ARMS AND LEGS FLYING.'

"I PASSED THE WORD ON TO THE MEN WORKING OUR GUNS. WERE THEY PROUD! YOU COULD HAVE HEARD THEIR CHEERS ALL OVER NEW GEORGIA," GUTHRIE DECLARED.

(END AP SPECIEL ADVANCE FOR USE IN PMS OF FRIDAY SEPT 3; MOVED SEPT 1)

CG1230PCW

HEADQUARTERS ALASKA DEFENSE COMMAND, SEPT.3-(AP)-HARRY B. HUMBERT OF AKRON, OHIO, (860 MAIN STREET), HAS BEEN PROMOTED TO LIEUTENANT COLONEL, IT WAS ANNOUNCED TODAY BY LT.VEN.SIMON BOLIVAR BUCKNER, JR., COMMANDING THE ALASKA DEFENSE COMMAND.

PROMOTED TO THE RANK OF MAJOR WERE:

JOHN L.BINDER, PARK AVE., BARNEBORO, PENN.
WILLIAM W.FARINHOLT, 209 S.JEFFERSON ST., PETERSBURG, VA.
JOSEPH O.FLORA, 328 BARTON AVE., INDIANAPOLIS, IND.
HARRY N.FREEMAN, RED 8, WHITE BEAR LAKE, MINN.
PAUL V.MEYER, 324 CLARK ST., MANKATO, MINN.
JACK E.MORGAN, 332 PRAIRIE ST., CHARLOTTE, MICH.
FLOYD E.POTTER, 1019 9TH AVE., FARGO, N.D.
MILTON S.SASLAW, 1898 S.W. 4TH AVE., MIAMI, FLA.
ROBERT N.TINDALL, 4928 GENEVIEVE AVE., ST.LOUIS, MO.

FR1002PCW

RIO DE JANEIRO,SEPT. 2 -(AP)- AIR MINISTER SALGADO,JR.,OF BRAZIL WAS AWARDED THE UNITED STATES LEGION OF MERIT IN THE GRADE OF COMMANDER TONIGHT AT SPEDIAL CEREMONIES - THE FIRST EVER HELD AT THE NEW U.S. EMBASSY HERE.

THE PRESENTATION WAS MADE BY MAJ. GEN. HENRY PRATT, COMMANDER OF THE U.S. ARMY'S PUERTO RICO DEPARTMENT,WHO CAME HERE BY PLANE.

THE AWARD WAS MADE TO SALGADO FOR THE EFFECTIVE C OLLORBORATION OF THE BRAZILIAN AIR FORCE WITH THE WAR EFFORT OF THE UNITED NATIONS.

SEP 4 1943

EE1208AEW

SAN JUAN,PUERTO RICO,SEPT 3,1943 - (AP) - SEN. HUGH BUTLER(R.-NEB.) ARRIVED IN SAN JUAN YESTERDAY AFTER COMPLETEING WHAT HE DESCRIBED

SAN JUAN,PUERTO RICO,SEPT 3. - (AP) - SEN. HUGH BUTLER (R.-NEB.) ARRIVED IN SAN JUAN YESTERDAY AFTER COMPLETING WHAT HE DESCRIBED AS " A MOST SUCCESSFUL TRIP THROUGHOUT SOUTH AMERICA". HE PLANS TO LEAVE FOR THE UNITED STATES SHORTLY.

TA411AEW

PORT OF SPAIN, TRINIDAD, SEPT 3-(AP)-TRINIDAD NOW IS BEING GARRISONED BY TROOPS FROM PUERTO RICO, UNITED STATES POSSESSION IN THE WEST INDIES. THE FIRST DETACHMENT ARRIVED HERE RECENTLY TO TAKE ITS PLACE BESIDE BRITISH, AMERICAN AND OTHER UNITED NATIONS FORCES.

MAJ.GEN.JOSEPH D.PATCH, COMMANDING OFFICER IN THE TRINIDAD SECTOR, WROTE AN OFFICIAL WELCOME TO THE TROOPS IN THE SEPT.3 ISSUE OF TNT (THE TRINIDAD NEWS TIPS), ORGAN OF THE UNITED STATES ARMY IN THIS AREA.

SEP 4 1943

KK1256AEW

OTTAWA, FRIDAY, SEPT 3--(AP)-LANDING OF CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY TODAY, ALONG WITH THE BRITISH 8TH ARMY, MARKS THE THIRD TIME IN LESS THAN TWO MONTHS THAT CANADIAN SOLDIERS HAVE MOVED INTO ENEMY-HELD TERRITORY.

SICILY, KISKA AND NOW ITALY BROUGHT TO CANADIANS AT HOME A REALIZATION OF EARLIER OFFICIAL PROPHESIES THAT 1943 WOULD SEE CANADIAN LAND FORCES COMING TO GRIPS WITH THE ENEMY AFTER NEARLY FOUR YEARS OF TRAINING.

THERE WAS NO IMMEDIATE STATEMENT FROM PRIME MINISTER W. L. MACKENZIE-KING OR OTHER OFFICIALS IN OTTAWA REGARDING THE INVASION. AT HIS OFFICE IT WAS LEARNED HE WAS INFORMED IN ADVANCE OF THE MOVE.

THE CANADIAN UNITS FORMING PART OF THE ASSAULT FORCE WERE NOT IDENTIFIED IN OVERSEAS ANNOUNCEMENTS. THE 1ST CANADIAN DIVISION TOOK PART IN THE SICILY CAMPAIGN AND HAS BEEN DUBBED ONE OF THE VETERAN DIVISIONS OF THE EIGHTH ARMY BY GEN. SIR BERNARD L. MONTGOMERY, THE ARMY'S COMMANDER.

MK330AEW

ottawa, sept. 3 (ap) - flying officer gerald louis barker of niagara falls, n. y., is missing on active service overseas, the royal canadian air force reported in a casualty list tonight.

his wife lives at 5602 buffalo ave., niagara falls.

pilot officer laurence maurice clark of hollywood, calif., previously reported missing, now is officially presumed dead.

SEP 4 1943

his father, a. b. clark, lives at 1401 n. mansfield ave., hollywood.

a canadian army casualty list reported pvt. allan elmer parkhurst of phillips, wis., killed in action during the sicily campaign. his father, harry parkhurst, lives at phillips.

ottawa, sept. 3 (ap) - pvt. donald allen macaskill (cap A) of brookline, mass., was listed as wounded in action during the sicily campaign in a canadian army casualty list tonight. his next-of-kin, mrs. c. c. chapman, a sister, lives at 54 jordan road, brookline.

rk - cp 13-835p

OTTAWA, SEPT 3-(AP)-FLT.SGT.DOUG NELSON OF BUFFALO, N.Y., HIT AND KNOCKED OUT BY CANNON FIRE AND HIS PARACHUTE TORN TO PIECES, PARTICIPATED IN ONE OF THE NARROWEST AERIAL ESCAPES OF THE WAR.

THE BOMBER IN WHICH HE WAS BOMB AIMER WAS SURPRISED BY A GERMAN FIGHTER OVER THE NETHERLANDS COAST AND RAKED WITH CANNON FIRE AT CLOSE RANGE, AN RCAF OFFICER OVERSEAS DISCLOSED TODAY. ALL WIRELESS AND

30.24-8027

INTERCOMMUNICATION EQUIPMENT WAS KNOCKED OUT OF ACTION AND THE LANDING WHEELS WERE JAMMED IN THE "UP" POSITION. THEN FIRE STARTED IN THE FUSELAGE.

THE PILOT, SGT.DAVE MCMASTER SMITH OF WINNIPEG PUT OUT THE FIRE BY DIVING 8,000 FEET AND "BLOWING" IT OUT. THE NEXT THING WAS TO GET HOME, ESPECIALLY URGENT BECAUSE HIS PARACHUTE HAD BEEN SHOT OUT OF THE PLANE BY A SHELL AND NELSON'S RIPPED TO PIECES. AND ALSO BECAUSE WITH NO WIRELESS EQUIPMENT TO CALL FOR HELP THERE WAS LITTLE CHANCE OF BEING PICKED UP IF THEY CAME DOWN AT SEA.

SEP 4 1943

SMITH GOT THE AIRCRAFT HOME, BUT IS NOT QUITE SURE HOW HE DID IT. HE WAS AWARDED THE MAUVE-AND-WHITE RIBBON OF THE DISTINGUISHED FLYING MEDAL.

RN 412PEW

BY JOHN M.HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON,SEPT 3-(AP)-A PROMISE OF DEVASTATING NAVAL AND AERIAL BLOWS ON THE JAPANESE HOMELAND INDICATED TODAY THAT THE UNITED STATES FLEET, WITH ITS GROWING ARMADA OF CARRIER-BORNE PLANES, IS PREPARING SWIFTLY TO JOIN IN A FOUR-PRONGED OFFENSIVE IN ASIA AND THE PACIFIC THIS FALL.

THE SEPT. 1 RAID ON MARCUS ISLAND, ONLY 1,200 MILES FROM TOKYO, HINTED AT MIGHTY OPERATIONS TO COME, AND THIS PORTENT HAS NOW BEEN TRANSLATED INTO PLAIN WORDS BY VICE ADMIRAL JOHN S.MCCAIN, DEPUTY CHIEF OF NAVAL OPERATIONS FOR AIR.

"THE ATTACK ON MARCUS IS ONLY A TOKEN," HE SAID IN A RADIO BROADCAST LAST NIGHT. "SUCH BLOWS WILL INCREASE IN TEMPO, IN POWER AND IN FURY UNTIL FINALLY--FOR JAPAN--IN CONTINUOUS ATTACK WE LAY WASTE IN BLOOD AND ASHES THE HOME ISLANDS OF THIS TREACHEROUS, BRUTAL AND SAVAGE PEOPLE.".

MC CAIN REPORTED THAT AIRCRAFT CARRIER PLANE STRENGTH IS NOW DOUBLE WHAT IT WAS AT THE START OF THE WAR, WHICH WOULD PUT IT AT ABOUT 1,100 PLANES, AND "IS RAPIDLY GROWING." HE ADDED THAT SEA AND AIR FORCES ARE BEING COORDINATED IN STRENGTH SO GREAT "THAT WE EVENTUALLY WILL SINK THE MAJOR PART OF JAPAN'S FLEET."

"WE ARE GOING TO KNOCK EVERY FIGHTING AND BOMBING PLANE SHE HAS OUT OF THE AIR," HE SAID. "OUR ATTACKS ON JAPAN HERSELF WILL SPEARHEAD OUR GROUND FORCES ADVANCE ON TOKYO AND THE HEART OF THE NIPPONESE EMPIRE."A15WX

SEP 4 1943

THE FINAL GO-AHEAD SIGNAL FOR THE VAST NEW OFFENSIVE DOUBTLES WAS GIVEN AT THE QUEBEC CONFERENCE LAST WEEK, ALTHOUGH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL IN THEIR CONTINUING MEETINGS HERE MAY FURTHER REVIEW THE GENERAL STRATEGY DESIGNED TO CARRY THE WAR DIRECTLY TO JAPAN.

MCCAIN'S EMPHASIS ON THE IMPORTANCE OF THE MARCUS RAID, DETAILS OF WHICH HAD NOT YET BEEN RELEASED BY THE NAVY, WAS BUT EHE LATEST OF A NUMBER OF OFFICIAL DISCLOSURES WHICH BEGAN WITH ANNOUNCEMENTS AT QUEBEC AND WHICH, TAKEN TOGETHER, SUGGEST CAMPAIGNS AGAINST THE JAPANESE FROM FOUR DIRECTIONS:

1. NORTH PACIFIC, BY AMERICAN AND CANADIAN FORCES BASED IN THE ALEUTIANS.

VICE-ADMIRAL THOMAS KINKAID, COMMANDER IN THIS AREA, CALLS IT "THE SHORT ROUTE TO TOKYO."

2. CENTRAL PACIFIC, BY AMERICAN FORCES BASED ON THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS AND FORWARD OUTPOSTS SUCH AS MIDWAY. HERE ADMIRAL CHESTER W. NIMITZ, PACIFIC FLEET CHIEF, IS IN COMMAND WITH THE MAIN PACIFIC NAVAL FORCES AT HIS DISPOSAL.

3. SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, BY AMERICAN AND ANZAC FORCES BASED ON NEW GUINEA AND THE SOLOMON ISLANDS UNDER DIRECTION OF GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR.

4. BURMA, BY BRITISH AND AMERICAN FORCES BASED ON INDIA IN COORDINATION WITH UNITED STATES AIR UNITS AND CHINESE GROUND TROOPS BASED ON CHINA.

SEP 4 1943

IN ALL OF THESE AREAS EXTENSIVE PREPARATIONS HAVE BEEN UNDERWAY FOR MONTHS. THE IMPORTANCE OF THE BURMA THEATER, THROUGH WHICH PASSES THE ONLY PRACTICABLE SUPPLY ROUTE TO FREE CHINA, WAS POINTED UP BY THE QUEBEC ANNOUNCEMENT THAT LORD LOUIS MOUNTBATTEN, THE BRITISH COMMANDO CHIEF, HAD BEEN GIVEN SUPREME COMMAND THERE WITH ORDERS TO UNDERTAKE VIGOROUS PROSECUTION OF THE WAR AGAINST JAPAN.

THE PROSPECTIVE BURMA OPERATIONS MORE OR LESS FIX THE TIME FOR THE WHOLE GIGANTIC OFFENSIVE TO GET ROLLING. THE MONSOON SEASON THERE SHOULD END EARLY NEXT MONTH, AND FULL-SCALE MILITARY ACTION THEN WILL BECOME POSSIBLE. IT MAY BE EXPECTED THAT MOUNTBATTEN, A DARING AND AGGRESSIVE COMMANDER, WILL MOVE AT THE FIRST OPPORTUNITY.

ABOUT THAT TIME TOO THE FORCES UNDER MACARTHUR IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC MAY HAVE COMPLETED AND CONSOLIDATED THEIR MOST IMPORTANT POSITIONS FOR GOING INTO THE NEXT STAGE OF THEIR DRIVE, AN ASSAULT DIRECTLY ON RABAUL OR SOME OTHER JAPANESE BASTION IN THAT PART OF THE OCEAN.

THE MARCUS RAID HEIGHTENED ANTICIPATION HERE OF MAJOR ACTIONS IN THE CENTRAL PACIFIC LATE THIS SUMMER AND FALL BY SHOWING THAT THE PACIFIC FLEET HAS NOW ACCUMULATED SUFFICIENT SHIPS AND PLANES TO VENTURE DEEP INTO ENEMY-DOMINATED WATERS. UNLESS THE JAPANESE FLEET, BY SOME ACTION MORE BOLD AND SUCCESSFUL THAN ANY IN RECENT MONTHS, IS ABLE TO REESTABLISH ITS SURPEMACY IN THOSE WATERS, THE MAIN JAPANESE ISLANDS ARE HIGHLY VULNERABLE.

SEP 4 1943

THIS VOLNERABILITY EXTENDS NOT ONLY TO AMERICAN FORCES OPERATING FROM HAWAII BUT ALSO TO THOSE IN THE ALEUTIANS. WITH EVACUATION OF KISKA ISLAND BY THE ENEMY, AMERICAN FORCES IN THE ALEUTIANS CAME INTO UNDISPUTED POSSESSION OF A NORTH PACIFIC ISLAND BRIDGE STRETCHING TO WITHIN 800 STATUTE MILES OF JAPAN'S NORTHERN DEFENSES IN THE KURILES.

THREE AIR RAIDS ALREADY HAVE BEEN ANNOUNCED AGAINST THE NORTHERNMOST OF THESE POSITIONS ON PARAMUSHIRO ISLAND AND OTHERS ARE SCHEDULED WITH INCREASING FREQUENCY AS OUR ALEUTIANS BASES, PARTICULARLY ON KISKA AND ATTU, ARE CONSOLIDATED AND REINFORCED.

THAT THEY WILL BE MADE INTO POWERFUL OFFENSIVE POSITIONS WAS INDICATED YESTERDAY BY ACTING SECRETARY OF WAR JOHN J.MCCLOY, WHO HAS JUST RETURNED FROM THE ALEUTIANS. HE SAID HE HAD BEEN GREATLY IMPRESSED BY WHAT HE SAW OF THE ISLANDS AND THEIR "CAPACITIES AND POSSIBILITIES."

VH327AEW

NEW YORK SEPT 3-(AP)-POVILAS ZADEIKIS, LITHUANIAN MINISTER TO THE UNITED STATES, SAYS IN A LETTER TO THE NEW YORK TIMES THAT "IMPERIALISTIC AMBITIONS" OF BOTH SOVIET RUSSIA AND NAZI GERMANY CONCERNING LITHUANIA SHOULD BE "ELIMINATED FOR ALL TIME."

30.24-8029

THE LETTER, WRITTEN FROM WASHINGTON, SAID:

"AT PRESENT, WHEN BOTH LITHUANIA'S GREAT NEIGHBORS--SOVIET RUSSIA AND NAZI GERMANY--ARE LAYING CLAIM TO HER TERRITORY, ONE BY ENLISTING HER INTO THE MEMBERSHIP OF THE SOVIET UNION, THE OTHER BY MAKING HER PART OF NAZI OSTLAND, THE MOST JUST AND PRACTICAL SOLUTION OF THE PROBLEM SEEMS EVIDENT:

"THE IMPERIALISTIC AMBITIONS OF BOTH CONTENDERS SHOULD BE CURBED AND ELIMINATED FOR ALL TIME. LITHUANIAN TERRITORY MUST BE RETURNED TO ITS RIGHTFUL MASTER, THE LITHUANIAN PEOPLE."

"THE PRESTIGE OF THE ATLANTIC CHARTER AMONG AXIS-ENSLAVED NATIONS AND THE MIGHT OF THE UNITED NATIONS CAN ACCOMPLISH THAT. APPEASEMENT WOULD BE TOO DANGEROUS.

SEP 4 1943

"AFTER THE NAZIS ARE DRIVEN OUT, LITHUANIA WILL PREFER TO BASE HER FUTURE RELATIONS WITH THE SOVIET UNION ON THE MOSCOW TREATY OF JULY 12, 1920, BY WHICH RUSSIA VOLUNTARILY AND FOREVER RENOUNCED ALL RIGHTS OF SOVEREIGNTY OVER LITHUANIA IN FAVOR OF THE LITHUANIAN NATION. SURELY THE LIBERTY-LOVING SOVIET UNION WILL NOT DENY THE SAME LIBERTY AND INDEPENDENCE TO HER SMALLER NEIGHBORS."

DECLARING HE WROTE BECAUSE SEVERAL READERS OF THE TIMES WISHED TO KNOW HIS ATTITUDE, ZADEIKIS SAID "THE LITHUANIAN SOVIET TREATY OF OCT.10, 1939, THE TREATY OF MUTUAL ASSISTANCE WHICH PERMITTED SOVIET GARRISONS--A MODERN TROJAN HORSE--TO BE STATIONED ON LITHUANIAN SOIL" WAS MADE "ONLY TO BE BROKEN BY THE STRONGER PARTY."

KK106AEW

UNDATED CANADIAN (WITH INVASION)

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE CANADIAN FORCE WHICH TOOK PART IN THE ALLIED LANDINGS IN ITALY TODAY IS BELIEVED TO BE THE BATTLE-TESTED 1ST DIVISION, COMMANDED BY MAJ.-GEN.GUY SIMONDS OF KINGSTON, ONT.

THE 1ST DIVISION CROSSED THE ATLANTIC AND LANDED IN BRITAIN IN DECEMBER, 1939.

A 1ST DIVISION BRIGADE WENT TO SPITSBERGEN IN THE UNOPPOSED LANDING ON THAT ARCTIC NORWEGIAN ISLAND IN THE SUMMER OF 1941 . IN WHICH GERMAN INSTALLATIONS AND COAL MINING FACILITIES WERE DESTROYED.

AFTER INTENSIVE TRAINING IN BRITAIN FOR MORE THAN THREE YEARS THE DIVISION WAS SENT TO NORTH AFRICA AND TOOK PART IN THE LANDINGS IN SICILY.

ATTACHED TO THE DIVISION IS A CANADIAN TANK FORCE INCLUDING AT LEAST TWO CANADIAN TANK BATTALIONS.

UNDER THE BRITISH 8TH ARMY IS NO. 5 CANADIAN GENERAL HOSPITAL FROM WINNIPEG, A COMPLETELY-EQUIPPED AND SELF-CONTAINED MODERN HOSPITAL, WHICH WAS MOVED FROM BRITAIN AND SET UP IN SICILY FOR THE HANDLING OF CASUALTIES.

A NUMBER OF SQUADRONS OF THE R.C.A.F. ARE KNOWN TO BE IN NORTH AFRICA AND POSSIBLY SOME CANADIAN FIGHTER SQUADRONS ARE ENGAGED IN PROVIDING AIR COVER FOR THE SOUTHERN ITALY LANDINGS.

NT906AEW

INVASION FORCES

SEP 4 1943

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE INVASION SPEARHEAD RAMMING INTO SOUTHERN ITALY IS FORGED WITH PLANES, TANKS, SHIPS AND TOUGH, BATTLE-SEASONED MEN HALF A MILLION TO A MILLION STRONG.

THEIR INVASION SPRINGBOARD IS ONE WRESTED FROM THE ENEMY IN ONE OF THE BRILLIANT VICTORIES OF THE WAR, CLIMAXED BY A TRIUMPH IN TUNISIA THAT BLED THE ENEMY OF GROUND AND AIR STRENGTH.

IN NORTH AFRICA AT THE END OF THE TUNISIAN CAMPAIGN, THE ALLIES HAD AT LEAST 500,000 MEN--AMERICANS, AND BRITISH--AND THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS MORE OF FRENCHMEN RAPIDLY BEING TRAINED AND EQUIPPED WITH THE MOST MODERN ARMAMENTS OF WAR.

SEP 4 1943

AMONG THE FORCES AT GENERAL DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER'S DISPOSAL ARE HARDENED, BATTLE-TESTED AND VICTORY-CONFIDENT UNITS: THE U.S. SECOND ARMY CORPS, THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY, THE BRITISH FIRST ARMY, AND THE FIGHTING FRENCH.

THESE WERE THE MEN WHO PUSHED THE AXIS OUT OF AFRICA, WHO MET AND BESTED SOME OF THE FINEST GERMAN TROOPS AND SHATTERED--IN ALL THE AFRICAN WARFARE--36 DIVISIONS OF ENEMY TROOPS.

IN RESERVE DURING THE TUNISIA WARFARE, AND NOW POSSIBLY DESTINED TO CARRY MUCH OF THE WEIGHT OF THE ASSAULT AFTER THE FIRST TOE-HOLDS ARE WON BY VETERAN TROOPS, IS THE AMERICAN FIFTH ARMY COMMANDED BY LIEUT. GEN. MARK W. CLARK, HERO OF THE DANGEROUS EXPEDITION TO NORTH AFRICA BEFORE THE ALLIED LANDINGS TO CLEAR THE WAY.

ACTIVITIES, STRENGTH, AND DISPOSITION OF THIS FIFTH ARMY HAVE BEE SECRETS JEALOUSLY-KEPT, BUT IT IS KNOWN THAT THE ARMY WAS STATIONED IN MOROCCO.

CONVOY AFTER CONVOY COMING FROM THE UNITED STATES AND ENGLAND TO AFRICA BROUGHT ARMAMENTS AND PROBABLY TROOPS TO REINFORCE THIS ARMY.

IN TUNISIA THE AMERICANS, BRITISH AND FRENCH LEARNED THE VITAL LESSON OF FIGHTING TOGETHER IN PERFECT COORDINATION. HUNDREDS AND THOUSANDS OF TROOPS GAINED BATTLEFRONT EXPERIENCE. ARMORED UNITS, AIRPLANES, AND ARTILLERY WERE USED IN CONCERT, SUPPLY SERVICES PERFORMED PRODIGIOUS FEATS AND INCREASED THEIR EFFICIENCY.

AT THE BATTLE'S END, THE ALLIES HAD NEARLY HALF A MILLION TRAINED, EXPERIENCED MEN, AND HAD ACCOUNTED FOR 324,000 AXIS TROOPS--30,000 KILLED, 27,000 WOUNDED, AND 267,000 CAPTURED, ALL THIS IN TUNISIA ALONE. THE PRISONERS INCLUDED 27 AXIS GENERALS, HEADED BY COL. GEN. JURGEN VON ARNIM. THE AXIS HAD LOST 1,700 PLANES. THREE OF GERMANY'S BEST ARMORED DIVISIONS HAD BEEN DESTROYED, AND SO TOO, IN THE LONG CAMPAIGNS OF AFRICA, HAD EVERY ITALIAN ARMORED DIVISION THAT EVER EXISTED.

SEP 4 1943

AFTER THE CLEAN-UP, THE ALLIED TROOPS RESTED AND RE-GROUPED AND TRAINED FOR THE ASSAULT ACROSS THE SEA.

THE UNITED STATES PLAYED A MAJOR ROLE IN REARMING THE FRENCH, AND IN MAY FIVE DIVISIONS--TWO ARMORED AND THREE INFANTRY--ALREADY WERE BEING ARMED IN ADDITION TO A TANK BATTALION, TANK DESTROYER BATTALION, ANTI-AIRCRAFT BATTALION, AND PARACHUTE REGIMENT.

THE FRENCH WERE TO HAVE AN ARMY OF AT LEAST 11 DIVISIONS, MEN EAGER FOR REVENGE UPON THE NAZIS. ON MAY 26 IT WAS ANNOUNCED THAT GEN. HENRI GIRAUD'S MILITARY FORCES IN FRENCH AFRICA HAD RECEIVED MILITARY SUPPLIES VALUED AT $60,000,000 FROM THE UNITED STATES IN APRIL, BRINGING THE TOTAL TO DATE TO $75,000,000.

THE AMERICAN FORCES IN THE THICK OF THE TUNISIAN BATTLE WERE THE FIRST ARMORED DIVISION, LED BY MAJ. GEN. ERNEST HARMON; THE FIRST INFANTRY DIVISION COMMANDED BY MAJ. GEN. TERRY ALLEN, THE NINTH INFANTRY DIVISION LED BY MAJ. GEN. MATON S. EDDY, AND THE 34TH INFANTRY DIVISION, LED BY MAJ. GEN. CHARLES W. RYDER. THE LATTER IS A NATIONAL GUARD DIVISION COMPOSED LARGELY OF TROOPS FROM IOWA, MINNESOTA, NORTH AND SOUTH DAKOTA.

1943

30.24-8031

AT THE VERY CLOSE, THESE FORCES, GROUPED INTO THE SECOND CORPS, WERE COMMANDED BY LIEUT. GEN. OMAR N. BRADLEY, WHO TOOK OVER FROM LIEUT. GEN. GEORGE S. PATTON, JR., ON APRIL 17 WHEN THE AMERICANS WERE SHIFTED FROM THE CENTRAL SECTOR IN TUNISIA TO THE NORTH FOR THE FINAL DRIVE THAT LED THEM TO BIZERTE.

GENERAL PATTON'S WHEREABOUTS AND DUTIES SINCE THEN WERE SUBJECTS FOR SPECULATION. FAMOUS AS A LEADER OF ARMORED WARFARE, HE IS A LOGICAL CHOICE TO COMMAND SUCH UNITS IN THIS INVASION.

SEP 4 - 1943

THE ALLIED TROOPS IN THE FINAL PHASE OF THE TUNISIAN DRIVE NUMBERED 17 DIVISIONS, COMMANDED BY GEN. SIR HAROLD ALEXANDER, DEPUTY COMMANDER IN CHIEF IN CHARGE OF GROUND FORCES UNDER GEN. DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER. BESIDES THE FOUR AMERICAN DIVISIONS, THE 17 INCLUDED THREE INFANTRY DIVISIONS AND AN ARMORED DIVISION OF THE BRITISH FIRST ARMY, AND EIGHT DIVISIONS OF GEN. SIR BERNARD L. MONTGOMERY'S BRILLIANT EIGHTH ARMY WHICH DROVE UP FROM THE SOUTH IN TUNISIA AFTER CHASING FIELD MARSHAL ERWIN ROMMEL ACROSS AFRICA.

MK225AEW

UNDATED AXIS REACTION

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

FROM A GLOOMY SILENCE THAT LASTED SEVERAL HOURS, THE AXIS PROPAGANDA MACHINE TURNED TO NERVOUS OPTIMISM TODAY OVER NEWS OF THE ALLIED INVASION OF ITALY--AND GERMAN GARRISONS ALONG THE FRENCH MEDITERRANEAN COAST SHARPENED THEIR VIGIL WITH A BURST OF ACTIVITY.

BERLIN PREDICTED THAT THE BATTLE-HARDENED AMERICAN 7TH ARMY OF LIEUT.-GEN. GEORGE S. PATTON, JR., CO-CONQUERORS OF SICILY WITH THE BRITISH 8TH ARMY, WOULD SOON STRIKE THE CONTINENT IN ANOTHER SECTOR. SO FAR, THE AMERICANS WERE APPARENTLY HOLDING BACK THEIR PUNCH.

AFTER TELLING THE GERMAN PUBLIC THAT THERE WERE "NO FRESH REPORTS FROM ANY OF THE FRONTS"--MANY HOURS AFTER ALLIED HEADQUARTERS HAD BROADCAST WORD OF THE INVASION--THE BERLIN RADIO FINALLY DECLARED THAT THE ASSAULT ON ITALY WAS EXPECTED AND THAT THE AXIS WAS PREPARED FOR "TWO OR THREE BLOWS AGAINST THE CONTINENT."

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS FRANKLY ADMITTED THAT THE ALLIES HAD LAUNCHED OPERATIONS AGAINST THE SOUTHERN ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS "ON A VAST SCALE."

SIMULTANEOUSLY, CAPT. LUDWIG X X X PICKING UP 2ND GRAF LONDON, GERMAN REACTION (A122) AND ANY OTHER DATE-LINED AXIS REACTION DESIRED.

SW-FD1233PEW

NOTE TO EDITORS:

THE INVASION OF ITALY IS BEING COVERED FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS BY VIRTUALLY THE SAME VETERAN TEAM THT WON PRAISE FOR ITS WORK IN THE EARLIER PHASES OF THE MEDITERRANEAN CAMPAIGN, IN TUNISIA AND SICILY.

SEP 4 1943

EDWARD KENNEDY, WHO DIRECTED THE TUNISIAN STAFF, AGAIN IS IN CHARGE AT ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ASSISTED BY DON WHITEHEAD AND NOLAND NORGAARD.

DANIEL DE LUCE, WHOSE EYEWITNESS STORIES ON THE GERMAN DEBACLE IN TUNISIA WON WIDE ACCLAIM AND WHO HEADED THE TEAM THAT COVERED THE SICILIAN CAMPAIGN, IS WITH THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY. IT IS EXPECTED THAT HIS DISPATCHES FROM THE FRONT WILL BE AVAILABLE SOON.

RELMAN MORIN, HAL BOYLE AND PAUL KERN LEE HAVE ASSIGNMENTS WITH THE FORCES, EITHER ASHORE OR ABOARD SHIP.

THE AP

FD1241PEW

1943

WAR CHRONOLOGY (WITH INVASION)

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TODAY'S INVASION OF THE EUROPEAN CONTINENT BY ALLIED TROOPS ADDS A MAJOR NOTATION IN BOLD-FACE TYPE TO THE GROWING CHRONOLOGY OF THE CURRENT CONFLICT IN THAT THEATER. HITTING THE HIGH SPOTS OF MAJOR EUROPEAN WAR DEVELOPMENTS OF THE PAST FOUR YEARS:

SEP 4 1943

-- 1939 --

MAR.14--GERMAN TROOPS CROSS CZECH FRONTIER, OCCUPY PRAGUE NEXT DAY.

AUG.23--RUSSO-GERMAN NON-AGGRESSION PACT SIGNED IN MOSCOW.

SEPT.1-3--GERMANY INVADES POLAND, DRAWING BRITISH AND FRENCH WAR DECLARATION TWO DAYS LATER.

SEPT.17--SOVIET TROOPS ENTER EASTERN POLAND.

SEPT.27--WARSAW SURRENDERS; POLAND PARTITIONED BY RUSSIANS, GERMANS TWO DAYS LATER.

NOV.30--RUSSIA INVADES FINLAND.

-- 1940 --

MAR.12--RUSSO-FINNISH PEACE SIGNED.

APRIL 9--GERMANY INVADES DENMARK AND NORWAY.

MAY 10--GERMANY INVADES HOLLAND, BELGIUM AND LUXEMBOURG. (CHURCHILL REPLACES CHAMBERLAIN AS BRITISH PRIME MINISTER.)

MAY 15--DUTCH ARMY CAPITULATES.

MAY 23--BELGIAN ARMY CAPITULATES.

MAY 30-JUNE 4--B.E.F. EVACUATED FROM DUNKERQUE.

JUNE 10--EVACUATION OF NORWAY ANNOUNCED: KING, GOVERNMENT IN BRITAIN

JUNE 11--ITALY ENTERS WAR AGAINST BRITAIN AND FRANCE.

JUNE 22--FRENCH ARMISTICE WITH GERMANY SIGNED.

JUNE 24--FRENCH ARMISTICE WITH ITALY SIGNED.

SEPT.7--HEAVY NIGHT RAIDS ON LONDON BEGIN.

SEPT.27--GERMANY, ITALY AND JAPAN SIGN TEN-YEAR TRI-PARTITE PACT IN BERLIN.

OCT.28--ITALY INVADES GREECE.

DEC.9--BRITISH OFFENSIVE IN WESTERN DESERT (NORTH AFRICA) OPENS.

-- 1941 --

SEP 4 1943

APRIL 6--GERMANY ATTACKS YUGOSLAVIA AND GREECE.

APRIL 17--GERMANY ANNOUNCES SURRENDER OF YUGOSLAV ARMY.

APRIL 23--GREEK ARMY IN THE EPIRUS SURRENDERS TO GERMANY.

MAY 31--BRITISH FORCES WITHDRAW FROM CRETE. ARMISTICE SIGNED IN IRAQ.

JUNE 22--GERMANY INVADES U.S.S.R.

JULY 12--ANGLO-SOVIET AGREEMENT FOR MUTUAL ASSISTANCE AGAINST HITLERITE GERMANY SIGNED MOSCOW.

OCT.19--STATE OF SIEGE DECLARED IN MOSCOW AFTER STEP-BY-STEP DEFENSE.

NOV.24--RUSSIANS BEGIN COUNTER-OFFENSIVE WEST OF ROSTOV.

DEC.7--JAPANESE ATTACK ON PEARL HARBOR DRAWS U.S. INTO WAR AND, DURING NEXT FEW DAYS, EUROPEAN DECLARATIONS WITH ALLIES AND AXIS SQUARING OFF AROUND WORLD.

DEC.11--U.S.ITALY AND GERMANY EXCHANGE WAR DECLARATIONS.

DEC.16--GERMANS RETREATING ALONG ENTIRE EASTERN FRONT.

-- 1942 --

MAY 8--GERMANS LAUNCH NEW OFFENSIVE AGAINST RUSSIA.

SEPT.16--RUSSO-GERMAN FIGHTING REACHES STALINGRAD.

SEPT.23--RUSSIANS LAUNCH COUNTER-OFFENSIVE IN STALINGRAD AREA.

NOV.8--AMERICANS AND BRITISH LAND IN NORTH AFRICA.

NOV.13--BRITISH 8TH ARMY TAKES TOBRUK AND GAZALA; AXIS RETREAT CONTINUES.

NOV.27--GERMANS SEIZE TOULON; FRENCH CREWS SCUTTLE WARSHIPS IN HARBOR

NOV.28--RUSSIANS ANNOUNCE CENTRAL FRONT OFFENSIVE OPENED, FOLLOWED DEC.16 BY OFFENSIVE IN MIDDLE DON AREA, UNTIL SOME MAIN GERMAN

30.24-8033

FORCES IN FULL RETREAT DEC.31.

-- 1943 --

MAY 7--TUNIS AND BIZERTE CAPTURED BY ALLIES IN CLIMAX TO AFRICAN DRIVE.

JULY 10--SICILY INVADED.

AUG.17--SICILY FALLS TO ALLIES--ALL ORGANIZED RESISTANCE CEASES.

SEPT.3--ALLIED FORCES LAND IN SOUTHERN ITALY.

MK301AEW

UNDATED ITALY-IN-WAR

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

JUNE 10, 1940--ITALY DECLARED WAR ON GREAT BRITAIN AND FRANCE.

JUNE 23--BRITISH SOMALILAND IRREGULARS CARRY THE WAR INTO ITALIAN EAST AFRICA.

AUG. 7--ITALIANS ENTER BRITISH SOMALILAND WHICH THE BRITISH FORCES EVACUATED 12 DAYS LATER.

SEPT.14--ITALIANS DRIVE TO SIDI BARRANI IN EGYPT.

OCT.27--THEY INVADE GREECE FROM ALBANIA WHICH THEY HAD CONQUERED THE PRECEDING YEAR.

DEC.12--THE BRITISH LAUNCH THEIR FIRST OFFENSIVE TO DRIVE THE INVADER FROM EGYPT, CAPTURING SIDI BARRANI.

JAN.5 TO FEB.9--THE ADVANCING BRITISH TAKE TOBRUK, BENGASI AND EL AGHEILA IN SICILY WHERE THEIR OFFENSIVE STALLED.

JAN.15, 1941--HAILE SELASSIE RAISES HIS FLAG AGAIN IN ETHOPIA WITH THE HELP OF BRITISH FORCES.

FEB.25 TO APR.12--AXIS FORCES DRIVE BRITISH BACK SUCCESSIVELY FROM EL AGHEILA, BENGASI AND ENCIRCLE TOBRUK.

FEB.26 -- THE FALL OF MOGADISCIO, CAPITAL OF ITALIAN SOMALILAND TO BRITISH FORCES MARKS THE CAPTURE OF THE FIRST ENTIRE COLONY.

APR.7--ADDIS ABABA FALLS TO THE BRITISH.

JULY 9--ITALY HELPS GERMANY DIVIDE UP THE BALKANS, GETTING AS HER SHARE OF THE GERMAN MILITARY EFFORT PART OF YUGOSLAVIA.

NOV.27--GONDAR, LAST ITALIAN STRONGHOLD IN EAST AFRICA, FALLS TO ETHOPIAN FORCE LED BY BRITISH OFFICERS.

DEC.10--THE BRITISH IN THEIR SECOND LIBYAN OFFENSIVE LIFT THE TOBRUK SIEGE, DRIVING THE AXIS FORCES BACK.

JAN.19, 1942--HAILE SELASSIE RETURNS TO HIS THRONE FROM WHICH THE ITALIANS DROVE HIM IN 1936.

JUNE 22--THE AXIS RE-TAKES TOBRUK, DRIVING THE BRITISH INTO EGYPT, AND

JULY 2--REACHES ITS HIGH WATER MARK IN EGYPT WITH THE CAPTURE OF EL ALAMEIN.

OCT.23--GEN.BERNARD L. MONTGOMERY BREAKS THE AXIS EL ALAMEIN LINE AND STARTS HIS DRIVE WHICH WAS TO FINISH AT TUNIS.

(EDS: IN SEVENTH PGH CHRONOLOGY SECOND LINE PLS READ: XXX EL AGHEILA IN L I B Y A (NOT SICILY)

NOV.8--UNITED STATES AND BRITISH FORCES INVADE FRENCH NORTH AFRICA SETTING UP THE OTHER JAW OF A PINCERS ON ITALY'S LIBYAN COLONY.

NOV.13--THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY TAKES TOBRUK.

NOV.20--BENGASI.

DEC.12--THE BRITISH REACH THEIR OLD HIGH WATER MARK AT EL AGHEILA.

JAN.24--TRIPOLI, CAPITAL OF ITALY'S LAST COLONY IN AFRICA, FALLS TO MONTGOMERY'S EIGHTH ARMY.

JAN.26--PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL HOLD THEIR "UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER" CONFERENCE AT CASABLANCA TO MAP FUTURE OPERATIONS AGAINST THE AXIS.

FEB.10--MONTGOMERY CROSSES INTO TUNISIA, EFFECTIVELY MARKING FINIS

TO ITALY'S COLONIAL POSSESSIONS IN AFRICA.

MAY 12--ALL AXIS RESISTANCE IN AFRICA ENDS IN THE CAPE BON PENINSULA.

JUNE 11--ITALY'S ISLAND OUTPOST AT PANTELLERIA FALLS AFTER HEAVY POUNDING FROM THE AIR AND THE WAR DRAWS CLOSE TO ITALY ITSELF.

JUNE 12--LAMPEDUSA, SISTER ISLAND OF PANTELLERIA, FALLS TO THE ALLIES.

JULY 10--THE ALLIES INVADE SICILY.

SEP 4 1943

JULY 22--PALERMO, SICILIAN CAPITAL, FALLS WITH HARDLY A SHOT FIRED.

JULY 25--BENITO MUSSOLINI, WHO BROUGHT ITALY INTO THE WAR, FORCED TO RESIGN, ENDING THE "FASCIST ERA."

AUG.17--THE CAPTURE OF MESSINA BY AMERICAN FORCES COMPLETES THE OCCUPATION OF SICILY, LEAVING ITALY HER AEGEAN ISLANDS, THE SPOILS OF ALBANIA AND PART OF YUGOSLAVIA AND THE ITALIAN MAINLAND.

SEPT.3--ALLIED TROOPS LAND IN SOUTHERN ITALY.

MK155AEW

BRITISH OUT TO AVENGE GREECE,
DUNKERQUE (600)

BY KENNETH L.DIXON
ASSOCIATED PRESS FOREIGN STAFF

THE ARMOR OF THE MIGHTY EUROPEAN FORTRESS WHICH ADOLF HITLER HAS HAD SOME TWO AND ONE-HALF YEARS TO MAKE IMPREGNABLE FAILED HIM TODAY AS THE BRITISH RETURNED TO THE CONTINENT FROM WHICH THEY ONCE FLED THROUGH THE BLOODY WATERS AT DUNKERQUE AND CORINTH.

HITLER'S HOPES AND PROMISES TO HIS PEOPLE TO SAVE THEM FROM A DOUBLE-SQUEEZE HAVE FLICKERED OUT AND TODAY HE FOUND HIMSELF BATTLING AGAINST A MIGHTY NEW ONRUSH OF THE RED ARMY, A FRESH TIDE OF ALLIED STRENGTH ROLLING ONTO ITALIAN BEACHES, AND ARMADAS OF BOMBING PLANES WHICH STREAKED ACROSS HIS BROKEN AIR FRONTIERS ON THE WEST.

YET OTHER ARMIES, IN READINESS, CAMPED AT THE JUMPING OFF POINTS FOR OTHER POSSIBLE BLOWS---FOR WHILE GEN. SIR BERNARD L.MONTGOMERY'S ELITE EIGHTH ARMY SPEARHEADED THE WAY INTO ITALY FROM SICILY, THE VETERAN AMERICAN SEVENTH ARMY'S ACTIVITIES REMAINED WRAPPED IN MYSTERY THE BRITISH FIRST ARMY STILL RESTED FROM ITS TUNISIAN CAMPAIGN, THE TRAINED AMERICAN FIFTH ARMY WAS HELD IN RESERVE IN NORTH AFRICA, A LARGE AND NEWLY EQUIPPED FRENCH ARMY AWAITED THE DAY OF REVENGE, THE BRITISH NINTH AND 10TH ARMIES REMAINED IN THE MIDDLE EAST, AND A HOST OF ALLIED FORCES SHARPENED THEIR WEAPONS IN ENGLAND.

THREE YEARS AND THREE MONTHS, ALMOST TO THE DAY, AFTER THE SHINY NEW GERMAN ARMY HAD KICKED THE BRITISH INTO THE SEA AT DUNKERQUE, HITLER'S ENEMIES APPEARED READY TO PRESS IN UPON ALL SIDES.

TWO YEARS AND FOUR MONTHS AFTER THE SACRIFICE ARMY OF THE BRITISH HAD BEEN BLUDGEONED INTO A BLOODY DEFEAT IN GREECE--WHEN HITLER THOUGHT THE CONTINENT RID FOR ALL TIME OF ALLIED ENEMIES--THE FORCES OF THE UNITED NATIONS, MORE POWERFUL THAN EVER, ARE BACK ON HIS THRESHOLD DETERMINED TO DRIVE HOME THE BLOWS THAT WILL BRING HIM TO UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER.

ALREADY HAVING SENT MUSSOLINI SPRAWLING FROM HIS FASCIST SEAT OF POWER, THEY SEEM ABOUT TO KNOCK HITLER'S CHIEF PARTNER, ITALY, OUT OF THE WAR AS THEY BEGIN THE LONG COMEBACK TRAIL TO BERLIN.

THE AVENGING HOSTS ARE BACK, NOT ONLY WITH THEIR OLD-TIME MASTERY OF THE SEA, BUT ALSO WITH CLEAR-CUT SUPREMACY IN THE AIR--HAVING LEARNED THEIR LESSON WHEN HERMAN GOERING'S LUFTWAFFE BOMBED AND STRAFED THE ALLIED EVACUATION SHIPS IN THE CHURNING CRIMSON WATERS OF THE ENGLISH CHANNEL AND THE MEDITERRANEAN.

SEP 4 1943

THAT WAS HITLER'S HEYDAY. HIS AIR-BORNE TROOPS HAD STRUCK WITH SWIFT SUCCESS FROM NORWAY TO CRETE. HIS PANZERS HAD PUNCHED

30.24-8035

30.24-8035

THROUGH THE LOW COUNTRIES, DRIVING THE REMNANTS OF A BEATEN ALLIED ARMY OFF THE CONTINENT WITH A SPEED WHICH STARTLED EVEN THE NAZI STRATEGISTS. THEY BLUDGEONED THEIR WAY THROUGH THE BALKANS--WITH CLOUDS OF WARPLANES OVERHEAD AND CRACK NAZI DIVISIONS CLOSE BEHIND--AND THE ALLIED DUNKERQUE DEBACLE WAS ALMOST DUPLICATED AS THE BRITISH FLED FROM GREECE.

SEP 4 1943

LONDON SHUDDERED STEADILY UNDER THE BRUTAL NIGHTLY BLITZING THAT MANY SAW AS THE SOFTENING PRELUDE TO INVASION. AND FEW FELT THE BATTERED BRITISH FORCES COULD REPEL IT.

THEN MISTAKES APPEARED IN THE VICTORY-DRUNK HITLER'S STRATEGY. HIS INTUITION WENT ASTRAY.

HE FAILED TO CARRY OUT THE INVSION OF ENGLAND THAT MIGHT HAVE SPELLED A NAZI VICTORY.

INSTEAD HE TURNED TO WHAT LOOKED LIKE AN EASIER VICTORY, AN INVASION OF RUSSIA WHICH HE IMAGINED WOULD FIX THINGS UP FOR A LONG WAR WITH ENGLAND AND HER ALLIES.

HISTORIANS MAY ARGUE OVER WHETHER THAT WAS THE TURNING POINT, OR WHETHER IT CAME HALF A YEAR LATER WHEN HE FOLLOWED THE JAPANESE ATTACK ON PEARL HARBOR BY DECLARING WAR ON AMERICA, THUS DEFINITELY PULLING UNCLE SAM'S MILITARY MIGHT INTO THE EVENTUAL ATTACK ON HIS FORTRESS.

HITLER'S TIDE CERTAINLY WAS GOING OUT LAST YEAR AT STALINGRAD, WHILE THE BIG CHANGE IN THE MEDITERRANEAN CAME LAST NOVEMBER, LESS THAN A YEAR AGO, WHEN GEN.DWIGHT D.EISENHOWER LED HIS AMPHIBIOUS EXPEDITION ASHORE IN FRENCH NORTH AFRICA.

AT ANY RATE, THE TIDE OF WAR WHICH BOILED OUT OF BERLIN SOME FOUR YEARS AGO WAS SWEEPING BACK STRONGLY TODAY AS CRACK ALLIED TROOPS STORMED THE BEACHES OF ITALY.

WM/N357PEW

THE WAR TODAY

- - -

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

- - -

THE INVASION OF ITALY IS A FURTHER HEARTENING EXHIBITION OF ALREADY GREAT AND RAPIDLY GROWING ALLIED STRIKING POWER, AND WE ARE WARRANTED IN HAVING FULL CONFIDENCE IN THE OUTCOME.

WE SHOULDN'T MAKE THE MISTAKE, HOWEVER, OF PINNING OUR EXPECTATIONS TOO HIGH ON THE ASSUMPTION THAT THIS IS THE ANXIOUSLY AWAITED CONTINENTAL OPERATION--THE MUCH DEBATED "SECOND FRONT"--WHICH ONE OF THESE DAYS IN CONJUNCTION WITH THE RUSSIANS MOST CERTAINLY WILL CREATE THE GIANT VISE WHICH WILL BREAK HERR HITLER'S BONES.

THIS IS A BIG SHOW, BUT IT ISN'T THE (UPPER CASE) BIG SHW. INDEED, IT IS EMPHASIZED AT ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA THAT

SEP 4 1943

THIS IS A BIG SHOW, BUT IT ISN'T THE (UPPER CASE) BIG SHOW. INDEED, IT IS EMPHASIZED AT ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA THAT IT ISN'T THE OPENING OF A "SECOND FRONT" BUT JUST CONTINUATION OF THE CAMPAIGN WHICH WAS BEGUN THERE AND WAS CONTINUED WITH THE CONQUEST OF SICILY.

INVASION OF ITALY IS A JOB WHICH HAD TO BE DONE, AND IT WILL BE IMMENSELY USEFUL IN MANY WAYS. STILL I HAVE A HUNCH THAT THERE ARE OTHER THINGS THE ALLIES WOULD RATHER BE DOING RIGHT NOW THAN CLEANING UP THIS PENINSULA WHICH IS MERELY AN APPENDAGE OF THE CONTINENT AND CANNOT BRING THE WESTERN UNITED NATIONS ARMIES IMMEDIATELY TO GRIPS WITH THE NAZI FORCES WITHIN HITLER'S EUROPEAN FORTRESS.

INDEED, IT'S MY SUGGESTION THAT WE WATCHERS KEEP ONE EYE ON THE UNFOLDING OF THE DRAMA IN ITALY, AND THE OTHER COCKED IN THE DIRECTION OF OTHER POSSIBLE INVASION POINTS. THE ALLIES HAVE MORE THAN THIS ONE TRICK IN THEIR OLD KIT BAGS.

THE INVADING FORCES SWARMED ASHORE IN LOWER ITALY WITH THE EXPECTATION OF ENCOUNTERING STIFF RESISTANCE, AND ACCORDING TO THE ALGIERS RADIO THE BRITISH AND CANADIAN TROOPS OF THE EIGHTH ARMY--SPEARHEAD OF THE OPERATION--ALREADY HAVE RUN INTO IT. MOST OF THE OPPOSITION WAS LOOKED FOR FROM THE BOCHE, BUT IT SEEMED UNLIKELY THAT THEY WOULD BE IN GREAT FORCE IN SOUTHERN ITALY. IN THE NORTH OF THE PENINSULA, HOWEVER, THE GERMANS ARE REPORTED TO BE HOLDING THE LINE OF THE PO RIVER IN STRENGTH, AND LIKELY HAVE DEFENSIVE POSITIONS SOUTH OF THERE.

ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT AND INTERESTING OPERATIONS IN CONNECTION WITH THE INVASION WAS THE ALLIED BOMBING OF THE BRIDGES IN THE BRENNER PASS, WHICH IS THE GREAT GATEWAY THROUGH THE ALPS INTO ITALY FROM GERMANY. THIS HAS BEEN THE MAIN INVASION ROUTE INTO ITALY FROM THE NORTH THROUGH THE CENTURIES. ITS RAILWAY AND HIGHWAY HAVE PROVIDED THE THOROUGHFARE FOR AXIS TRANSPORT AND A CRIPPLING OF THIS COMMUNICATION WOULD BE A CALAMITY FOR THE GERMANS.

SEP 4 1943

ONE OF THE MAIN ASSETS THE ALLIES WILL ACQUIRE BY OVERRUNNING ITALY WILL BE AIR BASES IN THE NORTH FROM WHICH THEY CAN EXTEND THEIR BOMBING OF THE EASTERN PART OF THE REICH AND OCCUPIED TERRITORIES. ANOTHER GREAT PRIZE WOULD BE THE ACQUISITION OF THE ITALIAN NAVY--GREATLY WHITTLED DOWN THROUGH YEARS OF WAR BUT STILL CONTAINING MANY USEFUL WARSHIPS. THERE IS HOPE THAT THE FLEET MAY BE TAKEN OVER INTACT.

OF COURSE, KNOCKING ITALY OUT OF THE WAR REPRESENTS AN IMMENSE GAIN, BUT THE COUNTRY ALREADY IS VIRTUALLY IMPOTENT FROM THE STANDPOINT OF OFFENSIVE WARFARE. THUS THE INVASION REPRESENTS A MOPPING UP PROCESS. STILL, THIS WILL HAVE ITS MORAL EFFECT AND WILL FURTHER WEAKEN THE AXIS GRIP ON THE BALKANS. WHEN WE HAVE DRIVEN THE NAZIS OUT OF NORTHERN ITALY, WE ALSO SHALL HAVE GAINED A BRIDGEHEAD OF SORTS FROM WHICH WE COULD MOVE INTO SOUTHERN FRANCE AND THE BALKANS.

WE SHALL HAVE TO TAKE THE BITTER WITH THE SWEET, THOUGH. AMONG THE LIABILITIES WE SHALL ACQUIRE IF WE OVERRUN ALL ITALY WILL BE THE NECESSITY OF PUTTING A FORCE OF SEVERAL HUNDRED THOUSAND MEN INTO THE COUNTRY FOR GARRISON DUTY. THE ALLIES ALSO WILL HAVE TO HELP FEED 40,000,000 HUNGRY ITALIAN MOUTHS, AND FIND THE CARGO VESSELS ON WHICH TO MOVE SUPPLIES TO THE LITTLE COUNTRY.

SEP 4 1943

FD356AEW

3024-8037

3024-8037

ALLIES PUSH INTO ITALY FROM WIDE BEACHHEAD; RAF BOMBS BERLIN WITH 50 TONS A MINUTE; RUSSIANS CLOSE IN ON STALINO IN DONETS DRIVE

ALLIES POUR IN MORE TROOPS AND SUPPLIES

Italian Defenders Surrender in Batches as British and Canadians Push Inland—Reggio and San Giovanni Taken.

SEP 5 1943

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—British and Canadian troops have clamped a firm hold on a ten-mile bridgehead including both Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni and the intervening coast of the Italian toe, and are plunging ahead, Allied headquarters announced today.

New reinforcements of troops and supplies are pouring across the narrow Messina Strait and the advance is continuing, the communique went on to say, adding that the initial spearheads yesterday met relatively weak opposition. The Canadian war correspondent Ross Munro said that the Canadian landings were almost bloodless, and other eyewitnesses declared that the Italian troops were surrendering in batches, as they had done in Sicily, and that they had even rowed across the strait in small boats to surrender before the invasion began at 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

Civilians at Reggio Calabria waved white flags and cheered the occupying British troops. In other parts of the coastal area the civilians, apparently as weary of war as the Sicilians, received the invaders with a friendly air.

[After admitting the loss of San Giovanni and Reggio Calabria, the Italian High Command went on today to announce the loss of Melito also. The Berlin radio went even further and told of what was termed "a second Allied landing" between Melito and Cape Spartivento. Later the German communique declared that an attempt to land behind the Axis lines had been defeated. Whether it actually was a second landing or simply represented the progress of the Allied thrust south from Reggio Calabria was not clear, but the effect was the same in either case—a wide extension of the Allied line.]

Air Squadrons Smash at Foe.

Meanwhile the grand offensive rolled deeper into Italy as vast armadas of Allied warplanes blasted the enemy positions over the toe and battered airdromes near Naples, while American Liberators from the Middle East joined the assault with a punishing blow on the railroad yards at Sulmona, seventy-five miles east of Rome, shooting down twenty-seven enemy fighters in the course of the attack.

The heaviest single assault was delivered by the Liberators which laid direct hits on the railway station, engine repair shops and warehouses, and covered the railway yards with bomb bursts. Violent detonations also were set off in an explosives factory near the railway center, Middle East headquarters announced. Six Allied planes were lost in this and other attacks.

The planes from North Africa met little opposition and shot down two enemy fighters, while one Allied ship was lost in Thursday night patrols. Three other enemy planes were destroyed off North Africa and the south of Italy yesterday and the night before.

Battleships Prepare the Ground.

An Allied naval communique reported that yesterday's landings on the beaches between Reggio Calabria and Catona, some five miles north, met with little or no opposition, declaring: "The first loads were cleared well ahead of the time laid down in the program, and by early afternoon the second series of craft were moving across the strait with reinforcements and supplies. This work continues."

Two British battleships turned their heavy guns against enemy pillboxes and defenses in the Cape del Armi area on Thursday morning in a second pre-invasion shelling following up the bombardment by the sixteen-inch guns of the Rodney and Nelson earlier in the week.

Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, commander of the Mediterranean fleet, watched from a destroyer Thursday bombardment of the Cape del Armi area by the warships Warspite and Valiant, with their fifteen-inch guns firing one-ton shells.

Many batteries of field guns, including American units, on the shore of Sicily also covered the landings, supplemented by the heavy British machine-guns firing streamlined bullets and capable of placing a curtain of fire on the mainland. One big enemy shore gun opened fire during the crossing of the strait, but this was silenced by the British warships.

Great Air Base Captured.

The village of Gallico Marina, halfway between Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni, was the focal point of the initial predawn landings and was the first community on continental Europe to fall into Allied hands. Landings also were made immediately north and south of Reggio Calabria, and the great Axis air base just south of the town was quickly seized. This has a 1,600-foot runway, two hangars and workshops. No enemy planes or armor were encountered.

In announcing the capture of San Giovanni the communique said that a large number of prisoners were taken at that point.

Demolitions att[illegible] treating enemy f[illegible]en largely ineffectiv[illegible]uni- que addded.

Simultaneously an air communique announced that Allied airmen supporting the invading forces had blasted Catanzaro in the arch of the Italian boot and also had swept across the Tyrrhenian Sea to bomb southern Sardinia.

In southern Sardinia enemy radio installations were attacked by fighter-bombers and fighters.

Enemy Communications Hit.

In addition to Catanzaro, medium and light bombers and fighter bombers hit enemy communications at Cosenza, on the west coast of Italy, just above the instep of the boot.

Reggio Calabria is the area's largest city with a normal population of 130,000 persons. It is almost all of modern construction, as the old city was razed by an earthquake in 1908. San Giovanni is little large than a village.

One factor in the new campaign appeared indisputable. Allied airmen held virtually unchallenged sway in the skies.

ITALIAN SOLDIERS YIELD QUICKLY TO INVASION FORCES

Many Prisoners Taken in First Two Days of Campaign.

SEP 7

ALLIES RULE IN AIR

Planes Find No Targets in Continuous Sweep Across Battle Zone.

NEW TROOPS POUR IN

Tanks, Artillery Landed at Calabria Without Interruption from Enemy.

KENNEDY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 4. — (AP) British and Canadian forces swiftly enlarged their bridgehead on the toe of Italy today in the face of feeble enemy resistance both on the ground and in the air, and there was yet no indication where the German High command would elect to make a determined stand.

Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni, the only ports of consequence on the mainland shores of the Messina straits, capitulated quickly after Allied assault forces landed yesterday on a 10-mile front and rounded up a large number of Italian prisoners.

British Extend Gains

(The United Nations radio at Algiers, quoting a dispatch received at Allied headquarters, said tonight that the invasion forces were successfully extending their gains towards the north and east of Italy's toe. Powerful fleets of planes and tanks continued to support the British and Canadian forces, said the broadcast, heard in London.)

(Radio France in Algiers, in a broadcast also heard in London, said Saturday night that the Allied bridgehead had been extended up to a depth of three miles during the preceding 24 hours. Massive reinforcements were reaching Calabria without interruption, the broadcast said, and added that Italian soldiers were surrendering in groups.)

Axis broadcasts today told of "large scale" British landings at noon yesterday at Melito and Cape Spartivento at the extreme southern tip of Italy, and the broadcast Italian communique said Melito had been evacuated.

The Allied communique made no mention of landings at these points, or at Scilla, just north of San Giovanni, which the Germans said was occupied yesterday.

(These Axis reports indicated that the Allies may have established a beachhead of 45 miles—assuming all the beach from Cape Spartvento to Scilla was held—but there was no confirmation from Allied headquarters.)

Planes Find No Targets

Doubt that the Germans would try to make a real stand on the Calabrian peninsula arose after Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th army forces punched quickly through the enemy's light coastal defenses and Allied aircraft searched vainly for important targets in the area.

An Allied military spokesman said the enemy had not yet employed tanks in defense of the fortress of Europe and that only a few Axis planes were even sighted by the huge fleets of Allied fighters and bombers ranging ahead of the ground troops.

Sholto Watt, a correspondent for the Canadian Press, reported that Canadian forces were far ahead of schedule in their push inland and that the British were "streaking ahead like a scalded cat." He said the Italian natives were smiling, waving greetings and throwing gifts of fruit to the invading Canadians.

There was yet no report of a landing by the American 7th Army—a fact that had the enemy obviously worried. The German military commentator, Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, speculated in a broadcast on the possibility that the present attack was intended only as a diversion and that major landings would be attempted soon.

Elaborate Demolitions

Elaborate demolitions similar to those the Germans employed to delay Allied forces in Sicily a few weeks ago confronted the invading troops as they fanned out from the stretch of beach along which the first landings were made.

These demolitions, which an Allied communique described as "largely ineffective," seemed to indicate that the Nazis had hoped only to slow occupation of the bridgehead.

A German news agency report broadcast by Axis sources reported that "yesterday afternoon three British freighters entered the harbor of Reggio Calabria and landed heavy war material, which obviously was for tank units engaged north of Reggio Calabria in heavy fighting with the German panzer grenadiers."

This was the only indication from any source that tanks had gone into action for either side or that heavy fighting had begun. The report was received with skepticism.

Reggio Calabria airfield, which can be used as a fighter plane base, was captured by the Allied assault wave as it pushed rapidly inland from the beaches.

Gen. Montgomery was wasting no time in consolidating his continental foothold. Reinforcements and supplies were pouring across the straits from Sicily in a great fleet of small craft. A naval officer back from an operation said the straits were "literally crowded" with ships.

Whether the Germans could risk a large force on a full scale battle anywhere in southern Italy, where the Allied air force rules the skies and where railroads and other vital means of communication have been battered into uselessness, appeared doubtful.

Nazis Bolster Forces

Official reports indicate that German reinforcements and supplies have been pouring into northern Italy over the Brenner pass rail line, which was severed two days ago by heavy Flying Fortress raids on Trento, Borzano and Bologna. A movement of any great number of troops or large quantities of war materials farther south, however, particularly beyond Naples, would appear to be an almost impossible task for the Nazis in the present state of their air force.

They might attempt it, though. Capt. Sertorious declared in his Nazi broadcast today that Italy would become "Europe's battlefield" if it became evident that the main Allied invasion effort was directed there.

An official Allied report, meantime, said that "sortie after sortie" of planes ranged over lower Italy from dawn to dusk and returned to report no targets for their guns or bombs. Of the few enemy planes sighted, five were destroyed and one Allied ship was missing.

Rail Yards Bombed

American Liberators from the Middle East bombed the railroad yards at Sulmona, 75 miles east of Rome, by daylight yesterday. They ran into stiff opposition and shot down 27 enemy ships while themselves losing six planes. This brought the total bag of enemy planes to 32 against a loss of seven Allied craft. R.A.F. Wellingtons followed up last night with flare raids on enemy airfields at Capua and Capodichino in the Naples area, setting fire to several hangars.

Ross Munro, another Canadian Press observer who landed in Italy with the initial assault, reported in a dispatch today that he had not yet seen a single German, though he had seen numerous Italian prisoners.

He revealed an ingenious method by which the Canadian landing barges were directed to their appointed spots on the Italian coast in the darkness of yesterday morning. Tracer shells fired on fixed lines from the Sicilian coast guided them to the exact points they were to hit. Munro said the beaches were not mined.

The village of Galico Marino, halfway between Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni, was the focal point of the landing and was the first community on continental Europe to fall into Allied hands. No enemy planes were encountered as the Allied troops swarmed across the narrow strait under the protection of a thunderous barrage laid down by the 8th army's famous artillery.

One Gun Challenges Invaders

One big Axis shore gun opened up during the crossing, but was silenced by British warships. The first wave of the invasion was cleared well ahead of schedule, and by early afternoon a second wave of seacraft was under way.

The day before the landing the big British warships Warspite and Valiant bombarded enemy positions with their 15-inch guns.

Reggio Calabria, which fell with such surprising ease, has a normal population of 130,000 and is Calabria's largest city. Almost all of it is of modern construction, as the old city was razed by an earthquake in 1908.

A British reporter, Edward Gilling, who landed in that area, said the first light of dawn was just breaking yesterday when the first assault craft ground to a halt in the shallow waters. Soon after, he said, the first group of Italian soldiers walked onto the beach with their arms upraised, crying "Italian Sicilians."

Nazis Report 2nd Landing

[By the Associated Press]

London, Sept. 4—The Berlin radio today broadcast reports of a second Allied landing in Italy, but the German high command indicated that another invasion had been attempted without success.

A German communique, broadcast by Berlin and recorded here by Reuters, reported "unsuccessful attempts to land behind our (Axis) defense lines."

First Report Claims Landing

The earlier broadcast said flatly that Allied forces made a second landing yesterday between Cape Spartivento and Melito.

The German-controlled Paris radio reported that efforts of British and Canadian troops to advance north and east from their landing points on both sides of Reggio Calabria in southern Italy were being met with determined German and Italian resistance.

German planes are taking an important part in the battle, said the broadcast, which was recorded by the Associated Press.

The German-controlled Brussels radio, meanwhile, said that the Allied forces trying to push forward in a northerly direction from Reggio Calabria were mostly infantry, while those moving inland to the east included many armored units.

U. S. AIR ATTACKS CUTTING RAIL LINES IMPRESS ITALIANS

Most of Populace Calm, Indifferent to News of Invasion.

BERN, Switzerland, Sept. 4. — (AP) The pounding which American Fortress bombers gave Bolzano and Trento Thursday crippling rail traffic through the Brenner pass, Italy's connecting link with Germany, greatly impressed Italy, a Milan dispatch to the newspaper Der Bund said today.

In marked contrast, however, various dispatches reported that the Italians received the news of the Allied landings in the Reggio Calabria area in a calm, almost indifferent manner.

The fact that the Allies decided to strike the southernmost point of the Italian mainland, instead of hitting farther north, provided the chief surprise for Italians concerning the invasion, a Rome dispatch to the Gazette de Lausanne said.

Italians Hope for Peace

This dispatch, passed by the Italian censor, said that behind the "apathetic attitude" of the Italian population still rest hopes for peace—hopes which have been given impetus throughout Italy by words of the Pope.

Political circles in Rome recently expressed the belief that the Allied armies would strike to the north in the region around Naples or possibly even in Tuscany in an effort to cut-off and encircle southern Italy.

(Berlin dispatches received in Stockholm indicated that the Germans, too, were not certain at the outset, at least, that this first assault would be the major Allied thrust at Italy. The Aftonbladet correspondent said the Germans were delaying throwing their full defensive strength against the British Eighth army while waiting to determine whether other attacks may develop. It is plain, he added, that the Nazis regarded the landings in the Reggio Calabria area at first as camouflage for attacks elsewhere.)

Await New Attacks

(According to dispatches reaching Madrid, Rome and Berlin were interested in the direction the British would strike out from their bridgehead, but were even more concerned with what Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower might do with the Americans and other Allied forces standing ready under his command.)

Rome and Berlin saw the invasion with different eyes. A Berlin dispatch to the Gazette de Lausanne quoted circles in the German capital as pointing out that winter and snows in the Brenner pass would serve as obstacles to military operations in northern Italy.

The belief was reiterated in Rome, however, that the Allies did not intend to fight the full length of Italy, but may be planning to use bases in southern Italy for an attack on the Balkans.

In the industrial north, especially in Milan and Turin, peace demonstrations were reported yesterday by the Gazette de Lausanne which added that fold-arm strikes were not yet controlled despite the Italian press statements of the workers "comprehension" of the nation's situation.

Reporting on the way Italians accepted the news of the invasion, a Swiss Telegraphic agency dispatch from Rome said "there is no particular uneasiness in the capital," and a dispatch to the Zurich Die Tat from the Italian frontier said the first reaction in Italy to the invasion was one of "complete calm, almost indifference."

Yanks' Long Tom Guns Opened Big Barrage

Daniel De Luce

[Associated Press War Correspondent Representing the Combined American Press]

Messina, Sicily, Sept. 4 (Delayed)—American "long toms" which were the first guns to smell Bizerte opened fire on enemy targets across Messina Strait to herald the long-awaited invasion of Italy.

In the middle of the night, as thousands of British and Canadian fighters were embarking for the toe of Italy, skilled young United States gunners hurled a brief, crackling concentration of 155-millimeter shells on a burning Axis ammunition dump.

Glow Looks Like Volcano

The conflagration threw a fiery red glow into the sky like a volcano and seemingly turned the narrow ribbon of water between Sicily and Italy into molten metal.

The whole strait was lighted by these fires, which flared up re-

"Soft Touch" After Bizerte

"This is a soft touch for us," said Lieut. Thomas Harper, 24-year-old assistant executive officer of a Long Tom battery whose home is near Junction City, Ore.

"Here we can practically stick our guns up in nicely wooded and screened canyons with adhesive tape and Jerry can't ever see us or get us in range. But when we put our neck out to shell Bizerte last spring we moved up in front of even our light guns and the Jerries threw everything back at us except the kitchen sink."

High On 1,000-Foot Ridge

We were standing on one of the 1,000-foot ridges behind Messina. The stars jammed the clear night sky and a white sliver of a new moon had long since disappeared.

On the Allied side of the strait there was not a sound nor a sign of life after the Long Toms had quit crackling except one red glow along the Messina water front.

"That's just a coal dump that's been smoldering four weeks," Harper explained.

Yanks Know How To Shoot

A British brigadier commanding the Allied artillery concentration for the invasion told me during the evening:

"Your American 155s are a big help. Those Long Tom rifles have an exceedingly long range and your men know how to shoot them to perfection."

The brigadier, as precisely as an auditor going over accounts, reviewed the work of Allied gunners along the strait since the close of the Sicilian campaign and estimated that many enemy batteries across the way had been knocked out in that period.

"They'll Get Real Pasting"

"We've blown up several of their beach forts and pillboxes already and when we turn on our real shoot just before the landings they'll get a real pasting."

The brigadier disclosed that he had a hard time recently trying to entice enemy artillery into duels.

"Up To Their Old Habit"

"They're up to their old habit," he said. "When things get too hot they pull back their guns out of our range and just lie low. But they must have the exact range for all their beaches and when our troops arrive ashore then those enemy guns will open up again."

He said he hadn't heard lately of "Moaning Minnie," a six-barreled German mortar, several of which were knocked out at Centuripe during the Sicilian campaign, but that he expected a number would come into action later today.

Best Shot Of The Week

One of the best shots this week, he said, came when he spotted a motor convoy at San Giovanni entering a garage. The British waited until the last vehicle passed into the building, then scored a direct hit. As the vehicles started to flee, more shells wiped them all out.

"We've got artillery superiority in this sector virtually on the same scale as our air superiority," the brigadier declared. "But it is possible the enemy has reinforced and brought in supplies along two good coast roads at night. That's traffic that won't be stopped until we lads step on the Italian toe."

1943

30.24-8039

peatedly as if a giant were using an air blower on them.

The American artillery bombardment preceded by some four hours the massive Allied barrage on enemy beach fortifications.

Gunnery mates of Capt. Timothy Cleary, observation officer of the United States Artillery Battery, today claimed for him the distinction of being the first American to invade Italy.

Allied gunners.

A British ship nestling almost in the center of the strait near the ancient Charybdis whirlpool poured explosives into the Italian shore. Just beyond the Eighth army's advancing infantry four heavy concrete forts guarding the enemy's hold on the northern entrance to the strait were deluged by hundreds of Allied shells.

British and Canadian troops frequently fired signal lights to indicate their progress and the Al-

Great Allied Artillery Barrage Covered Initial Landing on It

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Associated Press War Correspondent Representing Combined American Press

MESSINA STRAIT, Sept. 3 — (7:30 A. M.-Delayed)—On the purple-shadowed tip of Italy Canadian and British troops fought inland from their invasion beaches today as the red sun rose ahead of them in a cloudless sky after a triumphant pre-dawn landing.

As the thin mist rolls back from Messina strait the first daylight glimpse of the new Eurpean front shows Eighth army infantry beyond the sandy shoreline where landing craft are lying motionless and amphibious "ducks" crawl in and out of the surf like water bettles.

Enemy Guns Silenced

Smothered by the Allied barrage, enemy guns are almost completely silent since the concentrated shelling from Sicily began at 3:45 a. m. This bombardment was maintained with scarcely a pause until after 6 a. m. Shortly after 6 a. m. three Axis shells dropped on the northern flank of the Eighth army's bridgehead but until then the only return fire came from a lone battery on the southern edge of the Italian toe.

American 155 millimeter artillery in the Allied concentration along Messina strait played a vital role in the bombardment that sent a red blinking carpet of explosions unrolling from end to end of the opposite Italian coast line.

Massed batteries of British 25-pounders, secretly installed on the Sicilian beaches the past few days, provided the bulk of Allied fire power, however. For many minutes all the Allied guns filled the darkness with a constant downfire. Then for more than half an hour they raked all the known enemy gun positions as the first troops were setting foot on the soil of Europe at 4:30 a. m.

Six Fires Touched Off

Six big fires sprayed sparks and orange flashes in the air, indicating dumps had been hit directly by gunners lifted their range to old danger to their own men.

One big curving beach was securely in the Eighth army's hands by 5 a. m. and other landings were consolidated rapidly as dawn came with a fiery flash from behind the Calabrian mountains.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery can now send forces across the strait to his Eighth army practically at will. A tremendous collection of Allied artillery continues to provide cover against enemy counter-fire, and Allied planes in heavy strength are sweeping the enemy's rear, seeking targets of opportunity.

This European front has been opened on ancient and hallowed ground with its legends of sirens and woodland gods.

The staccato bark of machine-guns which can be heard floating back across the channel shows that there still is some grim mopping up going on a short distance from the sea and that the "poor, bloody infantry" has a job of work left to do.

But there is no doubt about this —the Allies now have a real European frontline.

Troops Roll Up To Messina In Holiday Mood

By Daniel De Luce

[Associated Press War Correspondent Representing the Combined American Press]

Messina, Sicily, Sept. 2 (Delayed)—Carefree Sicilians gawked, cheered and sold fruit to the Allied invasion army deploying along Messina Strait today.

Although 1,000,000 civilians from Syracuse to Messina could easily guess that the next few hours would bring an attack against Italy by alien troops who conquered their island, they waved British and Canadian troops on to battle as if they were their own sons and brothers.

Highways Are Packed

For several days long lines of troops, guns and motor transports have moved through the cities to docks for embarkation. The highways were packed today with forces moving to the beaches directly opposite the green mountainous tip of Italy.

In virtually every cove, landing craft were drawn up on the sand awaiting their cargos of men and weapons of war.

Scores of "ducks," those amazing two and a half ton amphibious trucks which were the mechanical stars of the Sicilian attack, rumbled bumper to bumper around breathlessly sharp curves in the mountainside coastal highway.

They were the prize sight of the day for the Sicilians.

Sub-Debs Hand Out Flowers

Girls in freshly ironed Sunday dresses smiled from doorways at these landlubber yachts rolling along on wheels until they reached assigned points to enter the sea. Some sub-debs handed out bouquets to the sweaty troops when traffic blocks ahead kept the "ducks" motionless.

Old folks clung to easy chairs at the edge of the road, unmindful of the dust and literally open-mouthed at the continuing military pageant. Veteran army drivers had to keep a lookout for black-shawled grandmothers sitting almost in their path.

Urchins Hawk Fruit

Urchins of all sizes but with faces equally dirty hawked baskets of grapes and figs to the passing troops and more than one Tommy sitting on a load of ammunition, rations and bedrolls strummed on a newly purchased Italian mandolin.

Italian police in green uniforms with small rifles slung over their shoulders congregated in front of each district headquarters to rubberneck with a blase air.

They were the only element of the population that didn't wave the Allies on to a new conquest.

Nazis Did Thorough Job

The Germans did a thorough job of demolition to the highway where it runs on the side of sheer cliffs and long detours were necessary at several points.

The Eighth Army named three of these, Alamein, Mareth, and Akarit, after three tough Axis lines it broke in Africa.

As the forces reached their respective embarkation beaches the troops gladly left the dusty, tiresome highway traffic and quickly arranged the vehicles in orderly rows, then slipped off for a swim in the sparkling surf.

Like A Holiday

There was nothing of grim tension about this prelude to smashing in the back door of Europe. It was more like a holiday event.

This coast of Sicily is one of the most beautiful spots in the world from which to sail to death or glory, and you don't wonder that three villages near Messina bear Italian names meaning "Paradise," "contemplation" and "peace."

Countryside Hardly Touched

The countryside is almost entirely unscarred by war. It is in the cities such as Augusta, Catania and Messina where the terrible destruction of total air attack has turned entire districts into a skeleton of ruins.

Looking across the strait at Italy is something like viewing the hills of Marin county from San Francisco across the Golden Gate. It's about as close

The Calabrian mountains climb up to 6,000 feet behind the neat white stone towns of Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni, which are on the slopes that meet the cobalt-

Air Strength Exceeded All Needs, Officer Says

By Bill Welson

[Representing the Combined Canadian Press. Distributed by the Associated Press]

On the Sicilian Coast, Opposite Calabria, Sept. 3 (Delayed)—Canadian and British troops invading southern Italy today sent back word that the beaches had been secured within two and a half hours after the initial landings.

Allied artillery concentrated on the northeastern tip of Sicily had bombarded enemy batteries on the Italian mainland for twenty minutes before the landings were commenced.

Beaches Pounded 15 Minutes

Forty minutes before the first landing barges reached their objectives the barrage was shifted to the beaches, which were hammered steadily for fifteen minutes.

Then the Allied guns lifted their fire inland to blast the enemy gun positions again.

All the artillery engaged in the bombardment was British except for some American heavies.

"Like Crossing A River"

A high-ranking Canadian officer said the trip across Messina Strait was "almost like crossing a river."

The attack proceeded with great confidence on the part of the commanders. The air and sea battle had already been won and the guns had to cover slightly less than ten yards each during the barrage. There was tremendous air support available, of which Maj. Gen. Guy G. Simonds, commander of the Canadian First Division, said: "There is more air support available than we can possibly use."

Single Machine-Gun Burst

During the barrage it was impossible to hear anything except the crumpling shell bursts in Italy, but when the barrage stopped completely at 6 A. M. only a single burst of machine-gun fire could be heard distinctly.

Here are a few notes I jotted down as I watched the barrage from the beach:

3.35 A. M.—The main barrage started with the guns firing all along the coast with flashes that show up the strait.

Searchlights Guide Boats

3.50 A. M.—Six of our searchlights formed a cone to guide our landing craft. There is no enemy counter-fire. Steady shell bursts are visible from Italy. There is the constant drone from the landing craft motors and the craft are clearly visible.

3.53 A. M.—A lull except when firing was resumed.

4.10 A. M.—Several fires on the opposite side of the strait.

4.15 A. M.—Intermittent firing.

4.18 A. M.—Heavy firing is resumed.

Munitions Dumps Hit

4.20 A. M.—Large, regular explosions with a heavy pall of smoke; apparently ammunition dumps blowing up.

4.25 A. M.—Very intense firing—much the heaviest yet. More ships are visible on the coast. Naval ships supported the landing, with many Canadians among the crews. The navy provided the covering force against the possibility that the Italian navy might put to sea.

Two Miles Of Barges

At dawn a long line of barges passed us and a few moments later the first of a string which stretched two or three miles down the coast drew up with a naval escort behind.

A group of Spitfires, flying at high altitude, were the only planes I have seen this morning. Crowds of smiling Sicilians waved their handkerchiefs at Canadian and British soldiers driving along the coastal road as they watched the barges and realized the invasion had started.

By MAURICE DESJARDINS

(Representing the combined Canadian Press)

With Canadian Troops in Sicily, Sept. 3 (Delayed) (AP).—Naval crews returning to the beaches in Sicily after ferrying Canadian invasion troops to Italy reported today that they had met no opposition.

Hundreds of invasion craft took them across and transported stores of ammunition.

The first troops landed were mine detecting engineers.

One Allied naval man said he believed our tremendous artillery barrage had a lot to do in keeping the enemy from the beaches in Italy.

Few Shots, 'If Any,' Fired By Canadians

By Ross Munro

[Canadian Press War Correspondent. Distributed by the Associated Press]

SEP 5 1943

With the Canadians in Italy, Sept. 3 (Delayed)—Canadian troops swept across the Messina strait and landed on the beaches of southern Italy just before dawn today to establish a bridgehead with practically no opposition.

Supported by a devastating ...llery barrage from masses ... ...s on the Sicilian coast, as w... a bombardment from warsh... ...e Canadians made the assa... ...re with even more ease than t... ...d-ing at Pachino in Sicily.

No Casualty Seen

I have been ashore for more than two hours after landing ...th the assault force. I have t... ...d with hundreds of troops so fa... ...d have not seen a casualty.

Only a few shots, if any, ...re fired, during the landing.

Coastal defenses here were negligible. The beaches were not mined and there was only a little barbed wire. A handful of Italian soldiers on the shoreline surrendered immediately.

A few civilians greeted the Canucks with hand waves and smiles, some of them parading around with white flags. They said the Germans had withdrawn to the hills.

Honor Is Shared

So far I haven't seen a single German, although I saw one batch of twenty Italians rounded up near the beach.

British troops shared with the Canadians the honor of making the first bridgehead on the European mainland. The Royal Navy and a flotilla of the Royal Canadian Navy ferried the Canadians over the Messina Strait in various types of assault craft under a two-hour thundering barrage from Eighth Army gunners in Sicily.

Occasionally enemy guns winked back, but on the Canadian sector the whole operation was a complete success, as it was at Pachino.

Barrage Lights Waters

Sailing in under the tremendous British barrage, which lighted the smooth waters of Messina Strait with a thousand flashes as the guns pounded from 3.30 A. M. until daylight, was one of the most thrilling sights this war has produced.

We could see the whole Sicilian coast a flaming mass of gunfire. Shells whined overhead and ears were dinned by the crash of artillery.

Searchlights on a steady beam spitted the starlit sky over the strait like Kleig lights at a gigantic premiere. Tracer shells fired on fixed lines from the Sicilian coast right to our beach guided the Canadians to their landing point.

British Ahead Of Schedule

By Sholto Watt

[Representing the Combined Canadian Press. Distributed by the Associated Press]

At Messina Strait, Sept. 3 (Delayed)—Reports coming from the Italian mainland show that objectives on the Canadian sector of the new Allied bridgehead are being taken far ahead of schedule and that the Britsih are "streaking ahead like a scalded cat."

At 10 A. M. I was informed by headquarters that the first Canadian formation had made such progress that it was taking objectives assigned to the second formation. The first line of hill forts had been taken.

Counts 100 Craft Afloat

As I drove down from headquarters I saw landing craft returning from Italy and many others putting out, while at one point I counted more than one hundred craft afloat in the narrow Messina Strait.

This vast array of shipping was only attacked once—by an effective salvo—as long as I was watching. Fires were still burning on the mainland which were started by the night's tremendous barrage, but there were few visible signs of fighting on shore.

Indeed, headquarters received a report that there were no Germans on the shore, while the Italians were surrendering in droves, just as in Sicily.

Prisoners Brought Ashore

I saw prisoners being brought ashore to crowded beaches and nine heavy guns that been captured.

Besides the prisoners taken on the mainland there has also been a steady trickle for several days of Italians coming over on their own in rowboats at night, including some naval personnel.

Local residents give the impression of being pleased at the invasion. They are still smiling, waving greetings and sometimes throwing gifts of fruit despite the fact that most of them took refuge in the early hours this morning when Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery showed them what he meant by a "Montgomery barrage" fired over their heads.

Hungry Italian Greets First Invasion Troops

S. L. Solon

Representing the combined British Press (Distributed by the Associated Press)

ON THE ITALIAN MAINLAND, Sept. 4—(AP) We have just landed on the beaches of the Italian mainland and not an enemy plane, an enemy shell, nor an enemy vessel was heard or seen.

A man who spoke a smattering of English and his little daughter were the only occupants of our beach.

"You here, but no army here any more. Mussolini gone. German gone. We very hungry. No bread for five days," he said.

Up to this moment we have lost not a single craft or vehicle in landing and our casualties have been very light.

FIRST AMERICAN TO LAND

Artillery Captain Goes to Italy With British as Observer

WITH THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY, Sept. 3 (Delayed) (AP)—His gunnery mates claimed for Capt. Timothy Cleary, observation officer of a United States artillery battery, the distinction of being the first American to invade Italy today.

Captain Cleary, whose home is reported to be in Boston, was graduated from Harvard about a decade ago. He crossed the strait with British forces to send back information on enemy gunfire. He is attached to a battery of Long Tom 155-mm. artillery.

"That's wonderful," exclaimed Mrs. Anna L. Cleary, the captain's mother, when informed that he was the first American to land. "I'm surely happy to know that he came through right side up."

Mrs. Cleary lives in Ayer, Mass. The captain's wife and two children live in Pine Bluff, N. C. He trained at Fort Bragg before going abroad in 1942.

FRANCE READY TO AID ALLIE

Committee of Resistance, Insid Conquered Country, Makes Widespread Preparations.

French Make Ready.

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—As landings in Italy brought Allied forces nearer the soil of France today, French leaders both here and within France quickened their preparations for the assault which one day will come against German forces occupying their country.

Yesterday's vote of the Committee for National Liberation for total military or civil mobilization of all French men and women is already being put into effect by the underground Committee of Resistance inside France, a spokesman for the committee declared. He added that there is rapid liaison between the Liberation committee here and the Resistance committee in France.

The Liberation Committee also voted to bring to justice those participating in Marshal Petain's collaborationist government.

The two decisions taken together mean that every Frenchman and Frenchwoman in France or abroad is ordered to serve the cause of liberation to the fullest extent or face trial after liberation.

The president of the Resistance Committee in France — as yet anonymous except to his close collaborators there and to those closely connected with the Liberation Committee here — is no myth, a Frenchman here who knows his identity said, but a young man previously unknown in French politics who has emerged as a strong leader and who has the full support of his secret Committee of Resistance.

Regular Meetings Held.

This committee has held regular meetings in cities throughout France, including Strasbourg, which Hitler has annexed to Germany. The members have traveled to the meetings under the noses of the Gestapo, and no meeting place ever has been known to the Germans until it was too late to catch the members. Sub-committees operate in all French departments, and with local committees in towns and villages the whole organization forms a network spreading from the main committee.

An adherent of Gen. Charles de Gaulle here said the leader in France was a follower of De Gaulle and that he had accepted the Committee of Liberation in Algiers as the governing body of French liberation rights.

"The Resistance Committee has an army in France," this Frenchman said. "Thousands and thousands of French have fled to the hills rather than work in Germany. This army has rifles, machine-guns, mortars and even some artillery."

Sabotage has been placed on a highly organized basis, with the main effort directed at preparing for a full program as soon as an Allied force lands in France.

Here in North Africa there is another great French army, splendidly equipped with American material and ready for action.

U. S. Flier Crash-Lands Amid Prisoners in Sicily

By The Associated Press.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 4—An American Warhawk pilot thought he was a prisoner when he crash-landed in a field and was quickly accosted by German troops, and it took him a little time to find out that he had merely landed in a camp for Axis prisoners in Sicily.

Flight Officer Maurice L. Plummer of Indianapolis, Ind., was on a mission over Sardinia when enemy shells riddled his P-40, knocked out the radio and filled the cockpit with smoke.

"I started to bail out but there was so much smoke I figured my chute probably had burned, too," he said. "I flew on, coaxing the plane inch by inch and finally hit land. When two men in unfamiliar uniforms trotted up and pointed to themselves and said 'German,' I figured I had gotten mixed up and gone back to Sardinia."

UNDERGROUND TOLD TO WIDEN ITS WORK

French Committee Orders Resistance, Sabotage Increased in Homeland.

ALGIERS, Sept. 4 — (AP) The French Committee of National Liberation, keying its moves with the advances of the Allies onto the European mainland, has ordered the underground committee of resistance inside France to step up its organizing and sabotage activities in preparation for the day when Allied forces land in France.

The underground committee is led by a young, flesh and blood president who the Germans by now know is far from being a myth. He remains anonymous except to his close collaborators in France and to those closely connected with the liberation committee here under Generals de Gaulle and Giraud.

The underground president, it was disclosed today, is a man previously unknown in French politics who has risen to the top through strong leadership. He is said to have the full support of the underground committee, and in turn is said by de Gaullists here to have accepted the liberation committee in Algiers as the governing body of French liberation efforts.

An adherent of Gen. de Gaulle's said the underground chief was a de Gaullist.

The underground committee holds regular meetings in cities throughout France, even in Strasbourg which the Nazis annexed. The members meet almost under the eyes of the Gestapo, and yet it is said that the Germans never learned about any meeting place until too late to make any arrests.

The de Gaulle aide here said that the resistance committee has an "army" in France.

"Thousands and thousands of French have fled to the hills rather than work in Germany," he said. "This army has rifles, machineguns, mortars and some artillery."

The main underground committee works through sub-committees in each department of France, and these sub-committees have under them local committees in towns and villages.

This highly centralized network [illegible] sabotage on a smoothly organized basis, directing its main [illegible] preparations for full activity when the Allies land in France.

DUCE ON ISLAND GUARDED BY NAZIS

Germans May Try to Restore Fallen Dictator to Power.

AT THE ITALIAN FRONTIER, Sept. 4.—(AP) La Stampa of Turin reported today that Benito Mussolini still is held on Ponza island, 65 miles east of Naples, but under German protection.

This supported a report that custody of the fallen Duce had caused a conflict between the government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio and the Nazis, with the latter holding him and threatening to restore him to power.

This report added it was believed that Mussolini soon would be moved to a new location, possibly in Germany where Roberto Farinacci—former Fascist party secretary and grand council member now spoken of as an Italian quisling—escaped disguised in an SS uniform. Count Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini's son-in-law, also is said to have gone to Germany after a Nazi-aided flight from his house in Rome.

The Italian press meanwhile continued its intense campaign against former Fascist chiefs, while the Badoglio government stepped up its arrests of leaders and sequestration of their properties.

A Swiss Telegraphic agency dispatch from Chiasso said the latest arrests included Marshal Emilio de Bono and Luigi Freddi, Italian movie chief. But the government was also speeding release of anti-Fascists, among them Francesco Zanardi, mayor of Bologna from 1914 to 1919.

The Tribune de Lausanne said the anti-Fascist campaign clearly was directed toward discrediting forever in the eyes of the masses the former regime whose return would mean "resumption of complete Axis politics—the principal if not the only cause of the fall of Mussolini."

It added that the Germans had planned a coup similar to that in Norway in 1940, planning to oust Badoglio and replace him with a cabinet fully devoted to Germany with Farinacci in the role of a quisling.

SMUTS SAYS ITALY WILL FALL EARLY

Pretoria, Union of South Africa, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—Premier Jan Christiaan Smuts predicted the early fall of Italy tonight in a broadcast reviewing four years of the war.

Although he said another year of fighting lay ahead before Germany would be defeated, he asserted that Adolf Hitler's Fortress of Europe finally would "disappear physically before the great day and night Allied air onslaughts" and that the Fifth Column inside Germany would play a part in the Nazi fall.

"A deep revolt is brewing inside Germany which must in the end be more catastrophic for Hitler and for Nazidom than even the horror of the air war by night," Marshal Smuts said.

Although he cautioned that the Allies may have "very heavy losses" in the coming year, he declared "we are now rapidly approaching the great moment which will open the final phase of the war."

Berne, Sept. 3 (Delayed) (A. P.).—The initial surprise over the Allied landing in Calabria apparently passed quickly in Italy today and was followed by almost a spirit of apathy as the Italians realized that the hoped-for peace was not on the immediate horizon.

A Swiss telegraphic agency dispatch from Rome said "there is no particular uneasiness in the capital."

The Rome correspondent of the Tribune De Geneve reported that the Italians have now realized that nothing less than a miracle could spare the country the tragic lot of being transformed into a battlefield.

A dispatch to the Zurich Die Tat from the Italian frontier said the first reaction in Italy to the invasion was one of complete calm, almost indifference, adding that in official Italian circles there was still the impression that the landing was a diversion, while the real invasion would be launched at some other point.

A Milan dispatch to the Berne newspaper Der Bund said that the Italian people had reckoned on an imminent attack on the mainland, but nonetheless had hoped that the Badoglio government would succeed in withdrawing the country from the war before the Allies set foot on the peninsula.

The break in the Allied bombing of northern Italian cities had nourished the belief that negotia-

Italian Hope for Peace Dim

Swiss Dispatches Tell of Apathy Toward Invasion by Allies.

1943

30.24-8041

tions were in progress between Rome and the Allies. Today's landing, the Milan dispatch added, "ends these illusions.

The Italian press limited itself to a brief official communique on the fighting on the mainland while it devoted columns to a campaign against former Fascist leaders.

The Corriere Della Sera of Milan gave four columns to the exploits of the family of former Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, whose goods and property were reported to have been sequestered by the Italian Government along with that of Roberto Farinacci, former secretary of the Fascist party and other Fascist leaders.

RUSSIAN PEOPLE HEAR OF INVASION OF ITALY

MOSCOW, Sept. 4 — (AP) The first news of the British-Canadian landings in southern Italy was broadcast to the Russian people near the end of the regular 10:30 news report last night.

Short London dispatches were quoted announcing the Eighth army's pre-dawn crossing of the Messina strait under the cover of artillery fire.

The morning newspapers reprinted the same dispatches on back pages with the other foreign news under the title "Landing operations by English and Canadian troops in southern Italy." There was no editorial comment.

BRENNER PASS IDLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—(AP) Traffic through the Brenner pass between Germany and Italy has been at a complete standstill since Thursday's daylight raid by American Flying Fortresses, the British radio declared today, quoting a correspondent of the Swedish newspaper Svenska Dagbladet. The broadcast was recorded by CBS.

[illegible] agency [illegible] broadcast a dispatch datelined Rome which said that Count Galeazzo Ciano, former Italian Foreign Minister who disappeared from his Rome villa a week ago, had been arrested by the Italian police and was being closely guarded.

The broadcast, heard by the Federal Communications Commission, added that Ciano's wife Edda, daughter of Benito Mussolini, "is also said to have been arrested, but this has not yet been confirmed."

ITALIAN RETREAT DUPLICATES AXIS DEFEAT IN TUNISIA

German Withdrawal Underway, First Stand Expected Farther North.

LONDON, Sept. 4—(AP) Axis forces were falling back tonight in what may become a duplication of their retreat in Tunisia, that is, a sudden abandonment of far southern Italy.

It appeared that at the worst for the Allies the German withdrawal would become another Sicily for them,—a strong but not very hopeful stand in the rough country farther up the Italian peninsula.

The whole southern tip of Calabria, with the possible exception of a segment of the eastern extremity, was effectively in Allied control.

Shore Batteries Smashed

Axis batteries had been blasted out and squeezed out of the northern shores of Messina strait, and also the water had been cleared and Allied shipping was running free there save for the minor danger of the badly-defeated enemy air arm.

Thus a line of communication had been cleared and secured for other and far heavier attacks on Italy by Allied fleets still unchallenged by the Italian navy.

The Axis has been kept guessing, and the threat of such attacks to the north of the present battle arena appeared to explain what had no other apparent explanation: The fact that neither the Italians nor the Germans thus far had made any strong effort to hold the assault of Gen. Montgomery's British and Canadian groups.

Strategic Victory Won

As the offensive of the supreme commander, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, unfolded it became clear that he had won a considerable strategic victory with the mere act of sending Gen. Montgomery bursting across the Messina strait.

The Nazi-Fascist enemy was so gravely preoccupied with what Gen. Eisenhower might do next—and with the presence of vast Allied forces scowling at him along the whole perimeter of the Mediterranean—that his ability to act against what already had been done seemed seriously impaired.

This worried hesitancy was reflected in both German and Italian propaganda—in Rome by a series of announcements to the effect that anything might happen anywhere in the way of Allied attacks, and in Berlin by the extreme reserve with which the entire operation was treated.

The fact that the Germans thus far had shown no disposition to do much fighting in southern Italy was noted with calm satisfaction by a British military commentator who remarked that the Nazis had been down there in substantial strength at the beginning of the invasion.

Allied Landings Continue

The Allied naval communique today announcing continued landings gave no hint of interference, saying "this work continues." Loss of the enemy's batteries along the upper shore of the Messina strait left him no weapon against these continued landings save his weak air arm.

The Allied campaign seemed to be going well politically as well as militarily. The Italian press and radio on a note of despair said the people were making no secret of their fearful expectation of further Allied attacks anywhere along the Italian coast.

The landing of another Allied division or two in the Belvedere-Corigliano-Rossano area about 60 miles north of Reggio Calabria probably would make untenable the positions of an estimated three divisions of Axis troops who are unable, despite fierce resistance, to prevent the Allies from cutting bridgeheads into the countryside.

BERLIN BOMBED BY R. A. F.; THOUSAND TONS DROPPED

Germans Admit Government Buildings Were Struck—Raiders Lose 22 Planes.

FULL SCALE RAID ON FRANCE

Americans Attack Aircraft Plant Outside Paris and Five German Air Fields.

London, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—A great force of R. A. F. heavy Lancaster bombers unloaded 1,000 long tons of bombs on battered Berlin last night in the space of twenty minutes, the Air Ministry announced today.

This unloading at the rate of fifty tons a minute, using only Lancasters, represented a new technic to reduce losses, and seemingly was successful. With the slower Halifaxes and Sterlings left home, the Lancasters got away fast and suffered a loss of twenty-two planes, compared to forty-seven bombers missing from the raid on Tuesday and fifty-eight on the one a week ago Monday. The present operation included attacks on other parts of the Rhineland and airfields in France, and accounted for extensive mine-laying.

The bulletin reported that the Berlin raiders encountered thick clouds along the route, but said that over the target the sky was clear.

Admit Berlin Raid Was Big.

[The Germans admitted that the raid was "one of the largest ever undertaken against Berlin," and said that Nazi fighters fought the raiders 100 miles outside the city and all the way into the city. The Associated Press reported this in a dispatch from Stockholm.]

Then taking up the round-the-clock assault, Mitchells, Bostons and Venturas roared across the channel today and bombed the important railway junctions at Rouen, Amiens and Abbeville in northern France.

The Berlin assault ended a day of Allied aerial activity which included a full-scale raid by American Flying Fortresses upon the Caudron-Renault aircraft plant on the outskirts of Paris and attacks by other American units upon five Nazi airfields in France, including Romilly-sur-Seine.

The German radio as usual described the attack on Berlin as a "terror raid" but acknowledged that some damage and fires resulted. "A considerable number of British planes were brought down by anti-aircraft batteries and fighters the broadcast said.

"Planes dropped bombs over the city and the suburbs," said DNB, the German news agency. "Once again it was beyond doubt a terror attack, as residential quarters, hospitals, churches and other cultural monuments were hit and destroyed.

"While combatting the fires the Berlin population showed themselves capable of effective and exemplary behavior."

The Germans also reported that British planes had attacked shipping during the night in the Ijsselmeer in Holland, sinking one ship and machine-gunning several others.

Fires in Paris Suburbs.

A Vichy broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said that many fires still were burning in the Paris suburbs this morning following the Fortress raid and that casualties included 98 persons killed and 352 injured.

[British observers attach more than ordinary significance to today's Allied raids on France, according to the National Broadcasting Company's broadcast from London.

[The force, it said, included the largest formation of American bombers yet to cross the English Channel, and may signal a softening up process to prepare the French coast for invasion.

[Pilots returning from the raid said the French skies were so crowded with American planes that an aerial traffic cop would have come in handy.]

LANCASTERS STRIKE

RAF Uses New Tactics to Cut Loss in Blow at Reich Capital

RECORD SATURATION

SEP 5 1943

1,000-Ton Load Loosed in 20 Minutes—Night Raids Cost 22 Planes

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 4—Hundreds of heavy bombers of the Royal Air Force—all speedy Lancasters engaging in a new type of attack—blasted Berlin with 1,000 long tons (1,120 United States tons) of bombs in twenty minutes last night in the most concentrated air raid ever made upon Germany.

The cascade of bombs fell at the rate of fifty tons a minute in this third saturation assault on the Nazi capital in eleven days.

The new tactics of leaving the slower Halifaxes and Stirlings out of the raiding formations and putting the whole fleet over the capital in a concentrated period of time apparently was designed to cut down losses to the enemy's night fighters and it seemed successful.

Twenty-two RAF bombers were lost during the night over Berlin and in raids on the Rhineland and airfields in France, as well as mine-laying, compared with forty-seven bombers missing from the Berlin raid Tuesday and the fifty-eight lost in the Berlin attack the night of Aug. 23.

Blows at French Bases Go On

A great procession of Mitchells, Bostons and Venturas followed the softening-up offensive today, battering important railway junctions at Rouen, Amiens and Abbeville, the Air Ministry announced, switching daylight targets in northern France from airfields to freight yards.

In the afternoon Allied medium bombers and fighters blasted at enemy shipping in the harbor of Boulogne and American B-26 Marauder bombers attacked freight yards at Lille, St. Pol and Hazebrouck, France, and Courtrai, Belgium.

Making it a day-long assault on German transport facilities in occupied Europe, squadrons of American P-47 Thunderbolts made wide sweeps over Belgium late in the day.

Allied fighters brought down a total of seventeen Nazi planes during the day for a loss of five, with at least one of the Allied pilots safe. The Marauders met the heaviest Nazi opposition; their RAF Spitfire escort downed fifteen of the day's bag of Nazis and lost three planes.

With the German Air Force under almost continuous twenty-four-hour strain the Nazis appeared still to be groping for defenses against the bomber forces that are making a shambles of Berlin.

The Lancasters not only had to dogfight through Nazi interceptors which, Stockholm reports said, met them as far as 100 miles from the capital, but also had to brave fairly heavy anti-aircraft fire over the target. In the two previous heavy assaults the Germans had held down ground fire trying to turn back the raiders with searchlights and fighters.

The armada hitting Berlin was smaller than those in the two previous raids, but it left Berlin well afire, and one bombardier reported a column of smoke rising 2,000 feet.

The Berlin raid came after heavy assaults Friday by American and British planes, Flying Fortresses smashing aircraft plants near Paris and bombing French airfields.

A Vichy broadcast said fires still were burning in Paris and that "ruins are to be seen everywhere on the outskirts" of the French capital. It placed casualties at ninety-eight killed and 352 injured, and said bombs fell near the Gare Montparnasse, Rue de Cherche Midi, Rue Notre Dame des Champs, Rue de Rennes, Rue St. Placide, Rue Michel Ange and Boulevard Murat, west of the Latin Quarter.

German frontier and Budapest dispatches to Swiss and Swedish newspapers said the Germans were evacuating women and children from Vienna, fearing that it would be raided. Flying Fortresses recently attacked Wiener Neustadt in that area.

NAZI SUPPLY LINE CUT BY RUSSIANS IN DONETS BASIN

Reds Sweep Across Three Railroads Leading to Stalino.

SEP 5 1943

MUCH BOOTY TAKEN

Soviet Forces Drive Wedges Into German Defense Positions.

LONDON, Sunday, Sept. 5—(AP) The Red army captured the heart of Germany's supply network in the Donets basin yesterday in a crushing 15-mile drive that killed 2,500 enemy troops and put the Russians astride three railways leading into the great steel city of Stalino, whose fall is believed near.

Ilovaiskaya, only 18 miles southeast of Stalino, was seized, the Moscow daily communique announced today, as were Nikitovka and Gorlovka, 20 miles to the north, and Yenakievo and Debaltsevo, 25 and 35 miles, respectively, to the northeast.

Great Booty Seized

The Russians overran more than 90 villages, captured huge stores of Axis guns, tanks and ammunition dumps in their semi-encirclement of Stalino, the communique disclosed. The swift gains probably will hasten a German withdrawal from the Donets to the Dnieper river 135 miles to the west.

The Russians said their hard-hitting forces were "driving wedges into the German position and preventing enemy attempts to consolidate on new lines."

In the northern Ukraine the Red army, spilling across the severed Bryansk-Kiev railway captured Korop, 17 miles west of that line, the communique said, in a drive so swift that 3,000 Russian civilians held in a German concentration camp were freed before the Germans could evacuate them.

This plunge northwest of Konotop, Axis base 25 miles to the southeast, apparently was an encircling move on Konotop which is already menaced by Soviet units attacking within 14 miles north of the city and 30 miles to the east. But the capture of Korop also placed the Russians near the Desna river, last main water hurdle before the Dnieper river.

Red Attacks Continue

"Our troops are giving the enemy no respite, dealing continual blows on him," said the bulletin of this westward surge which also was coordinated with parallel Russian smashes in the Bryansk and Smolensk sectors.

Mounting signs of Axis disaster in the Donets were evident in the communique, which said several Soviet formations alone destroyed 65 German tanks during the day, and captured scores of guns and hundreds of supply trucks.

German forces based at Stalino, Axis southern headquarters, now risk encirclement if they have not already begun evacuating that important prize which they seized in October, 1941. Russian troops converging on the city from three sides already have penetrated far beyond the highwater mark of the Russian offensive of last winter.

The seizure of the metallurgical center of Nikitovka broke the backbone of the German rail network because the city lies on the vital Taganrog-Slavyansk and Taganrog-Dnieperopetrovsk lines serving the crumbling German salient. Stalino lies on a branch railway southwest of the two main lines, and already is cut off from Slavyansk and Artemvosk, which likewise are threatened with early capture.

"The Voroshilovgrad region is now completely liberated from the German Fascist invaders," said the bulletin, recorded by the Soviet monitor.

Voroshilovgrad, whence the present Soviet offensive began in the Donets basin, is 65 miles northeast of Nikitovka.

Drive on Smolensk

On the Smolensk front the Russians also advanced and were threading their way through German fortifications established in the original 1941 plunge toward Moscow. The Russians attacking west of Dorogobuzh and Yelnya were believed less than 40 miles from Smolensk.

The Berlin radio continued to reflect anxiety about the Smolensk front as well as the caving German facade in the Donets basin. One broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said the Russians had mounted powerful new attacks before Smolensk.

This same broadcast said the Russians also had attacked in great force at noon Saturday west of Kharkov in the middle Ukraine drive toward the Dnieper river bend. Thus far the Soviets had failed to achieve a breakthrough, Berlin asserted.

South of Kharkov the Russians said their troops had captured Merefa, 15 miles below the city on the main Kharkov-Crimea railway. Lozovaya, 75 miles below Kharkov, is the ultimate Soviet objective in this area since seizure of that city would cut off one of the major escape exits of the Germans withdrawing from the Donets basin to the southeast.

Russian troops also gained momentum in a drive south of Bryansk, which served as a hinge of the German central and southern fronts before the Soviet army cut the railway to Kiev below Bryansk.

The communique said advances of four to six miles were made south of Bryansk and more than 50 localities captured. Other Soviet units last were reported only 25 miles due east of Bryansk.

During Friday's fighting on all fronts the Russians said their troops knocked out 90 German tanks and shot down 31 planes.

London, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—Russian armies, gaining momentum in their summer offensive, were rocking the Germans back on their heels all along a 600-mile front today to threaten three of the Nazis' most important remaining positions east of the Dnieper River.

A Soviet communique, broadcast from Moscow, announced that the Red Army had recaptured 400 villages which have been in German hands since the early days of the Russian campaign in fall of 1941. Russian troops were reported closing in on Stalino, German headquarters for the Donets area in the south; Konotop, vital junction point of the Bryansk-Kiev railway; and Smolensk, hinge of the north-central area and jumping-off point for the Germans' unsuccessful drive on Moscow.

A fourth offensive aimed at Bryansk apparently had slowed down but had not been stopped, and only in the Kharkov area did the Russians admit that stubborn German resistance in the shape of frequent counter attacks had halted the Red Army without appreciable gains.

A German communique asserted that strong Russian attacks in the southern and central sectors of the front yesterday were repulsed after desperate fighting. The Nazi war bulletin, broadcast by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press, said the Germans destroyed 160 Russian tanks in yesterday's fighting.

The Russian drive reached its height in the Donets area, where the Red Army advanced nine to twelve miles on the approaches to Stalino, twelfth largest city in Russia and headquarters for Hitler's southern forces. The city fell to the Nazi invaders October 21, 1941, and has been developed into a strong base.

Closing In on Stalino.

One Russian spearhead was closing in rapidly on Stalino from the northeast and was reported in the Soviet midnight communique to have taken the town of Zuevha, only twenty-eight miles from the city.

The drive in the Donets basin swept 150 more villages into the Russians' bag, the midnight communique said. Large stocks of war material fell into Red Army hands and more than 4,000 Germans were killed in furious fighting.

[Moscow radio says that in the Donets basin "fast moving Red Army units have cut the German line of retreat in some places," the London radio reported this morning.

[The broadcast, recorded by CBS, said the Russian broadcast "describes the Donets basin as covered with clusters of smoldering ruins. The Germans are firing or blowing up all buildings, and the wind is scattering the ashes in the faces of the advancing Red Army men."]

The Russian claims were substantiated by the Berlin radio which announced that the Russians had opened a large-scale offensive in the Donets basin, and the indications were that the Nazi commentator was preparing the German public for news of further withdrawals in that area.

On the Sevsk sector of the central front advancing Russian columns bit deep into the Ukraine above Konotop and were entrenched along sixty miles of the vital Bryansk-Kiev railway. The day's gains, amounting in some places to twelve miles, resulted in the reoccupation of 100 towns, including Putivl, twenty-eight miles east of Konotop, the Russians said.

135 Miles From Kiev.

Advance elements of the Russian Army in the central area were said to have penetrated into German-held territory to a point 135 miles from Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, which is located on the Dnieper River.

To the north and east of Konotop Russian troops found the frontal advance upon Bryansk slowed by unfavorable terrain and heavy German resistance. Nevertheless the Red Army reported gains of from four to six miles and the capture of fifty villages. Bryansk is not only menaced by the columns driving west from Orel but faces a serious threat from Soviet units operating along the Bryansk-Kiev railroad north of Konotop.

Another 100 villages fell to Russian troops attacking in the direction of Smolensk, the Red Army bulletin said. The Russians said that 4,200 German were killed in a Red Army advance of from two and a half to four miles.

Total German casualties for the day, the Russians said, were 11,000, with fifty-four tanks and 600 trucks destroyed. The bulletin added that the withdrawing Germans were resorting to heavy demolitions of roads and bridges in an effort to slow down the Russian advance, but that large ammunition and food dumps were, nevertheless, falling to the Red Army intact.

Moscow also announced that Russian armies have regained 20,000 square miles of territory since they launched the summer offensive on July 12, making a total of 230,000 square miles recaptured from the Germans since they reached their deepest penetration at Stalingrad.

MODERN LONDON WILL RISE FROM RUINS OF BLITZ

Blueprint for Future Drawn —Skyscrapers Will Not Be Planned.

By HENRY B. JAMESON

LONDON — (AP) Winston Churchill, after the Germans tried and failed to destroy this biggest city in the world, promised its people that it would "rise from the ruins more healthy and more beautiful than before."

The first step toward fulfillment of this pledge has been taken by issuance of a blueprint for the most ambitious job of civic planning ever undertaken.

The report, a book illustrated with photographs and colored charts, is the result of two years' work by some of England's outstanding architects, engineers and civic leaders working under the London County Council. It lays down principles to be followed without generally attempting to work out details.

It stresses decentralization of industry and population along with improved housing conditions, more open space, playgrounds, broader—and straighter—streets and better traffic control. It presents a picture of London as it may be in the year 2000.

The report visualizes a great saucer-shaped metropolis with its major defects remedied and with buildings of beauty and high architectural quality — yet retaining "whatever is worthy of preservation."

No Skyscrapers

Although London's future skyline may be somewhat higher than at present, there is little chance for any real skyscrapers, the trademark of the large American city.

It is not so much a question of not wanting them (most Britishers express keen interest in the towering buildings of New York and other American cities) as it is a problem of geology. The sandy foundation of this city would not support the heavy weight of an Empire State or RCA building.

The tallest commercial building now is the 17-story University of London. Most downtown buildings are from six to nine stories.

Instead of height the planners offer a uniform building program with the size of various structures controlled by community needs.

As a matter of fact the whole scheme is based on the "community" plan, instead of trying to consider London as one unit.

To the casual observer it is just one immense city broken up by open spaces, industrial areas and railroads. But actually it is an amalgamation of dozens of separate towns and communities of varying sizes, each having its own identity and characteristics. This system is to be maintained and improved.

Officially, the city of London is only a dot in the center of the map covering an area of one square mile and with a population of less than 10,000. Population of the greater London area is in excess of 8,000,000.

Each community would have its own schools, shopping centers, public buildings, amusements, as well as its own industry situated so as not to endanger the residential amenities. The object is to make each community self-contained for all ordinary purposes.

With many existing parks as a starter, newly created parkways and drives would serve as buffers between one community and another as well as links to the main downtown area spread out around "the city."

A. E. F. IN BRITAIN IN TIP-TOP HEALTH

London, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—The health record of American troops in the British Isles is better than that of the United States Army men in any other overseas theater, Brig.-Gen. James S. Simmons, director of preventive medicine in the division office of the Surgeon General, said today in an announcement from the Army's European theater headquarters.

Gen. Simmons has just completed an inspection of American Hospitals and other installations in the European theater.

"The total disease rate in the entire Army now is the lowest in its history," he said. "In Great Britain there are less intestinal, venereal and other diseases than anywhere else where our soldiers are serving away from home."

He attributed the healthy condition of the armed forces here to a healthful, temperate climate, excellent British co-operation and the Army's effective medical service.

GEN. TASSIGNY ESCAPES FROM NAZI PRISON

Leader of Military Revolt Had Been Sentenced to Ten-year Term.

SEP 5 1943

London, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—In a broadcast picked up here today by the Associated Press, the Berlin radio reported the escape from Riom Prison of Gen. de Lattre de Tassigny, who attempted a military revolt in the south of France when the Allies invaded North Africa last year.

Gen. de Tassigny, who was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment by a special military court, was one of the youngest generals in the French Army, and at one time was associated with Gen. Giraud and Gen. de Gaulle in the French Army Command. He was commander of the Montpellier District when he rose against the German Army of Occupation. Before that he had commanded the French forces in Tunisia.

British Seek Mine Machinery Here

London, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—Major-Gen. K. C. Appleyard, who was chief engineer to the British Army in France, is now in the United States negotiating for strip mining machinery by which Britain hopes to obtain 20,000,000 tons of coal from open pits next year, it was disclosed today.

The present annual pit output is about 5,200,000 tons.

1943

3024-8043

Arnold Says Allied Air Might Will Force German Collapse

Discloses That New and Bigger Daylight Bomber Will Have No. 1 Priority on U. S. War Production Lines.

London, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—The American daylight bombing campaign against Germany now has No. 1 priority on United States heavy bomber production, Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of United States Army Air Forces, declared today, adding that it will be intensified in the near future with far bigger bombers able to operate in less favorable weather than Flying Fortresses.

Gen. Arnold said he thought the Allied bombing eventually would bring a simultaneous collapse of German war industry and morale.

The air chief wrapped up all questions about the effectiveness of the campaign with a statement to a press conference that:

"If the Germans don't stop our (Allied) bombers they won't have any air force left and without any air force they won't be able to continue the war—the same thing will happen to them as in North Africa and Sicily."

He said that the Nazis seemed to be making little progress in stopping the bombers so far.

Bigger Bombers Coming.

The new bombers are those which Gen. Arnold described generally in a recent service magazine article—bigger with over twice the bomb load of a Fortress and with heavier guns and longer range.

He added that it was hoped the new bomber would be equipped with instruments "so we won't have to keep so many heavy bombers on the ground because of weather."

He declared that "we are progressing with the development of planes, crews and technic for the British-based tactical air force."

"When the time comes for the continental invasion," he said, "we will do what the tactical air force in northern Africa did so brilliantly in Tunisia and Sicily and now is doing in Italy."

A second front for the Russians actually has been effectuated by the Eighth Air Force, the air chief said.

"Even on the Russian front indirectly Hitler has been hurt by American bombers in Britain.

"The Luftwaffe has had to pull away more of its first line planes essential for any offensive the Nazis might have planned against the Red Army this summer—they've pulled those planes away form the Russian front and sent them west to try to stop the ever more deeply penetrating Fortress raids against vital industrial targets.

"Properly the Russians have asked their partners to lift some of the pressure off them—well the Eighth Air Force has certainly helped.

"The hundreds of German fighters our forces have destroyed on the Western front are fighters that will never stop Russian bombers or strafe Russian troops."

Explains About Raids.

He disclosed that a big part of the bomber force which raided the Ploesti oil fields, Rome and Wiener Neustadt near Vienna, were from the Eighth Air Force in Britain—three-fifths of the attacking force against Ploesti.

"They were trained here and the mission was planned here," Gen. Arnold said. He disclosed that the planes were Liberators which flew with Fortresses here last fall, spent three months raiding Italy from North Africa last winter, returned here for more raids on northwestern Europe and then sneaked back to Africa again a few months ago. The group is led by Col. Edward Timberlake of San Antonio, Tex.

He confirmed also that a sizable part of the original American North African tactical force was made up of planes drawn from here last fall—hundreds of P-38 Lightnings and P-39 Airacobras.

In answer to the perennial queries about which is the best fighter plane, Gen. Arnold said he was sure that for escorting bombers the P-47 Thunderbolt was better than the Spitfire because of its longer range and that the Lightning runs it a close second.

"So far we are on schedule," he said, "in the timetable of victory—first supremacy in the air and then crushing invasion by land and by sea."

Air Losses May Defeat Germany, Arnold Says

London, Sept. 4 (AP)—The Germans, thus far unable to stop Allied bombers, are in peril of losing their own air force and eventually the war, Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the United States Army Air Forces, said today.

And he promised that both the Luftwaffe and the German home front will in "the near future" be hit by far bigger bombers less vulnerable to weather than Flying Fortresses.

"If the Germans don't stop our (Allied) bombers," said Arnold, "they won't have any air force left. And without any air force they won't be able to continue the war."

With Double Bomb Load

The new bombers Arnold mentioned are those which he described in a recent service magazine article—bigger, with over twice the bomb load of a Fortress, and with greater range and fire-power.

Arnold disclosed that "we are progressing with the development of planes, crews and technique for the British-based tactical air force" and added "when the time comes for the continental invasion we will do what the tactical air force in northwest Africa did so brilliantly in Tunisia and Sicily and now is doing in Italy."

Actually Second Front

The air force chief said a "second front" for the Russians had actually been effected by the United States Eighth Air Force in the air over Europe, because "the Luftwaffe has had to pull away more of its first-line planes essential for any offensive the Nazis might have planned against the Red army this summer."

Arnold disclosed that a big part of the American bomber force which raided the Rumanian Ploesti oil fields, Rome and Wiener Neustadt near Vienna was from the Eighth Air Force in Britain, three fifths of the Ploesti raiders were trained here and the mission was planned here, Arnold said.

More Canadians Reach Britain

LONDON, Sept. 4 (AP)—One of the largest convoys carrying reinforcements of troops for the Canadian Army overseas has arrived safely in a British port, it was announced today. The contingent, second of its size to leave Canada since the First Division landed in Sicily, included men of all arms of the services, fit and ready to fight.

FUSHIMI'S SON DEAD

London, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—The Berlin radio broadcast a report from Tokio today announcing that Count Hirohide Fushimi, 31 years old, the fourth son of Prince Hiroyasu Fushimi, had died of wounds in the South Pacific. The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

GERMAN BISHOPS DENOUNCE CURBS

SEP 5 1943

Berne, Sept. 3 (Delayed) (A. P.).—The German bishops of the Fulda conference have expressed regret in a pastoral letter that even "in this dangerous and costly period in our Fatherland" the battle has been continued against the Christian Church.

The letter, dated August 19, was read in most Catholic pulpits in Germany on August 29 and declared that education in the Reich was aimed at "De-Christianizing" people, especially youth. Evacuated children in camps, schools and homes have been refused religious instruction, and attendance at church and the reception of the sacraments is often difficult, if not impossible, the letter said.

Heavy pressure has been exerted upon many Christians, amounting to almost complete suppression in the Warthegau area, the bishops asserted.

The letter was signed by Adolf Cardinal Bertram of Breslau, Michael Cardinal Faulhaber of Munich, Theodore Cardinal Innitzer of Vienna and by twenty-six archbishops and six other representatives of German religious districts.

NAZIS DEMAND DANES DISARM

Strict Curfew Is Resumed in Copenhagen.

Stockholm, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—Gen. Hermann von Hannecken, Nazi military dictator of Denmark, today ordered Danish citizens to surrender all weapons and ammunition by Sept. 7 under pain of the most severe punishment.

The order accompanied a decree issued last night rescinding the recent modification of martial law because of continuous anti-German sabotage, and was announced by the Nazi-controlled Danish radio.

The Germans had permitted theaters to reopen and had extended their first curfew order from 9 P. M. to 11 P. M. Hereafter all business and other establishments must be closed at 8 P. M. and all traffic except for the military and physicians will be prohibited on the streets between 9 P. M. and 5 A. M.

Enforcement of the new curfew and weapon decrees will be carried out by the Danish police, the German announcement said.

This was interpreted here as a further sign that the Germans had been forced to yield some enforcement powers to the Danish authorities because they were not prepared to handle the country's administrative functions when they established their military dictatorship last Sunday. During Thursday and yesterday 110 persons were arrested in Copenhagen for violation of the curfew, the Free Danish Press Bureau in Stockholm said.

The bureau also reported that a bomb had exploded in a Copenhagen hotel Thursday night, killing several German officers.

Negotiations by Von Hannecken and Werner Best, German Minister to Denmark, to have Danish political leaders set up a new government to replace that of the former Prime Minister, Eric Scavenius, continued today without success, the bureau said. Von Hannecken was reported as anxious to have an administrative council of eighteen department chiefs take over the government.

The bureau said that even if the military dictatorship is abolished "it is evident that there can be no return to the state of affairs as they were before last Sunday" when the Nazis took over Denmark to suppress the mounting wave of sabotage aimed at German war production and troop movements.

EVACUATING VIENNA

Berne, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—A German frontier dispatch to the Gazette de Lausanne said today that the Nazi government had decided to evacuate Vienna.

The entire population is preparing to quit the city for the southern part of the country, the newspaper said. It expressed a belief that the decision was a result of the Allied landings in Italy and pointed out that should Naples fall to the Allies, Vienna would be a target within closer range than Berlin is to London.

FRENCH LEADERS SEIZED IN ROUND-UP BY NAZIS

BERN, Sept. 4 — (AP) The Gazette de Lausanne reported today that German authorities in France were arresting many leaders of French economic life and accusing them of "anti-German sentiments and connivance with dissidents."

The newspaper said the Nazis also had demanded a purge of Havas, French news agency, with the result that Pierre Dominique had been ousted as its director.

The Tribune de Geneve reported that two French youths had machinegunned and killed the chief of Pierre Laval's collaborationist militia at Thonon in Haute Savoie province.

Reich Government Buildings Hit

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 4 (AP)—Government buildings in the heart of Berlin were hit in last night's RAF bombing, dispatches from neutral correspondents in the Nazi capital said today.

The dispatches added that the Germans described the raid as "obviously one of the largest ever undertaken against Berlin." A large number of multi-engined bombers was claimed to have been shot down by anti-aircraft fire and in terrific aerial combats high over the German capital and throughout northern Germany.

Fighter squadrons met the bombers 100 miles outside Berlin and there were running fights all the way to the target, the dispatches said.

Southern Sweden rocked with the din of anti-aircraft fire for an hour around midnight as waves of foreign planes swept across the Swedish coast in the vicinity of Malmoe and Helsingborg. One four-engined British bomber was shot down in flames near Helsingborg and its crew killed.

Another bomber dropped four bombs in the vicinity of Vellinge, but caused no damage.

The bombers over Sweden presumably were R. A. F. craft in the raid on Berlin.

TORPEDO PLANE ATTACKS SWEDISH SHIP IN BALTIC

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 4—(AP) Six crewmen were killed when a torpedo plane attacked the Swedish tanker Svea Reuter, a 1,700-ton motorship, in the Baltic sea near the Gulf of Riga Thursday, a Swedish communique disclosed today.

The Foreign office said the nationality of the plane which fired a torpedo had not yet been determined.

The tanker reached a Swedish port yesterday, with 13 crewmen who escaped injury keeping the vessel afloat with pumps.

Murder of Charles Hoff Is Denied in Norway

Stockholm, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—Dispatches from Oslo today said that it was officially denied that Charles Hoff, one-time world champion pole vaulter, had been found murdered near that city. The Swedish press yesterday reported the death and said he had been murdered.

Hoff, 41 years old, has for the last three years directed the Quisling sport movement in Norway.

Italian Press And Radio Take A Gloomy View

Rome Is Reported Ready to Accept Any 'Just and Practicable' Demands

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The Italian press and radio took a note close to despair today and the people are making no secret of their fearful expectation of Allied attacks elsewhere on the Italian coast.

Reuters reported that the Rome radio declared in an English-language broadcast to Great Britain that Italy would accept any Allied demands "that could possibly sound just and practicable."

The report was not confirmed by any other source. The Associated Press listening post could not confirm the Reuters version of the broadcast but quoted a Rome announcer as saying, "the Italians are the most reasonable people in the world."

[United States gove monitors quoted the Rom Saturday as saying: "We d know what the enemy may d the next few hours or in the ne few days. Sudden attacks are possible, nay probable, against other parts of the peninsula and the whole of Italy is exposed to future blows. Therefore the whole of Italy is in a state of alert. Italians realize the truth of the situation and understand the duties deriving from it, supreme duties which are related to consciousness, firmness, dignity and solidarity and to which all actions must be subjected."]

ITALIAN PEACE BID REPORTED HEARD

London, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—In an English language broadcast to Britain, the Rome radio declared today, according to Reuters, that Italy would accept any Allied demand "that could possibly sound just and practicable."

The Associated Press listening post could not confirm the Reuters version of the broadcast, but quoted a Rome announcer as saying "the Italians are the most reasonable people in the world."

As the invasion of Italy proceeds, and the clamor for peace intensifies, the Italian railway workers are doing all they can to assist the Allies by wrecking communications, and the Italian press is attacking the continuous presence of the Germans in the country, the British radio said in a broadcast picked up at New York today by CBS.

BOMBERS CARRY CABLE-CUTTERS

London, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—The Air Ministry disclosed today that every British bomber plane is fitted with sixteen cable-cutting devices, which are so powerful that they can cut through the heaviest cable in one-thousandth of a second.

The device weighs only a few pounds and is about the size of a brick. It enables a bomber to sweep a field of operations clear of enemy barrage balloons before low level attacks.

Col. Kane Is Decorated For Leading Ploesti Raid

Other Army and Air Forces Men Honored at Cairo

CAIRO, Sept. 4 (AP).—Colonel John R. Kane, of Shreveport, La., known among his friends as "Killer," received today the Congressional Medal of Honor for the hazardous Liberator attack on the Ploesti oil fields in Rumania on Aug. 1. The medal was presented to the heavy bombardment group commander by Major General Lewis H. Brereton, commander of American Forces in the Middle East.

A score of other American Army and Air Force personnel received high awards at a colorful ceremony attended by American, British and Egyptian forces on the palm-bordered polo field of the Gezira Sporting Club enclosed by the Nile.

Brereton received the Air Medal from the hands of Brigadier General Victor H. Strahm, chief of staff of the 9th Air Force, for meritorious achievement from April 2, 1942, to July 11, 1943. Strahm received the Legion of Merit for "efficient, meritorious conduct, and performance of outstanding service."

Other awards included: Colonel Edwin Clark, of Easton, Conn., the Legion of Merit for services in commanding the Libyan service command of the Services of Supply; Major David Likes, of Scarsdale, N. Y., the Legion of Merit for his work as signal communications officer of the 10th and later the 9th Air Force.

U. S. PLANES RAID JAPS' CHINA BASES

Planes of the American Air Force based in China have raided Hongkong, Ichang and Hanoi, the British radio reported in a broadcast heard today by the National Broadcasting Company. R. A. F. aircraft made sorties over Burma while the Americans concentrated on the three objectives in occupied China, the broadcast said.

Chungking, Aug. 30 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Japanese troops attempted to land Sunday on Santuao Island, forty-five miles north of Foochow, in Fukien province, but were repulsed by shore batteries, Chinese dispatches announced today. The attempt was made under cover of a barrage from Japanese warships which pounded the Chinese shore positions from comparatively close range, the dispatch said.

The exact purpose of the attempted landing was not known but might have been either for the purpose of foraging supplies or to establish a base for a drive inland. The Japanese are known to fear the establishment of air bases in Fukien from which attacks on Japan could be launched.

Meanwhile, a belated report from the headquarters of Major-Gen. Claire L. Chennault's Fourteenth Air Force said that American P-40 fighters strafing Japanese shipping on the Yangtze River last Friday left a 125-foot steamer and a 65-foot boat burning near Yuchow. A gunboat and another small steamer also were shot up during the attack.

Jap Troops Are Repulsed In Landing Above Foochow

By the Associated Press.

CHUNGKING, Aug. 30 (Delayed).—Japanese troops attempted to land Sunday on Santuao Island, 45 miles north of Foochow, in Fukien Province, but were repulsed by shore batteries, Chinese dispatches announced today.

The attempt was made under cover of a barrage from Japanese warships which pounded the Chinese shore positions from comparatively close range, the dispatch said.

The exact purpose of the attempted landing was not known but might have been either for the purpose of foraging supplies or to establish a base for a drive inland.

The Japanese are known to fear the establishment of air bases in Fukien from which attacks on Japan could be launched.

JAPS REPORT AIR RAID BY YANKS ON CANTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—(AP) The Tokyo radio, in a broadcast recorded by NBC, said that a force of American planes including nine B-25 bombers and 13 P-40 fighters attacked Japanese installations at Canton, in southeastern China, today.

The broadcast said that two of the American raiders were shot down.

The Japanese report was without Allied confirmation.

BURMA FACTORIES BOMBED

RAF Also Attacks River Craft and Other Targets

NEW DELHI, India, Sept. 4 (AP)—Three factories in the Prome district of Burma were damaged yesterday by RAF fighters and other aircraft dive-bombed targets at Kyauktaw on the Kaladan River to the north, starting fires in three buildings, a British communiqué said today.

In southwestern Burma the fighters also shot up a variety of other targets, including more than eighty sampans on the Irrawaddy, a locomotive and several army trucks. A Wellington bomber demolished several buildings in Ramree village, while in the Akyab area a Japanese camp was attacked.

JAP BASE AT LAE SMASHED IN RAID

84 Tons of Bombs Level Enemy Headquarters Above Salamaua

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sunday, Sept. 5—(AP) Eighty-four tons of bombs from Allied planes have levelled Japanese headquarters at Lae, 15 miles above the ground fighting at Salamaua, New Guinea, General MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

It was a concentrated attack similar to one earlier in the week which smashed enemy headquarters above Lae at Madang.

Mitchell medium units bombed and strafed Japanese positions northwest of Lae, today's communique reported.

15 Jap Barges Sunk

In the latest of the daily attacks on barges used by the Japanese to supply Salamaua and adjacent garrisons, Beaufighters have sunk 15 more along nearby New Britain's coast.

Powerful air formations of Admiral William F. Halsey struck other blows in the Solomons, heavily pounding the isolated Japanese garrison holding out at Vila on the southern shore of Kolombangara island.

The bombs dropped at Lae blasted gun emplacements around the airdrome.

"All buildings in the administrative and headquarters area were destroyed," the communique said.

"Huge clouds of black smoke, rising to 1,000 feet, covered the area."

Meet No Jap Planes

The raiding Liberators, which were escorted by Lightnings, were greeted by heavy anti-aircraft fire, but no Japanese plane intercepted.

Northeast of Lae on the tip of New Britain island, the Cape Gloucester airdrome took its second straight aerial pounding. Twenty-eight tons of bombs burst among airdrome installations and on anti-aircraft positions.

At Vila, where a Japanese garrison is within artillery shelling distance of American-conquered New Georgia below it and has been bypassed by American occupation of Vella Lavella above it, Avenger torpedo bombers and Dauntless dive bombers started explosions and fires at the airdromes. They also struck at anti-aircraft and coastal defenses.

Above Vella Lavella, another of the almost daily series of American raids was made on the enemy's big airdrome of Kahili, near Buin on Bougainville. The raiders were Liberators which had a strong escort of fighters.

Japanese losses in planes and ships in the Southwest Pacific are skyrocketing under the increasing blows of the growing air power of the Allies. In three days this month seventy-three enemy planes were destroyed and others damaged or probably shot down.

Three 7,000-ton cargo ships and more than forty barges have been sunk. Other cargo ships and a destroyer have been set afire.

The fury of the attack by American and Australian airmen is even greater than in August, when 548 Japanese planes were destroyed and ten merchant ships and 500 barges sunk.

The last three cargo ships sent to the bottom were hit in an attack Thursday at Wewak Harbor on the northeastern coast of New Guinea. Mitchell bombers braved barrage balloons to make a mast-level raid on a seven-ship convoy.

A destroyer was set afire and the stern blown off of a 1,000-ton cargo ship. Only one cargo ship and a destroyer escaped, but they were damaged.

Yesterday's communiqué also reported that two other 7,000-ton ships and a 5,000-ton vessel were damaged in other raids. The same communiqué announced the destruction of twenty-six enemy planes in New Britain, the Solomons and New Guinea.

Japs Abandon Santa Isabel Plane Base

Map on Page 3

[By the Associated Press]

United States Headquarters in the South Pacific, Sept. 4—The Japanese have abandoned their once important seaplane base at Rekata Bay on Santa Isabel, 145 miles northwest of Guadalcanal, a South Pacific headquarters spokesman said today.

(General Douglas MacArthur's communique for Thursday, September 2, spoke of heavy United States bomber units striking enemy installations at Rekata Bay without meeting opposition. It was thought likely the enemy had withdrawn without a fight.)

No Hint Of U. S. Seizure

Unofficially, it was thought here that the Japanese had evacuated the entire island as well as Rekata Bay, but there was no intimation that United States forces had occupied Santa Isabel.

Small barges could have removed the enemy to Choiseul and other near-by islands of the central Solomon group in an attempt to reach Japanese-held Bougainville to the north. The island lost its strategic value to the enemy with the fall of New Georgia and the occupation of Vella Lavella Islands within the past month. Santa Isabel once served as an advanced seaplane base for attacks on Guadalcanal.

Fourth In Month

This was the fourth time in a month that Japanese troops had fled a key stronghold without attempting a fanatical death-stand defense.

Previously they had secretly fled Kiska in the westernmost Aleutians, Munda airfield on New Georgia Island in the Solomons and near-by Bairoko harbor.

Kiska was occupied by American and Canadian sea-borne forces on August 15 after the enemy garrison had sneaked away under cover of dense fogs.

Munda was captured by American jungle fighters on August 5, and on that occasion, J. Norman Lodge, Associated Press correspondent with the United States forces, wrote:

"Many of the Japanese officers, who had sworn to give up their lives rather than give up New Georgia to the Americans, suddenly remembered unfinished business elsewhere and pulled out."

After a brief siege, Bairoko harbor was taken by the Americans as the Japanese again quit fighting and ran away, fleeing under cover of darkness across the narrow Kula Gulf to Kolombangara Island. United States torpedo boats, however, killed hundreds of the fugitive Nipponese jammed in barges carrying 80 to 250 men before they reached Kolombangara.

BOMBS FOR TOKIO

Auckland, N. Z., Sept. 4 (A. P.).—Assistant United States Secretary of War Robert Patterson declared today at a press conference that "the bombing of Tokio is coming again, just as sure as you are born."

Mr. Patterson and Lieut.-Gen. William S. Knudsen arrived here from Australia to visit United States troops and military installations.

The Assistant Secretary of War, declaring he was anxious to correct the impression that there are two wars going on—one in Europe and the other in the Pacific said:

"It is all the same war and it is of tremendous proportions. All strategical plans are being mapped out from that point of view."

FIRST LADY VIEWS CANBERRA PARADE

Mrs. Roosevelt Guest of Honor at State Reception Before Leaving for Melbourne

SHE GREETS U. S. SAILORS

Throngs Line Streets Bedecked With Wattle Blossoms to Get Glimpse of Her

CANBERRA, Australia, Sunday, Sept. 5 (AP)—A formal military parade capped the visit of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in the capital of Australia today, prior to her departure for Melbourne.

A reception in her honor at the Government House last night brought out more automobiles than had been assembled in this sector since early in the war.

An Air Force detachment with fixed bayonets guarded the entrance to the spacious Yarralunla grounds.

Mrs. Roosevelt, standing with Governor General Lord Gowrie and Prime Minister John Curtin, shook hands with more than 500 guests in the stately, all-white reception room. It was here that she showed the first signs of fatigue during her visit.

The First Lady's Red Cross uniform was in marked contrast to the evening gowns and dinner jackets donned by the residents here for the first time in months.

At the reception Mrs. Roosevelt exchanged ideas with a group of women leaders in the military auxiliary services and discussed price restrictions with the Commonwealth Controller, Prof. Douglas B. Copland.

Prior to the reception, Mrs. Roosevelt had visited all sections of the capital, winding by automobile through lane after lane of beautiful wattle blossoms, the national flower.

U. S. Servicemen Get Message

Accompanied by Lady Gowrie, wife of the Governor General, Mrs. Roosevelt had planted a tree on the grounds of the American Legation and visited an American naval establishment, where she spoke before a crowd of beaming sailors.

1943

30.24-8045

The streets everywhere were lined with persons hoping to catch a glance of Mrs. Roosevelt. Many of the Australian children had American flags.

The still-building American Legation, which when it is completed after the war will have cost £80,000, was the scene of Mrs. Roosevelt's first appearance yesterday. There she met Nelson Johnson, the American Minister to Australia, Mrs. Johnson and their children.

At the American naval establishment, those lined up to meet the President's wife at the door were service men from California, Ohio, New York, Florida, New Jersey, Louisiana and Arkansas.

When the sailors stood at attention before the First Lady, she delivered this message from the President:

"He asked me to be sure to take his greetings to American men fighting everywhere and tell them how proud he is of their splendid spirit.

"May you get home safely, and may there be peace before many months go by."

FIRST LADY SEES NAZI DEFEATISM

Canberra, Australia, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—Defeatism is widespread and growing in Germany, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt declared in an address today, and, as an example, she read the uncensored advice of a German mother to her soldier son to surrender that he might stay alive.

The wife of the United States President spoke at a luncheon given in her honor by the Commonwealth Government in Parliament House.

"Try to hold out, dear son," Mrs. Roosevelt read from a letter which she said was found on a German prisoner during the Tunisian campaign. "This war will come to an end some day. When you cannot do so (hold out) any longer, arrange to be captured, because the important thing is to remain alive. There must be an end to this, because things cannot last if air raids are permitted to continue."

The tide has turned in the favor of United Nations, Mrs. Roosevelt continued, but she warned that this should not mean relaxation of war effort or reduction in production.

Prime Minister John Curtin introduced Mrs. Roosevelt.

At the American naval establishment, those lined up to meet the President's wife at the door were service men from California, Ohio, New York, Florida, New Jersey, Louisiana and Arkansas.

When the sailors stood at attention before the First Lady, she delivered this message from the President:

"He asked me to be sure to take his greetings to American men fighting everywhere and tell them how proud he is of their splendid spirit.

"May you get home safely and may there be peace, before many months go by."

Mrs. Roosevelt In Melbourne

Melbourne, Sunday, Sept. 5 (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt arrived today by airplane from Canberra, where she met Australian Government officials at an official reception.

Japs Training Indonesian Soldiers to Spearhead a War on White Race

Melbourne, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—The Japanese have visions of raising a United Asia army to march on the white race and already have started training Indonesian soldiers for this purpose, Nathan Brock, staff correspondent for the Netherlands East Indies Government Information Service, reported today in a dispatch released by Aneta, Dutch news agency.

"The Japanese war lords are looking beyond current economic efforts (in the conquered East Indies)," Mr. Brock wrote. "In the millions populating Indonesia they see future soldiers for their giant empire and dream of a United Asia army marching against the white race.

"Recently attempts have been made in Java to reinforce the ranks of the Japanese Army by preliminary training of Indonesians under Japanese officers. A terrific propaganda barrage is being used by the Japanese Army bosses to induce Indonesians to let themselves be trained by Japanese 'liberators.'"

However, Mr. Brock reported, the Japanese have given up the idea of capturing India's cotton crop and have started growing the fiber with success in Sumatra, Borneo and the Celebes. He added that a Japanese expert was reported to have found a substitute for wool in Java.

The information service correspondent reiterated previous Dutch warnings that time was running in favor of the Japanese program of developing their conquests into self-contained defense units, with the idea of carrying on a "hundred-year war" despite the hammer blows delivered by Allied bombers.

CHILE'S PRESIDENT SEEKS COOPERATION

Declares 'American Nations Should Get to Bedrock Foundation.'

SANTIAGO, Chile, (AP)—Chile's president Juan Antonio Rios says the nations of the Americas should get together now "in the closest possible form of economic cooperation" to withstand the shock of post-war problems.

In an interview he said that Joaquin Fernandez, Chilean Minister of Foreign Relations now on a tour of the Americas, would have opportunity, he said, to set forth Chile's viewpoints "in the matter of a true and effective pan-Americanism of cooperation."

"The American nations," he said, "should get down to bed-rock in this field of economic cooperation.

"As an example, Cuba and Peru produce much sugar. We have some lands in Chile suitable for sugar cane, but it is better economy, and better neighborliness, for us to buy sugar from those countries and use that land to produce things we need, or for other neighbors, and to sell Cuba and Peru things we produce.

"Argentina has wheat and cattle. We produce coal. With proper cooperation and development, we should sell coal to Argentina and buy such wheat and meats as we do not produce. The same goes for copper and other minerals which we can produce for industries of other American nations.

"This brings us to what might appear at first glance to be a Chilean problem. We have great nitrate deposits. Why should we have to look to Germany or Japan for a market for this nitrate when there are areas in southeastern United States where this nitrate is needed for agricultural production?

"The United States has been building artificial nitrate plants because nitrate is important in making munitions. Everyone understands this. Chile has been shipping its nitrate to the United States to help meet this enormous demand. Chileans, however, are concerned about what will happen to its nitrate in the U. S. market after the war. If the artificial nitrate is used for fertilizer, Chile would lose that market. Naturally, we are hoping a way will be found to use those plants or their output for other purposes. It is one of the problems for which I think a solution can be found, in an unselfish way, and on the basis of true good neighborliness.

ARGENTINA FACES RUBBER SHORTAGE

Only Essential Cars Can Get Tires—Reclaimed Rubber Used.

SEP 5 1943

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 4.—Argentina's rubber shortage is growing more acute each month.

Cut off from pre-war sources in the Far East and able to import from South American sources only a fraction of her needs, the country is waging a delaying action for preservation of her slim rubber stockpile by increasingly severe restrictions.

The government is making fresh efforts to get Brazilian rubber by offering foodstuffs in exchange, but Brazil's entire export supply is being shipped to the United States. The rubber distribution commission long since banned sale of tires for "unessential" cars, reduced the allotment of rubber for essential autos to 15 per cent of the 1941 output and for buses and trucks to 54 per cent.

New plans call for the manufacture of tires composed of five per cent crude rubber and 95 per cent reclaimed rubber. This, it is said, would permit the manufacture of 10 tires with the amount of crude rubber formerly used in one. Such tires, however, are designed for use only on light vehicles operating at low speeds.

Synthetic rubber production and extraction of rubber from guayule and similar plants have been considered but only in terms of a long range program.

WESTERN POWERS TO MEET RUSSIANS

Reds Also to Be Represented in New Mediterranean Commission.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(AP) A tri-partite meeting of Russian, British and American representatives has been arranged for the near future, it was learned today. In another move signaling closer cooperation of the three nations, a Mediterranean commission is being established on which Russia will be represented.

This commission presumably will handle problems arising out of the progress of the war in that theater and what is to be done with Italy when she is knocked out of the war.

All United Nations—or at least those with Mediterranean interests—are expected to be represented on the commission.

No Decision on Date, Place

There was no word as to where and when the tri-partite conference will be held. It will be attended by representatives of the State department and the Russian and British Foreign offices.

While President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill have repeatedly made known their desire for a meeting with Premier Stalin, it is understood that the Soviet leader continues to reply that he cannot at this time leave the battle fronts. Thus there is no certainty that the tri-partite conference will be followed later by a meeting of the "big three."

No Unsurmountable Problems

The President and prime minister are reported, however, to feel that relations with Russia offered no problems which co[illegible] mounted.

(Page Six)

Specifically, they [illegible] to be undisturbed by [illegible], with Soviet approval, of a Free Germany committee in Moscow. There had been suggestions in some quarters in this country that Russia was following an independent line so far as a post-war Germany is concerned.

But the Roosevelt-Churchill view is said to be that the committee represents chiefly an effort to divide the German people from their present Nazi government.

Likewise, it is reported that the Kremlin does not attach as great importance as did some people in this country to such Anglo-American moves as the negotiations which were carried out in Africa with the late Admiral Darlan.

While some in America called this dealing with Fascists, the Soviets are said to feel that in military diplomacy it is all right to deal with the devil or his grandma.

The disclosure that the tri-partite conference has been arranged and that the Mediterranean commission is being formed suggested that much of the Roosevelt-Churchill conferences here have dealt with political matters, particularly with relation to Russia.

The broad nature of the talks was emphasized, however, by word that Mr. Churchill in a talk today with Sir Owen Dixon, the Australian ambassador, had gone over questions of Australia's position in the Pacific phases of the war and had discussed British participation, present and prospective, in the fight against Japan.

ALLIES TO EXPAND PACIFIC WARFARE

Preliminary Stages Ending, Full-Scale Offensive Soon to Open.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(AP) American and British war production is growing so large that the Allies are about ready to undertake full-scale war aginst Japan as well as Germany.

This was determined on the highest authority today. Presumably it was the central truth of much of the planning at the Anglo-American conference at Quebec and remains a dominant theme in the military phases of the talks between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill here

[illegible] Japan [illegible]tages [illegible]om [illegible] is [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of front fi[illegible]d States and Great[illegible]nd.

[illegible]ange in the [illegible]y. It reflects [illegible] im- [illegible]lanes, [illegible]nitions [illegible] y from[illegible]st arsenals [illegible]ted States.

[illegible] recently the [illegible] weakn[illegible]s of the Allies in the Pacific has been shipping with which to deliver the production of these arsenals to the fighting fronts. Over the long supply routes in that theater a transport fleet can place and supply at the fighting fronts only about one-seventh the number of men which the same fleet could place and supply in the European area.

Shipping Required

The prosecution of a full-scale war against Japan—as opposed to very limited offensive operations—thus required not only a great amount of munitions but also the means to get them to the battle zones. Now the munitions and the means are available in the quantities required.

This force, translated into combat power on the front lines, moreover will be greatly augmented following the defeat of Germany. British as well as American forces thus released wil be thrown into the fight in the Pacific and Asia.

In contrast Japan is fighting a downhill war with her sharply limiteded resources. There is no doubt that the Japanese have succeeded in digging themselves in in many areas in the southwest Pacific and eastern Asia where they have been unmolested. They have also succeeded in some places in winning over native populations.

These things would appear to add to their strength. But actually at present the Japanese are virtually marking time and in some respects already are losing out. The most significant of their losses is in shipping, as Secretary of the Navy Knox brought out at his press conference yesterday by disclosing that one-third of their merchant tonnage has been sunk.

ENDING OF WAR IN 1944 SEEN

SEP 5 1943

Senator Tydings Urges Four Anti-Axis Powers To Act In Concert On Peace

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, Sept. 4 — Senator Tydings declared today there is "very reasonable hope" that the war will be over by the end of next year and urged that the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China act in concert "against a recurrence of the last four years of world-wide slaughter."

Buoyant over the current Allied successes, the Marylander said:

"There is very reasonable hope, based on present-day happenings and expectations and barring unforeseen misfortunes, that the hostilities will be over by the end of 1944."

Anti-Axis Unity Astounding

The four great anti-Axis powers, he observed, have worked together with "astounding unity," considering the differences in their forms of government, language, climate and similar factors.

"In view of this commonalty of aim, sacrifice and contribution," Senator Tydings said "there is a natural bond which should incline each of these four nations after hostilities to keep some union for the preservation of the peace."

"There is no reason, their post-war aims being reasonably mutual, that they cannot go on in open treaties openly arrived at against a recurrence of the last four years of world-wide slaughter, disorganization of civilized ways of life, and waste of the treasure of future generations.

Hope To End Aggression Wars

"Over and above everything else the people of the world will hope for a bar on future wars of aggressions. That must come first. It will largely remain to the leaders at the peace table to evolve the plans by which this desired result may be best expected.

"If such a plan fails, the alternative will be for all the principal nations to stay heavily armed and prepare for war at whatever cost this entails."

ROOSEVELT URGES GREATER SPEED IN WAR PRODUCTION

Increase in Arms Output Will Hasten Victory, Says President.

SEP 5 1943

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 — (AP) President Roosevelt, in a Labor day message directed to workers, farmers and employers, called today for increased production to speed the day of victory and "thus save lives and suffering."

The President's statement was one of many similar proclamations by government and labor leaders urging still greater speed in the output of war goods but at the same time praising the vast amount of work already under way on the home front.

Roosevelt Statement

Mr. Roosevelt's statement said:

"Fifty-six years ago Labor day was observed for the first time in the United States. Since then we have fought one World war to victory and now are engaged in another and even greater conflict upon the result of which depends the future of freedom loving people the world over.

"With that priceless heritage at stake we are determined that this World war, too, shall result in victory so that life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness shall be the lot of man when he wills it and that he be not the downtrodden serf of brutal Axis master. That determination is shared by all Americans: By workers, by management and by farmers.

"It is altogether fitting that these groups of free Americans are working today, many laboring on round the clock shifts, that our fighting men on land, on sea and in the air may have the weapons with which to bring about victory as speedily as possible.

"To make time and thus save lives and suffering, our American workers, employers and farmers will need not only to maintain their production pace but to increase it. Their record to date has been magnificent and in keeping with the true American spirit of all our effort for those fighting so valiantly and so successfully in all parts of the world.

"That increase production effort will be forthcoming. It will be given gladly for love of country and for liberty, as it has been given since Pearl Harbor, to set up a record that never has been equalled. We well may be proud of that achievement for it has done much to make possible the successes of the armed forces of the United Nations. Its continuation will spell the defeat of our enemies—the preservation of our way of life."

TANK PRODUCTION CUT 40 PER CENT ON ARMY ORDERS

Russia, Britain Cancel Requests for Medium-Sized Vehicles.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4. — (AP) The Army's tank production program has been cut back approximately 40 per cent in the last six or seven months, principally because of cancellations of British and Russian orders for medium tanks.

Maj. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, director of materiel for the Army service forces, said today in an interview that the cut-back represents a dollar value reduction in this year's program of slightly more than one-third.

For 1944, the reduction will be about 50 per cent, he said, but production will be still slightly ahead of 1943. For both years, said Gen. Clay, the original schedules were fixed nearly two years ago.

Few Plants Shut Down

Few if any plant shutdowns have resulted from the cutback, Gen. Clay said he knew of no prime contractors whose plants had been closed, although some sections of larger plants may have been shut down. The result among the many thousands of sub-contractors is more difficult to determine, he added, but even among these the majority at least had shifted to other war production.

The cutback began early this spring, when the Russians suddenly cancelled orders for between 5,000 and 6,000 medium tanks, said Gen. Clay. This was followed shortly by wholesale reduction of British orders. Subsequently, the Russians renewed some of their tank orders—this explains the higher production outlook for 1944 than for 1943—but their overall requirements for American tanks still are only about one-third the original 1943-44 schedule.

Had Other Needs

All the factors influencing the action of the Russian government are not known, said Gen. Clay, but the primary consideration undoubtedly was that the Red army needed other things—particularly trucks and locomotives—more than additional tanks. Shipping space and port facilities were limited, so the tank orders were reduced.

(A similar explanation had come earlier from other quarters. As long ago as April, the Russian cutback was attributed officially to "the assistance given to that country to build up its own tank industry, to changes in battle conditions, and to the limiting of port facilities." Also, the Red army is understood to have a substantial "windfall" of captured German armor.

(No such full explanation is available on the British cancellations, but it was said in informed quarters that the British probably had overestimated their tank requirements because of an optimistic time-table on the war—assuming more rapid progress of operations, and therefore greater losses of armored equipment than have occurred.)

U. S. Estimates Reduced

Contrasted with these heavy cutbacks in British and Russian requirements for American tanks, said Gen. Clay, is the reduction of estimated requirements for our own army by only 10 per cent. All American armored divisions are now completely equipped with medium tanks, he added.

When the Lend-Lease orders were trimmed heavily, the plants first affected were those of three locomotive manufacturers — Lima, Baldwin and American. There were no plant closings, however, said Gen. Clay—all three were shifted immediately to production of locomotives for Army and Lend-Lease requirements.

Still other tank plants had to be shifted, however. The tank orders at Pacific Car and Foundry, Seattle, next were cancelled, and this plant is now converting bodily to production for the Boeing Aircraft company. The decision to cancel the tank plant, said Gen. Clay, was based on the critical labor situation in Seattle and the urgent necessity to increase the output of heavy bombers by Boeing.

Latest of the large tank contract terminations is that with Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company, Chicago, where a $60,000,000 order is being tapered off, with the plant shifting to production of aluminum parts for the aircraft industry.

With all the cutbacks, said Gen. Clay, there are still three large manufacturing of medium tanks working at capacity to fill replacement needs of the United States and its Allies.

Jeffers Resigns His Post As U. S. Rubber Chief

'Big Job' Completed, Railroad President to Return to Private Business.

SEP 5 1943

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4. — (AP) Rubber Director William Jeffers resigned tonight, telling President Roosevelt that "the big job" of the rubber program had been completed.

Mr. Jeffers told the President that with the rubber problem in hand, "the greatest contribution I can make in the present emergency is to return to an on-the-job handling of the operation of the Union Pacific railroad" of which he is president.

Praised by Roosevelt

The President, praising Mr. Jeffers for performing a "real public service" as rubber director, wrote him that "much as I dislike to have you leave the public service at this time, I cannot ask you to make a further sacrifice."

While the exchange of letters, made public by the White House, did not refer to a successor, it was learned from reliable sources that Mr. Jeffers had recommended his deputy director, Colonel Bradley Dewey, president of the Dewey and Almy Chemical company of Boston, to succeed him. Mr. Dewey has virtually a free hand under Mr. Jeffers in guiding technical phases.

The White House announced verbally, however, that Mr. Dewey had been named acting director.

The copies of the letters made public by the White House were not dated, but Mr. Jeffers associates said he sent his note to the White House on Thursday, but would remain in Washington a week or so before returning to the Union Pacific headquarters in Omaha, Neb.

In his letter, Mr. Jeffers told Mr. Roosevelt:

"The problem of taking care of the requirements of the armed forces and keeping the country on rubber, meanwhile conserving the nation's stock pile of natural crude, is well in hand, though there is a present and prospective shortage of tire fabric, which is the responsibility of the War Production board.

Plant Nearing Completion

"All of the major synthetic rubber plants, the construction of which is under the jurisdiction of the Office of Rubber Director, are either completed or substantially so, with the exception of three. Practically all of the material is available for the completion of these three plants."

Will Return to Railroad

Shortly before the White House announcement, Mr. Jeffers talked with reporters who came to check reports he was leaving. He told them he wanted to go back to "a hell of a big railroad that needs my attention." When he was asked whether he would consider taking another government job in Washington he replied with an explosive "No!"

"It's just a case of my feeling that I can contribute more in this emergency out there in the West where there are traffic difficulties, than I can sitting here in Washington," Mr. Jeffers explained. He confirmed what his associates already had said: that the close of his career in the capital found him t mad at anybody."

We've run into a few rough ts," he remarked, "but on the ole I think we've made some ntribution to the war effort.

"As far as the Army and Navy are concerned, we've got along fine."

"Does that go for the War Production board, too?" a reporter asked, recalling violent priority quarrels last fall when the material requirements of the synthetic plant program clashed with those of aviation gasoline, destroyer escorts, and chemical warfare.

"I said the Army and the Navy," Mr. Jeffers replied grinning.

SOLDIER VOTING PROBLEMS STILL TO BE IRONED OUT

SEP 5 1943

Machinery Set Up But Men Need Information on Candidates, Issues.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(AP) The machinery has been set up for the men and women of the armed forces at home and abroad to vote in 1944's elections but—how can they decide for whom to vote?

The voting machinery itself needs oiling but additionally the armed services must find a way of getting political news to their members if they are to know why and for what they cast a ballot.

When—or if—such a way is found, it will be a tightrope-walking job. The services won't want to be accused of playing politics by slanting the news or giving one side more space than another.

Now the Army and Navy daily send their forces throughout the world a 2,000-word roundup of top non-political news.

Once the 1944 campaign starts the statements and promises of the presidential and vice presidential candidates undoubtedly will be carried as news since they will be of prime, general interest.

But the Army and Navy will have a job keeping its men and women—more than 11 million by the fall of 1944—informed on the issues and personalities in the various congressional races all over the country.

Yet without good information how will the service men and women be able to decide between the merits of the incumbent senators and representatives and the host of newcomers seeking their jobs?

Nevertheless, America's foreign commitments and the whole trend of the peace for which the war is fought may depend upon the make-up of that next Congress. The 11 million service votes could tip the scales of the future.

Last September Congress passed a law enabling service members to vote in Federal elections. If state legislatures approved, they could vote in state and local elections, too.

This wartime measure stipulated that any member of the armed services—who was a registered voter or was eligible to register—could vote in a Federal election notwithstanding his state's law on the registration of qualified voters.

Nor would any member of the armed services, under the law, have to pay a poll tax even though that was the law of his state.

This was the procedure: a member of the armed forces would write a postcard—provided by the Army or Navy—to his secretary of state, asking for a ballot.

The law said the postcards had to be made available as soon as possible after Feb. 1 in any year in which there was an election for senators or representatives.

Although 1943 is an off-year for such elections, a couple were scheduled because of vacancies due to death. So the services sent plenty of post-cards abroad.

Plenty of them got into the hands of men and women whose states were not holding elections but, having the cards, the service people sent them to astonished secretaries of states, asking for ballots which did not exist in elections which were not to be held..

Now Democratic Senators Green of Rhode Island and Lucas of Illinois, authors of the law have in Congress a new bill to amend it. This bill would do several things:

Permit the Army and Navy to provide their overseas forces with the proper ballots at the proper time. The votes would be microfilmed and returned as V-mail to the proper secretaries of state.

The new measure also would permit American civilians abroad to vote just as the armed forces with their ballot—obtained from the nearest military commander—sent home as V-mail.

The amending bill may undergo some changes before Congress wrestles with it this year.

Also it may face a stiff fight on two points which brought strong opposition in the original: No poll tax required and freedom to vote in spite of state laws relating to registration of qualified voters.

FINDS LATINS DERIDING U. S.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (AP). —Senator Butler (R.-Neb.) came back today from a 15,000-mile swing through the 20 other American republics convinced that the United States should push a broad-gauge solidarity program immediately and drop what he called "a temporary, boondogling type of activity."

Pending preparation of detailed reports of his two-month trip for presentation to Congressional committees, Butler declined, with one exception, to be specific.

He did say that the Rubber Reserve Corp., A subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance Corp., was paying $500 a pound for wild rubber collected in Brazil.

"The people down there spoke derisively of it," he added. "We can far better manufacture synthetic rubber in this country than spend any such sum for raw rubber."

30.24-8047

CHURCHILL TO VISIT CITY IN EAST TODAY

Prime Minister Will Make Brief Address, Place Not Revealed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 — (AP) The White House announced tonight that Prime Minister Churchill will make an address on Monday in an American city, but did not identify the city.

It said the speech would be a short one "in fulfillment of the longstanding engagement in a city to be announced later in a program which will begin at noon (E.W.T.)."

The speech will be broadcast.

"It is not expected," the announcement said, "that this address will be of special political significance."

The British embasey was the scene tonight of a meeting between the prime minister, ministers of all the British dominions, members of the British supply mission and British members of the joint chiefs of staff.

Baldwin Named To Italian Post

Washington, Sept. 4 (AP) — The State Department today announced the appointment of Calvin B. Baldwin as area director of economic operations for Italy.

Baldwin will be in charge whenever United States civilian agencies enter Italy to assist with supply and other economic problems.

Baldwin, a native of Radford, Va., has been administrator of the Farm Security Administration. From 1933 to 1935 he was an assistant to Henry Wallace, then Secretary of Agriculture.

Admiral King's Message

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP).—Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States Fleet, said today in a Labor Day statement that the fighting men of the Navy expressed their "grateful appreciation for the magnificent support given them by the workers on the home front," then added: "But the toughest part of the job is still ahead, and it will make demands on our energies, resources and courage beyond anything that has yet been required of us."

The holiday that labor used to take on the first Monday of each September generally was passed up this year as it was last year.

At Pittsburgh, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, asked his men to forego the traditional holiday in both government-controlled and privately operated mines.

PORTABLE TUGBOAT DEVISED FOR ARMY

Two Men Run 'Marine Tractor' Which a Plane Can Carry

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP)—The Army has a new portable tugboat it calls a "marine tractor" which can be transported in dismantled form from port to port by airplane and put together again in three hours.

All steel, and powered by two gasoline engines, it is described as more maneuverable than a regular tug, and more economical from the standpoint of ease of construction and operation.

One can be built in about a week, compared with three to four months for construction of a tug of the type the Army is now using for towing barges and lighters in inland waters and around ports.

Capt. Stanley A. Hunt, operations officer for the water division of the Transportation Corps, Army Service Forces, said several hundred of the "river jitneys" had been ordered from the Chrysler Corporation, the designers.

A two-man crew is all it requires, compared with a crew of eleven or twelve on a regular tug.

Officers said anyone who could drive an automobile could run one.

It is 38½ feet long, 15½ feet wide and weighs twenty-five tons; it will tow and push up to 400 tons, and has a speed of fourteen miles an hour while traveling alone and a maximum of nine with full load.

The tractor is constructed in four sections, the two forward sections being pontoons and the two aft sections being housings for the engines. Only thirty bolts are required to put it together.

Peace Formula Mackinac Aim

Republicans Agree That 1944 Platform Will Have Foreign Policy Declaration.

SEP 5 1943

Mackinac Island, Mich., Sept. 4 (A. P.).—In search of a peace-preservation formula for use in framing their 1944 platform, Republican leaders talked of a compromise today which would satisfy the extreme internationally minded, the middle-road collaborationists, and the so-called "reservationists."

All factions appeared agreed that a foreign policy declaration by the party's post-war advisory council at the two-day meeting, beginning Monday, would reaffirm, with possibly some new phraseology, the Republican stand against isolationism.

In the midst of this compromise discussion was an unannounced added starter, who, while not an official member of the council, was invited by Chairman Harrison E. Spangler of the Republican National Committee to attend as a special adviser.

He is 75-year-old Representative Charles A. Eaton of New Jersey, ranking Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee. The tall, white-haired Eaton, a former preacher, now serving his tenth House term, was passed over when the council was formed in mid-summer.

Favor Collaboration.

The ignoring of Mr. Eaton led to under-cover criticism that the council's personnel was too heavily nationalistic.

Both Mr. Eaton and Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, a leading "reservationist" on the council, as well as Mr. Spangler, ex-officio chairman of the gathering, predicted that a proposal on international post-war collaboration would be forthcoming.

Senator Vandenberg sought support for his proposal for American participation in post-war co-operation "between sovereign nations" to prevent future wars "by any necessary means" —but with the qualification that this be undertaken by "due constitutional process" and with "faithful recognition of American responsibilities and interests."

Mr. Eaton, Senator Austin of Vermont and others were reported opposed to the "sovereignty" or like reservations.

Mr. Eaton said he preferred the Fulbright resolution adopted by his House committee, which calls for American participation in appropriate international machinery with power adequate to maintain peace, and no strings attached.

Would Not Be Stubborn.

"But I'm not going to die in the trenches for that proposition," he added.

Mr. Vandenberg called reporters' attention to the fact that his resolution, offered in the Senate in co-operation with Senator White (R.-Me.) was the only one which had the three reservations on sovereignty, constitutional processes and protection of American rights.

"It's time somebody said for us what Winston Churchill said for Britain, that he did not become Britain's first Prime Minister to preside over the disintegration of the British Empire," Mr. Vandenberg declared.

"Also, can you imagine Joe Stalin not looking out first for Russia's interests?"

Willkie Urges Russian Talks.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 4 (A. P.).—The welfare of the nation is dependent on a Republican victory in 1944, according to Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 Republican nominee for President. He urged a victory conference with Russia represented, saying it was "long overdue" and added that he was preparing an article for publication in a national magazine outlining his views on the Russian situation.

Move for Compromise Stand Is Indicated

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., Sept. 4—(AP) The road toward a compromise statement of peace preservation principles appeared to have been opened here tonight as Republican leaders took significant steps toward balancing conflicting viewpoints on the party's Post-War Advisory Council of 49.

With pre-conference huddles already humming with discussion of the all-important question of how far the party shall go in offering to pledge this country's cooperation with other nations, National Chairman Harrison E. Spangler announced the appointment of Rep. Charles A. Eaton (N.J.), as a working member of the group.

Eaton, who represents a strong internationalist viewpoint somewhat akin to that of Wendell L. Willkie, was named to take the place of Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (Mass.) who telegraphed Spangler that she could not attend because of illness in her family. The appointment of Eaton, who had been attending as a special observer and advisor at Spangler's invitation, immediately set afoot reports that the former — ranking minority member of the house foreign affairs committee—might be named to a prospective sub-committee which will consider the foreign policy question.

SEP 5 1943

Most observers thought this sub-committee probably would number seven, with Senators Arthur Vandenberg (Mich.), and Warren Austin (Vt.) regarded as almost certain to be on it.

Austin is for all-out collaboration with other nations to halt future wars, even if that means the surrender of some American sovereignty to an international police organization. Vandenberg wants to make certain that American sovereignty remains unchallenged and that Congress retains a constitutional check on this country's commitments.

It is considered likely that at least two governors will be named to the sub-committee, as well as one additional House member and a National committee member.

Spangler had been criticized previously for what some of the party chose to call an "isolationist" tinge in the membership of the Advisory Council.

Gov. Harry F. Kelly of Michigan told a press conference he did not believe it possible to outline a detailed post-war program in a two-day meeting.

"The party should speak with a united voice and that sort of pronouncement might require more than two days to obtain," he said.

Up to People, Kelly Says

While he avoided specific comment on the nature of any peace preservation resolution that might be adopted, Kelly said he thought the people of this country would be unwilling to leave the decision on how far they might have to go to prevent future wars to anyone but themselves. He thus sided with the Vandenberg faction.

While Kelly gave indications of a desire for future study of this problem, Eaton told reporters he believed it would be a mistake for the conference to adjourn without a clear cut statement of principles.

"We ought to have a clear, courageous statement of principles," he declared. "If we can't get that, we should not have come here at all."

Kelly spoke of what he said was "intense interest" among the people of Michigan in domestic post-war problems of re-employment, taxes and farm production with which the conference also will concern itself.

Longer Study Urged

In the same vein, Gov. Forrest C. Donnell, of Missouri, said he thought the conference ought to authorize a continuing study of the issues until the national convention next year.

"There is a very serious question involved in the present trend toward national government infringement on the powers and rights of the states," he said. "We also ought to look into the question of how to get the government out of business after the war ends."

Spangler announced that informal conferences would be continued tomorrow, when several important council members, including Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and others are expected to arrive.

Minnesota Offers Plan

Minnesota's Gov. Edward J. Thye today outlined for the council a program of government he said was based on the political philosophies of his predecessor, former Gov. E. Stassen, now a lieutenant commander in the U. S. Navy.

Thye, quoting directly from Stassen's utterances during his term of office to support each point, proposed:

Federal tax, investment, monopoly and patent policies which would encourage the expansion of free enterprise.

A flexible public works program, adjusted currently to the slack in private employment, which would provide jobs in airport and highway construction, community improvements and the development and conservation of natural and human resources. Projects would be let by competitive contract, with Federal grants and control reduced to a minimum.

Security for Aged

Adequate security for the aged, the handicapped, the sick, the young and the unemployed.

A legislative policy that would be "fair and friendly to each of three major economic groups—labor, agriculture and business—but dominated by none of them."

Aid for war veterans returning to civilian life.

Decent Regulation Sought

A streamlined administrative setup that would "avoid unnecessary concentration of governmental activities at Washington and use state and local governments, with local flexibility, to an increased degree."

To insure lasting peace, Thye urged "the gradual establishment of a definite continuing organization of the United Nations of the world as a new and higher level of government, applying the basic and well-known processes of all representative government to the new problems and production." He said a basis under which neutral and even enemy nations eventually might become members of this United Nations must also be established.

Watson Urges G.O.P. Adopt 'Clear' Stand

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—(AP) Deneen A. Watson, national chairman of the Republican Post-War Policy association, urged party leaders tonight to make a strong, clear declaration on foreign policy, and expressed the hope it would favor creation of a council of nations and an international police force.

Watson's speech over the CBS radio network, was delivered while governors, senators, representatives and party officials were gathering at Mackinac Island, Mich., for a meeting of the Republican Post-War Advisory Council.

Watson, whose group has no official link with the party, asserted the "little people" were watching the conferees. He added:

"They know you will give them before you leave Mackinac a forthright statement on foreign policy, so strong and so clear that no one can say it is a weasel-worded plank that can mean all things to all men."

He said delegates to the association's regional conferenes and "hundreds of other Republicans" with whom he had talked "want the United States to cooperate with other nations to end wars and to build a better world."

Additional Casualties Announced by Navy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP).—The Navy announced today seventy-four casualties, including seven dead, twenty-one wounded and forty-six missing, bringing to 29,165 the total of Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard casualties. The casualties announced today included:

NEW YORK

COMAS, WILLIAM H., U. S. M. C., wounded; mother, Mrs. Adelines Comas, 67 West Seventy-third Street, Manhattan.

CONNOLLY, JOHN W., U. S. M. C., wounded; parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Connolly, 7101 Seventh Avenue, Brooklyn.

GATES, ROBERT GEORGE, U. S. N., dead; parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gates, 6215 Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn.

GLENZ, FREDERICK GEORGE, U. S. N., missing; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Glenz jr., 335 St. Ann's Avenue, the Bronx.

HENDERSON, LEO JAMES, U. S. N., missing; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Henderson, 68 Madison Avenue, Irvington.

NEW JERSEY

FARLEY, RUDOLPH JOSEPH, U. S. N., missing; wife, Mrs. Florence Sarah Farley, 31 Somers Avenue, Somers Point.

GROCOTT, ARTHUR FLOYD, U. S. N., wounded; father, William Grocott, 234 Rusling Street, Trenton.

VADON, PETER Jr., U. S. N., missing; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vadon sr., 134 Tremont Street, Trenton.

Cuba Sets Up Post-War Board

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Appointment by the government of Cuba of a national committee on post-war problems has been announced by the Pan American Union. Cuba thus becomes one of the first Latin-American governments to take official action toward the blueprinting of the post-war world, in accord with a resolution adopted by the third meeting of ministers of foreign affairs of the American republics at Rio de Janeiro.

Bricker Proposes One Term For All Future Presidents

Ohio Governor Urges G.O.P. Support Change for Six Year Tenure.

SEP 5 1943

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 4—(AP) Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, asserting that among the principles of our government is "freedom from a self-perpetuating bureaucracy," advocated today the Republican party submit a constitutional amendment limiting the tenure of the President to one term of six years.

The executive, mentioned prominently as a possible presidential candidate, said also the party "should take the position in the coming campaign both in its platform and through its candidate for a single term of four years for the next President of the United States."

Bricker's formal statement, enunciating for the first time his views on some domestic questions, was issued as he left for Mackinac Island, Mich., to attend the Republican Post-War Advisory Council meeting.

Hits at Bureaucracy

There has grown in recent years, Bricker said, "a bureaucracy which attempts to superimpose the power of government over the individual in his daily life and the conduct of his business.

"When political power or the perpetuation in office of a President becomes the motivating factor in government, our liberties are imperiled. As a proposal to restore this government of ours to the control of the people, the Republican party should take the position in the coming campaign both in its platform and through its candidate for a single term of four years for the next President of the United States and pledge itself to submit under the Constitution an amendment to the people of our country to limit the tenure of the President of the United States thereafter to one term of six years."

Favors Single Term

He added that the principles of a single term, if adopted, would "restore and safeguard the control of the government of this country to the people and would curb the everlasting expansion of bureaucratic power, would cut the cost of government and would assure the people of the United States and the world that this is truly a self-governing nation."

The statement touched only tersely on foreign policy. Referring the G.O.P. conference, Bricker said the subjects to be discussed "offer our party a great opportunity for constructive service to the nation.

"Principles in the field of foreign policy should not be buried under cloudy generalities," he said. "They are simply stated in the proposition that America is not alone in the world and that it is vitally concerned in a lasting peace preserved through international cooperation."

Navy Announces More Casualties

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4 (AP).—The Navy announced today 74 casualties, including 7 dead, 21 wounded and 46 missing.

The casualties announced today included, with next of kin:

NEW YORK

COMAS, William H., marine. Wounded. Mrs. Adeline S. Comas, 67 W. 73d St., New York.

CONNOLLY, John W., marine. Wounded. Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Connolly, 7101 7th Ave., Brooklyn.

GATES, Robert George. Dead. Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gates, 6215 8th Ave., Brooklyn.

GLENZ, Frederick George. Missing. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Glenz Jr., 335 St. Ann's Ave., Bronx.

HENDERSON, Leo James. Missing. Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Henderson, 68 Madison Ave., Irvington.

HOOVER SAYS HISTORY BACKS A COOLING-OFF

Outlines Four Points to Final Peace Through Temporary Machinery.

HE TALKS IN MINNEAPOLIS

Tells Foreign Policy Association and Wisconsin University Inspiration Has Value.

Minneapolis, Sept. 4.—Former President Herbert Hoover continued last night his plea that a cooling-off period should follow the end of hostilities so that the peace to be achieved may be lasting and not the producer of future conflicts.

Mr. Hoover, addressing a joint session of the St. Paul-Minneapolis branches of the Foreign Policy Association and the University of Minnesota, said that his plan is born of the stern voice of experience. The results of the treaties at Vienna in 1814 and at Versailles in 1919, he added, confirm the wisdom of delaying the signing of any final treaties until emotions have cooled and the nations of the world can arrive at fair and reasonable decisions.

Four-point Program.

He offered a four-point program for the peace:

First, Mr. Hoover would have the United Nations, right now, name a few leading nations as joint managers or custodians of peace and, second, to set up a provisional peace to become operative the moment the firing ceases. Third would come a cooling-off period of several years during which steps would be taken to solve the long-view problems that must surround a lasting peace. Fourth, there must be some sort of world institution to replace the original managers or custodians to preserve the peace.

Although hard months of warfare still lie ahead, he said, victory is now inevitable and the problems of peace draw nearer and nearer. The methods of achieving peace must be mapped out now and not be delayed until the last gun is fired. And the peace to come must be something more than the result of inspiring words although inspiring words have their uses.

Mr. Hoover was impressed by the success which nations have in making war and their lack of success in making peace and attributed this to the fact that peace usually is reached when emotions are high and hatred of the vanquished is still rampant.

It is inevitable, he said, that a few great victorious nations will dominate the world immediately following the close of hostilities, but it would be better to do it openly. He opposed military alliances among any of the victorious Powers as they undermine the moral influence of the temporary trustees.

Disarming of Enemies.

During the cooling off, he continued, militarism will have to be abolished and the faces of the traditionally belligerent nations turned toward peace. He said he was conscious, however, of the fact that gangsterism cannot be abolished overnight.

Our enemies of today must be totally disarmed, their leaders punished and forced to restore their loot, prisoners and displaced peoples. Those nations which have lost their sovereignty must regain it. Mr. Hoover would have no armistice in the usual sense because he believes that no lasting peace is possible that is reached during an armistice.

Three Navy Men, Boy Die As Plane Crashes

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 4 (AP)—Three navy men were killed and a small Negro boy was fatally burned when a navy land plane crashed late Friday near Manteo, N. C., the Fifth Naval District announced today. A second boy was burned.

The plane struck in woods where the two youngsters were playing. John Daniels, 9, Negro, of Manteo, was so badly burned he died, and his companion, Rudolph Pendleton, 11, also of Manteo, was taken to the Albemarle Hospital at Elizabeth City, N. C., for treatment for burns.

Occupants of the plane killed were: Ensign D. M. Senter, USNR, of Berkeley, Cal., the pilot; Charles J. Lach, aviation radioman third class, USNR, of Union, N. J., and Orlando B. Lyons, aviation machinist's mate third class, USNR, of Setauket, N. Y.

Lindbergh Aiding Air Corps

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 4 (AP).—The nature of Charles A. Lindbergh's work with the Ford Motor Company was disclosed tonight by "The Post-Dispatch," which said he was doing high altitude research on bombers in close cooperation with the Army Air Corps. A story by Marquis Childs, of the newspaper's Washington staff, said Mr. Lindbergh was expected to go on a confidential mission abroad.

Berlin Radio Reports Herriot Seriously Ill

New York, Sept. 4 (AP)—The Brazzaville radio in a broadcast recorded here today reported that the Berlin radio had announced that Edouard Herriot, former French Premier, was seriously ill.

No other details were given and there was no announcement where Herriot was.

What's Behind The War News

By HAMILTON W. FARON

Dark days are ahead for Axis forces reeling under a week of powerful thrusts of Allied might on all of the world's war fronts.

From the Donets basin area where the valiant Russian armies are surging steadily forward, through the Mediterranean where Italy now is being invaded, to the far Pacific where Navy planes blasted Japan's Marcus island base, the week just closed piled troubles upon troubles for the Axis.

And more disasters are coming, possibly very soon. This is particularly true in the southern European sector where every indication points to new invasion moves spearheaded by American troops.

Those landings, if carried out, would force new breaches in the already penetrated outer defenses of the fortress of Europe, broken first by the British and Canadian invasion at the foot of the Italian boot. Possibilities are strong that the American troops may land farther up the boot, flanking Axis forces retreating before the drive of the British and Canadian armies. German troops in Italy can be expected to fight bitterly, particularly in the north, to keep airfields out of Allied hands as long as possible.

The invasion of Italy, which still might be expanded to include landings in southern France, Crete, or Greece, of course was bad news for the Axis.

But Hitler was hit really hard in the Donets area. There the Russian armies drove the Germans out of Taganrog, the southern anchor for their front, and the Nazis have started a "disengagement" movement that already has moved their lines far back toward an ultimate stand along the Dnieper river.

Closer to home for the Germans, the might of Allied air power has been demonstrated time and again with pounding of German industrial centers climaxed by devastating bombardments of Berlin. That staggering damage has been caused is evident from the weight of bombs dumped on the Nazi capital, estimated by the R.A.F. as greater than the total of the long months of aerial bombardment of London by the German air force.

Underground movements added to the Nazi problem in Europe, topped by the uprising in Denmark, once regarded as the quietest of the Axis-occupied countries.

In the Pacific the battering continued against Japan with a carrier task force assault on the enemy's Marcus island base, possibly portending a mighty offensive by sea. However, its full significance remains in doubt pending disclosure of details. The Japanese fell back also in the Solomons, withdrawing from Santa Isabel island and their important Rekata bay seaplane base. Allied troops continued a drive to knock out Salamaua on New Guinea and bombing planes pounded other Japanese bases throughout the south and southwest Pacific areas.

One reason for the setbacks for the Japanese was disclosed by Navy Secretary Knox in reporting that more than one-third of Japan's cargo tonnage—highly important in supplying outlying bases—had been destroyed by Allied forces. More destruction of Japanese shipping is coming, principally from roving American submarines beating relentlessly at the enemy supply lines.

30.24 8049

30.24-8049

(Advance for use at 7:30 p.m., eastern war time, Wednesday, Sept. 1)

(Advance) London, Thursday, Sept. 2-(AP)-Pilot Officer Derek M. Sharp, the flying Yorkshireman who rode the tail of a training plane to earth after being unseated in midair over Alabama, is missing in action.

His name was included in a casualty list issued by the air ministry today but NO details were given.

Sharp was training at Tuscaloosa, Ala., with a group of Royal Air Force cadets in January, 1942, when he missed death by inches twice in one week.

A training plane in which he was riding with an instructor hit bumpy air and tossed Sharp out of the cockpit. He landed astraddle of the tail, held on tightly and gave the instructor the thumbs up salut as he rode to safety.

Six days later Sharp was seated in a grounded plane when another student's craft swooped down, sheared away a large piece of Sharp's plane, swung aloft and then returned undamaged to a perfect landing.

The moving plane's propeller only missed him by inches, but Sharp emerged unhurt and smiling.

(End advance for use at 7:30 p.m., eastern war time, Wednesday, Sept. 1)

apl balls 01715 hab120pew

LONDON, SUNDAY, SEPT.5-(AP)-THE MOSCOW RADIO SAID TODAY THAT PREMIER JOSEPH STALIN YESTERDAY RECEIVED THE METROPOLITAN OF MOSCOW, SERGIUS, THE METROPOLITAN OF LENINGRAD, ALEXIS, AND THE METROPOLITAN OF THE UKRAINE, NIKOLAI.

THE BROADCAST, WHICH WAS RECORDED BY THE SOVIET MONITOR, SAID THAT DURING THE CONVERSATIONS, METROPOLITAN SERGIUS INFORMED PREMIER STALIN THAT THE LEADERS OF THE ORTHODOX CHURCH PLANNED TO CALL A COUNCIL OF BISHOPS SHORTLY TO ELECT A PATRIARCH OF MOSCOW AND OF ALL RUSSIA.

PREMIER STALIN "RECEIVED THESE PROPOSALS SYMPATHETICALLY AND DECLARED THERE WOULD BE NO OBJECTION ON THE PART OF THE GOVERNMENT," THE ANNOUNCEMENT ADDED.

VYACHESLAV MOLOTOV, COMMISSAR FOR FOREIGN AFFAIRS, ALSO ATTENDED THE CONFERENCES, IT SAID.

XB111OPEW

LONDON--FIRST ADD NIGHT LEAD BRITISH AERIAL XXX IN THAT AREA.

SHORTLY AFTER THE AMERICAN MARAUDER BOMBERS TOOK OFF FOR THEIR AFTERNOON ATTACKS ON FREIGHT YARDS IN NORTHERN FRANCE, GEN. ARNOLD, ON AN INSPECTION TOUR OF ONE OF THE MEDIUM BOMBER STATIONS, TOLD THE CREWMEN:

"THE MARAUDER HAS FOUND ITS PLACE IN THE SUN."

COL.CARL R.STORRIE OF SAN ANTONIO, TEX., FLYING ONE OF THE MARAUDERS, LEARNED 30 MINUTES BEFORE THE TAKE-OFF THAT HE WAS THE FATHER OF A BOY.

"BRIGASPEW

DONCASTER, ENGLAND, SEPT.4-(AP)-THE ALLIED NAVAL BOMBARDMENT OF SICILY DURING THAT CAMPAIGN PROBABLY WAS THE MOST CONCENTRATED ATTACK ON LAND TARGETS BY WARSHIPS IN HISTORY, A.V. ALEXANDER, FIRST LORD OF THE ADMIRALTY, SAID TODAY IN AN ADDRESS.

THE ROYAL NAVY SUBJECTED SICILY TO MORE THAN 50 BOMBARDMENTS, ALEXANDER SAID, SOMETIMES APPROACHING TO WITHIN 500 YARDS OF THE ENEMY COAST TO "PINPOINT THEIR TARGETS."

MJ1117AEW SEP 5 1943

(AP SPECIAL ADVANCE FOR AMS OF SUNDAY, AUGUST 29--NOTE DATE)

- - -

THE THEATER

- - -

LONDON HAILS

NEW COMIC

- - -

SID FIELD HITS

LAUGH JACKPOT (900)

- - -

(PICTURE: FIELD IN HIS IMPERSONATION OF AMERICAN ARMY OFFICER)

- - -

SEP 5 1943

BY RUSSELL LANDSTROM

(ADVANCE)-LONDON-(AP)-A COMEDIAN WHO SPENT 30 YEARS ENTERTAINING PROVINCIAL AUDIENCES AND IS NOW APPEARING IN HIS FIRST WEST-END SHOW IS BEING ACCLAIMED AS THE FUNNIEST FIND IN YEARS.

CERTAINLY NO OTHER COMIC IN FOUR YEARS OF WAR--AND THE PEOPLE HAVE BEEN MORE THAN WILLING TO LAUGH--HAS INSPIRED SO GREAT AN ENTHUSIASM AS SID FIELD, 39-YEAR-OLD NATIVE OF BIRMINGHAM WHO WENT ON THE STAGE WHEN HE WAS EIGHT AND WON TOP HONORS IN A CHILDREN'S COMPETITION BY IMPERSONATING CHARLIE CHAPLIN.

TODAY CERTAIN GENERAL RESEMBLANCES BETWEEN CHAPLIN'S ART AND FIELD'S DISTINCTIVE STYLE ARE NOT LOST UPON AUDIENCES.

LIKE CHAPLIN, FIELD IS THE UNDERDOG. HE IS A BRASH COCKNEY IN CHEAP AND CORNY CLOTHES DEFYING HIS HECKLERS; A WELL-MEANING BUT HOPELESSLY INEPT BEGINNER AT GOLF; THE FELLOW WHO PRACTICALLY ALWAYS IS PUSHED AROUND.

BOTH CHAPLIN AND FIELD OWE MUCH TO THEIR SUPERB TRAINING IN PANTOMIME. AFTER FIELD MADE THE MOST OF HIS FIRST CHANCE, HE TOURED WITH CHILD TROUPES AND THEN JOINED THE FOURTEEN KINO JUVENILES, SPECIALIZING IN THE SONGS OF BROKEN-DOWN DANDIES. HE PLAYED IN THE BIRMINGHAM THEATER ROYAL PANTOMIME, HIT THE ROAD IN CONCERT PARTIES, AND EVENTUALLY LANDED A JOB IN A REVUE CALLED "ON THE RUN," IN WHICH HIS ONLY APPEARANCE WAS AS A BULL--A ONE-MAN BULL, FOR HE WAS BOTH ENDS OF THE ANIMAL.

A SUCCESSION OF SHOWS PRESENTED HIM AS STRAIGHT MAN OR STOOGE. NONE OF THE BIG BREAKS CAME HIS WAY UNTIL ONE NIGHT IN THE THEATER ROYAL AT BURY. THE COMEDIAN OF THE SHOW FELL ILL, AND SID TOOK OVER HI PART. THENCEFORTH, HE GOT SPACIOUS BILLING AS A COMEDIAN.

30,24 8051

30.24-8051

HE HAS PLAYED IN PANTOMIMI, VARIETY, REVUES OR MUSICAL COMEDY IN VIRTUALLY EVERY THEATER IN THE PROVINCES. HE TOURED AUSTRALIA WHERE HIS ELDER DAUGHTER, DIANNE, NOW EIGHT YEARS OLD, WAS BORN.

HE IS A HUSKY MAN WITH A HIGHLY MOBILE FACE. IF SOME PERSONS GO SO FAR AS TO CALL HIM GENIUS IT IS LARGELY BECAUSE HE REMAINS FAITHFUL TO THE SOURCES OF HIS COMEDY; HE DOESN'T RELY, AS DO SO MANY OTHERS, UPON TRANSPARENT VARIATIONS OF OLD JOKES AND GAGS, AND, EXCEPT IN BRIEF PARODY, HE IS STEADFASTLY ENGLISH IN A DAY WHEN COMEDIANS FIND IT HARD TO RESIST THE TEMPTATION TO EMPLOY AMERICANISMS.

MAYBE THAT IS WHY HE IS ONE OF THE FEW ENGLISH COMEDIANS THAT AMERICANS OVER HERE REALLY LIKE.

OFFSTAGE, FIELD IS AFFABLE, LIKABLE AND HIGHLY APPRECIATIVE OF HIS SUCCESS. HE IS FOND OF AMERICANS AND IS DELIGHTED TO HAVE THEM IN HIS AUDIENCES, FEELING THAT THEY HAVE "A WONDERFUL CRITICAL SENSE" WHICH HELPS HIM TO KEEP ON HIS TOES.

-DASH-

THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT HAS ASSURED ITS PEOPLE, BY AN UNPRECEDENTED ACTION, THAT IT WOULD NOT TOLERATE ANY MONOPOLY IN THE MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY, THEREBY LAYING A BOGEY THAT LONG HAS AFFRIGHTED OFFICIALDOM, LABOR COUNCILS AND THE PUBLIC AT LARGE.

ADVANCE FOR AMS OF SUNDAY, SEPT. 5--NOTE DATE

---THEATRE GALLANT AND

WOUNDED, THOSE YANKEE FLIERS

KIDDING COVERS

MUCH OF JOB'S HARSHNESS

BUT IT'S HARD TO TALK TO THOSE

JUST BACK (1,450)

SEP 5 1943

BY WILLIAM SMITH WHITE

(ADVANCE) A U.S. BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND (AP)-THIS IS A PLAIN REPORT ON A FRATERNITY OF GALLANTRY--ON THE AMERICAN YOUNGSTERS WHO ARE GOING OUT IN OUR FLYING FORTRESSES OVER EUROPE IN DAYLIGHT INTO A CORE OF FIRE THAT BURNS REDDER FOR THEM THAN FOR ANY OTHER GROUP OF ALLIED AIRMEN IN THE WORLD.

IT IS INTENDED TO TELL THEIR STORY AS IT IS TOLD ON THEIR FLYING FIELDS AND IN THEIR BRIEFING ROOMS AND BARRACKS.

THIS IS REALLY BIG LEAGUE ACTION, ESPECIALLY OVER SUCH VALLEYS OF VIOLENCE AS THE RUHR, OF HAPPY VALLEY, AS SOME OF THEM CALL IT. THE STORY WAS COLLECTED IN A TRIP AROUND OUR BOMBER BASES OVER THERE.

IT DIVIDES ITSELF ROUGHLY INTO THE THREE PHASES OF CRIS SIN WHICH THESE MEN LIVE ALWAYS--THE PERIOD OF THE ALERT, THE HOURS OF WAITING WHILE NOTHING MUCH IS DOING, AND THE HOURS JUST AFTER THE RETURN FROM ACTION.

IT IS TOLD WITHOUT THE USE OF NAMES (BUT IT GIVES WHAT THEY ACTUALLY SAID) FOR THESE WORDS WERE NOT SPOKEN FOR INTERVIEW PURPOSES. THEY CAME FROM OFFICERS AND MEN ALIKE -- PILOTS, NAVIGATORS, BOMBARDIERS, GUNNERS -- BUT THE MATTER OF RANK MAKES NO DIFFERENCE TO THIS ACCOUNT ANYHOW.

HERE IT IS, AND PERHAPS IT WILL SUGGEST THE SIMPLE HEROISM OF A CLASS OF MEN THAT WILL MAKE MANY PEOPLE AT HOME VERY PROUD.

1943

1. THE ALERT: THE COMBAT CREWS HAVE BEEN TOLD TO BE READY FOR A CERTAIN HOUR; AND THE GROUND PEOPLE ARE DOING MOST OF THE SWEATING AS OFTEN THEY DO. THE COMBAT CREWS ARE THE YOUNGSTERS. THEY ARE SITTING OR LOUNGING ON BUNKS IN BARRACKS, A GROUP OF CURIOUSLY STILL MEN, TALKING QUIETLY AND VERY LITTLE AND DOING A GREAT DEAL OF LETTER WRITING BY THE YELLOW LITTLE LIGHTS. WHILE I AM HERE NOTHING DIRECTLY IS SAID FOR A LONG TIME ABOUT WHAT IS GOING TO HAPPEN TOMORROW MORNING (THAT IS WHEN THEY ARE FLYING OUT), BUT A GUNNER OF ABOUT 19 INDIRECTLY APPROACHES THE SUBJECT AND SAYS TO A MAJOR OF ABOUT 24:

"SIR, IT LOOKS TO ME LIKE WE GET GYPPED PLENTY OF TIMES ON THESE CONFIRMEDS (THE OFFICIAL DETERMINATION AS TO HOW MANY ENEMY PLANES ONE OF OUR CREWS HAS SHOT DOWN.) YOU CAN SEE THEM GOING DOWN, A LOT MORE THAN WE GET CREDIT FOR."

THE MAJOR WAS A BIG, RAW-BONED FELLOW IN A SWEATSHIRT; HE HAD JUST BEEN PLAYING SOFTBALL AND COMPLAINING THAT IF IT HADN'T BEEN FOR THAT ONE BAD INNING....

SEP 5 1943

HE TURNED TO THE BOY AND SAID EARNESTLY:

"JOHNNIE, THE THING TO DO IS TO TELL THOSE INTELLIGENCE OFFICERS WHEN YOU GET BACK FROM A MISSION EVERYTHING THAT HAPPENED. DON'T BE HOLDING BACK; THEY WANT TO KNOW. KEEP THROWING IT AT THEM UNTIL YOU'VE TOLD THEM EVERYTHING. YOU SEE, NOW, WHAT HAS BEEN HAPPENING IS THAT YOU HAVEN'T BEEN THROWING IT AT THEM."

SAID A YOUNG LIEUTENANT FROM THE DEPTHS OF HIS BUNK:

"YOU AIN'T WOLFIN' (KIDDING), MAJOR."

I HAD BEEN ASKING THE MAJOR ABOUT A CAPTAIN RECENTLY LOST AND HE RETURNED TO THAT AS THOUGH THERE WAS NOTHING ELSE AT ALL TO THINK ABOUT -- FOR EXAMPLE NOTHING TO THINK ABOUT IN CONNECTION WITH TOMORROW.

HE EXPLAINED CAREFULLY AND AT LENGTH THAT THE CAPTAIN PROBABLY HAD GOT DOWN ALL RIGHT, ALTHOUGH IN GERMAN TERRITORY, AND FOR THE FIRST TIME MENTIONED WHAT WAS BEING PLANNED FOR THE NEXT FEW HOURS.

"I HOPE IT ISN'T SCRUBBED (CALLED OFF)," HE SAID. "I'D LIKE FOR YOU TO SEE IT WHILE YOU ARE HERE."

SEP 5 1943

"WELL...." IT SEEMED HARDLY DECENT TO CHEERFULLY ASSENT, FOR I WASN'T GOING TO THE RAID; THE MAJOR WAS.

"NO, NO," HE WENT ON. "THAT'S THE ONLY WAY WE'LL BEAT THEM -- KEEP GOING AT THEM. WHAT WE DON'T GET TOMORROW WE'VE GOT TO GET ANOTHER DAY."

A GROUND OFFICER WAS SITTING AROUND WITH US AND SAID WITH A RATHER BLEAK SMILE: "OH, IT'S AWFUL TOUGH ON ME. ALL YOU JOES HAVE TO DO IS FLY THEM." HE WAS OF COURSE DEPRECATING HIMSELF IN THE ONLY WAH HE KNEW, TRYING TO SAY THAT HE UNDERSTOOD WHAT THEY HAD TO DO AND APPRECIATED IT, BUT THEY HOWLED HIM DOWN WITH SOME RICH -- AND AFFECTIONATE -- STUFF. ONE OF THEM, A NAVIGATOR, BELLOWED:

"WHAT THE HELL! YOU KNOW WHAT THE FRENCH CALL A PILOT? A SHOFER, EH KID? SHOFER; TRUCK DRIVER."

THE PILOT: "WHAT'S A NAVIGATOR? A LOUSY KNOB-TURNER. HOW'S IN COMMAND OF THE SHIP? TELL HIM THAT."

WE LEFT THE BARRACKS IN THE HALF-LIGHT OF THESE LATE ENGLISH DUSKS AND THE MAJOR, TURNING INTO HIS OFFICE FOR SOME NIGHT PAPER WORK, RAISED HIS HAND AND CALLED OUT: TOMORROW--EARLY."

---

2. THE TIME OF INACTION AND WAITING:

THIS TIME WE ARE IN AN OFFICERS' CLUB, IN A MINOR CHAOS OF TABLE TENNIS, CONVERSATION, CRIBBAAGE AND EVEN A COUPLE OF CHESS PLAYERS

30.24-8053

GAMELY AND GRIMLY GOING THROUGH WITH IT AMID THE NOISE.

A THING YOUNGSTER IS TALKING FAST AND ALMOST ENDLESSLY, LAUGHING AND THROWING HIS ARMS ABOUT, AND A HUSKY CHAPLAIN IS ENOUNCING THE YOUNGSTER'S HOME TOWN, PHILADELPHIA AS IT HAPPENED.

"PADRE," SAYS THE BOY, "DON'T SAY THAT; DON'T SAY THAT. PHILADELPHIA IS A REAL CITY. IN NEW YORK IT'S JUST A VERTICAL PLACE, GOING ONE WAY -- UP AND DOWN."

"PHILADELPHIA," THE CHAPLAIN PERSISTS SOLEMNLY, "IS THE PLACE WHERE NOTHING IS ALWAYS HAPPENING." HE IS INSISTING ON THIS OLD AND AMIABLE LIBEL AS ANOTHER LAD BREAKS IN:

"PADRE, THIS GUY DOES NOTHING BUT SLEEP, ANYHOW, SO MAYBE YOU'RE RIGHT ABOUT PHILADELPHIA."

"THAT'S ALL RIGHT," THE CHAPLAIN SMILES. "THAT IS, ALL RIGHT FOR EVERY MORNING BUT SUNDAY."

SECOND NIGHT LEAD AXIS REACTION

BY FRANK BRUTTO

BERN, SWITZERLAND, SEPT.4-(AP)-THE ITALIAN PRESS TODAY COMMENTED ON THE ALLIED INVASION OF THE ITALIAN MAINLAND WITH UNRELIEVED PESSIMISM, WHICH WAS REGARDED AS VIRTUALLY PREPARING THE PEOPLE FOR A COUP DE GRACE, AND SOME OF THE NEWSPAPERS RENEWED THEIR CALLS FOR PEACE.

LA STAMPA OF TURIN SAID ITALIANS MUST "FIND A WAY OUT OF THE WAR" IN THE "QUICKEST AND BEST WAY POSSIBLE."

THE BADOGLIO GOVERNMENT, LA STAMPA ADDED, IS "CONSCIOUS OF THIS NECESSITY AND FAVORS IT."

SEP 5 1943

AFTER DISPLAYING A CALM, ALMOST INDIFFERENT MANNER TOWARD THE INVASION YESTERDAY, THE PRESS BROKE OUT TODAY WITH EDITORIALS WHICH CONTAINED FEW WORDS OF RESISTANCE.

"THE TRAGEDY IS IN ITS CULMINATION," DECLARED ROME'S IL MESSAGGERO, ADDING DIRELY THAT FURTHER ATTACKS ARE "POSSIBLE, RATHER PROBABLE, AT EVERY POINT ON THE PENINSULA. ALL ITALY IS EXPOSED TO BLOWS."

TURIN'S GAZETTA DEL POPOLO COMMENTED THAT DEFENSE OF THE SOUTHERN PART OF CALABRIA PRESENTED MANY DIFFICULTIES AGAINST AN ENEMY HOLDING DOMINION OF THE SEA AND AIR.

(A MANIFESTO DEMANDING "AN IMMEDIATE PEACE WITH ALL DEMOCRATIC NATIONS" AND ABOLITION OF "THE GUILTY MONARCHY" HAS BEEN DISTRIBUTED THROUGHOUT ITALY BY THE ITALIAN LEAGUE FOR HUMAN RIGHTS, THE STOCKHOLM NEWSPAPER DAGENS NYHETER SAID IN A DISPATCH REPORTED TO THE OFFICE OF WAR INFORMATION TONIGHT.)

THE POUNDING WHICH AMERICAN FORTRESS BOMBERS GAVE BOLZANO AND TRENTO THURSDAY, CRIPPLING RAIL TRAFFIC THROUGH THE BRENNER PASS, HAD IMPRESSED ITALY, A MILAN DISPATCH TO THE NEWSPAPER DER BUND SAID.

THE FACT THAT THE ALLIES ETC PICKING UP THIRD GRAF FIRST NIGHT LEAD

SEP 5 1943

OTV XB1118PEWT

BERN (ADD) x x leaders.

THE NEWSPAPER MESSAGGERO SAID MANY FASCIST CHIEFS ALREADY HAD BEEN JAILED IN ROME. OTHERS ARRESTED IN VARIOUS PARTS OF THE COUNTRY INCLUDED MEDEO BELLONI, FORMER SQUADRISTI CHIEF; RENZO MONTAGNE, WHO HELD THE POST OF LIEUTENANT GENERAL OF THE FASCIST MILITIA AND MARIO GIANPAOLI, FORMER CHIEF OF THE FASCIST PARTY IN MILAN.

ZADNC11AEW

STOCKHOLM, SEPT. 4-(AP)-- THE GERMANS NOW REGARD THE ALLIED INVASION OF THE ITALIAN MAINLAND AS THE FIRST MAJOR ATTACK ON THE EUROPEAN CONTINENT AND APPEAR TO FEAR OTHER LARGE-SCALE ASSAULTS SOON, FROM THE MEDITERRANEAN, THE SWEDISH CORRESPONDENTS IN BERLIN REPORTED TODAY.

THE AFTONBLADET CORRESPONDENT SAID THE GERMANS WERE DELAYING THROWING THEIR FULL DEFENSIVE STRENGTH AGAINST THE EIGHTH ARMY WHILE WAITING TO DETERMINE WHETHER OTHER ATTACKS MAY DEVELOP.

IT IS PLAIN, HE ADDED, THAT THE NAZIS REGARDED THE [illegible] LANDINGS IN THE REGGIO CALABRIA AREA AT FIRST AS CAMOUFLAGE FOR ATTACKS ELSEWHERE.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, SEPT. 4-(AP)---

AN AMERICAN WARHAWKS PILOT THOUGHT HE WAS A PRISONER WHEN HE CRASH-LANDED IN A FIELD AND WAS QUICKLY ACCOSTED BY GERMAN TROOPS---AND IT TOOK HIM A LITTLE TIME TO FIND OUT THAT HE HAD MERELY HANDED IN A PRISONER-OF-WA CAMP IN SICILY.

SEP.5 1943

FLIGHT OFFICER [illegible] MAURICE L. PLUMMER OF RFD ROUTE 7, INDIANAPOLIS, IND., WAS A BIT EMBARRASSED WHEN HE TOLD OF HIS EXPERIENCE.

HE WAS [illegible] ON A MISSION OVER SARDINIA WHEN ENEMY 20-MILLIMETER CANNONSHELLS RIDDLED HIS P-40, KNOCKED OUT THE RADIO AND HYDRAULICS, AND FILLED THE COCKPIT [illegible] WITH SMOKE [illegible] FROM BURNING WIRE.

"I STARTED TO BAIL OUT BUT THERE WAS SO MUCH SMOKE I FIGURED MY CHUTE PROBABLY HAD BURNED, TOO," HE SAID. "I FLEW ON COAXING THE PLANE INCH BY INCH AND FINALLY HIT LAND BUT COULDN'T RECOGNIZE ANY LANDMARKS. I FOUND AN OPEN FIELD AND CRASH-LANDED THE PLANE.

"WHEN TWO MEN IN UNFAMILIAR UNIFORMS TROTTED UP AND POINTED TO THEMSELVES AND [illegible] SAID 'GERMAN,' I GOT A HOLLOW FEELING INSIDE. I FIGURED I HAD GOTTEN MIXED UP AND GONE BACK TO SARDINIA."

THE GERMANS TOOK PLUMMER TO A NEARBY HOUSE WHERE THE LANDLORD TOLD HIM HE WAS IN A SICILIAN PRISON FARM AND GAVE HIM A BOTTLE OF WINE.

A144

BY PAUL KERN LEE

ABOARD THE BRITISH DESTROYER QUAIL IN MESSINA STRAIT, SEPT.3-(DELAYED)-(AP)-AS AN EXAMPLE OF THE UNPRECEDENTED EASE WITH WHICH BRITISH AND CANADIAN TROOPS INVADED ITALY TODAY, THIS DESTROYER AND A SISTER SHIP, THE QUILLIAM, HAVE JUST COMPLETED PASSAGE OF MESSINA STRAIT, DRAWING ONLY ONE SHOT FROM AN ENEMY COASTAL BATTERY.

OURS WERE THE FIRST ALLIED WARSHIPS TO PASS THROUGH THE STRAIT.

ITALIAN WHITE FLAGS BEGAN TO BLOSSOM ALONG THE SHORE WITH THE FIRST LIGHT OF DAY. BEFORE NOON THE WHOLE OF THE ITALIAN TIPTOE AREA FLAPPED WITH WHITE BANNERS IN UNBELIEVABLE PROFUSION.

IT LOOKED LIKE WASHDAY IN A PUBLIC NURSERY.

SEP 5 1943

THE LANDINGS WERE MADE BY THE CANADIAN FIRST AND BRITISH FIFTH DIVISIONS AT 4:30 A.M.

30.2J-8055

30.24-8055

WITHIN FOUR HOURS BOTH REGGIO CALABRIA AND SAN GIOVANNI, AS WELL AS MANY OTHER POINTS ON THE 10-MILE STRETCH OF SHORE BETWEEN, WERE WAVING THE WHITE BANNERS OF SURRENDER.

THE BRITISH AND CANADIANS PUSHED STEADILY INLAND, CAPTURING FIXED BATTERIES, AND ENCOUNTERING NO REAL OPPOSITION UNTIL ABOUT 10 O'CLOCK WHEN INLAND GUNS BEVAN SHELLING THE STRAIT SPORADICALLY AT ITS NARROWEST POINT.

THE MOST CONCENTRATED ARTILLERY BARRAGE OF THIS WAR PRECEDED THE INVASION. MORE THAN 900 BIG GUNS, LINED LITERALLY HUB TO HUB ON THE SICILIAN SHORE, SMASHED THE INVASION BEACHES TO NOTHINGNESS.

IN THE NORTH WHERE THE STRAIT IS LESS THAN TWO MILES WIDE EVEN MACHINEGUNS WERE USED.

GUNS OF INCREASINGLY LARGER CALIBER STRETCHED OUT SOUTHWARD, ENDING WITH HEAVY AMERICAN ARTILLERY OPPOSITE REGGIO CALABRIA.

POWERFUL BRITISH NAVAL FORCES PATROLLING THE NARROW BODY OF WATER BETWEEN SICILY AND ITALY FOUND NOTHING TO DO SAVE SERVE AS GRANDSTAND SEATS FOR THE CREWS.

"THIS IS A REAL PIECE OF CAKE," EXCLAIMED ONE RATING, BUT IN A DISAPPOINTED TONE.

"HARD OR EASY, ALLIED TROOPS ARE NOW WITHIN WALKING DISTANCE OF BERLIN--AND THAT'S WHAT COUNTS," DECLARED THE QUAIL'S COMMANDING OFFIVER, LIEUT. COMMANDER R.F.JENKS, SON OF THE FORMER LORD MAYOR OF LONDON.

THE SEA WAS SO MIRROR-CALM THAT REFLECTION OF THE STARS AND TRACERS WERE ALMOST AS BRIGHT AS THE ORIGINALS.

SEP 5 1943

PROMPTLY AT 3:40 A.M., HELL ON A HUGE SCALE BROKE LOOSE FROM SICILY. LITTLE GUNS, MEDIUM GUNS, AND BIG GUNS LIGHTED UP THE WHOLE COAST WITH BRILLIANT ORANGE, WHITE AND PINK FLASHES.

ALMOST IMMEDIATELY FIRES BROKE OUT ON THE ITALIAN SIDE.

WE PRESSED NEAR UNTIL THE BIG GUNS WERE FIRING OVER OUR HEADS.

THIS DESTROYER SOON MET SWARMS OF ASSAULT LANDING CRAFT, MOVING STEADILY TOWARDS ITALY LIKE AUTOMOBILES ON A PRE-WAR SUNDAY AFTERNOON ON AN AMERICAN PARKWAY. WE STALLED AROUND KEEPING GUARD ON THEIR SOUTHERN FLANK.

I SAW ONLY THREE GUN FLASHES FROM THE ITALIAN SHORE IN REPLY TO THE BIG BARRAGE, AND THESE WERE PROMPTLY SMOTHERED BY AMERICAN GUNS IN SICILY.

SEP 5 1943

BY NOLAND NORGAARD

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, SEPT.4-(AP)-ALLIED PLANES "COMPLETELY DOMINATED THE SKY OVER SOUTHERN ITALY YESTERDAY WHILE OUR GROUND FORCES ENTERED THE FORTRESS OF EUROPE," MEETINB VIRTUALLY NO OPPOSITION FROM THE GERMANS, AN OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT SAID TODAY.

"PILOTS REPORTED LITTLE TRAFFIC ON THE ROADS AND SAW SEVERAL WHITE SHEETS LAID OUT IN FIELDS AND GARDENS," IT ADDED.

FIGHTER AND BOMBER PLANES RANGING IN GREAT STRENGTH OVER THE INVASION AREA FOUND ONLY A FEW AXIS TROOPS OR TRUCK CONVOYS ON THE HIGHWAYS, AND "SORTIE AFTER SORTIE X X X FROM DAWN TO DUSK RETURNED TO REPORT NO TARGETS FOR THEIR GUNS OR BOMBS."

OF THE FEW ENEMY PLANES SIGHTED BY THE FLEETS FROM NORTH AFRICA, FIVE WERE DESTROYED. ONE ALLIED SHIP WAS MISSING.

U.S. NINTH AIRFORCE LIBERATORS FROM THE MIDDLE EAST MEANWHILE SMACKED THE RAILYARDS AT SULMONA 75 MILES EAST OF ROME BY DAYLIGHT YESTERDAY, ENCOUNTERING STERN OPPOSITION FROM AXIS PLANES AND DOWNING 27 OF THEM.

SIX PLANES WERE LOST IN THIS AND OTHER ATTACKS BY THE NINTH AIR-FORCE, CAIRO REPORTED, BRINGING THE TOTAL BAG OF ENEMY PLANES TO 32

AGAINST LOSS OF SEVEN ALLIED AIRCRAFT.

WHILE THE MAIN LONG RANGE AIR WEAPONS--THE FLYING FORTRESSES AND MARAUDERS OF THE NORTHWEST AFRICAN STRATEGIC AIR FORCE--TOOK THE DAY OFF, THE TACTICAL AIRFORCE OF AMERICAN MITCHELLS ATTACKED THE AIRDROME AT CAMIGLIATELLO AND CROTONE ABOUT 30 MILES NORTHEAST OF CATANZARO, HITTING IN THREE WAVES.

U.S. BOSTONS ATTACKED GUN POSITIONS IN THE INVASION AREA, WHILE MITCHELLS AND RAF BOSTONS AND BALTIMORES HAMMERED MARIA DI CATANZARO, BOVA DI MARINA, AND COSENZA, THEIR BOMBS STRIKING ON OR NEAR A NUMBER OF BRIDGES AND BUILDINGS.

MEANWHILE AMERICAN WARHAWKS SWOOPED OVER SARDINIA, PLANTING FOUR BOMBS SQUARELY ON THE RADIO STATION AT CAPE CARBONARA, AND ALSO DAMAGED RADIO INSTALLATIONS AT PULA 20 MILES SOUTH OF CAGLIARI WITHOUT ENCOUNTERING A SINGLE ENEMY PLANE.

RAF WELLINGTONS FOLLOWED UP LAST NIGHT WITH FLARE RAIDS ON ENEMY AIRFIELDS AT CAPUA AND CAPODICHINO IN THE NAPLES AREA. AT CAPUA, THE CREWS SAW AS MANY AS 20 PLANES ON THE GROUND WHERE BOMBS WERE STRIKING. A VIVID FIRE WAS SET IN ONE HANGAR, AND FLAMES LEAPED FROM OTHERS.

SEP 5 1943

NONE OF THE WELLINGTONS WAS LOST.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, SEPT 4-(AP)-A U.S. A-20 BOMBER SQUADRON COMMANDED BY MAJOR C.B; STAFFORD OF 240 SOUTH MYRTLE ST., OAK PARK, ILL, FLEW ITS 1,000TH SORTIE YESTERDAY.

STAFFORD SAID THE SQUADRON WAS DETAILED TO BOMY ENEMY CONCENTRATIONS NEAR THE ITALIAN COAST, BUT "EVIDENTLY

STAFFORD SAID THE SQUADRON WAS DETAILED TO BOMB ENEMY CONCENTRATIONS NEAR THE ITALIAN COAST, BUT "EVIDENTLY THEY ARE KEEPINGOUT OF HARM'S WAY, FOR ALL WE SAW WERE A FEW VEHICLES WHICH WE COVERED WITH BOMB BURSTS."

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, SEPT.4-(AP)-AN AMERICAN WARHAWK PILOT THOUGHT HE WAS A PRISONER WHEN HE CRASH-LANDED IN A FIELD AND WAS QUICKLY ACCOSTED BY GERMAN TROOPS--AND IT TOOK HIM A LITTLE TIME TO FIND OUT THAT HE HAD MERELY LANDED IN A PRISONER-OF-WAR CAMP FOR THE AXIS IN SICILY.

FLIGHT OFFICER MAURICE L. PLUMMER OF ROUTE 7, INDIANAPOLIS IND., WAS A BIT EMBARRASSED WHEN HE TOLD OF HIS EXPERIENCE.

HE WAS ON A MISSION OVER SARDINIA WHEN ENEMY 20-MILLIMETER CANNONSHELLS RIDDLED HIS O-40, KNOCKED OUT THE RADIO AND HYDRAULICS, AND FILLED THE COCKPIT WITH SMOKE.

"I STARTED TO BAIL OUT BUT THERE WAS SO MUCH SMOKE I FIGURED MY CHUTE PROBABLY HAD BURNED, TOO," HE SAID. "I FLEW ON COAXING THE PLANE INCH BY INCH AND FINALLY HIT LAND BUT COULDN'T RECOGNIZE ANY LANDMARKS. I FOUND AN OPEN FIELD AND CRASH-LANDED THE PLANE.

"WHEN TWO MEN IN UNFAMILIAR UNIFORMS TROTTED UP AND POINTED TO THEMSELVES AND SAID 'GERMAN', I GOT A HOLLOW FEELING INSIDE. I FIGURED I HAD GOTTEN MIXED UP AND GONE BACK TO SARDINIA."

THE GERMANS TOOK PLUMMER TO A NEARBY HOUSE WHERE THE LANDLORD TOLD HIM HE WAS IN A SICILIAN PRISON FARM AND GAVE HIM A BOTTLE OF WINE.

DV125PES0T

By Douglas Brass

Representing the Combined British Press

(Distributed by The Associated Press)

SEP 5 1943

On the Messina strait, Sept. 3-(Delayed)-At 5:42 this monring a report came across the strait of Messina that one beach had been taken and that eighth army troops had their foothold in Europe.

Their first assault went in at 4:30 a.m. under the cover of a barrage which shook both sides of the strait with crashes and echoes and lit them with fire and reflection. It was a full scale battle barrage made by both British and American batteries.

The Messina shore and the strait were for two hours this morning alight with gun flashes.

"If by firing 1,000 shells we can save the life of one man, we shall fire 1,000 shells," a brigadier commanding the artillery told me.

The first task of the allied gunners -- Americans firing 155 millimeter rifles and "long Toms" and British employing many regiments of field guns and mediums -- was for nine minutes to strafe along the invasion beaches north of Reggio Calabria.

This was followed by 33 minutes of wholesale counter battery fire, barely opened before ammunition dumps were afire and exploding on the hillsides.

Everybody called the beach strafe amm a serenade, a term they had picked up from American gunners.

30.24-8057

30.24-8057

By Gregory Clark

Representing the Combined Canadian Press

(Distributed by The Associated Press)

Somewhere in Sicily, Sept. 3-(Delayed)-The Canadians were surprised by the easy ease of the assault. The Canadians went in keyed up for another lightning assault like the one July 10 in Sicily.

They went in under a tremendous and spectacular barrage from the Sicilian shore. When touched off at 4:30, the leading battalions skirmished and found light opposition. The success signal went up at 5:26.

SEP 5 1943

Fourteen British wounded prisoners were rescued. No Germans were encountered and Italian prisoners who did NOT fight at all were feverishly awaiting the arrival of the troops they had been expecting for days.

I am with the reserve and now within five hours of the attack we are moving in greater calm even than in the past few weeks of rest. To coin a phrase, "all is quiet on the Canadian front in Europe."

BY MAURICE DESJARDINS
(REPRESENTING THE COMBINED CANADIAN PRESS)
(DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

SEP 5 19

WITH CANADIAN TROOPS IN SICILY, SEPT 3-(DELAYED)--THIS MORNING'S SUCCESSFUL OPERATION ON THE WESTERN TIP OF THE ITALIAN BOOT IS THE SECOND "STAND UP" INVASION FOR CANADIAN TROOPS IN SEVEN WEEKS.

A FEW HOURS BEFORE THE LANDINGS MAJ.GEN.G.G.SIMONDS, 43-YEAR-OLD COMMANDER OF THE CANADIANS, TOLD CORRESPONDENTS HE EXPECTED LITTLE OR NO OPPOSITION ON THE BEACHES. THE EASE WITH WHICH THE CANADIANS ESTABLISHED THE BRIDGEHEAD CONFIRMED HIS STATEMENT.

A TYPICAL 8TH ARMY ARTILLERY BARRAGE HAD A LOT TO DO WITH MAKING THE SHOW A "PIECE OF CAKE." COASTAL POPULATIONS STAYED UP ALL NIGHT WATCHING THE MAN-MADE VOLCANO SPEWING TONS OF STEEL ACROSS MESSINA STRAITS.

THE CANADIANS EXPECT TO MEET THEIR MAIN OPPOSITION IN THE HILLS, OUT OF RANGE OF OUR ARTILLERY. TODAY OUR BOMBERS ARE CONCENTRATING ON THOSE POSITIONS, WITH THE HELP OF NAVAL SHELLING.

OUR ENGINEERS FOUND THE BEACHES PRACTICALLY FREE FROM MINES."

THIS AFTERNOON I SAW HUGE CONVOYS OF AMPHIBIOUS "DUCKS" HEADING FOR THE EMBARKATION POINTS. THEY WERE ACCLAIMED BY CHEERING SICILIANS. THE INSCRIPTION ON ONE INDICATED THE HIGH FEELING OF OPTIMISM AMONG THE TROOPS. IT READ: "BOUND FOR ROME AND HOME, WE HOPE."

MT920AEW

BY EDWARD GILLING
REPRESENTING THE COMBINED BRITISH PRESS
(DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

SEP 5 19

WITH THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY IN ITALY (NO DATE GIVEN)--THE FIRST LIGHT OF DAWN WAS BREAKING OVER THE ITALIAN HILLS AS OUR ASSAULT CRAFT GROUND TO A HALT IN THE SHALLOW WATERS, FOLLOWED BY EQUIPMENT-FILLED AMERICAN AMPHIBIOUS "DUCKS" WHICH CAME ASHORE AND TRUNDLED UP THE BEACH.

TROOPS FROM OUR CRAFT QUICKLY FILED ACROSS THE BEACH AND DISAPPEARED INTO AN ORANGE GROVE.

THE FIRST GROUP OF ITALIAN SOLDIERS WALKED ONTO THE BEACH WITH ARMS UPRAISED, SAYING "ITALIAN SICILIANS." THEY SURRENDERED THEIR ARMS.

THE STRAIT WAS NOW FILLED WITH CRAFT OF ALL TYPES AND SIZES. ON SHORE, BULLDOZERS WERE MAKING PATHS THROUGH THE VINEYARDS AND ORANGE GROVES, FROM THE BEACHES.

MILITARY POLICEMEN STAND AT THE ROAD JUNCTIONS, DIRECTING VEHICLES ON THEIR VARIOUS ROUTES.

HIDDEN IN THE GROVES ARE ANTI-TANK GUNS COVERING THE ROAD JUNCTIONS. TWENTY-FIVE POUNDERS COVER THE HILLS.

THE ASSAULT TROOPS WITH WHICH I LANDED EMBARKED ON THE OPPOSITE SIDE OF THE STRAIT SHORTLY AFTER MIDNIGHT. WE HAD JUST GOTTEN INTO OUR POSITION WHEN A GREAT BARRAGE BEGAN.

GREAT WHITE FLASHES RAN IN AND OUT OF THE HILLS BEHIND MESSINA. LITTLE SPLASHES OF RED TWINKLED IN THE HILLS AND ON THE BEACHES OF THE MAINLAND AS THE SHELLS BURST. FIRES SPRANG UP IN MANY PLACES AND THE HILLS WHICH HAD BEEN SO CLEARLY VISIBLE IN THE STARLIGHT [redacted] EARLIER DISAPPEARED IN A HAZE OF DUST AND SMOKE.

CLOSING IN ON THE BEACHES, WE COULD SEE VERY LITTLE, OWING TO

THE SMOKE. AS THE LEADING BOATS GROUNDED, WE WAITED ANXIOUSLY FOR SOME MOMENTS, EXPECTING THE ENEMY DEFENSES TO OPEN UP FAR AWAY.

THERE WAS A CHATTER OF MACHINEGUN FIRE FROM PILLBOXES, FOLLOWED BY A BRIEF BURST FROM OUR BRENS.

THEN ALL WAS SILENT AGAIN. OUR WAIT ENDED WHEN A ROCKET SUDDENLY ROSE AND BURST OVER THE BEACH.

SEP 5 1943

THEN WE KNEW THAT THE BEACHHEAD WAS SECURED.

BY S.L.SOLON

MT1026AEW

(REPRESENTING THE BOMBINED BRITISH PRESS)

(DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

WITH THE BRITISH 8TH ARMY EN ROUTE TO ITALY, SEPT 3-(DELAYED)--THIS HAS BEEN THE MOST AMAZING LANDING OPERATION IN HISTORY--ONE CARRIED OUT UNDER THE VERY NOSES OF THE ENEMY.

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON THROUGH A POWERFUL TELESCOPE WE STUDIED THE COAST WHICH WE CAPTURED THIS MORNING AND WATCHED THE ALMOST DESULTORY ACTIVITY OF THE ENEMY, WHO CARRIED ON AS THOUGH HE ALREADY KNEW HE WAS DEFEATED.

EXCEPT FOR SOME STRAGGLERS WHO WALKED ABOUT THE BEACHES LIKE LOST ANTS, THE VIEW WAS DESERTED. WE SAW ONE GERMAN SOLDIER WALK DOWN TO THE BEACH, LOOK ACROSS THE NARROW STRAIT AND SCRATCH HIS HEAD. THEN, TO OUR AMAZEMENT, HE TOOK OUT A CHILD'S TOY--A YO-YO--AND CAREFULLY PLAYED THE STRING UP AND DOWN.

MEANWHILE, IN BROAD DAYLIGHT ALONG OUR OWN SHORE WE WERE GETTING READY. VEHICLES, SEA JEEPS AND EQUIPMENT WERE MOVING INTO LINE FOR LOADING. IN THE AFTERNOON THE LANDING CRAFT MOVED INTO POSITION.

THE FIRST LANDING CRAFT WENT OVER WITH ASSAULT TROOPS IN THE DARKNESS. AS SOON AS SIGNALS WENT UP THAT THE BEACHES HAD BEEN CAPTURED A STEADY STREAM OF LANDING CRAFT KEPT COMING AND GOING WITH MORE TROOPS AND EQUIPMENT. ONE SOLDIER SHOUTED:

"GET YOUR FERRY TICKETS EARLY TO SEE ITALY; THE TRAFFIC IS TERRIBLE."

EDS: SLUG ABOVE "REPRESENTING THE COMBINED BRITISH ETC)

30.24-8059

30.24-8059

BY HENRY C.CASSIDY

WITH THE RED ARMY ON THE STEPPE FRONT SEPT 4-(AP)-BEATEN BY THE RED ARMY'S SUMMER OFFENSIVE ALONG A 600-MILE FRONT IN CENTRAL AND SOUTHERN RUSSIA, THE GERMANS ARE RETREATING TO THE DNIEPER AND DESNA RIVERS.

THERE IS NO LONGER ANY QUESTION OF THEIR BEING ABLE TO PUT ON A GENERAL COUNTER-OFFENSIVE.

SEP 5 1943

THESE ARE THE MAIN POINTS EVIDENT FROM A VISIT TO THE EASTERN FRONT AND TALKS WITH HIGH-RANKING RED ARMY OFFICERS.

BEHIND THEM THE GERMANS ARE LEAVING BLACKENED SCENES OF DEVASTATION RESEMBLING AN AREA SCOURGED BY LOCUSTS.

THEY ARE ALSO LEAVING HEAPS OF THEIR OWN MATERIAL AND MOUNDS OF THEIR OWN MEN AT POINTS WHERE THE RED ARMY IS CUTTING THEM OFF AND WIPING THEM OUT BY A SERIES OF PINCER MOVEMENTS.

AMERICAN MATERIAL IS AIDING THE RED ARMY IN ITS DRIVE.

COL.IVAN IVANOVICH VOROBIEV, STAFF REPRESENTATIVE OF GEN.IVAN KONEV'S STEPPE ARMY WHICH TOOK KHARKOV, SAID THAT THE RED ARMY HAD INFLICTED HEAVY LOSSES ON THE GERMANS AND HAD SMASHED THE BEST OF THEIR DIVISIONS IN THE SUMMER CAMPAIGN.

"THAT DOES NOT MEAN THAT THE GERMAN ARMY IS ON THE VERGE OF COLLAPSE," HE ADDED. "BY USING RESERVES, THE GERMANS ARE STILL ABLE TO FORM GROUPS AND RESIST AT INDIVIDUAL POINTS. THE LIQUIDATION OF THIS RESISTANCE WILL REQUIRE TREMENDOUS EFFORT AND TIME."

COL.VOROBIEV SAID THAT IT WAS DIFFICULT TO ESTIMATE WHEN THE RED ARMY WOULD REACH THE DNIEPER RIVER.

WEST OF KHARKOV, WHILE THE GUNS BOOMED ON THE NEARBY FRONT AND PLANES FLEW OVERHEAD, WE SAW THE BATTLEFIELD WHERE THE RED ARMY HAD JUST CUT OFF AND SMASHED THE REMNANTS OF THE GERMAN THIRD TANK DIVISION, AND HAD CROSSED THE MEREFA RIVER TO OCCUPY THE RAILROAD STATION

1943

OF MEREFA, 15 MILES SOUTHWEST OF KHARKOV.

FARTHER NORTH, VOROBIEV SAID, THE GERMANS HAVE STRONG DEFENSES AROUND SMOLENSK, EXTENDING AS FAR AS 35 MILES AND INCLUDING ROSLAVL, SOUTHEAST OF SMOLENSK AND WEST OF THE DESNA RIVER IN THE FORTIFIED ZONE.

THE RED WESTERN FRONT ATTACK WHICH BROKE THROUGH THE SPAS DEMENSK SECTOR, IN THE DIRECTION OF ROSLAVL, HAS NOW MERGED WITH THE GENERAL OFFENSIVE, HE SAID.

ASSAULTS ON W WIDE FRONT, WITH FULL USE OF MOBILE RESERVES, ACCOUNTED FOR RED ARMY SUCCESSES, WHILE THE GERMANS FAILED IN THEIR OWN ATTEMPT TO MOUNT A SUMMER OFFENSIVE WITH ATTACKS ON THE NARROW KURSK FRONT, WHERE THE RUSSIANS PINNED DOWN ENEMY RESERVES.

OUT HERE THE ATMOSPHERE IS ONE OF CORDIALITY UNEQUALLED ANY TIME DURING THE WAR.

SEP 5 1943

THIS VISIT BY AMERICAN AND BRITISH CORRESPONDENTS WAS DARKENED BY THE DEATH OF TWO REPRESENTATIVES OF THE FOREIGN COMMISSARIAT AND ONE OFFICER OF THE DEFENSE COMMISSARIAT WHO WERE KILLED BY A LANDMINE WHICH EXPLODED IN THE MIDST OF OUR CARAVAN OF JEEPS.

THE TRIP, NEVERTHELESS, WENT ON AND TOASTS WERE PROPOSED BY RED ARMY OFFICERS AT SIMPLE CAMP MEALS "TO OUR COMMON VICTORY."

SOUTHWEST OF KHARKOV, IN THE CABBAGE PATCHES AND ORCHARDS OF A COLLECTIVE FARM THE RED ARMY INTERCEPTED 100 GERMAN TANKS AND MOBILE GUNS, INCLUDING MARK VI, MARK IV AND FERDINANDS, WRECKING 60 AND DISPERSING OTHERS.

LIEUT.COL.GEORGY TIMOFEOVICH KUSHNIFOV OF THE RUSSIAN TANK ARMY SAID THE GERMANS CONCENTRATED A STRONG GROUP, INCLUDING THE SS REICH TANK DIVISION, FOR A COUNTERATTACK ON KHARKOV.

THE RUSSIANS BROKE THROUGH FROM THE NORTH, CROSSED THE UDI RIVER AUG.29, AND FORCED THE ENEMY TO ENGAGE IN BATTLE ON THE FARM, SEVEN MILES NORTHWEST OF MEREFA.

FIGHTING AT A RANGE OF 800 YARDS TO A MILE THE RUSSIAN TANKS RIDDLED THE ENEMY MACHINES.

ONE MARK VI TIGER 60-TON TANK, WITH A 75-MILLIMETER GUN, HAD ITS TREADS SHATTERED AND TURRET BLASTED BY GUNFIRE.

A142

THE WRECKAGE OF SEVERAL MARK IV'S LITTERED THE FIELD WHERE THEY HAD BEEN BLASTED AND BURNED. SKELETONS OF CREWS STILL WERE IN SOME MACHINES.

SEP 5 1943

IN THE FIELD LAY THE BODY OF A GERMAN TANKIST WHO HAD BEEN SHOT AS HE ATTEMPTED TO ESCAPE.

THE SCENE SYMBOLIZED THE SOVIET SLOGAN:

"DEATH TO THE GERMAN INVADERS."

SOMEWHERE IN INDIA (CORRESPONDENCE OF THE AP)--NEARLY THREE SCORE DECORATIONS WERE AWARDED TO OFFICERS AND MEN OF THE TENTH AIRFORCE BY MAJOR GENERAL CLAYTON BISSELL JUST BEFORE HE GAVE UP HIS COMMAND TO RETURN TO AMERICA FOR "AN IMPORTANT ASSIGNMENT."

FOR MORE THAN 200 HOURS OF COMBAT BOMBARDMENT, THE DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSS WAS AWARDED TO A GROUP INCLUDING BOTH BOMBARDMENT CREW MEMBERS AND PURSUIT PILOTS. THEIR CITATIONS WERE MUCH THE SAME EXCEPT THAT IN THE CASE OF THE PURSUIT PILOTS, THEIR AWARDS WERE FOR PARTICIPATING IN MORE THAN 50 COMBAT MISSIONS.

COMBAT PILOTS DECORATED INCLUDED:

FIRST LIEUTENANT EARL C. BISHOP, JR., 719 AMALIA AVENUE, LOS ANGELES.

FIRST LIEUTENANT VERNON ELLIFRITZ, RFD 2, KEYSER, WEST VIRGINIA.

1943

10.24- 8061

30.24-8061

DFC AWARDS TO MEMBERS OF BOMBARDMENT SQUADRONS INCLUDED:

CARL F. KROHN, FIRST LIEUTENANT, PILOT, 300 EAST FOURTEENTH AVENUE, COLUMBUS, OHIO.

GRANVILLE B. STRINGFELLOW, FIRST LIEUTENANT, PILOT, 1117 THIRTY-THIRD STREET, DES MOINES.

STANLEY J. HOOD, SECOND LIEUTENANT, BOMBARDIER, 7 WEST FORTIETH WAY, KANSAS CITY, MO.

ARTHUR F. WARDEN, SECOND LIEUTENANT, NAVIGATOR, RFD 1, BOX 98, SAN LUIS OBISPO, CALIFORNIA.

ROLLAND D. GUFFIN, TECHNICAL SERGEANT, AERIAL RADIO OPERATOR AND GUNNER, GWYNNEVILLE, INDIANA.

SEP 5 1943

EMERSON W. HURD, STAFF SERGEANT, AERIAL GUNNER, 1727 NORTH BRIGHTON AVENUE, BURBANK, CALIFORNIA.

GEORGE M. MARSHALL, STAFF SERGEANT, AIR CORPS, AERIAL GUNNER, 6207 OGONTZ AVENUE, PHILADELPHIA.

LEONARD C. REYNOLDS, STAFF SERGEANT, AERIAL GUNNER, RFD 6, YAKIMA, WASHINGTON.

STANLEY W. SCHNIETT, STAFF SERGEANT, AERIAL RADIO OPERATOR, 121 FIRST AVENUE, MIDVALE, UTAH.

HENRY T. SPIEK, STAFF SERGEANT, AERIAL RADIO OPERATOR, RFD 1, FAUCETT, MISSOURI.

ROBERT W. WITTE, STAFF SERGEANT, AERIAL RADIO OPERATOR AND GUNNER, RFD 4, YAKIMA, WASHINGTON.

WILLIAM C. MOONEY, CAPTAIN, PILOT, 4915 LIVE OAK STREET, DALLAS.

CHARLES D. BREWER, FIRST LIEUTENANT, NAVIGATOR, ROSSBURG, OHIO.

WILBUR O. MARCUS, FIRST LIEUTENANT, BOMBARDIER, WEST FRIENDSHIP, MARYLAND.

ALEX J. PORTER, FIRST LIEUTENANT, NAVIGATOR, 2107 STATE STR

NASHVILLE, TENN.

EDISON C. WEATHERLY, FIRST LIEUTENANT, PILOT, 11 HERRON AVENUE, ASHEVILLE, N.C.

WALTER J. CARLSON, TECHNICAL SERGEANT, AERIAL RADIO OPERATOR, 1815 JOHN AVENUE, SUPERIOR, WISCONSIN.

J. C. AKEY, STAFF SERGEANT, AERIAL ENGINEER AND GUNNER, BOX 341, STEPHENVILLE, TEXAS.

THE OAK LEAF CLUSTER TO THE AIR MEDAL WAS AWARDED TO A GROUP FROM HEAVY BOMBARDMENT "FOR MERITORIOUS ACHIEVEMENT WHILE PARTICIPATING IN HEAVY BOMBARDMENT MISSIONS TOTALING MORE THAN 300 HOURS, DURING WHICH EXPOSURE TO ENEMY FIRE WAS PROBABLE AND EXPECTED." THE CITATION ADDED THAT "THE DEVOTION TO DUTY EXHIBITED IN THE EXECUTION OF THESE ASSIGNMENTS, AND THE COOPERATION DISPLAYED THEREIN, AS AN ESSENTIAL AND VITAL PART OF A COMBAT TEAM, HAS CONTRIBUTED MUCH TO THE SUCCESSES CHARACTERIZING THESE OPERATIONS." AMONG THESE WERE:

RAYMOND J. DISHER, CAPTAIN, AIR CORPS, 809 FRANKLIN STREET, STEVENS POINT, WISCONSIN.

SEP 5 1943

ROBERT V. BITNEY, FIRST LIEUTENANT, PILOT, 1121 EAST FIFTH STREET, FREMONT, NEBRASKA.

FLETCHER F. TAYLOR, JR., FIRST LIEUTENANT, NAVIGATOR, 2841 BACHMAN DRIVE, DALLAS.

ERNEST E. LINDLEY, SECOND LIEUTENANT, BOMBARDIER, RFD 4, HUNTINGTON, INDIANA.

WAYNE L. COVERT, MASTER SERGEANT, BOMBARDIER, RFD 2 STONEBORO, PENNSYLVANIA.

LAWRENCE L. PHIPPS, TECHNICAL SERGEANT, AERIAL ENGINEER, 138 KING WILLIAM ST., SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS.

ROY W. BILLINGTON, STAFF SERGEANT, AERIAL RADIO OPERATOR,

PETER LANCHAK, STAFF SERGEANT, AERIAL GUNNER, 304 OLIVIA ST., MCKEES ROCKS, PENN.

ANOTHER GROUP RECEIVED THE AIR MEDAL "FOR MERITORIOUS ACHIEVEMENT WHILE PARTICIPATING IN HEAVY BOMBARDMENT MISSIONS TOTALING MORE THAN 100 HOURS DURING WHICH EXPOSURE TO ENEMY FIRE WAS PROBABLE AND EXPECTED."

ROBERT C. LLOYD, FIRST LIEUTENANT, PILOT, 911 TWENTY-SIXTH ST., SNYDER, TEXAS.

RUSSELL E. CODINGTON, SECOND LIEUTENANT, CO-PILOT, 2008 NORTH ROSS, OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLAHOMA.

BEN L. GRAVES, SECOND LIEUTENANT, CO-PILOT, 126 SOUTH ALEXANDRIA, LOS ANGELES, CALIF.

VIRGIL E. SELLERS, SECOND LIEUTENANT, CO-PILOT, GOODELL, IA.

NICHOLAS P. WAGNER, SECOND LIEUTENANT, BOMBARDIER, 406 BURR OAK DRIVE, AUSTIN, MINN.

JOSEPH P. KELLY, FLIGHT OFFICER, CO-PILOT, FREEMAN, WEST VIRGINIA.

GEORGE F. GEYER, JR., TECHNICAL SERGEANT, AERIAL ENGINEER, 944 WEST NORTH AVE., PITTSBURGH, PENN.

GLEN E. BRADY, STAFF SERGEANT, AERIAL GUNNER, DONEGAL, PENN.

TAYLOR L. LANE, STAFF SERGEANT, AERIAL GUNNER, CLINTON, MISSOURI.

EVERETT J. MALICK, SERGEANT, AERIAL GUNNER, 112 DALLAS ST., YOAKUM, TEXAS.

CAIRO, FIRST ADD KANE GETS CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL (TOP TRUNKED) XXX OUTSTANDING SERVICE.

OTHER AWARDS:

BRIG. GEN. UZAL G. ENT, COMMANDER OF THE NINTH BOMBER COMMAND, THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS FOR THE PLOESTI RAID AND THE BRONZE OAKLEAF CLUSTER TO THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS, FOR OUTSTANDING SERVICE IN ATTACKING SICILY, ITALY AND GREECE AND RUMANIAN SHIPPING.

COL. KEITH K.COMPTON, ST. JOSEPH,MO., WHO FLEW THE LEADING PLANE AGAINST PLOESTI, THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS. HIS CITATION SAID HE "COOLLY AND COURAGEOUSLY MANEUVERED HIS FORCE AT TREETOP LEVEL IN THE FACE OF BLAZING ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE AND BALLOON BARRAGES TO A POSITION FROM WHICH IT COULD BOMB THE TARGET SUCCESSFULLY. COMPTON'S ACTION IN THIS PERILOUS SITUATION WAS ONE OF UTMOST HERO

SM AND SUPERB AIRMANSHIP." HE ALSO WAS AWARDED THE LEGION OF MERIT FOR COMMANDING A HEAVY BOMBARDMENT GROUP ON VARIOUS HAZARDOUS MISSIONS.

LT.COL. JULIAN M.BLEYER, DAWSON, OKLA., THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS FOR COMMANDING A FORMATION OVER PLOESTI WHICH WAS UNDER REPEATED ATTACK NEARLY TWO HOURS, DURING WHICH HIS PLANE DOWNED NINE FIGHTERS.

LT. COL. DELBERT M. HAHN, MILWAUKEE, WIS., THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS FOR BRINGING HIS CRIPPLED CRAFT HOME FROM PLOESTI. HIS CREW SHOT DOWN TWO FIGHTERS. "THE COURAGE, FIGHTING SPIRIT AND DOGGED DETERMINATION HE DISPLAYED IN THIS ACTION," SAID HIS CITATION, "WERE VITAL FACTORS IN DELIVERING ONE OF THE MOST SMASHING BLOWS DEALT TO THE ENEMY IN THIS WAR."

MAJ. HERBERT I. SHINGLEER, JR., TAMPA, FLA., THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS, FOR A "MAGNIFICENT DISPLAY OF FLYING ABILITY, DEVOTION TO DUTY AND VALOR" OVER PLOESTI.

MAJ. NORMAN C.ALPOLD, DETROIT, MICH., THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS FOR A "MAGNIFICENT EXAMPLE OF HEROISM" IN THE PLOESTI RAID.

COL. LOUIS HOBBS, SAN ANTONIO, TEX, THE LEGION OF MERIT FOR HIS SERVICES AT MANILA, DARWIN, JAVA, INDIA AND THE MIDDLE EAST.

COL. EDWIN CLARK, EASTON, CONN., THE LEGION OF MERIT FOR HIS SERVICES IN COMMANDING THE LYBIAN SERVICE COMMAND OF THE SERVICES OF SUPPLY.

COL. WILLIAM E.CHICHERING, DETROIT, MICH., THE LEGION OF MERIT, FOR EXCEPTIONALLY MERITORIOUS SERVICE ON VARIOUS ASSIGNMENTS IN THE MIDDLE EAST.

COL. JOHN N. HUDGES, ENCINAL, TEX., THE LEGION OF MERIT FOR OUTSTANDING SERVICE AS CHIEF OF THE CONSTRUCTION DIVISION OF THE SERVICES OF SUPPLY IN THE MIDDLE EAST.

SEP 5 1943

COL. ROBERT W. MCCLENAHAN, PHILADELPHIA, THE LEGION OF MERIT AS INTELLIGENCE OFFICER IN THE MIDDLE EAST.

COL. CARL R. FELDMANN, HORTON, KAS., THE LEGION OF MERIT AS MATERIALS OFFICER OF THE NINTH AIR SERVICE COMMAND.

LT. COL. EDGAR GARDENER, RIVERSIDE, CALIF., THE LEGION OF MERIT AS ADJUTANT, THEN AS EXECUTIVE OFFICER OF THE HEAVY BOMBARDMENT GROUP.

LT. COL. ULYSSES NERO, CHESAPEAKE, MD., THE LEGION OF MERIT AS ENGINEER AND REARMAMENT OFFICER OF THE HEAVY BOMBARDMENT GROUP.

MAJ. DAVID LIKES, SCARSDALE, N.Y., THE LEGION OF MERIT AS SIGNAL COMMUNICATIONS OFFICER OF THE TENTH AND LATER THE NINTH AIRFORCES.

DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSSES FOR THE PLOESTI RAID WERE AWARDED TO T. SGT. WILLIAM F. LEONARD, DORCHESTER, MASS.; T.SGT. RUSSELL B.PAGE, GROTON, VT., AND S.SGT. CHRISTOPHER HOLWEGER, MIDDLETOWN, O.

CAIRO, SEPT. 4-(AP)-AMERICAN LIBERATORS ATTACKED ITALIAN RAILWAY YARDS AT SULMONA, 75 MILES EAST OF ROME, IN DAYLIGHT YESTERDAY, A MIDDLE EAST AIR COMMUNIQUE SAID TODAY.

THE FOUR-ENGINED BOMBERS SHOT DOWN 27 OF A STRONG FORCE OF ENEMY FIGHTERS ENCOUNTERED OVER THE TARGET, THE ANNOUNCEMENT SAID.

30.24-8063

30.24-8063

DIRECT HITS WERE REPORTED ON THE RAILWAY STATION, ENGINE REPAIR SHOPS AND WAREHOUSES WHILE THE ENTIRE AREA OF THE YARDS WERE SPLATTERED BY BOMB BURSTS. VIOLENT EXPLOSIONS TORE APART AN EXPLOSIVES FACTORY NEAR THE RAILWAY CENTER, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID.

JR732AEW

SOUTH PACIFIC WAR

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, SEPT.4-(AP)-BLASTING APART A SEVEN-SHIP SUPPLY CONVOY AT WEWAK, NEW GUINEA, ALLIED BOMBERS HAVE ADDED 21,000 TONS OF MERCHANT SHIPPING TO THE 2,500,000 TONS WHICH NAVY SECRETARY KNOX SAID IN WASHINGTON THE JAPANESE HAVE LOST TO PLANES AND SUBMARINES SINCE THE WAR OPENED.

DETAILING ONE OF THE MOST STAGGERING BLOWS EVER DEALT ENEMY SEA CARGO TONNAGE FROM THE AIR IN SUCH A SHORT PERIOD, TODAY'S COMMUNIQUE FROM GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR ALSO REPORTED 'MAGE OF 20,500 ADDITIONAL TONS IN FAR-RANGING OPERATIONS.

THREE FREIGHTER OPALNMKNVE

THREE FREIGHTER TRANSPORTS, EACH OF 7,000 TONS, WERE SENT TO THE BOTTOM OF WEWAK'S HARBOR THURSDAY MORNING BY MAST-SKIMMING MITCHELL BOMBERS WHICH BRAVED A BALLOON BARRAGE, ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE AND ENEMY FIGHTER PLANES TOPXROP 1,000 POUND BOMBS.

AN ENEMY DESTROYER WA

SEP 5 1943

ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE AND ENEMY FIGHTER PLANES TO DROP 1,000 POUND BOMBS.

AN ENEMY DESTROYER WAS LEFT ENVELOPED IN FLAMES AND THE STERN WAS BLOWN OFF A 1,000-TON CARGO SHIP. THAT LEFT ONLY ONE CARGO SHIP AND A DESTROYER UNREPORTED AS HIT IN THE FURIOUS ASSAULT.

SEP 5 1943

FOUR HUNDRED MILES WEST OF DARWIN, AUSTRALIA, A 7,000-TON ENEMY CARGO SHIP WAS DAMAGED IN A RAID BY FOUR-ENGINED ALLIED BOMBERS ON THE HARBOR OF WAINGAPOE, SOEMBA ISLAND.

ANOTHER 7,000-TON SUPPLY SHIP WAS DAMAGED OFF CAPE ST. GEORGE AND A 5,000-TON SHIP BOMBED NEAR MUSSAU ISLAND, BOTH IN THE NEW IRELAND SECTOR, BY PATROLLING LIBERATORS AND CATALINAS.

OFF TIMIKA, DUTCH NEW GUINEA, A 500-TON VESSEL, LOADED WITH JAPANESE TROOPS, WAS HIT SQUARELY BY A BOMB FROM A TWO-ENGINED ALLIED PLAME ON RECONNAISSANCE.

ROUNDING OUT THE DAY'S REPORT, NUMEROUS SMALL ENEMY CRAFT IN THE WEWAK HARBOR WERE STRAFED, FOUR BARGES WERE SUNK AUHMANSA BAY, NEW GUINEA, THREE MORE IN BORGON BAY, NEW BRITAIN, AND FOUR BARGES AND TWO LAUNCHES IN THE SOLOMONS.

LOSSES ALSO WERE PILED UP AGAINST THE JAPANESE AIRFORCE.

THE MITCHELLS AND ESCORTING LIGHTNINGS WHICH RAIDED WEWAK, GRAVEYARD SINCE MID-AUGUST FOR MORE THAN 360 ENEMY PLANES, SHOT DOWN AT LEAST 12 OF 35 JAPANESE FIGHTERS WHICH TRIED TO PROTECT THE CONVOY. THE RAIDERS PROBABLY DESTOYED EIGHT OTHERS AND DAMAGED FIVE. THREE ALLIED BOMBERS AND ONE FIGHTER WERE LOST.

DURING A 60-TON BOMBING RAID BY MITCHELLS AND LIBERATORS ON THE AIRDROME AT CAPE GLOUCESTER, SOUTHERN NEW BRITAIN, SEVEN OUT OF 11 INTERCEPTING JAPANESE PLANES WERE SHOT DOWN FOR CERTAIN AND TWO OTHERS PROBABLY DESTROYED AT A COST OF ONE ALLIED BOMBER.

TWO JAPANESE BOMBERS ON RECONNAISSANCE WERE SHOT DOWN NEAR MADANG, NEW GUINEA, BY ALLIED P-38S.

IN THE SOLOMONS, FOUR ENEMY PLANES WERE WRECKED ON THE GROUND DURING A RAID BY AMERIC

SEP 5 1943

N CORSAIRS ON THE KAHILI AIRDROME NAR BUIN, BOUGAINVILLE ISLAND, AND A FIFTH JAPANESE PLANE WAS SHOT DOWN NEAR AMERICAN-OCCUPIED VELLA LAVELLA ISLAND.

THAT ADDED UP TO 26 ENEMY PLANES DEFINITELY DESTROYED AND 15 OTHERS PROBABLY DESTROYED OR DAMAGED.

THE PRESENCE OF THE ENEMY CONVOY AT WEWAK WAS VIEWED BY MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS AS IFDICATIVE OF JAPAN'S INTENTION TO TRY TO MAINTAIN WEWAK AS A MAJOR OPERATING BASE.

(IN A DELAYED DISPATCH FROM VERN HAUGLAND, ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT IN NEW GUINEA, THE ADDITIONAL INFORMATION WAS SUPPLIED THAT THE CONVOY PROBABLY HAD DISEMBARKED THE TROOPS IT CARRIED AND UNLOADED MUCH OF THE CARGO, INTENDED FOR GARRISONS AT MADANG, LAE AND SALAMAUA, BEFORE THE MITCHELLS CAME OVER IN MID-MORNING)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, SEPT.4-(AP)- THREE AMERICAN AIRMEN WHO FULFILLED THEIR ASSIGNMENTS IN THE FACE OF CRITICAL EMERGENCIES DURING HEAVY BOMBER ATTACKS ON JAPANESE SHIPPING AND SHORE BASES TODAY WERE AWARDED SILVER STARS FOR GALLANTRY IN ACTION.

THE AWARDS WERE MADE BY LT. GEN. GEORGE C.KENNEDY, COMMANDER OF ALLIED AIR FORCES IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, TO CORP. THOMAS B.EDGAR OF (690 WASHINGTON ROAD) GROSSE POINT, MICH., STAFF SGT. EUGENE H.ALLEN, (ROUTE 1), EUFAULA, ALA., AND SGT.WILLIAM BEVAN, JR., (1316 LYNON ST.) SCRANTON, PA.

EDGAR WAS SIDE GUNNER ON A BOMBER WHICH ATTACKED AN ENEMY CONVOY

30.24-8065

30.24-8065

NEAR SAKAR ISLAND, OFF NEW BRITAIN, IN MARCH OF THIS YEAR. AS THE BOMBS WERE RELEASED ON A 10,000-TON CARGO VESSEL FLANKED BY DESTROYERS, A NUMBER OF JAPANESE ZEROS MADE A FRONTAL ATTACK WHICH RESULTED IN THE WOUNDING OF THE BOMBER'S NAVIGATOR AND BOMBARDIER.

DESPITE THE WEAKENED FIGHTING POWER OF HIS CRAFT, EDGAR CONTINUED TO FIGHT OFF THE ZEROS UNTIL A THREE-INCH ANTI-AIRCRAFT SHELL HIT THE BOMBER AND STARTED A FIRE IN ITS BOMB BAY.

HIS CITATION SAID EDGAR HELPED EXTINGUISH THE FIRE IN "A CALM, EFFICIENT MANNER, AND EXCEPT FOR THE ABILITY OF THIS ENLISTED MAN TO RISE TO THE OCCASION, THE FLAMES IN THE AIRCRAFT PROBABLY WOULD NOT HAVE BEEN EXTINGUISHED."

SEP 5 1943

ALLEN, SINCE POSTED AS MISSING IN ACTION, WON HIS STAR AS TAIL GUNNER ON A HEAVY BOMBER. HE WAS CREDITED WITH DESTROYING ONE ZERO AND WITH HELPING TO SHOOT DOWN THREE OTHERS AND PROBABLY A FOURTH FROM A FLIGHT OF 15 WHICH ATTACKED HIS PLANE OVER GASMATA, NEW BRITAIN, LAST MAY.

AFTER SCORING BOMB HITS WHICH STARTED A LARGE OIL FIRE, ALLEN'S PLANE CONTINUED PHOTOGRAPHING THE RAID DAMAGE DESPITE ATTACKS BY ENEMY FIGHTERS. ALLEN'S CITATION SAID "HIS COURAGE AND COOLNESS UNDER OVERWHELMING FIRE SHOWS GALLANTRY IN ITS HIGHEST SENSE."

RADIO OPERATOR BEVAN'S BOMBER ENCOUNTERED HEAVY ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE IN A DAYLIGHT RUN OVER RAPOPO AIRDROME AT RABAUL, NEW BRITAIN, IN APRIL AND BEFORE THE BIG PLANE REACHED THE BOMB RELEASE POINT, ITS BOMBING MECHANISM WAS DAMAGED BADLY BY JAPANESE SHELLS.

AS THE PLANE MANEUVERED TO MAKE A SECOND RUN, A CONVOY OF ENEMY DESTROYERS AND MERCHANTMEN WAS SIGHTED. DESPITE THE DAMAGED MECHANISM, THE BOMBER ATTEMPTED TO ATTACK THE WARSHIPS AND, WHILE UNDER HEAVY FIRE, SIGHTED A JAPANESE SUBMARINE ON THE SURFACE. AGAIN THE BOMBER TRIED TO ATTACK, BUT AGAIN THE RELEASE MECHANISM FAILED TO WORK.

DIVING STEEPLY, THE AMERICAN PLANE UNLOADED ITS ENTIRE WEIGHT OF BOMBS ON THE SUBMARINE. THE EXPLOSION RAISED THE BOW OF THE ENEMY CRAFT 50 FEET OUT OF THE WATER AND SURROUNDED IT WITH DEBRIS AND GREAT PATCHES OF OIL.

REFUSING TO CALL THIS A DAY, THE BOMBER REMAINED OVER THE AREA, SHADOWING THE CONVOY UNTIL DAMAGE AND FUEL SHORTAGE FORCED THE AIRMEN TO TURN BACK. THE BOMBER FAILED TO REACH ITS HOME BASE BUT SUCCEEDED IN LANDING AT AN AUXILIARY FIELD.

SEP 5 1943

BEVAN'S CITATION SAID HIS "DETERMINATION TO STRIKE THE ENEMY IN THE FACE OF INTENSE ENEMY FIRE AND UNDER ADVERSE CONDITIONS IS IN KEEPING WITH THE HIGHEST TRADITIONS OF THE SERVICE."

WEWAK (WITH ALLIED HEADQUARTERS PMS SOUTH PACIFIC)
BY VERN HAUGLAND

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, SEPT.2-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE JAPANESE TRIED SOMETHING NEW IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC WAR--BARRAGE BALLOONS STRUNG ON 1,000-FOOT CABLES FROM SHIPS--BUT IT DIDN'T WORK.

SEP 5 1943

THEY RELIED ON THE BALLOONS, 35 PATROLLING PLANES AND AS HEAVY A CONCENTRATION OF ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE AS ALLIED RAIDERS YET HAVE ENCOUNTERED IN THIS WAR THEATER TODAY TO PROTECT FIVE MERCHANT SHIPS AND TWO DESTROYERS IN THE HARBOR AT WEWAK, NEW GUINEA.

AFTER MITCHELL BOMBERS FINISHED UNLOADING THEIR 1,000-POUND

BOMBS AND ESCORTING LIGHTNINGS HAD TANGLED WITH THE FIGHTERS, THREE 7,000-TON JAPANESE TRANSPORTS HAD BEEN SUNK, A DESTROYER AND A SMALL BOAT SET AFIRE AND BETWEEN 12 AND 20 OF THE ENEMY PLANES DESTROYED AT A COST OF THREE BOMBERS AND A FIGHTER.

SEP 5 1943

MAJOR EZRA BEST, OF HOLLYWOOD, CALIF., PILOT OF A MITCHELL, COUNTED ABOUT 12 BALLOONS, MOST OF THEM STRUNG FROM THE SHIPS. AT LEAST ONE WAS ANCHORED TO LAND. BEST SAID THE CABLES WERE "GOOD AND THICK" BUT THAT THE BALLOONS WERE NO LARGER THAN THE AVERAGE WEATHER BALLOON.

THE MITCHELLS CONCENTRATED ON BOMBING AND FIGHTING OFF THE ZEROS AND MADE NO ATTEMPT TO SHOOT THE BALLOONS.

THE PILOTS SAW NO AIRPLANES ON THE WEWAK FIELD, WHICH IS IN AN AREA WHERE MORE THAN 360 ENEMY AIRCRAFT WERE DESTROYED RECENTLY.

SOME OF THE JAPANESE FIGHTERS, IN THE AIR WAITING AS AN UMBRELLA FOR THE CONVOY, ATTACKED THE O-38S WHILE OTHERS WENT AFTER THE MITCHELLS, LATER PURSUING THE BOMBERS UMBRELLA FOR THE CONVOY, ATTACKED THE P-38S WHILE OTHERS WENT AFTER THE MITCHELLS, LATER PURSUING THE BOMBERS FOR 30 MINUTES ALL THE WAY TO THE RAMU VALLEY TOWARD MADANG.

THE MITCHELLS SCORED REPEATED HITS ON THE LARGER SHIPS IN THE WEWAK HARBOR.

THE ATTACKED CONVOY APPARENTLY CAME DOWN THE NEW GUINEA COAST FROM HOLLANDIA, DUTCH NEW GUINEA. WEWAK LACKS DOCK FACILITIES SO MORE THAN 40 BARGES, LAUNCHES AND OTHER SMALL CRAFT WERE BEING USED TO UNLOAD THE SHIPS.

EVIDENTLY THE JAPANESE CREWS WORKED FEVERISHLY IN EARLY MORNING. BY THE TIME THE MITCHELLS APPEARED, IT SEEMED LIKELY THAT MOST OF THE TROOPS FROM THE SHIPS HAD BEEN DISEMBARKED AND MUCH OF THE CARGO UNLOADED.

1ST LT.MAURICE THOMPSON OF TEMPLE, TEXAS, AS BOMBARDIER ON A PLANE FLOWN BY CAPT.WILLIAM THRELKELD, 806 WEST PARK AVE., JOLIET, ILL., DROPPED A 1,000-POUND BOMB DIRECTLY ON A 7,000-TON FREIGHTER TRANSPORT, SETTING IT AFIRE.

SEP 5 1943

"WE SURE WERE SURPRISED TO SEE THE BALLOONS OVER THE HARBOR," CAPTAIN THRELKELD SAID.

"I COUNTED UP TO 30 ZEROS. WE FLEW THROUGH A REGULAR HAIL OF ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE, THE HEAVIEST I'VE EVER SEEN AND I HAVE BEEN ON A LOT OF MISSIONS. IT WAS 10 TIMES AS BAD AS ANYTHING DURING THE BISMARCK SEA BATTLE (LAST MARCH DURING WHICH ALLIED BOMBERS COMPLETELY WIPED OUT A 22-SHIP CONVOY).

"I SAW CAPT.GARRETT MIDDLEBROOK'S (HOME TOWN, SPRINGTOWN, TEX.) PLANE DROP A 1,000-POUNDER ON A BIG SHIP WHICH STARTED TO BURN AND BEGAN LISTING BADLY.

"THERE WERE ABOUT 40 SMALL BOATS BUZZING ALL OVER THE HARBOR. ANOTHER OF OUR PLANES DROPPED ITS BOMBS ON OR NEAR A DESTROYER. WHEN OUR BOMB DROPPED, I TURNED AROUND AND SAW A BIG EXPLOSION AND A SHIP AFIRE. THE SHIP MIDDLEBROOK HIT WAS SINKING BY THIS TIME.

"THEN WE STRAFED THE BIG SHIPS, SMALL BOATS AND DESTROYERS, FIRING SO STEADILY WE BURNED OUT TWO GUN BARRELS."

STAFF SGT.EDUARDO CRUZ, BROWNSVILLE, TEX., GUNNER IN GROVER'S PLANE, SHOT DOWN TWO ZEROS. GROVER'S CO-PILOT, 1ST LT.PHILIP KELSALL, EAST PROVIDENCE, R.I. AND FORESTVILLE, CONN., GOT ANOTHER.

ONE MITCHELL PILOT, CAPT.HOWARD PAQUIN, FRIENDSHIP, N.Y.,

30.24-8067

30.24-8067

SHOT DOWN ONE ZERO WITH HIS MEDIUM BOMBER'S NOSE GUN WHILE HIS GUNNERS STAFF SGT.BILLY H.SMITH, KEY WEST, FLA., AND TECH.SGT WAYNE LEWIS, CRESWELL, ORE., TEAMED TO ACCOUNT FOR ANOTHER.

OTHER B-25 GUNNERS CREDITED WITH DESTROYING AN ENEMY PLANE EACH WERE STAFF SGTS.ROBERT EMMINGER, INDIANAPOLIS, IND., AND

SEP 5 1943

RNELL THURMAN, MIAMI, FLA. EMNI

EACH WERE STAFF SGTS.ROBERT EMMINGER, INDIANAPOLIS, IND., AND ARNELL THURMAN, MIAMI, FLA. EMMINGER ALSO WAS CREDITED WITH TWO PROBABLES. STAFF SGTS HERBERT W.BAKER, MIDDLETOWN, N.Y., PHILIP MOCHA, ST.CLAIR, PENN., AND TECH.SGT.ARTHUR THALL (3721 CYPRESS AVE.) CLEVELAND WERE CREDITED WITH A PROBABLE APIECE.

1ST LT.GLENN STANFORD, CAMBRIDGE SPRINGS, PENN., A MEDIUM BOMBER PILOT, SCORED TWO PROBABLES WITH NOSE GUNS. BAKER WAS ASSIGNED TO A PLANE PILOTED BY LT.DONALD LATHAM, ST.PETERSBURG, FLA., WHILE SGTS.MOCHA AND GRANEK WERE FLYING WITH LT.ANTHONY DEPTULA, LONG ISLAND, N.Y.

1ST LT.HERBERT BEERS, 654 WATKIN STREET, BROOKLYN, N.Y. SAID HE SAW HIS BOMB "BLU UP EITHER THE NOSE OR STERN OF THE SHIPS," HE DIDN'T KNOW WHICH.

OTHER HITS ON SHIPS WERE REPORTED BY CAPT.EDWIN ADKINS, BAKERSFIELD, CALIF.; 1ST LTS.CHARLES CUSWOTH, PHILADELPHIA; LEON STORM, MILWAUKEE, WIS.; MARION FRIEND, EAGLE ROCK, CALIF.; 2ND LT.SAM COL, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.; JOHN PALMER, BUFFALO, N.Y.

PALMER SAID HE AND STORM, THE LAST ONES OVER THE TARGET, SAW TWO SHIPS BURNING--ONE ON THE RIGHT AND THE OTHER ON THE LEFT.

AMONG P-38 PILOTS,CAPT.GEORGE WELCH, WILMINGTON, DEL., WAS THE STAR. OVER WEWAK HE DOWNED ONE ZERO AND THEN SHOT AT TWO JAPANESE FIGHTER PILOTS WHO WERE EITHER SO WOUNDED OR SO CONFUSED THAT THEY COLLIDED AND WENT DOWN TOGETHER. THE FIGHT LASTED A HALF HOUR. ON THE WAY HOME HE AND THE TWO OTHER P-38 PILOTS, 2ND LT. KENNETH LADD, SALT LAKE CITY AND FLIGHT OFFICER EDWIN DEGRAFFENREID, SHREVEPORT, LA., ENCOUNTERED TWO DINAHS--TWIN ENGINE BOMBERS WITH THREE OR FOUR-MAN CREWS--NEAR MADANG.

W...CH SHOT DO... ONE FOR HIS FOURTH PLANE OF THE DAY, BRINGING HIS TOTAL TO 16, TYING WITH 1ST LT.RICHARD BONG, POPLAR, WIS., AS TOP FIGHTER ACE.

DEGRAFFENREID CHASED THE OTHER BOMBER FIVE MINUTZ , EXPENDING 1200 ROUNDS OF AMMUNITION, AND THEN LADD POLISHED HER OFF, GETTING CREDIT FOR THE KILL. DEGRAFFENREID DOWNED A ZERO, HOWEVER, AT WEWAK, BRINGING HIS TOTAL TO FOUR.

SEP 5 1943

MAJOR THOMAS LYNCH, CATASAUQUA, PA., WHO HAS DESTROYED 15 PLANES, DAMAGED ANOTHER TODAY.

CAPT.PAUL STAUNCH, RUNNEMEDE, N.J., DOWNED A TWIN-ENGINED FIGHTER, HIS SEVENTH ENEMY PLANE.

LIEUTENANTS THERION PRICE AND MARTIN ALGER, FORT DODGE, IOWA, GOT A PROBABLE EACH.

TWO B-17 FLYING FORTRESSES, ATTACKING CAPE GLOUCESTER, ALSO DESTROYED THREE ENEMY INTERCEPTORS AND PROBABLY DESTROYED THREE MORE.

FORTRESS BOMBARDIER 1ST LT.JOSEPH PETRONIS, PERTH AMBOY, N.J., SHOT DOWN A SINGLE-ENGINE FIGHTER.

FOUR GUNNERS IN A FORTRESS PILOTED BY 2ND LT.HENRY BYMINSKI, SYRACUSE, N.Y., SHARED CREDIT FOR DESTROYING TWO TWIN-ENGINE

FIGHTERS AND SHOOTING DOWN THREE PROBABLES.

THEY WERE STAFF SGT.WILLIAM VAUGHAN, YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO, RADIO; CORPORAL WALTER PORACKY, WHITING, IND., BALL TURRET, AND SGT. JOSEPH CARUSO, FRANKFORT, N.J., TAIL GUNNER.

SEP 5 1943

GG1212PCW NW

(BY MARINE CORPS SERGEANT LEOBEL COLEMAN OF STATESBORO, GA., DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC--(DELAYED)--LIEUTE. COLONEL SAMUEL G.TAXIS, U.S.M.C., OF PHILADELPHIA, PA. (615 SOUTH 48TH ST.) HAS BEEN AWARDED THE PURPLE HEART MEDAL FOR INJURIES RECEIVED IN ACTION AT GUADALCANAL.

THE CITATION ACCOMPANYING THE MEDAL SAID IT WAS AWARDED FOR INJURIES RECEIVED AS A RESULT OF ENEMY ACTION IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC AREA ON SEPT. 2, 1942. NO FURTHER DETAILS WERE GIVEN.

TAXIS BROUGHT TO THE MARINE CORPS THE SCIENCE OF W.E.FAIRBAIRN, ORIGINATOR OF "DEFENDU," ART OF SELF DEFENSE. HE ALSO TAUGHT "JIU-JITSU," HAVING BEEN AN INSTRUCTOR FOR THE MARINE CORPS IN CHINA IN BETWEEN 1932 AND 1934. HE MANAGED AND TRAINED A MARINE CORPS CHAMPION BOXING TEAM IN THE ORIENT.

THE SON OF SAMUEL B.TAXIS OF JAMAICA PLAIN, MASS., (75 ORCHARD ST.), AND A NATIVE OF NEWPORT, R. I. COLONEL TAXIS WAS COMMISSIONED A SECOND LIEUTENANT IN 1931 UPON GRADUATION FROM THE NAVAL ACADEMY AT ANNAPOLIS, MD.

NOUMEA,NEW CALEDONIA,SUNDAY,SEPT. 5-(AP)-ARMY LT.LANNY ROSS, FORMER RADIO AND FILM SINGER, HEADED THE PROGRAM TODAY AT THE OPENING OF A NEW RADIO STATION WHICH WILL BE ON THE AIR DAILY TO ENTERTAIN ALLIED FORCES IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC AREA.

MAJ.GEN.RUSH B.LINCOLN OF WASHINGTON, D.C., AND DORMONT, PA., DELIVERED THE DEDICATORY SPEECH.

OFFICIALS OF THIS FRENCH ISLAND COLONY AND J.A.CARNEY OF ARLINGTON, VA., SOUTH PACIFIC RED CROSS DIRECTOR, ALSO SPOKE.

THE STATION IS HOUSED IN THE RED CROSS CLUB IN DOWNTOWN NOUMEA. IT IS UNDER DIRECTION OF TWO RED CROSS WORKERS, JANETTE MCCREERY OF MERION, PA., AND ESTELLE BRENNER OF DAYTONA BEACH, FLA.

OTHERS WHO PARTICIPATED IN THE OPENING CEREMONIES INCLUDED DONALD BAUM OF WATERLOO, IA.,IAND STUART POSTLE OF CINCINNATI.

ET1224ACW

MELBOURNE--FIRST ADD ELEANOR ROOSEVELT (PRECEDE CANBERRA) XXX OFFICIAL RECEPTION.

SEP 5 1943

ONLY OFFICIALS WERE AT THE AIRPORT TO GREET MRS.ROOSEVELT, INASMUCH AS HER ITINERARY HAD NOT BEEN ANNOUNCED PUBLICLY.

OUTSIDE THE CLOSELY GUARDED AIRDROME, HOWEVER, A HANDFUL OF PEOPLE WHO HAD SURMISED CORRECTLY THAT THIS CAPITAL OF THE SOUTHERN STATE OF VICTORIA WOULD BE HER NEXT STOP WERE REWARDED WITH A BRIEF GLIMPSE OF THE FIRST LADY.

SHE WAS VIGOROUSLY FRESH AND CHEERY DESPITE HER 400 MILE AIR TRIP AND HER BUSY SCHEDULE IN CANBERRA, WHICH INCLUDED A PARADE IN HER HONOR.

MRS.ROOSEVELT'S FIRST GLIMPSE OF MELBOURNE WAS A SLEEPY SUBURBAN AREA WITH BRILLIANT SPRING SUNSHINE WARMING VEGETABLE GARDENS AND LIGHTING DESERTED CITY STREETS.

NO BETTER TIME THAN SUNDAY MORNING COULD HAVE BEEN CHOSEN BY THE OFFICIAL PARTY TO ENTER THE CITY UNSEEN. MELBOURNE IS WELL KNOWN FOR ITS QUIET SUNDAYS--SO WELL KNOWN THAT THE AMERICAN SOLDIERS SAY IT MAKES BOSTON ON THE SABBATH LOOK LIKE A BOOM TOWN.

A CAVALCADE OF MILITARY AUTOMOBILES STARTED MRS.ROOSEVELT ON A FULL DAY'S ROUND OF AMERICAN MILITARY ESTABLISHMENTS, INCLUDING

30.24-8069

CAMPS, HOSPITALS AND SERVICE RECREATION CLUBS.

SHE PLANS TO GIVE OVER PART OF MONDAY TO MEETING SOUTHERN AUSTRALIANS AT A CIVIC RECEPTION IN THE MELBOURNE TOWN HALL.

MRS.ROOSEVELT'S STAY IN CANBERRA WAS A BUSY ONE.

(EDS: NIGHT LEAD MRS.ROOSEVELT UNDER CANBERRA DATELINE, MAY BE PICKED UP HERE AT THIRD GRAPH STARTING: "A RECEPTION IN HER HONOR XXX")

SEP 5 1943

ET1038PCW NM

PORT OF SPAIN, TRINIDAD, SEPT 3-(DELAYED)-(AP)-SIX DAYS AFTER HE WAS REPORTED MISSING FROM A FERRY SQUADRON RALPH L. MARTIN, 1122 HOFFMAN AVE., LONG BEACH, CALIF., STEPPED UP ON AN EASTERN TRINIDAD BEACH, AND FLOPPED DEAD-TIRED UPON THE WHITE SAID.

HE WAS RESCUED BY A NATIVE WHO SAW THE 38-YEAR OLD PILOT WALK OUT OF THE SEA AND MAKE TWO FALTERING STEPS ASHORE.

THE STORY WAS RELEASED TODAY, ALTHOUGH MARTIN FIRST WAS REPORTED MISSING JULY 8.

AIRCRAFT, BLIMPS, BOATS AND SHORE PATROLS HAD MADE A WIDE BUT FRUITLESS SEARCH AFTER MARTIN'S PLANE DRIFTED AWAY IN BAD WEATHER FROM A FLIGHT OF SEVERAL PLANES.

WHILE BATTLING WITH SNOW WHICH WEIGHTED DOWN HIS AIRCRAFT, MARTIN HEARD THE CRACKING OF BRACING RIBS DURING A STEEP DIVE, AND DECIDED TO BAIL OUT. THE SUDDEN SHOCK OF THE OPENING OF THE PARACHUTE DAZED HIM BUT HE STILL WAS CONSCIOUS WHEN HE PLUNGED INTO THE SEA.

HE INFLATED HIS LIFE RAFT AND DRIFTED FIVE DAYS BEFORE SEEING THE PATROL PLANES AND BLIMPS WHICH, HOWEVER, FAILED TO NOTE HIS SIGNALS. THE SAME EVENING HE SIGHTED LAND AND THE NEXT MORNING HE DRIFTED UPON MANZANILLA BEACH.

30.24-8069

A NATIVE TOOK CARE OF HIM, FEEDING HIM WATERMELONS, UNTIL THEY WERE FOUND BY AMERICAN INFANTRYMEN ON MANEUVERS. MARTIN IS NOW RECOVERING IN A HOSPITAL.

DY238PEW

(AP SPECIAL ADVANCE FOR AMS OF SUNDAY, SEPT.5)

GERMAN CRACK-UP SIGNAL

LOCHNER SAYS HIMMLER'S NEW DUTIES

IN REICH INDICATE ANYTHING

BUT SIGN OF NAZI STRENGTH

SADISTIC GESTAPO CHIEF, REAL POWER BEHIND

HITLER, WILL RULE PEOPLE WITH CRUEL HAND (1200)

SEP 5 1943

BY LOUIS P.LOCHNER

(FORMER CHIEF OF THE BERLIN BUREAU OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, PULITZER PRIZE WINNER AND NOW PRESS ASSOCIATION NEWS ANALYST FOR NBC)

(ADVANCE)-HOLLYWOOD, SEPT.4-(AP)-IT IS A FORTUNATE THING FOR THE WORLD THAT HEINRICH HIMMLER, THE NEAR-SIGHTED, OWLISH, PALE GESTAPO CHIEF, HAS BEEN APPOINTED GERMAN MINISTER OF THE INTERIOR AND REICH'S ADMINISTRATOR. IT IS PROBABLY FORTUNATE EVEN FOR THE GERMAN PEOPLE, ALTHOUGH THEY WILL HAVE TO PAY A TERRIBLE PRICE FOR THE LUXURY OF HAVING A HANGMAN AND SADIST IN CONTROL OF THEIR FATE.

HIMMLER'S APPOINTMENT BY THE TRAPPED, HYSTERICAL ADOLF ITLER SIMPLIFIES THE ISSUES. THE WORLD AND THE REICH NOW KNOW THAT TERROR AND BRUTE FORCE ALONE GOVERN GERMANY AND THE AREAS OCCUPIED BY GERMAN ARMS. HIMMLER STANDS REVEALED PUBLICLY AS THE MAN WHOM WE OBSERVING THE GERMAN POLITICAL SCENE AT CLOSE RANGE ALL KNEW HIM TO BE--THE REAL POWER IN GERMANY.

ABOUT FIVE YEARS AGO, I WAS DISCUSSING THE POSITION OF REICHS-MARSHALL HERMANN GOERING IN THE NAZI SCHEME OF THINGS WITH A RELATIVE OF HIS. GOERING THEN HELD THE FOLLOWING OFFICES: GENERALISSIMO OF THE LUFTWAFFE, PRESIDENT OF THE REICHSTAG, DICTATOR OF THE FOUR YEAR PLAN FOR ECONOMIC SELF-SUFFICIENCY, REICH'S MASTER OF THE HUNT, PRUSSIAN PRIME MINISTER, CHIEF FORESTER OF THE REICH, AND REICH'S MINISTER FOR AIR. HE WAS GENERALLY REGARDED AS HITLER'S PICK AS HIS SUCCESSOR--ABOUT A YEAR LATER, AT THE BEGINNING OF WORLD WAR II, DER FUEHRER OFFICIALLY DESIGNATED HIM AS SUCH.

SEP 5 1943

TO MY SURPRISE, THE GOERING RELATION SAID: "MY COUSIN IS MAKING A GRAVE MISTAKE IN THINKING OF HIMSELF AS GERMANY'S NO.2 MAN. THE TROUBLE IS, HE HAS NO 'HAUSMACHT'--NO PALACE GUARDS, SO-TO-SPEAK, NO ARMED FORCE WHICH IS AT HIS BECK AND CALL. TO BE SURE, HE COMMANDS THE LUFTWAFFE. BUT THAT IS A MILITARY ORGANIZATION, INEXPERIENCED IN REGULATING THE LIVES OF CIVILIANS. MY COUSIN MADE THE MISTAKE OF HIS LIFE WHEN, IN 1936, HE YIELDED THE PRUSSIAN MINISTRY OF THE INTERIOR. SINCE THEN HE HAS HAD NO PERSONAL FORCE TO BACK HIM UP."

HEINRICH HIMMLER HAS PROVEN SMARTER THAN HERMANN GOERING. QUIETLY AND EFFECTIVELY HE TOOK OVER ONE POLICE FUNCTION AFTER ANOTHER, UNTIL HITLER IN 1936 APPOINTED HIM CHIEF OF THE ENTIRE REICH'S POLICE. UNDER NAZISM THE POLICE IS NOT A STATE OR CITY OR VILLAGE MATTER, BUT A FEDERAL INSTITUTION.

HIMMLER UNTIL NOW HELD A FATEFUL DUAL CAPACITY. FOR THE REGULAR POLICE FORCE HE WAS TECHNICALLY RESPONSIBLE TO THE REICH'S MINISTER OF THE INTERIOR, DR.WILHELM FRICK, WHO AS NOW BEEN SHOVED OFF TO PRAGUE TO BECOME LORD PROTECTOR OF BOHEMIA-MORAVIA AT THE AGE OF 56.

MANY A TIME INTERIOR MINISTER FRICK WAS IN A FURY TO DISCOVER THAT HE REALLY DIDN'T KNOW WHAT WAS GOING ON WITHIN THE REICH, ALTHOUGH AS "HOME MINISTER" HE SHOULD KNB. HIMMLER COULD ALWAYS HIDE HIS FAILURE OR REFUSAL TO REPORT BEHIND HIS SPECIAL, CONFIDENTIAL RELATION TO HITLER AS HEAD OF HIS "SS."

BUT IT WASN'T ONLY WILHELM FRICK WHO FELT HIMMLER'S GROWING POWER; HITLER SOON HAD TO LEARN THAT EVEN HE WAS BEING WATCHED BY HIMMLER AND HIS GESTAPO. I KNOW OF SEVERAL AUTHENTICATED INSTANCES WHEN HIGH FOREIGN AND GERMAN OFFICIALS THOUGHT THEY WERE CHATTING CONFIDENTIALLY WITH THE TEUTON FUEHRER, ONLY TO LEARN THAT HIMMLER WITHOUT HITLER'S KNOWLEDGE HAD LISTENED IN WITH THE AID OF SECRETLY LAID MICROPHONES, AND HAD OBTAINED A VERATBIM RECORD OF THE GOINGS-ON BEHIND CLOSED DOORS.

SEP 5 1943

HITLER DURING THE CLOSING MONTHS OF MY STAY IN GERMANY OBVIOUSLY FEARED HIMMLER.

HIMMLER HAS NOW ATTAINED HIS GOAL. THE MAN WHOSE OFFICE HE WORKED SO HARD TO TAKE OVER HAS BEEN SENT TO THE SEETHING, REBELLIOUS PROTECTORATE OF BOHEMIA AND MORAVIA. HE PROBABLY WILL SHARE THE FATE OF HIS PREDECESSOR PRO TEM, THE LATE REINHARD HEYDRICH.

NOBODY EXPECTED HEAVY-SET, STUTTERING BARON KONSTANTIN VON NEURATH TO RETURN TO PRAGUE. AFTER LIDICE AND HEYDRICH'S VIOLENT DEATH, HE WAS TOO SCARED TO COME BACK. IN THE COMING TRIAL OF THE NAZI CRIMINALS HE WILL PROBABLY FIGURE LESS AS A TORMENTOR OF CZECHS THAN AS A REPRESENTATIVE OF THE SOUTH-GERMAN TITLED GENTRY WHO, ALTHOUGH HE MUST HAVE KNOWN OF THE CRIMINAL ACTS OF HITLER

30.24-8071

30.24-8071

AND HIS COHORTS, NEVERTHELESS GAVE ACTIVE SUPPORT TO THE NAZI CAUSE, EVEN ACCEPTING HIGH RANK IN THE HIMMLER SS GANGSTER FORMATIONS.

HIMMLER IS NOW NOT ONLY IN CHARGE OF EVERYTHING THAT PERTAIN TO THE POLICE. HE IS ALSO, AS MINISTER OF THE INTERIOR, THE REICH'S CHIEF ADMINISTRATION (VERWALTUNG). GERMANY IS THE TRADITIONAL HOME OF THE BUREAUCRACY. ITS CIVIL SERVICE CORPS WAS A VAST ONE UNDER THE KAISER; IT WAS EQUALLY VAST DURING THE SHORTLIVED REPUBLIC. IT REACHED ASTRONOMIC FIGURES, HOWEVER, UNDER NAZISM. HIMMLER NOW BOSSES THAT ENORMOUS ORGANIZATION. HIS SPIES WILL BE EVERYWHERE TO SEE TO IT THAT NOBODY WILL QUESTION AN ORDER OR FAIL TO EXECUTE A DECREE, NO MATTER HOW CRUEL OR INHUMANE.

SEP 5 1943

IF FRICK, WHO IS, RELATIVELY SPEAKING, A GENTLEMAN AS GANGSTERS GO, SHOULD PROVE TOO SOFT IN HIS DEALINGS WITH THE CZECHS TO PLEASE HIMMLER, KARL H.FRANK, THE FORMER BOOKSELLER, WHO HELD THE RANK OF STATE'S SECRETARY UNDER VON NEURATH, HEYDRICH, AND POLICE GENERAL KURT DALUEGE IN THE PROTECTORATE, CAN BE RELIED UPON TO CORRECT THE SITUATION. I FEEL CONVINCED HE WILL TURN UP AGAIN IN PRAGUE IF FRICK CANNOT MANAGE ALONE. HE PROBABLY IS ACTING AS HIMMLER'S RIGHT-HAND MAN--HIS NEW HEYDRICH--RIGHT NOW. FRANK WAS THE WILLING CHIEF EXECUTIONER FOR THE UNSPEAKABLE HEYDRICH, AND WAS PARTICULARLY FANATICAL IN STAMPING OUT CZECH CLERGYMEN AND TEACHERS, WHOM HE REGARDED AS THE REICH'S MOST FORMABLE ENEMIES.

ONE WONDERS THAT FRANK--WHO IS NOT TO BE CONFUSED WITH THE EQUALLY DETESTABLE TORMENTOR OF POLAND, GOVERNOR-GENERAL HANNS FRANK--HAS NOT YET MET THE FATE OF HEYDRICH.

I DON'T RECALL WHAT THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN HENRICH HIMMLER AND KONSTANTIN HIERL, THE CHIEF OF THE COMPULSORY GERMAN LABOR SERVICE, WAS. PROBABLY HIERL DID NOT WANT TO WORK UNDER HIMMLER.

BUT I KNOW THAT HIERL FOR A LONG TIME HAS HAD THE AMBITION OF BECOMING A MINISTER OF THE REICH. IT IS EQUALLY CONCEIVABLE THAT, AS A SOP TO HIERL'S VANITY, HIMMLER HAS HIMSELF SUGGESTED THAT THE HEAD OF THE REICH'S ARBEITS-DIENST BE HUMORED WITH AN APPOINTMENT AS AN INDEPENDENT REICH'S MINISTER. HE WILL PROBABLY BE ALL THE MORE PLIABLE AS A TOOL OF HIMMLER'S.

THIS DOES NOT MEAN THE ECLIPSING OF DR.ROBERT LEY, THE REICH'S LABOR LEADER AND CHIEF OF HITLER'S POLITICAL ORGANIZATION, THE NAZI PARTY.

SEP 5 1943

BUT ALL OF THEM--LEY, HIERL, FRANK, AND EVEN FRICK--ARE NOW IN THE LAST ANALYSIS UNDER THE HEEL OF HEINRICH HIMMLER, WHO CAN CONTROL ALL THESE MEN THROUGH HIS ALMOST UNLIMITED POWERS AS HEAD OF THE GESTAPO.

TO ELIMINATE GOERING, HE IS HAVING HIS HENCHMEN START A WHISPERING CAMPAIGN AGAINST THE ROTUND REICHMARSHALL, AS I HAVE LEARNED FROM THE GERMAN UNDERGROUND.

HIMMLER KNOWS BUT ONE METHOD OF GOVERNING: TERROR. AND ALL GERMANY KNOWS THAT IS HIS METHOD. THERE ISN'T A MAN IN GERMANY OR INDEED IN EUROPE WHO IS MORE HATED THAT THIS BAVARIAN SADIST, WHO WAS BROUGHT UP AS A DECENT YOUNG LAD BY A GOD-FEARING, DEVOUT CATHOLIC COUPLE, BUT WHO HAS TURNED HIS BACK ON CHRISTIANITY, SCOFFS AT RELIGION, REINSTITUTES PAGAN-GERMANIC CUSTOMS, TORMENTS THE JEWS, TAKES A VICARIOUS SATISFACTION IN THE SUFFERING OF OTHERS, AND IS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE MURDER OF THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS OF GERMAN ARYANS, JEWS OF ALL COUNTRIES, PATRIOTIC REBELS IN CONQUERED COUNTRIES, AND EVEN OF NON-CONFORMISTS IN SATELLITE NEIGHBOR COUNTRIES.

THERE IS ONE MORE HURDLE HE MUST JUMP BEFORE HIS POWER IS UNLIMITED: HE MUST EMERGE VICTOR IN THE INEVITABLE CLASH THAT IS BOUND TO COME BETWEEN THE ARMED MILITARY FORCES OF THE REICH AND ADOLF ITLER'S EVIL GENIUS, THE UNSUCCESSFUL FORMER BAVARIAN CHICKEN FARMER, BEER HALL DEBATER, AND GANGSTER CHIEFTAIN, HEINRICH HIMMLER.

HIMMLER'S APPOINTMENT IS NO SIGN OF NAZI STRENGTH. IT IS A SIGNAL THAT THE CRACK-UP IS INEVITABLE.

(END AP SPECIAL ADVANCE FOR AMS OF SUNDAY, SEPT.5--SENT SEPT.2)

FR21 4ACW

WASHINGTON,SEPT.4-(AP)-A JOINT MEDITERRANEAN COMMISSION IS BEING ESTABLISHED BY THE UNITED NATIONS, IT WAS LEARNED TODAY, TO HANDLE POLITICAL MATTERS ARISING FROM THE WAR.

RUSSIA WILL BE REPRESENTED ON THE COMMISSION AND IT WAS REPORTED THAT A MEETING OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT, THE BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE, AND THE RUSSIAN FOREIGN OFFICE WILL TAKE PLACE IN THE NEAR FUTURE.

SEP 5 1943

UNDATED MINISTRY

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ROME HAS ESTABLISHED A "MINISTRY FOR REGIONS OCCUPIED BY THE ENEMY," A GERMAN BROADCAST RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS SAID TODAY. ITS TASK IS "TO COORDINATE ALL ACTIONS IN RELIEF OF THE PEOPLE ON SICILY AND IN REGIONS DIRECTLY MENACED BY THE ENEMY."

ALB/ APRA 18 1236PEW

BUENOS AIRES SEPT.4-(AP)-DAVID MATSON, OF ROANOKE, VA., THE OPERATIONS MANAGER OF COMPANIA ELECTRICIDAD DEL SUR, WAS DETAINED BY POLICE TODAY TOGETHER WITH SEVERAL OTHER OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY AFTER ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT INVESTIGATORS RAIDED THEIR OFFICES AND SEIZED RECORDS.

SEP 5 1943

MATSON, WHO IS THE HIGHEST RANKING AMERICAN EXECUTIVE OF THE AMERICAN FOREIGN POWER SUBSIDIARY, IS THE ONLY AMERICAN CITIZEN THUS FAR INVOLVED.

HE WAS DETAINED AFTER HE WENT TO POLICE HEADQUARTERS TO INQUIRE INTO THE SITUATION OF THE OTHER COMPANY CHIEFS WHO WERE PICKED UP PREVIOUSLY. LATER MATSON WAS PERMITTED TO RETURN HOME AND PACK A BAG PREPARATORY TO SPENDING THE NIGHT AT THE POLICE DEPARTMENT.

THE AMERICAN EMBASSY MADE INQUIRIES OF THE FOREIGN MINISTRY AND THE CONSULATE CHECKED AT POLICE HEADQUARTERS IN AN EFFORT TO LEARN THE CHARGES AGAINST MATSON. THUS FAR THEY HAD RECEIVED NO REPLY.

THIS IS THE FIRST INSTANCE OF POLICE ACTION INVOLVING AN AMERICAN CITIZEN AND AN AMERICAN OWNED COMPANY IN THE ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT'S INVESTIGATION OF UTILITY COMPANIES. THE HEADS OF TWO OTHER EUROPEAN CONTROLLED COMPANIES PREVIOUSLY WERE DETAINED.

SEVERAL WEEKS AGO THE GOVERNMENT ORDERED AN INVESTIGATION OF AMERICAN AND BRITISH-OWNED TIRE COMPANIES, BUT THE ACTION THUS FAR HAS BEEN LIMITED TO TAKING INVENTORIES OF THEIR RUBBER STOCKS.

BUENOS AIRES, SEPT.4-(AP)-ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT INVESTIGATORS TODAY OCCUPIED THE OFFICES OF THE COMPANIA DE ELECTRICIDAD DE ARGENTINA DEL SUR, SUBSIDIARY OF THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN POWER COMPANY, AND ORDERED SEVERAL OF ITS OFFICERS DETAINED.

TWO OTHER BIG ARGENTINE UTILITY COMPANIES, CADE AND ITALO ARGENTINO, ALREADY ARE UNDER INVESTIGATION.

1943

3024-8073

3024-8073

POLICE SAID THE ACTION WAS TAKEN AT REQUEST OF THE FEDERAL COMMISSIONER IN TACUNAN PROVINCE WHERE AUTHORITIES ARE INVESTIGATING ACTIVITIES OF HYDRO-ELECTRIC COMPANIES, INCLUDING AN AFFILIATE OF ARGENTINA DEL SUR.

ALL BOOKS AND FILES OF THE ORGANIZATION WERE SEIZED, AND POLICE SAID THE DETAINED OFFICIALS-- AMONG THEM COMPANY PRESIDENT WILLIAM A.REECE, A BRITISH SUBJECT--WOULD BE TAKEN TO TUCUMAN LATER TODAY FOR QUESTIONING.

THE AMERICAN CHARGE D'AFFAIRES, EDWARD L.REED, CALLED ON THE FOREIGN OFFICE THIS MORNING TO LEARN THE PURPOSE OF THE ACTION SO FAR AS IT INVOLVES AMERICAN CAPITAL.

BJ29PEW

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

- - -

SEP 5 1943

NOTE TO EDITORS: NEXT MONDAY BEING A NATIONAL HOLIDAY THERE WILL BE NO "THE WAR TODAY" COLUMN.

- - -

THIS COLUMN YESTERDAY SUGGESTED THAT YOU AND I, AS LONG-DISTANCE WATCHERS OF THE CONQUEST OF ITALY, KEEP ONE EYE ON THE UNFOLDING OF THIS DRAMA AND THE OTHER COCKED IN THE DIRECTION OF POSSIBLE INVASION POINTS ELSEWHERE--AND THAT SEEMS TO BE WORTH REPEATING TODAY.

JUST PRIOR TO THE ASSAULT ON ITALY, HERR HITLER'S RADIO MOUTHPIECES WERE FEVERISHLY PREDICTING THAT A DOUBLE-BARRELED ALLIED INVASION OF THE CONTINENT WAS IMMINENT. THEY THOUGHT THE ATTACKS MIGHT COME IN THE MEDITERRANEAN THEATRE AND FROM ACROSS THE ENGLISH CHANNEL INTO FRANCE. AS THE SIGNS READ, IT LOOKED AS THOUGH THE NAZIS MIGHT HAVE GOT HOLD OF AT LEAST A PARTIAL TRUTH.

OF COURSE, WE DON'T NEED THE GERMANS TO TELL US THAT THERE'S GOING TO BE AN INVASION OF WESTERN EUROPE. WE'VE HAD THAT MANY TIMES HOT OFF THE GRIDDLE FROM THE ALLIED HIGH COMMAND. WHAT THE HIGH COMMAND HASN'T TOLD US IS WHEN THIS INVASION IS TO TAKE PLACE -- AND THAT'S ONE OF THE PARAMOUNT ISSUES OF THE MOMENT, FROM THE STANDPOINT OF BOTH ALLIES AND AXIS.

SEP 5 1943

THE NAZIS HAVE BEEN FAIRLY CORRECT IN MANY OF THEIR FORECASTS OF ALLIED OPERATIONS. FOR INSTANCE, THEY CALLED THE TURN ON OUR INVASION OF NORTH AFRICA WITH CONSIDERABLE ACCURACY. I WAS IN LONDON SEVERAL DAYS BEFORE THAT OPERATION AND A NAZI ADMIRAL IN BERLIN BROADCAST THE SIZE OF THE INVASION FLEET AND TOLD WHERE THE LANDINGS WERE TO BE MADE.

NOW WITH HALF THEIR LATEST PROPHESY PROVED TRUE, BERLIN STILL BELIEVES THE OTHER HALF MAY MATERIALIZE. CAPTAIN LUDWIG SERTORIUS, MILITARY COMMENTATOR OF THE GERMAN NEWS AGENCY, SAYS THAT FROM STATEMENTS BY BRITISH PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL IT CAN BE DEDUCED "THAT THE POTENTIAL OF THE ANGLO-AMERICANS IS SO GREAT AS TO ALLOW THEM TO DELIVER TWO OR THREE BLOWS AGAINST THE CONTINENT."

THE HITLERITES SAY THE WESTERN ALLIES HAVE ASSEMBLED A GREAT FLOTILLA OF TRANSPORT AND LANDING CRAFT IN THE MEDITERRANEAN. SPAIN REPORTS THE PRESENCE OF A LARGE FLEET OF WARSHIPS AND MERCHANTMEN AT THE GREAT BRITISH BASE OF GIBRALTAR. THE NAZI CONTROLLED PARIS RADIO ASSERTS THAT ANOTHER AMPHIBIOUS FORCE IS ASSEMBLING IN BRITAIN AND THAT AN ANGLO-AMERICAN ARMADA WILL CARRY THIS ACROSS THE ENGLISH CHANNEL FOR INVASION OF FRANCE.

BERLIN HAS POINTED TO THE VALLEY OF THE RHONE IN SOUTHERN FRANCE AS ONE LIKELY INVASION PLACE, AND HAS ASSERTED THAT THERE ARE 300,000 FRENCH TROOPS IN ORAN. WELL, WE LONG HAVE KNOWN THAT THERE ARE MANY WELL EQUIPPED FRENCHMEN IN NORTH AFRICA, EAGER TO MEET THE

1943

30.24-8073

30.24-8073

POLICE SAID THE ACTION WAS TAKEN AT REQUEST OF THE FEDERAL COMMISSIONER IN TACUMAN PROVINCE WHERE AUTHORITIES ARE INVESTIGATING ACTIVITIES OF HYDRO-ELECTRIC COMPANIES, INCLUDING AN AFFILIATE OF ARGENTINA DEL SUR.

ALL BOOKS AND FILES OF THE ORGANIZATION WERE SEIZED, AND POLICE SAID THE DETAINED OFFICIALS-- AMONG THEM COMPANY PRESIDENT WILLIAM A.REECE, A BRITISH SUBJECT--WOULD BE TAKEN TO TUCUMAN LATER TODAY FOR QUESTIONING.

THE AMERICAN CHARGE D'AFFAIRES, EDWARD L.REED, CALLED ON THE FOREIGN OFFICE THIS MORNING TO LEARN THE PURPOSE OF THE ACTION SO FAR AS IT INVOLVES AMERICAN CAPITAL.

B329PEW

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

- - -

SEP 5 1943

NOTE TO EDITORS: NEXT MONDAY BEING A NATIONAL HOLIDAY THERE WILL BE NO "THE WAR TODAY" COLUMN.

- - -

THIS COLUMN YESTERDAY SUGGESTED THAT YOU AND I, AS LONG-DISTANCE WATCHERS OF THE CONQUEST OF ITALY, KEEP ONE EYE ON THE UNFOLDING OF THIS DRAMA AND THE OTHER COCKED IN THE DIRECTION OF POSSIBLE INVASION POINTS ELSEWHERE--AND THAT SEEMS TO BE WORTH REPEATING TODAY.

JUST PRIOR TO THE ASSAULT ON ITALY, HERR HITLER'S RADIO MOUTHPIECES WERE FEVERISHLY PREDICTING THAT A DOUBLE-BARRELED ALLIED INVASION OF THE CONTINENT WAS IMMINENT. THEY THOUGHT THE ATTACKS MIGHT COME IN THE MEDITERRANEAN THEATRE AND FROM ACROSS THE ENGLISH CHANNEL INTO FRANCE. AS THE SIGNS READ, IT LOOKED AS THOUGH THE NAZIS MIGHT HAVE GOT HOLD OF AT LEAST A PARTIAL TRUTH.

OF COURSE, WE DON'T NEED THE GERMANS TO TELL US THAT THERE'S GOING TO BE AN INVASION OF WESTERN EUROPE. WE'VE HAD THAT MANY TIMES HOT OFF THE GRIDDLE FROM THE ALLIED HIGH COMMAND. WHAT THE HIGH COMMAND HASN'T TOLD US IS WHEN THIS INVASION IS TO TAKE PLACE -- AND THAT'S ONE OF THE PARAMOUNT ISSUES OF THE MOMENT, FROM THE STANDPOINT OF BOTH ALLIES AND AXIS.

SEP 5 1943

THE NAZIS HAVE BEEN FAIRLY CORRECT IN MANY OF THEIR FORECASTS OF ALLIED OPERATIONS. FOR INSTANCE, THEY CALLED THE TURN ON OUR INVASION OF NORTH AFRICA WITH CONSIDERABLE ACCURACY. I WAS IN LONDON SEVERAL DAYS BEFORE THAT OPERATION AND A NAZI ADMIRAL IN BERLIN BROADCAST THE SIZE OF THE INVASION FLEET AND TOLD WHERE THE LANDINGS WERE TO BE MADE.

NOW WITH HALF THEIR LATEST PROPHESY PROVED TRUE, BERLIN STILL BELIEVES THE OTHER HALF MAY MATERIALIZE. CAPTAIN LUDWIG SERTORIUS, MILITARY COMMENTATOR OF THE GERMAN NEWS AGENCY, SAYS THAT FROM STATEMENTS BY BRITISH PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL IT CAN BE DEDUCED "THAT THE POTENTIAL OF THE ANGLO-AMERICANS IS SO GREAT AS TO ALLOW THEM TO DELIVER TWO OR THREE BLOWS AGAINST THE CONTINENT."

THE HITLERITES SAY THE WESTERN ALLIES HAVE ASSEMBLED A GREAT FLOTILLA OF TRANSPORT AND LANDING CRAFT IN THE MEDITERRANEAN. SPAIN REPORTS THE PRESENCE OF A LARGE FLEET OF WARSHIPS AND MERCHANTMEN AT THE GREAT BRITISH BASE OF GIBRALTAR. THE NAZI CONTROLLED PARIS RADIO ASSERTS THAT ANOTHER AMPHIBIOUS FORCE IS ASSEMBLING IN BRITAIN AND THAT AN ANGLO-AMERICAN ARMADA WILL CARRY THIS ACROSS THE ENGLISH CHANNEL FOR INVASION OF FRANCE.

BERLIN HAS POINTED TO THE VALLEY OF THE RHONE IN SOUTHERN FRANCE AS ONE LIKELY INVASION PLACE, AND HAS ASSERTED THAT THERE ARE 300,000 FRENCH TROOPS IN ORAN. WELL, WE LONG HAVE KNOWN THAT THERE ARE MANY WELL EQUIPPED FRENCHMEN IN NORTH AFRICA, EAGER TO MEET THE NAZIS ON FRENCH SOIL ONCE MORE, AND IF THERE IS AN INVASION OF SOUTHERN FRANCE WE MAY EXPECT THEM TO BE PART OF IT.

1943

ALONG WITH THE GERMAN REPORTS WE ARE GETTING INTERESTING NEWS FROM ALLIED SOURCES. EDWARD KENNEDY, FAMOUS ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT AT ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, IN REPORTING THE LANDING IN ITALY SAID IT WAS "THE FIRST OF SEVERAL EXPECTED INVASIONS OF HITLER'S EUROPE." THE ARRIVAL IN LONDON OF GENERAL HENRY H. ARNOLD, CHIEF OF UNITED STATES AIR FORCES, GAVE RISE TO SPECULATION THAT HE WAS THERE TO EFFECT FURTHER COORDINATION OF GROUND AND AIR FORCES FOR AN INVASION OF THE CONTINENT FROM BRITAIN. MEANTIME THE ANGLO-AMERICAN AIRFORCES HAVE BEEN BLASTING THE CHANNEL COAST.

NOTE ALSO HAS BEEN TAKEN OF THE FACT THAT GENERAL EISENHOWER HAS AT HIS COMMAND FORCES WHICH HAVEN'T BEEN SENT INTO THE ITALIAN SHOW. THEY ARE AVAILABLE FOR OTHER ATTACKS.

WHAT ARE THE INVASION POSSIBILITIES?

SEP 5 1943

SO FAR AS CONCERNS THE MEDITERRANEAN ZONE, THERE OBVIOUSLY MAY BE LANDINGS AT FRESH POINTS IN ITALY. AS THIS COLUMN HAS SAID BEFORE, ACTION MIGHT BE TAKEN AGAINST THE BIG ISLANDS OF SARDINIA, CORSICA AND CRETE. AN INVASION OF SOUTHERN FRANCE IS AMONG CONTINGENCIES, AND A THRUST INTO THE BALKANS HAS BEEN CONSIDERED.

AS FOR THE INVASION OF WESTERN FRANCE, WHICH MOSCOW ALMOST DAILY CALLS FOR, THIS WILL TAKE PLACE WHEN THE TIME IS RIPE. HOWEVER, THE ALLIED HIGH COMMAND RECENTLY HAS SAID THAT IT WON'T BE RUSHED INTO THIS DANGEROUS OPERATION.

Blank

30.24-8075

30.24-8075

Commando Raids Seal Italian Toe, British Troops Seize 40 Villages; Allied Landing Perils Japs at Lae

SEP 6 1943

BAGNARA SEIZED, 2,000 PRISONERS CAPTURED IN DRIVE

Allies Obtain Firm Grip on 40-Mile Invasion Arc.

TANKS HAMMER INLAND

Violent Fighting in Progress on Slopes of Aspromonte Mountains.

ITALIAN FLEET FLEES

Warships Abandon Taranto Naval Base, Algiers Reports.

EDWARD KENNEDY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 5 — (AP) Allied forces throwing Commando-claw-like pincers over the top of the Italian toe have seized Bagnara, clamped a firm hold on a 40-mile invasion arc from Melito to Bagnara, and taken more than 2,000 prisoners.

At least 40 coastal and inland towns and villages have been taken by Allied troops.

Repeating the highly-successful American landing jumps along the Sicilian north coast, a big Commando force captured Bagnara 10 miles northeast of San Giovanni, and was joined by infantrymen speeding up the shores against still-feeble enemy resistance, Allied headquarters announced today.

Other Commandos landed at Melito, rounding the southern edge of the toe 15 miles below Reggio Calabria, but found that road junction already evacuated by the Italians.

Under personal leadership of dashing Eighth Army Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, British and Canadian troops in the third day of invasion were fanning in both directions along the coast and plunging deeper inland on the toe, where the Axis might elect to stand in natural mountainous defenses.

(An Algiers broadcast recorded in London by the Associated Press said Allied troops were on the outskirts of Palmi, five miles beyond Bagnara.

(Italian headquarters reported Allied armored units were knifing inland, and that "violent fighting is in progress in the area east of Bagnara and on the slopes of the Aspromonte (bitter) mountains" inside the lower toe.

("Between Palmi and Bagnara, the defending forces after having thrown the first British contingent back into the sea, had to withdraw from Bagnara," the Italian communique said.

(Reuters quoted an Algiers broadcast saying that the Italian fleet had abandoned Taranto, naval base inside the Italian heel.)

The tremendous drubbing of Italian railroads has knocked out their usefulness to the Germans in any effort to rush large reinforcement armies into southern or central Italy headquarters announced. Reconnaissance showed the terrible destruction of rail routes exceeded previous reports.

U. S. Flying Fortresses heaped fresh destruction on airfields, railroads and highways in the Naples area yesterday and were followed up last night by British Wellingtons while R.A.F. heavy bombers from the Middle East battered the Grottaglie airdrome near Taranto Friday night.

Other fleets of Allied planes smashed at enemy positions ahead of invasion troops, and broke up the first Italian attempt to harry the Allied ground troops, knocking down eight out of a force of 20 fighter-bombers.

Aground, casualties thus far have been light on both sides.

The bag of prisoners soared over 2,000 by last night, most of them Italians.

But the enemy resorted to extensive demolitions before withdrawing, and these are slowing the advance along both the north and south coastal roads. So far no mines have been found, and the strong artillery and anti-aircraft batteries that the Axis formerly had on this tip of continental Europe obviously had ben pulled back.

The campaign appears similar to that in Sicily in that the Axis plan apparently was to let the Allies land without heavy opposition, and then oppose them at points offering the best natural defenses.

The Italian toe area has two serious bottlenecks, one between the Gulfs of Santa Eufemia and Squillace halfway up from the southern tip and the other betwen the Gulfs of Policastro and Taranto. Fear of being cut off by additional landings at these points presumably led the Axis not to keep strong forces posted near the tip of the toe.

Among villages occupied by columns sweeping up the coast road were San Gregorio, San Leo, Pellaro, Madonnella, Lazzaro, Cannitello, and Porto Salvo.

One town lying some 50 miles ahead of Bagnara is Filadelfia. Like so many Calabrian towns, it was founded by the Greks.

Melito, whose loss was announced by the Italians yesterday, is the southern terminal of a cross peninsular road.

A South African lieutenant, one of the first fliers to land at the Reggio Calabria airdrome, said "many Italian soldiers in full marching order came from the hills to surrender. Some were still armed."

The preponderance of Italians among the prisoners indicated the Germans again were using them as rearguards to cover their own withdrawal, as they did repeatedly in Africa and Sicily.

Associated Press correspondent Daniel De Luce, who followed the first invasion troops, said the Italian defenses were "astoundingly weak" and that Italians were surrendering happily.

Paul Kern Lee, Associated Press reported aboard a British destroyer, said the coastal area blossomed with white flags soon after the invasion was launched, with hundreds of civilians waving tokens of surrender. He identified two units in action as the Canadian First Division and British Fifth division.

A tremendous barrage of 900 guns lined up hub to hub on the Sicilian shore preceded the first assault forces, Lee added, and De Luce described the heavy attack as like an elephant stepping on a gnat. The first actions were simply skirmishes rather than battles, he declared.

POWERFUL FORCE STORMS ASHORE IN SMOKE SCREEN

Planes, Warships Support Surprise Move on Huon Gulf Coast.

LITTLE OPPOSITION

Few Allied Casualties Reported; Australian in Command.

VERN HAUGLAND

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Monday, Sept. 6—(AP) A powerful Allied force, comprised mainly of Australian troops, has landed on the coast of Huon gulf east of Lae, New Guinea, isolating the Lae-Salamaua area from supply bases up the coast.

"The investment of Lae has begun," said General Douglas MacArthur who is in New Guinea in personal command of operations.

Striking with paralyzing force, the Allied troops stormed ashore under cover of a smoke screen Saturday morning after naval forces had prepared the way with a heavy bombardment. The Japanese apparently were caught unawares.

"In a coordinated ground, air and naval operation, our troops, in heavy force, have successfully landed on the coast northeast of Lae, cutting the enemy's line of communication to Finschhafen and the north coast of New Guinea," a communique said.

Complete Surprise

"The movement was a complete surprise and the landing was made with little opposition. x x x The movement to invest and isolate the Lae-Salamaua area is now underway."

Lae is one of the principal Japanese bases in central New Guinea. It lies about 15 miles northwest of Salamaua, where American and Australian troops gradually have been closing in on a strategic enemy airdrome.

Six hours after the successful landing, the Allied protective air cover intercepted and dispersed an enemy formation of medium and dive bombers, escorted by 35 fighters, which struck at the invading forces.

There were few Allied casualties in the landing itself but the Japanese air raid damaged two small Allied boats and caused some casualties.

The landing troops were under the direction of General Sir Thomas Blamey, an Australian. Vice Admiral Carpender commanded the naval forces and Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenny directed the air forces.

SEP 6 1943

Bombers Lash at Lae

As the infantry was moving ashore to the east, Allied heavy bombers blasted Lae itself with 96 tons of explosives. Gun positions and other installations were heavily damaged. At the same time, Mitchell bombers roared along the coast, strafing enemy positions wherever found.

The Japanese sought desperately to fight off the attacking airmen over Lae and 21 enemy fighters were shot down.

Observers at General MacArthur's headquarters said the manouver cut off the enemy forces in the Lae area from reinforcements and separated them from the main Japanese bodies at Finschhafen, 60 miles east of Lae on the Huon peninsula, and from others farther up the coast.

Gen. Blamey, at a press conference, said the Japanese evidently were caught by surprise and failed to offer any resistance during the first hour of the operation.

Warships Shell Base

Allied naval vessels shelled Lae before and during the landings to the east and thus held the enemy's attention until beachheads were established.

Gen. Blamey said the Japanese also apparently had been deceived by the operations at Salamaua to the south. They evidently thought, he said, that Salamaua was the main Allied objective, whereas actually, for several weeks, the ground fighting there has been of a diversionary nature to keep the enemy occupied.

Across Vitiaz strait, medium bombers, escorted by fighters, heavily strafed and bombed anti-aircraft positions, supply dumps and bivouac areas around the Cape Gloucestre, New Britain, airdrome.

Long-range fighters swept along the western coast of New Britain and Vitu islands and destroyed or machinegunned 32 enemy barges at various hideouts.

Corsairs Raid Kahili

Corsairs raided the Kahili airdrome on southern Bougainville island in the Solomons, destroying four grounded enemy planes. The day before in the same area Allied planes destroyed three grounded Japanese planes and shot down five.

The great Japanese naval and air base at Rabaul, New Britain, which has not been reported attacked for nearly two months, was subjected to a four-hour night harassing raid. Numerous fires and explosions were set off on Vunakanau and Lakunai airdromes and in the town area. Anti-aircraft positions at Retaval were bombed and silenced.

RED DONETS DRIVE TAKES MINING CITY

Nazi Garrison Killed Or Routed In Street Fighting—Stalino In Flames

WW HERCHER

[By the Associated Press]

London, Monday, Sept. 6—Russia's Donets basin army captured the mining city of Artemovsk yesterday after killing or routing its German garrison in bitter street fighting and also retook 120 other localities in nine-mile advances that put Red artillery only fifteen miles from Stalino, the Russians said today.

Stalino was reported in flames, an indication that the Germans were burning it and destroying installations before abandoning that city, which had served as their southern headquarters.

General Rodion Malinovsky's troops first broke into the "stubbornly defended" city lying on the inner German rail network on Saturday night after capturing points on the north and south, said a Moscow broadcast communique recorded here by the Soviet monitor. The Germans "had created large expanses of mine fields and anti-tank obstacles at the approaches," it added.

In the street battle that followed some Axis troops surrendered and others fled after suffering "heavy losses," Moscow said.

8,400 Nazi Soldiers Killed

One Russian group, presumably the one converging on Stalino to the south, killed 2,000 Germans during the day, and the communique said a total of 8,400 enemy troops were slain, and scores of tanks, planes and guns were destroyed or captured on all fronts.

Advances of four to nine miles were hammered out on the Konotop, Bryansk, and Smolensk fronts as the Russian military machine ground on westward through more than 250 villages to boost the Red Army's total bag to 1,500 localities rewon in the last week.

"A very important center of resistance," which may be Baltutino, only thirty-five miles southeast of Smolensk, was captured on the central front, where the Russians said the Germans "tried at all costs to stem the advance of our troops."

14 Miles From Konotop

The communique also announced the seizure of Khutor-Mikhaylovsky, rail junction eighty-five miles south of Bryansk. The fall of this town and others gave the Red Army a seventy-mile-long grip on the Bryansk-Kiev artery above Konotop, northern Ukraine citadel which is menaced by Russian units attacking only fourteen miles from the city.

Artemovsk, formerly Bakhmut, is forty-two miles north of the steel city of Stalino on the railway to Slavyansk, another big Axis base twenty-five miles to the northwest. It had a peace-time population of approximately 40,000 and is noted for its coal and quicksilver. Steel rails also were once manufactured there.

Stalino was threatened by numerous Russian columns striking from three sides and seizing the intervening railways between Stalino and Slavyansk. One unit toppled Khartsyzsk, fifteen miles east of Stalino, and only five miles from Makeevka. Other Soviet forces striking down from the north were only slightly farther away from the city which the Germans have held since October, 1941.

A Berlin broadcast recorded by The Associated Press acknowledged an Axis withdrawal all along the Donets Basin front, terming it as usual, "movements for shortening of the front." It added that "masses of Soviet men and tanks were trying in vain to disturb the German detaching movements."

Henry C. Cassidy, Associated Press correspondent, who visited the front west and south of Kharkov, quoted Red army men as saying the Germans were retiring toward the Dnieper river and in view of these statements Stalino's early capture was regarded as a foregone conclusion.

Russian troops apparently had flanked Konotop with the seizure of Korop, on the northwest near the Desna. Some of these units were reported striking westward toward the railway connecting Konotop with Gomel via Bakhmach. Others had turned southward along the Desna's eastern banks apparently to take Konotop from the rear.

German resistance centered largely around rail junctions, but the Russians were seizing these at a rapid pace except in the area west of Kharkov where the Axis thus far has made a firmer stand in order to protect the escape routes leading out of the Donets Basin.

NAZI, DUTCH AND BELGIAN TARGETS HIT

SEP 6 1943

Railway Yards And Airfields Raided After Night Attack On Ruhr

[By the Associated Press]

London, Sept. 5—American and British bombers pounded Belgian railway yards and Dutch airfields in the continued grinding down of Axis communications and air bases in potential invasion areas of western Europe today after RAF Mosquitoes jabbed into the Ruhr and Rhineland by night.

The German radio Deutschlandsender went off the air about 10.30 P. M. tonight, indicating the RAF was on another night mission over Europe.

Ghent Freight Yards Hit

United States Eighth Air Force Marauders raked the freight yards in Ghent, Belgium, this morning, and a communique said "good results were observed."

Later in the day, RAF Bostons crossed the lower end of the North Sea and attacked airfields at Woensdrecht, a Netherlands sea coast town on the West Scheldt five miles north of the Belgian border. Both the Belgian and Netherlands attacks were covered and escorted by RAF, Dominion and Allied Spitfires.

Bombers Lay Mines

In addition to the Mosquito raid into the Ruhr and Rhineland, British heavy bombers laid mines in enemy waters last night and naval aircraft operating with the fighter command damaged three enemy E-boats in the Channel.

Although the German air force sent up many fighters to challenge the Allied raiders, the Nazis failed to knock down a single bomber last night or today, it was announced.

During today's operations the Marauders destroyed three enemy fighters and escorting Spitfires shot down three more. Two Spitfires are missing from day and night patrols.

The Air Ministry communique did not identify the Ruhr and Rhineland targets of the night raiders. The German communique said an air attack on an unspecified town in occupied territory caused "considerable losses" among civilians and destruction of buildings.

Pound Enemy Shipping

Typhoon bombers blasted enemy shipping in a Dutch estuary this morning destroying two small motor ships, a tug and two barges and damaging other small vessels, the Air Ministry announced.

Later other Typhoons attacked an airfield at Mardyck, six miles southwest of Dunkerque. One British craft is missing.

In addition to the three fighters shot down by the Marauders, four others were damaged, a subsequent report said.

PEACE APPEAL IS SOUNDED BY RADIO IN ROME

Broadcast Tells Of Defeats — Algiers Hears Fleet Has Left Taranto

LEWIS AWIGINS

[By the Associated Press]

London, Sept. 5—While Allied troops bit deeper into the [illegible]inland of Italy, the Italians c[illegible] their indirect peace plea a Rome radio broadcast [illegible] the "sooner we have an honorable peace the better."

This English language broadcast, heard by the Ministry of Information, came from a closely controlled station in the Italian capital.

The Algiers radio broadcast a report, unconfirmed from any other source, that the Italian fleet had abandoned its Taranto base presumably to withdraw into the Adriatic—a move which would not surprise British navy men since the base lies only about 175 miles from the present fighting front.

Communiques Differ

The Italian communique was less optimistic in tone than that portion of the German communique devoted to the fighting on the Calabrian front. The latter, broadcast by the Berlin radio said in part:

"British forces which landed on the Calabrian peninsula could widen their bridgehead yesterday only very little although they were opposed by only weak German and Italian forces."

The Italian communique declared that the Allied forces "supported by large air formations intensified the flow of troops and armored units" and penetrated further inland, occuying several populated places.

Withdraw From Bagnara

"Between Palmi and Bagnara the defending forces, after having thrown the first British contingent back into the sea, had to withdraw from Bagnara," the Italian communique continued.

"Violent fighting is in progress in the area to the east of Bagnara and on the slopes of the Aspromonte mountains."

Both communiques claimed that an Allied cruiser was badly hit by bombs and that attacks were made on Allied landing forces.

According to the latest information here the Italians had two battleships of the old but modernized Cavour class at Taranto along with one or two cruisers and a handful of destroyers.

May Have Gone To Trieste

If this force left Taranto it either would have to make a bold run around Sicily to join with the bulk of the Italian fleet on the west coast or withdraw into the Adriatic.

British navy men would not be surprised to find that the ships had sailed all the way to Trieste.

After acknowledging the need for swift peace, the Rome broadcast gave this picture of the Italian war outlook:

"We realize, however, that no street demonstrations will bring it (peace) any nearer.

Complains Of Supply Lack

"Meanwhile, the enemy, supported by huge quantities of material and the largest air umbrella ever seen, is advancing on our mainland.

"Our soldiers in Calabria are fighting without pause, but they have not adequate means at their disposal.

"They are far from their supply bases. Such lines of communications as do exist are being continually broken and often rendered useless by the enemy.

"We are watching what is happening in Calabria with deep grief."

Britons Slip Into Greece

SEP 6 1943

ERNEST AGNEW

[By the Associated Press]

London, Monday, Sept. 6—In one of the most audacious acts of the war, British and Greek staff officers from Cairo have traveled hundreds of miles through enemy-held territory for a secret rendezvous at Balkan headquarters of Greek guerrillas.

There, it was disclosed today, they conferred with 600 leaders representing more than 50,000 Greek patriots and effected a unified command for an underground fight against the Axis.

The conference established a long-term policy to fit in with the Allied Middle East Command's plans for intensification of sabotage in the Axis-occupied Balkan country.

Arms Shipments Planned

According to reports reaching here, they also perfected methods to assure the guerrillas arms and other equipment.

The conference lasted three days and then the staff officers returned to Cairo by the same secret route used for entry.

Germany has talked of British planes using secret airfields in Greece and of submarine contacts along various parts of the coast. Supplies, including arms, technical equipment, radios, medicine and some food, reportedly have been landed.

British Still In Greece

Some British, Australian and New Zealand soldiers are fighting with the guerrillas in the Balkans, it is reported here. Left behind when Greece was overrun in April, 1941, they took to the mountains and linked up with the native patriots. Some still are wearing the remnants of their old uniforms.

Allied governments have estimated that there are about 150,000 guerrillas throughout the Balkans now actively fighting the Axis and have said that at least twice that number would join when and if they are equipped with arms.

Pravelic Reported Out

Heightened Axis anxieties about the Balkans—born of fears of imminent Allied landings—were shown in a Tass dispatch, datelined Geneva. It reported the virtual ouster of Dr. Ante Pavelic, Hitler's Croatian puppet, and the German appointment of Nicola Mandic as chairman of the Council of Ministers of Croatia. The Croatian war ministers also were reported removed.

The chairmanship of the Council of Ministers, Tass said, is a new post. Mandic was a one-time German official under the Hapsburgs as Vice Governor of Bosnia.

Gen. Fredrich Navratil was appointed new war minister, Tass reported.

The Berlin broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said a few raiders from one vessel reached the shore but fled, discarding helmets, hand grenades and rifle ammunition, when German Coast Guard units discovered them and opened fire.

Light British coastal forces fought a sharp battle with a large group of armed enemy minesweepers and heavily-armed patrol vessels off the French coast early today, scoring a torpedo hit on one enemy patrol ship and severely damaging two more, the Admiralty announced.

The minesweepers first were engaged in an intermittent, two-hour battle with the British vessels making numerous attacks "against strong and determined defense," and then the enemy patrol vessels rushed up in reinforcement. The British attacked them, hitting three.

All the British ships returned safely "having suffered only slight casualties," the Admiralty added.

The German Sunday communique said Nazi naval patrol forces had sunk four British motor torpedo boats and fired a fifth off the French channel coast Saturday night.

Berlin's communique made no mention of Ushant island.

Ushant—the French call it Quessant—is only 10 miles off the northwestern tip of France and 25 airline miles from Brest. It is about a mile wide and four miles long.

Commando Thrust at French Isle Revealed by German Radio

British Coastal Forces, Meanwhile, Attack Nazi Patrol Vessels.

LONDON, Sept. 5 — (AP) The German radio asserted today without Allied confirmation that British Commandos had attempted a landing Friday night on the tiny island of Ushant, just off the westernmost point on the Atlantic coast of France.

Berlin declared the attack was beaten off after a single vessel had reached the beach.

British Combined Operations headquarters and other officials declined to confirm or deny the reported action, but Commando units carry out many reconnaissance thrusts which never are announced in London.

A major naval engagement between the French and the British occurred off the island in 1778. It is in the area used as a base by the American naval commander John Paul Jones in his raiding operations against the British coast.

Rocky and dangerous to the mariner, it formerly was inhabited only by lighthouse keepers and fishermen but the Germans are believed to have converted it into a heavily defended strong point among the island stepping stones to the French coast.

BOMBER DERBY POPULAR

LONDON, Sept. 5.—(AP) Some of London's famous pubs are reported operating sweepstakes—on the sly—on the number of bombers lost in daily air raids over Europe and the total enemy fight tanks, planes and guns were destroyed or captured on all fronts.

Advances of four to nine miles were hammered out on the Konotop, Bryansk, and Smolensk fronts as the Russian military machine ground on westward through more than 250 villages to boost the Red Army's total bag to 1,500 localities rewon in the last week.

"A very important center of resistance," which may be Baltutino, only thirty-five miles southeast of Smolensk, was captured on the central front, where the Russians said the Germans "tried at all costs to stem the advance of our troops."

14 Miles From Konotop

The communique also announced the seizure of Khutor-Mikhaylovsky, rail junction eighty-five miles south of Bryansk. The fall of this town and others gave the Red Army a seventy-mile-long grip on the Bryansk-Kiev artery above Konotop, northern Ukraine citadel which is menaced by Russian units attacking only fourteen miles from the city.

Artemovsk, formerly Bakhmut, is forty-two miles north of the steel city of Stalino on the railway to Slavyansk, another big Axis base twenty-five miles to the northwest. It had a peace-time population of approximately 40,000 and is noted for its coal and quicksilver. Steel rails also were once manufactured there.

Stalino was threatened by numerous Russian columns striking from three sides and seizing the intervening railways between Stalino and Slavyansk. One unit toppled Khartsyzsk, fifteen miles east of Stalino, and only five miles from Makeevka. Other Soviet forces striking down from the north were only slightly farther away from the city which the Germans have held since October, 1941.

A Berlin broadcast recorded by The Associated Press acknowledged an Axis withdrawal all along the Donets Basin front, terming it as usual, "movements for shortening of the front." It added that "masses of Soviet men and tanks were trying in vain to disturb the German detaching movements."

Henry C. Cassidy, Associated Press correspondent, who visited the front west and south of Kharkov, quoted Red army men as saying the Germans were retiring toward the Dnieper river and in view of these statements Stalino's early capture was regarded as a foregone conclusion.

Russian troops apparently had flanked Konotop with the seizure of Korop, on the northwest near the Desna. Some of these units were reported striking westward toward the railway connecting Konotop with Gomel via Bakhmach. Others had turned southward along the Desna's eastern banks apparently to take Konotop from the rear.

German resistance centered largely around rail junctions, but the Russians were seizing these at a rapid pace except in the area west of Kharkov where the Axis thus far has made a firmer stand in order to protect the escape routes leading out of the Donets Basin.

NAZI, DUTCH AND BELGIAN TARGETS HIT

SEP 6 1943

Railway Yards And Airfields Raided After Night Attack On Ruhr

[By the Associated Press]

London, Sept. 5—American and British bombers pounded Belgian railway yards and Dutch airfields in the continued grinding down of Axis communications and air bases in potential invasion areas of western Europe today after RAF Mosquitoes jabbed into the Ruhr and Rhineland by night.

The German radio Deutschlandsender went off the air about 10.30 P. M. tonight, indicating the RAF was on another night mission over Europe.

Ghent Freight Yards Hit

United States Eighth Air Force Marauders raked the freight yards in Ghent, Belgium, this morning, and a communique said "good results were observed."

Later in the day, RAF Bostons crossed the lower end of the North Sea and attacked airfields at Woensdrecht, a Netherlands sea coast town on the West Scheldt five miles north of the Belgian border. Both the Belgian and Netherlands attacks were covered and escorted by RAF, Dominion and Allied Spitfires.

Bombers Lay Mines

In addition to the Mosquito raid into the Ruhr and Rhineland, British heavy bombers laid mines in enemy waters last night and naval aircraft operating with the fighter command damaged three enemy E-boats in the Channel.

Although the German air force sent up many fighters to challenge the Allied raiders, the Nazis failed to knock down a single bomber last night or today, it was announced.

During today's operations the Marauders destroyed three enemy fighters and escorting Spitfires shot down three more. Two Spitfires are missing from day and night patrols.

The Air Ministry communique did not identify the Ruhr and Rhineland targets of the night raiders. The German communique said an air attack on an unspecified town in occupied territory caused "considerable losses" among civilians and destruction of buildings.

Pound Enemy Shipping

Typhoon bombers blasted enemy shipping in a Dutch estuary this morning destroying two small motor ships, a tug and two barges and damaging other small vessels, the Air Ministry announced.

Later other Typhoons attacked an airfield at Mardyck, six miles southwest of Dunkerque. One British craft is missing.

In addition to the three fighters shot down by the Marauders, four others were damaged, a subsequent report said.

PEACE APPEAL IS SOUNDED BY RADIO IN ROME

Broadcast Tells Of Defeats — Algiers Hears Fleet Has Left Taranto

LEWIS MAWKINS

[By the Associated Press]

London, Sept. 5—While Allied troops bit deeper into the mainland of Italy, the Italians continued their indirect peace pleas today in a Rome radio broadcast which said the "sooner we have an honorable peace the better."

This English language broadcast, heard by the Ministry of Information, came from a closely controlled station in the Italian capital.

The Algiers radio broadcast a report, unconfirmed from any other source, that the Italian fleet had abandoned its Taranto base presumably to withdraw into the Adriatic—a move which would not surprise British navy men since the base lies only about 175 miles from the present fighting front.

Communiques Differ

The Italian communique was less optimistic in tone than that portion of the German communique devoted to the fighting on the Calabrian front. The latter, broadcast by the Berlin radio said in part:

"British forces which landed on the Calabrian peninsula could widen their bridgehead yesterday only very little although they were opposed by only weak German and Italian forces."

The Italian communique declared that the Allied forces "supported by large air formations intensified the flow of troops and armored units" and penetrated further inland, occuying several populated places.

Withdraw From Bagnara

"Between Palmi and Bagnara the defending forces, after having thrown the first British contingent back into the sea, had to withdraw from Bagnara," the Italian communique continued.

"Violent fighting is in progress in the area to the east of Bagnara and on the slopes of the Aspromonte mountains."

Both communiques claimed that an Allied cruiser was badly hit by bombs and that attacks were made on Allied landing forces.

According to the latest information here the Italians had two battleships of the old but modernized Cavour class at Taranto along with one or two cruisers and a handful of destroyers.

May Have Gone To Trieste

If this force left Taranto it either would have to make a bold run around Sicily to join with the bulk of the Italian fleet on the west coast or withdraw into the Adriatic.

British navy men would not be surprised to find that the ships had sailed all the way to Trieste.

After acknowledging the need for swift peace, the Rome broadcast gave this picture of the Italian war outlook:

"We realize, however, that no street demonstrations will bring it (peace) any nearer.

Complains Of Supply Lack

"Meanwhile, the enemy, supported by huge quantities of material and the largest air umbrella ever seen, is advancing on our mainland.

"Our soldiers in Calabria are fighting without pause, but they have not adequate means at their disposal.

"They are far from their supply bases. Such lines of communications as do exist are being continually broken and often rendered useless by the enemy.

"We are watching what is happening in Calabria with deep grief."

Britons Slip Into Greece

SEP 6 1943

ERNEST AGNEW

[By the Associated Press]

London, Monday, Sept. 6—In one of the most audacious acts of the war, British and Greek staff officers from Cairo have traveled hundreds of miles through enemy-held territory for a secret rendezvous at Balkan headquarters of Greek guerrillas.

There, it was disclosed today, they conferred with 600 leaders representing more than 50,000 Greek patriots and effected a unified command for an underground fight against the Axis.

The conference established a long-term policy to fit in with the Allied Middle East Command's plans for intensification of sabotage in the Axis-occupied Balkan country.

Arms Shipments Planned

According to reports reaching here, they also perfected methods to assure the guerrillas arms and other equipment.

The conference lasted three days and then the staff officers returned to Cairo by the same secret route used for entry.

Germany has talked of British planes using secret airfields in Greece and of submarine contacts along various parts of the coast. Supplies, including arms, technical equipment, radios, medicine and some food, reportedly have been landed.

British Still In Greece

Some British, Australian and New Zealand soldiers are fighting with the guerrillas in the Balkans, it is reported here. Left behind when Greece was overrun in April, 1941, they took to the mountains and linked up with the native patriots. Some still are wearing the remnants of their old uniforms.

Allied governments have estimated that there are about 150,000 guerrillas throughout the Balkans now actively fighting the Axis and have said that at least twice that number would join when and if they are equipped with arms.

Pravelic Reported Out

Heightened Axis anxieties about the Balkans—born of fears of imminent Allied landings—were shown in a Tass dispatch, datelined Geneva. It reported the virtual ouster of Dr. Ante Pavelic, Hitler's Croatian puppet, and the German appointment of Nicola Mandic as chairman of the Council of Ministers of Croatia. The Croatian war ministers also were reported removed.

The chairmanship of the Council of Ministers, Tass said, is a new post. Mandic was a one-time German official under the Hapsburgs as Vice Governor of Bosnia.

Gen. Fredrich Navratil was appointed new war minister, Tass reported.

The Berlin broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said a few raiders from one vessel reached the shore but fled, discarding helmets, hand grenades and rifle ammunition, when German Coast Guard units discovered them and opened fire.

Light British coastal forces fought a sharp battle with a large group of armed enemy minesweepers and heavily-armed patrol vessels off the French coast early today, scoring a torpedo hit on one enemy patrol ship and severely damaging two more, the Admiralty announced.

The minesweepers first were engaged in an intermittent, two-hour battle with the British vessels making numerous attacks "against strong and determined defense," and then the enemy patrol vessels rushed up in reinforcement. The British attacked them, hitting three.

All the British ships returned safely "having suffered only slight casualties," the Admiralty added.

The German Sunday communique said Nazi naval patrol forces had sunk four British motor torpedo boats and fired a fifth off the French channel coast Saturday night.

Berlin's communique made no mention of Ushant island.

Ushant—the French call it Quessant—is only 10 miles off the northwestern tip of France and 25 airline miles from Brest. It is about a mile wide and four miles long.

Commando Thrust at French Isle Revealed by German Radio

British Coastal Forces, Meanwhile, Attack Nazi Patrol Vessels.

LONDON, Sept. 5 — (AP) The German radio asserted today without Allied confirmation that British Commandos had attempted a landing Friday night on the tiny island of Ushant, just off the westernmost point on the Atlantic coast of France.

Berlin declared the attack was beaten off after a single vessel had reached the beach.

British Combined Operations headquarters and other officials declined to confirm or deny the reported action, but Commando units carry out many reconnaissance thrusts which never are announced in London.

A major naval engagement between the French and the British occurred off the island in 1778. It is in the area used as a base by the American naval commander John Paul Jones in his raiding operations against the British coast.

Rocky and dangerous to the mariner, it formerly was inhabited only by lighthouse keepers and fishermen but the Germans are believed to have converted it into a heavily defended strong point among the island stepping stones to the French coast.

BOMBER DERBY POPULAR

LONDON, Sept. 5.—(AP) Some of London's famous pubs are reported operating sweepstakes—on the sly—on the number of bombers lost in daily air raids over Europe and the total enemy fight shot down.

30.24 - 8077

30.24 - 8077

When the time for B.B.C. newscasts rolls around everybody stops talking and takes a firmer grip on his beer mug. The radio is turned on full blast and there's not a murmur as the communiques are read. Then every one tries to ask at once, "who won the money?"

The winner buys drinks all around.

REPORT BUDAPEST ON EDGE

Swiss Assert Hungarian Capital Seeks Open-City Status

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Morocco radio, in a broadcast recorded here, quoted Swiss sources as saying that the demilitarization of Budapest, the Hungarian capital, was in full swing, with Hungarians determined to do all possible to make it an open city.

LOST FLIER PRAISED BY SHUTTLE-BOMBERS

Trying to Quench Fire, He Fell From Flying Fortress

CLADWIN HILL

A UNITED STATES BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 5 (AP)—Men who flew on the Eighth United States Air Force's shuttle-bombing raid on Germany on Aug. 17 gave high praise today to Flight Officer Richard Snyder of Kansas City, Mo.—one of the boys who never got to North Africa. He was co-pilot on a Flying Fortress piloted by Lieut. Curtis Biddick of Davis, Calif.

"The last the other fliers saw of the Fortress a large hole had been blown in the fuselage just under the co-pilot's window during a heavy attack by German fighters before they reached the target at Regensburg, Germany. Flames were pouring out of the hole," said Maj. William Veal of New Rochelle, N. Y., co-pilot of another Fortress.

"There seemed to be fire all over the inside of the ship—everywhere you could see, in the nose, cockpit and turret, there were flames."

When fellow fliers last saw him as they neared the Brenner Pass Snyder was leaning out the window trying to beat out the flames. He lost his grip and fell out. He had no parachute on, they said, and they agreed that he must have been killed. His ship was not seen after that.

Lieutenant Biddick was known as a "hard luck" pilot, but was exceptionally expert and courageous. On a recent raid he brought his ship back with 1,700 shell and bullet holes in it and two wounded men aboard. He and Snyder finished the raid on Trondheim, Norway, on July 24 with their oxygen supply system knocked out. They flew by passing an emergency bottle back and forth between them.

Hospital Train Carries 200 Middle East Wounded

ROBERT STURDEVANT

AN ENGLISH PORT, Monday, Sept. 6—(AP) The first American ambulance train in the European theater was used for the first time recently when it transported to military hospitals 200 American sick and wounded who had been brought from the Middle East.

A brightly-painted British hospital ship edged into this port early one morning after an uneventful voyage and within a few hours efficient U. S. medical corpsmen had disembarked the casualties to the waiting 14-coach, khaki-painted train built in British railway shops.

The Americans, most of whom were walking cases who had spent months in hospitals with varying sicknesses, were pleased with the train's comfortable accommodations including compartments for sitting cases, six ward cars for stretcher cases and an operating room.

As a result of careful study of rails, clearance, grades, curves and tunnels on the continent, the train could be used to evacuate wounded from a Western European front.

Stalin Acts To Heal Breach With Church

Meets Greek Orthodox Bishops, Approves Congress To Elect Patriarch And Form Holy Synod

SEP 6 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Moscow, Sept. 5—The Soviet state, after a twenty-five-year separation, has advanced reconciliation with the old Greek Orthodox Church by approving its call for a congress to elect a Patriarch and organize a Holy Synod.

The move was announced in an official statement after a meeting of Premier Stalin, Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Foreign Commissar, and the three metropolitans (bishops) of Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev at the Kremlin last night.

Stalin was described as sympathetic toward the congress, which will be the first since 1925, when the church discussed a split with the "new" church headed by Metropolitan Alexander Vidensky. The latter was not represented at last night's meeting.

Text Of Announcement

The text of the announcement, which was printed on the front pages of all Moscow newspapers under a two-column heading, said:

"September 4 the chairman of the Council of the People's Commissars of the USSR, Comrade J. V. Stalin, received acting Patriarch Metropolitan Sergei, Leningrad Metropolitan Alexei and the Metropolitan of the Ukraine, Kiev and Galicia, Nikolai.

"During the reception Metropolitan Sergei informed the chairman of the Council of the People's Commissars that leading circles of the Greek Orthodox Church intend to hold a congress of bishops in the very near future

Stalin

"The head of the Government, Comrade J. V. Stalin, expressed his sympathy with this decision and said the Government would not hinder this in any way.

"The vice-chairman of the Council of the People's Commissars, Comrade V. M. Molotov, was present at the reception."

The announcement represented no formal change in the position of the Soviet State Constitution, which provides freedom for both the practice of religion and the dissemination of anti-religious propaganda. It is important, however, as evidence of a rapprochement of the Soviet state with the Orthodox Church.

Truce Confirmed

The wartime truce between the Church and state was thus confirmed, following numerous indications of a reconciliation. S. A. Lozovsky, Soviet spokesman, told a press conference that freedom of religion existed, citing provisions in the Constitution of 1936.

Authorization for the Orthodox congress meant that the church would now be given full facilities to carry on its work. The news was received joyfully by congregations this morning.

Local Soviet authorities were reported assisting in the restoration of churches destroyed by the Germans

Russians Wait To See Effect Of Italy Drive

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

[Associated Press Correspondent]

With the Red Army on the Steppe Front, Sept. 5—Soldiers of the Red army, crashing forward on the heels of the retreating Germans along a 600-mile front, attribute their clean-cut victory to their own power and not to Allied operations in the West.

When he heard the news of the Allied landing in Italy, a Red army man asked me:

"Is it a land front?"

They preferred to wait and see how much strength the Italian invasion would draw from the German armies along the Soviet front before deciding whether this was the Russian idea of a second front.

Spain Puts In Her Bid For Peace-Table Seat

Madrid, Sept. 5 (AP)—Through the medium of the officially influential weekly newspaper El Espanol, Spain put in her bid today for a share in the formation of the basis for world peace.

In a sense, El Espanol's editorial was another peace offensive proposal.

Both belligerent groups, said the editorial, are engaged in a search for the best road to peace to follow after the war, "a road which would not mean the defeat of all, brought about by the madness of military defeat or by the invasion of infra-historic forces of barbarism—concretely, of communism."

El Espanol continued that, "in war plans, only the belligerents may count. But in plans of peace peoples who were not dragged into the struggle and who guard their attitude of moral reserve and international harmony count also in an exceptional way."

What Surprised Italy: Place Of Invasion

Madrid, Sept. 5 (AP)—Both Berlin and Rome propagandists, who had said that they were not surprised by the invasion of Calabria, admitting today that the Allies had gained a surprise after all by doing something which was "elemental."

"What surprised the Italian people," said the Rome correspondent of the Madrid newspaper Ya, "was the fact that the landings were made more than 700 kilometers away and not much closer to Rome, the capital of Italy and the midpoint on its coast than Sicily."

U. S., Nazi Planes Fall; Flowers Put On Former

Madrid, Sept. 5 (AP)—Two fighter planes, one American and the other German, fell in flames during a recent Allied raid upon industrial targets in Albert, in northeast France, and plunged side by side into a field, a dispatch to Madrid said today. Both pilots were killed, it said, and added:

At dawn the next morning the Germans were chagrined to see the American plane covered with a red, white and blue field of flowers in the forms of the Stars and Stripes. So intricate was the design that it must have taken many persons hours to arrange.

On the German plane there was not

SPAIN OFFERS BID FOR ROLE IN DRAFT OF PEACE BASIS

Drive to Rid World of Communism Urged in Madrid Journal.

SEP 6 1943

MADRID, Sept. 5—(AP) Through the medium of the officially influential weekly newspaper El Espanol, Spain put in her bid today for a share in the formation of the basis for world peace.

In a sense, El Espanol's editorial was another peace offensive proposal, although its trend differed from previous Spanish editorials and statements of official character in that it did not specifically say that the Allies should listen to peace proposals now.

Through it, however, ran the familiar argument—that both sides are concerned about the post-war peace, and both sides want the best possible world organization after the war, and both desire the elimination of "barbarism," which to El Espanol is synonymous with Communism.

Parallels Nazi Comment

Such an argument paralleled Reich press spokesman Sundermann's statement Sept. 3, that Germany had no serious quarrel with the United States, Britain and France, and leaving it understood that Germany would welcome peace talks with the three and also their assistance in Germany's war against Russia.

Both belligerent groups, said the editorial, are engaged in a search for the best road to peace to follow after the war, "a road which would not mean the defeat of all, brought about by the madness of military edefat or by the invasion of infra-historic froces of barbarism—concretely, of Communism."

El Espanol continued that, "in war plans, only the belligerents may count. But in plans of peace peoples who were not dragged into the struggle and who guard their attitude of morale reserve and international harmony count also in an exceptional way."

NO MAJOR DEFENSE OF CALABRIA PLANNED

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 5 — (AP) Germany has no large troop contingents in southern Italy and will not try to make a major stand in Calabria, the Berlin correspondent of Stockholm's Tidningen reported today.

He corroborated previous indications that the Nazi military chieftains were delaying employment of their full defensive strength until the pattern of the Allied invasion became clearer.

Until the main forces meet in battle the Germans will use an "elastic defense," a Nazi military commentator asserted in a press conference for foreign correspondents.

He was quoted by the Dagens Nyheter reporter as saying that the terrain on the Italian "toe" was causing the British Eighth army more difficulty than it experienced in Sicily.

NAZIS FAIL TO HALT DANISH SABOTAGE

Power Station, German Supply Train Among Targets of Hostile Public.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 5 — (AP) Germany, with Denmark under Nazi military dictatorship for a week, has failed to halt sabotage against German war production, communication and transport facilities, the Free Danish Press bureau reported today.

Nazi General Hermann von Hannecken took over the Danish government last Sunday in an effort to put an end to sabotage and violent resistance to German occupation.

During the past three days saboteurs have damaged a train carrying German supplies, the Roskilde power station, Frederiksberg telephone conduits and channel bridge. The Germans relaxed the martial law curfew on Friday but rescinded the action because of the continuation of the sabotage.

The Danes expect the Germans to continue efforts this week to establish a government of Danes in order to relieve the Nazis of all except control over police and justice matters.

Elaborate Rites Held in Sofia For King Boris

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

King Boris III of Bulgaria was buried Sunday after elaborate funeral services in Alexander Nevsky cathedral in Sofia attended by high German officials and members of the Royal family, a German broadcast said.

The Germans supplied a guard of honor and a naval band, and detachments of other Axis troops stood guard as the body of the monarch was taken on a gun carriage to the railway station for transportation to the monastery at St. Ivan Rilski in the Rila mountains for burial, said the broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press.

Heading foreign delegations were Admiral Erich Raeder, admiral inspector of the German navy; Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, Tsistant Secretary of State in the Foreign Office Adolf von Steengracht, the Duke of Bergame representing the Italian king, and Japanese Minister Yamadschi representing Japan and Manchukuo.

The broadcast said 110 priests participated in the ceremonies.

King Boris, 49, died Aug. 28 and his six-year-old son succeeded him as King Simeon II.

REPORTER LANDS BEHIND FOE'S LINE

SEP 6 1943

American Goes Ashore in Italy to Take Off Commandos Who Captured 200

GIRL AMONG PRISONERS

British Raiders Neutralized Four Towns and Fought Many Skirmishes

By PAUL KERN LEE
Associated Press Correspondent

BEHIND THE ENEMY LINES, in Italy, Sept. 4 (Delayed)—With a party of sailors, I have just come ashore on the southern tip of Italy with a motor launch from the British destroyer Quail to take off six British Commandos and some of their many Italian prisoners.

Even though this landing (at the time) is behind the battle front some three to four miles, "rescue" is not the most proper word. For the Commandos, in a few days behind the lines, have destroyed all opposition in at least four towns, taken an embarrassingly large number of prisoners and generally played hob with enemy communications.

But they are having a thin time for food and the commanding officer, Maj. Peter Young of Cobham, Surrey, wants to report. The Quail will take them to Sicily.

After having covered yesterday's smoothly operating invasion of Italy and gone clear through the Strait of Messina for a look around, the Quail spent the night quietly patroling off the southwest tip of Italy. Today she was directed to patrol the south coast far east of Cape Spartivento to see what would happen.

She patrolled clear up to the entrance of the Gulf of Squillace, observing the smashed trains and unroofed buildings along the mountainous coast, where the only signs of life were an occasional parked tank, a wrecked enemy aircraft and periodic explosions inland.

Man Waves From Farm

On the way back from one of these sweeps, we were about a mile and a half off shore, opposite the mouth of a dry river near a small village, when our commanding officer, Lieut. Commdr. R. F. Jenks of London, noticed someone waving from a farmhouse. We were so used to Italians waving white flags that this was not unusual, but the captian noted that this fellow seemed to be waving purposefully and he ordered the signals yeoman:

"See if that man knows semaphore."

The man ashore did. With crude flags he waved:

"Five of us have cleared this place. Two hundred disarmed Italians in rail tunnel down road want surrender. Also can you send boat?"

"I don't want 200 Italians aboard," our captain said. He signaled: "Why do you want a boat?"

The man ashore replied: "We have been here over week and wish report."

We still did not know the identity of the signaler, but Commander Jenks, looking at his watch, which showed 3:30 P. M., said: "It's probably British commandos. Anyhow, it's teatime, so let's bring them off for a cup."

So the Quail stopped off the enemy shore and lowered a boat manned by eleven tin-hatted seamen with pistols and Lewis guns. The boat was under the command of Sub-Lieut. Geoffrey Gillott of Hertfordshire, with myself as a passenger.

As we arrived at the beach a score of helmeted Italian soldiers with rifles and packs rushed down to the water's edge. Alert to the possibility of a trap, Lieutenant Gillott had the gun trained against them, but at that instant five weary men dressed in khaki and wearing green Commando bérets sauntered down from the bushes.

2 Britons Line Up Italians

Two of them herded the Italians into a single line, while two others knelt behind the sand dunes, covering the road just behind the beach with automatic rifles. The fifth, Major Young, came to greet us.

Major Young said that his group had come ashore Saturday night to spy out the land, take prisoners and do what damage it could. It was joined by a small group that had landed Friday night. Their boat was wrecked on the beach by German dive-bombers and the Commandos split up into small groups to try to do as much damage as possible and get off the best way they could later.

While we were talking another trooper crept from the brush far down the road and joined us. He had become lost from the rest of his group in the hills.

The Commandos said that they had driven out or captured all the enemy in four small towns, ambushed and wrecked several Italian staff cars and fought dozens of skirmishes with some fifty Germans and more than 100 tough Italian parachute troops, who came into the district in armored cars to try to clean out the Commandos.

"They were the only really good Italian troops we met, and they really are good," one trooper said. "They chased us a couple of miles, but we finally dodged them in the hills."

They said that their only food had been bread and cheese obtained from the friendly Italian peasantry. They were extremely bitter at the Italian parachute troops, who had looted and wrecked the home of an aged Italian widow and her daughter who had fed the Commandos three nights before.

As we talked, one trooper destroyed an ammunition cache near a farmhouse, making considerable noise.

The Major wanted to bring with him sixteen selected prisoners, but with his party we can bring only seven. Further complications arose when the single officer of the lot, a first lieutenant of Parma, a 32-year-old veteran of Spain and Ethiopia and a two-time winner of the Croze di Guerra, insisted on bringing his girl friend. She was a cute but unwashed little brunette, a Red Cross nurse in army shorts who had been assigned to his outfit.

Lieutenant Gillott does not think much of the idea, but the Commandos all said: "Bring her along; she knows how to look out for herself and is a good sport. She volunteered to give us all shaves this morning." So we are going to take her.

She identified herself as Rosaria Cotroneo, 22 years old, and said that she had served at Tripoli and Tobruk for a year before she was captured at Tripoli last year and repatriated five months ago. The girl said that she had an uncle and aunt in America, but did not know in what city they lived.

The Commandos chimed in to say that virtually every Italian that they had met had claimed relatives in the United States. All had volubly expressed their disappointment that American troops had not landed instead of the British and Canadians.

The Italian troops are busy handing their rifles into our boat and most of them are trying to climb in with them, while the seamen order them off. Those not selected to go with us are ordered by the major to go up the road to the west, where we can hear occasional firing, and surrender to the first British party that they meet.

It is an unforgettable sight, those dejected men dragging back up the beach, rejected by their captors and about to break into tears over it.

Lone Plane Bombs Allies During Invasion of Italy

War Correspondent Gives Eyewitness Account of Messina Strait Crossing.

By DANIEL DE LUCE
(Associated Press War Correspondent Representing the Combined American Press)

WITH THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY IN ITALY, Sept. 4—(Delayed)—(AP) Astoundingly weak defenses on the foot of Italy permitted British Eighth army scouts to thrust beyond the invasion bridgehead on Messina strait today without encountering more than stray machine-gun fire or a few badly aimed shells.

The British stopped shelling the cape yesterday when civilians waved white flags from the shore.

The approach along the north coast to Scilla, fabled habitat of was an army lieutenant. This lieutenant, who is of Italian extraction, told me:

"I have waited for this moment a long time. I found out in Sicily the sort of job we can do and I want to get down to doing it in Italy."

Here as in Sicily it looks as if our task will be feeding, housing, health and administration.

These are gentle people and they respond at once to the AMG formula of firm administration, coupled with generous assistance.

able to get his motor transport into Italy well ahead of schedule nevertheless.

Two German prisoners were captured in all operations in Italy yesterday.

Three German graves were found in Reggio Calabria with crosses dated Sept. 1, 1943. They apparently were killed by an artillery barrage from across the strait or by an air raid.

Officially it is stated that "services are normal" in this war-wrecked city. That will be good news to the inhabitants, many of whom are still out in the countryside. There is water at community water fountains, but hardly one store has opened. A great majority of the houses are badly damaged.

Even this early, censorship may permit general observations on the weaknesses of the enemy revealed by the invasion of Italy.

Nazi Air Force Weak

The German Air force is a feeble shadow of itself, incapable of defending the extremities of the continent because of the need to keep fighters for the defense of inland centers.

The Germans are very short of bombers for any form of counter-offensive in the air.

The Italians are fighting even less well in Italy than in Sicily. The vast majority are happy to surrender without resistance.

Italian civilians are anxious to ingratiate themselves with the Allies and the police put themselves immediately at the disposition of Allied military commanders.

The tremendous artillery barrage, big naval support and heavy assault force sent across the strait yesterday by Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery was like an elephant stepping on a gnat.

One Battalion Sufficient

One battalion might have done the job of seizing the coast from San Giovanni to Reggio Calabria, but the gigantic softening up process did save Allied lives and must have impressed the retiring Axis divisions.

(The remainder of this dispatch was dated Sept. 3, and sent from Reggio Calabria in Italy).

Hundreds of Italian soldiers who surrendered without a fight marched smilingly toward Sicily today as the vanguard of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British Eighth army rushed onward in pursuit of demolition gangs of retreating Axis forces.

Today's invasion of the European mainland was a growing omen of doom for Hitler's Reich and was in all important phases a ridiculously easy walkover.

The landing in Italy was literally easier and safer than some of the tough exercises which the Canadian and British troops underwent in the long months of training in the United Kingdom. It was carried out with far less casualties than the first day of the Sicilian campaign.

The first Allied sappers got ashore at 4:30 a.m. and the bulk of the assault troops landed at 5 a.m. or later.

Reggio Calabria, the picturesque modern seaside metropolis of Calabria province, was taken at 9 a.m. with hardly a shot fired.

I can testify that an invasion is a cinch when you control the sea and air.

Rode Atop Ammunition

I hitch-hiked from Sicily to Italy this morning in an American-made "duck," thanks to the kindness of Capt. Frank Speir of West Hampton Beach, Long Island, N. Y., who waved me regally from a beach below Messina to a seat atop ammunition cases in one of the Eighth army's "amphibious trucks."

"I was over to Italy about 5 a.m. and I'm going over again before noon," he said. "Fancy two trips to Italy between breakfast and lunch."

Captian Speir, an engineer in the Allied Amphibious command, obviously marvelled himself at the seagoing efficiency of the Detroit-manufactured "ducks" which rolled in unbroken columns from a Sicilian highway into the wind-crinkled surf, and churned off in lines miles long toward the European shore.

"The tall long six-wheeled boat trucks carry about four tons of cargo, including jeeps, and average six knots in a moderate sea," he explained.

Captain Speir, wearing a floppy canvas hat, khaki shorts and tennis shoes, climbed aboard another "duck" and, with a Royal Navy motor-boat in the lead like a mother goose, my craft started me on the quickest and pleasantest voyage I ever made to Europe.

A Royal Navy non-com directed operations by a public address system ashore until we got out of earshot, our propeller churning white froth and the sun covering the blue strait with dancing lights.

Battle Evidences

Remember, this is only four hours after the invasion began. The only evidences of armed action were American and British guns firing at long range across the channel from Sicily. Far to the south heavy British warships were pummelling a few Italian targets, but this action on the rim of the horizon seem-

AMG Unit Goes Right Along As 8th Army Invades Italy

SEP 6

By S. L. SOLON
[British War Correspondent]

With the British Eighth Army in Italy, Sept. 3 (A. P., Delayed)—Officials of the Allied Military Government for Occupied Territories came in with the landing this morning.

Among the first signs erected in the little village of Gallico was the "AMG" sign.

This means there will no longer be a gap between the capture of a town and its administration under the Allied military government.

The first AMG official to land

irresistable sirens, was defended at last reports by little more than one machine-gun which Eighth army veterans were capable of dealing with in short order.

No Mines, Blasted Bridges

As yet the Eighth army has encountered no enemy demolitions of highway bridges and other vital facilities, nor has the enemy laid mines to cover his retreat.

The British movement across the straits was carried out so swiftly and untroubled by more than a flicker or two of enemy air action that this correspondent, who was left out of the assault party, was ed unreal.

1943

30.24-8079

Despite continual swells our "duck" shipped no water and the skipper displayed confidence akin to that of Columbus.

The returning "duck" skippers shouted the good news that not only Reggio but San Giovanni were already captured.

In less than two hours we pulled in beside a big landing ship and our truck hurried up wire matting on the Italian sand just on the outskirts of Reggio Calabria.

The dusty faces of Italian prisoners broke into wide grins and they made the "V" sign as they passed me.

In a requisitioned seaside farmhouse I visited a field dressing station where the only battle casualty was a British Tommy who had accidentally shot himself in the foot.

"Only two enemy shells are reported to have landed on this beach during our first assault," said a medical lieutenant. "I understand there are a couple of dead in this area, but I haven't seen them. So far as I know our troops here didn't lose a man."

Nazi Bomber Dives

A major said he was just about to move inland in order to keep up with the swift progress. The words were hardly out of his mouth when the scream fo a diving plane and fire or ground batteries made all the staff hit dirt.

I got a mouthful of Italian dust and covered my helmetless head with hands as two of the German plane's three bombs bracketed me within 50 yards.

One bomb missed a landing ship. A second raised a choking cloud of smoke and powder fumes in the grove. A third set the house beside the railroad tracks on fire. It's my luck — and I'm not crabbing about it—to get caught in the middle of the only enemy air raid all day on the invasion forces in Italy.

The German Air force never looked weaker than in that sortie by a single fighter-bomber when lush targets of hundreds of surface craft and thousands of motor vehicles are presented from dawn to dark along Messina strait.

I saw only one German prisoner —a service corps veteran in his late twenties. He apparently deserted his company and had hid in a barn until the Eighth army arrived. Still shaken by the night barrage of British and American guns from across the channel he nearly fainted in the lemon grove during the bombing.

Reggio Calabria, once the proud center of tourist seaside gayety and archeology in this ancient civilized region, is nearly a dead city. It is as devastated as Catania and Messina were in Sicily. It is more bomb-battered than any city I saw in the Polish or Greek campaigns.

Food Stores Looted

Walking its debris-littered streets for two hours you meet perhaps a total of two dozen civilians, mostly aged folks in shabby clothes with gaunt faces furtively carrying small sacks of wormy foodstuffs looted from deserted stores.

In the main square hundreds of tired infantry catch a brief rest under the shade of trees, their khaki uniforms sodden with perspiration.

Virtually every building in the formerly thriving city sags and bears scars of Allied explosives. The big opera house has a hole in the roof.

Along the promenade by the sea each fashionable hotel is a windowless skeleton and the adjoining electric railway is a shambles of twisted tracks and torn lines.

Total air war, as copied from the Axis and practiced by the Allies kills the life of an enemy city almost quicker than poison.

A handful of black-clad policemen still armed with revolvers collected in front of the waterfront municipal office where an AMG (Allied Military Government) representive would undoubtedly take charge within a few hours.

Civilians Scattered Far

The police said American and British air raids had destroyed the communications, industry and commerce of Reggio Calabria. They said that 50,000 civilians who fled the city's smashed homes are now scattered throughout the countryside.

Three Allied airmen reported hospitalized in the city since a raid seven weeks ago were in the city when it fell. Afoot I tried to find them from descriptions given by troops, but they already had commandeered an Italian car and driven towards the stretch of landing beaches.

The troops differed whether the airmen were British or Americans, some insisting they were a Fortress crew. It was tantalizing to have to drop a story clue temporarily and start hitchhiking back to Sicily because the Eighth army has not yet arranged for this correspondent—the only American reporter in this sector—to get a car and conducting officer across Italy to follow front-line skirmishes. It is impossible to dignify them by the name of battles—at least thus far.

Italian Prisoners Skylark

As I hiked to the nearest reembarkation point the latest batch of 350 skylarking Italian prisoners trudged behind me, led by one Canadian private.

A husky leading seaman, Don Arney of Prince Rupert, British Columbia, was just getting ready to shove off in his rusty, hard-working landing craft when I hailed him with the usual "going my way"

He and his number two crewman, young Norman Bowen, Ottawa, Ont., both veterans of the North African and Sicilian invasions, said that today's operations were unbelievably quiet.

It only took about one hour to return to Sicily over waters now being swept clean of enemy mines by British trawlers.

"Sorry we can't take you to Rome just yet," said Arney. "I've always wanted to do a little boating on the Tiber."

ITALY'S RAIL LINES ARE SAID TO BE IN RUINS

Allied Headquarters Report System Now Is Valueless To Germans

NORGAARD

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 5—Much of Italy's railway system lies in ruins and has been made valueless to the Germans for defense of southern or central Italy, Allied reconnaissance reports said today, as huge air fleets maintained heavy attacks in the Naples and southern areas.

"The damage done to the Italian communications system in the last fortnight by our strategic bombers has been even more devastating than previously supposed," a headquarters announcement said, reporting on wreckage extending from Bolzano and Trento below the vital Brenner Pass to Pisa and the Naples area.

Italian Counter-Stroke Foiled

Spitfires meanwhile broke up the first large attempt by Italian planes yesterday to strike a counter-blow by air against the Allied invasion, shooting down eight of twenty fighter bombers that came southwest down the coast. Many more were damaged.

The Italians, mostly Macchis, jettisoned their bombs and fled with the Spitfires pursuing in a battle "among the ravines and valleys and very close to the ground," one British pilot said. One Spitfire was lost.

Elsewhere over the invasion area there was only the weakest kind of air opposition and little Axis ground movement.

Naples Area Hammered

United States Flying Fortresses teamed up with long-range Lightnings in widespread blows against airfields, road and railway vehicles in the Naples area Saturday. RAF and RCAF Wellingtons continued the attacks last night.

The Fortresses hit Terracina, sixty miles northwest of Naples, in a "small raid" and the Lightnings attacked positions and vehicles aground at Grazzanise airfield north of Naples, and destroyed seven motor vehicles, several training planes, power lines and a power station in swift stabs at near-by Sessa Arunca. They also attacked two trains near Cancello northeast of Naples.

The night-flying Wellingtons concentrated on Grazzanise airfield, bombing the dispersal areas. Crewmen reported one explosion "more violent than any we have ever seen in Sicily or Tunisia."

Taranto Airdrome Bombed

RAF Liberators and Halifaxes from the Middle East bombed Grottaglie airdrome near Taranto Friday night, but poor visibility obscured results. One plane was lost in this and other operations, Cairo announced.

In all yesterday, twelve enemy planes were destroyed during twenty-four hours of operations that cost six North African airforce ships.

United States Invader dive-bombers ranging over the toe of Italy hit all available targets, bombing a road junction and highway bridge and attacking sixteen trucks.

RAF Baltimores made three attacks against enemy gun positions, meeting neither ground fire nor enemy aircraft, and Australian Kittyhawks struck road targets and positions ahead of advancing Allied troops.

Italy Admits Heavy Damage

[The Italian communique acknowleged "very heavy damage and many casualties" at Terracina, saying the populace was machine-gunned.

[A Rome broadcast said the Allies lost 150 airplanes over Italy from August 25 to September 21.

Summarizing reconnaissance reports of the heavy damage to Italian railroads, headquarters gave this account:

At the rail center of Bolzano, thirty miles south of Brenner Pass, a direct hit was scored on a railway bridge over the Isargo river, cutting the tracks to Trento, another important junction on the same line twenty-five miles farther south, and splitting the bridge. Another line was cut by three hits, while four hits were scored on one end of the freight yards.

Viaduct Over Railway Blocked

"At Trento, both roads and railway lines were badly hit" with a concrete road bridge over the Adige river destroyed and a highway viaduct over the main railway blocked by two hits.

"The Verona-Bolzano main lines also were blocked at the junction by four craters" with severe damage to buildings, the station, and freight yards.

The rolling stock repair depot was destroyed at Pisa, main west coast line junction for Florence to the east and Rome to the south and a key center linking industries of northern and southern Italy.

Lines to Florence and the ports of Leghorn, La Spezia and Marina di Pisa all were blocked, freight yards received twenty-five hits, and tracks, rolling stock, a locomotive shed, and roundhouse and the main station were destroyed or badly damaged. A bank of the canal alongside the depot was wrecked in twenty places, and many barges were sunk.

Rail Service Restored in Sicily Quickly

NORGAARD

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 5 — (AP) Daring American and British railway men, moving in on the heels of the assault troops, began operating Sicilian railroads the third day after the initial landings on that island and now operate 421 miles of track there, Brig. Gen. Carl R. Gray, Jr., director general of the Military Railway service, announced today.

General Gray, whose home is in St. Paul, Minn., also was in transportation work in the last war and in civil life was executive vice president of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railroad before returning to active duty as commander of the Military Railway service in May, 1942.

Railroad prizes captured in Sicily included 300 locomotives, 3,500 cars of various kinds and 1,373 miles of standard and narrow gauge tracks. More than 66 per cent of the locomotives were reported in good running order and most of the cars also were in good shape.

The booty included a large number of new German cars which were ferried across from the mainland for defense purposes and had to be abandoned after Allied bombers destroyed the Messina ferry facilities.

SIX ARMY RAILMEN IN SICILY ARE CITED

Receive Soldier's Medal for Switching Cars Away From Burning Ammunition Train

BRAVED EXPLODING SHELLS

One Is Brooklyn Private—Gen. Gray Reports Efficient Use of Island's Lines

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 5 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Carl R. Gray Jr., director general of the Military Railway Service, returning from an inspection tour of Sicilian transportation facilities, reported today the award of the soldier's medal to three officers and three enlisted men of the service for heroism in facing exploding high caliber ammunition to twitch cars away from a burning trainload of shells and gasoline after a collision.

The citation credited them with saving many lives as well as keeping damage to a minimum.

Those decorated were Major Roy P. Moss of the Texas & Pacific Railway, Fort Worth; Major Charles C. Butler of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway, Lakeland, Fla.; Lieut. Marvin L. Horton of Atlantic Coast Line, Rocky Mount, N. C.; Sgt. Tony W. Lonero of the Big Four Railroad, Cleveland; Corp. Joseph S. Canzoneri of the Southern Pacific, Los Angeles, and Pvt. James G. Healey of Brooklyn, who is a member of a railroad battalion's medical detachment.

Four hundred tons of military supplies were moved by rail in Sicily on the third day after the invasion began.

This was accomplished by American railroad troops under Lieut. Col. Fred W. Okie of Somerset, Ky., who won the legion of merit award for exploits under combat conditions in Tunisia last winter, and British soldier railroaders. Two days later that tonnage was doubled.

Yanks Raid East Indies

[By the Associated Press]

New Delhi, Sept. 5—American Liberator bombers, winging almost 1,000 miles into the Indian Ocean, have opened a new western aerial offensive against the approaches to the Japanese-occupied, rubber-rich, Netherlands East Indies, a Tenth United States Air Force headquarters communique disclosed today.

The raid, carried out Friday without loss against military installations on Car Nicobar Island, 200 miles northwest of Sumatra, was the first Allied blow from the west against the westernmost outposts of Japan's conquests since the East Indies fell to the invaders early in 1942.

Calls Result Excellent

The number of the big, four-engined craft participating in the 2,000-mile raid was not specified, but the communique said that "excellent results were reported." Direct hits were scored on docks and installations and near hits on a one-hundred-foot barge.

Car Nicobar is one of the principal islands in the Nicobar group, which consists of some nineteen fertile isles separating the Bay of Bengal from the Andaman Sea.

The former British possessions lie almost 700 miles due south of Burma and are the closest approaches to Sumatra.

1943

From Two Sides

The blow brings Allied pressure against the Indies from the west as well as the east, where Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Southwest Pacific Air Forces have been making forays into the Celebes, Borneo and Java.

In her conquest of the 790,000 square miles and 70,000,000 people of the Indies, Japan seized one of the world's greatest sources of rubber, tin, coal, tea, coffee, spices and tobacco.

On the same day, American Warhawk fighter planes sweeping over Japanese-occupied Burma strafed shipping on the northern Irrawaddy river, and Mitchell medium bombers followed up the attacks the following day by assaults on the railway yards at Mandalay.

Belated reports of an attack on Burma by Liberators last Thursday disclosed that oil storage tanks and a filteration tank were left in flames near Chauk.

RAF Beaufighters and Wellingtons, also slashing at Japanese positions in Burma, yesterday damaged the railway line between Henzada and Bassein, water storage tanks and a factory at Neikban, factories at Kamauka, Natmaw and Danbi, and bombed targets at Gwa and Sandoway, a British communique said.

U. S. Flyers Fire Hongkong Base

Chungking, Sept. 5 (AP)—American Mitchell bombers and Warhawk fighters, heavily raiding the former British naval base at Hongkong, left many strong fires blazing Thursday in warehouses, gasoline storage tanks and other buildings, Leiut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters disclosed today.

One Japanese Zero was destroyed and two others probably were destroyed, while the Americans suffered no loss.

HONGKONG DEALT SHARP BLOW BY AMERICAN FLIERS

Many Strong Fires Left Blazing in Warehouses, Gasoline Dumps.

CHUNGKING, Sept. 5 — (AP) American Mitchell bombers and Warhawk fighters, heavily raiding the former British naval base at Hongkong, left many strong fires blazing Thursday in warehouses, gasoline storage tanks and other buildings, Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters disclosed today.

One Japanese Zero was destroyed and two others probably were destroyed, while the Americans suffered no loss.

The raid was one of several made during wide sweeps Thursday and Friday against Japanese shipping and concentrations in Japanese-occupied China.

Raids on Yangtze river shipping resulted in fires set among wharves at Shihh-Weiyao about 60 miles southeast of Hankow, the sinking of two 100-foot oil tankers and damage to others near Ichang, and the damaging of a 100-foot steamer near Wuhsueh about 95 miles southeast of Hankow.

Enemy installations and equipment along the railway between Kiukiang and Nanchang were attacked by Warhawks, and an eight-car train was damaged and a locomotive blown up on the Hankow-Canton railway. Two other locomotives were destroyed south of Kiukiang.

Enemy troops and barracks were strafed at Yungsiu, and attacks on coastal shipping left a 100-foot vessel sinking and another 125-foot boat damaged.

CHINESE NEAR HANGCHOW

Regain Three Towns About 100 Miles Southwest of Shanghai

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Chinese beat off enemy attacks in fighting around Hanghocw, Japanese-occupied capital of Chekiang Province, 100 miles southwest of Shanghai, and recaptured three towns, a Chinese communiqué said today.

Many casualties were inflicted and much booty was taken, the communiqué said, and more than 1,000 fully trained Chinese puppet troops deserted to the forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Lanny Ross Entertains Troops

NOUMEA, New Caledonia, Sept. 5 (AP)—Lieut Lanny Ross, former radio and film singer, now in the Army, headed the program today at the opening of a new radio station that will be on the air daily to entertain Allied forces in the South Pacific area. Maj. Gen. Rush B. Lincoln of Washington and Dormont, Pa., delivered the dedicatory speech. The station is housed in the Red Cross Club in downtown Noumea.

U-BOAT TOLL CUT SHARPLY, 4-MONTH REPORT REVEALS

Sinkings Since May in West Atlantic Total Thirty-Six Vessels.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The effectiveness of anti-sub submarine warfare in the battle of the Atlantic was shown today by a tabulation of announced ship losses in the Western Atlantic for May through August when 36 United Nations and neutral ships were sunk by U-boats as compared to 295 in the same period last year.

The sharp decline in announced sinkings during months when weather conditions were most favorable to underseas naval warfare pointed up the joint Roosevelt-Churchill statement last month that the Allied "offensive operations against Axis submarines continue to progress most favorably in all areas."

259 Fewer

A comparison of announced United Nations and neutral ship losses in the Western Atlantic follows:

Month	Year 1943	Year 1942
May	14	73
June	6	97
July	6	80
August	10	45
Total	36	295

The Army Air Force Anti-Submarine command recently announced that one of 10 U-boats sunk by United States patrol planes "elected to fight it out" with the attacking heavy bomber—and this led to belief in some quarters that increased anti-aircraft fire power has been added to submarine equipment.

United Nations and neutral shipping losses in the Western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor were raised to 687 vessels last week with the announcement that a medium-sized United States merchantman had been torpedoed and sunk. American merchant ship losses in these waters since Dec. 7, 1941 now stand at 273.

Japs to Crack Internally When Public Sees Defeat

Foreign Policy Association Predicts Collapse When Allied Victory Nears.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 — (AP) The Foreign Policy association says "Japan may crack" internally when her people and soldiers finally realize they are being herded down the road to their first national defeat.

The association, a privately-funded research group, incorporated these observations today into a study of Japanese history, economics and psychology:

"It seems unwise and unhistorical to assume that the morale of the Japanese is unbreakable, unless we believe that they are fundamentally different from all other peoples and, even under the severest strain, are not subject to the common patterns of human behavior."

Although "Japan's rulers have hitherto composed their differences through a policy of overseas expansion, serious disagreements may arise on the eve of defeat."

Capable of Great Violence

"Despite the general docility of the Japanese peasants, they are capable of great violence."

"If the assaults of the United Nations and the demands of the Japanese people are sufficiently compelling, the Imperial household and the bureaucracy may support peace moves in an effort to save their own skins."

The association reported indications of current internal discontent in Japan, viewing as especially significant "the recent ban on public assemblies not specifically arranged through the official propaganda agency." These developments suggest, the association said, that "democratic or at least anti-militaristic tendencies" exist within the country.

Considering the possibility of a collapse of Japanese morale, the survey had this to say:

"The unwillingness so far of any significant number of Japanese to surrender on the battlefield is the result of several concrete conditions: powerful indoctrination against surrender, Japan's succession of victories over a period of years, and the fact that recent fighting in the Southwest Pacific and the Aleutians has involved not mass armies but comparatively small bodies of men.

Old Force to Fade

If large Japanese armies — not picked troops — suffer major defeats, the old imperatives are likely to lose force, especially since in the later stages of the war manpower will be drawn increasingly from sources that are inferior both in physical stamina and indoctrination. x x x

"Japan has never fought a war on the present scale — all its previous wars were against single, relatively weak opponents like Manchu China and Tsarist Russia —nor has it ever been beaten. x x x

"What will the situation be after Tokyo and other cities have endured mass bombings and after Japan's forces have been steadily pressed back by superior arms? Quite possibly the war years that lie ahead will be more important in shaping the future mentality of Japan than the country's longer past of officially promoted loyalty and superstition."

Celebrated Crew Runs Tender

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 — (AP) There's enought gold braid for a man-o'-war aboard a small British fleet tender which put in at Key West, Fla., for repair.

Enough gold braid, that is, if the officers and men of the tender put on the mark of their ranks in the British Navy and Army in years gone by.

The Navy told today of the officers and men—a retired admiral, retired colonel, retired artillery captain, 16 yachtsmen and prominent business executives.

All were fighting men of 30 years ago and volunteered for service aboard the tender to release younger men for duty aboard fighting ships.

The Hon. Sir Meade-Fetherstonehaugh, the retired admiral, is "skipper" of the tender, with the rank now of lieutenant in the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve. He once commanded H.M.S. Britannia and Royal yachts.

The youngster of the crew is a mere 36 years old. He qualified for the "oldtimers" crew because of ill health preventing more active service. The eldest, 68, tops the admiral's age by four days.

GEN. ANDERSON GETS THE LEGION OF MERIT

He and Sgt. Spina, Also a New York State Man, Are Praised

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—Legion of Merit awards to members of the Army Air Forces for meritorious achievement were announced today by the War Department. Among the recipients are:

Brig. Gen. (then Col.) Frederick L. Anderson, of Kingston, N. Y., and Washington, D. C., for "outstanding service while on duty in the office, Chief of Air Corps, and Headquarters, Army Air Forces. General Anderson was selected as acting director of bombardment upon reorganization of the Army Air Forces on March 9, 1942. With foresight, aggressiveness, initiative and superior qualities of leadership, he developed and crystallized many new ideas in relation to operation, tactics and technique of bombardment aircraft."

Sgt. (then Pvt.) Paul J. Spina, of Frankfort, N. Y., for "outstanding services from Nov. 9, 1942, to March 18, 1943. As crew member of a B-17 type aircraft which crashed on the Greenland icecap on Nov. 9, 1942, Sgt. Spina displayed a high devotion to duty. In the crash he was thrown from the plane, breaking his right arm and suffering lacerations and before he could be rescued his feet and hands were severely frost-bitten. Despite this extremely painful condition, he did not spare himself during the ensuing months of hardship and on two occasions he insisted that other crew members be taken in his place by rescue parties that were able to reach the stranded aircraft."

228 MORE WOUNDED ARE LISTED BY ARMY

Sicily Casualties Are Among the Names Sent From Five Areas of Operation

29 MEN FROM THIS STATE

Five Have Next of Kin in New Jersey and Nine Consider Connecticut as Home

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The War Department made public tonight the names of 228 soldiers wounded in action. They included the following:

New York

European Area

BLAZICEK, RUDOLPH, second lieutenant; father, Franw Biazicek, Endicott.

Nroth African Area (Including Sicily)

BANCROFT, EDWIN S.; mother, Mrs. Marion Bancroft, Waterville.
BENEDICT, ROBERT A.; mother, Mrs. Della I. Benedict, Keesville.
COLON, ARTHUR; mother, Mrs. Fannie Colon, 389 Kosciusko St., Brooklyn.
COMSTOCK, CARL R., Jr., captain; wife, Mrs. Leah A. Comstock, Saratoga Springs.
DARK, LAWRENCE J.; father, Edward A. Dark, 89-34 199th St., Hollis.
DUNN, GERALD A.; mother, Mrs. Mildred Dunn, 774 Cleveland St., Brooklyn.
ELGORT, MILTON; father, David Elgort, 628 West 151st St., New York.
GORNIAK, FRANK X.; mother, Mrs. Frank W. Grnoiak, 87-19 160th St., New York.
JONES, RICHARD L.; father, Thomas L. Jones, 121 West 62d St., New York.
KAMROWSKI, ANTON J., Jr.; father, Anton J. Kamrowski, Warwick.
KESTLINGER, ROBERT L., second lieutenant; father, Louis Kestlinger, 486 East Tremont Ave., Bronx.
LEIGHTON, JOHN E.; mother, Mrs. Margaret Leighton, Geneseo.
LEVY, HERBERT M.; wife, Mrs. Marjorie Levy, care of Firstman, 1425 51st St., Brooklyn.
McCBAE, JAMES E.; mother, Mrs. Mary McCabe, 1125 46th St., L. I. City.
McGOVERN, WILLIAM J.; father, Bernard McGovern, 2074 East 19th St., Brooklyn.
PAGANO, Anthony J.; sister, Mrs. Carmelli DiMartin, 29 Rockaway Pkwy., Valley Stream.
PROCIO, PETER; guardian, Mrs. Bernice Marshall, Oakfield.
SULIER, LEO; sister, Mrs. Lawrence Black, Grindstone.
SZYMANSKI, FRANCIS M.; brother, Julius Szymanski, Buffalo.
TORTORICI, NICHOLAS; mother, Mrs. Catherine Tortorici, 191 Grove St., Brooklyn.
VITRO, CARLO C.; mother, Mrs. Rose Vitro, 227 Madison St., Mamaroneck.
WAGNER, EDWARD J. JR.; father, E. J. Wagner Sr., Ebenezer.
WARSHOW, HAROLD, second lieutenant; wife, Mrs. Esther S. Warshow, 2343 East 23d St., Brooklyn.
WEGENER, ALBERT W.; mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Wegener, Anadale.
WEINSTEIN, MAX; mother, Mrs. Molly Weinstein, Rochester.
WESTERVELT, ROBERT; father, William H. Westervelt, 6914 Sixth Ave., Brooklyn.

Southwest Pacific Area

ROMANO, ANTHONY; brother, Eric Romano, 335 South Second St., Brooklyn.
TUOHY, PATRICK J., second lieutenant; mother, Mrs. Loretta Tuohy, 217-38 110th Ave., Queens Village.

New Jersey

North African Area, Including Sicily

DEMLING, MARTIN A.; mother, Mrs. Vera Demling, South River.
FLENO, JOHN A.; mother, Mrs. Angelina Fleno, 262 Hurlbut St., Orange.
FURBER, GEORGE J.; wife, Mrs. Norma Furber, 746 Coles St., Maywood.
WESTERFIELD, WILLIAM B.; mother, Mrs. May H. Westerfield, 12 Lakeview St., North Hackensack.

Southwest Pacific Area

ADAM, JOHN J.; father, John Adam, 130 Turpin St., Trenton.

Connecticut

European

GRANT, JOHN G.; mother, Mrs. Maude A. Grant, South Windsor.

North Africa (Including Sicily)

VIARENGO, JOHN; brother, Mario Viarengo, Torrington.

1943

30.24 - 8081

30.24 - 8081

ZAKLUKIEWICZ, STANLEY J.; father, Joseph Zaklukiewicz, Willimantic.

Pacific

DECK, ALEXANDER J.; mother, Mrs. Josephine Deck, Hartford.
KLIMCZAK, JOHN H.; mother, Mrs. Alice Klimczak, Meriden.
WELCH, CAPT. WILLIAM H. JR.; mother, Mrs. Mary T. Welch, Hartford.

Southwest Pacific

BACHAND, HARVEY J.; sister, Miss Jeanne Bachand, Willimantic.
DESBIENS, ARMAND L.; mother, Mrs. Leon G. Desbiens, Bridgeport.
ZBYK, FRANK J.; mother, Mrs. Frances Zbyk, Rockville.

CHURCHILL TO GIVE RADIO ADDRESS TODAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 — (AP) Prime Minister Churchill of Britain, who has been conferring with President Roosevelt since Wednesday, will make a brief radio address tomorrow.

The White House said last night that the address will be part of a program beginning at noon in an unidentified American city and that it is not expected to be "of special political significance."

Churchill's Plane, The Commando, Is To Be Converted

Tuscon, Ariz., Sept. 5 (AP)—The Commando, Winston Churchill's far-traveled Liberator bomber, has arrived at the Tucson division of Consolidated Vultree Aircraft to be refitted as a transport.

Now on its fourth set of engines, the bomber carried the British Prime Minister to Russia, Turkey, Cairo, the first unconditional surrender conference at Casablanca and the recent parley at Quebec.

Lined with fiber board, the plane contains eight seats, a crude lavatory, a small hot plate, and two comfortable bunks located in the compartment above the bomb bay.

Officials here said they expected the refitted plane would be returned to the Prime Minister's service.

FIFTH FREEDOM URGED BY BUTLER

Columbia University President Emphasizes Individual Enterprise.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Sept. 5 —(AP) Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university and the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, said today that to the four freedoms "there must certainly be added a fifth—the freedom of individual enterprise x x x which is the most important of all."

In his annual lecture at the Parrish Memorial art museum here, Mr. Butler asserted that "given the fifth freedom, then the other four freedoms take their place as part of the life of every free man. x x x It recognizes that the individual body, the individual human intellect, and the individual human soul are the fundamental and the moving and guiding forces in any form of true civilization."

Adding that no person should be regarded as a permanent member of a class or group, he said the individual "must be free to move about as he likes economically, socially and politically."

Cue for Small Nations

The United States form of government "shows clearly" how small nations can be protected from "danger of attack and humiliation," Mr. Butler said, continuing:

"The small states of Rhode Island and Delaware are as safe and as self-governing as are the large states of New York, Texas and California. Just this same relationship must exist in that world organization toward which we are so steadily moving."

Fundamental American doctrines as found in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution, with its bill of rights, he said, apply to all nations, regardless of size, which participate in this world organization, as well as to individuals.

DEWEY ADVOCATES U.S.- BRITISH TIE

N.Y. Governor, at G.O.P. Parley, Favors Permanent Military Alliance.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., Sept. 5—(AP) Stirred by a proposal of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York for a permanent military alliance with Great Britain, Republican Postwar Advisory Council members polished tonight preliminary drafts of a two-pronged declaration of foreign and domestic policy for their first formal meeting tomorrow.

The smiling Dewey cracked the otherwise placid surface of this "little convention" of the Republican party with a sweeping endorsement of a military agreement reportedly outlined by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill at their recent Quebec conference.

The New York governor, who appears likely to become a star attraction at this meeting of 49 party bigwigs, told a packed press conference he believed a permanent military alliance with Great Britain is almost certain after the war, adding that he would like to see Russia and China "in at the beginning" when the time comes to work out the peace.

Somewhat in the same vein, Gov. John W. Bricker, of Ohio, already regarded as a candidate for the presidential nomination told a later press conference there ought to be "complete understanding" with Britain after the war on military and economic needs. He also favored an international organization in which Russia and China would join in preserving world peace.

Taft Heads Domestic Study

While these expressions centered attack on the council's troublesome problem of evolving a foreign policy declaration, Senator Taft (R.-Ohio), scheduled to head the domestic policy group, took steps to force the home front problems into the forefront.

Taft told reporters it was his view that the Republicans should eliminate foreign policy as an issue in the 1944 campaign and concentrate their attacks on the New Deal's management of domestic affairs.

He disclosed that a two-pronged statement of general policies probably will be made by the council, with the domestic field covered by his group and the foreign field covered by another group which observers expect Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) to head. Eight other sub-committees may be set up to make continuing studies of all pressing domestic prbolems.
pressing domestic problems.
policy statement already had been distributed to some members and there were indications that if the council accepts them it will declare for international co-operation to preserve the peace—with some reservations—and offer a four-point program for the home front.

Preliminary Proposals

In their preliminary form, these points would pledge the Advisory Council to develop recommendations for the national convention looking toward:

1. Maintenance of full employment through the encouragement of private enterprise
2. Elimination of "undeserved hardship and poverty."
3. Elimination of "unnecessary" regulation of individuals and of industry.
4. Insurance of "equal opportunity and incentive to all to improve their condition of life."

With those points as a nucleus, the domestic committee's resolution would go on to attack the "super New Deal program" with assertions that it would "wreck the country because its only remedy for every problem is unlimited government spending and increase of debt."

Governors stole the show as the last contingents of members arrived for the conference at this luxurious summer resort overlooking the blue waters of Mackinac Straits.

Unchanged on Running

Dewey, with another laughing declaration that he had not changed his stand that he would not seek the Republican presidential nomination, engaged in a frank discussion of foreign policy during which he advocated joint use of the armies of peace minded nations to prevent future aggression.

He referred questioners to the foreign policy statement of the 1942 New York Republican platform which said that the United States must "join with other nations to secure the peace of the world, by force if necessary."

The tanned and dapper New York chief executive made it clear, however, that he believes international agreements ought to be approved by the Senate before they become effective — one of the points on which Senator Vandenberg is likely to insist in any council declaration on the question.

On the question of the necessity of surrendering some American freedom of action to any international peace-preservaton organization—a sore point in the Republican discussions—Dewey said any international agreement would be bound to place some restrictions on that freedom of action. He insisted that this is not the time to write the details of post-war action, adding it was his personal view that many domestic problems such as the government's fiscal operations rationing, war production and the relation of the Federal governments to the states would require much study.

Dewey also resurrected an old proposal of his that retiring presidents be made senators for life, with vice presidents becoming life members of the House.

Bricker "Not Now" in Race

Bricker told reporters he is "not now" a candidate for the presidential nomination.

He said a statement he had issued advocating a four-year term for the next President and a constitutional amendment limiting future terms to six years was "not a campaign document."

In any foreign policy declaration to be made by the council here, Bricker said American sovereignty and freedom of action should be demanded under all circumstances.

Gov. Earl Warren of California, the third council member to conduct a press conference during the day, said in order to prevent future wars "it will be necessary for us to take come cooperative action with other nations."

SEP 6 1943

The largest land salamander in the world is the mole salamander of the Pacific coast, 10 inches long.

Gov. Dewey Wins in Poll On G. O. P. Nomination

CHICAGO, Sept. 5. — (AP) Delegates to the 1940 Republican national convention have placed Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York above all other possible candidates as their preference for Presidential nominee in the 1944 election, sponsors of a privately conducted poll reported today.

James S. Kemper, insurance executive who conducted the poll, said 35.52 per cent of the former delegates named Gov. Dewey as their first preference for the post. He added that Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio received 21.38 per cent of the votes for first preference, Wendell Willkie, 1940 nominee, 17.59 per cent; Gen. Douglas MacArthur, 7.93 per cent; Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, 5.52 per cent and former President Herbert Hoover, 4.14 per cent.

GREW AND DARLING SELECTED FOR '43 SERVICE MEDALS

Theodore Roosevelt Awards to Be Presented Next Month.

SEP 6 1943

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—(AP) The Theodore Roosevelt Distinguished Service medals for 1943 will be awarded to Eleanor Robson Belmont, humanitarian, Joseph C. Grew, former U.S. ambassador to Japan, and Jay N. "Ding" Darling, conservationist and cartoonist, it was announced today by James R. Garfield, president of the Roosevelt Memorial association.

Mrs. Belmont will be awarded the medal "for distinguished public service by a private citizen." The announcement said that since her retirement from the stage in 1910, when she married August Belmont, she has devoted full time to the American Red Cross and toward the popularization of opera in the United States.

Former Ambassador Grew will receive the medal "for distinguished service in the administration of public office." In diplomatic service since 1904, when he received his first foreign appointment from the late President Theodore Roosevelt, Mr. Grew attempted in the decade preceding Pearl Harbor "to turn the militaristic minds of Japan away from their aggressive purposes toward the friendly relations between the peoples of Japan and the United States," today's announcement said.

Cartoonist Darling will receive the medal "for distinguished service in the field of conservation." He instigated a 25-year program of wild life conservation in Iowa, since widely copied by other states, and as head of the United States Biological survey and president of the General Wild Life federation has been largely responsible for reforms in the field of wildlife, the announcement added.

The medals will be presented at Town Hall in New York city on Oct. 27.

The Roosevelt awards were established by the Roosevelt Memorial association and are given annually in the fields associated with Theodore Roosevelt's career.

Transatlantic Radio Is Hit By Sun Spots

New York, Sept. 5 (AP)—Sun spots caused "much interference" with trans-Atlantic short-wave radio reception here late today, officials of both the National Broadcasting Company and Columbia Broadcasting System reported.

The interference started Tuesday and reception has become progressively worse since then, they said.

YUGOSLAV GUERRILLAS SEIZE MAJOR SEAPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(AP) A British broadcast quoting the Moscow radio said today that Yugoslav guerrillas had captured the seaport of Susak, on the Adriatic in northwestern Yugoslavia just below Fiume.

The broadcast, recorded by CBS, said "Susak is the most important Yugoslav port in the northern Adriatic. Only a small stream separates it from Fiume," a city awarded to Italy by a post-World war treaty. Fiume was recently reported occupied by the Germans.

Toronto, Sept. 5 (AP)—Matthew Halton, Canadian Broadcasting Corporation war correspondent, said in a dispatch filed yesterday that establishment of the bridgehead on Italy cost the Canadian contingent "only two men wounded in enemy bombing attacks yesterday (Friday)."

He said the Canadians, invading Italy as a part of Britain's Eighth Army, "so far have encountered no opposition" aground.

LONDON-SECOND ADD FIRST LEAD RUSSIAN (CHERCHER) XXX FOREGONE CONCLUSION.

THE GERMANS HAD HELD THE MAJOR PART OF THE DONETS BASIN, WHICH IS RICH IN NEEDED WAR ORES, EVER SINCE THEIR FIRST DEEP STRIKE INTO RUSSIA TWO YEARS AGO. BUT CASSIDY SAID THE AXIS FORCES WERE MAKING A FIGHTING RETREAT ALL ALONG THE 600-MILE FRONT FROM THE SEA OF AZOV NORTH TO THE SMOLENSK SECTOR WEST OF MOSCOW.

THE COMMUNIQUE RECORDED BY THE SOVIET MONITOR REPORTED THE CAPTURE OF MORE THAN 100 LOCALITIES IN THE KONOTOP AREA, AND 50 MORE SOUTH OF BRYANSK AS THE RUSSIANS PRESSED STEADILY TOWARD THE DESNA RIVER, LAST MAJOR WATER BARRIER EAST OF THE DNIEPER. THE GAINS RANGED FROM FOUR TO 8 1/2 MILES IN THOSE SECTORS.

THE COMMUNIQUE SAID RUSSIAN TROOPS, HOWEVER, HAD OCCUPIED SEVERAL MORE LOCALITIES IN THAT AREA DURING THE DAY TO "CONSIDERABLY IMPROVE THEIR POSITIONS."

ON THE SMOLENSK FRONT THE RUSSIANS SAID THEY ALSO GAINED GROUND. DESPITE THE ENTRY INTO ACTION OF FRESH AXIS RESERVES, BERLIN TOLD OF SEVERE FIGHTING IN THAT ZONE, WHERE THE RUSSIANS LAST WERE REPORTED WITHIN 40 MILES OF THE BIG AXIS BASE.

THE SOVIET BULLETIN SAID THAT THE RED ARMY HAD KNOCKED OUT 92 TANKS AND SHOT DOWN 70 PLANES DURING SATURDAY'S FIGHTING ON ALL FRONTS.

IN THE FIGHTING WEST OF YELNYA ON THE APPROACHES TO SMOLENSK THE RUSSIANS SAID THE GERMANS WERE HURLING THOUSANDS OF RESERVES INTO ACTION. IN ONE ENGAGEMENT THE GERMANS LOST HALF A REGIMENT WHEN THE CONCENTRATED FIRE OF RED ARTILLERYMEN, MORTAR CREWS, AND MACHINE-GUNNERS CAUGHT THEM JUST AS THEY WERE MOUNTING THEIR COUNTER-ATTACK, THE BULLETIN SAID.

THE SOVIET UNIT THEN PURSUED THE GERMANS AND DROVE THEM OUT OF A "VERY IMPORTANT CENTER OF RESISTANCE," IT ADDED.

SUCH PHRASES AS "RETREATED IN HASTE" AND "FORCED TO RETREAT IN CONFUSION" WERE BECOMING MORE PREVALENT IN OFFICIAL SOVIET DESCRIPTIONS OF THE BATTERED GERMAN ARMY.

WEST OF SEVSK WHERE THE RUSSIANS HAD SPILLED ACROSS THE BRYANSK-KIEV RAILWAY CONNECTING THE GERMAN CENTRAL AND SOUTHERN FRONTS, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID THE RED ARMY "PURSUING THE ENEMY, LIBERATED MORE THAN 5,000 PEACEFUL CITIZENS WHO WERE BEING FORCIBLY TRANSPORTED FOR SLAVE LABOR BY THE HITLERITES."

IN THE DRIVE ON KONOTOP THE RUSSIANS SAID THEY KILLED 1,500 GERMANS AND CAPTURED 170 FREIGHT CARS, TWO LARGE AMMUNITION DUMPS AND A FOOD STORE.

SOUTHWEST OF KHARKOV, A COMMUNIQUE SUPPLEMENT SAID THE RED ARMY HAD PRESSED ON BEYOND MEREFA, 15 MILES BELOW KHARKOV. ONE THOUSAND GERMANS WERE REPORTED TO HAVE FALLEN IN THAT SECTOR.

LONDON--FIRST ADD AXIS REACTION (BY HAWKINS) XXX DEEP GRIEF."

WHILE UNREST TEEMED IN CONTINENTAL EUROPE, 3,000 PERSONS GATHERED TONIGHT IN MANCHESTER AND ADOPTED A RESOLUTION WELCOMING THE ALLIED LANDING IN ITALY, BUT DEMANDING INVASION FROM THE WEST AS WELL.

THE MEETING FOLLOWED AN ADDRESS TO THE CONGRESS OF LANCASHIRE AND CHESHIRE COMMUNISTS BY HARRY POLLITT, GENERAL SECRETARY OF THE BRITISH COMMUNIST PARTY, WHO ASSERTED THAT "IF AT THIS MOMENT THERE WAS DECISIVE ACTION IN THE WEST, HITLER COULD BE FINISHED THIS YEAR."

30.24-8083

30.24-8083

THE INVASION OF ITALY, AND SPECULATION UPON FURTHER ALLIED STRATEGY, CAUSED REVERBERATIONS THROUGHOUT GERMAN-OCCUPIED EUROPE, FROM FRANCE TO THE BALKANS.

A PARIS BROADCAST REPORTED BY THE MINISTRY OF INFORMATION SAID THAT "MOST FRENCHMEN ARE EAGERLY AWAITING ALLIED INVASION AND FERVENTLY PRAYING FOR GERMANY'S DEFEAT," BUT IT ADDED THAT "THIS ATTITUDE IS DEPLORABLE, AS AN INVASION WOULD RESULT IN CHAOS AND MISERY FOR THE WHOLE OF FRANCE."

SEP 6 1943

THE BROADCAST, BY ROBERT DE BEAUPLAN, A PARIS COMMENTATOR, ADDED THAT THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND HAD "TAKEN PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES" AGAINST UPRISINGS.

THE SHADOW OF ALLIED CAPITAL STRATEGY SPREAD ACROSS THE BALKANS WHERE, TURKISH BROADCASTS OF PRESS DISPATCHES SAID, AN ALLIED ASSAULT WAS EXPECTED SOON.

WITH THE BURIAL OF KING BORIS III TODAY, BALKAN OBSERVERS BELIEVED, VANISHED BULGARIA'S HOPE OF ESCAPING STRONGER GERMAN DOMINATION. A ROME BROADCAST REPORTED BY THE MINISTRY OF INFORMATION QUOTED BUCHAREST SOURCES AS SAYING THAT PRINCE CYRIL, BROTHER OF BORIS AND AN ARDENT PRO-GERMAN, WOULD IN ALL PROBABILITY BE CHIEF REGENT OF BULGARIA.

THE MOROCCO RADIO, IN A BROADCAST RECORDED HERE BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, QUOTED SWISS SOURCES AS SAYING THAT THE DEMILITARIZATION OF THE HUNGARIAN CAPITAL, BUDAPEST, WAS IN FULL SWING, WITH HUNGARIANS DETERMINED TO DO ALL POSSIBLE TO MAKE IT AN OPEN CITY.

LONDON--ADD AERIAL KTOP ON AYE)

"I SAW THE BOMBS OF THE LEAD SHIP HIT SQUARELY ON THE TRACKS," SAID SECOND LT.CHARLES J.FILIPAK, JR., OF 1368 SOUTH KEDVAL AVENUE CHICAGO, ILL., CO-PILOT OF THE PLANE FLOWN IN THE GHENT RAID BY FIRST LT.J.W. BERRY, OF BOWLING GREEN, OHIO. "IT LOOKED TO ME LIKE ACCURATE BOMBING."

SEP 6 1943

TECH.SGT.EDWARD H.KAHL OF 379 RAYMOND STREET, ELGIN, ILL., TAIL GUNNER OF "BLACK MAGIC," CLAIMED ONE ME-109, AND STAFF SGT.MYRON O. MCKUN, OF 816 BELMONT STREET MILMONT PARK, PENN., TAIL-GUNNER OF "MISS CAT," SAID HE GOT A FOCKE WULF-190.

A THIRD NAZI FIGHTER, AN FW-190, WAS CLAIMED BY STAFF SGT.R.C. BROWN OF 25 ROIT STREET, UNIONTOWN, PENN.

SECOND LT.HOWARD V.MACDONAL OF HAMPTON, NEB., SAID HIS FLAK SUIT SAVED HIM WHEN A PIECE OF ANTI-AIRCRAFT STRUCK HIS RIGHT SHOULDER. HE IS THE BOMBARDIER-NAVIGATOR OF "SAN ANTONIO ROSE."

LONDON, SEPT.5-(AP)-ROYAL NAVY LIGHT COASTAL FORCES ENGAGED A "LARGE GROUP OF ENEMY ARMED MINESWEEPERS" OFF THE FRENCH COAST EARLY TODAY IN A TWO-HOUR BATTLE, OBTAINING A TORPEDO HIT ON ONE OF THE ENEMY PATROL VESSELS AND SEVERELY DAMAGING TWO OTHERS, THE ADMIRALTY ANNOUNCED TODAY.

THE COMMUNIQUE SAID A NUMBER OF ATTACKS WERE CARRIED OUT AGAINST "STRONG AND DETERMINED DEFENSE" BUT THAT ALL THE BRITISH SHIPS RETURNED TO PORT SAFELY WITH ONLY SLIGHT CASUALTIES.

LONDON, MONDAY, SEPT.6-(AP)-ACCORDING TO REPORTS REACHING THE ALLIED GOVERNMENTS IN LONDON, THE GERMANS HAVE CLEARED ALL CIVILIANS FROM A 50-MILE STRIP ON THE SOUTHERN COAST OF FRANCE IN ANTICIPATION OF A POSSIBLE ALLIED INVASION THRUST THERE.

A LARGE CORPS OF NZI ENGINEERS WAS SAID TO HAVE BEEN SENT INTO THE CLEARED AREA TO SPEED CONSTRUCTION OF ADDITIONAL FORTIFICATIONS AND DEFENSE WORKS.

BULLETIN

LONDON, MONDAY, SEPT 6-(AP)-RAF BOMBERS ATTACKED GERMANY AGAIN LAST NIGHT, THE BRITISH ANNOUNCED TODAY.

SEP 6 1943

A140

LONDON, MONDAY, SEPT 6-(AP)-PRIME MINISTER WINSTON CHURCHILL SENT A NOTE OF THANKS TODAY TO GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-SHEK FOR THE CHINESE LEADER'S MESSAGE ON BRITAIN'S FOURTH WAR ANNIVERSARY.

"THOUGH THE BATTLE STILL WILL BE LONG AND HARD," CHURCHILL SAID, "WE CAN NOW LOOK FORWARD MORE CONFIDENTLY THAN EVER BEFORE TO VICTORY AND THE MAING OF A NEW WORLD TOWARDS THE ESTABLISHMENT OF ~~WHICH YOUR GREAT AND DAUNTLESS~~ CCCCC WHICH YOUR GREAT AND DAUNTLESS COUNTRY HAS MADE AN UNFORGETTABLE CONTRIBUTION."

LONDON, SEPT.5-(AP)-MANY SQUADRONS OF ALLIED PLANES WERE SEEN CROSSING THE SOUTHEAST COAST SOON AFTER DAWN TOD IN THE DIRECTION OF THE CONTINENT TO CONTINUED THE AIR OFFENSIVE WHICH REACHED NEW HEIGHTS LAST WEEK.

A BERLIN BROADCAST BY THE GERMAN NEWS AGENC SAID BRITISH PLANES LAST NIGHT CARRIED OUT NUISANCE RAIDS OVER NORTHERN GERMAN COASTAL TERRITORY AND RHINE INDUSTRIAL TERRITORY. NO OTHER REPORTS HAVE BEEN RECEIVED SO FAR THAT ~~XXXTX~~ BOMBS WERE THE AGENCYX SAID.

LONDON, SEPT.5-(AP)-THE ROME RADIO DECLARED TODA IN A BROADCAST HEARD BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS THAT BERLIN AGAIN WAS LAST NIGHT, BUT OFFICIALS SOURCES HERE HAD SAID NOTHING OF ANY RAF FORMATIONS BEING OVER THE CONTINENT. RADIO LISTENERS ~~XXXX~~ SAID THI ROME ANNOUNCEMENT ~~XXXXXXXX~~ MAY HAVE BEEN ONLY A REREAT OF AN OLD BROADCAST.

BULLETIN

SEP 6 1943

LONDON, SEPT.5-(AP)-THE ALGIERS RADIO REPORT TODAY THAT ~~XXXXXXXXX~~ FAST-MOVING ALLIED TROOPS ARE ON THE OUTSKI OF PALMI AFTER A 15-MILE ADVANCE UP THE ~~XXXX~~ WEST COAST OF SOUTHERN ~~IT~~ ITALY FROM CAPTURED ~~XXX~~ SAN GIOVANNI.

THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, SAID BOTH BAGNARA, ABOUT ~~X~~ MILES BELOW PALMI, AND MELITO, ON THE

30.24 - 8085

30.24-8085

SOUTHERN TIP OF THE CALABRIAN PENINSULA, HAD FALLEN TO THE XXXXXXX BXXXXXXXXXX BRITISH AND CANADIAN FORCES WHO XXXXX STORMED ASHORE EARLY FRIDAY BETWEEN SAN GAOVANNI AND REGGIO CALABRIA.

THE ORIGINAL LANDING PARTIES ARE MOVING SIMULTANEOUSLY ALONG COAST ROADS XXXXX BOTH TO THE NORTH AND THE South AND ARE XXXXXXXX PRECEDED BY HARD-HITTING COMMANDO RAIDS, THE ANNOUNCER SAID. MELITO IS ABOUT 15 MILES SOUTH OF REGGIO.

SEP 6 1943

BULLETIN

LONDON, SEPT. 5--(AP)--A CBS BROADCAST FROM ALGIERS TODAY SAID THE ITALIAN FLEET HAD ABANDONED TARANTO.

BY ROBERT STURDEVANT

AN ENGLISH PORT? SEPT. 6-(ADD' AMERICAN AMBULANCE TRAIN)-

AMERICAN ARMY NURSES WHO MADE THE FIRST TRIP AS MEMBERS OF THE TRAI STAFF INCLUDED LT.MARGUERITE NEWTON OF CHARLOTTE, N.C., AND LT.POLLY MORRIS OF ATLANTA, GA.

"IT SURE IS A SWELL LAY-OUT," SAID SGT. WILLIAM B.MORRIS, OF 2036 CLAY ST., TOPEKA, KANS., WHO SERVED WITH AN AMERICAN UNIT IN EGYPT. HE WAS JOINED IN THIS SENTIMENT BY PVT. F.A. GATLING OF SMACKOVER, ARK.

AMONG OTHER AMERICAN ENLISTED PERSONNEL [illegible] THE FIRST TRIP ABOARD THEIR NEW WAR MEDICAL SERVICE PROVIDED BY THE ARMY'S SERVICES OF SUPPLIES WERE:

SGT.WILLIAM STRUNDLE, OF 14406 SYLVIA AVE., CLEVELAND, O.; CPL. ALFRED COURTOIS, OF 208 MIDDLESEX ST., LOWELL, MASS.; SGT. JOHN F. KURTZ, OF 827 SOUTH FIFTH ST., HAMILTON, O.; PVT. VITTORIO VENDETTO, OF 3054 N. 21ST ST., PHILADELPHIA.

PVT. EARL J.MCFARLAND, OF 2529 W.FOURTH ST., LOS ANGELES; ORVILLE W.DAVIDSON OF PARSONS, KANS.; SGT. CHARLES A.HUDSON, OF 800 AEAH ST., SAN FRANCISCO; PVT. WALTER E.SHURIN, OF 1613 N.E. FOURTH ST., CAMAS, WASH.; PVT. LYLE H.REINHART OF CLINTON, MICH.; AND SGT. REGGIE L.SMEAK OF HYNDMAN, PA.

(END ADVANCE FOR USE AT 7:30 P.M., EASTERN WAR TIME, TODAY, SUNDAY, SEPT. 5)

TA510PEW

SEP 6 1943

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, SEPT 4-(DELAYED)-(AP)-LT.GEN.JACOB L.DEVERS, COMMANDER OF U.S. TROOPS IN THE EUROPEAN THEATER, TODAY TOLD 600 NEWLY NATURALIZED AMERICAN SOLDIERS--45 OF THEM GERMANS--THAT WITH ALLIED TROOPS BREACHING THE EUROPEAN FORTRESS FROM AIR AND SEA AND ON LAND "OUR THOUGHTS ARE WITH THEM AND WE ARE CONFIDENT WE WILL JOIN THEM."

THE COMMANDING GENERAL SPOKE AT A MASS SWEARING-IN CEREMONY HELD IN THE MIDLANDS AS SOLDIERS FROM 40 DIFFERENT COUNTRIES GAINED AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP.

"WITH THE DISINTEGRATION OF THE DARK FORCES WHICH ATTEMPTED TO EXTINGUISH THE LIGHT OF CIVILIZATION," DEVERS TOLD THEM, "A NEW DAY IS DAWNING WHICH MAKES THE LIBERTIES GUARANTEED YOU BY THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES MORE THAN A PHRASE."

SOUTHPORT, ENGLAND, SEPT 5-(AP)-U.S.AMBASSADOR JOHN G.WINANT TOLD THE WORKERS' EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION TODAY THAT THE WELCOME GIVEN ALLIED TROOPS IN SICILY PROVED THAT A GENEROUS ENEMY WITH GOOD MOTIVES WOULD BE ACCEPTED WITH FRIENDLY ENTHUSIASM.

CONTRASTING THE SICILIAN INVASION WITH THE DANISH REVOLT AGAINST GERMAN OCCUPATION, HE SAID THAT THE AXIS FAILURE TO ESTABLISH ITSELF IN CONQUERED TERRITORIES WAS PROOF THAT EVIL MOTIVATION HAD NO PERMANENCE.

HE SAID THAT A JUSTIFICATION OF DEMOCRACY RESTED ULTIMATELY ON THE GOODNESS AND WISDOM OF THE PEOPLE, ADDING THAT "WE ASK FOR A GENEROSITY OF PURPOSE WHICH RECOGNIZES A COMMON BROTHERHOOD THAT REACHES BEYOND RACE, CREED AND COLOR XXX."

SPEECH SEP 6 1943

Algiers, Sept. 5-(AP)-The French language has undergone a great change as a result of the German occupation.

A Frenchman of Algiers recently dined with two new arrivals from France.

"I could scarcely understand them," he said. "Their conversation was filled with sentences like this: 'The two rabbits we saw skating in Borneo have cut grass from snails.'

"'Ah, that is the language of resistance,' they told me."

Innumerable code words and secret slang have crept into the language of the resisting French, they said to prevent any evesdropping gestapo agents from understanding their conversation.

algiers, sept. 5--(ap)--vice admiral louis moreau, commander of the maritime prefecture of algiers, and vice admiral louis ricult, commander of the naval base at oran, have been placed on the retired list of the french navy, it was announced today.

rear admiral georges missoffe was named to succeed ricult, while moreau's post was abolished.

SEP 6 1943

the two naval officers were retired by application of new age limits for the armed forces voted by the french committee of national liberation which reduced the retirement age for vice admirals from 59 to 58.

BY HENRY C.CASSIDY,

WITH THE RED ARMY ON THE STEPPE FRONT, SEPT. 5-(AP)-DEATH ON THE RUSSIAN FRONT LOOKS LIKE A BLINDING WHITE FLASH OF LIGHT. IT SOUNDS LIKE THE SNAP OF A TREMENDOUS FIRECRACKER. IT RUSHES SKYWARD CARRYING AWAY YOUR FRIENDS SO QUICKLY THEY ARE GONE BEFORE YOU KNOW IT HAPPENED.

SOUTHPORT, ENGLAND, SEPT 5-(AP)-U.S.AMBASSADOR JOHN G.WINANT TOLD THE WORKERS' EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION TODAY THAT THE WELCOME GIVEN ALLIED TROOPS IN SICILY PROVED THAT A GENEROUS ENEMY WITH GOOD MOTIVES WOULD BE ACCEPTED WITH FRIENDLY ENTHUSIASM.

CONTRASTING THE SICILIAN INVASION WITH THE DANISH REVOLT AGAINST GERMAN OCCUPATION, HE SAID THAT THE AXIS FAILURE TO ESTABLISH ITSELF IN CONQUERED TERRITORIES WAS PROOF THAT EVIL MOTIVATION HAD NO PERMANENCE.

HE SAID THAT A JUSTIFICATION OF DEMOCRACY RESTED ULTIMATELY ON THE GOODNESS AND WISDOM OF THE PEOPLE, ADDING THAT "WE ASK FOR A GENEROSITY OF PURPOSE WHICH RECOGNIZES A COMMON BROTHERHOOD THAT REACHES BEYOND RACE, CREED AND COLOR XXX."

SPEECH SEP 6 1943

Algiers, Sept. 5-(AP)-The French language has undergone a great change as a result of the German occupation.

A Frenchman of Algiers recently dined with two new arrivals from France.

"I could scarcely understand them," he said. "Their conversation was filled with sentences like this: 'The two rabbits we saw skating in Borneo have cut grass from snails.'

"'Ah, that is the language of resistance,' they told me."

Innumerable code words and secret slang have crept into the language of the resisting French, they said to prevent any evesdropping gestapo agents from understanding their conversation.

algiers, sept. 5--(ap)--vice admiral louis moreau, commander of the maritime prefecture of algiers, and vice admiral louis ricult, commander of the naval base at oran, have been placed on the retired list of the french navy, it was announced today.

rear admiral georges missoffe was named to succeed ricult, while moreau's post was abolished.

SEP 6 1943

the two naval officers were retired by application of new age limits for the armed forces voted by the french committee of national liberation which reduced the retirement age for vice admirals from 59 to 58.

BY HENRY C.CASSIDY,

WITH THE RED ARMY ON THE STEPPE FRONT, SEPT. 5-(AP)-DEATH ON THE RUSSIAN FRONT LOOKS LIKE A BLINDING WHITE FLASH OF LIGHT. IT SOUNDS LIKE THE SNAP OF A TREMENDOUS FIRECRACKER. IT RUSHES SKYWARD CARRYING AWAY YOUR FRIENDS SO QUICKLY THEY ARE GONE BEFORE YOU KNOW IT HAPPENED.

30.24 - 8087

30.24-8087

I SAW IT HAPPEN WHEN AN ANTI-TANK MINE BURST UNDER THE SECOND IN A LINE OF EIGHT JEEPS AND KILLED THREE SOVIET OFFICIALS ACCOMPANYING 13 AMERICAN AND BRITISH NEWSPAPER CORRESPONDENTS ON A TRIP TO THE FRONT. THE CHAUFFEUR OF THE SAME JEEP WAS WOUNDED. THE CORRESPONDENTS ESCAPED WITHOUT A SCRATCH.

KILLED WERE:

MIKHAIL VASEVEN, ASSISTANT CHIEF OF THE PRESS DEPARTMENT OF THE FOREIGN COMMISSARIAT, A FORMER ENGINEER, WHO REPRESENTED SOVIET TRADING AGENCY AMTORG IN NEW YORK FOR FIVE YEARS.

VIKTOR KOZHEMIAKO, SENIOR CENSOR AND FORMER ATTACHE OF THE SOVIET EMBASSY IN CHUNGKING, WHO HANDLED THE COPY OF FOREIGN CORRESPONDENTS THROUGHOUT THE WAR.

MAJOR E.I.VOLKHOV OF THE FOREIGN SECTION OF THE DEFENSE COMMISSARIAT, WHO CONDUCTED CORRESPONDENTS TO STALINGRAD, KHARKOV AND OTHER BATTLEFIELDS.

RED ARMY MAN ALEXEI DIAGILEV, CHAUFFEUR, STAGGERED OUT OF THE EXPLOSION BLACKENED AND CUT BUT SOMEWHOW NOT SERIOUSLY HURT.

THE MINE EXPLODED ON THE ROAD AT MASLOVA PRISTAN, JUST EAST OF BELGOROD, AT 11 P.M. SEPT. 1 IN THE NIGHTMARISH SETTING OF A DARK NIGHT WITH THE GLARE OF FIRE ON THE HORIZON AS ARTILLERY BATTERIES FIRED ON TWO SIDES. RED AND GREEN FLARES AND WHITE SEARCHLIGHTS STREAKED THE SKY AS PLANES DRONED OVERHEAD.

THE CARAVAN STOPPED AT A CONTROL POINT AFTER WE FLEW TO THE FRONT ZONE IN AN ARMED PASSENGER-PLANE WITH AN ESCORT OF FOUR SOVIET YAK-7 FIGHTERS. WE PROCEEDED CAUTIOUSLY IN THE LINE OF JEEPS. VASEV, WHO SEEMED TO HAVE A PREMONITION OF DANGER, ORDERED THE CHAUFFEURS TO KEEP THEIR LIGHTS OUT AND DRIVE AT WIDELY SPACED INTERVALS. THE HEAD OF THE CARAVAN STARTED DOWN THE ROAD AGAIN.

SUDDENLY, DEATH CAME.

THE SECOND JEEP DISAPPEARED IN A BLAZE OF LIGHT. THE BLAST RUSHED SKYWARD. DARKNESS RETURNED IN SILENCE, BROKEN BY GROANS.

THE FIRST JEEP, CARRYING TWO RED ARMY COLONELS, TURNED QUICKLY. OTHERS BEHIND JOLTED TO A HALT. HEADLIGHTS SHOWED THE SECOND JEEP HURLED 20 YARDS FROM THE LEFT SHOULDER OF THE DIRT ROAD. KOZHEMIAKO AND VOLKHOV, TWO CLEAN CUT, BLOND MEN OF 30, WERE FOUND CRUSHED AND PARTLY DISMEMBERED. THEY WERE TAKEN IN A JEEP TO A FIELD HOSPITAL BUT DIED BEFORE THEY COULD BE TENDED. THERE WAS NO TRACE OF VASEV IN THE DARKNESS. WE SAT THROUGHOUT THE NIGHT IN THE JEEPS AND FOUND VASEV'S BODY AT DAWN IN THE WOOD WHERE IT HAD BEEN THROWN 60 FEET FROM THE ROAD.

THE THREE MEN WERE BURIED SEPT. 3 IN THE NEARBY TOWN OF SHEBEKINO BY A SPECIAL COMMISSION OF THE FOREIGN AND DEFENSE COMMISSARIATS WHICH FLEW FROM MOSCOW.

THAT FORM OF DEATH HAS BECOME ONE OF THE MOST PREVALENT ON THIS FRONT AS THE GERMANS IN RETREAT ARE LAYING AN UNPRECEDENTED NUMBER OF MINES.

THAT MINE WAS A 16-POUNDER PACKED IN A WOODEN CASE TO ESCAPE DETECTION BY RED ARMY DEMINING DEVICES WHICH SIGNAL THE PRESENCE OF METAL BY VIBRATIONS. PROBES ON LONG POLES ARE USED TO FIND WOODEN MINES.

SEP 6 1943

SEP 6 1943

AT DEMININY, HEADQUARTERS OF THIS FRONT, COL.ALEXANDER DANILOVICH TSIRLIN TOLD US 70,000 MINES WERE REMOVED AT FOUR POINTS OF THE RED ARMY ATTACKS ON KHARKOV, 4,950 MORE BOOBY TRAPS ALREADY HAVE BEEN FOUND INSIDE KHARKOV AND DEMINING WORK STILL IS PROCEEDING.

BY HENRY C CASSIDY.

WITH THE RED ARMY ON THE STEPPE FRONT?SEPT. 5--(AP)-xmx x x BY LOCUSTS.

BUT THEY ARE ALSO LEAVING BEHIND HEAPS OF THEIR OWN MATERIAL AND MOUNDS OF THEIR OWN MEN AT POINTS WHERE THE RED ARMY IS CUTTING THEM OFF AND WIPING THEM OUT BY A SERIES OF PINCER MOVEMENTS.

AMERICAN MATERIAL IS AIDING THE RED ARMY IN ITS VICTORIOUS DRIVE.

WEST OF KHARKOV, WHILE GUNS BOOMED ON A NEARBY FRONT AND PLANES FLEW OVERHEAD, BRITISH AND AMERICAN CORRESPONDENTS VISITING THIS FRON SAW THE BATTLEFIELD WHERE THE RED ARMY HAD CUT OFF AND SMASHED THE REMNANTS OF THE GERMAN THIRD TANK DIVISION TO CROSS THE MEREFA RIVER AND OCCUPY THE RAILROAD STATION OF MEREFA, 15 MILES SOUTHWEST OF KHARKOV.

SEP 6 1943

HERE IN THE CABBAGE PATCHES AND ORCHARDS OF A COLLECTIVE FARM THE RED ARMY INTERCEPTED 100 GERMAN TANKS AND MOBILE GUNS INCLUDING MARK SIX AND MARK FOUR TANKS AND GIANT "FERDINAND" GUNS AND WRECKED 60 OF THEM AND DISPERSED THE OTHERS.

LIEUT.-COL.GEORGY TIMOFEOVICH KUSHNIFOV OF THE RUSSIAN TANK ARMY SAID THE GERMANS HAD CONCENTRATED A STRONG GROUP HERE INCLUDING AN S.S. TANK DIVISION FOR A COUNTERATTACK AGAINST KHARKOV.

THE RUSSIANS BROKE THROUGH FROM THE NORTH, CROSSED THE UDI RIVER ON AUG.29 AND FORCED THE ENEMY INTO BATTLE ON A FARM SEVEN MILES NORTHWEST OF MEREFA.

FIGHTING AT A RANGE OF 500 YARDS TO A MILE, THE RUSSIAN TANKS RIDDLED THE ENEMY MACHINES.

A MARK-SIX TIGER, A 60-TON TANK WITH A 75-MILLIMETER GUN, HAD ITS TREADS SHATTERED AND ITS TURRET BLASTED BY RUSSIAN GUNFIRE. THE WRECKAGE OF SEVERAL MARK-4S LITTERED THE FIELD WHERE THEY WERE BROKEN AND URNED.

THE SKELETONS OF THE CREWS STILL REMAINED IN SOME OF THEM.

A "FERDINAND," AN ARMORED, 88-MILLIMETER GUN, HAD ITS BARREL RIPPE OPEN BY SHELLS.

IN THE FIELD LAY THE BODY OF A GERMAN TANKIST WHO WAS SHOT DOWN AS HE ATTEMPTED TO ESCAPE. AROUND HIM RUSSIAN HENS PEACEFULLY PECKED.

THE SCENE WAS SYMBOLIC OF THE SOVIET SLOGAN:

"DEATH TO THE GERMAN INVADERS."

SEP 6 1943

THE TWO MAIN POINTS EVIDENT FROM THIS VISIT TO THE EASTERN FRONT AND TALKS WITH HIGH-RANKING RED ARMY OFFICERS ARE THESE:

THE GERMANS ARE RETREATING TO THE DNIEPER AND DESNA RIVERS ON A 600-MILE FRONT; AND THERE IS NO LONGER ANY QUESTION OF THEIR BEING ABLE TO PUT ON A GENERAL COUNTEROFFENSIVE.

COL.IVAN IVANOVICH VORODIEV, STAFF REPRESENTATIVE OF GEN.IVAN KONEV'S STEPPE ARMY WHICH TOOK KHARKOV, TOLD US THE RED ARMY HAD INFLICTED HEAVY LOSSES ON THE GERMANS AND SMASHED SOME OF THEIR BEST DIVISIONS DURING THE SUMMER CAMPAIGN.

"THAT DOES NOT MEAN THAT THE GERMAN ARMY IS ON THE VERGE OF COLLAPSE," HE ADDED. "BY USING RESERVES, THE GERMANS ARE STILL ABLE TO FORM GROUPS AND RESIST AT INDIVIDUAL POINTS. LIQUIDATION OF THIS RESISTANCE WILL REQUIRE TREMENDOUS EFFORT AND TIME."

THE DESNA FLOWS SOUTHWEST FROM BRYANSK AND MEETS THE DNIEPER AT KIEV.

SEP 6 1943

EAST OF THIS RIVER FRONT THE RUSSIANS ARE HOPPING UP RAPIDLY IN THE DONETS BASIN AND STALINO, THE HEART OF THE DONETS BASIN COAL AND IRON REGION, IS EXPECTED TO FALL SOON TO THE RED ARMY.

FARTHER NORTH, COL.VORODIEV SAID THE GERMANS HAVE STRONG DEFENSES AROUND SMOLENSK EXTENDING AS FAR AS 35 MILES AND INCLUDING ROSLAVL.

30.24 - 8089

SOUTHEAST OF SMOLENSK AND WEST OF THE DESNA RIVER.

THE ATTACK WHICH BROKE THROUGH THE SPAS DEMENSK SECTOR HOWEVER, HE SAID, HAS NOW MERGED WITH THE GENERAL OFFENSIVE AGAINST THAT GERMAN BASTION.

ASSAULTS ON A WIDE FRONT WILL FULL USE OF MOBILE RESERVES HAVE ACCOUNTED FOR THE RUSSIAN VICTORIES, HE SAID, WHILE THE GERMANS FAILED IN THEIR OWN ATTEMPT TO LAUNCH A SUMMER OFFENSIVE WITH ATTACKS ON THE NARROW KURSK FRONT WHERE THE RUSSIANS WERE ABLE TO PIN DOWN THE ENEMY'S RESERVES.

THIS VISIT BY WAR CORRESPONDENTS WAS DARKENED BY THE DEATHS OF TWO REPRESENTATIVES OF THE FOREIGN COMMISSARIAT AND ONE OFFICER OF THE DEFENSE COMMISSARIAT WHO WERE KILLED BY A LAND MINE WHICH EXPLODED IN THE MIDST OF OUR CARAVAN OF JEEPS.

THE TRIP, NEVERTHELESS, WENT ON, AND RED ARMY OFFICERS AT SIMPLE MEALS IN THE CAMPS PROPOSED THIS TOAST:

"TO OUR COMMON VICTORY."

A125 MOSCOW-SEPT5-:(ADD CHURCH RECONCILIATION)

THE MOSCOW NEWS, SOVIET ENGLISH LANGUAGE PUBLICATION, PRINTED AN INTERVIEW WITH SERGEI WHEREIN HE SAID:

SEP 6 1943

"OUR ARMY IS BOUND TO WIN PRIMARILY BECAUSE IT IS FIGHTING FOR A RIGTOUS, SACRED CAUSE. SECONDLY, IT IS BACKED BY THE PEOPLE, WHO ARE READY TO MAKE ANY SACRIFICE FOR THEIR COUNTRY."

HE SAID THAT THE COLLECTION OF MORE THAN 8,000,000 RUBLES BY THE CHURCH FOR THE RED ARMY TANK COLUMN "PROVED ONCE AGAIN THAT THE CHURCH IS WITH THE PEOPLE AND IT IS READY FOR ANY SACRIFICE FOR THE LIBERATION

30.24 - 8089

OF OUR COUNTRY FROM THE ENEMY.

"IT SEEMS TO ME," HE SAID, "THAT THE TIME HAS COME FOR THE COMPLETE ANNIHILATION OF HITLER. IF THE RED ARMY ALONE HAS BEEN ABLE TO FORCE BACK THE GERMANS, IT IS NOT DIFFICULT TO PREDICT HOW SPEEDILY THE WAR WILL END WHEN OUR TROOPS RECEIVE REAL HELP FROM THE ALLIES."

LOCAL SOVIET AUTHORITIES WERE REPORTED ASSISTING IN THE RESTORATION OF CHURCHES DESTROYED BY THE GERMANS. THE METROPOLITAN SAID THE INVADERS HAD WRECKED SEVERAL HUNDRED.

MOSCOW, SEPT. 5 -(AP)- PERSONAL TITLES AND NEW INSIGNIA FOR RUSSIA'S MILITARIZED RAILROAD EMPLOYEES AND SERVICEMEN WERE INTRODUCED TODAY IN A DECREE BY THE PRESIDIUM OF THE SUPREME SOVIET, USSR.

THE TITLES INCLUDE GENERAL DIRECTOR, DIRECTOR COLONEL, DIRECTOR LIEUTENANT COLONEL, AND ENGINEER MAJOR IN VARIOUS BRANCHES OF THE RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION. LOWER RANKING OFFICIALS WILL RECEIVE TITLES OF CAPTAIN, LIEUTENANT, TECHNICIAN AND BRIGADIER.

SEP 6 1943

THE NEW INSIGNIA INCLUDES SHOULDER STRAPS.

MADRID, SEPT 5-(AP)-(ADD ITALIAN INVASION)

THE ROME REPORTER OF THE SEVILLE NEWSPAPER ABC ASSERTED THAT EVERYBODY IN EUROPE, FOR WEEKS BEFORE THE CALABRIAN LANDINGS, HAD TALKED ONLY OF OTHER POSSIBILITIES, ANY ONE OF WHICH, HE NOTED, HOWEVER, STILL WAS POSSIBLE.

COMMENTING ON THE LACK OF RESISTANCE, THE EDITORIAL WRITER OF ABC ASKED "WHAT WOULD BE THE USE OF RESISTING AT ALL COSTS IN THE SOUTHERN EXTREMITY OF THE PENINSULA WHEN THE DEFENDERS MIGHT FIND THEMSELVES THREATENED BY NEW LANDINGS ON THE FLANK."

SEP 6 1943

THE IMPLICATION WAS THAT THE ITALIANS HAD RETREATED JUST AS RAPIDLY UNDER THE THREAT OF LANDINGS ON THEIR FLANK AS IF THOSE LANDINGS ACHUALLY HAD TAKEN PLACE AND THAT THE ALLIED COMMAND CONSEQUENTLY HAD BEEN SAVED THE EFFORT OF MAKING ADDITIONAL LANDINGS.

IN BERLIN, ACCORDING TO A SPANISH CORRESPONDENT, THE NAZIS STILL ARE CONVINCED THE CALABRIAN LANDING MAY BE A FEINT BEFORE A REAL EUROPEAN OFFENSIVE AGAINST ANOTHER POINT IN SOUTHERN EUROPE.

ITALIANS IN SARDINIA ARE NOW SO ALARMED THAT THE OFFICERS FIND IT DIFFICULT TO KEEP THE SOLDIERS IN BEACH AND SEASIDE FORTIFICATIONS OVERNIGHT, A REPORT FROM THE ITALIAN MAINLAND SAID.

TRAVELERS FROM GENOA DECLARED THAT SHIPS WHICH HAD SCURRIED BY NIGHT FROM GENOA AND BACK AGAIN BROUGHT TALES OF INCREASED ACTIVITY BY THE CORSICANS. THEIR RAIDS ON ITALIAN SUPPLY DUMPS AND COMMUNICATIONS ON THE FRENCH ISLAND WERE DECLARED TO HAVE INCREASED THREEFOLD SINCE THE FALL OF SICILY.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, SEPT. 5-(AP)-SECOND LT. WALTER J. SCHRANZ OF MOOREHEAD, MINN., SHOT DOWN AN AXIS OBSERVATION PLANE YESTERDAY DURING THE ALLIED RAID ON GRAZZANISE AIRFIELD NEAR NAPLES, IT WAS DESCLOSED TODAY.

A21 ALLIED HDQTRS IN NORTH AFRICA - SEPT 5 - (AERIAL) NORGAARD

"THE PIAGGIO AIRCRAFT FACTORY AT PISA ALSO WAS SHOWN TO BE OUT OF ACTION."

"AT CANCELLO NORTHEAST OF ROME AND ONE OF THE MAIN CENTRAL ITALIAN JUNCTIONS, THE LINES TO NAPLES, SALERNO, TORRE ANNUNZIATA, CAPUA AND BENEVENTO ALL WERE BLOCKED. FOURTEEN SHEDS IN THE RAILWAY YARDS WERE DESTROYED OR SEVERELY DAMAGED AND A LARGE AMOUNT OF ROLLING STOCK WRECKED.

SEP 6 1943

"AT PESCARA, ANOTHER CENTRAL ITALIAN JUNCTION, CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE WAS DONE TO TRACKS, ROLLING STOCK AND AN INDUSTRIAL PLANT.

"AT BENEVENTO WHICH LIES ON AN IMPORTANT LINE LINKING NAPLES WITH FOGGIA AND ALSO AT AVERNA ON THE MAIN WEST COAST LINE BETWEEN ROME AND NAPLES, THE LINES ARE STILL BLOCKED AND NO SIGNS OF ACTIVITY CAN BE SEEN."

NORGAARD

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA--FIRST ADD SICILIAN RAILROADS (TOP ON AYE) X X X FERRY FACILITIES.

GRAYN RETURNING FROM AN INSPECTION TOUR OF SICILIAN TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES, ANNOUNCED ALSO THE AWARD OF THE SOLDIER'S MEDAL TO THREE OFFICERS AND THREE ENGLISTED MEN OF THE MILITARY RAILWAY SERVICE FOR HEROISM IN FACING EXPLODING HIGH CALIBER AMMUNITION TO SWITCH CARS

30.24-8091

30.24-8091

AWAY FROM A BURNING TRAINLOAD OF SHELLS AND GASOLINE AFTER A COLLISION.

THE CITATION CREDITED THEM WITH SAVING MANY LIVES AS WELL AS KEEPING DAMAGE TO A MINIMUM.

THOSE DECORATED WERE MAJ. ROY P. MOSS OF THE TEXAS AND PACIFIC RAILWAY, FORT WORTH, TEX.; MAJ. CHARLES C. BUTLER OF THE ATLANTIC COASTLINE RAILWAY, LAKELAND, FLA.; LT. MARVIN L. NORTON OF ATLANTIC COASTLINE, ROCKY MOUNT, N.C.; SGT. TONY W. LONERO OF THE BIG FOUR RAILROAD, CLEVELAND, O.; CORP. JOSEPH S CANZONERI OF THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC, LOS ANGELES, AND PVT. JAMES G.(3-)36 91 1499()6,, N.Y.,

SEP 6 1943

RAILROAD, CLEVELAND, O.; CORP. JOSEPH S CANZONERI OF THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC, LOS ANGELES, AND PVT. JAMES G. HEALEY OF BROOKLYN, N.Y., WHO IS A MEMBER OF THE RAILROAD BATTALION'S MEDICAL DETACHMENT.

FOUR HUNDRED TONS OF MILITARY SUPPLIES WERE MOVED BY RAIL IN SICILY ON THE THIRD DAY AFTER THE ASSAULT BEGAN. THIS WAS ACCOMPLISHED BY AMERICAN RAILROAD TROOPS UNDER LT. COL. FRED W. OKIE OF SOMERSET, KY., WHO WON THE LEGION OF MERIT AWARD FOR EXPLOITS UNDER COMBAT CONDITIONS IN TUNISIA LAST WINTER, AND BRITISH SOLDIER RAILROADERS. TWO DAYS LATER THAT TONNAGE WAS DOUBLED

EDITORS: THE FOLLOWING MAY PRECEDE PAUL KERN LEE'S EYEWITNESS STORY DATELINED BEHIND THE ENEMY LINE IN ITALY.

ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT PAUL KERN LEE, ATTACHED TO THE BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN FLEET, WATCHED FROM HIS POST ABOARD A BRITISH SHIP AS THE VESSEL FOUGHT OFF GERMAN DIVE-BOMBERS AT THE START OF THE SICILIAN INVASION, AND WITNESSED THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY'S ADVANCE UP THE EASTERN SICILIAN COAST.

BY A COINCIDENCE, LEE WAS WATCHING THE BRITISH-CANADIAN INVASION OF ITALY FROM A BRITISH WAR VESSEL ON SEPT.3 EXACTLY FOUR YEARS TO THE HOUR AFTER, AS A NEW YORK FOREIGN NEWS WRITER, HE WAS WRITING THE FIRST ASSOCIATED PRESS STORY OF PRIME MINISTER CHAMBERLAIN'S DECLARATION OF WAR AGAINST GERMANY.

BY PAUL KERN LEE

SEP 6 1943

ABOARD THE BRITISH DESTROYER QUAIL PATROLLING MESSINA STRAITS, SEPT.4-(DELAYED)-(AP)-"WE ARE BACK "ON THE PITCH," AS MY BRITISH NAVAL FRIENDS SAY, AFTER VISITING THE ITALIAN MAINLAND AND TAKING OFF SIX WEARY COMMANDOS AND SEVEN ITALIAN PRISONERS AND DEPOSITING THEM IN A LANDING CRAFT OFF SICILY.

APPROPRIATELY WE PUT THEM IN A LANDING CRAFT WHICH HAD PAINTED ON ITS WHEELHOUSE THE UNOFFICIAL NAME "HMS CHOKKA."

"CHOKKA" IN THE ROYAL NAVY MEANS COMPLETELY FED UP, EVEN MORE SO THAN "BROWNED OFF" DOES IN THE ARMY AND AIR FORCE.

THE ITALIANS ARE CERTAINLY "CHOKKA" WITH THE WAR. AS THEY WENT INTO THE CRAFT TO GO TO SICILIAN PRISON CAMPS THEY CHEERED AND TOSSED HELMETS BACK TO OUR SAILORS FOR SOUVENIRS.

"SICILY IS OURS NOW," I SAID TO ONE OF THEM.

"BUONO OKAY," HE REPLIED, BILINGUALLY AND UNMISTAKABLY.

OUR ITALIAN OFFICER CAPTIVE AND HIS GIRL FRIEND NURSE INSISTED ON SHAKING MY HAND BEFORE LEAVING.

THE COMMANDOS, HAVING HAD A SHOT OF HIS MAJESTY'S RUM AND THREE PACKS OF CIGARETTES EACH, BID US A RELUCTANT FAREWELL, BUT CHEERILY

SAID "SEE YOU ON THE NEXT OPERATION."

AND NOW WE ARE BACK ON OUR SEEMINGLY ENDLESS PATROL. THE SISTER SHIP QUILLIAM, WHICH WE JUST JOINED, SIGNALLED THAT SHE HAD BEEN BEATEN TO A FEW GERMAN PRISONERS BY A MOTOR GUN BOAT AND THAT THERE WERE GERMANS AT A TOWN ON THE NORTH SIDE OF THE TOE WHERE SHE HAD BEEN PATROLLING.

SUB-LT. TIMOTHY ELLIS REMARKED, "WE WOULD BE ONE UP IN ANY EVENT, BECAUSE WE TOOK A WOMAN SOLDIER PRISONER."

SEP 6 1943

THE ITALIAN SHORE YESTERDAY LOOKED LIKE WASHDAY IN A PUBLIC NURSERY.

ITALIAN WHITE FLAGS BEGAN TO BLOSSOM ALONG THE SHORE WITH THE FIRST LIGHT OF DAY AS THE ALLIES BEGAN THEIR INVASION. BEFORE NOON THE WHOLE OF THE ITALIAN TIPTOE AREA FLAPPED WITH WHITE BANNERS IN UNBELIEVABLE PROFUSION.

AS OUR DESTROYER SPED UP TO WITHIN A HALF MILE OF REGGIO CALABRIA, WHITE SHEETS FLAPPED LIKE MAD FROM NEARLY EVERY ROOF AND MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN FRANTICALLY WAVED WHITE HANDKERCHIEFS.

AND AS WE SAILED NORTHWARD, CLOSE INSHORE, WE PASSED HUNDREDS OF CIVILIANS WAVING WHITE FLAGS.

THIS DESTROYER AND A SISTER SHIP, THE QUILLIAM, WERE THE FIRST ALLIED WARSHIPS TO PASS THROUGH THE STRAIT. WE DREW ONLY ONE SHOT FROM AN ENEMY COASTAL BATTERY.

THE LANDINGS--MADE BY THE CANADIAN FIRST AND BRITISH FIFTH DIVISIONS AT 4:30 A.M.--WERE PRECEDED BY ONE OF THE MOST CONCENTRATED ARTILLERY BARRAGES OF THE WAR. MORE THAN 00 BIG GUNS, ARTILLERY BARRAGES OF THE WAR. MORE THAN 900 BIG GUNS, LINED LITERALLY HUB TO HUB ON THE SICILIAN BEACHES, SMASHED THE INVASION BEACHES TO NOTHINGNESS. IN THE NORTH, WHERE THE STRAIT IS LESS THAN TWO MILES WIDE, EVEN MACHINEGUNS WERE USED.

WITHIN FOUR HOURS BOTH REGGIO CALABRIA AND SAN GIOVANNI, AS WELL AS MANY OTHER POINTS ON THE 10-MILE STRETCH BETWEEN, WERE WAVING THE WHITE BANNERS OF SURRENDER.

SEP 6 1943

THE BRITISH AND CANADIANS PUSHED STEADILY INLAND, CAPTURING FIXED BATTERIES AND ENCOUNTERING NO REAL OPPOSITION UNTIL ABOUT 10 O'CLOCK WHEN INLAND GUNS BEGAN SHELLING THE STRAIT SPORADICALLY AT ITS NARROWEST POINT.

PROMPTLY AT 3:40 A.M., HELL ON A HUGE SCALE BROKE LOOSE FROM SICILY. LITTLE GUNS, MEDIUM GUNS AND BIG GUNS LIGHTED UP THE WHOLE COAST WITH BRILLIANT ORANGE, WHITE AND PINK FLASHES.

ALMOST IMMEDIATELY FIRES BROKE OUT ON THE ITALIAN SIDE.

WE PRESSED NEAR UNTIL THE BIG GUNS WERE FIRING OVER OUR HEADS.

THIS DESTROYER SOON MET SWARMS OF ASSAULT LANDING CRAFT, MOVING STEADILY TOWARD ITALY LIKE AUTOMOBILES ON A PRE-WAR SUNDAY AFTERNOON ON AN AMERICAN PARKWAY. WE STALLED AROUND KEEPING GUARD ON THEIR SOUTHERN FLANK.

I SAW ONLY THREE GUN FLASHES FROM THE ITALIAN SHORE IN REPLY TO THE BIG BARRAGE, AND THESE WERE PROMPTLY SMOTHERED BY AMERICAN GUNS IN SICILY.

THE ACRID, SICKLY-SWEET SMELL OF THE BARRAGE PERVADED EVERYTHING. THROUGH THE SHROUD LT.H.G.GRACE SIGHTED TWO SMALL VESSELS.

INSTANTLY HE GAVE THE ALERT, ANTICIPATING AN E-BOAT ATTACK, BUT CLOSER APPROACH SHOWED TWO ROWBOATS WITH FOUR ITALIAN SOLDIERS IN EACH. THEY HAD BEEN ROWING STEADILY TOWARD SICILY, BUT THEY STOPPED

30.24-8093

AND BEGAN WAVING WHITE FLAGS, SHOUTING AND PLEADING TO BE PICKED UP.

"ROW, YOU SCOUNDRELS," LT.COMMANDER R.F.JENKS, SON OF THE FORMER LORD MAYOR OF LONDON, SHOUTED IN REPLY.

A LARGE FORMATION OF AMERICAN AIRCRAFT WHEELED OVERHEAD. THIS WAS THE FIRST APPEARANCE OF ANY AIRCRAFT OF EITHER SIDE AND THE ENEMY HAS NOT YET APPEARED AT THIS WRITING. SUBSEQUENTLY LARGE SQUADRONS OF MITCHELLS, MARAUDERS AND SPITFIRES ALSO APPEARED OVERHEAD, BUT THEY SEEMED TO HAVE DIFFICULTY IN FINDING SUITABLE TARGETS.

SEP 8 1943

AT 6:53 A.M. A LANDING CRAFT SIGNALLED: "POPULATION REGGIO ON SHORE WAVING WHITE FLAGS. ONE SOLDIER SEEN. NO RESISTANCE." AND AT 7:25 ANOTHER SIGNALLED: "CIVILIANS IN BOAT REPORT NO RESISTANCE REGGIO."

OUR DESTROYERS SPED UP AND WE FOUND THIS TO BE TRUE. A SHORT TIME LATER GEN.SIR BERNARD L.MONTGOMERY CROSSED OUR BOWS ABOARD A MOTOR LAUNCH EN ROUTE TO THE CONQUERED MAINLAND.

THIS DESTROYER AND THE SISTER SHIP WENT RIGHT PAST UNROOFED SAN GIOVANNI, PAST THE RAILWAY YARDS THAT WERE A SHAMBLES OF WRECKED TRAINS AND GAILY STEAMED THROUGH MESSINA STRAIT. THIS WOULD HAVE BEEN SUICIDE AS RECENTLY AS TEN DAYS AGO AND ONLY FOUR DAYS AGO MOTOR TORPEDO BOATS CAUTIOUSLY NEGOTIATED THE STRAIT IN THE DARK OF NIGHT.

POWERFUL BRITISH NAVAL FORCES PATROLLING THE NARROW BODY OF WATER HAD FOUND NOTHING TO DO SAVE SERVE AS GRANDSTAND SEATS FOR THE CREWS.

"THIS IS A REAL PIECE OF CAKE," EXCLAIMED ONE RATING IN A DISAPPOINTED TONE.

"HARD OR EASY, ALLIED TROOPS ARE NOW WITHIN WALKING DISTANCE OF BERLIN--AND THAT'S WHAT COUNTS," DECLARED COMMANDER JENKS.

WE CELEBRATED THE OCCASION ON A BOTTLE OF SHERRY THE CAPTAIN HAD BOUGHT AT GIBRALTAR.

THE SHIP'S COMPANY IS RUNNING A LOTTERY ON WHEN ITALY WILL OFFER TO SURRENDER.

30.24-8093

CHUNGKING, SEPT. 5--(AP)--[redacted] AMERICAN PLANES CONTINUED THEIR OFFENSIVE AGAINST JAPANESE SHIPPING AND LINES OF COMMUNICATION, CARRYING OUT WIDESPREAD ATTACKS ON WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY, A COMMUNIQUE FROM LT. GEN. JOSEPH G. STILWELL'S HEADQUARTERS IN CHINA DISCLOSED TODAY.

SEP 6 1943

IN A SWEEP ALONG THE YANGTZE RIVER AMERICAN FLIERS SANK [redacted] A 250-FOOT OIL TANKER NEAR ICHANG AND ALSO ATTACKED THE RAILWAY BETWEEN KIUKIANG AND NANCHANG.

A 150-FOOT SHIP WAS LEFT SINKING IN AN ATTACK ON COASTWISE SHIPPING OF THE KWANTUNG PORT OF SWATOW WHILE A VERY DAMAGING RAID WAS MADE ON VARIOUS JAPANESE INSTALLATIONS NEAR HONGKONG WHERE [redacted] JAPANESE PLANES ATTEMPTING AN INTERCEPTION LOST ONE ZERO AND PROBABLY TWO OTHERS.

ALL AMERICAN PLANES RETURNED SAFELY FROM THE MISSIONS.

1943

NEW DELHI, SEPT.5-(AP)-RAF BEAUFIGHTEI ATTACKED A TRAIN NEAR NATMAW IN SOUTHWESTERN BURMA YESTERDAY, HEAVILY DAMAGING THE ENGINE AND MACHINEGUNNING THE COACHES, A COMMUNIQUE SAID TODAY.

FACTORIES AT NEIKBAN, KATMAUKA, NATMAW AND DANBI ALSO WERE ATTACKED.

-95-

SEPT 5

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC--FOURTH ADD MACARTHUR (WHICH MAY CARRY BYLINE "BY VERN HAUGLAND")

XXX LAE ITSELF.

SEP 6 1943

ONE OBSERVER COMPILED THIS LOG:

6:13 (A.M.)--NAVAL CRAFT LAID DOWN A SMOKE SCREEN OFF LAE. SHIPS START SHELLING LAE; LOTS OF AIR ACTIVITY OVERHEAD. NO OPPOSITION FROM SHORE; NO ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE.

6:50--SHELLING STOPPED. CONVOY IN HUTN GULF CLOSING IN TO SHORE.

7:02--LANDING BEGINS.

7:05--WHAT APPEARS TO BE ENEMY PLANES MAKING FOR NAVAL CRAFT (THESE LATER WERE FOUND TO BE ALLIED AIRCRAFT CROSSING OVER TO LAE).

GENERAL BLAMEY SAID THE JAPANESE POSITIONS AT LAE WERE THE BEST THEY HAD ESTABLISHED ANYWHERE IN THIS CAMPAIGN SO FAR. LAE HAS TWO AIRSTRIPS THREE MILES APART--THE LAE AIRDROME AND MALAHANG. THERE'S A ROAD 25 MILES LONG LEADING UP THE BROAD AND FERTILE MARKHAM VALLEY BUT BEYOND THE ROAD'S END THERE ARE ONLY JUNGLE TRACKS LEADINGINTO THE JAPANESE-OCCUPIED AREA.

THERE ARE NUMEROUS RIVERS IN THE LAE AREA BUT MOST OF THEM CAN BE FORDED, PARTICULARLY SINCE THIS HAS BEEN AN UNUSUALLY DRY YEAR.

THE TROOPS FIGHTING IN THIS SECTOR FIND NOT ONLY THICK JUNGLE BUT ALSO GREAT SAGO SWAMPS AND MANY COCONUT PLANTATIONS.

OBSERVERS SAID THAT THE HEAVY BOMBARDMENTS GIVEN LAE RECENTLY, PARTICULARLY LAST FRIDAY WHEN THE JAPANESE HEADQUARTERS THERE WERE LEVELLED BY 84 TONS OF BOMBS, WERE BELIEVED TO HAVE KNOCKED OUT MAJOR GUN POSITIONS.

SEP 6 1943

MEDIUM BOMBERS AND ATTACK PLANES TWICE RAIDED GASMATA AIRDROME N THE SOUTH COAST OF NEW BRITAIN, SILENCING ANTI-AIRCRAFT OSITIONS AND STARTING FIRES. ONE ALLIED PLANE WAS SHOT DOWN BY ROUND FIRE.

MELBOURNE, SEPT 5-(AP)-THE STAR APANGLED BANNER, SOFTLY 'LAYED BY A YOUNG BOY, UNEXPECTEDLY GREETED MRS.ELEANOR ROOSEVELT ODAY WHEN SHE VISITED THE ORTHEPEDIC WARD OF MELBOURNE'S CHILD OSPITAL.

AS SHE WALKED INTO A ROOM FOR TINY SUFFERERS OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS, 13-YEAR-OLD BRIAN DEAN WAS HOLDING A HARMONICA IN HIS ONE USABLE HAND AND PLAYING AMERICA'S NATIONAL ANTHEM.

MRS.ROOSEVELT WALKED DIRECTLY TO THE BOY AND STOOD SMILING DOWN AT THE YOUNGSTER WHO HAS BEEN AN INVALID FOR SIX YEARS. WHEN HE HESITATED SHE ASKED HIM TO PLAY FOR HER.

SO HE STARTED OVER AND PLAYED THROUGH A VERSE AND CHORUS.

FOUR GENERALS, ONE ADMIRAL AND NUMEROUS OTHER GOLDBRAIDED MEN STOOD AT ATTENTION.

20.24-8095

30.24-8095

MRS.ROOSEVELT, WHO ARRIVED TODAY, WAS IMMEDIATELY WHISKED AWAY ON A TOUR OF AMERICAN ARMY CAMPS.

STANDING ON A TABLE IN A RECREATION HALL AT ONE CAMP, MRS. ROOSEVELT TOLD THE SOLDIERS THAT THE HOSPITALITY OF AUSTRALIANS TO AMERICANS DELIGHTED HER.

"THERE IS NOT ENOUGH WIDESPREAD KNOWLEDGE AT HOME OF HOW OUR BOYS IN NEW ZEALAND AND AUSTRALIA HAVE BEEN TAKEN INTO HOMES AND TREAT AS GUESTS," SHE DECLARED.

SEP 6 1943

DURING A PRESS CONFERENCE MRS. ROOSEVE

T QUICKLY SCOTCHED A WOMAN WAR CORRESPONDENT'S ATTEMPT TO GIVE HER A NEW TITLE. THE REPORTER ADDRESS THE FIRST LADY AS "PRESIDENTESS."

"YOU MEAN WIFE OF THE PRESIDENT," SHE REPROVED.

AT ANOTHER CAMP MRS.ROOSEVELT WAS PRESENTED WITH A BOUND BOOK OF CARTOONS ENTITLED "ELEANOR IS COMING" THAT CHANGED HER SMILE INTO A HEARTY LAUGH.

THE ARTIST, CORPORAL GEORGE A.WARD OF (220 EAST WISTER) PHILADELPHIA, PA., HAD DEPICTED THE EXCITEMENT CAUSED BY THE VISIT OF THE PRESIDENT'S WIFE.

IN BLACK AND WHITE DRAWINGS, WARD PORTRAYED SUCH SCENES AS TWO SOLDIERS ON A TINY ISLAND, ONE SITTING UNDER A PALM TREE AND THE OTHER MOWING GRASS AND SHOUTING, "ELEANOR'S COMING."

ANOTHER DRAWING SHOWED BATTLE SCARRED VETERANS FEVERISHLY DIGGING AN EXTRA FOXHOLE, ONE SHOVELER LOOKING UP AND REMARKING, "ELEANOR'S COMING."

OTHERS DEPICTED FIGHTING MEN SHINING UP THEIR MEDALS, AND LEAVING LINES OF CUTIES BECAUSE "ELEANOR'S COMING."

BUENOS AIRES, SEPT. 5-(AP)-DAVID MATSON OF ROANOKE, VA., OPERATIONS MANAGER OF THE COMPANIA ELECTRICIDAD DEL NORTE (CORRECT) WAS STILL XN UNDER DETENTIONX AT POLICE HEADQUARTERS TODAY WITH TWO OTHER HIGH OFFICIALS OF THE COMPANY.

THEY WERE DETAINED BY GOVERNMENT INVESTIGATORS YESTERDAY WHEN THEIR XX OFFICES WERE RAIDED AND THEIR RECORDS SEIZED.

ALTHOUGH NO OFFICIAL INFORMATION WAS GIVEN IT WAS UNDERSTOOD understood THAT THE COMPANY OFFICIALS, AMONG WHOM MATSON WAS THE ONLY NORTH AMERICAN CITIZEN, WOULD BE TAKEN TO TUCUMAN WHER A COMMITTEE IS INVESTIGATING ACTIVITIES OF HYDROELECTRIC COMPANIES IN THAT NORTHERN PROVINCE.

REPRESENTATIVES OF THE COMMITTEE ARRIVED LAST NIGHT BY MILITARY PLANE AND SPENT THE DAY EXAMINING DOCUMENT SEIZED IN THE RAID.

SEP 6 1943

CALLAO, PERU, SEPT. 5 -(AP)- TWO PERUVIAN SUBCHASERS FROM THE UNITED STATES, TRANSFERRED TO PERU UNDER THE LEASE LEND PROGRAM, ARRIVED TODAY. THEY WILL BE USED TO PROTECT COMMERCIAL TRAFFIC ALONG THE PERUVIAN COAST.

OTTAWA, SEPT. 5-(AP)-MGR. FULTON J.SHEEN, PROFESSOR OF PHILOSOPHY AT CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY, WASHINGTON, D.C., SAID IN AN ADDRESS HERE TONIGHT THAT MEN OF GOOD WILL--"THOSE WHO STILL BELIEVE IN GOD"--MUST UNITE TO COMBAT "THE COMMON FOE STRIKING TODAY AT THAT VERY BELIEF," BUT IT MUST BE A UNITY FOR SOCIAL RATHER THAN RELIGIOUS PURPOSES.

UNITY FOR RELIGIOUS PURPOSES--A MELTING OF ALL RELIGIONS INTO ONE --COULD NOT BE, SINCE IT WOULD BE A VIOLATION OF TRUTH, SAID MGR. SHEEN.

"IF THERE EVER IS A UNION OF RELIGIONS, IT MUST BE DONE UNDER THE PARABLE OF THE PRODIGAL SON--THE CHILDREN MUST COME HOME," HE SAID.

SEP 6 1943

HOWEVER, UNITY FOR SOCIAL PURPOSES IS POSSIBLE, MGR SHEEN DECLARED. THE WHOLE DOMAIN OF THE MORAL ORDER IS AT THE ROOTS OF THE POLITICAL AND ECONOMIC IDEALS OF THE WORLD, AND ON THAT BASIS MEN OF GOOD WILL CAN UNITE.

NEW YORK, SEPT. 5--(AP) --PREMIER ION ANTONESCU OF RUMANIA SAID TODAY ON THE EVE OF THE THIRD ANNIVERSARY OF HIS ADVENT TO POWER THAT HIS COUNTRY, AN AXIS PARTNER, WOULD "CARRY ON THE FIGHT FOR THE RIGHT AND THE WORK FOR RIGHT."

THE PROCLAMATION, REPORTED BY DNB, WAS BROADCAST FROM BERLIN AND RECORDED BY UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT MONITORS.

NEW YORK, SEPT. 5 -(AP)- THE JAPANESE RADIO ASSERTED TODAY THAT A "DRAFT OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE PHILIPPINES" HAD BEEN APPROVED AND SIGNED BY THE "PHILIPPINE INDEPENDENCE PREPARATORY COMMISSION" AT MANILA.

SEP 6 1943

AN AMPLIFIED REPORT OF THE SIGNING CEREMONY, BROADCAST FOR FAR EASTERN CONSUMPTION, QUOTED JOSE LAUREL, PRESIDENT OF THE "COMMISSION," AS HAILING THE DRAFT AS "THE BEST AND MOST CONVINCING EVIDENCE THAT JAPAN IS DETERMINED TO LIBERATE THE FILIPINO PEOPLE."

UNDATED PACIFIC WAR

BY HAROLD STREETER

ASSOCIATED PRESS STAFF WRITER

(ADVANCE) THE GAZELLE PENINSULA OF NEW BRITAIN HOOKS ITS VOLCANIC ARM AROUND RABAUL TO FORM THE UPPER PART OF A CRUDE GEOGRAPHIC QUESTION MARK.

RIGHT NOW, RABAUL IS THE QUESTION MARK OF THE SOUTH PACIFIC

30.24— 8097

30.24-8097

WAR.

WHY HAS THIS OFT-BOMBED JAPANESE STRONGHOLD, WITH ITS THREE BIG AIRDROMES AND ITS SPACIOUS, WELL PROTECTED HARBOR, DROPPED SO ABRUPTLY OUT OF THE NEWS?

LAST JULY 11, A SMALL, MIXED FORMATION OF LIBERATORS AND FLYING FORTRESSES, PROBABLY FLOWN FROM PORT MORESBY, NEW GUINEA, 500 MILES TO THE SOUTHWEST, DUMPED 35 TONS OF BOMBS ON THE VUNA-KANAU AIRFIELD, EIGHT MILES DOWN THE PENINSULA FROM RABAUL.

THAT RAID, ONE IN A LONG SERIES WHICH HAVE BEEN MADE AT RATHER CLOSELY SPACED INTERVALS ON RABAUL SINCE THE JAPANESE SEIZED IT EARLY IN 1942, WAS THE LAST TO BE REPORTED IN GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S COMMUNIQUES.

SEP 6 1943

NEARLY TWO MONTHS OF SILENCE HAVE ENVELOPED RABAUL'S ROLE IN THE WAR. THAT IS IN UTTER CONTRAST WITH THE SITUATION ON JUNE 30, THE DAY MACARTHUR AND ADMIRAL WILLIAM F.HALSEY OPENED THE CURRENT PACIFIC DRIVE BY MOVING SIMULTANEOUSLY AGAINST NEW GEORGIA IN THE SOLOMONS AND SALAMAUA IN NORTHEASTERN NEW GUINEA.

THOSE TWIN THRUSTS, FRONTLINE DISPATCHES SAID, MIGHT WELL BE THE JAWS OF A GIANT PINCERS SNAPPING AT RABAUL.

FOR TWO WEEKS PRIOR TO THE OUTBREAK OF THESE OPERATIONS, BIG BOMBERS OF LT. GEN. GEORGE C.KENNEY'S FIFTH AIRFORCE HAD ROCKED RABAIL WITH 200 TONS OF BOMBS, SUFFICIENT TO MAKE SUPERSTITIOUS NATIVES AMONG THE 8,000 POPULATION PROBABLY FEAR THE DISASTROUS VOLCANO ERUPTION OF MAY, 1937, WAS RECURRING.

ON THE FIRST DAY OF THE NEW OFFENSIVE, RABAUL'S VUNAKANAU AND LAKUNAI AIRDROMES, THE LATTER SOUTHEAST NEAR THE BASE OF THE BIG MOTHER (CAP M) VOLCANO, WERE POUNDED BY 23 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES. SEVENTY-SIX MORE TONS WERE DROPPED DURING THE NEXT THREE DAYS ON THE AIRFIELDS, INCLUDING ALSO RAPOPO.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS EXPLAINED THAT THESE BOMBINGS NEUTRAL-IZED JAPANESE AIRFORCES WHICH OTHERWISE MIGHT BE SENT TO COMBAT AMERICAN OPERATIONS IN THE CENTRAL SOLOMONS, 450 MILES TO THE SOUTHEAST.

AS UNITED STATES JUNGLE TROOPS CLOSED IN SLOWLY ON THE MUNDA AIRDROME ON NEW GEORGIA ISLAND, EMPHASIS WAS GIVEN THE FACT ITS FALL WOULD ENABLE AMERICAN BOMBERS FOR THE FIRST TIME TO HAVE A FIGHTER ESCORT IN RAIDS ON RABAUL. MUNDA FELL AUG. 5 BUT JAPANESE REMNANTS HUNG ON TO PART OF NEW GEORGIA UNTIL AUG. 26. SINCE THEN, REPEATED BOMBING RAIDS HAVE BEEN MADE ON ENEMY BASES IN THE SOLOMONS -- BUT NEVER ON RABAUL.

NOT FOR LONG CAN THE JAPANESE EXPECT TO LOLL UNMOLESTED IN THE SHADE OF RABAUL'S POINCIANA TREES AND ENJOY ITS HOT SULPHUR BATHS. RABAUL IS TOO VITAL TO REMAIN OUT OF THE WAR PICTURE.

SEP 6 1943

ITS AIRDROMES, IN ALLIED HANDS, WOULD MAKE POSSIBLE BOMBING RAIDS ON JAPAN'S MIGHTY NAVAL BASE AT TRUK, 800 MILES TO THE NORTH. FROM RABAUL, AMERICAN BOMBERS COULD RANGE DEVASTATINGLY OVER ENEMY HOLDINGS IN THE CAROLINES AND THE MARSHALL

RABAUL'S HARBOR WOULD CONSTITUTE A RICH PRIZE FOR THE ALLIES. FROM THE ENTRANCE OF BLANCHE BAY, IT IS ALMOST EIGHT MILES AS THE SHIP GOES TO RABAUL'S WHARF. AS THE SHORELINE CURVES, PAST COCONUT PLANTATIONS, IT IS NEARER 12 MILES. AT ITS WIDEST POINT, FROM KARAVIA BAY TO PRAED POINT, IT IS

1943

SIX MILES ACROSS. IN PEACETIME, IT WAS AN HOUR'S RIDE BY STEAMER FROM THE HARABOR ENTRANCE TO THE POINT OF LANDING.

DEEP INSIDE THE BAY WHERE THE "BEEHIVES," TWO VOLCANIC ROCKS IN MID-CHANNEL, MARK THE BEGINNING OF SHELTERED SIMPSON HARBOR, THERE IS AMPLE SPACE FOR MANY WARSHIPS. THE HARBOR HAS GREAT DEPTH EVEN WITHIN A FEW FEET OF THE SHORE.

RABAUL, GERMAN-ESTABLISHED IN 1910, CAPTURED BY THE AUSTRALIANS IN 1914 AND UNDER AUSTRALIAN MANDATE BY PROVISION OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS AFTER THAT WAR, MAY NOT BE EASY FOR THE ALLIES. IT IS RINGED BY RUGGED VOLCANIC MOUNTAINS--MOTHER AND THE DAUGHTERS (CAP D)--SOME SO ACTIVE THAT THE AUSTRALIANS WERE PREPARING TO MOVE ADMINISTRATIVE HEADQUARTERS FROM RABAUL TO LAE, NEW GUINEA, WHEN THE JAPANESE INVADERS APPEARED.

THE PLANS FOR RABAUL'S SEIZURE MUST BULK LARGE IN ALLIED STRATEGY AS THE FRONTLINES ENCROACH UPON IT FROM NEW GUINEA AND THE SOLOMONS. IT DISAPPEARANCE FROM THE WAR REPORTS CAN'T LAST MUCH LONGER.

BY HENRY B.JAMESON

(ADVANCE) LONDON, SEPT.5-(AP)-ALLIED INVASION OF ITALY FOCUSED ATTENTION OF THE TEXTILE INDUSTRY ON THE REPORTED ACUTE SHORTAGE THERE OF BOTH TAILORED GOODS AND RAW MATERIALS.

TRADE SOURCES WERE OF THE OPINION THAT CLOTHING AND TEXTILE RAW MATERIALS WOULD BE AMONG THE FIRST PRODUCTS WHICH ITALY MIGHT HAVE TO BE SUPPLIED IF THE UNITED NATIONS SHOULD TAKE OVER AND ASSUME RESPONSIBILITY FOR PROVIDING ESSENTIAL REQUIREMENTS OF THE CIVILIAN POPULATION.

THE SERIOUSNESS OF THE SITUATION WAS REFLECTED BY TWO RECENT ORDERS FROM THE ITALIAN MINISTRY OF INDUSTRY, COMMERCE AND LABOR.

THE FIRST COMPELLED ALL FORMER MEMBERS OF FASCIST ORGANIZATIONS TO DELIVER THEIR UNIFORMS TO SPECIAL MILITARY COLLECTING STATIONS FOR RE-USE BY THE ARMY. THE SECOND WAS INTENDED TO EXPEDITE DELIVERIES OF TEXTILES FROM CURRENT PRODUCTION.

BUT WITH THE SCARCITY OF COTTON AND WOOL PLUS HEAVY ALLIED BOMBINGS, THAT PRODUCTION WAS NOT LIKELY TO MEET EVEN MINIMUM DEMANDS FOR LONG.

---DASH--

NEW COTTON BUSINESS MAINLY WAS IN CLOTH FOR THE TRADE IN "UTILITY" APPAREL.

SOME ORDERS WERE PLACED FOR VARIOUS GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENTS, MAINLY FOR THE ADMIRALTY'S STANDARD QUALITIES AND IN BAG CLOTHS. SMALL TRADE THROUGH PRIVATE CHANNELS INCLUDED LITTLE FOR EXPORT.

THERE WAS LITTLE CHANGE IN THE YARN MARKET WHILE CONDITIONS AND TRADE IN SPECIALTIES OF ALL KINDS REMAINED SLOW.

--DASH--

THE WOOL MARKET GENERALLY WAS QUIET BUT A MODERATE AMOUNT OF BUSINESS WAS TRANSACTED IN HOSIERY AND WEAVING YARNS FOR THE HOME CIVILIAN TRADE.

CONSIDERABLE SURPRISE WAS CAUSED BY NOTICES SENT TO CERTAIN SPINNERS CALLING UPON THEM TO MAKE FURTHER RELEASES OF LABOR FOR GOVERNMENT WORK OR FOR THE ARMED FORCES.

SOME TIME AGO THE IMPRESSION WAS CREATED THAT IN VIEW OF A PRODUCTION BOTTLENECK IN WORSTEDS AND SPINNING, NO FURTHER CALLS WOULD BE MADE ON THIS SECTION OF THE INDUSTRY.

--DASH--

THERE WAS CONTINUED STRONG DEMAND FOR ALL KINDS OF RAYON YARNS WITH CONSUMERS BOOKING FOR DELIVERY TO THE END OF THE YEAR AT UNSPECIFIED PRICES.

(END ADVANCE FOR AMS OF MONDAY, SEPT.6)

1943

30.24-8099

30.24-8099

among the prisoners indicated the Germans again were using them as rearguards to cover their own withdrawal, as they did repeatedly in Africa and Sicily.

Paul Kern Lee, Associated Press reporter aboard a British destroyer said the coastal area blossomed with white flags soon after the invasion was launched, with hundreds of civilians waving tokens of surrender.

SAN FRANCISCO, SEPT. 5-(AP)-THE U.S.S. WHITEHURST, A DESTROYER ESCORT NAMED FOR THE LATE ENSIGN HENRY PUREFOY WHITEHURST OF NEW BERN, N.C., WAS LAUNCHED TODAY AT THE BETHLEHEM STEEL COMPANY YARDS.

MRS. ROBBIE WHITEHURST OF 42 JOHNSON ST., NEW BERN, MOTHER OF ENSIGN WHITEHURST, SPONSORED THE VESSEL.

ENSIGN WHITEHURST WAS KILLED ABOARD THE CRUISER ASTORIA IN A SOLOMON ISLANDS BATTLE AUG 9, 1942.

WITH NEW GUINEA

BY VERN HAUGLAND

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, SEPT.4-(DELAYED)-(AP)-WHILE ALLIED TROOPS WERE INVADING THE SOUTH COAST OF NEW GUINEA'S HUON PENINSULA EAST OF LAE TODAY, THE FIFTH AIRFORCE WAS HAVING ONE OF ITS BUSIEST DAYS OF THE WAR.

LIBERATORS HEAVILY BOMBED THE TOWN OF LAE, MITCHELLS BOMBED THE JAPANESE COASTAL BASE OF HOPOI, 20 MILES EAST OF LAE, AND ALLIED FIGHTERS INTRCEPTED ABOUT 50 ENEMY PLANES AND SHOT DOWN AT LEAST 24. THE ALLIES LOST TWO P-38'S.

MAJOR EDWARD CRAGG, OF GREENWICH, CONN., PILOT OF A P-38 LIGHTNING, SHOT DOWN TWO JAPANESE FIGHTERS TO BRING HIS TOTAL SCORE TO 10.

"WE SAW 15 TO 20 DIVE BOMBERS, ACCOMPANIED BY 45 FIGHTERS, COMING IN OFF LAE AND HEADING TOWARD ALLIED SHIPPING WHICH WAS LANDING OUR GROUND TROOPS ALONG HUON GULF," HE SAID.

"WE ATTACKED AND FORCED MOST OF THE BOMBERS TO JETTISON THEIR LOADS IN THE WATER BEFORE REACHING THEIR TARGETS.

SEP 6 1943

"IT LOOKED LIKE THE JAPS HIT ONE OR TWO OF OUR SMALL SHIPS BECAUSE WE THOUGHT WE SAW EXPLOSIONS ON THE WATER. WE ALSO SAW OUR NAVAL GUNS SHOOT DOWN SOME BOMBERS."

(THE COMMUNIQUE FROM GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS TELLING OF THE LANDING OPERATIONS SAID 16 JAPANESE FIGHTERS, FOUR BOMBERS AND ONE FLYING BOAT WAS SHOT DOWN.)

"FIRST LT.JAY ROBBINS, OF COOLIDGE, TEX., AND I GOT BOXED IN BY EIGHT TO 15 ZEROS AND HAD A TOUGH TIME GETTING OUT," CRAGG SAID.

"IT WAS HARDER TO GET ON THEIR TAIL AND DO ANY GOOD THAN EVER BEFORE. THE FIGHT LASTED FOUR MINUTES DURING WHICH I SHOT DOWN TWO AND ROBBINS GOT FOUR, PLUS TWO PROBABLES. THAT MAKES HIS TOTAL SEVEN TO DATE.

"OTHER PILOTS OF OUR P-38 SQUADRON SHOT DOWN FIVE OTHERS, AND PROBABLY DESTROYED A SIXTH.

"I SAW A COUPLE OF JAP PILOTS BAIL OUT, FOLLOWED ONE DOWN AND SAW HIM HIT THE WATER AND APPARENTLY DROWN AS THE BODY STAYED SEVERAL FEET UNDER WATER."

MAJOR THOMAS LYNCH, OF CATASAUQUA, PA., SHOT DOWN ONE DIVE BOMBER OVER HUON GULF, HIS BULLETS CAUSING IT TO EXPLODE DIRECTLY IN FRONT OF HIM. LYNCH NOW IS TIED WITH CAPT.GEORGE WELCH, OF WILMINGTON, DEL., AND FIRST LT.RICHARD BONG, OF POPLAR, WIS., FOR TOP FIGHTER PILOT HONORS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC. EACH HAS SHOT DOWN 16 ENEMY PLANES.

AMONG OTHER P-38 PILOTS SHOOTING DOWN ENEMY PLANES IN TODAY'S HUON GULF BATTLE WERE:

LT.DON CARLOS HANOVER, OF FOSTORIA, O.--TWO ZEROS.

CAPT.JAMES R.WILSON, JACKSON, MISS., ACD LTS. MARK KASPER, MINNEAPOLIS, AND HAMILTON SALAMEN, OF GARDEN CITY, N.Y.,--ONE FIGHTER EACH HOMER ALSO WAS CREDITED WITH ONE PROBABLE.

SEP 6 1943

MITCHELL MEDIUM BOMBERS BOMBED AND STRAFED THE HUON GULF COAST EAST OF LAE WITHOUT ENEMY INTERCEPTION. THEY CONCENTRATED THEIR ATTACK ON THE AIRSTRIP AT HOPOI, POUNDING IT INTO USELESSNESS TO THE ENEMY.

THIS WAS EARLY IN THE MORNING. SHORTLY THEREAFTER A LARGE FORMATION OF B-24 LIBERATORS, WITH AN ESCORT OF FIGHTERS, DROPPED 96 TONS OF BOMBS ON ENEMY GUN POSITIONS, SUPPLY DUMPS AND OTHER TARGETS. THE BOMBERS WEREN'T INTERCEPTED AND DESPITE HEAVY ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE ALL RETURNED.

SUBSEQUENTLY WAVES OF BOMBERS FOUND THAT MAJOR ANTI-AIRCRAFT POSITIONS IN SOME SECTORS HAD BEEN SILENCED.

MAJ. WILLIAM WELCH, OF ST.LOUIS, MO., SAID THE BOMBARDIER ON HIS LIBERATOR OVERSHOT HIS TARGET, A GUN EMPLACEMENT, BUT HIT A GROUP OF BUILDINGS. THE BUILDINGS, WHICH WERE DEMOLISHED, APPARENTLY HOUSED THE ADMINISTRATIVE HEADQUARTERS SO THE BOMBARDIER, SECOND LT.RICHARD GRABLIN, OF 2335 EAST WALNUT ST., DES MOINES, IA., WAS CREDITED WITH A LUCKY HIT.

LT.J.F.RODJANKAS, OF BENTLEYVILLE, PA., WHO WAS ON THE FIRST LIBERATOR OVER THE TARGET, SAID HE SAW SEVERAL FIRES WITH SMOKE RISING 1,000 FEET AND CONSIDERED THE EARLY MORNING RAID VERY SATISFACTORY.

SEP 6 1943

CHUTISTS RING FOE AT LAE; BRITISH PUSH AHEAD IN ITALY; RUSSIANS CAPTURE KONOTOP

Trap Is Closed On 20,000 Foes By Yank Units

Gen. MacArthur, In Fortress, Sees Americans Land

SEP 7 1943

BY C. YATES M'DANIEL

ALLIED HEADSUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Tuesday, Sept. 7. (AP)—American paratroops, watched fro ma Flying Fortress by Gen. Douglas MacArthur as they floated down to the Markham valley, have landed behind Lae, New Guinea, to complete the encirclement of 20,000 Japanese in the Lae-Salamaua sector.

Considerable Force

These landings, achieved in considerable force Sunday, caught the Japanese completely by surprise as a strong force of Australians, veterans of African battles, had done the day before by storming ashore above Lae while warships laid down a smokescreen.

Gen. MacArthur was in a bomber which was part of a huge formation that cruised over the new landing point. He saw the men seize strong positions without encountering any immediate resistance.

The paratroopers were virtually all Americans, although there were a few Australians. These were artillery units and their guns also were successfully dropped.

These freshly won positions at Lae, together with others which have been slowly forged 18 miles to the southeast at Salahaua, ringed in elements of four Japanese divisions.

ESCAPE CUTOFF

Any hope the Japanese might have held of using the Markham valley to flee out of Lae into the jungles was erased by the paratroopers who closed that inland route to the enemy.

The Australian forces above Lae, who, since have pushed ahead until they met resistance at a plantation 10 miles from Lae, suffered a few casualties from raiding Japanese planes, but the paratroopers' surprise was even more complete. Striking on the fourth anniversary of Australian entry into the war, they encountered no air opposition. They were unmolested, therefore, in dropping to the valley and the planes which brought them had the air to themselves.

The greatest assemblage of heavy and medium bombers, fighters and transport planes ever employed in the Pacific area was involved in Sunday's operation.

RING IS CLOSED

"We have closed the ring at Lae and Salamaua," Gen. MacArthur said.

That ring pressed on three airdromes—two at Lae and one at Salamaua.

"In a comprehensive air movement, our paratroops in force have seized the western approaches along the Markham valley (whose river empties into the Huon gulf at Lae)," today's communique reported.

"The operation completely surprised the enemy's ground troops engaged on the north and eastern flanks by our encircling forces which landed yesterday. Elements of four Japanese divisions aggregating perhaps a maximum strength of 20,000 at the beginning are now completely enveloped with their supplies cut."

BLAST PLANTATION

Continuing to provide impressive air support, big four-motored Allied bombers destroyed a heavy fortified position at Heaths plantation, which headquarters referred to as "the main northtern bastion protecting Lae." The 95 tons of 1,000-pound bombs dropped reduced the position to ruins.

Attack bombers roamed the Markham valley, striking at artilery posts and installatioons with fragmentation bombs and more than 60,000 rounds of ammunition.

At Salamaua, advancing Americans and Australians which have brought the airdrome there within rifle range pressed slowly forward from the south.

Headquarters reference to the fact that the Japanese strength was estimated around 20,000 "at the beginning" might be taken to mean that the force now encircled there is somewhat smaller. But if it even approximates that figure, the Japanese there in danger of annihilation exceed the size of the enemy's army of 15,000 which virtually was wiped out in Alied conquest of the Papuan peninsula below the present battleground.

1943

30.24 — 8101

30.24 — 8101

Continuing to prove impressive air support, four-engined Allied bombers destroyed a strong Japanese fortified position at Heath's Plantation, which headquarters referred to as "the main northern bastion protecting Lae." The ninety-five tons of 1,000-pound bombs dropped reduced the position to ruins.

Attack bombers roamed the Markham Valley, striking at artillery posts and installations with fragmentation bombs and more than 60,000 rounds of ammunition.

An Army spokesman said the Australians had encountered ground resistance at only two points. Japanese troops showed some opposition in the vicinity of one of the two beachheads which were established Saturday and also near Singaua Plantation, which is about ten miles east of Lae.

At Salamaua the American and Australian troops who have brought the airdrome there within rifle range were pressing slowly forward from the south.

ian sea.

Resistance continued feeble, though some tanks were encountered. The Straits of Messina were opened for Allied navigation as the invaders compelled the Axis troops to withdraw their coastal cannon from range.

Allied planes empoyed their supremacy to weave a web of destruction in southern and central Italy. Heavy bombers pummeled the Viterbo area, 50 miles north of Rome, in daylight sweeps Sunday.

Flying Fortresses and medium bombers concentrated on a triple smash at three key airdromes north of Naples which apparently have been the major enemy air bases.

R.A.F. Hits Railways

The continued destruction of Italian railways was left for the moment to R.A.F. Wellingtons. The attacks on airfields were with the avowed purpose of destroying enemy aircraft. Thousands of fragmentation and demolition bombs were loosed on the Naples fields by American raiders, pockmarking the runways.

At Santo Stefano d'Aspromonte, 10 miles east and northeast of Reggio Calabria, Italian civilians greeted the invader fervently. The mountain hamlet was farthest inland penetration and, with Reggio Calabria and Scilla, fromed a triangular wedge inland.

Among the villages captured were Calanna, San Roberto, Fiumara,

1—Where was the superb American Seventh army of Gen. George S. Patton, Jr.?

2—Will the Italians attempt more than token resistance, or continue to surrender with alacrity?

3—Where will the main body of German troops be encountered?

The answer to the third question may be battered Naples, which appeared to be heavily fortified. Naples is 195 airlines miles nortn of Messina.

Only a handful of the prisoners were Germans. Among the booty captured were 100 good freight cars and a locomotive.

Fighting was limited to small scale engagements, official reports showed. Generally, the operation consisted of mortars firing at mountain trails and narrow, winding roads. Allied casualties were extremely light.

(The German broadcast acknowledging the "evacuation of southern Calabria" said:

("The evacuation by Italian authorities and the German military command force has been carried out according to plan and in complete order. All supplies have been carried away and brought into safety. The civilian population likewise has been evacuated in full order.

("All indications point to a second large scale landing of British and American troops at another place in the Mediterranean to come soon.")

giers tonight that the Eighth army had made contact with German units and continued to advance in Italy.

Demolitions still were encountered but the drive was impeded only slightly by the destruction, the radio said. In some sectors, Allied troops were said to have advanced up to 31 miles in 32 hours.

Eighth Army Drives 10 Miles Inland, Axis Withdraws from Toe of Italy

NORGAARD

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 6 — (AP) British and Canadian troops drove 10 miles inland from their 40-mile beachhead on the Italian toe through extensive demolitions and stood tonight on the forbidding slopes of Aspromonte, a 6,000-foot mountain nearly halfway across the Calabrian peninsula.

(A Berlin radio account quoting DNB said the Axis had evacuated southern Calabria, the Italian province cradled in the toe.)

Ten More Towns Fall

Ten more towns fell. Prisoners swelled to 3,000. Columns invading the European mainland were nearing Palmi in their drive north. Others curling around the south tip of the Italian toe extended their holdings beyond Melito on the Ion-

Santa Lucia, Rosali, San Rocco, Musuala, Laganadi and Santo Alessio.

The invasion proceeded slowly, methodically and cautiously over rugged and varied terrain of mountains, valleys and thick wood favorable for defense. The area is thick with tunnels, bridegs and culverts, and the "very extensive" demolitions of these slowed the British Eighth army and the Canadians far more than enemy fire power.

More Troops Arrive

Reinforcements and maintenance forces shuttled across the Messina straits under the watchful warships fluttering Allied ensigns.

On this fourth day of the invasion of Europe proper across the moat of the Messina strait, three paramount questions still were unanswered:

German broadcasts speculated on an attempt to capture Sardinia and Corsica, large islands north of Sicily. They also spoke of a "direct operation" against the Italian mainland or southern France.

The attacks on the Naples airfields were very strong, of the type which previously sent the enemy air force unto full retreat from air bases in Tunisia, Sicily and southern Italy.

For the first time in recent days, light bombers found troop concentrations on the toe of Italy for targets. Medium and light bombers attacked rail yards at Battipaglia, airfields at Grazznaise, a rail bridge near Menteno, and radio installations and an airfield in Sardinia. In all operations, seven enemy planes were shot down and two Allied craft were lost. Few enemy fighters attempted challenges.

SAY CONTACT MADE

Radio France broadcast from Al-

REDS WIN KONOTOP IN STALINO SWEEP

Fall of Steel Center to Russians Expected Quickly as Nazis Flee.

JAMES M. LONG

LONDON, Tuesday, Sept. 7—(AP) The Red army captured the stronghold of Konotop yesterday in a broad sweep that put Soviet forces only 115 miles from the Ukraine capital at Kiev, Moscow announced early today.

The fall of Stalino in the Donets basin was expected momentarily.

A communique announced the seizure of Konotop and also Novye Mlyny, 25 miles to the northwest near the junction of the Desna and Seim rivers, whose waters flow southwestward to empty into the Dnieper at Kiev, 115 miles from Novye Mlyny.

Press Toward Rail Junction

The Russians now are pursuing broken German troops west of Konotop toward Bakhmach, 15 miles away, a vital rail hub for central Russia, Moscow said. Red airmen also pounded the retreating enemy.

Smashing gains on an 80-mile front in the Donets basin carried the Russians over the bodies of 3,000 Germans to the outskirts of Stalino, reportedly set on fire by retreating Axis forces. Makeevka, six miles east of the great steel center, fell to the advancing Red army, as did Kramatorskaya, Slavyansk and other rail cities north of Stalino.

A Moscow broadcast indicated the Germans were in headlong flight from Stalino. It said Soviet airmen racing ahead of the victorious ground forces had smashed German troop trains at Volnovakha on the line leading southwest of Stalino.

10,000 Nazis Slain

The Russians said they killed more than 10,000 Germans on all fronts during the day, and captured or destroyed scores of enemy tanks and guns.

Berlin told of a "planned withdrawal" toward the Dnieper river 140 miles to the west, but Russian front dispatches declared there was demoralization in the Axis ranks.

SEP 7 1943

Dazed groups of prisoners were being rounded up, great quantities of German equipment were being seized intact, and the Russians also found dynamite charges under vital rail points which the Germans had failed to set off.

Nearly 300 towns and villages were swept up by the Russians along the 600-mile front in gains ranging from six to 15 miles. One hundred were seized in the Donets basin, another 100 in the Konotop area, and most of the others in the sector below Bryansk.

Topping Konotop, key junction on the Bryansk-Kiev and Kursk-Kiev trunk lines, the Red army raced on westward toward Bakhmach, 15 miles away, where another line runs northwestward to Gomel, in White Russia.

The Russians now control 100 miles of the Bryansk-Kiev line between Konotop and Bryansk, depriving the Germans of their most direct communications link between the central and southern fronts. The expected early seizure of Bakhmach would cut a second German artery between White Russia and Kremenchug, on the Dnieper river bend in the south.

The communique said Red army units fighting toward Smolensk on the central front and west and southwest of Kharkov toward the Dnieper river bend had captured several localities and improved their positions.

Rail communication between Moscow and Kharkov has been reestablished, one Moscow broadcast said.

During Sunday's fighting on all fronts, the Russians said, their troops knocked out 119 German tanks and shot down 92 planes.

Reds Within 3 Miles Of Burning Stalino, Key German Base

Nazis Retreating Along 600-Mile Front From Azov Sea to Smolensk

(Map on Page A-3.)

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Soviet forces were reported by the Moscow radio today to have closed in to within 3 miles of burning Stalino, key to the German positions in the Donets Basin.

A broadcast by Col. Adreyv, Tass military observer, said that "one group of Soviet troops is now three miles east" of the threatened city.

The Russian midnight communique broadcast from Moscow and recorded by the Soviet monitor announced that Axis forces were withdrawing along a 600-mile front which extended from the shores of the Sea of Azov north to the Smolensk sector. In some localities, the Russians said, Red Army units have stabbed as much as nine miles deeper into German-held territory.

250 Towns Fall.

Two hundred and fifty more towns fell to the Russians yesterday, the war bulletin said, bringing the bag for the most important week of fighting in the Soviet summer offensive to 1,500. All along the grim route the Germans were resisting desperately, hurling masses of troops into counterattacks which failed to halt the Red Army. More than 8,000 Nazis were slain and scores of tanks and other heavy equipment were destroyed in the fighting, the Russians said.

In the Donets Basin, the Russians were rapidly maneuvering into position for a knockout blow at Stalino, industrial city and mining center which the Germans have held and heavily fortified since they first captured it in October, 1941.

One unit battled its way into Khartsyzsk, 15 miles east of Stalino, and another captured Artemovsk, 42 miles north. Great minefields and a complicated system of tank traps barred the approaches to Artemovsk, a rail junction point, which the Russians said fell only after a hard battle.

Ten Miles From Stalino.

A Reuters dispatch from Moscow said Russian armored forces driving toward Stalino from the northeast were less than 10 miles from the city at one point.

The Berlin radio, meanwhile, broadcast a report that Russian naval forces operating in the eastern part of the Gulf of Finland had tried to land troops in considerable force behind the German lines at the northern end of the long front.

The attempt was repulsed with heavy Soviet losses, the radio said.

To the north the Red Army strengthened its hold on the Bryansk-Kiev railroad, seizing Khutor-Mikhaylovsky, a rail junction 85 miles south of Bryansk, which now gives the Russians control of an unbroken stretch of 70 miles along the vital rail link north of Konotop.

Konotop itself was in imminent danger of collapse with Russian units now engaged in an encirclement move made possible by the seizure of Koron, northwest of the northern Ukrainian city on the Desna River. From this point the Russian forces were reported to have split, some units striking westward toward the Konotop-Gomel railroad and others turning southwest along the Desna to strike at Konotop from the rear.

Nazis Counterattack.

In the Bryansk sector Russian spearheads were aiming for the Desna River and the Russians said that the Red Army had advanced nine miles and had captured 50 villages.

The Germans were counterattacking in the Smolensk sector but the Russians said that all of the Nazi thrusts were thrown back under a withering bombardment by artillery and mortar units. More than half of the attacking force was wiped out, the Russians declared.

West of Sevsk, in the middle of the 600-mile battle line, the Russians captured a railway station and district center in the Sumy region. A stubborn battle for the town developed and the Russians finally took the town by storm.

In the Orel district, scene of the first major victory in the summer offensive, the Red Army captured another rail center and liberated 5,000 Russians who, the communique said, were being forcibly transported for German slave labor.

Bitter fighting took place southwest of Kharkov where the Germans were attempting to cover the few remaining railway escape routes from the Donets Basin, but the Russians said they took several positions, killed more than 600 Germans and smashed eight tanks and six guns in the fighting.

Netherlands Police Head Assassinated

LONDON, Sept. 6. (AP)—The DNB German news agency said today that the Dutch police chief at Utrecht in the German-occupied Netherlands had been assassinated.

The broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press, gave the dead man's name as Col. Kerten and added that he was an officer in the Netherlands army before becoming police chief under the Nazis.

AUSTRALIA GETS CRUISER

LONDON, Tuesday, Sept. 7. — (AP) The British cruiser Shropshire has been presented to Australia in fulfillment of a promise made by Britain after the sinking of the Australian cruiser Canberra off the Solomon islands last summer, it was announced today.

NEW CHIEF LEADS U. S. FIGHTER GROUP

Gen. Kepner Takes Command in Shift of Generals in Britain.

LONDON, Sept. 6—(AP) Maj.-Gen. William C. Kepner, veteran Army airman, has assumed command of the U. S. Eighth fighter command in England, a U. S. Army headquarters announcement said today, in a personnel shift believed aimed at extensive expansion of the fighter force in a new tactical air force designed to blast the way for a cross-channel invasion.

Gen. Kepner replaced Brig. Gen. Frank Hunter, who was credited with building up the Thunderbolt force which has struck hard at the Germans in western Europe.

The command shift was linked with the presence in England of Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the U. S. Army air forces, and his declaration Saturday that "we are progressing with the development of planes, crews and technique for a British-based tactical air force to do what the tactical air force in Northwest Africa did so brilliantly in Tunisia and Sicily and now is doing in Italy."

Gen. Kepner is a stocky, handsome, mustached one-time farm boy from Kokomo, Ind. He has served as chief of the air support command at Mitchell Field, N. Y., then as fighter command chief and as air force chief on the west coast. In World War I he saw cavalry and infantry service in France, was wounded three times and won the Distinguished Service Cross.

BBC Tells French To Be Cautious of 'Alarm' by Nazis

BY WILLIAM SMITH WHITE

LONDON, Sept. 6. (AP)—The Germans, apparently suffering from a severe case of invasion nerves, were reported today rushing possible measures for the defense of the southern coast of France and other vulnerable spots along Europe's Mediterranean coastline.

German rumors of Allied intentions for the invasion of Adolf Hitler's "fortress of Europe" flew so thick and fast that the British Broadcasting Corp. sent a warning to French listeners to "be careful of German provocations."

Announcing the evacuation of even the Italian civilian population from the Calabrian toe of Italy, scene of the United Nations' first invasion of the European mainland, the Germans were said to have cleared all French civilians out of a 50-mile strip of France's southern coastal region, 10 miles deep.

PUSH FORTIFICATIONS

Field Marshal Gen. Karl Rudolf Gerd von Rundstedt, 67-year-old German commander-in-chief in Western Europe, also was reported pushing ahead additional fortifications in the Narbonne-Montpelier district of the Mediterranean coast to protect his headquarters at Montpelier.

Like the Marseille area, that district, flat and sandy with several good ports, is particularly suitable for landing operations.

Advices to the Allied governments here said from 5,000 to 10,000 engineers were also working frantically in the Marseille-Toulon area, throwing up fortifications.

Berlin's admission that Southern Calabria was gone was made in a tone which attempted to discount the entire present Italian operations and to anticipate far heavier Allied thrusts elsewhere.

GERMANS "FISHING"

For days the Germans have been casting about trying to obtain some intimation as to which of the tremendous Allied forces in the Mediterranean was going to lunge against them next. Those forces comprise all or parts of seven United Nations armies. They are the American Fifth and Seventh armies; the British Eighth, part of which is already in action; the British Ninth, 10th and First armies, and the combined French forces which have been promised a share in the invasion of France.

Almost any Mediterranean operation would involve airborne forces and today, Maj.-Gen. William C. Lee, commander of an airborne division, told a press conference in London that American airborne forces are now ready to carry their full share of invasion operations "in any part of the world."

SURPASS GERMANS

He added that the Americans and their Allies had formed parachute and glider units which "will surpass anything the Germans have used up to this time."

GUARANTY SOUGHT BY ITALY ON STATUS OF HER FRONTIERS

Rome Seeks Assurance 1919 Borders Will Be Respected by Allies.

LONDON, Sept. 6—(AP) The Rome radio, in a home and overseas broadcast recorded by the British Ministry of Information, asked the United States and Britain tonight whether they were prepared to guarantee Italy's 1919 frontiers.

In words reflecting Italy's thoughts of peace, the broadcast stated:

"We do not want to haggle over words. We are prepared to face stark reality.

"We, therefore, ask you Britain and America—do you intend to respect the independence and unity of our unfortunate country?

"If you do, why don't you say so?"

"Do the war and peace aims of the Anglo-Saxons guarantee Italy's 1919 frontiers, or do they mean further amputation?"

The broadcast asserted that the insistence on unconditional surrender proved that the United States and Britain were unwilling to give Italy such an understanding and had caused Count Carlo Sforza to abandon the position he had assumed in the Italian anti-Fascist movement abroad.

Somaliland, Eritrea and Libya were Italian possessions in 1919. The frontiers did not officially embrace Fiume, which was Yugoslavian until 1924, although a raiding party led by Gabriele d'Annunzio occupied the contested town on Sept. 12, 1919, and d'Annunzio remained for a time as "commandant." Italy in 1919 did not have Albania which was independent, the Dodecanese Islands, or Ethiopia.

The German radio, in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, told of details of a document and map which it said the Italian government addressed to the Allies and all other interested governments on Aug. 23 seeking to have Rome declared an open city.

The map, the Radio said, marked the undefended zone with a red line, including all residential quarters, all historical monuments, palaces, churches and Vatican City and a broad belt behind it, but did not include Rome's airdrome.

No military forces except garrison troops are now in Rome, the Berlin radio said the document declared. The German broadcast added:

"No reply on behalf of the Allied governments has been received by the Italian government."

FORTRESSES DOWN 70 NAZI FIGHTERS IN STUTTGART RAID

Escorting Pursuit Craft Add 12 More to German Losses.

SEP 7 1943

AIRFIELDS BLASTED

Many Fires Left Burning in Reich Industrial Centers.

LONDON, Tuesday, Sept. 7—(AP) Large formations of U.S. Flying Fortresses attacked industrial targets in southwest Germany and air fields in France yesterday and, encountering persistent opposition, shot down more than 70 Nazi fighters, it was announced today.

"Flying Fortresses supported by Thunderbolts left fires burning in Stuttgart and bombed other targets, including air fields at Orleans and Conches, in France," said a communique issued jointly by the Air ministry and U.S. Army headquarters.

Attack Rail Yards

United States and R.A.F. medium bombers and British fighter-bombers attacked railway yards, docks and French air fields, the communique reported.

The docks of Boulogne and freight yards at Rouen, Abbeville, Serqueux and Amiens came again under the bombsights of U.S. A.A.F. Marauders, R.A.F. Mitchells and Venturas and Typhoons.

Spitfire and Typhoon fighters which covered these operations shot down 11 enemy fighters and a Thunderbolt was credited with a 12th, making a total of more than 80 German fighters destroyed during the day.

35 U. S. Planes Lost

"From all these operations, 35 U.S. A.A.F. aircraft and four Spitfires are missing," the communique said.

The American losses were not divided as to categories.

Meanwhile Axis radios were going off the air again over Nazi Europe in the night—a sign that Allied raiders might be maintaining their offensive activity—and Reuters reported in a Basel dispatch that an alert sounded in that Swiss city at 10:30 p.m.

British anti-aircraft batteries, which have seen comparatively little action in recent months, put up a heavy barrage as German raiders appeared over the Thames estuary last night.

An air raid warning sounded in some areas of London.

Nazi bombs caused slight damage in two country districts of East Anglia and injured two persons and caused slight property damage at two points on the southeast coast.

Heavy R. A. F. Raid

The day attack followed close on the heels of a Sunday night R.A.F. raid in "very great strength" which turned Mannheim and Ludwigshafen, the twin cities of the industrial Rhineland, into smoking ruin under the weight of 1,500 long tons (1,730 U. S. tons) of explosives, it was announced.

The R.A.F. night attack was made at a loss of 34 of the big planes, it was announced. Eleven enemy planes were shot down.

Photographs revealed that the bombers had the targets dead in their sights in the Mannheim-Ludwigshafen attack, sending up a cloud of smoke at times nearly four miles high, the Air ministry news service said. Huge fires were visible for 180 miles on the return journey.

The bombers dropped 1,500 long tons in 45 minutes at a clip of approximately 33 tons a minute—a little slower than the 50-per-minute rate in the recent Berlin and Hamburg attacks.

Much of Donets Regained

LONDON, Sept. 6 (AP).—The Red Army already has reconquered most of the ricch Donets basin and the Germans apparently began setting fire to Stalino, its industrial heart, on Sunday, Moscow dispatches said today.

strength" which turned Mannheim and Ludwigshafen, the twin cities of the industrial Rhineland, into smoking ruin under the weight of 1,500 long tons (1,7300 U. S. tons) of explosives, it was announced.

Coming after four straight days of virtually uninterrupted raiding totaling already more than 40 major operations, medium and light bombers and fighters followed up the big bombers in a day-long procession across the channel.

More waves of bombers and scores of fighters winged out across the channel early tonight to carry the unprecedented assault into another night.

Specific targets of the Flying Fortress raid were not announced, but the daylight bombers drove into the Wuertemberg-Baden area in which the industrial center of Stuttgart is the leading city.

HIT RAIL YARDS

American B-26 medium Marauder bombers followed thru with their fourth raid in six days to hit the sprawling railroad yards of Rouen in Northern France, and RAF fighter-bombers and fighters bombed the Boulogne harbor and the Serquex railway yards for the second time within five days.

A brief Berlin radio announcement that two Flying Fortresses from the Mannheim-Ludwigshafen raid had made forced landings in Switzerland raised the possibility that American bombers might have joined the RAF on last night's foray.

Later a Swiss radio report said that four Fortresses had landed on Swiss territory and their crews had been interned. One Flying Fortress crashed into a lake but nine members of the crew were saved, the broadcast said.

The Swiss report did not name the raid in which the planes participated and they were possibly stragglers from the daylight attack on Southwestern Germany, but there have been increasing rumors lately of possible American night operations.

As far back as March Maj.-Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander of American air forces in Britain, said that Flying Fortresses might make night raids when unfavorable weather hampered day attacks.

The remark Saturday of Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the U. S. army air forces now in Britain, that Americans had been night-t.. for 23 years and all bomber cre. are now trained for night bombing, also lent weight to the possibility.

34 PLANES LOST

The RAF night attack was made at a loss of 34 of the big planes, it was announced. Eleven enemy planes were shot down.

Photographs revealed that the bombers had the targets dead in their sights in the Mannheim-Ludwigshafen attack, sending up a cloud of smoke at times nearly four miles high, the air ministry news service said. Huge fires were visible for 180 miles on the return journey.

The bombers dropped 1,500 long tons in 45 minutes at a clip of approximately 33 tons a minute—a little slower than the 50-per-minute rate in the recent Berlin and Hamburg attacks.

Germans Report Battle Against American Planes

SEP 7 1943

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—RAF bombers in "very great strength"—probably 700 or more four-engined giants carrying 1,000 to 1,500 long tons of bombs—turned the twin war-factory cities of Mannheim and Ludwigshafen on the Rhine into smoking ruin last night, and the Berlin radio reported that American bombers were following up with daylight attacks in Southwestern Germany.

The channel sky was filled all morning with large formations of aircraft as the Allies began their fifth successive day of around-the-clock assaults. Four large attacks apparently were carried out before 8 a.m. Among the aircraft going over were American Marauders.

The Berlin broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said the American bomber formations were attacked over Northern France by German fighters and that heavy losses were inflicted on the raiders.

"At the present moment fierce air battles are taking place over the region of Wuertemberg-Baden," the broadcast added.

Big Formations Cross Channel.

The last United States daylight raid on Germany was carried out August 17, when American heavy bombers struck simultaneously at Schweinfurt and Regensburg. The Schweinfurt raiders went on later to bases in North Africa, executing the first American shuttle bombardment over Western Europe. They later returned to Britain, bombing targets in France en route.

The German announcement of the daylight raid followed reports from

S. W. Germany Blasted First Time by Fortresses

GLADWIN HILL

LONDON, Sept. 6. (AP)—British-based American Flying Fortresses thundered 500 miles into extreme southwestern Germany for the first time today in a daylight assault that added new impetus to the most intensive and most important Allied aerial assault yet staged over Western Europe.

Rhineland Hit

The day attack followed closely a night RAF raid in "very great

1943

30.24 - 8103

30.24 - 8103

the British southeast coast that squadrons of high-flying Allied bombers had been seen heading out across the English Channel shortly after dawn.

So large were the formations that they took almost two hours to pass overhead.

The overnight RAF raid on Mannheim-Ludswigshafen was the third successive night assault on Germany and was carred out in force.

The Germans reported 21 four-engined bombers were shot down.

Rhineland Raided.

The Rhineland and airfields in Northern France and Belgium also were raided by the night force and an enemy motor torpedo boat and a minesweeper were destroyed in the Channel.

Thirty-five planes were lost by the British, 34 of them bombers.

Wuertemberg and Baden Provinces where the Germans said American daylight raiders were fighting are in Southwest Germany, in an area heretofore untouched by the Americans. Stuttgart is the main city in Wuertemberg and is just north of Switzerland.

Mannheim and Ludwigshafen are the site of important factories producing armor plate, chemicals and Diesel motors and have a combined population of 400,000. It was the 58th raid on the twin cities which were last hit on August 9.

Airports in France Blasted.

The RAF night raids continued an almost incessant pounding of Germany and occupied areas in Western Europe which started Friday night and with a large-scale attack on Berlin. During the day Saturday American planes raked Nazi airports in France. Mosquitos of the RAF lashed at the Ruhr and Rhineland Saturday night and the Americans took up the offensive by day yesterday.

United States 8th Air Force Marauders struck at railway yards in Ghent, Belgium, yesterday morning with what communiques described as "good results."

Woensdracht, Dutch sea coast town near the Belgium border, target of RAF Bostons.

Yesterday's raids were covered by RAF and Canadian fighter planes and stirred up strong Nazi opposition. Nineteen of the defending German planes were downed in the ensuing combats.

The German radio asserted yesterday that the British made an attempt Friday night to land troops on the small island of Ushant in the Atlantic Ocean off the westernmost point of Rance. They added that the attacking force was driven off after only one landing ship had reached the beach.

British combined operations headquarters and other officials declined to confirm or deny the German claims, but many commando operations are carried out which are not announced by the British.

The British, however, announced that light coastal forces engaged a large group of enemy minesweepers off the French coast and torpedoed one patrol ship and badly damaged two others in a two-hour battle.

British and Greek Officers Hold Parley With Patriots

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—British and Greek staff officers, traveling by secret routes in one of the most daring exploits of the entire war, have conferred with Greek guerrilla and patriot leaders in the heart of Axis-held Balkan territory and perfected plans for a unified command and the supply of war materials.

The officers left Cairo for the rendezvous with 600 leaders representing more than 50,000 patriot fighters and in a three-day conference arranged a long-term policy to match the battle plans of the Allied Middle East Command.

It has been estimated that there are about 150,000 guerrilla troops actively fighting the Axis in the Balkans, including some British, Australian and New Zealand troops whose escape was cut off in the Greek and Cretan campaigns. They are said to have fled to the mountains where they joined local patriot units.

The Germans already have admitted the possibility of British aid to the guerrillas. They have reported that British planes have used secret airfields in Greece and that submarines have landed arms, munitions, radios, medicine and some food at various places along the coast.

Cabinet of Yugoslavia Prepares to Leave London for Cairo

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Still considered the "problem child" among Allied governments-in-exile, the Yugoslav cabinet of Prime Minister Bozidar Puric is packing for a move that by mid-September may find it based in Cairo.

There it would join the exiled Greek regime in headquarters permitting closer liaison with the United Nations Middle East Command. Situated in Cairo, both these Balkan governments would be in more advantageous position if Allied invasion of Europe occurred from that quarter, and in better touch with Anglo-American military leaders directing it.

Departing London, young King Peter's new cabinet leaves in its wake denunciation by some sections of the British press. Liberal and leftist publications have branded it "Fascist."

Rivalries One Problem.

Adding to the perplexities of a regime wrestling with both win-the-war problems and postwar prospects are the age-old differences between the Croat and Serb segments of the homeland's population.

The situation is complicated still further by doubt over the attitudes of the big Allied powers toward what sort of government shall be established in Yugoslavia after victory.

This, in fact, is the same problem facing all the small exiled regimes: Should current duly constituted or provisional governments return to administer their respective countries? Or should Anglo-American occupation authorities control these countries until the liberated peoples can register a choice at the polls? Prime Minister Churchill said Tuesday that he hoped the freed people would voluntarily return the Kings of Yugoslavia and Greece to their thrones, but did not go into details as to the process.

U. S. Attitude Hardened.

As they ponder these questions, the various leaders wonder also if Allied occupational rule, when it comes, will invite collaboration by the exiled governments based in London and Cairo, or if these will be ignored. Exiled leaders have searched hopefully for comfort in the recent statement of assistant Secretary of State Adolf A. Berle, that Washington is not backing "reactionary" regimes for postwar Europe.

Defenders of the Puric cabinet emphasize that its members are veteran civil servants who have rallied at the King's call to deal with problems connected with winning the war and postwar reconstruction without hope of personal glory.

"They are not politicians who want to seize rule," said one supporter, "but men working for the general interests of Yugoslavia, without regard to differences between Croats, Serbs and Slovenes."

Critics assert that the Yugoslav people, while still intensely anti-Axis, would re-act unfavorably to the Puric cabinet's make up. They prophecy further difficulties if King Peter attempts to return to the homeland with his present government.

"There is no doubt, however," one Yugoslav insisted, "that the people will fight on to throw out the Axis and restore democratic principles in Yugoslavia. This doesn't mean enmity toward the throne, since the nation can be a democratic monarchy. Just as England is."

DR. PUGH IN BELFAST

BELFAST, Sept. 6. (AP)—Dr. William Barrow Pugh, who is touring Allied fighting theaters as chairman of the general Protestant commission on U. S. army and navy chaplains, arrived here yesterday. He expressed pleasure at the provision made in Northern Ireland for the comfort and wellbeing of American troops.

Ciano Arrested, Italian Paper Says

BERN, Switzerland, Sept. 6. (AP)—The Italian paper La Stampa of Turin was qouted in dispatches from the Swiss frontier today as reporting that Count Gazeazzo Ciano, son-in-law of Benito Mussolini, was arrested Saturday after being persuaded to give himself up at the Argentine legation.

La Stampa said the Argentine minister, Manuel E. Malbran, was surprised when the former Italian foreign minister appeared and asked for sanctuary for himself and family.

While the minister hastily appealed for instructions from him home government in Buenos Aires, the paper said, Italian police were conducting a frantic search for Ciano, who was reported to have escaped from his villa, where he had been under government guard.

Ex-French Premier Has Mental Illness

BERN, Sept. 6. (AP)—A Vichy dispatch to the newspaper Neue Zurcher Zeitung of Zurich said today that former French Premier Edouard Herriot had been placed in a sanatorium near Nancy for treatment for mental disorders.

Herriot had been under house arrest in Savoy since he was reported to have tried to get in touch with the Allies after their landing in North Africa.

REDS ATTR... STEADY SWEEP TO THEIR OWN POWER

Allied Landings in Italy Have Not Drained Nazi Divisions, Say Officers.

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

WITH THE RED ARMY ON THE STEPPE FRONT, Sept. 6 — (AP) Soldiers of the Red army, crashing forward on the heels of the retreating Germans along a 600-mile front, attribute their clean cut victory to their own power and not to Allied operations in the west.

When we heard the news of the Allied landing in Italy, a Red army man asked me:

"Is it a land front?"

They preferred to wait and see how much strength the Italian invasion would draw from the German armies along the Soviet front before deciding whether this was the Russian idea of a second front.

Hitler's beaten armies falling back to the Dnieper and Desna rivers are leaving blackened scenes of devastation resembling an area scourged by locusts.

Retreat Costly to Nazis

But they are also leaving behind heaps of their own material and mounds of their own men at points where the Red army is cutting off and wiping them out by a series of pincer movements.

American material is aiding the Red army in its victorious drive.

West of Kharkov, while guns boomed on a nearby front and planes flew overhead, British and American correspondents visiting this front saw the battlefield where the Red army had cut off and smashed the remnants of the German Third tank division to cross the Merefa river and occupy the railroad station of Merefa, 15 miles southwest of Kharkov.

Here in the cabbage patches and orchards of a collective farm the Red army intercepted 100 German tanks and mobile guns including Mark Six and Mark Four tanks and giant "Ferdinand" guns and wrecked 60 of them and dispersed the others.

Lieut.-Col. Georgy Timofeovich Kushnifov of the Russian tank army said the Germans had concentrated a strong group here including an S. S. tank division for a counter-attack against Kharkov.

The Russians broke through from the north, crossed the Udi river on Aug. 29 and forced the enemy into battle on a farm seven miles northwest of Merefa.

Enemy Machines Riddled

Fighting at a range of 800 yards to a mile, the Russians tanks riddled the enemy machines.

A Mark Six Tiger, a 60-ton tank with a 75-millimeter gun, had its treads shattered and its turret blasted by Russian gunfire. The wreckage of several Mark 4s littered the field where they were broken and burned.

The skeletons of the crews still remained in some of them.

A Ferdinand, an armored, 88-millimeter gun, had its barrel ripped open by shells.

In the field lay the body of a German tankist who was shot down as he attempted to escape. Around him Russians hens peacefully pecked.

The scene was symbolic of the Soviet slogan:

"Death to the German invaders."

The two main points evident from this visit to the eastern front and talks with high-ranking Red army officers are these:

The Germans are retreating to the Dnieper and Desna rivers on a 600-mile front; and there is no longer any question of their being able to put on a general counter-offensive.

Col. Ivan Ivanovich Vorobiev, staff representative of Gen. Ivan Konev's Steepe army which took Kharkov, told us the Red army had inflicted heavy losses on the Germans and smashed some of their best divisions during the summer campaign.

Nazi Collapse Not Immense

"That does not mean that the German army is on the verge of collapse," he added. "By using reserves, the Germans are still able to form groups and resist at individual points. Liquidation of this resistance will require tremendous effort and time."

The Desna flows southwest from Bryansk and meets the Dneiper at Kiev.

CONGRESS OF BISHOPS TO MEET IN MOSCOW

MOSCOW, Sept. 6—(AP) Orthodox church authorities said today that a congress of bishops to elect a patriarch and organize a holy synod would be held within a week.

Premier Joseph Stalin has approved the calling of a congress in a step advancing reconciliation of the Russian state and the church, estranged for 25 years since the Revolution.

Acting Patriarch Sergei, who is Metropolitan of Moscow, is expected to be made permanent head of the church. Sergei headed the educational committee o. the old synod, was chief of the Russian church mission to Japan, head of the Russian embassy church in Athens in 1894, and Archbishop of Finland in 1905.

Stalin Moves to Close Breach With Church

Russian Leader Meets High Clergy at Kremlin

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Sept. 6.—Reconciliation of the Russian state and the church, estranged for 25 years since the revolution, was advanced yesterday with an official announcement that Premier Stalin had approved calling of a congress to elect a Patriarch of the Greek Orthodox Church and organize the Holy Synod, administrative body.

The announcement, front-paged in all Moscow newspapers and greeted joyfully in Russia's churches, revealed that Stalin had given his approval after a meeting with Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov and the three Metropolitans of Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev at the Kremlin.

"The head of the government, Comrade J. V. Stalin," the official announcement said, "expressed his sympathy with this decision and said the government would not hinder this in any way."

The government announcement does not change the status of the church under the constitution of 1936, but it signified that the state and church, long alienated, were drawing closer together.

The congress is the first to be held since 1925 when the church split into two groups with the "New Church" headed by Metropolitan Alexander Vidensky. The latter was not represented at the Kremlin conference last night.

The Moscow Daily News, Russian English-language newspaper, yesterday published an interview with Metropolitan Sergei of Leningrad, acting patriarch, who said that the church was giving full support to the Soviet war effort, pointing out that more than 8,000,000 rubles had been raised for Red Army tanks.

Kharkov Is Reborn as City, Reds Restore Normal Life

250,000 of Original Population Still in Ukraine Metropolis.

CASSIDY

KHARKOV, Soviet Russia, Sept. 6—(AP) Ravaged by four battles and the victim of one of the cruelest reigns of terror the Germans have inflicted on any Russian city, Kharkov is struggling back to life.

Of the original population of 1,000,000, only 250,000 are left in this city, the newly established capital of the Ukraine. But they already have shaken off the shock, cleaned up gaunt, burned-out skyscrapers on Dzerzhinsky square, removed the mines from the main buildings along Sumsk street and other principal roads started the work of reconstruction.

Reconstruction Starts

This work has been started even while the sounds of battle still come to the city when the wind is from the south, even though German planes still come at night.

I have just witnessed the rebirth of Kharkov in a tour of the city, and heard an account of it from Alexander Ignatievich Selivanov, the 39-year-old mayor.

He and other citizens of Kharkov said the Germans made conditions for the people extremely hard during their second occupation and left behind them a tremendous problem of recovery.

The Germans first entered Kharkov in 1941, left last February when driven out, returned on March 13 and finally quit the city on Aug. 23 when the Red army stormed back on the crest of its summer offensive. The Soviets now are settling down to stay, evidently.

Selivanov, a young-looking, fair-haired White Russian in blue work shirt who rose from engineer at the Kharkov electrical machine factory to chairman of the city soviet, talked to American and British correspondents from behind his large flat-topped desk in his lamp-lit, blue-walled office.

He estimated the destruction of Kharkov housing at 40 per cent after the first German occupation, 60 to 75 per cent after the second. The factories, he said, have been entirely ruined.

Population Dwindles

The population dwindled to 350,000 after the first occupation, he added, and about 50,000 left with the Red army before the Germans came back the second time. Others were killed, removed to Germany or fled to other parts of Russia during the second occupation.

There is no estimate yet of the number of persons the Germans killed in Kharkov. Alexei Tolstoy, representative of the State Commission on Atrocities, has arrived to investigate the conditions under the occupation.

Selivanov said the Germans hung many persons publicly during the first occupation. They hung fewer the second time but shot more to death clandestinely. He estimated thousands thus met their death.

"Apparently they were afraid of the people's hostility," he said.

The Russians already have opened 15 hospitals, 16 clinics, two children's homes, five nurseries. A pound of bread is being distributed daily to each city resident. The Kharkov-Kupyansk railroad already is working, and traffic on the Kharkov-Moscow line is expected to be resumed.

"We will be able to live through the winter like other Soviet citizens," said Selivanov.

The commonest sight seen in a drive through the city was that of women carrying buckets of water hung on the ends of curved wooden yokes. One said she had been walking more than a mile to a well since the Germans wrecked the water system at the end of the first occupation.

Last Battle Frightful

The last battle was the most frightful by far, she said, because the Germans burned the city.

"I was in a sea of flame with the electric power plant burning on one side of my room and a factory burning on the other," she explained.

The second occupation also was the most terrible, she added. "A German shot my cousin on the threshold of her room because she refused to give him her wrist watch."

Other residents said the Germans "ran wild" for three days when they returned to Kharkov. On March 13 to 16, they said, the Nazis shot 400 wounded Red army men and burned 300 others to death in one hospital and killed many in other buildings where they feared snipers were hidden.

From then on, they said, there were many roundups in the streets. The Germans would raid houses and take groups of 40 or 50 away to be shot.

Professor Alexander Vladimirovich Tereschenko at the machine building institute said the Germans indulged in an orgy of speculation during the second occupation, selling bread and butter for exhorbitant prices.

ITALIAN TROOPS EAGER TO YIELD

Entire Battalion of Bersaglieri Surrenders Without Firing Shot.

SEP 1 1943

By BILL WILSON

Representing the combined British Press Distributed by the Associated Press

WITH CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, Sept. 5—(Delayed)—An entire battalion of Italian Bersaglieri, who have a better reputation than most Italians as fighters, walked up to Canadian forces along with their commander today and surrendered without firing a shot.

A 75-millimeter Italian gun commanding a landing beach likewise surrendered without firing.

A staff officer returned to headquarters accompanied by the Italian colonel and 85 prisoners.

The welcome the Italian civilians gave to the invaders was even more enthusiastic than was received from the Sicilians.

A Canadian officer, Capt. G. M. Sprung, whose patrol advanced ahead of the infantry and reached an area where the Germans had retired only an hour earlier, told me:

"Beyond anything we saw in Sicily the Italians are glad. They hide in doorways with white flags and when they learn you are English they just fall on your neck and you have men kissing you on both cheeks."

Capt. Sprung advanced with an interpreter and a small patrol, traveling by jeep and by foot.

When he became tired of the comparative slowness with which the infantry was able to move or when he reached a demolition, the patrol left the jeep and continued on foot.

Salient Reaches Mountain Area At Santo Stefano

KENNEDY

By the Associated Press.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 6.—British-Canadian invading forces have pushed slowly and surely along the coast road of the Italian toe and cut a salient 10 miles inland to Santo Stefano D'Aspromonte, it was announced today from Allied headquarters.

Three thousand prisoners have been taken by the forces which have advanced eastward of Bagnara on the Tyrrhenian shore and beyond Melito on the Ionian shore, it was stated, while the inland spearhead has reached the gaunt precipices of Aspromonte—bitter mountain—the great elevation of the Sila range.

A number of villages fell into the hands of the Allied forces, including Calanna, San Roberto, Fiumara, Santa Lucia, Rosali, San Rocco, Musuala, Laganadi and Santo Alessio.

Among booty falling into British hands were three locomotives and 100 railroad cars, all capable of being used.

Santo Stefano, northeast of Reggio Calabria, is 10 miles inland from the Calabrian coast in mountainous territory.

The communique said the advances yesterday were carried out "in spite of very extensive demolition" left behind by the retreating enemy.

40 Miles of Shoreline Occupied.

"The mountainous nature of the country is also of great assistance to the enemy in his defensive, particularly in the center of the front," the headquarters announcement said.

Columns fanning out in both directions along the coast have occupied more than 40 miles of shoreline.

A headquarters spokesman announced that the inland highway from Reggio Calabria to Santo Stefano has been brought under control of the invading troops, "giving the liberating forces an effective salient in this area."

During "limited advances" made yesterday, the 8th Army was reported to have captured a quantity of valuable railway material still in working order. Some enemy tanks were encountered.

"Otherwise resistance continues relatively weak," the spokesman said, adding:

"Elements east of Bagnara and east of Melito report the Italian population is still friendly."

These towns form the extremities of the 40-mile coastal stretch now in Allied hands.

Area Near Rome Bombed.

Still pounding away at the enemy communication lines, Allied heavy bombers bombed the Viterbo area, about 50 miles north of Rome, in daylight sweeps yesterday.

At the same time, medium bombers with long range fighter escort made new attacks on airfields in Southern Italy.

Light bombers returned to the Naples area again last night and hit the railway yards at Villa Literno.

Targets hit by the medium and light bombers yesterday included the railway yards at Battipaglia, where many bursts were observed; airfields at Grazzanise, and a railway bridge near Minturno.

Formations of other Allied aircraft attacked troop concentrations and motor transport.

Sardinian Airfield Attacked.

The Northeast African Air Force also sent raiders into Southern Sardinia Saturday night, the air communique said, to attack radio installations and an airfield.

Two Allied aricraft were reported missing as against a total of seven enemy planes destroyed in the raids over Italy.

A naval communique today said that the Strait of Messina has now been fully opened to Allied navigation and that "maintenance and reinforcement" of the invasion army continues.

(Rome admitted that the Axis troops in the Calabrian Peninsula have fallen back to new positions in the face of the "enemy's overwhelming strength in men and material."

(The Rome communique, recorded by the Associated Press, said that Allied aircraft raided Aversa, Capua and Formia in addition to Villa Literno and Viterbo.

(The Italian announcement asserted two four-engined bombers were shot down.)

Officials announcements yesterday indicated the Allied forces already were threatening Palmi in their northward sweep after taking Bagnara, 5 miles to the south.

Commandos Take Town.

Bagnara, 10 miles northeast of San Giovanni, and Melito, 15 miles south of Reggio Calabria, fell to commandos who swept ashore ahead of the advancing infantry. Melito already had been evacuated by the enemy.

Other sections of the 8th Army forged steadily inland across the peninsula.

An air communique yesterday said a formation of 20 enemy aircraft attempted on Saturday to interfere with the invasion operations, but 8 were shot down in furious dogfights over the Strait of Messina and many others damaged.

The Allied air arm meanwhile kept up its devastating hammering of Axis communication lines and airfields, Flying Fortresses from the Northwest African Force attacking the Naples area and RAF Liberators and Halifaxes from the Middle East returning again to oft-bombed Grottaglie airport near the Taranto naval base.

Allied reconnaissance reports disclosed that much of Italy's railway system lies in ruins and has been made valueless to the Germans for defense of southern or central Italy.

"The damage done to the Italian communications system in the last fortnight by our strategic bombers has been even more devastating than previously supposed," said a headquarters announcement in reporting on wreckage extending from Bolzano and Trento below the vital Brenner Pass to Pisa and the Naples area.

Aground, the enemy resorted to extensive demolitions before withdrawing and these are slowing the advance of the forces of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, who now has arrived in Italy to take command in person.

Two serious bottlenecks lie before the Allied forces on the Italian toe, one between the Gulfs of Santi Eufemi and Squillace halfway up from the southern tip, and the other between the gulfs of Policastro and Taranto.

Booklet Tells Allied Troops How to Act in Fallen Italy

Soldiers Advised Not to Become Friendly with Italian Women.

SEP 7 1943

By DANIEL DE LUCE

WITH THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY, Sept. 3—(Delayed)—Allied troops invading the Italian mainland carried a newly-issued "Soldiers Guide to Italy" advising them to attend the opera in Rome or Milan and warning them that "a number of Germans came to an untimely end through trying to pick up a respectable girl in Italy."

The 32-page booklet is illustrated with photographs of Vatican City, the wooded Appenines, Naples, Florence and the Alps, and was handed out to Canadians and British before they ferried across Messina strait from Sicily.

Will Conquer All Italy

The first paragraph told the crack assault force that the Allied would conquer "ultimately all the areas which are Italian owned and have been under Italian control."

"If you treat civilian Italians with moderation and tact—and equally with the firmness which your situation demands—you will make your own task easier of accomplishment.

"Likewise you may gain future consideration and support of the Italian people in our effort to restore world order. Until these people have laid down their arms, they are the enemy. Once they have laid down their arms it would be hurtful to ourselves and the cause of the United Nations to contribute deliberately by act or attitude to their resentment against us."

The booklet points out that Italy never before had been an enemy of Britain or America and was our ally in the first World war, adding, "The policy of Britain and America therefore is to treat Italians differently from Germans. We are entering the country primarily so that, having knocked Italy out of the war, we can set about finishing off our main enemy in Europe, Germany. x x x

"Italy is an Axis country, but its people are not all pro-Axis, nor were they all pro-Fascist."

Italian Officials Remain

The advice to the soldiers continued with the statement that "You will frequently have to through and in close collabor with legally appointed civilia ficials as the greater par ilian life, once the fightin will continue to be run civilians. It will be the duty o troops to assist these officials and to hamper them as little as possible."

The guide recalled Prime Minister Churchill's statement that the Allies did not wish to administer "by a system of gauleiters" the entire life of Italy, and offered these "don'ts":

"Don't be rude when restraining the curiosity of the inhabitants. Italians are naturally inquisitive and you will be about the most remarkable event which has happened in living memory.

"Don't drive furiously through narrow village streets, scattering pedestrians and livestock in all directions.

"Don't pick quarrels or make it appear that you despise anyone who isn't fortunate enough to be British or American.

"Don't demand your drinks in a loud voice and consider you have the right to be served before any civilian.

"Stay clear of mobs, political demonstrations or public gatherings of any sort unless you have been ordered there for duty or have obtained specific permission.

Told to Respect Churches

"Respect Italian cathedrals churches, wayside shrines as you would respect any place of worship or symbol of religion within your own country."

The final admonition in the guide on invasion etiquette was particularly firm: "Avoid on every account discussion with Italians on the merits of your nation and that of other Allies. This is always a loophole for Axis propaganda. It is inexcusable to be disparging about your Allies."

"The golden rule," it said, "is to show Italians that the German way is not the only way of occupying a country."

The introduction said it was "designed equally for American and British soldiers."

It described the Italian as a moderate drinker despite the plentitude of wine and warned that drunkenness is a subject of scorn.

Asserting that family life means everything to the ordinary Italian, the booklet warned that the "men are by nature jealous and particularly in the south keep a close check on their women. The main thing to remember is that a respectable unmarried girl does not walk out with a man unless they have gone through all the formalities of getting engaged. If the girl breaks this rule this naturally is resented by members of her family. Don't, therefore, think you are going to find it easy to pick up a respectable girl in Italy without running the risk of a first rate row, and remember, a number of Germans came to an untimely end through trying."

JAPS SHUN BATTLE IN BURMA'S SKIES

SEP 7 1943

U. S. Bomber Squadron Knocks Out Communications, Supply Bases.

By THOBURN WIANT

A U. S. AIR BASE IN INDIA, Sept. 4.—(Delayed) — (AP) I flew today with the "Skull and Wings" medium bomber squadron over northeastern Burma, where the U. S. Tenth Air force is methodically knocking out Japanese communications and supply bases.

Bridge by bridge, locomotive by locomotive, boat by boat and warehouse by warehouse the enemy targets are being checked off. These are not easily replaced in Burma because the Japanese are up to their ears in fights elsewhere.

To me this was the significant fact about today's raids on rail centers from Mandalay to Lashio—the Japanese let us bomb as we planned.

I saw no enemy planes, in the air or on the ground. Only two bursts of anti-aircraft were fired at us during the three hours we were over enemy territory.

This was the eleventh round trip I had made over Burma. Without exaggeration, Burma seemed as peaceful as a remote Iowa farm. There were no boats on the Chindwin and Irrawaddy rivers, no motor transports on the roads, no planes on the airdromes, no trains moving on the railroads.

Lieut. Dave Fleming, 26, of Wichita, Kas., who led the squadron, said: "The Jape barely give up any opposition any more. These runs are becoming as monotonous as walks to the corner drug store back home."

The consensus of persons to whom I talked the past month is that the Japanese have moved most of their planes to the southwest Pacific and China, where they are more urgently needed.

The "Skull and Bones" squadron swept the railroad from Lashio to Hsipaw, while other Mitchells harassed the Japanese from Hsipaw to Mandalay.

Old to Replace Haynes in India

NEW DELHI, India, Sept. 3 (Delayed) (AP).—Brigadier General Howard C. Davidson, commander of the 10th U. S. Air Force in India, announced today that Brigadier General Caleb V. Haynes, of Mount Airy, N. C., now chief of the 1st American Air Command, will return to the United States soon and will be replaced by Brigadier General William Old, of Uvalde, Tex. For the last year General Old has been chief of staff of the 10th Air Force. He will be replaced by Colonel John Sutherland, of Monroe, N. Y.

Army Officer Builds Refrigeration Trucks With Junk in India

By the Associated Press.

AN AMERICAN BASE IN INDIA.—A big United States Army truck rolled into this camp across the hot Indian plains. The thermometer had been stuck above 100 degrees for days, the air dripped with moisture of a nearby monsoon.

Inside the truck it was 20 degrees above zero. But, more important for the soldiers who gathered around, inside the truck were also fresh beef, vegetable sand 10 gallons of chocolate ice cream!

The men at this base had been eating out of cans for days. Uncanned food spoils in a matter of hours here, and there is no ice. But thanks to the ingenuity of a young American Army lieutenant, this refrigerator truck and 10 like it are plying the roads out of one American base with fresh food.

The officer is First Lt. B. G. Patterson, Quartermaster Corps, of Army Service Forces. Back home in New Jersey he and his brother ran a frozen food plant. Here in India he has taken a stock of old iron pipe, a pile of junk, the rusted remnants of what once was an ice plant, and built a modern refrigerator plant from the ground up.

In it the Quartermaster Corps stores fresh produce—and one room is an ice cream plant. When Lt. Patterson investigated, he found there was only one refrigerator car on all the railways in India.

Religious scruples against packing meat prevented the building of more cars.

But the highway was open. Using native labor and whatever junk he could find, Lt. Patterson began to manufacture cold storage trucks. Iron pipe substituted for coils. Lt. Patterson's crew filled the pipe with send, heaetd it with blowtorches and bent it into proper shapes. A few weeks later the first truck was ready—built of scrap lumber salvaged from shipping crates and insulated with sheets of cork a native ship chandler had saved from a wreck.

Japanese Repulsed at Swatow

CHUNGKING, Sept. 6 (AP).—The Chinese have repulsed with losses Japanese attacks on their positions near Swatow, on the coast of Kwangtung Province, and in the vicinity of Lanchi, terminus of a railway spur in Chekiang Province, the Chinese high command announced today.

American Flyers Blast 3 Ships Off Hong Kong

By the Associated Press.

HEADQUARTERS 14th U. S. ARMY AIR FORCE, Sept. 6.—Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's fighters and medium bombers in China made wide sweeps today against Japanese communications and installations, probably destroying two freighters and one sub chaser off Hong Kong, disrupting service on the Hankow-Canton railway and twice blasting Ouchikow on the upper Yangtze River.

The raiders encountered only small arms fire from the ground and all returned safely.

Australian Jungle Fighters Lead Allied Landing at Lae

First Troops Meet No Jap Opposition, Move Swiftly Inland.

(In the following dramatic eyewitness dispatch of the first landing of Australian forces in the investiture of the Lae-Salamaua battle area in New Guinea, Associated Press war correspondent Olen Clements says less than 50 casualties were suffered in the Allied landing. Japanese planes hit two vessels in a later convoy, causing 20 more casualties).

By OLEN CLEMENTS

WITH AUSTRALIAN INVASION FORCES BEFORE LAE, Sept. 4—(Delayed)—(AP) The first troops to land in today's coup were specially trained Australian jungle fighters from a famed Middle East division.

They leaped from the landing barges and headed into the jungle as a heavy pall of smoke from naval gunfire hung over the coconut grove and mangrove swamp where they landed. In just a few minutes they penetrated the jungle a mile in depth and reported no opposition was encountered.

American Engineers Land

Behind them came boatload after boatload of infantrymen, American engineers and Australian artillery. The Aussies were anxious for action.

As the large landing boats neared shore, the badly crippled Japanese air force, which had been pounded most of the night by Allied airmen, got into action. Three Japanese planes sneaked over the top of a nearby mountain and roared down on the landing craft bunched on the beach. Small bombs hit two craft, causing less than 30 casualties, including eight dead. This was the only Allied losses in the actual first landing.

Our large landing boat touched the beach beside the bombed craft. It was in flames and the bodies of six Australians, twisted grotesquely, lay on the deck of the burning boat.

Firefighters from our vessel began playing streams of water on the blaze and put it out in ten minutes.

A young American seamen in a gun crew stared at the bodies for a moment, paled and went to the ship's rail where he was ill. He returned to his post, still pale, but determined and helped to put up an ack ack barrage against the attacking Japanese planes.

Quickly, Allied fighters took after the enemy and drove them away.

The doors of the landing craft swung open and out poured Aussies astride bulldozers, jeeps and afoot. American engineers, who landed earlier behind the Australian attack troops, spread steel mats on the beach. The bulldozers immediately began to cut roads through the jungle and the jeeps to use them. One Australian officer rolled up and down a mat in a jeep shouting orders. Foot soldiers walked to the edge of the jungle, deposited their gear and returned to unload the ships.

Invasion Carefully Rehearsed

The invasion had been carefully rehearsed and completed without a bobble. Ships in the flotilla, many manned by American naval reserves, risked a night crossing in reef studded Huon gulf to reach shore by daylight. They passed within a few miles of Salamaua, hard pressed by another Australian force, and headed for landing places near Lae, within 20 miles of Salamaua.

SEP 7 1943

As the first faint light appeared in the east, Japanese watchers along the coast sent up frenzied rockets, but the Nipponese garrisons were too hard pressed by the Allied air force to give any resistance to the landings, except for one raid by three planes.

A few minutes after the landings had been made, a heavy force of Allied bombers swooped in low and pounded Lae with heavy bombs, some so large that concussion could be felt by the landing parties.

The air force scored several hits and smoke from bombs rose from Lae as a pall of smoke from shell fire of naval vessels rolled out to sea from the jungles. Acrid smell of powder was present during all the landing operations.

All the gear was packed long before daylight and the soldiers and officers stood around the deck awaiting landing.

All expected some sort of opposition from the Japanese and when it didn't come, some of the men appeared a bit nervous, apparently fearing a trap. Others joked that maybe the Nipponese had pulled another Kiska evacuation at Lae.

At 6:18 a.m., the first shells from American war vessels screamed towards the jungle. They made big puffs of smoke when they landed. The roar of naval guns filled the air for 12 minutes or so and then the landing barges went in with the attack troops.

They hit the beach yelling and disappeared in the jungle. In their tracks came infantrymen, then the engineers and then the heavy stuff. It was all over in a few hours and the landing craft had pulled out.

Another convoy moving into the Australian landing place late in the day was attacked by Japanese planes and two vessels were hit, causing 20 casualties.

NEW HAVEN CORPORAL WINS SOLDIER'S MEDAL

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific Area, Aug. 27—(Delayed)—(AP) Lieut. General George C. Kenney, commander of the Allied Air force in the Southwest Pacific, has awarded the Soldier's medal to Corp. Morton Sosensky, 264 Dixwell avenue, New Haven, Conn.

Corp. Sosensky was cited for heroism in New Guinea, on Jan. 2, 1943. A bomber with a full bomb load crashed into a truck while taking off from an airfield. After it crashed one bomb exploded and the entire wreckage was enveloped in flames.

Ammunition and flares started exploding. Among the first to arrive at the scene was Corp. Sosensky. He ran to the burning plane, helped rescue two members of the crew, and then returned to the wreckage to search for further victims.

"This act," the citation said, "demonstrated extraordinary courage in the face of danger with utter disregard for his personal safety."

OAKLEAF CLUSTER WON BY HARTFORD SERGEANT

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific Area, Aug. 28—(Delayed)—(AP) Award of the Oak Leaf cluster, in lieu of an additional Air Medal, to a number of officers and men of the Fifth Air force of the U. S. Army, was announced by Lieut. General George C. Kenney, commander of the Allied air forces in the southwest Pacific area.

Among those decorated were: S.-Sgt. Angelo J. Zangari, 825 Park street, Hartford, Conn, for meritorious achievement while participating in an aerial flight over Buna, New Guinea, on October 5, 1942. While engaged on a bombing run over Buna, formation of B-25 bombers was attacked by from 12 to 15 Zeros. As one enemy fighter approached from the rear, S.-Sgt. (then Corp.) Zangari, the upper turret gunner, fired several excellently aimed bursts, sending one Zero crashing in flames into the sea.

Japs in Lae-Salamaua Sector Virtually Trapped in New Drive

Allies Employing Strongest Force Ever Used on Offense in Southwest Pacific

By the Associated Press.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 6.—Veteran Australian troops under personal direction of Gen. Douglas MacArthur have advanced 8 to 10 miles in a battle plan which already has virtually trapped and is designed to destroy the Japanese in the Lae-Salamaua area of New Guinea.

The gains were scored Saturday after Allied forces moved across the Huon Gulf in the strongest force of men and ships ever employed in a purely offensive operation in the Southwest Pacific theater.

Protected by formidable formations of air and sea craft which beat off a determined Japanese aerial challenge and blasted the enemy's coastal defenses, the Australians gained beachheads on the north shores of Huon Gulf. The invasion force immediately struck inland to cut the enemy's land links connecting the main chain of Japanese bases in Northern New Guinea from its southern anchor at Lae.

Jap Resistance Light.

An Army spokesman said the Australians encountered ground resistance at only two points. Japanese troops showed some opposition in the vicinity of one of the two beachheads which were established Saturday and also near Singaua plantation which was approximately 10 miles east of Lae.

Progress likewise was being made in the Salamaua sector, 15 miles below Lae.

Last week Australian and American ground forces firmly set the lower jaw of a trap when they drove within rifle range of Salamaua—after a long drawn out and bitterly contested series of thrusts.

The Australian landing on the New Guinea coast between Lae and Finschhafen on Saturday sprang the upper jaw of the trap which has caught the Japanese in the sector they have held and developed for 18 months.

Adopt Circular Defense.

In the Salamaua area Allied units occupying the south end of Kila Ridge, near Tambu Bay overlooking Salamaua Isthmus, were "in contact with the enemy and progress was being made as well on the north side of the Francisco River."

ABROAD

In the Kuknuk area, a few miles to the south, the enemy deveioped a circular defense around the village on a two-mile radius. The Allies attacked this position with determination.

Japanese troops in the Lae-Salamaua area now are cut off by land from Finschhafen and other major bases up the coast.

Lae lies 15 miles northwest of Salamaua, where American and Australian forces have been hammering away at a strategic airdrome. Gen Sir Thomas Blamey, Gen. MacArthur's deputy in command of Allied ground forces, said the Japanese apparently had believed the Allies were concentrating their strength against Salamaua. On the contrary, the general told a press conference, the action there for several weeks had been merely to divert Japanese attention from the major project.

Moved In at Dawn.

Dawn was just breaking over the dark New Guinea jungle when the Allies struck.

At 6:13 a.m. naval craft raised a smoke screen east of Lae. At the same time, other warships that had sailed boldly into Lae harbor during the night laid a heavy barrage on the town. For 37 minutes the naval guns pounded the enemy base. Then the landing craft moved shoreward and at 7:02 the first troops splashed ashore.

As the first boats reached land, three Japanese medium bombers and two fighters appeared. Enemy bombs damaged two landing craft and forced them ashore. There was a small number of casualties.

An Imperial Headquarters communique broadcast from Tokio today declared six Allied transports and a cruiser were sunk during the new Allied landings near Lae, New Guinea, the Associated Press reported from London.

The report, recorded by Reuters, was not confirmed by Allied sources.

Thereafter operations proceeded smoothly. At noon the Japanese attempted to send in a mixed formation of medium and dive bombers, escorted by 35 fighters. American fighters intercepted them, destroyed 21 planes and dispersed the others. Two P-38 Lightnings were lost.

Airfield Destroyed.

As the troops moved shoreward, a formation of Mitchell bombers, with fighter cover, roared low over the beach, bombing and strafing coastal areas. Hopoi airfield, 30 miles east of Lae, was pounded into uselessness.

Another formation of B-25 Mitchells destroyed important enemy gun positions on the outskirts of Lae. Then, while the landings were under way, several formations of Liberators came over and unloaded 96 tons of bombs on Lae itself.

Other air units hammered at the enemy elsewhere.

Long-range fighters destroyed or damaged 32 Japanese barges near New Britain and Vitu islands. Two daylight raids were made on Gasmata airdrome on the south coast of New Britain and the Cape Gloucester airdrome area to the west was bombed and machine-gunned.

was bombed and machine-gunned.

Catalinas harassed the enemy at Rabaul, New Britain, for four hours before dawn Saturday, causing many fires and explosions on Vunakanau and Lakunai airdromes and silencing anti-aircraft positions at Retaval. It was the first announced attack on Rabaul in nearly two months.

Oother planes raided Kahili airdrome on Bougainville and barge hideouts near Vila, Kolombangara, in the Solomon Islands.

Australian Veterans in Battle

WITH AUSTRALIAN INVASION FORCES BEFORE LAE, Sept. 4 (Delayed) (AP).—The first troops to land in today's coup were specially trained Australian jungle fighters from a famed Middle East division.

They leaped from landing barges and headed into the jungle as a dense pall of smoke from naval gunfire hung over the cocoanut grove and mangrove swamp where they landed. In just a few minutes they penetrated the jungle a mile in depth and reported no opposition was encountered.

Behind them came boatload after boatload of infantrymen, American engineers and Australian artillery. The Aussies were anxious for action.

As the large landing boats neared the shore, the badly crippled Japanese air force, which had been pounded most of the night by Allied airmen, got into action. Three Japanese planes sneaked over the top of a near-by mountain and roared down on the landing craft bunched on the beach. Small bombs hit two craft, causing less than thirty casualties, including eight killed. These were the only Allied losses in the actual first landing.

As the doors of landing craft swung open, out poured other Aussies astride bulldozers, and jeeps and afoot. American engineers, who had landed earlier behind the first Australian attack troops, spread steel mats on the beach. The bulldozers immediately began to cut roads through the jungle and the jeeps to use them. One Australian officer rolled up and down a mat in a jeep shouting orders. Foot soldiers walked to the edge of the jungle, deposited their gear and returned to unload the ships.

The invasion had been carefully rehearsed and it was completed without a bobble. Ships in the flotilla, many of them manned by American naval reserves, risked a night crossing in the reef-studded Huon Gulf to reach shore by daylight. They passed within a few miles of Salamaua, which is being pressed by another Allied force.

As the first faint light appeared in the east, Japanese watchers along the coast near Lae sent up frenzied rockets, but the enemy garrisons were too hard pressed by the Allied air force to offer any resistance to the landings, except for the one raid by three planes.

A few minutes after the landings had been made a strong force of Allied bombers swooped in low and pounded Lae with big bombs, some so large that the concussion of their explosion could be felt by the landing parties.

The air force scored several hits and smoke from bombs rose from Lae as a pall of smoke from the shell fire of naval vessels rolled out to sea from the jungle. The acrid smell of powder was present during all the landing operations.

Soldiers Stage Revue In South Pacific Amid Bombings

By the Associated Press.

IN THE SOLOMONS—A five-man musical revue has just covered a 200-mile Cocoanut Circuit, winning the applause of soldiers, sailors and marines in 24 matinee performances at three vital South Pacific outposts.

Sound effects were augmented by the unscheduled swishing of enemy bombs, roaring of aerial dog fights, exploding antiaircraft shells and the steady drumming of monsoon rains which totalled seven inches on many days.

Guiding the production was Corp. Frederick H. Burleigh of Boston, former director of the Indianapolis Civic Theater, the Pittsburgh Playhouse and the South Shore Players in Cohasset, Mass.

Script Writer In Two Days.

First, Burleigh sharpened a couple of pencils and produced a script in two days. After a 30-minute argument with a mystified supply sergeant, Burleigh was allotted several yards of bright red cloth, called "Maggie's Drawers" by the Army, and ordinarily used to denote a miss in target practice, for costumes.

Tailored into hip-length ballet skirts, the cloth was decorated with spangles hacked from empty powdered-egg tins. "Peekaboo" hats were designed from manila office folders fastened together with paper clips, and on a sudden inspiration, the athletic department's battered soft balls were pressed into service for halter brassieres. The fact that these balls bounced to the ground after several enthusiastic high kicks only made the finished act funnier.

Corpl. Michael Carrelli of Cincinnati was master of ceremonies. Pfc. Robert "Windy" Wernet of Toledo, Ohio, became a hit with a routine impersonations and corny patter.

Pvt. Henry Jacoby of Indianapolis, a 250-pounder; Pfc. Homer Morgan, a product of the Duluth (Minn.) Little Theater, and Corpl. Henry Longo of Newark, N. J., were the rest of the cast.

Three Army "swing" bands located along the show's route played the arrangements written by Corpl. Bill Granville of Omaha, Nebr.

When half of the Russell Islands had been covered, including a field hospital ,the show set out for nearby Guadalcanal on a ration barge. Bleary-eyed from the all-day water jaunt, the cast stumblingly answered five air raid alerts the night of arrival, but gave two performances the next afternoon.

After a week, the weary actors rode a barge load of heavy explosive ammunition back to the Russells, then made their final trip to play for a last outlying outfit.

Howitzer Action Stops Infiltration of Japs On New Georgia

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, Sept. 6.—The performance of Army field artillery was one of the most decisive factors in American conquest of New Georgia and its Munda airfield.

Generals, correspondents and infantry doughboys are unanimous on that. Japanese prisoners give the same verdict.

Maj. George P. Guthrie, 38, Columbus, Ohio, and Maj. Robert W. Kenny, 41, Providence, R. I., were two key men behind those field howitzers—guns that actually were kissed by infantry officers and men in gratefulness for saving their lives.

As an Ohio State sophomore of 19, Maj. Guthrie ran the 120-yard high hurdles in the 1924 Paris Olympic games. He was buying highway materials and equipment in the Ohio State government's purchasing department when called to active duty with his National Guard outfit in 1941.

Neatly - mustached Maj. Kenny was a Brown University philologist "in love with lovely letters" when his National Guard regiment was called to service. His love for literature now ranks second to infatuation with his guns.

Success Is Explained.

"Our artillery accomplished two important things," explained Maj. Guthrie.

"First, we messed up completely the Japs' tactic of night infiltration and harrassing attack in the jungle. That was the kind of thing they got away with on Guadalcanal and made things so tough there.

"Our night artillery fire just pinned 'em to the ground. They gave up trying that kind of stuff.

"Second, our shells blasted open the jungle, sweeping away trees, vines and foliage. Then our infantry could see where the Japs were. Once our boys could see what they were fighting, the job became simple."

At the start of the Munda offensive, the Japanese did try their night infiltrations to sandpaper the nerves of front line soldiers with yells, derisive shouts in English, and blasts of closein gunfire.

Howitzers Stop Attack.

In one such attack, they would have succeeded in surrounding and wiping out the 43d division command post if a recklessly close covering barrage of howitzer fire had not stopped them.

Brig. Gen. Harold Barker of Providence, R. I., division artillery commander, was in the command post on which the enemy pressed soon after dusk.

The superior enemy force would have overpowered the defenders and most of the division staff if Gen. Barker hadn't called his howitzers far back on Baraulu Island into action.

Judging his ranges entirely by sound, Gen. Barker gradually closed down the first gun until he could heard shell fragments ripping through the trees.

Finally he gave the word to the fire director center across Roviana Lagoon, in which Maj. Guthrie was stationed, to open up with three more howitzers. For nearly 12 hours until dawn, the Baraulu Island battery ringed the command post with a protective barrage of shells, dropping little more than 50 yards outside the C. P. Perimeter.

Guns Are Kissed.

It was the men from this post, Maj. Guthgie said, who came out to the howitzer battery next day and, "by God, actually kissed the guns."

"That was something to see. Those men told us and they meant it, 'You saved our lives!'"

Throughout the New Georgia campaign, Gen. Barker personally did much of the scouting and target-finding from the front lines Often he went out with scouting parties into the jungle no man's land. On at least one occasion he was lucky to come back.

"The general is all nerves and energy. I think that's why he picked Lt. 'Pete' Petersill for his aide. Pete always went with the general, and Pete is a big, rugged guy, always calm and cool as a cucumber," Maj.Guthrie said.

"One day the general and Pete went scouting ahead of our line. They ran into two Jap machinegun posts. After they'd hit the first, they found they were cut off with the fire of those machineguns converging behind them.

Companion is Killed.

"Pete rolled over to make room for a private in a depression in the ground. Just then a machinegun burst smacked the private through the chest. He was dead in the spot where Pete had been seconds before.

"After that, the general and Pete decided, 'What the hell, this is no place to hang around. We'd better get out of here.'

"On the way out a soldier ahead of the general was hit and killed. Pete was behind the general. A soldier behind Pete got it, The general and Pete got back alone. They were really lucky."

Artillerymen observers flying over Munda in planes guided the fire of field guns effectively.

"Those boys would get tired of not being able to see anything," Maj. Guthrie reported. "So they'd come right down over the trees to get the Japs to open up on them. They did that a couple of times too often. They were shot down."

One aerial observer, Lt. W. B. Craig, was shot down twice, but was rescued both times by Pluto, a crash rescue boat.

"I heard him on the radio saying, 'This plane's on fire.' That was all. They headed out for water and we later heard they were picked up all right," Maj. Guthrie said.

"One of these observers spotted our fire one day and had us hitting right on a Jap strong point. He could see Japs running out from there and he gave us a quick range change.

"We fired his new range and then he told us, 'Good work. You hit right in those Japs. I saw arms and legs flying.'

"I passed the word on to the men working our guns. Were they proud! You could have heard their cheers all over New Georgia," Maj. Guthrie declared.

Production Balance Between Nations Is Chile's Suggestion

By the Associated Press.

SANTIAGO, Chile.—Chile's President Juan Antonio Rios says the nations of the Americas should get together now "in the closest possible form of economic co-operation" to withstand the shock of postwar problems.

In an interview he said that Joaquin Fernandez, Chilean Minister of foreign relations now on a tour of the Americas, would have opportunity to set forth Chile's viewpoints "in the matter of a true and effective pan-Americanism of co-operation."

"The American nations," he said, "should get down to bed-rock in this field of economic co-operation.

"As an example, Cuba and Peru produce much sugar. We have some lands in Chile suitable for sugar cane, but it is better economy, and better neighborliness, for us to buy sugar from those countries and use that land to produce things we need, or for other neighbors, and to sell Cuba and Peru things we produce.

"Argentina has wheat and cattle. We produce coal. With proper co-operation and development, we should sell coal to Argentina and buy such wheat and meats as we do not produce. The same goes for copper and other minerals which we can produce for industries of other American nations.

"This brings us to what might appear at first glance to be a Chilean problem. We have great nitrate deposits. Why should we have to look to Germany or Japan for a market for this nitrate when there are areas in southeastern United States where this nitrate is needed for agricultural production?

"The United States has been building artificial nitrate plants because nitrate is important in making munitions. Everyone understands this. Chile has been shipping its nitrate to the United States to help meet this enormous demand. Chileans, however, are concerned about what will happen to its nitrate in the United States market after the war. If the artificial nitrate is used for fertilizer, Chile would lose that market. Naturally, we are hoping a way will be found to use those plants or their output for other purposes. It is one of the problems for which I think a solution can be found. In an unselfish way, and on the basis of true good neighborliness.

"Suppose no solution should be found. Would it hurt Chile? Certainly, because it would be a severe blow to our national economy, just as it was after the first wrold war. But the United States farm and factory worker would share our difficulties because it would mean that the buying power of the Chilean market for all kinds of United States products would drop sharply. Every other nation in the hemisphere which has things to sell to Chile would be affected similarly."

MARSHALL CHOSEN TO LEAD INVASION, WRITER ASSERTS

U. S. Chief of Staff Selected to Direct Drive

30.24 - 8107

Across Channel.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — (AP) General George C. Marshall will be commander in chief of Allied forces in the European theater, The Evening Star says "on the highest authority," and will direct any invasion from England.

SEP 7 1943

This assignment for the 62-year-old chief of staff of the United States Army makes clear, says The Star, that "preparations for operations across the English channel are sufficinetly advanced to select a leader."

The newspaper story was written by Constantine Brown, military and foreign affairs writer.

Says Choice Is Made

While there has been previous speculation that Gen. Marshall, who won high reputation for moving great bodies of men into action in the first World war, would be the Allied generalissimo in Europe, The Star story goes farther and treats the matter as settled.

British newspapers have given much space to the speculation, The London Daily Herald having said in June that "it is possible that the ultimate lineup may be General George C. Marshall as supreme commander in chief, with General Dwight D. Eisenhower and General Sir Harold Alexander bracketed as his immediate lieutenants."

The Star's story continues:

"Gen. Marshall's successor as chief of staff has not yet been designated. But after the elimination of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who is indispensable in the Pacific area, the field seems to have been narrowed to a choice between Gen. Brehon Somervell, commanding general of the Army service forces, and Gen. Eisenhower, commander in chief of the Allied forces in the Mediterranean.

"Gen. Marshall has done an outstanding job since the outbreak of the war. He has organized and trained an army of millions and also has managed, in spite of demands from the various theaters, to keep a balance of forces in accordance with the immediate requirements of our strategy.

Outstanding Strategist

"But his work as a strategy framer has been particularly outstanding. His tact and understanding of the needs and wishes of our associates have been such that he has earned their complete confidence.

"Besides being a first-class administrator and excellent strategist, Gen. Marshall is regarded by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill as being one of our ablest leaders of men.

"Since last year he has been a strong advocate of an invasion across the channel. Difficulties which were described by many as insuperable have never worried him.

"Now that naval and air supremacy has been definitely established by the Allies, he is said to believe an early invasion of western Europe is possible.

"It is pointed out in well informed quarters the forthcoming appointment of Marshall must not be interpreted to mean that the Allied forces are ready to start an invasion within the next few weeks."

ARGENTINA REQUESTED TO EXPLAIN ARRESTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — (AP) The State department said today the Argentine government had been requested to give the United States embassy in Buenos Aires "complete information" concerning the arrest of several employes of the American and Foreign Power company subsidiary in the Argentine capital last Saturday.

Police occupied the main office of the subsidiary early Saturday morning, the department said, and arrested several of the officers, one of them an American, but released them all that night.

The embassy in Buenos Aires, immediately after news of the arrests, requested the Argentine government to permit an embassy official to see David Matson, the American arrested. Since the release of the prisoners the embassy has continued to keep in close touch with the situation.

PLANE CRASH FATAL TO NAVY OFFICIAL

Londonderry Base Commodore Killed in Northern Ireland.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — (AP) Commodore James Alexander Logan, 54, commanding officer of the U. S. naval operating base at Londonderry, Northern Ireland, was killed in an airplane crash Saturday, the Navy announced today.

Commodore Logan had been promoted to the grade of commodore only 11 days before the crash, somewhere in Northern Ireland. No details of the accident were reported by the Navy.

He was born in Charleston, S. C. Commodore Logan had been in naval service since graduation from the naval academy in 1910.

His assignments had brought him much duty at sea aboard the U. S. S. West Virginia, U. S. S. Oregon and other vessels. At one time he was commander of Destroyer Division Four, scouting force.

Commodore Logan was assigned in December, 1942, to the staff of Admiral H. R. Stark, commander, naval force in Europe, and in March, 1943, was appointed commander of the Londonderry base.

His widow, Mrs. Ruth Hepp Logan, now lives at Annapolis, Md. Commodore Logan's regular address, however, is 19 Pell street, Newport, R. I.

30.24 - 8107

SEPT. 15 DEADLINE SET FOR FATHERS FACING DRAFT CALL

Transfer Before That Date to Essential Work May Delay Induction.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — (AP) Selective Service today set Sept. 15 as the deadline for fathers in non-deferrable jobs to signify intention to transfer to other work if they want a cushion against induction ahead of other fathers.

Unless they have actually obtained jobs off the non-deferrable list or registered with the U. S. Employment Service for such jobs and given proof of registration to their draft boards by Sept. 15, they will be the first fathers to be drafted, and can be taken before Oct. 1.

Amends Earlier Regulation

Today's announcement took the form of an amendment to a regulation issued three weeks ago. It laid down the rule that the 30-day immunity from reclassification gained by registering for a job-transfer cannot extend beyond Oct. 15 under any circumstances.

However, if the non-deferrable father's order number would bring him up for induction earlier than Oct. 15 even if he were not in a non-deferrable job, he will get no added immunity and will be subject to call whenever his number comes up after Oct. 1.

Meanwhile, draft boards' authority to order induction of men in the 149 high-skill positions recently designated as "critical occupations" to givethem super-eligibility for extended occupational deferment was restricted sharply.

The boards, which hitherto have had complete control over each individual's case, subject only to peal board rulings, were forbidden to order the induction of any man with the required skills without first referring the case to the employment service.

Furthermore, they were ordered to give them super-eligibility for exservice even if an appeals board has agreed with them that the particular man does not deserve occupational deferment despite his qualifications to fill a "critical occupation."

30-Day Postponement

In doing so, they must give the man at least a 30-day postponement of induction, and then, if the employment service directs it, reconsider his case and give "the most serious consideration" to granting him the deferment it has previously refused.

Since the Selective Service laws gives the boards complete authority over each case except when an appeals board reverses it, the regulation did not say the boards will have to accept the employment service's recommendations in every case, though they must listen to them.

In the first estimate of the kind, Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey said there are not more than 400,000 men of military age throughout the country possessing the skills required in the critical occupations, all of them jobs occurring in the 35 essential activities.

Although the occupational deferment eligibility of men aged 18 to 25 has been limited even if they hold "essential" jobs in essential activities, there is no such limitation on the deferment eligibility of men in that age bracket who hold "critical" jobs, Gen. Hershey said.

NO-STRIKE PLEDGE RENEWED BY LABOR IN HOLIDAY TALKS

Murray, Green Call for Greater War Production to Win Battles.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — (AP) A call for greater war production and a renewal of the no-strike pledge came from labor union leaders today, even as the government's [illegible] chief forecast tighter control over workers to bolster output in many war industries.

In a Labor day message broadcast from Detroit, C.I.O. President Philip Murray told workers they must not surrender to complacency but must redouble their effort. The C.I.O. is determined, he declared, "to maintain our no-strike pledge until victory is ours."

SEP 7 1943

Must Keep Pledge

William Green, chief of the A.F L. asserted that the no-strike promise "must be religiously kept" and called for "hard, unremitting inspired work" to back to the limit the fighting men on the warfronts. Mr. Green spoke in Tampa.

Declaring that several war industries are failing to meet expanding schedules because of labor shortages, War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt declared in a statement that the nation must get more men and women into war jobs, shift more workers from nonessential to essential activities, reduce labor turnover, and keep key war production workers at their posts.

Furthermore, he declared, "we must see that management, too, does its share" by making it possible to utilize labor more efficiently with full consideration of the health and well-being of the working man.

Mr. Murray and Mr. Green coupled their assurances of labor's cooperation in the war effort with criticism of the government's wage and stabilization measures and with demands that labor be given a greater voice in the nation's wartime councils.

Asserting that labor's contribution has been "very great," Mr. Murray said it could still be larger "if the practical knowledge of its millions of members and the organizing ability of its great unions were fully harnessed to our war effort through direct representation in the planning and execution of national policies."

Mr. Green charged that the government had failed to coordinate ceilings on wages and prices and called for the payment of subsidies to bring down prices of staple commodities. At the same time, he protested against the power of Economic Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson to veto wage increases granted by the War Labor board.

"Can any outsider," Mr. Green said, "even an economic stabilization chairman, know more about the inflationary effect of a wage increase than the carefully selected members of the war labor board? x x x Labor maintains that the War Labor board x x x decisions must be final."

CHURCHILL URGES U. S.-WORLD TIES

America Must Accept Global Responsibility in Peace, Says Prime Minister.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 6. — (AP) British Prime Minister Winston Churchill declared today that the United States, which could not escape responsibility in this time of global conflict, would have an equal responsibility in the peace that follows.

"The price of greatness is responsibility," he told a special convocation of Harvard university faculty and overseers, called together to award the British government chief an honorary degree of doctor of laws.

Applauded by Spectators

Mr. Churchill, in a bright red gown over dark suit coat and gray trousers, was cheered and applauded for a full two minutes as he accepted the honor from President James Bryant Conant of Harvard. The accompanying citation said:

"Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill—an historian who has written a glorious page of British history; a statesman and warrior whose tenacity and courage turned back the tide of tyranny in freedom's darkest hour."

The "gift of a common tongue," Mr. Churchill told his Sanders theater audience at Harvard, most of whom were in uniform, is a "priceless inheritance" to the British and American peoples, which has "enabled us to wage war together with an intimacy and harmony never before achieved among allies."

"It may well become the foundation of a common citizenship," he added.

Praises Chiefs-of-Staff

Citing the work of the combined chief's-of-staff of the American and British military commands, operating "immediately under the President and myself as representative of the British War cabinet." Mr. Churchill declared that it was unequalled in the history of the world.

"In my opinion," he said, "it would be a most foolish and improvident act on the part of our two governments, or either of them, to break up this smooth-running and immensely powerful machinery the moment the war is over.

Must Safeguard Future

"For our own safety as well as for the security of the rest of the world, we are bound to keep it working and in running order after the war, probably for a good many years—not only until we have set up some world arrangement to keep the peace, but until we know that it is an arrangement which will really give us that protection we must have from danger and aggression, which we have already to seek across two vast world wars."

"I am not qualified, of course, to judge whether or not this would become a party question in the United States, and I would not presume to discuss that point.

"I am sure, however, that it would not be a party question in Great Britain," he said.

Mr. Churchill said that this was the second time in his lifetime that he had seen the "long arm of destiny" reach across the ocean to involve the United States in a deadly struggle.

"There was no use saying, 'We don't want it, we won't have it. Our forebears left Europe to avoid these quarrels. We've founded a new world which has no contact with the old.' There was no use in that. The long arm reaches out remorselessly and everyone sees the distant environment and outlook undergo a swift and irresistible change. x x x"

Many Peace Plans

Turning to the end of the war, Mr. Churchill said that various schemes for insuring a world peace while preserving the rights and traditions of all were being studied in the Allied nations.

"It is said that the League of Nations failed," he said. "If so, that is largely because it was abandoned or betrayed. x x x

"Because the United States, the originating impulse, fell out of the line; because while France had been bled white and England was supine and bewildered, a monstrous growth of aggression sprang up in Germany, Italy and Japan.

"We have learned from hard experiences that stronger, more efficient, more rigorous world institutions must be created to preserve peace, and to forstall the causes of future wars."

The strongest, victorious nations, and those which "have borne the burdens and heat of the day" must be combined in this task, Mr.

Churchill said.

"But," he added, "nothing would work soundly for long, without the united effort of the British and American peoples.

"If we are together," he concluded, "nothing is impossible. If we are divided, all will fail."

Global Responsibility Increases

Mr. Churchill said that the United States' global responsibility had increased in direct relation to the "increase in our powers of locomotion" which, figuratively, had shrunken the world.

"Here in the United States," he said, "with a respectable ocean on either side of us, we can look out upon the world in all its wonder and in all its woe. x x x

"If the people of the United States had remained in mediocre station, struggling with the wilderness, absorbed in their own affairs, and a factor of no consequence in the movements of the world, they might have remained forgotten and undisturbed, beyond their protecting ocean.

"But, one cannot rise to be, in many ways, the leading community in a civilized world without being involved in its problems, without being convulsed by its agonies and inspired by its causes.

"If this has been proved in the past, as it has been, it will become indisputable in the future.

"The people of the United States cannot escape world responsibility."

Text of Churchill's Address

Prime Minister Calls for U. S.-British 'Common Citizenship' as Postwar Goal

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 6.—Following is the text of Prime Minister Churchill's address at Harvard University yesterday:

President Conant, Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, gentlemen of the university, ladies and gentlemen here assembled:

The last time I attended a ceremony of this character was in the spring of 1941. When, as chancellor of Bristol University, I conferred a degree upon United States Ambassador Winant and in absentia on your president, who is here today and presiding over this ceremony.

The blitz was running hard at that time and the night before the raid on Bristol had been heavy. Several hundreds had been killed and wounded. Many houses were destroyed. The buildings next to the university were still burning and many of the university authorities who conducted the ceremony had pulled on their robes over uniforms begrimed and drenched. But it was presented with faultless ritual and appropriate decorum, and I sustained a very invigorating impression of the superiority of man over the forces that can destroy him.

Again in Academic Groves.

Here now, today, I am once again in academic groves—groves is, I believe the right word—where knowledge is garnered, where learning is stimulated, where virtues are inculcated and thought encouraged.

Here in the broad United States, with a respectable ocean on either side of us, we can look out upon the world in all its wonder and in all its woe.

As I look round this great company, I see uniforms on every side. I understand that nearly the whole energies of the whole university have been drawn into the preparation of American youth for the battle.

For this purpose all classes have been transformed and even the most sacred factors have been swept away in a round-the-year and almost round-the-clock drive to make warriors and technicians for the fighting front.

Twice in my lifetime the long arm of destiny has reached across the ocean and involved the entire life and manhood of the United States in a deadly struggle. There was no use saying, "We don't want it, we won't have it. Our forebears left Europe to avoid these quarrels. We've founded a new world which has no contact with the old." There was no use in that. The long arm reaches out remorselessly and every one sees the distant environment and outlook undergo a swift and irresistible change.

Only One Explanation.

What do you see as an explanation, Mr. President, for these strange facts? And what are the deep laws to which they respond? I will offer you one explanation.

There are others, but one will suffice. The price of greatness is responsibility. If the people of the United States had remained in a mediocre station, struggling with the wilderness, absorbed in their own affairs, and a factor of no consequence in the movements of the world, they might have remained forgotten and undisturbed, beyond their protecting ocean.

But, one cannot rise to be, in many ways, the leading community in a civilized world without being involved in its problems, without being convulsed by its agonies and inspired by its causes. If this has been proved in the past, as it has been, it will become indisputable in the future.

The people of the United States cannot escape world responsibilities. Although we live in a period so tumultuous that little can be predicted, we may be quite sure that this process will be intensified with every forward step the United States makes in wealth and in power.

Not only are the responsibilities of this vast, great republic growing, but the world over which they reign is itself contracting in relation to our powers of locomotion.

Deserts and Oceans Shrink.

At a positively alarming rate we have learned to fly. What prodigious changes are involved in that new accomplishment! Man has parted company with his trusty friend, the earth, and has sialed inot the azure with the eagles.

Where then are those broad oceans or vast staring deserts? They are shrinking beneath our very eyes! Even elderly parliamentarians like myself are forced to apply a high degree of mobility.

But to the youth of America as to the youth of all Britain, I say: You cannot stop! There is no halting place at this point! We have now reached a point in the journey where they can be no pause. We must go on! It must be world anarchy or world order!

Throughout all this ordeal and struggle, which is so characteristic of our age, you will find in the British Commonwealth and Empire good comrades to whom you are united by other ties besides those of state policy and public needs. To a large extent there are the ties of blood. Naturally, I, a child of both worlds, am conscious of these, law, language, literature. These are considerable factors, common conceptions of what is right and decent and marked regard for fair play, especially to the weak and poor, a stern sentiment of impartial justice and, above all, a love of personal freedom, or, as Kipling put it, leave to live by no man's leave underneath the law.

These are common conceptions on both sides of the ocean, among the English-speaking peoples. We hold to these conceptions as strongly as you do

Tyranny Is Our Foe.

We do not war primarily with races as such. As you have said, Mr. Governor, tyranny is our foe! Tyranny is our foe whatever trappings or disguise it wears, whatever language it speaks.

Be it external or internal, we must forever be on our guard, ever mobilized, ever vigilant, always ready to spring at its throat.

In all this we march together. Not only do we march and stride shoulder to shoulder, at this moment under the fire of the enemy, on the fields of war or in the air. But also in those realms of thought which are consecrated to the rights and dignity of man.

At present, Mr. President, we have been in continued vigorous action, the British and United States combined chiefs of staffs committee which works immediately under the President and myself as representatives of the British war cabinet. This committee, with its elaborate organization of staff officers of every grade, disposes of all our resources and in practice uses British and American troops, ships, aircraft, ammunition, just as if they were the resources of a single state or nation.

I would not say there are never divergences of views among these high, professional authorities. It would be unnatural if there were not. That is why it is necessary to have plenary meetings of principals every two or three months.

Knowledge and Trust.

All these men now know each other, they trust each other, they like each other and most of them have been at work together for a long time. When they meet they thrash things out with great candor and plain, blunt speech. But after a few days the President and I find ourselves furnished with sincere and united advice.

This is a wonderful system. There was nothing like it in the last war. There never has been anything like it between two allies. It is reproduced in an even more tightly knit form at Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters in the Mediterranean, where everything is completely intermingled and soldiers are ordered into battle by the supreme commander or his deputy, Gen. Alexander, without the slightest regard as to whether they are British, American or Canadian, but simply in accordance with the fighting needs.

Now in my opinion it would be a most foolish and improvident act on the part of our two governments or either of them to break up this smooth running and immensely powerful machinery the moment the war is over. For our own safety as well as for the security of the rest of the world we are bound to keep it working and in running order after the war, probably for a good many years, not only till we have set up some world arrangement to keep the peace but until we know that it is an arrangement, which will really give us that protection we must have from danger and aggression and which already we have had to seek across two vast world wars.

I am not qualified, of course, to judge whether or not this would become a party question in the United States and I would not presume to discuss that point. I am sure, however, that it would not be a party question in Great Britain.

We must not let go of the securities we have found necessary to preserve our lives and liberties until we are quite sure we have something else to put in their place, which will give us an equally solid guarantee.

Cites Bismarck Remark.

The great Bismarck, for there were once great men in Germany (laughter), is said to have observed toward the close of his life that the most potent factor in human society at the end of the 19th century was the fact that the British and American peoples spoke the same language. That was a pregnant saying. Certainly it has enabled us to wage war together, with an intimacy and harmony never before achieved among allies. This gift of a common tongue is a priceless inheritance and it may well some day become the foundation of a common citizensnip.

I like to think of Britons and Americans moving about freely over each other's wide estates with hardly a sense of being foreign to one another. But I do not see why we should not try to spread our common language even more widely throughout the globe and, without seeking selfish advantage over any, possess ourselves of this invaluable birthright.

Some months ago I persuaded the British cabinet to set up a committee of ministers to study and report upon basic English. Here you have a plan—there are others—but here you have a very carefully wrought plan for an international language capable of very wide transactions of practical business and of interchange of ideas. The whole of it comprised in about 650 nouns and 200 verbs or other parts of speech, no more, indeed, than can be written on one side of a single sheet of paper.

What was my delight when, the other evening, quite unexpectedly, I heard the President of the United States suddenly speak of the merits of basic English. And is it not a coincidence that with all this in mind I should arrive at Harvard in fulfillment of a long-dated invitation to receive this degree which your President has honored me. Because Harvard has done more than any other American university to promote the extension of basic English.

The first work on basic English was written by two Englishmen, Ivor Richards, now of Harvard University, and Ogden of Cambridge University, England, working in association.

The Harvard Commission on English Language Studies is distinguished in both point of research and practical work, particularly in introducing the use of basic English in America. And this commission, your commission, is now, I am told, working with the secondary schools in Boston on the use of basic English in teaching the main language to American children and in teaching it to foreigners applying for citizenship. Gentlemen, I make you my compliments.

You are at the headstream of what might well be a mighty fertilizing and health-giving river. It would be a grand convenience for us all to be able to move freely about the world—and we shall be able to do so more freely than ever known before as the science of the world develops to be able to move freely about the world—and to find everywhere a medium, albeit primitive, of intercourse and understanding.

Might it not also be an advantage to many races and an aid to the building up of our new structure for preserving peace? All these are great possibilities and I say, let us go into this together. Let us have another Boston Tea Party about it! (Much laughters.) Let us go forward with other men, other nations, similar in aim. Let us go forward in malice to none and with good will to all."

Such plans offer far better prizes than taking away other people's provinces or land or grinding them down in exploitation.

The empires of the future are the empires of the mind.

It would be lamentable if those who are charged with the duty of leading great nations forward in this grievous and obstinate war were to allow their minds and energies to be diverted from making the plans to achieve our rightous purposes without needless prolongation of slaughter and destruction.

Nevertheless we are also bound so far as life and strength allow, and without prejudice to our dominating military tasks, to look ahead to those days which will surely come when we shall have finally beaten down Satan under our fleet and find ourselves with the other great Allies at once the master and the servants of the future.

Why League Failed.

Various schemes for achieving world security while yet preserving national rights, traditions and customs are being studied and proved. We have all the fine work which was done a quarter of a century ago by those who devised and tried to make effective the League of Nations after the last war. It is said that the League of Nations failed. If so, that is largely because it was abandoned and later on betrayed, because those who were its best friends were, till a very late period, infected with a futile fanaticism. Because, sir, the United States, the originating impulse, fell out of the line. Because while France had been bled white and England was supine and bewildered a monstrous growth of aggression sprang up in Germany, in Italy and Japan.

We have learned from the hard experience that stronger, more efficient, more vigorous world institutions must be created to preserve peace and to forestall the causes of future wars. In this task, the strongest victorious nations must be combined and also those who have borne the burden and heat of the day, and suffered under the flails of adversity.

And in this creative task there are some who favor a world council and under it regional or continental councils. And there are others who prefer a semi-occupant organization. All these matters have weight with us now, in spite of the war which none can say has reached its climax, which is perhaps entering for us British and Americans upon its most severe and costly stage. But I am here to tell you that whatever form your system of world security may take, however the nations are grouped and ranged, whatever derogations are made from national sovereignty for the sake of the larger thesis, nothing will work soundly or for long without the united efforts of the British and American peoples.

Nothing Is Impossible.

If we are together nothing is impossible, if we are divided all will fail. I therefore preach continually the doctrine of the fraternal association of our two peoples, not for any purpose of gaining indigenous material advantages for either of them nor for territorial aggrandizement or the vain pomp of earthly domination, but for the sake of service to mankind and for the honor that comes to those who faithfully serve great causes.

And here let me say how proud we ought to be, young and old, to be living in a tremendous, thrilling, formative epoch in the human story and how fortunate it was for the world that when these great trials came upon us there was a generation that terror could not conquer and brutal violence could not enslave.

Let all who are here remember, as the words of the hymn we have just sung suggest, that we are on the stage of history and that whatever our station may be, whatever part we have to play, great or small, our conduct is liable to be scrutinized not only by history but by our own descendents. Let us rise to the full level of our duty and of our opportunity and let us thank God for the spiritual reward he has granted for all forms of valiant and faithful service.

Conant Cites Churchill

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 6 (AP).—In bestowing the degree upon the Prime Minister, Dr. Conant said:

"Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill, Doctor of Laws:

"An historian who has written a glorious page of British history; a statesman and warrior whose tenacity and courage turned back the tide of tyranny in freedom's darkest hour."

The citation was read at a special convocation in Sanders The-

SEP 2 1943

1943

30.24-8109

30.24-8109

ater, Harvard's memorial to its sons who fought in the Civil War.

Harvard is the alma mater of President Roosevelt, who received an honorary degree at Ottawa, Canada, Aug. 25 from the University of London. It was awarded by the Governor General of Canada, the Earl of Athlone, as an official of the institution.

Mr. Churchill was greeted upon his arrival here by train from Washington this morning by Governor Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts and Mrs. Saltonstall, and Dr. Conant and Mrs. Conant.

Accompanying the Prime Minister were Mrs. Churchill and his daughter, Mary, who is a subaltern in the Auxiliary Territorial Service, an organization similar to the Wacs.

Advance announcement of Mr. Churchill's Labor Day whereabouts had been confined to a White House statement that he would make an address from "an American city" in fulfillment of "a long standing engagement."

Greets Army-Navy Students

Traveling with the Prime Minister's party were: Brendan Bracken, British Minister of Information; Commander C. R. Thompson, R. N., personal assistant to the Prime Minister; J. M. Martin, his secretary; Aubrey Morgan, British war-time information representative in New York; Lord Moran, president of the Royal College of Physicians, and Sir Alexander Cadogan, Permanent Under-Secretary of State, British Foreign Office.

After leaving Sanders Theater the Prime Minister crossed the street to Harvard Yard, where Army and Navy students at the university were assembled to greet him.

Applause echoed through the Yard as Mr. Churchill was introduced from the steps of Memorial Church by Dr. Conant.

Wearing a black coat with light trousers, and carrying a black hat and a cane, the Prime Minister waved to the assemblage of uniformed men. When the applause subsided he said: "This is indeed an inspiring spectacle. I am very glad my host has not denied me the opportunity to meet you. We have reached a period when many people are inclined to think that the war is over."

The issue is quite clear, he continued, but added: "I know of no reason for supposing a climax has been reached, even in Europe, let alone Asia."

The Prime Minister then went to the home of Dr. Conant for a private luncheon.

World Court Is Advocated By Baldwin at GOP Parley

Committee Agrees on Qualified U. S. Collaboration to Enforce Peace.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., Sept. 6—(AP) A committee of four Congress members and two governors reportedly reached general agreement tonight on a compromise statement of Republican foreign policy pledging qualified American collaboration with other nations to enforce the peace in the post-war world.

The tentative declaration, to be submitted to the party's advisory council of 49 for a searching examination tomorrow morning, appeared acceptable to the extreme interventionist and the nationalistic minded combatants in what has developed as a battle over words.

Governor Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut advocated formation of a "council of nations" and a "world court" whose actions and decisions would be backed by "the collaboration of the military, naval and air power of the nations of the world."

The governor, one of the delegates to the council, issued a public statement substantially repeating views he aired before the Foreign Policy and Domestic Problems committees of the council.

Governor Baldwin said it would be possible to "take the first firm step in the direction of permanent world organization" after the war had ended and the hatreds and animosities generated by it had "cooled down."

"We should promote," he declared, "a council of nations to eliminate those factors in international relationships which cause differences and provoke armed conflict; and a world court to decide justifiable disputes between nations."

The decisions to be made, he continued, "are so vital to the future welfare of our citizens that they cannot be made on a basis of mere partisanship and the desire to win an election. It should be of secondary importance to a council of this sort whether the Republican or the Democratic party survive in these tumultuous years."

Governor Baldwin stressed his belief that it was no function of the Mackinac Island conference to prepare a platform for the party, but he said the governors and congressional representatives here ought to give the party's national convention delegates "the frank benefit of our experience as elected officials" with all the many problems they have confronted.

"Above all," he pleaded, "let us advocate only action which will perpetuate our liberty, our sovereignty and our representative democracy for our own people."

Should Aid Other Nations

The Connecticut chief executive cautioned against what he called "optimistic altruism" on the part of the United States, and said "we should try to help the other nations up to our standard of living without risking the chance of being drawn down to theirs."

As for home front policies, Governor Baldwin asserted:

"We must return to the American system of increasing and expanding production through individual energy and initiative, so that jobs in private industry, commerce and agriculture will furnish a living for our people and an opportunity for the advancement of the energetic, frugal and willing worker.

"We believe that 'that government is best which governs least,' and that it is the function of government to foster those conditions which make a better working of the American system possible, to protect the weak against greed and avarice, and to preserve fair play in all things.

Would Cut Federal Expenses

"At the cessation of hostilities, we believe in a drastic reduction of government departments and bureaus, not only for the elimination of waste and expense, but to wipe out forever the possibility of any administration, regardless of its political complexion, using the immense government payroll to keep itself in office.

"We have seen enough of bureaucracy to know that it does not belong in the American system of government. Our country is so big and the interests of its citizens so diverse, that governmental functions of the state and local units should be expanded and improved, rather than that a great central government should be expanded and perpetuated in the national capital."

Senator Austin, of Vermont, a leading exponent of internationalism, was reported to have proposed a statement that whenever international proposals collided with the declaration of independence or the constitution, American participation must be guided by those documents.

This proposal was said to have been accepted with alacrity by Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, the committee chairman and leader of the group which has plugged for a reservation which would urge that American sovereignty be maintained at all times in any international organization—in other words that the United States not agree to go into a world organization that might decide that a nation was an aggressor and act against it when the majority of American people might not agree with that decision.

Thus what promises to become the Republican statement of foreign policy which—if adopted by the council—will hold at least until the 1944 convention, seemed likely to be a compromise document about which both sides appeared to be happy.

Although they would not comment on details, there was no doubt that Austin and Rep. Charles A. Eaton of New Jersey regarded the document with much satisfaction. Similarly, Vandenberg was all smiles.

Churchill's Alliance Plan Has Backers in Mackinac

Baldwin, Kelland and Eaton Applaud, Martin Skeptical

MACKINAC Island, Mich., Sept. 6 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill's suggestion at Hrvaard that the United States and Britain continue after the war the joint military strategy machinery which has been operating to date was indorsed today by some members of the Republican post-war Advisory Council. Others saw domestic political implications in the speech.

Clarence Budington Kelland, committeeman for Arizona, and author of a five-foot post-war plan which includes a military alliance with Britain, said: "I'm for a permanent alliance with Great Britain if he (Churchill) doesn't include Mr. Roosevelt as a permanent part of it."

Representative Joseph W. Martin, of Massachusetts, House leader, commented: "I hope Mr. Churchill is not trying to enter into any of our American politics."

Representative Charles A. Eaton, of New Jersey, ranking minority member on the House oFreign Affairs Committee, said he approved Mr. Churchill's suggestion. "If the English-speaking people had stood shoulder to shoulder for their interests in the past we would not have had this war," Representative Eaton declared. "Instead we ran up the white flag of appeasement and pacifism over the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack. Now we are paying the price in blood."

Former Senator John G. Townsend, of Delaware, chairman of the Senate Campaign Committee, said: "It's a characteristic Churchill speech to help his friends."

Governor Raymond L. Baldwin of Connecticut, said "such military collaboration as proposed is the obvious thing to do." "We are doing it now," he added.

11 Killed, 5 Missing In Flying Fortress Crackups in South

DYERSBURG, Tenn., Sept. 6. (AP)—Eleven army fliers were killed, five are missing and 10 survived in two accidents involving three Flying Fortresses from the Dyersburg base over the weekend.

Five were killed, while four are missing and seven survived when they parachuted after two of the Fortresses collided in flight Saturday near Rolla, Md.

The dead included: Second Lt. James E. Gallgher, 26, pilot, of Jersey City and Sgt. Angelo Catalfamo, 24, engineer, of New Brunswick, N. J.

The missing included: Sgt. Richard J. Fitzgibbon, 31, assistant engineer, of Brooklyn.

Among the survivors was: Sgt. Anthony S. Cieri, assistant gunner, Jersey City.

Six were killed while three parachuted to safety and a 10th man is missing from a bomber which went down in flames at Dresden, Tenn., yesterday.

The dead included: Sgt. Clement J. Funai, 22, assistant radio operator, of Brooklyn.

Misssing is Staff Sgt. Milton Gresfeld, 19, engineer, of New York city.

Among the survivors was Second Lt. Andrew G. Kohlhof, 27, bombardier, of Floral Park.

EIGHT DIE IN BOMBER CRASH

WENDOVER FIELD, Utah, Sept. 6—(AP) A four-engined Liberator bomber crashed on the salt desert seven miles east of Wendover Army air base today, killing the crew of eight.

Antonescu Says Rumania To Continue With Axis

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Premier Ion Antonescue of Rumania said yesterday on the eve of the third anniversary of his advent to power that his country, an Axis partner, would "carry on the fight for the right and the work for the right."

The proclamation, reported by DNB, was broadcast from Berlin and recorded by United States government monitors.

LABOR DOING ITS DUTY, SAYS SECRETARY KNOX

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 6—(AP) Navy Secretary Frank Knox said today that labor was doing its duty towards [illegible] the war and added that it would be impossible to win without the full cooperation of labor.

He said in a Labor day address that the United Nations now had taken the initiative in the war and were going ahead step by step until they overwhelm Japan, itself.

As part of the Labor day celebration, New Hampshire's drive for subscriptions of $39,000,000 to the Third War Loan was begun, and Assistant Treasury Secretary John L. Sullivan of Manchester said that with the money raised, the nation's armed forces would have equipment second to none.

GREENWICH FLIER BAGS TENTH JAP AIRPLANE

GREENWICH, Sept. 6.—Major Edwards Cragg of this town, pilot of a P-38, added two Japanese Zeros to his total late last week while flying with the U. S. Fifth Airforce in the vicinity of Lae, New Guinea.

This brings his total to 10 enemy aircraft.

The Associated Press, in a dispatch from a New Guinea airbase, quoted Major Cragg as follows:

To Launch Seaplane Tender

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6 (AP).—The U. S. S. Currituck, first seaplane tender ever built at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, will be launched from the yard on Saturday, the 4th Naval District announced today. Mrs. M. F. Draemel, wife of the rear admiral commanding the yard, will be the sponsor. The craft will be named after Currituck Sound, North Carolina.

SEP 7 1943

S. S. Heywood Broun Launched at Baltimore

Late Columnist's Wife Sponsor of Liberty Ship

BALTIMORE, Sept. 6 (AP).—The liberty ship Heywood Broun, named for the late newspaper columnist and president of the American Newspaper Guild, was launched before a cheering Labor Day crowd today at the Bethlehem-Fairfield Shipyards.

Mr. Broun's wife—the "Connie" of many of his columns—planted a kiss on the hull of the vessel and then smashed a bottle of champagne which symbolically sent the 10,500-ton cargo ship into the waters of Chesapeake Bay, where waiting tugs took it into dock for its final fitting.

Thousands of shipyard workers and their friends, many of them perched on stacks of steel girders in the sprawling yards, heard a series of speakers pay tribute to the former columnist, who died in 1940.

Richard du Pont Returns With Army Glider Report

Back After Mission to Sicily for Arnold

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 6 (AP).—Richard C. du Pont, thirty-two-year-old glider expert, of Wilmington, Del., has returned from a special mission to Sicily, where he observed glider operations for General H. H. Arnold, commander of the Army Air Forces.

"I am not at liberty to disclose any details of my findings," he said. "I am convinced that this new tactical development of the war has great possibilities for air-porne operations in combat areas.

"Gliders are being used to land large numbers of troops and equipment in enemy territory where power planes cannot get, as they do not depend on an airport. For a glider, there is no such thing as a restricted area."

Mr. du Pont, who has been flying since he was eighteen, said his trip to the Sicilian front was an unexpected development in his new capacity as a civilian official under the Air Forces glider program.

EDITORS: DURING KIRKE L.SIMPSON'S VACATION THIS COLUMN IS BEING WRITTEN BY VARIOUS MEMBERS OF THE WASHINGTON STAFF OF THE AP INTERPRETING THE WAR

BY HAMILTON W.FARON

SEP 7 1943.

STRONG SUPPORT FOR A BELIEF THAT THE ITALIAN GOVERNMENT MAY SOON SEEK A SEPARATE PEACE HAS COME FROM BERLIN ITSELF IN A BROADCAST ANNOUNCING THE EVACUATION OF AT LEAST PART OF THE FOOT OF THE ITALIAN BOOT.

BY WITHDRAWING NORTHWARD AND MAINTAINING THEIR RECORD OF NO SERIOUS OPPOSITION TO THE ALLIED INVASION OF THE ITALIAN MAINLAND, THE ITALIANS MAY BE HOPING TO SECURE A BETTER PEACE THAN IF THEY TOOK A STAND.

THE WITHDRAWAL OF GERMAN AND ITALIAN TROOPS -- AND CIVILIANS -- FROM LOWER CALABRIA ANNOUNCED BY DNB, OFFICIAL GERMAN NEWS AGENCY, REMAINS UNCONFIRMED IN ALLIED CAPITALS, AS THIS WAS WRITTEN. HOWEVER, IN WASHINGTON, IT WAS GENERALLY ACCEPTED AS TRUE IN VIEW OF THE ASTONISHING LACK OF RESISTANCE OF ANY KIND ENCOUNTERED BY THE INVADING ARMIES.

COUPLED WITH THE ABANDONMENT OF THE FOOT OF THE BOOT THERE ARE OTHER SIGNS THAT NEW PEACE FEELERS SOON MAY BE EXTENDED BY MARSHAL BADOGLIO'S GOVERNMENT IN COMPLIANCE WITH ACKNOWLEDGED DESIRES OF THE ITALIAN PEOPLE FOR SURRENDER.

FOR ONE THING, ITALIAN SOLDIERS, SURRENDERING TO BRITISH AND CANADIAN TROOPS, REPORT THEY WERE UNDER ORDERS TO LAY DOWN THEIR ARMS. THEIR STATEMENTS, IF CORRECT, CLEARLY INDICATE THAT THE LACK OF OPPOSITION ON THE TOE OF THE BOOT IS A CALCULATED MOVE OF THE ITALIAN GOVERNMENT RATHER THAN VOLUNTARY ACTION BY WAR WEARY TROOPS THEMSELVES.

ALSO SIGNIFICANT WAS THE PLAINTIVE PLEA BY THE ROME RADIO THAT THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN PLEDGE THEMSELVES TO GUARANTEE ITALY'S 1919 FRONTIERS. THIS SHOWS THE CHANGE THAT HAS COME OVER THE ITALIAN LEADERSHIP SINCE THE DAYS, NOT SO LONG AGO, WHEN MUSSOLINI WAS MAKING HIS PRETENSIONS TO VAST EMPIRE. SEP 7 1943

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL CONTINUE TO KEEP IN CLOSE TOUCH WITH THE ITALIAN SITUATION. THEY ARE UNDERSTOOD TO BE READY AT ANY TIME TO ACT PROMPTLY ON ANY PEACE PROPOSALS.

HOWEVER, IT IS UNLIKELY THAT A SUGGESTION FOR ANYTHING EXCEPT "UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER" WOULD BE ACCEPTABLE TO THE ALLIED LEADERS.

DESPITE ALL THE INDICATIONS POINTING TOWARD PEACE PROPOSALS, HOWEVER, THE AXIS WITHDRAWAL COULD BE A MOVEMENT TO NEW DEFENSE LINES WHERE GERMAN TROOPS COULD PUT UP STIFFER OPPOSITION TO THE ULTIMATE CONQUEST OF ITALY BY ALLIED ARMIES.

SEVERAL GOOD POSSIBILITIES FOR CONSOLIDATED DEFENSE POSITIONS EXIST ON LINES CROSSING THE FOOT. ALL ROUGHLY SPAN THE INSTEP WITH WESTERN TERMINALS ON THE TYRRHENIAN SEA AND THE EASTERN ENDS ON THE GULF OF TARANTO WHICH FORMS THE ARCH OF THE FOOT.

LOGICAL SPOTS FOR THE FIXING OF NEW DEFENSE POSITIONS (DE-

3024 8111

30.24-8111

PENDING WHOLLY UPON THE AS YET UNCLEAR EXTENT OF THE WITHDRAWAL MOVEMENT) APPEAR TO BE LINES BEGINNING ON THE WESTERN SHORE AT PIZZO, BELVEDERE, OR POSSIBLY EVEN POLICASTRO ABOUT 140 MILES FROM REGGIO CALABRIA IF THE ENTIRE CALABRIAN TERRITORY IS ABANDONED.

THE POSSIBILITY ALSO EXISTS THAT THE LAYING DOWN OF THEIR ARMS BY ITALIAN SOLDIERS IS DESIGNED TO GET ITALY OUT OF THE WAR GRADUALLY WITHOUT A FORMAL AND PUBLICLY ANNOUNCED SURRENDER. SUCH ACTION COULD BE A STEP TO AVOID RETALIATION BY GERMANY.

THIRD NIGHT LEAD AERIAL

BY ERNEST AGNEW

SEP 7 1943

LONDON, TUESDAY, SEPT. 7-(AP)-LARGE FORMATIONS OF FLYING FORTRESSES POUNDED STUTTGART YESTERDAY TO CLIMAX ONE OF THE GREATEST DAYLIGHT BOMBING OFFENSIVES OF THE WAR AND HEAVY RAF SQUADRONS ROARED OVER THE LONDON AREA FOR MORE THAN TWO HOURS IN THE NIGHT, OUTWARD BOUND TO MAINTAIN THE BLOWS AT HITLER'S EUROPE.

A BRIEF ANNOUNCEMENT SAID THAT THE RAF RAIDERS HAD AGAIN STRUCK AT GERMANY.

MORE THAN 70 ENEMY FIGHTERS WERE DESTROYED BY THE FLYING FORTRESSES IN FIERCE AIR BATTLES WHICH DEVELOPED ON THE EIGHT-HOUR, 900-MILE FLIGHT TO STUTTGART, CENTER OF SOUTHWEST GERMANY'S WAR INDUSTRY AND CAPITAL OF WUERTTEMBERG PROVINCE.

A DOZEN MORE WERE SHOT DOWN DURING JOINT BRITISH AND AMERICAN ATTACKS UPON TARGETS IN FRANCE. AGAINST THIS TOLL, 35 AMERICAN AND FOUR BRITISH PLANES WERE MISSING.

THE GIGANTIC RAF ARMADAS WHICH TOOK TO THE AIR AFTER DUSK SET OUT FOR THE CONTINENT TO KEEP UP A BOMBING OF ENEMY TARGETS WHICH HAS BEEN IN PROGRESS FIVE DAYS AND FIVE NIGHTS.

IT WAS AN EARLY START FOR A NIGHT RAID, AND THE EARLY START USUALLY INDICATES A DISTANT TARGET--SUCH AS BERLIN, OR SOUTHWEST GERMANY OR ITALY.

AIRCRAFT COULD BE SEEN CLEAR ACROSS THE SKY AND THE DRONE OF HIGH-FLYING BOMBERS DROWNED TRAFFIC NOISES IN THE BUSIEST STREETS. IT WAS ONE OF THE LARGEST FORCES OF NIGHT BOMBERS EVER TO PASS OVER THE CAPITAL.

SOON AFTER THE BOMBERS CROSSED THE COAST VIRTUALLY ALL RADIOS ON THE CONTINENT CLOSED DOWN AND AN ALERT WAS SOUNDED IN WESTERN SWITZERLAND.

AN ALERT WAS SOUNDED IN SOME DISTRICTS OF LONDON AT 3:30 A.M., THE FIRST SINCE AUG. 23, AFTER NAZI RAIDERS STRUCK UP THE THAMES ESTUARY. IN THE CAPITAL SUBURBS SEARCHLIGHTS SWEPT THE SKY AND SOME RESIDENTS REPORTED HEARING A PLANE OVERHEAD, BUT THERE WAS NO GUNFIRE AND NO REPORT OF BOMBS BEING DROPPED BEFORE THE ALL-CLEAR SOUNDED.

SEP 7 1943

THE LONDON ALERT FOLLOWED SOME SLIGHT AERIAL ACTIVITY OVER THE MIDLANDS AND SOUTHEAST ENGLAND, IN WHICH SOME BOMBS WERE DROPPED.

FOR FIVE DAYS THE GREAT AERIAL ASSAULT--THE LONDON MORNING PAPERS CALLED IT THE GREATEST IN HISTORY--HAS BEEN RISING IN INTENSITY AND THERE IS NO SIGN YET OF A CLIMAX.

DURING MONDAY'S DAYLIGHT HOURS HUNDREDS OF AMERICAN AND BRITISH BOMBERS, SUPPORTED BY MANY HUNDREDS MORE FIGHTERS, SMASHED AT RAILROADS

AND AIRBASES IN FRANCE, HOLLAND AND BELGIUM IN THE GREAT PRE-INVASION SOFTENING-UP.

IN ADDITION TO STUTTGART, THESE WERE TARGETS: THE BOULOGNE HARBOR, FREIGHT YARDS AND RAILROADS AT ROUEN AND AIRPORTS AT AMIENS, SERQUEUX, ABBEVILLE, DOUAI, VALENCIENNES, CAMBRAI, ORLEANS AND CONCHES. SEVERAL OF THESE PLACES WERE BOMBED TWICE DURING THE DAY.

IT WAS THE FORTRESSES' FIRST RAID ON STUTTGART, A RAILWAY JUNCTION AND AN IMPORTANT CENTER OF GERMAN WAR INDUSTRY, PARTICULARLY FOR SUBMARINE AIRCRAFT ENGINES.

SEP 7 1943

FLYING FORTRESSES ETC SECOND GRAF SECOND LEAD AS BEFORE

(ELIMINATING THIRD AND EIGHTH GRAFS, WHICH SUPERSEDED)

IN THE SOUTH.

LONDON, SEPT. 6--(ADD NIGHT LEAD RUSSIAN)

RUSSIA'S ELATION AT THE VICTORIES WAS APPARENT. THE SOVIET MONITOR, WHO RECORDED THE WAR BULLETIN, SAID THAT THE MOSCOW RADIO REPEATED IT TEN TIMES, PLAYING MILITARY MARCHES AFTER EVERY THIRD READING.

THE RED ARMY ALREADY HAD RECONQUERED MOST OF THE RICH DONETS BASIN, AND THE GERMANS APPARENTLY BEGAN SETTING FIRE TO STALINO, ITS INDUSTRIAL HEART, ON SUNDAY, DISPATCHES SAID.

WHEN THE GERMANS SEIZED STALINO OCT 21, 1941, FOUR MONTHS AFTER THEIR INVASION OF RUSSIA, THEY COMPARED ITS IMPORTANCE TO THAT OF THE KRUPP ARMAMENT WORKS IN GERMANY'S RUHR. BERLIN COMMENTATORS ALSO SAID THAT GERMANY'S SEIZURE OF THE DONETS BASIN MADE IT IMPOSSIBLE FOR RUSSIA "TO EVER RALLY EFFECTIVELY AGAIN."

A BERLIN BROADCAST RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS MONDAY SAID: "THE WITHDRAWAL OF THE GERMAN TROOPS ON THE SOUTHERN WING OF THE EASTERN FRONT WAS MADE IN COMPLETE ORDER. ALL IMPORTANT SUPPLIES WERE BROUGHT TO SAFETY, ALL MILITARY INSTALLATIONS DESTROYED, AND MINES LAID."

BUT THE MOSCOW NEWSPAPER PRAVDA'S FRONT CORRESPONDENT TOLD OF SIGNS OF PANIC IN THE HASTY GERMAN WITHDRAWAL. "THE GERMANS ARE NERVOUS," HE SAID. "EVERYWHERE THEY SEE THE MENACE OF ENCIRCLEMENT."

HE SAID THAT THERE WAS GOOD REASON FOR THIS AXIS NERVOUSNESS BECAUSE OF RUSSIAN FURY AT THE SIGHT OF "THOUSANDS OF EXTERMINATED SOVIET CIVILIANS" WHOSE BODIES HAVE BEEN FOUND ALONG THE PATH OF THE GERMAN RETREAT.

GAINS OF NINE TO 15 MILES WERE SCORED IN THE DONETS BASIN DURING THE DAY, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID, AS THE SOVIET FORCES BORE DOWN ON STALINO FROM THREE SIDES, AND CAPTURED SLAVYANSK, 60 MILES TO THE NORTH.

SEP 7 1943

IN THE PUSH THAT CAPTURED KONOTOP THE RUSSIANS SAID THEY ADVANCED FROM SIX TO 12 MILES. FARTHER NORTH, IN THE AREA BELOW BRYANSK, MORE THAN 90 LICALITIES FELL TO THE RED ARMY IN ADVANCES OF NINE AND 12 MILES.

SWEEPING THROUGH THE DONETS BASIN THE RUSSIANS ALSO SEIZED KRAMATORSKAYA, 50 MILES NORTH OF STALINO, AND THE BIG AXIS BASE AND RAIL JUNCTION OF SLAVYANKS, 11 MILES FARTHER NORTH, SAID A COMMUNIQUE RECORDED BY THE SOVIET MONITOR.

STALINO ITSELF WAS REPORTED IN FLAMES AS THE RUSSIANS BORE DOWN ON IT FROM THREE SIDES. THE GERMANS APPARENTLY WERE ATTEMPTING TO DESTROY IT BEFORE RETREATING TOWARD THE DNIEPER RIVER.

KONOTOP'S FALL GAVE THE RED ARMY POSSESSION OF A JUNCTION ON THE BRYANSK-KIEV AND KURSK-KIEV RAILWAYS.

THE RUSSIANS SAID THEIR TROOPS CAPTURED NEARLY 300 LOCALITIES DURING THE DAY ON ALL FRONTS.

AXIS-INVASION

SEP 7 1943

BY ERNEST AGNEW

LONDON, SEPT.6-(AP)--GERMAN MILITARY AUTHORITIES, APPARENTLY FEARFUL OF AN ALLIED INVASION THRUST INTO SOUTHERN FRANCE, WERE REPORTED TODAY TO HAVE CLEARED ALL CIVILIANS FROM A 50-MILE STRIP OF THE FRENCH COASTLINE BETWEEN NARBONNE AND MONTPELIER AND TO BE RUSHING THE CONSTRUCTION OF ADDITIONAL FORTIFICATIONS IN THAT AREA.

THE CLEARED AREA, EXTENDING BACK 10 MILES FROM SEA, IS IN A FLAT, SANDY SECTOR OF THE COAST WHICH WOULD LEND ITSELF NATURALLY TO LANDINGS OPERATIONS.

IN ADDITION TO THE MEASURES BEING TAKEN IN THIS AREA THE GERMANS WERE SAID TO HAVE SENT 5,000 TO 10,000 ENGINEERS TO MARSEILLE AND TOULON TO STRENGTHEN FORTIFICATIONS IN THOSE PORTS.

ACCORDING TO REPORTS REACHING ALLIED OFFICIALS IN LONDON, THE GERMANS RECENTLY HAVE SPEEDED UP THE WORK OF IMPROVING ROADS THROUGHOUT COASTAL AREAS IN SOUTHERN FRANCE TO FACILITATE QUICK TROOP MOVEMENTS.

IT IS ESTIMATED HERE THAT THE GERMAN GARRISONS IN FRANCE AT THE PRESENT TIME TOTAL ABOUT 500,000 MEN.

IN THE BIARRITZ AREA THOUSANDS OF FRENCHMEN WERE SAID TO HAVE BEEN IMPRESSED TO SANDBAG COASTAL DEFENSES AND A NUMBER OF HEAVY GUN EMPLACEMENTS WERE REPORTED UNDER CONSTRUCTION.

FURTHER EAST THE ITALIANS HAVE PACKED THE COAST FROM MENTONE TO TOULON WITH TROOPS OF THE FOURTH ARMY, ARTILLERY AND MACHINEGUN

3024- 8113

30.24 - 8113

POSTS HAVE BEEN SET UP ALONG THE COAST.

FIELD MARSHALL GENERAL KARL RUDOLF GERD VON RUNDSTEDT, 67-YEAR-OLD GERMAN COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF IN WESTERN EUROPE, WHO LED THE NAZIS INTO POLAND AND CARRIED OUT THE BREAKTHROUGH AT SEDAN IN FRANCE IN 1940, HAS HIS HEADQUARTERS AT MONTPELIER, WHERE HE SAID TO BE DIRECTING THE ANTI-INVASION PREPARATIONS.

IT IS BELIEVED THAT AN ALLIED LANDING IN SOUTHERN FRANCE, HOWEVER, WOULD DRAW QUICK SUPPORT FROM SOME 200,000 FRENCHMEN WHO ALREADY ARE ARMED AND WAITING FOR THE WORD TO STRIKE.

-- TIME -- LONDON, SEPT 6-AP- (W.S. WHITE) - INVASION ALARM

THE BBC, MEANWHILE, TOLD THE FRENCH: "WE HAVE LEARNED THAT THE GERMANS ARE CIRCULATING INSPIRED RUMORS THAT WE ARE CONCENTRATING ARMIES ON OUR COASTS WITH THE INTENTIONS OF INVADING THE CONTINENT. TAKE NO NOTICE, AS THESE PROVICATIONS ARE INTENDED TO CREATE AMONG YOU DEMONSTRATIONS AND DISORDERS WHICH THE GERMANS WILL USE AS AN EXCUSE FOR REPRESSIVE MEASURES AGAINST YOU.

"BE DISCIPLINED, USE DISCRETION AND MAINTAIN ORDER, FOR WHEN THE TIME COMES FOR ACTION YOU WILL BE ADVISED IN ADVANCE."

TO MEET AN INVASION OF FRANCE, THE GERMANS WERE REPORTED TO HAVE ABOUT 500,000 TROOPS GARRISONED THERE, WHILE THE ITALIANS WERE SAID TO HAVE NEARLY 100,000 MORE. IT WAS BELIEVED HERE, HOWEVER, THAT AN ALLIED LANDING WOULD FIND AT LEAST 200,000 FRENCHMEN, ARMED AND EAGER WAITING TO HELP DRIVE OUT THE NAZIS.

SEP 7 1943

THE GERMAN PROPAGANDA MACHINE, CONTINUING ITS SPECULATIONS, SAID IN A BROADCAST RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS: "ALL INDICATIONS POINT TO A SECOND LARGE-SCALE LANDING OF BRITISH AND AMERICAN TROOPS AT ANOTHER PLACE IN THE MEDITERRANEAN TO COME SOON."

THE BROADCAST OFFERED ITS LISTENERS THESE POSSIBILITIES:

1. AN ALLIED LANDING ON SARDINIA AND CORSICA TO MOVE UP THE ITALIAN COAST FOR LANDINGS EITHER IN NORTHERN ITALY OR SOUTHERN FRANCE;

2. A "DIRECT OPERATION" AGAINST CENTRAL ITALY, PRESUMABLY FROM EITHER SICILY OR NORTH AFRICA, AND

SEP 7 1943

3. A MOVEMENT AGAINST THE EASTERN COAST OF ITALY, NORTH OF BRINDISI. THIS OPERATION, THE BROADCAST DESCRIBED AS "OF CERTAIN INTEREST BECAUSE OF ITS GEOGRAPHIC POSITION WITH REFERENCE TO THE ADRIATIC SEA."

LONDON,SEPT.6-(AP)-LOUISE MORLEY, DAUGHTER OF CHRISTOPHER MORLEY, THE AUTHOR AND JOURNALIST, SAID TODAY THAT SHE WILL BE MARRIED HERE SEPT. 14 TO CAPT. J.A.COCHRANE, WHO HOLDS THE MILITARY CROSS AND DISTINGUISHED SERVICE ORDER.

CAPT.COCHRANE, A MEMBER OF THE QUEEN'S OWN CAMERON HIGHLANDERS, DESTROYED TWO MACHINEGUN POSTS SINGLE-HANDED, KILLING 13 OF THE ENEMY, DURING THE CAMPAIGN IN ERITREA.

MISS MORLEY IS EMPLOYED HERE BY THE OWI AND IS IN CHARGE OF GIVING INFORMATION REGARDING AMERICAN YOUNG PEOPLE'S ORGANIZATIONS TO SIMILAR GROUPS IN BRITAIN.

LONDON, SEPT. 6-(AP)-ATTACKS ON GERMAN AIRFIELDS PROBABLY HAVE FORCED THE NAZIS TO WITHDRAW FROM SEVERAL WESTERN EUROPEAN BASES AND "WE ARE RAPIDLY APPROACHING PUTTING THE GERMAN AIR FORCE IN A POSITION WHERE WE ARE GOING TO BE THE TOP DOG OVER HIS OWN TERRITORY," AN AMERICAN FIGHTER ACE SAID TODAY.

THE YOUNGEST FIGHTER GROUP COMMANDER IN THE EUROPEAN THEATER OF OPERATIONS, 23-YEAR-OLD LT. COL. CHESLEY G. PETERSON OF SANTAQUIN, UTAH, DECLARED:

SEP 7 1943

"I THINK IT IS A FACT THAT A NUMBER OF HIS BASES HAVE BEEN WITHDRAWN TOWARD THE BORDERS OF GERMANY, BUT AIR WAR IS VERY FLEXIBLE. THE GERMANS HAVE BEEN ATTACKING US WITH EVERYTHING THEY CAN GET INTO THE AIR."

PETERSON CAUTIONED THAT THE GERMAN AIR FORCE IS STILL A LONG WAY FROM BEATEN, SAYING, "I WOULD NOT SAY THE GERMANS GET APPRECIABLY WEAKER. HE KEEPS THROWING HIS RESERVES IN. HE PROBABLY REGARDS THIS FRONT AS THE MOST IMPORTANT HE HAS."

NOTING THAT EIGHTH AIR FORCE FIGHTERS KNOCKED DOWN 87 OF THE ENEMY IN AUGUST AND LOST ONLY 15, HE ADDED AT A PRESS CONFERENCE:

"IT WAS NOT NECESSARILY THE SCORE THAT TOLD THE WHOLE STORY. I CAN CITE A CASE WHERE WE PICKED UP THE BOMBERS AFTER A VERY DEEP PENETRATION INTO GERMANY AND THEY HAD 200 OR 300 ENEMY FIGHTERS AROUND THEM LIKE FLIES AROUND A HONEY POT.

"WE CAME IN, BROKE UP THE COORDINATED ATTACKS AND SHOT DOWN 17. WE SUCCEEDED IN KEEPING AWAY PROBABLY HALF OF THE ENEMY'S POTENTIAL ATTACKS, WHICH MEANT A LOT TO THAT OMBER FORMATION."

3024-8115

3024-8115

LONDON, SEPT 6-(AP)-GERMAN AIR RAIDERS APPEARED OVER THE THAMES ESTUARY DISTRICT TONIGHT AND ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS PUT UP A HEAVY BARRAGE.

LONDON, SEPT 6-(AP)-AN IMPERIAL HEADQUARTERS COMMUNIQUE BROADCAST FROM TOKYO TODAY DECLARED SIX ALLIED TRANSPORTS AND A CRUISER WERE SUNK DURING THE NEW ALLIED LANDINGS NEAR LAE, NEW GUINEA.

THE REPORT, RECORDED BY REUTERS, WAS NOT CONFIRMED BY ALLIED SOURCES.

SEP 7 1943

LONDON, SEPT. 6-(AP)-FINE TEAM WORK BY U.S. PLANES AND BRITISH SHIPS AND AIRCRAFT RECENTLY BROUGHT DESTRUCTION TO SEVEN U-BOATS AT A COST OF ONE BRITISH PLANE IN A SERIES OF BATTLES IN APPROACHES TO THE BAY OF BISCAY, IT WAS ANNOUNCED TODAY.

A JOINT ADMIRALTY AND AIR MINISTRY COMMUNIQUE DESCRIBING THE ACTION SAID IT STARTED WHEN RECONNAISSANCE FOUND THE ENEMY TRYING TO CUT DOWN THE PERILS OF NEGOTIATING THE BAY BY SENDING SUBMARINES OUT IN GROUPS OF TWO OR THREE.

FOUR OF THE ENEMY UNDERSEAS CRAFT WERE DESTROYED IN A SERIES OF DEPTH CHARGE ATTACKS BY BRITISH SUNDERLANDS, WELLINGTONS, HALIFAXES AND LIBERATORS AND UNITED STATES LIBERATORS. NAZI CREWMEN WERE SET ADRIFT FROM ALL EXCEPT ONE OF THEM, WHICH EXPLODED, ACCORDING TO THE OFFICIAL ACCOUNT.

LATER THREE U-BOATS WERE DESTROYED IN COMBINED ATTACKS BY ROYAL NAVY SLOOPS AND COASTAL COMMAND AND U.S. PLANES NORTHWEST OF CAPE ORTEGAL.

THE WARSHIPS SANK ONE, A HALIFAX THE SECOND. SURVIVORS MADE FOR THE THIRD. THE LAST U-BOAT DIVED, BUT DEPTH CHARGES SOON BROUGHT OIL AND FRESH WRECKAGE WELLING TO THE SURFACE.

SURVIVORS WERE MADE PRISONERS OF WAR.

U.S.PLANES WHICH PARTICIPATEDIN THE OPERATIONS WERE FROM SQUADRONS COMMANDED BY MAJOR S.D.MCELROY AND MAJOR A.K.BRECKENRIDGE (HOME TOWNS UNAVAILABLE.) ONE OF THE LIBERATORS WAS PILOTED BY LIEUT.A. L.LEAL OF FRESNO, CALIF. FLAK FROM ONE OF THE U-BOATS STRUCK HIS PLANE'S BOMB-BAY AND IT WAS UNABLE TO DROP DEPTH CHARGES. HIS GUNNERS RAKED THE SUBMERSIBLE'S DECK.

THE PLANE'S FIRE WAS SO EFFECTIVE THAT NO ANTI-AIRCRAFT WAS SENT UP TO INTERFERE WITH THE COOPERATIVE ASSAULT BY A BRITISH HALIFAX. MEMBERS OF LEAL'S CREW:

LIEUT.L.D.BUTLER, TULIA, TEX., CO-PILOT; LIEUT.MARION TOWNS, GEORGETOWN, TEX., NAVIGATOR; LIEUT.W.H.TOPPING, CLIFTON FORGE, VA., BOMBARDIER; TECH.SGT.W.J.PRICER, LATROBE, PA., ENGINEER; STAFF SGT.J.GEANIOUS, WINCHESTER, VA., ASSISTANT ENGINEER; TECH.SGT.H.HOLLACK, LYNDORA, PA., RADIOPERATOR; STAFF SGT.W.H.HAYES, EADSTON, KY., ASSISTANT RADIO OPERATOR; TECH. SGT.R.W.MCCURDY, AUBURN, N.Y., AIR GUNNER; AND SGT.K.C.WITEK, SCRANTON, PA., TAILGUNNER.

SEP 7 1943

ONE CREW MEMBER OF THE LOST WELLINGTON WAS RESCUED. ONE RAF LIBERATOR MADE A FORCED LANDING IN THE OPERATIONS, BUT ITS CREW WAS REPORTED SAFE.

LONDON, SEPT 6-(AP)-REP.WILL ROGERS, JR., OF CALIFORNIA TODAY DESCRIBED THE BRITISH WAR EFFORT AS STAGGERING AND COMMENTED:

"YOU HAVE DONE FAR MORE WITH YOUR RESOURCES THAN WE HAVE DONE WITH OURS."

ROGERS SPOKE AT A CONFERENCE ORGANIZED BY THE ANGLO-AMERICAN COMMITTEE FOR A JEWISH ARMY. CONCLUDING A FIVE-WEEK TOUR OF BRITAIN, HE EXPECTS TO RETURN TO THE UNITED STATES SOON.

LONDON, SEPT. 6-(AP)-THE GERMAN NEWS AGENCY DNB ACKNOWLEDGED TONIGH THE "EVACUATION OF SOUTHERN CALABRIA" IN ITALY BY NAZI AND ITALIAN FORCES AND ITALIAN CITIZENS.

SEP 7 1943

"THE EVACUATION OF SOUTHERN CALABRIA BY ITALIAN AUTHORITIES AND THE GERMAN MILITARY COMMAND FORCE HAS BEEN CARRIED OUT ACCORDING TO PLAN AND IN COMPLETE ORDER," SAID THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

"ALL SUPPLIES HAVE BEEN CARRIED OUT AND BROUGHT INTO SAFETY," IT CONTINUED. "THE CIVIL POPULATION LIKEWISE HAS BEEN EVACUATED IN FULL ORDER."

"ALL INDICATIONS POINT TO A SECOND LARGE-SCALE LANDING OF BRITISH AND AMERICAN TROOPS AT ANOTHER PLACE IN THE MEDITERRANEAN TO COME SOON," THE BROADCAST SAID.

IT SPECULATED ON THESE POSSIBILITIES:

AN ALLIED ATTEMPT, WITH STRONG NAVAL FORCES, TO CAPTURE SARDINIA AND CORSICA AND THUS WIN A STEPPING STONE FOR ANOTHER INVASION OF THE ITALIAN MAINLAND OR SOUTHERN FRANCE.

A "DIRECT OPERATION" AGAINST CENTRAL ITALY.

AN ATTACK AGAINST THE PENINSULA OF PUGLIE--ON THE EASTERN SIDE OF ITALY NORTH OF BRINDISI---"WHICH IS OF CERTAIN INTEREST BECAUSE OF ITS GEOGRAPHIC POSITION WITH REFERENCE TO THE ADRIATIC SEA."

LONDON, SEPT.6-(AP)-AN IMPERIAL HEADQUARTERS COMMUNIQUE BROADCAST FROM TOKYO TODAY DECLARED SIX ALLIED TRANSPORTS AND A CRUISER WERE SUNK SXX DURING THE NEW ALLIED LANDINGS NEAR LAE, NEW GUINEA.

SEP 7 1943

THE REPORT, RECORDED BY REUTERS, HAS NOT BEEN CONFIRMED BY ALLIED SOURCES.

3024-8117

LONDON, SEPT. 6-(AP)-BROTH THE BRITISH AMBASSADOR AND U.S. CHARGE D'AFF-AIRES IN BUENOS AIRES PROTESTED THE ARREST OF THE BRITISH PRESIDENT AND THE AMERICAN MANAGER, DAVID MATSON OF ROANOKE, VA., OF THE COMPANIA ELECTRI-CIDAD DEL NORTE IN ARGENTINA AND THE MEN ARE NOW BEING HELD ONLY UNDER HOUSE ARRES T, IT WAS DISCLOSED TODAY.

SEP 7 1943

IN ADDITION TO ~~EREK~~ MATSON AND PRESIDENT WILLIAM REECE, A FOREIGN OFFICE
SOURCE SAID A T LEAST ONE OTHER ENGLISHMAN AND POSSIBLY ANOTHER AMERICAN WERE ALSO BEING HELD ALTHOUGH DEFINITE INFORMATION WAS LACKING.

THE CHARGES AGAINST THE MEN HAVE N O T BEEN DISCLOSED ALTHOUGH ~~EHE~~ IT IS UNDERSTOOD THAT THE ARRESTS WERE MADE AT THE REQUEST OF THE COMMISSIONER OF TUCUMAN PROVINCE WHO IS INVESTIGATING THE HYDROELECTRIC COMPANIES IN THAT PROVINCE.

THE MEN WERE DETAINED ~~SATURDAY~~ SATURDAY WHEN THEIR OFFICES WERE RAIDED
AND RECORDS SEIZED. THERE WAS N O DOUBT LEFT HERE THAT THE CASE WOULD BE PURSUED THROUGH DIPLOMATIC CHANNELS.

30.24-8117

SEP 7 1943

LONDON, SEPT. 6--(AP)--KING PETER II OF YUGOSLAVIA IN A BROADCAST TO HIS PEOPLE
VIA THE BRITISH BROADCASTING CORPORATION TODAY STRONGLY PRAISED THE RUSSIAN DRIVE AGAINST THE GERMANS AND DESCRIBED THE VICTORIOUS SOVIET BATTLES AS 'FILLING THE MOST BRILLIANT PAGES IN HER OWN HISTORY AND THAT OF THE WORLD.'

AT THE SAME TIME THE YOUTHFUL KING CAUTIONED THE SERBS, CROATS AND SLOVENES AGAINST ENEMY PROPAGANDA DESIGNED TO SPLIT YUGOSLAVIA. HE DECLARED THAT RUSSIA
WILL BE A DECISIVE FACTOR IN THE BALKANS AS LONG AS SHE CONTAINS UNITED SERBS, CROATS AND SLOVENES.

'LET US THEREFORE ~~...~~ FOR THIS REASON ALONE--LEAVE OUR PETTY ARGUMENTS TO BE SETTLED IN OUR LIBERATED COUNTRY,' THE KING SAID.

-1A-

LONDON, MONDAY, SEPT.6-(AP)-- ACCORDING TO REPORTS REACHING THE ALLIED GOVERNMENTS IN LONDON, THE GERMANS HAVE CLEARED ALL CIVILIANS FROM A 50-MILES STRIP ON THE SOUTHERN COAST OF FRANCE IN ANTICIPATION OF A POSSIBLE ALLIED INVASION THRUST THERE.

A LARGE CORPS OF NAZI ENGINEERS WAS SAID TO HAVE BEEN SENT INTO THE CLEARED AREA TO SPEED CONSTRUCTION OF ADDITIONAL FORTIFICATIONS AND DEFENSE WORKS.

SEP 7 1943

BY GLADWIN HILL

LONDON, SEPT 6-(AP)-THE OTHER SIDE OF A FLYING FORTRESS ADVENTURE --FROM THE VIEWPOINT OF ESCORTING SPITFIRES--WAS TOLD TODAY BY AN RAF POLISH FIGHTER SQUADRON WHICH SAVED THE FORTRESS "HOT ROCK" FROM A CLOSE BRUSH WITH DEATH IN A RAID ON FRENCH AIR FIELDS LAST WEEK.

THE FORTRESS, PILOTED BY LT.KENNETH DAUGHERTY OF HICKSVILLE, N.Y., HAD JUST MADE ITS RUN OVER THE TARGET WHEN FLAK KNOCKED OUT TWO OF THE ENGINES. FIGHTER PILOTS WATCHED AS THE BIG PLANE BEGAN TRAILING BLACK SMOKE AND LOSING ALTITUDE.

SQUADRON LEADER JAN FALKOWSKI ORDERED HIS MEN TO SHEPHERD THE BOMBER HOME. JUST THEN A FOCKE-WULF DIVED FROM OUT OF THE CLOUDS TO ATTACK THE CRIPPLED SHIP.

"KILL THE RAT," FALKOWSKI ORDERED FLIGHT LT.LONGIN MAJEWSKI AND FLIGHT SGT.TADEUSZ SZYKOWIAK.

THEY CLOSED IN, GAVE THE GERMAN TWO LONG BURSTS AT 175 YARDS, AND REPORTED: "ENEMY PLANE DISINTEGRATED IN FLAMES. NO TRACE OF PILOT."

THE FORTRESS WAS FORCED TO "DITCH" INTO THE CHANNEL 15 MILES OFF BRITAIN AND THE POLES SENT AN SOS TO THE AIR-SEA RESCUE SERVICE AND CIRCLED OVERHEAD AS THE FORTRESS SANK. HER CREW CLIMBED INTO RUBBER DINGHIES AND GAVE THE ESCORT THE "THUMBS UP" SIGN.

WITHIN AN HOUR THE ESCORT HAD DIRECTED A LAUNCH TO THE AMERICANS AND THEN THE POLES FLEW BACK TO THEIR BASE BECAUSE THEIR GAS WAS RUNNING OUT. BUT JUST TO MAKE SURE THE AMERICANS GOT IN SAFELY THEY GASSED UP AGAIN AND FLEW OUT JUST AS THE LAUNCH WAS NEARING THE SHORE.

SEP 7 1943

THE AMERICANS GAVE THEM A BOXER'S HANDSHAKE.

OTHER CREW MEMBERS WERE:

LT.HARVEY PAUL, OF SOMERVILLE, MASS., CO-PILOT; LT.FRANK DOLL-ARMI, OF OAK PARK, ILL., NAVIGATOR; LT.JOHN MEEMA, OF SACRAMENTO, CALIF., BOMBARDIER; AND GUNNERS SGT.JOHN GRAVES OF MELISSA, TEX., SGT.ROBERT BANTA OF GREEN BAY, WIS., SGT.LOUIS MAJKA OF THREE RIVERS, MASS., SGT.JAMES HIGGINBOTHAM OF SHERMAN, TEX., SGT.DONALD BERTCH OF DES MOINES, IOWA, AND SGT.FRED LIVINGSTON OF SAYRE, OKLA.

BY RICE YAHNER

A U.S. BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, SEPT 6-(AP)-ONE FLYING FORTRESS ON TODAY'S AMERICAN SMASH DEEP INTO GERMANY FOUGHT OFF AT LEAST 20 NAZI FIGHTER ATTACKS, BRAVED DENSE FLAK OVER STUTTGART, KNOCKED DOWN FIGHTERS FROM ALL DIRECTIONS--AND RETURNED HOME WITHOUT A SCRRATCH.

"IT WAS ALL BECAUSE ALL THE CREW WENT TO CHURCH YESTERDAY," 3024-8119

3024-8119

SAID SGT.R.W.DAWSON OF ASHLAND, KY., BALLTURRET GUNNER WHO DREW THE CREW'S FIRST ENEMY BLOOD IN THE RAID.

"WE'RE ALL GOING EVERY SUNDAY," HE ADDED.

SEP 7 1943

THE CREW OF THE PLANE, THE "SHARON BELLE II," ON ITS THIRD MISSION, CLAIMED A TOLL OF FIVE FIGHTERS OF THE HUNDREDS THAT POUNCED ON THE FORTRESS FORMATION AS IT WHEELED AWAY AFTER BLASTING THE BOSCH ELECTRICAL WORKS.

AMERICAN P-47 THUNDERBOLT FIGHTERS HAD ESCORTED THE BOMBERS INTO FRANCE, AND MET WHEM ON THE WAY OUT. AS THE FORTRESS PILOTS PUT IT

"WHEN THE P-47S ARRIVE, THE FIGHTERS LEAVE RIGHT AWAY."

OVER THE TARGET, ABOUT 500 MILES IN A BEE-LINE FROM ENGLAND IT WAS DIFFERENT, HOWEVER. FIVE OF THE CREW GOT IN THEIR FIRST TELLING SHOTS AGAINST THE ENEMY. EACH CONTENDED HE DESTROYED ONE PLANE. EACH CLAIM WAS VERIFIED BY ONE OR MORE OF THE OTHERS.

DAWSON'S SUCCESS WAS IN BLASTING A MESSERSCHMITT-109 WHICH HE SAID "JUST BLEW UP" AS IT TRIED TO PUT A CANNONSHELL INTO THE WAIST OF THE FORTRESS.

SGT.C.F.NEIDIGH OF 507 ALPINE ST., PITTSBURGH, PA., TAILGUNNER, SAID HE "JUST COULDN'T MISS" A FOCKE WULF-190 WHICH WAS ATTACKING THE BOMBER.

IN QUICK SUCCESSION, SGT.R.:.RITENOUR OF JAMESTOWN, OHIO, LEFT WAISTGUNNER, GOT ANOTHER ME-109 AND LIEUTS.I.T.HODSON, NAVIGATOR OF NEW BEDFORD, MASS., AND GEORGE BEEMAN, BOMBARDIER OF SAN ANGELO, TEX., GOT AN FW-109 APIECE. THE NAZI PILOTS HAD TRIED TO ROLL HEAD ON, THEIR CANNON BLAZING AWAY, INTO THE FORMATION.

THE FORTRESS WAS PILOTED BY LIEUT.R.G.RALSTON OF BURLINGAME, CALIF.,

NONE OF THE FORTRESS' CEW WAS INJURED. OTHERS INCLUDED SGTS. H.D.BURNETTE, ASHEVILLE, N.C., TOP TURRET GUNNER; P.H.JONES, SPRINGFIELD, MO., RIGHT WAISTGUNNER; AND R.H.TERRELL, 227 LOMBARD ST., NEW HAVEN, CONN., RADIO GUNNER.

A U.S.BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, SEPT 6-(AP)-LT.D.G.BARNES OF EL PASO, TEX., CO-PILOT OF THE FLYING FORTRESS "SWEATER GIRL," THE PLANE WITH THE REMARKABLE RECORD OF 17 RAIDS WITH THE SAME ENGINES, HAS ANOTHER REASON FOR HIS LONG-TIME NICKNAME OF "MR.LUCKY."

AFTER TODAY'S RAID ON SOUTHWEST GERMANY LT.W.L.HAWKINS OF ABILENE, TEX., AND BARNES BROUGHT THE SHIP TO A PERFECT LANDING AFTER ALL THE ENGINES HAD QUIT FOR LACK OF FUEL AS THEY WERE CIRCLING THE HOME FIELD.

SEP 7 1943

"LANDING A B-17 WITHOUT POWER IS LIKE TRYING TO FLY A BRICK," HAWKINS SAID, "BUT BARNES AND I WERE TOO BUSY TO BE SCARED."

NONE OF THE OTHER CREW MEMBERS EVEN KNEW THE SHIP WAS IN DIFFICULTY UNTIL AFTER THEY LANDED.

STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN, SEPT. 6--(AP)--SWEDISH FISHERMEN SAID TOLD THE AFTONBLADET TODAY

TODAY THAT A GERMAN TORPEDO BOAT FIRED SEVEN OR EIGHT SHOTS AT THREE OF THEIR VESSELS IN THE SKAGGERAK SATURDAY BUT CAUSED NO DAMAGE OR INJURIES.

THE FISHERMEN SAID THE XXX SHOTS WERE FIRED A 100-YARD RANGE

APPARENTLY ONLY AS A WARNING BECAUSE OTHERWISE THEY WOULD NOT HAVE MISSED THE BOATS. AS A RESULT OF THE INCIDENT XMX FISHERMEN, AT BJORKO ISLAND, DID NOT GO OUT TODAY.

SEP 7 1943

A SIMILAR INCIDENT AUG. 25 IN WHICH THREE SWEDISH FISHING BOATS WERE SUNK CAUSED A SHARP EXCHANGE OF NOTES BETWEEN BERLIN AND STOCKHOLM.

BY HENRY C.CASSIDY.

WITH THE RED ARMY ON THE STEPPE FRONT, SEPT.5-(DELAYED)-(AP)-AN ELABORATE SYSTEM OF GERMAN FIELD DEFENSES--SIMILAR TO THOSE THE ALLIES MAY ENCOUNTER LATER IN WESTERN EUROPE--HAS BEEN LAID BARE BY THE RED ARMY'S OFFENSIVE WHICH HAS TAKEN KHARKOV, TAGANROG, BELGOROD, OREL AND OTHER IMPORTANT POINTS.

GENERALLY SPEAKING, THE NAZI DEFENSES CONSISTED OF THREE ZONES TO A DEPTH OF 10 TO 12 1/2 MILES, WITH INTERMEDIARY LINES INTENDED TO ABSORB THE SHOCK OF ATTACKS.

DETAILS OF THE INTRICATE DEFENSE SYSTEM WERE EXPLAINED AND SHOWN TO AMERICAN AND BRITISH CORRESPONDENTS TODAY IN A VISIT TO THIS FRONT. WHILE NO STEEL OR CONCRETE FORTIFICATIONS WERE IN EVIDENCE, THE DEFENSES WERE CLEVERLY CONSTRUCTED AND APPEARED TO BE A TOUGH NUT TO CRACK.

COL.IVAN VOROBIEV, STAFF REPRESENTATIVE OF GEN.IVAN KONEVY'S STEPPE ARMY WHICH TOOK KHARKOV, TOLD THE CORRESPONDENTS THE THREE ZONES WERE DIVIDED INTO A FRONTAL REGION ABOUT 3 1/2 MILES DEEP, A SECONDARY ZONE 3 1/2 TO FIVE MILES DEEP AND A REAR AREA EXTENDING FOR 2 1/2 TO THREE MILES.

THE FRONTAL REGIONAL IS SUBDIVIDED INTO THREE STRETCHES, EACH A LITTLE OVER A MILE DEEP, THE FIRST CONTAINING INFANTRY BATTALIONS AND MORTAR BATTERIES, THE SECOND REGIMENTAL RESERVES, LIGHT ARTILLERY AND HEAVY MORTARS, AND THE THIRD DIVISIONAL RESERVES AND HEAVY ARTILLERY.

THE INTERMEDIARY LINES ARE USED FOR DELAYING ACTION, VOROBIEV SAID, WHILE THE GERMANS RETREAT TO THE SECONDARY AND REAR ZONES.

FIRE POWER OF ALL WEAPONS IN THE VARIOUS DEFENSE ZONES, HE EXPLAINED, WAS CAREFULLY ARRANGED TO COVER ALL APPROACHES TO PREPARED POSITIONS, WHICH INCLUDED BARBED WIRE, TRENCHES AND MINEFIELDS.

"THE GERMAN DEFENSES WERE PREPARED OVER A PERIOD OF FOUR TO FIVE MONTHS AND PRESENT A VERY SERIOUS OBSTACLE," VOROBIEV ADDED. "TO BREAK THROUGH IT IS NECESSARY TO ACT BY FIRE ON THE ENTIRE DEPTH DEFENSE WITH COORDINATED ACTION OF ARTILLERY, AVIATION, TANKS AND INFANTRY."

SEP 7 1943

A SIGNIFICANT POINT IN THE GERMANS' ARMY ORGANIZATION WAS THE PRACTICE OF DISCARDING REGIMENTAL AND COMPANY FORMATIONS AFTER ONE OF THEIR DIVISIONS HAD BEEN DEFEATED AND REASSEMBLING THE UNIT IN GROUPS OF 60 TO 65 MEN AND THROWING THEM BACK INTO BATTLE, THE RUSSIAN OFFICER SAID.

SUCH A STEP WAS TAKEN WITH THE GERMAN 39TH INFANTRY DIVISION WHICH WAS CUT DOWN DURING THE BATTLE OF KHARKOV FROM A NORMAL STRENGTH OF 10,000 OR 11,000 MEN TO 600--BUT STILL CONTINUED TO OPERATE.

VOROBIEV SAID THE GERMAN SUMMER OFFENSIVE FAILED FOR THREE REASONS --FIRST, BECAUSE IT LACKED ALL ELEMENTS OF SURPRISE; TWO, THE ATTACK ON THE KURSK SALIENT WAS MADE ALONG A NARROW FRONT, AND THREE, THE GERMAN AIR FORCE ACTED ONLY AGAINST THE RUSSIAN FRONT LINE WITHOUT

1943

30.24-8121

30.24-8121

ATTACKING REAR AREAS.

ON THE OTHER HAND, HE SAID, THE RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE SUCCEEDED BECAUSE THE RED ARMY WAS ABLE TO USE RESERVES ON A WIDE FRONT TO BREAK THROUGH WITH THE COOPERATION OF ALL ARMS.

SEP 7 1943

ENCIRCLING MANEUVERS WERE DESCRIBED AS THE BASIS OF THE RUSSIAN ATTACKS, BUT VOROBIEV SAID THE RED ARMY ALSO USED A NEW TECHNIQUE OF SENDING INDIVIDUAL GUNS OUT IN GREAT NUMBERS TO FIRE POINT BLANK FROM OPEN POSITIONS AGAINST THEIR TARGETS.

THE CORRESPONDENTS WERE SHOWN A TYPICAL GERMAN STRONG POINT IN A FOREST AT POMERKY 2 1/2 MILES NORTH OF KHARKOV, WHERE THE NAZIS HAD A ZIGZAG TRENCH LINE SIX FEET DEEP AND TWO FEET WIDE WITH TIMBER-SUPPORTED DUGOUTS, BARBED WIRE AND MINES. IT WAS TAKEN BY A FLANK ATTACK FROM THE EAST.

WE ALSO SAW AT ALEXEIEVKA A HEIGHT DOMINATING THE COUNTRYSIDE NORTHWEST OF KHARKOV WHERE THE GERMANS CONVERTED A CANNING FACTORY ON A HILLTOP INTO A FORTRESS SURROUNDED BY TRENCHES AND BATTERY POSITIONS, WITH MINES AND BARBED WIRE IN THE VALLEY BELOW. THE POSITION WAS ...RMED BY RED ARMY INFANTRY AFTER ARTILLERY HAD BLASTED THE HEIGHTS.

RUSSIAN

LONDON, SEPT.6-(AP)-STALINO, RUSSIA'S TWELFTH LARGEST CITY AND KEY TO THE GERMAN POSITION IN SOUTHERN RUSSIA, WAS REPORTED IN FLAMES TODAY AS THE NAZIS BEGAN SYSTEMATIC DESTRUCTION OF MILITARY INSTALLATIONS IN THE FACE OF A RED ARMY ADVANCE WHICH HAS BROUGHT GEN. RODION MALINOVSKY'S TROOPS TO WITHIN 15 MILES OF THE CITY.

THE RUSSIAN MIDNIGHT COMMUNIQUE BROADCAST FROM MOSCOW AND RECORDED BY THE SOVIET MONITOR ANNOUNCED THAT AXIS FORCES WERE WITHDRAWING ALONG A 600-MILE FRONT WHICH EXTENDED FROM THE SHORES OF THE SEA OF AZOV NORTH TO THE SMOLENSK SECTOR. IN SOME LOCALITIES, THE RUSSIANS SAID, RED ARMY UNITS HAVE STABBED AS MUCH AS NINE MILES DEEPER INTO GERMAN-HELD TERRITORY.

SEP 7 1943

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY MORE TOWNS FELL TO THE RUSSIANS YESTERDAY, THE WAR BULLETIN SAID, BRINGING THE BAG FOR THE MOST IMPORTANT WEEK OF FIGHTING IN THE SOVIET SUMMER OFFENSIVE TO 1,500. ALL ALONG THE GRIM ROUTE THE GERMANS WERE RESISTING DESPERATELY, HURLING MASSES OF TROOPS INTO COUNTER ATTACKS WHICH FAILED TO HALT THE RED ARMY. MORE THAN 8,000 NAZIS WERE SLAIN AND SCORES OF TANKS AND OTHER HEAVY EQUIPMENT WERE DESTROYED IN THE FIGHTING, THE RUSSIANS SAID.

IN THE DONETS BASIN THE RUSSIANS WERE RAPIDLY MANEUVERING INTO POSITION FOR A KNOCKOUT BLOW AT STALINO, INDUSTRIAL CITY AND MINING CENTER WHICH THE GERMANS HAVE HELD AND HEAVILY FORTIFIED SINCE THEY FIRST CAPTURED IT IN OCTOBER, 1941.

ONE UNIT BATTLED ITS WAY INTO KHARTSYZSK, 15 MILES EAST OF STALINO, AND ANOTHER CAPTURED ARTEMOVSK, 42 MILES NORTH. GREAT MINEFIELDS AND A COMPLICATED SYSTEM OF TANK TRAPS BARRED THE APPROACHES TO ARTEMOVSK, A RAIL JUNCTION POINT, WHICH THE RUSSIANS SAID FELL ONLY AFTER A HARD BATTLE.

TO THE NORTH THE RED ARMY STRENGTHENED ITS HOLD ON THE BRYANSK-KIEV RAILROAD, SEIZING KHUTOR-MIKHAYLOVSKY, A RAIL JUNCTION 85 MILES SOUTH OF BRYANSK, WHICH NOW GIVES THE RUSSIANS CONTROL OF AN UNBROKEN

KONOTOP ITSELF WAS IN IMMINENT DANGER OF COLLAPSE WITH RUSSIAN UNITS NOW ENGAGED IN AN ENCIRCLEMENT MOVE MADE POSSIBLE BY THE SEIZURE OF KOROP, NORTHWEST OF THE NORTHERN UKRAINIAN CITY ON THE DESNA RIVER. FROM THIS POINT THE RUSSIAN FORCES WERE REPORTED TO HAVE SPLIT, SOME UNITS STRIKING WESTWARD TOWARD THE KONOTOP-GOMEL RAILROAD AND OTHERS TURNING SOUTHWARD ALONG THE DESNA TO STRIKE AT KONOTOP FROM THE REAR.

IN THE BRYANSK SECTOR RUSSIAN SPEARHEADS WERE AIMING FOR THE DESNA RIVER AND THE RUSSIANS SAID THAT THE RED ARMY HAD ADVANCED NINE MILES AND HAD CAPTURED 50 VILLAGES.

THE GERMANS WERE COUNTERATTACKING IN THE SMOLENSK SECTOR BUT THE RUSSIANS SAID THAT ALL OF THE NAZI THRUSTS WERE THROWN BACK UNDER A WITHERING BOMBARDMENT BY ARTILLERY AND MORTAR UNITS. MORE THAN HALF OF THE ATTACKING FORCE WAS WIPED OUT, THE RUSSIANS DECLARED.

WEST OF SEVSK, IN THE MIDDLE OF THE 600-MILE BATTLE LINE, THE RUSSIANS CAPTURED A RAILWAY STATION AND DISTRICT CENTER IN THE SUMY REGION. A STUBBORN BATTLE FOR THE TOWN DEVELOPED AND THE RUSSIANS FINALLY TOOK THE TOWN BY STORM.

IN THE OREL DISTRICT, SCENE OF THE FIRST MAJOR VICTORY IN THE SUMMER OFFENSIVE, THE RED ARMY CAPTURED ANOTHER RAIL CENTER AND LIBERATED 5,000 RUSSIANS WHO, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID, WERE BEING FORCIBLY TRANSPORTED FOR GERMAN SLAVE LABOR.

BITTER FIGHTING TOOK PLACE SOUTHWEST OF KHARKOV WHERE THE GERMANS WERE ATTEMPTING TO COVER THE FEW REMAINING RAILWAY ESCAPE ROUTES FROM THE DONETS BASIN, BUT THE RUSSIANS SAID THEY TOOK SEVERAL POSITIONS, KILLED MORE THAN 600 GERMANS AND SMASHED EIGHT TANKS AND SIX GUNS IN THE FIGHTING.

STRETCH OF 70 MILES ALONG THE VITAL RAIL LINK NORTH OF KONOTOP.

BERN, SEPT. 6-(AP)-THE NEWSPAPER, GAZETTE DE LAUSANNE, SAID TODAY THAT FRANCE HAD REJECTEDX A NAZI DEMAND FOR ANOTHER HALF MILLION WORKERS, INCLUDING 200,000 WOMEN.

SEP 7 1943

THE DISPATCH SAID XXXXXXXXXXXXX PREMIER PIERRE LAVAL HAD TOLD XXX FRITZ SAUCKEL, GERMAN HIGH COMMISSION FOR THE EMPLOYMENT OF ALL LABOR, THAT PETAIN AND ALL THE MINISTERS AGREED SUCH A DRAFT WOULD ENDANGER THE COUNTRY'S ENTIRE ECONOMY.

BERN, SWITZERLAND, SEPT. 6-(AP)-FOUR AMERICAN FLYING FORTRESSES WHICH PARTICIPATED TODAY IN A RAID ON THE WUERTEMBERG-BADEN AREA IN GERMANY LANDED IN SWITZERLAND AND A FIFTH CRASHED INTO LAKE CONSTANCE, A SWISS COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCED TONIGHT.

CREWS OF THE LANDED PLANES AND NINE AIRMEN SAVED FROM THE CRASHED FORTRESS WERE INTERNED.

STOCKHOLM, SEPT. 6-(AP)-A SWEDISH OBSERVER WHO RECENTLY RETURNED FROM A LONG STAY IN GERMANY SAID TONIGHT THAT ADOLF HITLER WAS BACKING THE IDEA OF A MAJOR GERMAN DEFENSIVE STAND ON ITALY'S PO RIVER LINE AGAINST THE ADVICE OF HIS GENERALS.

THE GENERAL STAFF WOULD PREFER THAT THE NAZI DIVISIONS IN ITALY BE WITHDRAWN BEHIND THE ALPS, ACCORDING TO THIS INFORMANT, WHO CANNOT BE IDENTIFIED BY NAME. HE SAID IT WAS THE SUBJECT OF A BEHIND-THE-

1943

30.24-8123

30.24-8123

SCENES CONTROVERSY.

THE GERMANS HAVE ALREADY ERECTED HUGE FORTIFICATIONS FOR THE PO DEFENSE. HITLER WAS SAID TO HAVE PERSUADED BENITO MUSSOLINI, BEFORE THE FALL OF FASCISM, TO ACCEPT THIS PLAN, WHICH WOULD MEAN THE WITHDRAWAL OF AXIS TROOPS FROM MOST OF ITALY TO THE PO LINE WITH ONLY DELAYING DEFENSIVE ACTIONS.

SEP 7 1943

THE GENERALS WERE REPRESENTED AS TAKING THE POSITION THAT IF THE ALLIES WERE PERMITTED TO ADVANCE THROUGH ONLY LIGHT OPPOSITION THEY MIGHT BREAK THROUGH THE PO LINE AND ENTRAP THE GERMANS AS THEY DID IN NORTH AFRICA.

BERN, SEPT. 6--(ADD CIANO)

WHEN IT WAS DISCOVERED THAT CIANO WAS AT THE LEGATION, THE DISPATCH SAID, IT WAS BELIEVED THAT ITALIAN AND ARGENTINE OFFICIALS CONFERRED ON THE QUESTION OF EXTRATERRITORIAL PRIVILEGES INVOLVED. IT WAS AGREED, LA STAMPA REPORTED, THAT THE COUNTESS AND HER CHILDREN COULD REMAIN AT THE LEGATION WHILE CIANO WAS PERSUADED TO SURRENDER.

JR1057AEW

ALGIERS, SEPT 6-(AP)-TWO DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSSES AND SIX SILVER STARS WERE AWARDED TODAY IN THE FIRST DECORATION OF FRENCH ARMY ENLISTED MEN BY THE U.S. ARMY SINCE THE FIRST WORLD WAR.

THE DECORATIONS, ALL WON FOR GALLANTRY IN ACTION IN TUNISIA, WERE PRESENTED BY MAJ.GEN.EVERETT S.HUGHES, DEPUTY AMERICAN THEATER COMMANDER IN NORTH AFRICA, ACTING ON BEHALF OF GENERAL DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER.

IN ADDITION TO THE REGULAR FRENCH ARMY, A REGIMENT OF ALGERIAN SHARPSHOOTERS, THE FOREIGN LEGION AND THE CORPS FRANC D'AFRIQUE, FRENCH EQUIVALENT OF THE BRITISH COMMANDOS AND THE AMERICAN RANGERS, WERE REPRESENTED AMONG THE RECIPIENTS.

ALGIERS, SEPT. 6-(AP)-FRANCOIS DEMENTHON, A MEMBER OF THE FRENCH RESISTANCE COMMITTEE WHO ARRIVED HARE A WEEK AGO AFTER A HAZARDOUS ESCAPE FROM FRANCE, WAS APPOINTED COMMISSIONER OF JUSTICE BY THE FRENCH COMMITTEE OF NATIONAL LIBERATION TODAY.

HE SUCCEEDS DR. JULES ABADIE, WHO REMAINS COMMISSIONER FOR PUBLIC EDUCATION AND HEALTH.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, SEPT. 6-(AP)-J.N. LESSING, REUTERS CORRESPONDENT IN ITALY, HAS BEEN SLIGHTLY WOUNDED IN THE SHOULDER OR ARM BY A BOMB DROPPED NEAR THE JEEP IN WHICH HE WAS RIDING, THE WEEK BRITISH NEWS AGENCY SAID TODAY.

SEP 7 1943

LESSING IS NOW BACK IN SICILY.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, SEPT. 6-(AP)-MAJ.-GEN. JAMES R. DOOLITTLE, COMMANDER OF THE NORTHWEST AFRICAN STRATEGIC AIR FORCE, SENT A SPECIAL MESSAGE YESTERDAY TO RAF AND CANADIAN WELLINGTON SQUADRONS UNDER HIS COMMAND, COMPLIMENTING THEM ON THEIR RECORD.

"YOUR EXCELLENT RECORD IS GOING TO BE DIFFICULT FOR ANY ORGANIZATION IN OUR ALLIED FORCES TO DUPLICATE," HE SAID IN THE MESSAGE

1943

READ AT SERVICES ON THE KING'S NATIONAL DAY OF PRAYER.

"WITH OUR SPLENDID BOMBING OF ALL PORTS OF DISEMBARKATION, THE HEAD OF THE ENEMY WAS KEPT DOWN AND YOUR EFFORTS CONTRIBUTED GREATLY TO THE SUCCESS OF THE SICILIAN CAMPAIGN," THE MESSAGE CONTINUED.

DURING THE SICILIAN CAMPAIGN, WELLINGTONS FLEW ON 3,020 SORTIES AND SINCE THE FALL OF MESSINA HAVE DROPPED 2,000 TONS OF BOMBS MOSTLY ON ITALIAN COMMUNICATIONS EXTENDING FROM THE ROME AREA TO THE TOE OF ITALY.

BY RALPH ALLEN

REPRESENTING THE COMBINED CANADIAN PRESS

(DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

SEP 7 1943

ON THE SICILIAN COAST, SEPT. 5-(DELAYED)-THE ALMOST-INCONCEIVABLE PASSIVITY ENCOUNTERED BEFORE REGGIO CALABRIA'S FINE NATURAL BREASTWORKS SUGGESTS A LAST-MINUTE CHANGE IN THE ENEMY'S DEFENSE PLANS FOR THE TOE OF ITALY WHICH MAY HAVE BEEN DICTATED BY MANY REASONS.

ITALIAN SOLDIERS SURRENDERING WITH EVEN GREAT ALACRITY THAN IN SICILY SAY THEY HAD ORDERS TO LAY DOWN THEIR ARMS. NEVERTHELESS THE UNANIMITY WITH WHICH THEY APPEARED WITH READY-MADE WHITE FLAGS AND BELONGINGS PACKED IN BEST CIVILIAN SUITCASES IS TOO IMPRESSIVE TO BE WRITTEN OFF AS COINCIDENCE.

THE ITALIAN ARMY APPEARS DEFINITELY IN A STATE OF MUTINY. A COMPLICATION BEHIND THE GERMAN HASTY WITHDRAWAL IS THAT, RECOGNIZING THE COMPLETE FUTILITY OF LOOKING TO THEIR ALLIES FOR ASSISTANCE, THE NAZIS REVISED THE WHOLE DEFENSIVE SCHEME AT THE LAST MINUTE.

BY BOSS HUNBO

CANADIAN PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT

SEP 7 1943

(DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, SEPT. 6--ADVANCING OVER MOUNTAIN TRAILS AND NARROW WINDING ROADS DEMOLISHED IN SEVERAL PLACES BY THE ENEMY, THE CANADIANS ARE WORKING THEIR WAY THROUGH THE MOST MOUNTAINOUS PART OF SOUTHWEST ITALY TAKING UPWARDS OF 2,000 ITALIAN PRISONERS.

SOME LIGHT ENEMY OPPOSITION WAS MET, BUT GENERALLY IT HAS BEEN MORTARS FIRING A FEW SHOTS ON THE ROADS AT EXTREME RANGE.

THERE SO FAR HAS BEEN NO CLOSE INFANTRY COMBAT. IT IS VERY MUCH A DUPLICATION OF THE EARLY SICILIAN ADVANCE EXCEPT THE COUNTRY IS FAR MORE DIFFICULT AND THE ROADS MUCH FEWER.

THERE HAS ONLY BEEN A HANDFUL OF CANADIAN CASUALTIES AND SOME OF THESE WERE FROM ROAD ACCIDENTS.

I WATCHED INFANTRY MARCHING ALONG THE MOUNTAIN ROAD. TO THE NORTH THE TROOPS WERE MAKING A GOOD ADVANCE. COMMANDOS LANDING AT BAGNARA, 10 MILES NORTHEAST OF SAN GIOVANNI, LINKED UP WITH INFANTRY MOVING ALONG THE COAST ROAD, ACCORDING TO A REPORT FROM HEADQUARTERS.

ALLIED FIGHTERS ARE PATROLLING OVER THE MESSINA STRAITS AND ENEMY SNEAK RAIDS ON SHIPPING ARE DIMINISHING. LAST NIGHT THERE WERE NO ATTACKS AT ALL ALONG CANADIAN BEACHES.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, SEPT 5-(DELAYED)-(AP)-U.S.AIR HEADQUARTERS REPORTED TODAY THAT MAJOR WILLIAM M.DEKKER, BROTHER-IN-LAW OF NOVELIST JOHN STEINBECK, HAS BEEN MISSING SINCE HE PILOTED A TROOP CARRIER PLANE OVER SICILY WITH A LOAD OF PARACHUTISTS DURING THE FIRST PHASE OF THAT CAMPAIGN.

NO WORD HAS BEEN RECEIVED OF THE FATE OF ANY OF THOSE IN THE

30.24-8125

30.24-8125

PLANE. WHICH WENT OUT ON ITS MISSION A FEW NIGHTS AFTER THE INVASION WAS LAUNCHED.

SEP 7 1943

NEW DELHI, SEPT. 6--(AP)--AN AIR OFFENSIVE DIRECTED AT JAPANESE BASES ON THE FRINGE OF THE ENEMY-OCCUPIED NETHERLANDS EAST INDIES IN WHICH AMERICAN LIBERATOR BOMBERS FLEW 2,000 MILES TO BOMB JAPANESE NAVAL INSTALLATIONS WAS ANNOUNCED HERE YESTERDAY BY THE TENTH U.S. AIR FORCE IN BURMA.

TARGET OF THE HEAVY BOMBERS WAS CAR NICOBAR ISLAND IN THE NICOBAR GROUP, 200 MILES NORTHWEST OF SUMATRA AND 700 MILES SOUTH OF MANDALAY, AND A GATEWAY TO THE IMMENSELY VALUABLE OIL AND RUBBER PRODUCING AREAS SEIZED BY JAPAN IN THE FIRST MONTHS OF THE WAR IN THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC.

ALTHOUGH THE RAID TOOK PLACE FRIDAY IT WAS N O T ANNOUNCED UNTIL YESTERDAY AND THERE WAS N O INDICATION OF HOW MANY PLANES WERE USED IN THE ATTACK ALTHOUGH THE COMMUNIQUE SAID THAT "EXCELLENT RESULTS WERE REPORTED."

SEP 7 1943

DIRECT HITS WERE SCORED ON THE DOCKS AND HARBOR INSTALLATIONS AND A NEAR HIT ON A 100-FOOT BARGE.

THE CAR NICOBAR RAID WAS THE HIGH SPOT IN A WEEK-END OF INTENSE ACTIVITY BY THE TENTH AIR FORCE. ON THURSDAY OTHER LIBERATORS BOMBED AN OIL REFINERY AND STORAGE TANKS AT CHAUK AND THE FOLLOWING DAY MEDIUM BOMBERS ATTACKED THE RAILWAY YARDS AT MANDALAY. P-40 FIGHTER BOMBERS ALSO STRAFED SHIPPING ON THE NORTHERN IRRAWADDY RIVER ON FRIDAY.

THE AMERICAN ATTACKS WERE SUPPLEMENTED BY RAF THRUSTS AT JAPANESE POSITIONS IN BURMA. BEUFIGHTERS AND WELLINGTONS STRUCK AT THE RAILWAY BETWEEN HENZADA AND BASSEIN YESTERDAY AND TARGETS AT GWA AND SANDOWAY.

A U.S. AIR BASE IN INDIA, FIRST ADD BURMA RAID

BY WIANT (TOP TRUNKED) XXX MANDALAY.

OUR PRIME TARGETS WERE RAILROAD YARDS AND WAREHOUSES AT HSIPAW.

OUR NAVIATOR, LIEUT. ELLIOTT MASON, 26, OF WESTFIELD, N.J., DIRECTED

US STRAIGHT TO THE SPOT. THEN FLEMING AND CO-PILOT LIEUT.DAVE JONES, 23, OF BROWNWOOD, TEX., "STOOGED AROUND" FOR 20 MINUTES WHILE LIEUT.JOEL TEASLEY, 26, OF MACON, GA., THE BOMBARDIER, STUDIED THE SITUATION.

THE GUNNERS, SGTS.ABE DWORKIN, 25, OF WEST NEW YORK, N.J., AND ADOLPH VERRANT, 24, OF KEEWATIN, MINN., WERE ON THE ALERT IN THE REAR, BUT THEIR MARKSMANSHIP WAS NOT NEEDED ON THIS TRIP.

THERE WERE ONLY A FEW BOXCARS ON THE SIDING, SO TEASLEY LET GO AT WAREHOUSES. A TREMENDOUS CLOUD OF SMOKE AND FLAME SHOT UP FROM ONE, WHICH WAS APPARENTLY FILLED WITH EXPLOSIVES. OTHERS NEARBY WERE ALSO DEMOLISHED.

SEP 7 1943

LIEUT.ROBERT BERRY, 24, OF 820 E. 51ST ST INDIANAPOLIS, IND., LED ANOTHER GROUP OF PLANES TO NAMYAU, ABOUT 20 MILES SOUTHWEST OF LASHIO.

"WE WRECKED TWO ENGINES, DESTROYED A STALLED LOCOMOTIVE, TORE UP TRACKS AND STARTED FIRES," BERRY SAID. "THAT'S A PRETTY FAIR BATTING AVERAGE FOR THIS LEAGUE."

BY FRANK L.MARTIN

NEW DELHI, SEPT 3-(DELAYED)-(AP)-BRIG.GEN.HOWARD C.DAVIDSON, NEW COMMANDER OF THE U.S. 10TH AIR FORCE, ANNOUNCED AT A PRESS CONFERENCE TODAY THAT INDIA-BASED AMERICAN WARPLANES HAD BEEN ACTIVE AGAINST THE JAPANESE IN BURMA 25 OUT OF 31 DAYS DURING AUGUST.

DURING THAT PERIOD THEY DROPPED 691 TONS OF BOMBS ON ENEMY INSTALLATIONS, COMMUNICATIONS AND SHIPPING, AND SHOT DOWN THREE JAPANESE ZEROS, DESTROYED 200 RAILWAY FREIGHTCAR, SAK 20 RIVER BOATS AND SANK OR SERIOUSLY DAMAGED SIX OCEAN GOG SHV ENEMY

INSTALLATIONS, COMMUNICATIONS AND SHIPPING, AND SHOT DOWN THREE JAPANESE ZEROS, DESTROYED 200 RAILWAY FREIGHT CAR, SANK 20 RIVER BOATS AND SANK OR SERIOUSLY DAMAGED SIX OCEAN GOING SHIPS.

TENTH AIR FORCE LOSSES FOR AUGUST WERE TWO MEDIUM BOMBERS, AND THE CREWS OF BOTH PLANES RETURNED AFOOT AFTER BAILING OUT OVER THE BURMESE CHIN HILLS.

AMERICAN BOMBERS JOINED THE RAF IN A CONCENTRATED ATTACK ON AKYAB, DROPPING 60 TONS OF BOMBS ON A BUILDING BELIEVED TO BE THE JAPANESE ARMY HEADQUARTERS AND LEAVING THE BUILDING DEMOLISHED AND BURNING.

A MEDIUM BOMBER PILOTED BY THOMAS SMITH OF MAGAZINE, ARK., SANK TWO LARGE AND TWO SMALL JAPANESE BOATS IN A SINGLE ATTACK ON A BURMESE RIVER.

SEP 7 1943

GEN.DAVIDSON ANNOUNCED THAT CAPT.WESLEY WERNER OF POCATELLO, IDA., BOMBER SQUADRON COMMANDER, WAS AWARDED THE DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSS OAK LEAF CLUSTER FOR SETTING A RECORD IN THE CHINA-BURMA-INDIA THEATER BYY COMPLETING 400 HOURS OF FLIGHT COMBAT TIME AGAINST THE JAPANESE DURING 10 MONTHS IN INDIA.

THE SILVER STAR WAS AWARDED MAJ.JOSEPH PIKRUCELLO OF OMAHA, NEB., A BOMBER SQUADRON COMMANDER WHO, WHILE LEADING A FLIGHT OF SIX BOMBERS, WAS ATTACKED BY FIVE ZEROS. HIS FORMATIONS SHOT DOWN TWO OF THE ENEMY PLANES AND DAMAGED THE THREE OTHERS. THE MAJOR LED HIS FLIGHT ON TO COMPLETE THE MISSION AND IT RETURNED TO BASE WITHOUT A SINGLE BULLET HOLE IN ANY OF THE PLANES.

DAVIDSON PRAISED CAPT.ROBERT MILLER OF NYACK, N.Y., WHO ASKED AND WAS GRANTED A POSTPONEMENT OF HIS ORDERS TO RETURN TO AMERICA TO ENABLE HIM DURING AUGUST TO COMPLETE 400 HOURS FLYING TIME AGAINST THE JAPANESE DURING THE PAST YEAR.

1943

30.24-8125

30.24-8125

-LANE. WHICH WENT OUT ON ITS MISSION A FEW NIGHTS AFTER THE INVASION WAS LAUNCHED.

SEP 7 1943

NEW DELHI, SEPT. 6--(AP)--AN AIR OFFENSIVE DIRECTED AT JAPANESE BASES ON THE FRINGE OF THE ENEMY-OCCUPIED NETHERLANDS EAST INDIES IN WHICH AMERICAN LIBERATOR BOMBERS FLEW 2,000 MILES TO BOMB JAPANESE NAVAL INSTALLATIONS WAS ANNOUNCED HERE YESTERDAY BY THE TENTH U.S. AIR FORCE IN BURMA.

TARGET OF THE HEAVY BOMBERS WAS CAR NICOBAR ISLAND IN THE NICOBAR GROUP, 200 MILES NORTHWEST OF SUMATRA AND 700 MILES SOUTH OF MANDALAY, AND A GATEWAY TO THE IMMENSELY VALUABLE OIL AND RUBBER PRODUCING AREAS SEIZED BY JAPAN IN THE FIRST MONTHS OF THE WAR IN THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC.

ALTHOUGH THE RAID TOOK PLACE FRIDAY IT WAS N O T ANNOUNCED UNTIL YESTERDAY AND THERE WAS N O INDICATION OF HOW MANY PLANES WERE USED IN THE ATTACK ALTHOUGH THE COMMUNIQUE SAID THAT "EXCELLENT RESULTS WERE REPORTED."

SEP 7 1943

DIRECT HITS WERE SCORED ON THE DOCKS AND HARBOR INSTALLATIONS AND A NEAR HIT ON A 100-FOOT BARGE.

THE CAR NICOBAR RAID WAS THE HIGH SPOT IN A WEEK-END OF INTENSE ACTIVITY BY THE TENTH AIR FORCE. ON THURSDAY OTHER LIBERATORS BOMBED AN OIL REFINERY AND STORAGE TANKS AT CHAUK AND THE FOLLOWING DAY MEDIUM BOMBERS ATTACKED THE RAILWAY YARDS AT MANDALAY. P-40 FIGHTER BOMBERS ALSO STRAFED SHIPPING ON THE NORTHERN IRRAWADDY RIVER ON FRIDAY.

THE AMERICAN ATTACKS WERE SUPPLEMENTED BY RAF THRUSTS AT JAPANESE POSITIONS IN BURMA. BEUFIGHTERS AND WELLINGTONS STRUCK AT THE RAILWAY BETWEEN HENZADA AND BASSEIN YESTERDAY AND TARGETS AT GWA AND BANDOWAY.

A U.S. AIR BASE IN INDIA, FIRST ADD BURMA RAID

BY WIANT (TOP TRUNKED) XXX MANDALAY.

OUR PRIME TARGETS WERE RAILROAD YARDS AND WAREHOUSES AT HSIPAW.

OUR NAVIATOR, LIEUT.ELLIOTT MASON, 26, OF WESTFIELD, N.J., DIRECTED

3024-8127

3024-8127

BY J. REILLY O'SULLIVAN

HEADQUARTERS OF U. S. 14TH AIR FORCE IN CHINA, SEPT. 3-(DELAYED)-(AP)-MAJ. GEN. CLAIRE CHENNAULT'S MEDIUM BOMBERS, FIGHTERS AND DIVE-BOMBERS BLASTED AND SET AFIRE LARGE JAPANESE OIL STORES AND WAREHOUSES AT LAI CHOKOC, NORTH OF HONGKONG, YESTERDAY.

DEMOLITION AND INCENDIARY BOMBS STARTED HUGE FIRES WHOSE FLAMES SHOT UP 3,000 FEET AND RAISED A SMOKE CLOUD WHICH LATER DRIFTED 100 MILES DOWN THE COAST.

TWO FIGHTERS SCORED DIRECT BOMB HITS ON A 200-FOOT SHIP, WHICH BURNED FIERCELY AT THE STERN.

A SMALL FLIGHT OF JAPANESE ZEROS ATTEMPTED INTERCEPTION, BUT ONLY THREE CAME IN CLOSE. GUNNER SGT. MARINO GALLAZZO OF UNIONTOWN, PA., SHOT DOWN ONE FROM A MITCHELL BOMBER AND P-40 FIGHTERS PROBABLY DESTROYED THE OTHER TWO.

FIGHTERS AND MEDIUM BOMBERS OF GEN. CHENNAULT'S COMMAND ALSO BOMBED JAPANESE SHIPPING AND SUPPLY LINES IN JAPANESE-OCCUPIED CENTRAL CHINA ON WEDNESDAY AND RAIDED SWATOW ON THE COAST.

THE FIGHTERS, LED BY LT. LYNN JOINES OF MERCEDES, TEX., DROPPED A BOMB ON A 150-FOOT BOAT IN SWATOW HARBOR WHICH EXPLODED IN FLAMES, STRAFED ANOTHER VESSEL AND MACHINE-GUNNED AN AIR PORT, DEFINITELY DESTROYING ONE OF THREE AIR TRANSPORTS ON THE GROUND.

ANOTHER FIGHTER FLIGHT, COMMANDED BY CAPT. MARTIN LUBNER OF MONTGOMERY, ALA., ON A SERIES OF CENTRAL CHINA SWEEPS STRAFED A 200-FOOT TANKER NEAR THE YANGTZE RIVER PORT OF KIUKIANG. LT. VERNON KRAMER OF APPLETON, WIS., WHO CARRIED DEMOLITION BOMBS, SCORED A DIRECT HIT ON THE TANKER, WHICH SANK IMMEDIATELY.

HEADQUARTERS, 14TH U.S. ARMY AIR FORCE, FIRST ADD CHINA RAIDS (AYE) XXX WAS RETURNED SAFELY.

P-40 WARHAWKS SWEPT DOWN ON TWO HEAVILY LADEN FREIGHTERS ESCORTED BY A SUBCHASER OFF VICTORIA ISLAND, STARTING A FIERCE FIRE ABOARD THE SUB-CHASER AND BOMBING THE FREIGHTERS. SMOKE FROM THE THREE VESSELS WAS VISIBLE FOR 50 MILES.

SEP 7 1943

IN THE SWEEPS NORTH AND SOUTH OF YOCHOW ON THE HANKOW-CANTON RAILWAY, THE BOMBERS DESTROYED FOUR LOCOMOTIVES, DAMAGED TWO OTHERS AND LEFT FOUR RAILROAD STATIONS IN RUINS OR IN FLAMES.

CAPTAIN MARTIN LUBNER OF MONTGOMERY, ALA., ALONE ON RECONNAISSANCE, BLEW UP ONE LOCOMOTIVE AND STRAFED FOUR FLAT CARS. LATER FLIGHTS, LED BY TWO TEXANS, CAPTS.JAMES WILLIAM OF HUNTSVILLE AND SAM PALMER OF FORT WORTH, RANGED UP AND DOWN THE RAILWAY, BOMBING AND STRAFING. PALMER FOUND A RESCUE ENGINE TRYING TO SALVAGE THE LOCOMOTIVE WHICH LUBNER HAD KNOCKED OUT AND DROPPED A BOMB ON IT. THE BOMB BOUNCED OFF AND EXPLODED IN WOODS NEARBY.

MITCHELL BOMBERS IN THE MORNING AND AGAIN IN THE AFTERNOON POUNDED OUCHIKOW ON THE YANGTZE RIVER, ONE OF THE BASES TO WHICH THE JAPANESE RETREATED AFTER THEIR DEFEAT IN THE BATTLE OF WEST HUPEH EARLY IN JUNE AND WHICH CONSTITUTES ONE OF THE BARRIERS TO RECAPTURE BY THE CHINESE OF TUNGTING LAKE IN THE RICE BOWL AREA.

CAPT.DON MILAM OF RUSTON, LA., LED THE FIRST RAID, WHICH ALSO BLASTED TARGETS AT SHISHOW ON THE LEFT BANK OF THE YANGTZE.

LT.COL.MORRIS TABER OF LEWISTON, MONT., COMMANDED THE MITCHELLS ON THE SECOND BOMBING WHICH SMASHED THE CENTER OF THE TOWN AND SCORED MANY HITS AMONG LARGE BUILDINGS IN THE NORTH SECTION.

TWO FIRES SENT UP HEAVY BLACK SMOKE, INDICATING THAT OIL STORAGE TANKS HAD BEEN HIT.

FIGHTER ESCORTS LED BY LUBNER AND LT.ORDERICK MCKENNON OF DELMAR, N.Y., STRAFED THE TOWN, WHICH IS OCCUPIED BY JAPANESE TROOPS AND VIRTUALLY DESERTED BY CIVILIANS, AND STARTED THREE MORE FIRES.

HOMEWARD BOUND THE P-40S STRAFED TWO GUNBOATS AND ANOTHER VESSEL ON THE YANGTZE AND LEFT THEM BURNING OR SINKING.

CHUNGKING, SEPT. 6--(AP)--GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-shek, PRESIDING AT THE OPENING TODAY OF THE PLENARY SESSION OF THE CENTRAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE KUOMINTANG, (national people's party) CHINA'S HIGHEST RULING BODY, DECLARED THAT CHINA'S VICTORY IS DRAWING NEAR.

SEP 7 1943

EXPRESSING FULL AND ABSOLUTE CONFIDENCE IN ALLIED VICTORY, THE GENERALISSIMO SAID THE MOST VITAL MATTERS FOR THE NATION AFTER THE WAR WERE POLITICAL AND ECONOMIC RECONSTRUCTION.

POLITICAL RECONSTRUCTION SHOULD AIM AT CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT, HE EXPLAINED, WHILE ECONOMIC RECONSTRUCTION SHOULD BY ACHIEVED BY SELF-EXERTION AND CO-OPERATION WITH FOREIGN POWERS FOR THE REALIZING OF SUN YAT SEN'S INDUSTRIAL PROGRAM.

CHINA'S MINISTER OF WAR, GEN. HO YING-CHIN, IN REVIEWING THE DOMESTIC AND INTERNATIONAL WAR SITUATION, SAID THAT JAPAN WAS SUFFERING FROM SOCIAL UNREST, POLITICAL DISTURBANCE, SHORTAGES OF FOOD AND OTHER RESOURCES, LOW MORALE AND INSUFFICIENT TROOPS FOR WIDESPREAD FRONTS. HE PREDICTED THAT A SHORTAGE OF FOOD AND SHIPPING WOULD BE FATAL TO JAPAN.

chungking, sept. 6 -(ap)- generalissimo chiang kai shek has told edward c. carter, secretary general of the institute of pacific relations, that china desired to make korea completely independent and autonomous in the futufe .

SEP 7 1943

carter, who is visiting chungking at the generalissimo's invitation, said that chiang inquired during an hour-long interview about america's attitude toward the future of the japanese controlled puppuet state.

accompanied by william s. holland, the institute's research director, carter arrived here aug. 21. he said he found the generalissimo "youthful , vigorous, right on the ball and full of purpose and drive."

carter, who last visited chungking in 1939, declared that there had been a split in the decentralization of china "which suggests that after the war there will be a food deal of private and local initiative in business, industry and public affairs.

1943

30.24-8129

30.24-8129

SEP 7 1943

said
he ~~remarked~~ that one of the purposes of his visit was to strengthen the china section of the institute and to ~~[illegible]~~ discuss plans for two conferences of the institute, both of which ~~will~~ probably will be held in canada next year.

carter praised the state department's "good record" in china, asserting that over the years it "had taken such moves as would conduce to a strong china."

he added that american foreign policy "should be continued in such a spirit. the thing that calls for a change is our immigration policy."

NIGHT LEAD SOUTH PACIFIC

BY C.YATES MCDANIEL

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, SEPT. 7 (TUESDAY) -(AP)-THOUSANDS OF CRACK AUSTRALIAN TROOPS, MANY OF THEM VETERANS OF NORTH AFRICAN FIGHTING, WERE ADVANCING TODAY TOWARDS LAE, NORTHEASTERN NEW GUINEA, AFTER A SURPRISE LANDING ON THE NORTHERN SHORES OF HUON GULF SATURDAY.

SEP 7 1943

A RAPID PUSH OF 8 TO 10 MILES ALREADY VIRTUALLY HAS TRAPPED THE ENEMY AT LAE AND SALAMAUA, 18 (CORRECT) MILES SOUTH, BY CUTTING THEM OFF FROM MAIN JAPANESE BASES IN NORTHERN NEW GUINEA.

GENERAL DOUGLAS MACARTHUR IS IN PERSONAL COMMAND OF THE CAMPAIGN DESIGNED TO ELIMINATE THE JAPANESE FROM THE LAE AND SALAMAUA AREAS. THE DRIVE ON LAE FROM THE EAST WAS MATCHED BY AN ALLIED PUSH TOWARD THE SEA NEAR SALAMAUA, THUS HEMMING THE ENEMY BETWEEN THE TWO FORCES.

THE HEAVIEST AMERICAN AMPHIBIOUS FLEET OF THE PACIFIC WAR WAS USED IN LANDING THE AUSTRALIANS. SO COMPLETELY WERE THE JAPANESE SURPRISED THAT THEY DID NOT KNOW THE HUGE FORCE WAS PRESENT UNTIL IT WAS A FEW HUNDRED YARDS OFF SHORE.

PROBABLY THE FIRST INTIMATION THE NIPPONESE HAD OF THE IMPENDING LANDING WAS THE SHELLING OF THE SHORE BY AMERICAN WARSHIPS. THE BARRAGE LASTED ONLY A FEW MINUTES BEFORE THE FIRST CRAFT BEGAN TO DISGORGE MEN IN LANDINGS MILES APART.

THIS INVASION BY MACARTHUR'S TROOPS FOLLOWS CLOSELY THE RECENT

AIR VICTORIES AND GIVES THE ALLIES A BIG ADVANTAGE IN THE BATTLE FOR NEW GUINEA. IT GIVES THE AUSTRALIANS AND AMERICANS ARTILLERY POSITIONS ON THE OPPOSITE SHORES OF HUON GULF TO MAKE IT ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE FOR THE JAPANESE TO AID LAE AND SALAMAUA BY SEA.

THE LANDINGS SATURDAY EXPLAIN THE AERIAL POUNDINGS OF RECORD INTENSITY ON WEWAK, MADANG AND FINSCHAFEN IN MID-AUGUST. HAD THE NEARLY 400 JAPANESE PLANES DESTROYED OR PUT OUT OF ACTION IN THOSE ATTACKS BEEN AVAILABLE TO THE ENEMY, THE RESULT MIGHT HAVE BEEN DIFFERENT. AS IT WAS, THE LANDINGS VIRTUALLY WERE UN-OPPOSED.

HEMMED IN ON THE SOUTH BY AUSTRALIAN AND AMERICAN TROOPS WHICH COMMAND SALAMAUA, BLOCKED IN THE WEST BY AUSTRALIAN UNITS, AND WITH OTHER STRONG AUSSIE FORCES ASTRIDE THEIR ONLY LAND COMMUNICATION LINE TO THE NORTH, THE JAPANESE AT LAE AND SALAMAUA FACE EVENTUALLY THE FATE OF THEIR COMRADES AT BUNA AND NEW GEORGIA.

SINCE THE DESTRUCTION BY ALLIED PLANES OF A 22-SHIP JAPANESE INVASION FLEET IN BISMARCK SEA LAST MARCH, THE ENEMY HAS MADE NO MAJOR ATTEMPT TO SEND SEABORNE REINFORCEMENTS FOR THESE HARD-PRESSED GARRISONS. THE INTENSIVE AERIAL CAMPAIGN AGAINST THE ENEMY'S BARGE SUPPLY ROUTE HAS REDUCED SUPPLIES FOR THE TWO AIR BASES TO LITTLE MORE THAN A TRICKLE.

A SMALL VOLUME OF TRAFFIC HAS BEEN POSSIBLE ALONG THE ARDUOUS WAY DOWN THE COASTAL ROAD FROM THE NORTH. THE AUSTRALIAN LANDING ON HUON GULF HAS CUT THIS ROAD AND MACARTHUR'S AIRMEN HAVE ESTABLISHED A SUPERIORITY WHICH AMOUNTS ALMOST TO DOMINATION.

THIS CONTROL OF THE AIR IS SO COMPLETE THAT ONLY THREE ENEMY PLANES GOT THROUGH TO ATTACK THE LANDING CRAFT. A MIXED FORMATION OF MEDIUM AND DIVE BOMBERS, ESCORTED BY 35 FIGHTERS, SENT IN BY THE JAPANESE, WAS INTERCEPTED BY AMERICANS. TWENTY-ONE ENEMY PLANES WERE DESTROYED, COMPARED WITH A LOSS OF TWO P 38'S.

THE THREE PLANES THAT DID REACH HUON GULF HIT TWO OF THE SHIPS, CAUSING 30 CASUALTIES, INCLUDING EIGHT DEAD.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS--THIRD ADD SECOND NIGHT LEAD SOUTH PACIFIC WAR XXX OF LAE.

THE PARATROOP LANDINGS BEHIND LAE OCCURRED ON SUNDAY, THE DAY AFTER THE AUSTRALIANS MOVED ASHORE ON THE HUON GULF COAST ABOVE IT UNDER PROTECTION OF A SMOKE SCREEN LAID DOWN BY WARSHIPS.

SHOULD ESTIMATES OF 20,000 ENCIRCLED ENEMY TROOPS BE BORNE OUT, THAT WOULD EXCEED THE ARMY OF 15,000 JAPANESE WHOSE MEMBERS EITHER WERE KILLED OR ROUTED IN THE ALLIED CONQUEST OF NEW GUINEA'S PAPUAN PENINSULA BELOW THE PRESENT BATTLE SECTOR.

ESCAPE FOR THESE 20,000 VIRTUALLY IS IMPOSSIBLE. NOT ONLY ARE THE ALLIED GROUND TROOPS FORGING A RING OF MEN IN THE JUNGLE BUT PLANES AND SHIPS COMMAND THE ADJACENT WATERS.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC--SECOND ADD THIRD NIGHT LEAD SOUTH PACIFIC X X X BATTLEGROUND.

THE PRESSURE BEING MADE ON THE JAPANESE AT LAE AND AT SALAMAUA REMINDED ONE OFFICER OF A GIGANTIC AUSTRALIAN ROUNDUP.

"IN RABBIT-INFESTED AREAS, STOCKMEN FORM A GREAT CIRCLE AND BEAT TOWARD THE CENTER, FLUSHING RABBITS OUT TO THEIR DEATH IN THE CENTER PIT," THE OFFICER (NOT IDENTIFIED) SAID.

"THIS IS A GRIMMER GAME WITH RATS -- NOT RABBITS. THE JAP CHANCES OF ESCAPE BY SEA ARE CONSIDERED SLIGHT UNLESS THE NIPPON NAVY

3024- 8131

30.24-8131

CAN CLEAR THE ROUTE."

SEP 7 1943

ALTHOUGH FIRST REPORTS TOLD OF NO ENEMY RESISTANCE IN THE MARKHAM VALLEY, LATER ADVICES SAID A JAPANESE PATROL FIRED INEFFECTUALLY UPON SOME OF THE DESCENDING TROOPERS.

THE MARKHAM VALLEY, BEFORE THE AMERICAN SURPRISE MOVE CLOSED IT, OFFERED A POSSIBLE MEANS OF INLAND RETREAT FROM BOTH LAE AND SALAMAUA TOWARD MADANG.

FROM HIS VANTAGE POINT IN THE FLYING FORTRESS, GENERAL MACARTHUR WATCHED ONE PLANELOAD AFTER ANOTHER BAIL OUT AND THEN, SATISFIED THAT THE OPERATIONS WERE MOVING SMOOTHLY, HE RETURNED TO HIS HEADQUARTERS.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA,SEPT.5-(DELAYED)-(AP)-A FEELING OF PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY FOR HIS SOLDIERS PROMPTED GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR TO RIDE IN A FLYING FORTRESS TO THE SCENE WHERE HUNDREDS OF PARATROOPERS DROPPED TODAY TO VITAL POSITIONS IN THE MARKHAM VALLEY BEHIND JAPANESE-HELD LAE, NEW GUINEA.

ON RETURNING TO HIS HEADQUARTERS FROM THE BATTLE ACTION, AFTER A TRIP IN A PLANE PILOTED BY LT.COL.HARRY HAWTHORNE, OF 230 PLEASINGTON ROAD, SAN ANTONIO,TEX., GENERAL MACARTHUR SAID:

"I DIDN'T WANT OUR PARATROOPS TO ENTER THEIR FIRST COMBAT, FRAUGHT WITH SUCH HAZARD, WITHOUT SUCH COMFORT AS MY PRESENCE MIGHT BRING TO THEM."

BY VERN HAUGLAND

SEP 7 1943

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS IN NEW GUINEA, SEPT.5 (DELAYED)-(AP)-A VIRTUALLY FLAWLESS OPERATION BY HUNDREDS OF AMERICAN PARATROOPERS, WITNESSED IN ALL ITS BRILLIANT EXECUTION BY GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR FROM A BOMBER, SHUT THE DOOR OF THE MARKHAM VALLEY TODAY BEHIND JAPANESE-HELD LAE, NEW GUINEA.

ELATED MILITARY AUTHORITIES SAID IT WAS THE FIRST AMERICAN PARATROOP MISSION TO PROCEED EXACTLY AS PLANNED. THEY SAID THAT IN SIMILAR OPERATIONS IN NORTH AFRICA AND ON SICILY A FEW PARATROOPS MISSED THEIR OBJECTIVE. BUT TODAY IN THE MARKHAM VALLEY ALL THE MEN LANDED EXACTLY WHERE THEY WERE SUPPOSED TO.

CLOUDS OF TRANSPORT PLANES FLEW IN EXTREMELY LOW ALTITUDE SO THEIR CARGOES OF TROOPS COULD LAND QUICKLY AND AVOID BEING SHOT AT FROM THE GROUND.

THE PATTERN OF THEIR PARACHUTES ON THE VALLEY FLOOR FORMED ALMOST EXACTLY THE SKETCHES MADE ON MAPS BEFORE THE FLIGHT BEGAN.

FROM A FLYING FORTRESS, GENERAL MACARTHUR SAW HUNDREDS ON HUNDREDS OF AMERICAN PARATROOPS, BOLSTERED BY A UNIT OF NEWLY-TRAINED AUSTRALIAN 'CHUTE TROOPS, DROP UNOPPOSED INTO A FIELD OF HEAD-HIGH GRASS.

NOT A SINGLE PLANE WAS LOST IN THE GIGANTIC OPERATION.

THE PARATROOPERS LANDED IN A SMOKESCREEN ROLLED OUT BY A-20 ATTACK PLANES. SHORTLY BEFORE, MITCHELLS BOMBED AND STRAFED THE LANDING AREA TO RID IT OF ANY JAPANESE PATROLS.

THIS SEIZURE OF THE BROAD VALLEY APPROACHES TO LAE PLACED THE JAPANESE IN A SERIOUS POSITION.

AS ONE MAN PUT IT:

"THE JAPS CAN'T GET IN OR OUT OF THE LAE-SALAMAUA SECTOR NOW. THEY ARE ENGAGED ON THE NORTHERN AND EASTERN FLANK BY OUR ENCIRCLING FORCE WHICH LANDED SATURDAY. THEY HAVE BEEN HEMMED IN AROUND SALAMAUA FOR WEEKS."

(THE PARATROOP LANDINGS WERE ANNOUNCED IN A TUESDAY COMMUNIQUE FROM GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS WHICH REPORTED UPWARDS OF 20,000 JAPANESE HAVE NOW BEEN ENCIRCLED AT LAE AND SALAMAUA).

GENERALS MACARTHUR, KENNEY, SUTHERLAND AND WHITEHEAD FLEW IN SEPARATE PLANES TO WATCH THE SPECTACULAR SHOW. GENERAL MACARTHUR'S PLANE LED THE TRANSPORTS IN OVER THE REGION SELECTED FOR THE LANDING.

THE FIRST MAN OUT WAS THE PARATROOPS COMMANDER, DARK, SLENDER COL.KENNETH KINSLER, OF DAVENPORT, IA.

THE PARATROOPS HAD ESTABLISHED A POOL TO DETERMINE THE NEXT MAN OUT. CORP.JOSEPH WINKLEK, OF EVERSON, PA., WON THE POOL WHICH AMOUNTED TO MORE THAN $2,000. HE ALSO WON A MONTH'S LEAVE.

THE WINNER OF AN OFFICERS' POOL WAS CAPT.HARRIS MITCHELL, OF MONTGOMERY, ALA., WHO WON OVER $300 AND A MONTH'S FURLOUGH.

BOTH FURLOUGHS ARE EFFECTIVE ONLY AFTER COMPLETION OF THE FORCE'S MISSION.

TWO CHAPLAINS LEAPED WITH THE MEN. THEY WERE CAPT.JOHN POWERS, ONEONTA,N.Y., ROMAN CATHOLIC, AND 1 LT.PROBERT (CORRECT) HERD, OF LUZERNE, PA., EPISCOPALIAN. EACH WAS MAKING HIS 31ST JUMP.

;;(EDITOR'S NOTE: THIRTY-FIVE-YEAR-OLD VERN HAUGLAND, ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT, PERSONALLY SAW THE LANDINGS ACHIEVED SUNDAY BY HUNDREDS OF AMERICAN PARATROOPS IN THE MARKHAM VALLEY OF NEW GUINEA BEHIND THE ENCIRCLED JAPANESE BASE OF LAE. IT WAS JUNGLE COUNTRY OF A TYPE BY NO MEANS STRANGE TO HAUGLAND. FOR IN 1942 HE HAD TO BAIL OUT OF A BOMBER OVER NEW GUINEA AND WAS LOST FOR 43 DAYS AFTER WHICH GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR AWARDED HIM THE SILVER STAR FOR COURAGE AND PERSEVERANCE.)

-:-

BY VERN HAUGLAND

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA,SEPT.5-(DELAYED)-(AP)-IT'S THE THRILL OF A LIFETIME TO WATCH HUNDREDS OF MEN PARACHUTE SIMULTANEOUSLY FROM LOW-FLYING AIRPLANES INTO ENEMY TERRITORY.

I HAD A FRONT SEAT AT THIS THREE-RING CIRCUS TODAY AND IT WAS AN UNFORGETTABLE EXPERIENCE.

I WENT ALONG IN A B-17 (FLYING FORTRESS) TO OBSERVE TODAY'S PARATROOP INVASION OF THE MARKMAM VALLEY NEAR LAE. I RODE IN THE NOSE OF J GREAT BOMBER WHERE, WITH PLEXIGLASS ON EVERY SIDE OF ME, I HAD AN UNOBSTRUCTED VIEW OF THE WHOLE SHOW. MOREOVER, WE HUNG OVER THE LANDING AREA FOR THREE HOURS AND ALSO FLEW OVER THE JUON GULF ARE WHERE I WATCHED LANDING OPERATIONS UNDER WAY EAST OF LAE.

(AUSTRALIANS BEGAN LANDING IN THAT AREA THE DAY BEFORE THIS DISPATCH WAS WRITTEN. THEY WENT ASHORE ON LANDING BOATS WHILE WARSHIPS STOOD BY AND PLANES FLEW PROTECTINGLY OVERHEAD).

ONLY ONCE DURING THE FOUR-HOUR STAY OVER THE LAE SECTOR DID WE HEAR ANY REPORT OF ENEMY PLANES AND THAT PROVED FALSE.

THE FIRST THRILL WAS TO SEE THE SCORES AND SCORES OF TRANSPORTS

30.24-8133

TAKE OFF IN RAPID ORDER, FOLLOWED INSTANTLY BY FIGHTERS, MEDIUM BOMBERS AND HEAVIES IN FAR THE GREATEST NUMBER WE'VE YET SEEN IN THIS THEATER.

SEP 7 1943

IN BEAUTIFULLY ORDERED FORMATIONS, THEY MARCHED ACROSS THE CLOUD-DAPPLED SKY OF THIS HOT SUNDAY MORNING.

OUR OBSERVATION PLANE TOOK OFF IN THE REAR OF THE TRANSPORTS AND THE B-25S (MITCHELL MEDIUM BOMBERS) BUT OUR PILOT, CAPT.ALEX GUERRY, OF SEWANEE,TENN., WAS EAGER TO BE THE FIRST ONE OVER THE MARKHAM VALLEY SO WE PASSED UP FORMATION AFTER FORMATION.

[illegible] TO SEE THE SHOW FROM START TO FINISH, SO WE ARE CO[illegible] VE GOT," HE SAID GLEEFULLY.

OGUERRY HAD TWO FIFTH AIRFORCE COMBAT CAMERAMEN ABOARD, 2 LT.JACK BLAKE, OF BURBANK,CALIF., AND STAFF SGT.FRED BEHLING, ORANGE,N.J., SO HE FLEW LOW TO ENABLE THEM TO MAKE GOOD PICTURES.

SEP 7 1943

WELL AHEAD OF THE CROWD, WE CIRCLED THE BROAD, GREEN MARKHAM VALLEY FOR SEVERAL MINUTES.

SHORTLY BEFORE 10:30 A.M. A FORMATION OF MITCHELLS SPED OVER THE MOUNTAINS AND SWOOPED DOWN ALMOST TO THE TREETOPS TO BOMB AND STRAFE THE JUNGLE THICKETS IN SELECTED AREAS. CLOSE ON THEIR TAILS CAME A SMALL NUMBER OF A-20'S WHICH STARTED STREAMING MILKY WHITE SMOKE AS SOON AS THEY HAD CROSSED THE MARKHAM RIVER.

THINGS WERE HAPPENING FAST NOW. RIGHT AFTER THE A-20'S HAD SPREAD A GREAT SMOKE SCREEN BETWEEN THE LANDING AREA AND THE JAPANESE POSITIONS TOWARD LAE, CAME A FLYING FORTRESS LEADING BREATH-TAKING FORMATIONS OF TRANSPORT PLANES WITH FIGHTER COVER.

IN THAT FLYING FORTRESS WAS GENERAL MACARTHUR, GETTING HIS FIRST LOOK AT THE FIRST BIG OFFENSIVE HIS COMMAND HAS UNDERTAKEN.

THE LUCKY PASSENGER IN GENERAL MACARTHUR'S PLANE WAS ED WIDDIS, ASSOCIATED PRESS PHOTOGRAPHER.

SEP 7 1943

THE TRANSPORT FORMATIONS SPLIT, HEADING FOR VARIOUS TARGET AREAS. THEN ABRUPTLY THEY BEGAN BLOSSOMING WITH HUNDREDS OF PARACHUTES.

THE TRANSPORTS WERE FLYING SO LOW IT SEEMED IMPOSSIBLE FOR THE PARACHUTES TO OPEN BEFORE THE MEN STRUCK THE GROUND BUT INVARIABLY THEY OPENED. THE MEN FLOATED A FEW SDCONDS, THE HIT AND DISAPPEARED INTO THE GRASS. A FEW LANDED IN TREES AND WE COULD SEE THEM HAVING SOME DIFFICULTY RELEASING THEMSELVES.

THE WHOLE DROPPING OPERATION WAS OVER IN A FEW MINUTES. THE TRANSPORTS HIT FOR HOME WHILE THE TROOPS ON THE GROUND QUICKLY RELEASED THEMSELVES FROM THE PARACHUTES WHERE THEY LAY. THESE GREAT WHITE BLOBS WITH OCCASIONAL ORANGE, RED AND BLUE ONES, MARKING VARIOUS INDIVIDUALS, SHOWED UP FOR MILES.

NOWHERE NEAR THE NEW ALLIED LINES COULD WE SEE ANY JAPANESE.

ON THROUGH THE NOON HOUR AND INTO THE AFTERNOON, WE DRONED OVER THE VALLEY, WATCHING THE INTERESTING OPERATIONS BELOW.

WE TURNED TOWARD LAE, THEN FLEW EAST TO WHERE WE COULD SEE AMERICAN SHIPPING EAST OF LAE. WE FLEW LOW AND SAW AUSTRALIAN TROOPS WITH TRUCKS AND OTHER EQUIPMENT ALONG THE SHORE. WE EVEN SAW SOLDIERS SWIMMING AND WASHING THEIR CLOTHES.

WE FOUND NO JAPANESE PLANES AND FLEW BACK UP THE MARKHAM VALLEY,

SKIRTING LAE BY FIVE MILES BECAUSE OF POSSIBLE ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE. THEN, WITH OUR GAS GETTING LOW, WE RETURNED HOME.

AMONG THE SPRINKLINGS OF COCONUT PLANTATIONS AND VILLAGES IN THE MARKHAM VALLEY WE COULD SEE SEVERAL GRASS AND BRUSH FIRES STARTED BY BOMBS AND GUNFIRE FROM ALLIED PLANES.

OTHERS IN GUERRY'S CREW WERE AJRLAN (CORRECT) OLSON, OF LAGRANGE,ILL.; 1 LT.WILLIAM SOUTHARD, OMAHA,NEB., THE CO-PILOT; STAFF SGT.MICK (CORRECT) MELMAN, MIDDLETOWN,PA., ENGINEER; PVT. ALEC BLACK, BAIRDFORD,PA., RADIOMAN; TECH.SGT.TOM NULTY, ROCHESTER,N.Y., CAMERAMAN; TECH.SGT.JOHNNY ABLE LEESVILLE, ~~STON,PSGT.HERBERTPUBRT.~~ KIRK ADAMS, OF ALBERT LEA,MINN., GUNNERS.

NOUMEA,NEW CALEDONIA,SEPT.6-(AP)-TROOPS IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC NOW CAN TUNE IN ON HOME NEWS AND PROGRAMS PLANNED ESPECIALLY FOR THEM WITHOUT DEPENDING ON THE UNCERTAIN RECEPTION FROM STATIONS IN CONTINENTAL UNITED STATES.

A NEW RADIO STATION WHICH WILL BE ON THE AIR DAILY OPENED YESTERDAY IN THIS FRENCH ISLAND COLONY. HOUSED IN THE RED CROSS CLUB, IT IS DIRECTED BY TWO RED CROSS WORKERS, JANETTE MCCREERY OF MERION, PA., AND ESTELLE BRENNER OF DAYTONA BEACH,FLA.

ARMY LT.LANNY ROSS, FORMER RADIO AND FILM SINGER, TOOK PART IN THE FIRST PROGRAM.

MELBOURNE, TUESDAY, SEPT.7-(AP)-IN A RAPID, DAY LONG TOUR OF MELBOURNE'S WAR FACTORIES AND SERVICE ESTABLISHMENTS YESTERDAY (MONDAY), MRS.ELEANOR ROOSEVELT WAS GIVEN A PUBLIC WELCOME SUCH AS HAS BEEN ACCORDED NO VISITOR SINCE THE DUKE AND DUCHESS OF YORK, NOW KING GEORGE AND QUEEN ELIZABETH OF ENGLAND, CAME HERE IN 1927.

EVERYWHERE THE WIFE OF THE UNITED STATES PRESIDENT WAS GREETED WITH SPIRITED CHEERS FROM ENTHUSIASTIC CIVILIANS AND SOLDIERS. HER DAY CLOSED WITH AN OFFICIAL BANQUET AT GOVERNMENT HOUSE.

HOURS BEFORE HER EXPECTED ARRIVAL FOR A PUBLIC RECEPTION AT TOWN HALL THOUSANDS JAMMED STREETS IN THE VICINITY ATTEMPTING TO GAIN ADMITTANCE. AT LEAST A DOZEN WERE INJURED SERIOUSLY ENOUGH TO REQUIRE HOSPITALIZATION.

MRS.ROOSEVELT LEFT FOR SYDNEY TONIGHT.

BY ROBERT EUNSON

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA, SEPT. 6-(AP)-MRS.ELEANOR ROOSEVELT TOLD SEVERAL HUNDRED AMERICAN SERVICE MEN IN THE MELBOURNE GENERAL HOSPITAL TODAY, "NONE OF YOU WANT TO GO HOME ANY SOONER THAN WE WANT TO SEE YOU THERE," AS SHE CONTINUED TO VISIT VETERANS OF THE PACIFIC THEATER OF WAR DURING HER VISIT TO AUSTRALIA.

THE WIFE OF THE UNITED STATES PRESIDENT MOUNTED A PLATFORM FACING TIERS OF WOUNDED AND HOSPITALIZED TROOPS LOOKING DOWN FROM INTERIOR PORCHES AND RECEIVED A LONG OVATION.

"I HOPE YOU GET WELL SOON AND BEFORE LONG THERE WILL COME A TIME WHEN YOU CAN SEE THE END OF THE WAR IN SIGHT.

"WE THINK THERE IS NOTHING SO HARD ON AMERICAN MOTHES AS TO KNOW THEIR BOYS ARE IN SOME HOSPITAL THOUSANDS OF MILES AWAY FROM HOME.

"I THINK WE ALL REALIZE THE WONDERFUL JOB BEING DONE BY THE ALLIED NATIONS AS A WHOLE AND WE ARE GRATEFUL TO ALL OUR ALLIES."

SHE ADDED THAT ALL VETERANS AT THE WAR'S END DESERVED WHAT THEY EXPECTED: "JOBS AT A LIVING WAGE AND THE KNOWLEDGE THAT

1943

3024-8135

30.24-8135

THE REST OF THE WORLD IS GETTING THINGS WORTH WHILE SO YOUR CHILDREN MAY LIVE IN A WORLD OF PEACE."

SEP 7 1943

PASSING THROUGH THE HOSPITAL WARDS THEN AND CHATTING TO THE INDIVIDUAL PATINTS, MRS.ROOSEVELT FIRST STOPPED AT PVT.WALTER M.ALLOWAY'S BED. HE IS FROM FONTANELLE, IOWA. SHE TOOK KEEN INTEREST IN HIS TYPHUS CASE.

2ND LT. MARY MCINERNEY, ARMY NURSE, COATESVILLE, PA., INTRODUCED MRS.ROOSEVELT TO OTHER PATIENTS.

LT.GEN.ROBERT L.EICHELBERGER, ACCOMPANYING MRS.ROOSEVELT AS GENERAL DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S REPRESENTATIVE, STOPPED AT THE BEDS OF PHIL GOFF, FORMER CHEYENNE, WYO., TEXACO OIL CO. EMPLOYE, AND CARL BENNETT, WASHINGTON, D.C., FORMER HONOR GUARD TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AT WARM SPRINGS, GA. THEY TALKED OF MALARIA, FOOTBALL AND THE BROOKLYN DODGERS AND EICHELBERGER, FORMER SUPERINTENDENT OF WEST POINT, SAID HE REALLY WAS BUILDING UP A FOOTBALL TEAM AT THE ACADEMY UNTIL THE WAR CAME ALONG.

THE BOYS' EYES POPPED AFTER EICHELBERGER LEFT AND I TOLD THEM WHO HE WAS.

AMONG OTHERS WHO TALKED TO MRS.ROOSEVELT IN THE HOSPITAL WERE 2ND LTS. WILDA KUBLIC, 417 ELEANOR ST., PITTSBURGH, PA.; VERA CARTER, DETROIT, MICH.; POLLY MORAN, 137 HARRISON ST., WOONSOCKET, R.I.; ETHEL CARDIN, 17 EVERETT ST., CAMBRIDGE, MASS., AND JANE COWAN, WADE PARK MANOR, CLEVELAND, OHIO, ALL ARMY NURSES.

SHE WAS SHOWN THE HOSPITAL KITCHEN BY TECH.SGT.EARL BENNETT, WILDWOOD, N.J.

LATER AT AN INFORMAL LUNCHEON GIVEN BY THE HEADS OF WOMEN'S WAR SERVICES, THE PRESIDENT'S WIFE CHATTING INFORMALLY, SAID THAT THE DEMOCRACIES WERE WAKING UP TO THE FACT THAT WOMEN COULD DO ALMOST ANYTHING AND CONTINUED:

"FROM WHAT I'VE SEEN SO FAR, THE WOMEN OF THIS COUNTRY ARE DOING A GREATER VARIETY OF JOBS THAN THE WOMEN OF MY COUNTRY. PERHAPS HEREIN IS THE GERM ON AN IDEA THAT IN THE POSTWAR PERIOD, WOMEN WILL BE ENCOURAGED TO PARTICIPATE IN ALL ACTIVITIES OF CITIZENSHIP."

NIGHT LEAD

SEP 7 1943

BUENOS AIRES, SEPT. 6-(AP)-FOLLOWING REPRESENTATIONS BY THE U.S. AND BRITISH EMBASSIES, WILLIAM REECE AND DAVID MATSON WERE PERMITTED TO RETURN TO THEIR HOMES TODAY AFTER THEY HAD BEEN DETAINED IN CONNECTION WITH AN INVESTIGATION OF THE COMPANIA ELECTRICIDAD DEL NORTE.

POLICE

REECE, BRITISH PRESIDENT OF THE COMPANY, AND MATSON, OF ROANOAKE, VA., HAD BEEN HELD IN HOUSE ARREST OVER THE WEEK END ON UNDISCLOSED CHARGES.

IT WAS LEARNED THAT THE U.S. EMBASSY ASKED THE ARGENTINE FOREIGN OFFICE FOR AN EXPLANATION WHY THE U.S. CONSUL, THOMAS HUGHES, AND VICE CONSUL HIRAM BINGHAM HAD NOT BEEN PERMITTED TO TALK WITH

MATSON AT POLICE HEADQUARTERS FOLLOWING HIS DETENTION.

THE BRITISH EMBASSY ~~$$$~~ WAS REPORTED TO HAVE EXPRESSED SURPRISE THAT REECE AND ANOTHER BRITISH OFFICER OF THE COMPANY, EDWARD RICHARDSON, HAD BEEN AROUSED FROM THEIR BEDS AT NIGHT AND TAKEN TO POLICE HEADQUARTERS FOLLOWING A RAID ON THE COMPANY'S OFFICE.

ANOTHER AMERICAN, CHARLES C. BATCHELDER OF INDIANAPOLIS, MANAGER OF THE GEBERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY OF ARGENTINA, WAS RELEASED UNDER POLICE SURVEILLANCE TODAY AFTER MAKING A DECLARATION IN THE CASE.

THE CHARGES UNDER WHICH REECE AND MATSON WERE DETAINED HAVE NOT BEEN MADE PUBLIC.

BUENOS AIRES, SEPT. 6 - (AP) - POLICE HAVE ISSUED AN ORDER FOR THE ARREST OF RAUL DAMONTE TABORDA, ~~ARDENT PRO-ALLIED MEMBER OF~~ FORMER MEMBER OF THE THE CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES AND ~~MEMBER OF THE~~ EX-CHAIRMAN OF THE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING ANTI-ARGENTINE ACTIVITIES.

IT WAS UNDERSTOOD THE ORDER WAS CONNECTED WITH ACTIVITIES OF THE COMMITTEE AND IT WAS HELD LIKELY A SIMILAR ORDER WOULD BE ISSUED AFFECTING OTHER MEMBERS OF THE GROUP.

- DASH -

A MEMBER OF THE RADICAL (LIBERAL) PARTY, TABORDA

RADICAL DEPUTY TABORDA, WHO VISITED THE UNITED STATES IN 1941, HAS LONG BEEN IDENTIFIED AS A LEADER OF PRO-ALLIED FACTIONS AND A FIERY FOE OF NAZIISM IN ARGENTINA. HE HAS INTRODUCED IN THE CHAMBER RESOLUTIONS TO BREAK DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH THE AXIS GOVERNMENTS AND IN OTHER WAYS SOUGHT TO PUSH BUENOS AIRES ~~REGIMES~~ FROM THEIR "ON THE FENCE" ATTITUDES.

HE VISITED THE UNITED STATES IN 1941.
HE SUPPORTED THE CHARGES OF U. S. UNDERSECRETARY OF STATE SUMNER NC
WELLES LAST YEAR THAT THE NAZIS WERE CONDUCTING ESPIONAGE IN ARGENTINA.

AS CHAIRMAN OF THE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE FOR INVESTIGATING ANTI-ARGENTINE ACTIVITIES HE HAD A STORY CAREER, WHICH INVOLVED CHALLENGES TO DUEL HIS OPPONENTS. HE RESIGNED THE CHAIRMANSHIP IN JULY, 1942, CHARGING THAT THE COMMITTEE WAS PPACKED WITH RIGHTISTS' UNSYMPATHETIC TO ITS PURPOSES. BUT HE CONTINUED TO BE A STRONG CRITIC OF ARGENTINA'S NEUTRALITY IN THE WAR AND FOUGHT A CONTINUING BATTLE WITH PRO-AXIS ELEMENTS.

3024- 8137

3024-8137

buenos aires, sept. 6 -(ap)- the foreign office disclosed today that the last bombing of berlin had damaged the argentine embassy in the german capital and destroyed the homes of three attaches. sixteen windows of the embassy were reported to have been shattered, the residence of the military attache burned and the appartments of the secretary and chancellor razed.

BUENOS AIRES, SEPT 6-(AP)-THE ARGENTINE FOREIGN OFFICE SAI[D] TODAY IT HAD NO INFORMATION CONCERNING THE REPORT FROM BE[RN] THAT COUNT GALEAZZO CIANO, FORMER ITALIAN FOREIGN MINISTER, HAD SOUGHT SANCTUARY IN THE ARGENTINE EMBASSY (CORRECT) AND HAD BEEN ARRESTED.

IT WAS POINTED OUT HERE THAT MANUEL MALBRAN, MENTIONED IN THE BERN STORY AS ARGENTINA'S DIPLOMATIC REPRESENTATIVE IN ITALY, IS DEAD AND THAT THE EMBASSY IS HEADED BY A CHARGE D'AFFAIRES.

BUENOS AIRES, SEPT. 6-(AP)-CHARLES C. BATCHELDER OF INDIAN[A]OLIS MANAGER OF THE GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY OF ARGENTINA, WAS RELEASED UNDER POLICE SURVEILLANCE TODAY AFTER MAKING A DECLARATION IN THE CASE OF THE COMPANIA ELECTRICIDAD ARGENTINE DEL NORTE, WHICH IS UNDER INVESTIGATION.

POLICE VISITED BATCHELDER'S HOME SATURDAY AFTER WILLIAM REESE, BRITISH PRESIDENT OF THE COMPANY, AND DAVID MATSON, AMERICAN MANAGER, WERE ARRESTED, BUT AS HE WAS ABSENT THEY LEFT A NOTE INSTRUCTING HIM TO BE PRESENT AT POLICE HEADQUARTERS TODAY.

TORONTO, SEPT. 6-(AP)-ORGANIZED LABOR IS DETERMINED THAT THE PEACE TREATY FOLLOWING THIS WAR WILL NOT BE "WRITTEN OR DICTATED BY INTERNATIONAL DIPLOMATS," SAID A MESSAGE FROM WILLIAM GREEN, PRESIDENT OF THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR, READ TODAY TO A LABOR DAY GATHERING ATTENDED BY 3,500 MEMBERS OF INTERNATIONAL UNIONS.

"WE SHALL INSIST THAT THE PEACE CONFERENCES SHALL NOT BE TRANSFORMED INTO A SORDID, TERRITORIAL GRAB-BAG," SAID THE MESSAGE, READ BY AARON VELLEMAN, AFL ORGANIZER. "THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR SHALL BE FULLY REPRESENTED AT THE PEACE CONFERENCES."

HAVANA, SEPT 6-(AP)-THREE UNITED STATES LABOR LEADERS SPENT LABOR DAY IN CUBA, WHERE THE WORKERS CELEBRATE MAY 1 INSTEAD OF THE FIRST MONDAY IN SEPTEMBER.

THE DELEGATION WILL LEAVE WEDNESDAY FOR MEXICO TO COMPLETE A SIX-COUNTRY AMERICAN GOODWILL TOUR.

IN THE GROUP ARE EDWARD J.BROWN OF MILWAUKEE, PRESIDENT OF THE BROTHERHOOD OF ELECTRICAL WORKERS (AFL); DAVID J.MCDONALD OF PITTSBURGH, PA., SECRETARY-TREASURER OF THE UNITED STEEL WORKERS (CIO), AND S.C.PHILLIPS OF OAKLAND, CALIF., VICE PRESIDENT OF THE BROTHERHOOD OF LOCOMOTIVE FIREMEN AND ENGINEMEN.

SEP 7 1943

NEW YORK, SEPT. 6 -(AP)- THE ITALIAN NEWS AGENCY STEFANI SAID TODAY THAT THE CURIA OF CARDINALS WAS CONVENED AT THE VATICAN THIS MORNING BY CARDINAL SECRETARY OF STATE LUIGI MAGLIONE.

"THE MEETING, SO WHICH GREAT IMPORTANCE IS ATTACHED, LASTED FOR ABOUT TWO HOURS. FOURTEEN CARDINALS WERE PRESENT," SAID THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY U. S. GOVERNMENT MONITORS.

WASHINGTON,SEPT 6-(AP)-PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TODAY EXPRESSED THE HOPE THAT POWERFUL ALLIED BLOWS AGAINST THE EUROPEAN FORTRESS WILL HELP TO "DRIVE THE INVADERS FROM YUGOSLAVIA."

SEP 7 1943

IN BIRTHDAY GREETINGS TO THE EXILED KING PETER II, WHO IS CELEBRATING HIS 20TH ANNIVERSARY IN LONDON, THE PRESIDENT SAID:

"HIS MAJESTY, PETER II, KING OF YUGOSLAVIA, LONDON (ENGLAND):

"ON THIS ANNIVERSARY OF YOUR MAJESTY'S BIRTH IT GIVES ME PLEASURE TO SEND TO YOU MY HEARTY CONGRATULATIONS AND TO CONVEY TO YOU THE GREETINGS AND GOOD WISHES OF THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES.

"MAY THE EVER INCREASING BLOWS INFLICTED UPON OUR ENEMIES HASTEN THE COMING DAY OF YOUR BRAVE PEOPLE'S LIBERATION AND SUSTAIN THEM IN THEIR HEROIC EFFORTS TO DRIVE THE INVADERS FROM YUGOSLAVIA.

"FRANKLIN D.ROOSEVELT."

HY116PEW

WASHINGTON,SEPT 6-(AP)-INCREASINGLY TIGHTER CONTROLS OVER MANPOWER ARE DUE SOON, WAR MANPOWER COMMISSIONER PAUL V.MC NUTT SAID TODAY.

ADDRESSING A LABOR DAY MESSAGE TO THE NATION ON THE HEELS OF GOVERNMENT ACTION TO ESTABLISH TIGHT LABOR CONTROLS IN THE VITAL AIRCRAFT AND SHIPBUILDING AREAS ON THE WEST COAST, MC NUTT ASSERTED THAT "MANY WAR INDUSTRIES ARE FAILING TO MEET THEIR EXPANDED SCHEDULES OF PRODUCTION DUE TO ACUTE LABOR SHORTAGES."

"THESE EXPANDING SCHEDULES," HE SAID, "MUST BE MET IF WE ARE TO DO THE INDUSTRIAL JOB NECESSARY TO WINNING THE WAR.

(,23 .7'5 '33 58-5 .943 .3NNAND ESPECIALLY MOR

TO DO THE INDUSTRIAL JOB NECESSARY TO WINNING THE WAR.

"WE MUST SEE THAT MORE MEN--AND ESPECIALLY MORE WOMEN--GET JOBS TO AID THE WAR EFFORT.

"WE MUST SEE THAT MORE WORKERS ARE TRANSFERRED FROM LESS ESSENTIAL ACTIVITIES INTO MORE ESSENTIAL ACTIVITIES.

"WE MUST FIND WAYS TO REDUCE LABOR TURNOVER WHICH RESULTS IN PRODUCTION WASTE.

SEP 7 1943

"AND WE MUST SEE THAT MANAGEMENT, TOO, DOES ITS SHARE IN MAKING POSSIBLE THE CONDITIONS UNDER WHICH LABOR CAN BE UTILIZED MORE EFFICIENTLY--AND WITH FULL REGARD TO THE HEALTH AND WELL-BEING OF THE INDIVIDUAL WORKER.

"AND FINALLY WE MUST KEEP IN WAR PRODUCTION THOSE MEN WHOSE SKILLS ARE VITAL TO THE MEETING OF WAR PRODUCTION SCHEDULES AND WHO CAN NOT BE REPLACED."

MC NUTT SPOKE OVER THE BLUE NETWORK ON A PROGRAM IN WHICH CIO PRESIDENT PHILIP MURRAY AND AFL PRESIDENT WILLIAM GREEN ALSO PARTICIPATED.

MANPOWER SHORTAGES IN THE WEST COAST'S AIRCRAFT AND SHIPBUILDING INDUSTRIES PROMPTED GOVERNMENT ACTION TO CONTROL THE SITUATION.

OTTAWA, SEPT. 6--(AP)---PRIVATE WILFRID BOLDUC, WHOSE FATHER ABRAHAM BOLDUC LIVES AT 60 CLINTON AVENUE, WATERVILLE, ME., WAS AMONG CANADIAN SOLDIERS KILLED IN THE SICILIAN CAMPAIGN, A CASUALTY LIST DISCLOSED TONIGHT.

30.24 – 8139

30.24-8139

Allies Overrunning Lae's Outer Defenses; Marshall Sees War Entering Final Stage; Roosevelt Hopeful of Stalin Conference

Allies Take Jap Airbase, Close Guinea Trap

HAUGLAND

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific, Sept. 7—American paratroops cut off all possible land supply lines of some 20,000 Japanese troops in the Lae and Salamaua area of New Guinea with the capture of an enemy airfield in the Markham Valley, Allied headquarters announced today.

The airstrip was seized Sunday when hundreds of air-borne American soldiers and a few Australians complete with machine guns, mortars, ammunition, rubber assault boats and radio landed near the field.

Aussie, Yank Forces Meet

An Australian force, flown into an Allied advance base, marched overland five days to rendezvous near the occupied airfield with the American paratroopers who had landed Sunday morning while Gen. Douglas MacArthur looked on from a Flying Fortress.

A headquarters statement disclosed that the enemy airfield had not been used by the Japanese for months and was overgrown with kunai grass four to six feet high. The field, flat and level, easily can be placed in operating condition.

Trap Effectively Closed

Capture of the airfield effectively helped close the trap on the defenders of Lae and Salamau by cutting the Markham Valley—best possible inland route of escape for the Japs.

The paratroopers landed on three sides of the Japanese airdrome, guided by three smoke screens which outlined the field perfectly.

As soon as the paratroops landed, the Australian ground force started to cross the near-by Markham river by means of a pontoon bridge. Other Aussies floated down the river in assault boats to the site of the field.

SEP 8 1943

Meeting Is Described

First Lieutenant Monte Kleban, of San Antonio, Texas, who jumped with the paratroopers, said the Australian ground force which had scoured swamps for enemy detachments during its five-day march, joined the air-borne troops several hours after they had landed.

"We saw one another at the same moment," said Klebans, an assistant public relations officer in MacArthur's command. "With gleeful shouts the Australians and Americans ran toward one another. These strangers hugged and embraced like long-lost brothers."

Record Air Force Is Used

Attack planes in the biggest air formation ever massed in this battle area laid a smoke screen for the paratroop landing.

Wave on wave of transports unloaded the chutists without a Japanese plane in sight to oppose the huge force of bombers and fighters.

Enemy Completely Fooled

The enemy was completely fooled and resistance at the airdrome was confined to a scattering of fire from a patrol of thirty enemy troops, according to field reports. There was no indication whether the Japanese patrol had been killed, captured or escaped into the jungle.

The Australian ground force which met American paratroopers apparently was of some size. Field dispatches said that 800 native bearers formed a train to carry supplies fifty-five miles over swamps, rivers and jungle country from an advanced Allied base. Australians making up this contingent were veterans of the Crete and Corinth campaigns.

Action Marks Anniversary

This spectacular mission, sprung on the fourth anniversary of Australia's entry into the war, followed by a day the landing of African-seasoned Australians above Lae Saturday from ships escorted by American men of war.

The Japanese, believing the main Allied drive was coming from Salamaua, eighteen miles southeast of Lae, were so surprised by the Australian landings that they were able to inflict only a few casualties with their air force.

Not A Plane Is Lost

But the paratroopers' surprise was even greater. Not a plane was lost. The soldiers, classified by the colors of their orange, white, red and blue parachutes, landed in the head-high grass to form the precise pattern which had been sketched on paper.

Jumping from so low an altitude that the Japanese would have had only a few seconds to fire had they been on hand the paratroopers quickly moved along the valley, whose river empties into the Huon Gulf at Lae.

General MacArthur said he felt the responsibility of cheering on his men in their first such combat mission with his presence.

Ring Is Described

This ring of men begins in the mountain ridges just below the mouth of the Francisco river near the Salamaua airdrome, moves out of the mountains across the river, follows an irregular line behind Salamaua and Lae and is anchored less than ten miles east of Lae at a point to which the Australians have pushed since their landings Saturday.

The latest operations placed the Allies on the offensive as never before in the New Guinea sector.

"First Vigorous Offensive"

"Paratroops are not a defensive organization," one military man emphasized.

"Therefore, this is the first vigorous offensive move against the Japs in the Pacific.

troop bivouacs and supplies, and Allied fighters decisvely routed an enemy formation of thirty planes over the Huon Gulf.

The western force approaching Lae consists of paratroopers, a parachute-borne Australian artillery unit and Australian ground forces who marched fifty-five arduous jungle and mountain miles overland to overcome enemy outguard resistance in helping secure

Allies Already Using Airstrip Seized By Paratroops At Lae

HAUGLAND

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific, Wednesday, Sept. 8—Allied reinforcements already are being flown in to an airstrip seized by paratroopers twenty miles behind Lae, New Guinea, and Australians who landed previously from the sea east of that enemy air base now have moved within less than five miles of it.

General MacArthur's headquarters disclosed today that only twenty-four hours after the paratroopers poured out of a fleet of heavily escorted sky transports Sunday, the Nadzab airstrip which they captured had been cleared of Kunai grass ten feet tall.

Swiftly increasing the tempo of land and air assault in a sector where an estimated 20,000 Japanese have been cut off, the paratroopers brushed aside enemy outer guards to push on southeastward down the Markham valley; the Australians defeated a Japanese force ten miles from Lae, then approached the mouth of the Busu river, which is only four miles east of that air base; the Allied air force dropped 145 tons of bombs on Japanese the airstrip.

The Kunai growth on the field was quickly fired and Monday morning only a small amount of leveling was necessary to put the strip in order.

Big air transports, carrying Australian infantrymen—seasoned fighters from the Middle East—were landing on the strip before noon Monday.

Mitchell medium bombers dropped sixty-five tons of bombs in the Malahang plantation area of Lae. The enemy has an airdrome at Malahang.

Fires Visible 30 Miles

Two miles northwest of Lae in the Markham valley, eighty tons of explosives were dropped by four-engined bombers on another enemy strongpoint, Jacobsen's Plantation. Fires set in fuel and supply dumps were visible for thirty miles.

The Japanese air force, which was absent during Sunday's paratroop landings, so complete was MacArthur's surprise, put in a belated appearance. Out of an enemy force of thirty planes, Allied fighters shot down two Japanese bombers and five fighters for certain and probably destroyed six other planes. Only one Allied fighter was lost.

Aussies Push Ahead

Today's communique, in referring to operations of the Australians above Lae, said these troops, many of them veterans of the African campaign, "are pushing rapidly forward."

SEP 8 1943

At Salamaua, eighteen miles southeast of Lae, where Americans and Australians have been inching forward, at some points within rifle range of the airdrome, the Allied troops are maintaining their pressure, the communique added.

Gun Positions Pounded

In the Solomons, American torpedo and dive bombers continued to pound at gun positions defending Vila on Kolombangara, where a Japanese garrison is isolated, and reconnaissance bombers probably sank one of two enemy vessels off Bougainville.

In northeastern New Guinea, Americans and Australians under the personal leadership of General MacArthur have cut all possible land supply routes to the Japanese defending Lae and Salamaua.

'Beautiful,' MacArthur Says Of Paratroopers

SCHEDLER

[By the Associated Press]

Somewhere in New Guinea, Sept. 5 (Delayed)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, riding in a Flying Fortress among swarms of planes over jungle-clad New Guinea mountains, watched hundreds of American paratroopers bail out today and seize strong positions in the Markham valley behind the Japanese base of Lae.

On arriving at the area where the troopers were to jump, the Allied commander's plane circled above wave after wave of transports.

"This Is Beautiful"

As the parachutes began opening, General MacArthur, chewing on a cigar, turned to the waist gunner and said:

"This is beautiful—truly wonderful!"

Minutes before the first parachute was seen opening, A-20s skimmed the trees, laying a thick smoke screen to cover the descent. Against this pall of smoke, hundreds of parachutes in varied colors, signifying special types of equipment, looked like a giant carnival of balloons.

As the last transport pulled away, the Fortresses turned in formation and headed back to base.

The general, accompanied by his aide, Lieut. Col. Charles Morhouse, of Ticonderoga, N. Y., and his public relations officer, Col. LeGrande Diller, of Syracuse, N. Y., had arrived at 7 A. M. at the busy airdrome where final preparations for operations were being made by Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney's Fifth Air Force units.

All Saturday, ground crews had worked over fighters, bombers and transports. As dawn broke, long lines of big air transports stood parked along the taxi strip, awaiting the heavily laden paratroopers who were brought in a long convoy of trucks.

Roar Of Planes

General MacArthur was in conversation with his chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Richard K. Sutherland, Maj. Gen. Ennis Whitehead and General Kenney when the comparative quiet was shattered with the pulsating roar from scores of planes.

One soldier standing next to me said: "I wouldn't trade this for a chance to stand on the corner of Times Square in New York right now."

Down the runway the transports lumbered. Mitchell medium bombers thundered into the air.

Largest Air-Borne Group

Overhead Lightnings were climbing fast for top cover for this tremendous concentration of Southwest Pacific air power. It easily was the largest air-borne group for either the Southwest or South Pacific area.

As soon as the last transport had left, the Flying Fortress Talisman took off with General MacArthur in it to see this long-planned operation.

1943

Allied Headquarters, Australia, Sept. 7 (A. P.).—First Lieut. Monte Kleban of San Antonio, Tex. Assistant Public Relations officer in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command, made a parachute leap with the paratroopers who seized the western approach to Lae in the Markham Valley on Sunday. He was the only reporter to leap.

Here's Lieut. Kleban's story:

"I counted one—two—three. With a tremendous jolt, my parachute mushroomed above me bringing painful end to the suspense.

"The stiff pit grass was a perfect blind and provided a merciful cushion. After freeing myself from the chute, I threw a round into my chamber, opened the safety and moved to the rendezvous point.

"Suddenly I saw something move off to the right. Two paratroopers almost stumbled over me, and I asked where they were headed, learning they were to assemble at the same point as I. We decided to go together as a small patrol—Private John Nail, Jr., Winston-Salem, N. C., Private H. W. Bell, Norfolk, Va., and I..

"About every ten steps we had to change the lead man as the thick, twelve-foot grass exhausted a man and left him gasping for air. With our thirty pounds of weight and heat, it was terrific.

"After walking to the woods, we took off our equipment, spread out for firing positions and tried to catch our breaths. While we lay in the shade, other men came up and joined the party. Catholic Chaplain Capt. John J. Powers of Oneonta, N.Y., threw himself down beside me, soaking wet.

"'How goes it, Father?' I asked.

"The priest answered, 'We made it, all right.'

Good Day for a Good Deed.

"One of the men called out, 'say, Father, don't you think the Japs will take a dim view of our doing this to them on Sunday?'

"Father Powers smiled and replied, 'Better the day, the better the deed.' We then moved off at single file through the patch of jungle for about an hour and again dispersed. Father Powers and I took positions near the trail. He heard a low muttering voice. It was a paratrooper carrying a huge box in addition to his equipment and talking to himself.

"He dropped his staggering load—a hundred pounds—and said in Brooklynese, 'I still like Brooklyn plenty.'

"It was Sergt. David Schecter of 412 Pulaski street, Brooklyn. His mother and father live there and his girl lives at 432 Snedecker avenue, Brooklyn. Her name is Sylvia Levine.

Mysterious Night Shooting.

He then told of his party hearing firing and hitting the dirt. The firing ceased. A man rushed up and said that one of the Americans had fallen exhausted. At dawn he started with a captain to investigate the firing heard during the night.

"We came to the aid station of Major Monroe Gall of 29 West 64th street, New York city," he continued. "He had set it up to treat minor injuries. He said there had seen some patrol action during the night. Later we met Technical Sergt. Reynolds of Highbridge, N. J., who told of one of our patrols running into thirty Japs during the night. Five Japs had thrown one grenade and fled the jungle."

Marshall Reports To Nation On War

Staff Chief Says Conflict Has Entered Final Phase With Allies Mounting A Series Of Winning Offensives

SEP 8 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, Wednesday, Sept. 8—Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the army, reported today that the war has entered its final phase, with the Allies mounting a series of offensives which will end only with the absolute defeat of the Axis.

Avoiding any prediction of how long the war will last, but "with complete assurance of the final victory to come," he submitted to Secretary of War Stimson his biennial report, sketching dramatically the nation's transition from perilous unpreparedness in the summer of 1941 to unprecedented military power certain of triumph.

Helpless To Aid Philippines

In the midst of victories on every front and sweeping plans for great new offensives, the chief of the mightiest army this country has ever known — an army created, equipped and trained under his leadership—discloses that two years ago he watched the ominous aggressions of the Japanese, never in doubt of their purpose, but helpless to reinforce the Philippines because the soldiers and the machines did not exist.

Marshall says that two years ago he feared disintegration of his army of 1,500,000 men, had to plead for extension of the selective service period beyond a single year. Today, commander of an army of nearly 8,000,000 which has proved itself in battle, he can report that the enemy has lost the initiative in every theater and is being crushed inexorably by the tightening rings of Allied air, land and sea strength.

Enemy Reduced To Defensive

"Strategically the enemy in Europe has been reduced to the defensive and the blockade is complete," Marshall writes.

"In the Pacific, the Japanese are being steadily ejected, or rather eliminated, from their conquered territory. . . .

"In brief, the strength of the enemy is steadily declining while the combined power of the United Nations is rapidly increasing, more rapidly with each succeeding month. There can be but one result, and every resource we possess is being employed to hasten the hour of victory without undue sacrifice of the lives of our men."

War Now In Final Phase

The war has entered its final phase, says Marshall—a phase which "involves the launching of Allied military power against our enemies in a series of constantly increasing offensive blows until they are beaten into complete submission."

He leaves no doubt that the plans are drawn and eventual success certain for this series of offensive blows. Without so much as a hint at the nature of these plans, he writes that decisions reached as long ago as the Casablanca conference still cannot be disclosed—presumably because the operations have not yet occurred.

Reds' Call For Second Front

Concerning Russian demands for a second land front in western Europe, Marshall has nothing to say specifically, but he asserts that the combined British-American bomber offensive against the Continent "gives promise of being a decisive factor in the ultimate destruction of the German citadel."

By July 1 this year, he writes, the Eighth Air Force had more than 1,000 heavy bombers based in Britain. Missions were averaging better than 300 bombers each, and the greatest tribute to the heavy bomber was "the enemy's recognition of its importance."

The air attacks, says Marshall, forced Germany to increase fighter production at the expense of bombers, allocate new production largely to the western front, withdraw experienced pilots from the Russian and Mediterranean fronts, and to withdraw even fighter planes from Russia."

"The net result," he adds, "was that the Germans were unable to conduct any sustained offensives this summer in Russia, or build up sufficient strength in the central Mediterranean to oppose the Allied offensive."

The report, covering the period between July 1, 1941, and June 30, 1943, contains fifty-eight pages plus thirty-eight pages of footnotes, and maps and charts. It includes Marshall's summary of the events comprising the last three of the five phases into which he divides the war.

The first two he treated in a previous report—first phase, the fall of France and the period of national uncertainty of the war's effect on the United States; second phase, beginning with the battle of Britain, and marked in this country by limited peacetime mobilization of the army, large appropriations to develop the military establishment, and orientation of industry to speed up munitions production.

Third Phase "Critical"

Abroad, Marshall writes, the third phase was "extremely critical"; Germany still threatened Britain across the channel, while overrunning vast Russian territories; strong Italian forces were massing in Africa; in the Pacific, Japanese aggressions gave unmistakable evidence of threats against the British and Dutch in the Orient, and our own positions in the Philippines, Hawaii and the Canal Zone.

At home, the period was marked by extension of selective service, retention of the National Guard and the reserve officers on active duty, intensive training which included great battle maneuvers, feverish industrial preparations.

Attack On Pearl Harbor

The fourth phase began with the attack on Pearl Harbor, and covered the complete mobilization of the United States for war and the integration of its resources and planning with those of its Allies.

"During the fourth phase," he summarizes, "the United States and the United Nations were forced to assume a defensive role while mobilizing their strength for a global fight to the finish.

"Efforts during this period were devoted to the rapid deployment of men and resources to check the momentum of the Axis assaults, while establishing protected lines of communication around the world, and at the same time initiating a vast expansion of our military and naval establishments."

Work Took 8 Months

It required eight months for this country, acting with its Allies, to accumulate the munitions, train the initial forces, and transport them to combat zones. Then the fourth phase ended with the successful assault on the Japanese positions at Guadalcanal and Tulagi in the Solomons—the Allies had taken the offensive, and moved into the fifth and final phase, which will end only with the surrender of the Axis powers.

It was during the third phase that the threat to the Philippines became obvious, Marshall reports.

"Deficiencies in arms and equipment, especially in ammunition and airplanes, required for the immediate defense of the Western Hemisphere, the Panama Canal Zone, Alaska and for the regular army and National Guard with supporting troops," Marshall writes, "were so serious that adequate reinforcements for the Philippines at this time would have left the United States in a position of great peril should there be a break in the defenses of France or Great Britain."

Lend-Lease Continued

Despite the country's critical situation, Marshall reports, lend-lease aid to Britain and Russia continued throughout the crisis of America's entrance in the war, without notable interruptions except in a few items.

Deployment of American forces was governed by the possibility of a tragedy in the United Kingdom with consequent complete reversal of the naval situation in the Atlantic, Marshall says, and for an even longer time by the constant threat of German occupation of Morocco and Dakar and fifth-column activities in Latin America.

Troops were sent to Iceland and Northern Ireland, outposts of the Canal Zone extended by establishment of air bases in Central and South America (Marshall notes particularly the full cooperation of Brazil) and by assignment of small coast-artillery detachments with 155-mm guns to defend critical points of the South American coast as far as Chile. The eastern and western defense commands were organized, and work accelerated on the Alaska highway.

30.24 - 8141

30.24 - 8141

Churchill Arrived

Meantime, Prime Minister Churchill and his advisers arrived in Washington, and the discussions then resulted not only in agreement on immediate strategy, but organization of the combined chiefs of staff to direct the global war.

"Probably no other Allied action, in the field or otherwise, has exerted as powerful an effect on the conduct of the war" as this procedure for unity of command, Marshall asserts.

Turning to the European theater, he relates that early in 1942 limited numbers of troops—a single division dispatched to Northern Ireland—were sent to strengthen the garrison of Britain and give a shot in the arm to British morale, while steps were begun immediately to build up American air strength there.

"Despite the fact that the initiative at this time lay wholly in the hands of the Axis," Marshall reports, "our preliminary movements were based on future aggressive action. . . . Detailed planning for specific future offensive operations was already under way . . ."

The combination of British night-area bombing and American daylight precision bombing is wrecking Germany's war potential, and "the enemy must find a counter to this technique or accept the emasculation of his industries and his fighter command."

U-Boats Being Beaten

The combined bomber operations, together with naval measures, already "appear to be in process of driving the submarines from the seas," he adds.

The North African campaign was "discussed in detail" in Washington during Churchill's visit in January, 1942, although the final decision to launch the undertaking was not adopted until the following July.

North Africa was selected because opening the Mediterranean would facilitate global operations, removal of the German threat to Morocco and Dakar would add immeasurably to the security of the Allied position, and—if the operation could be achieved without embittering French troops—a setting would be provided for reconstruction of the French army in preparation for its return to the homeland.

Lack Of Ships Cited

It was "urgently desired" to make landings as far east as Bone, Philippeville and even Tunis, but the lack of shipping and landing boats prevented this, and the Germans were able to move into Tunisia. When Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower launched the landings, he did it with a force of 107,000 men.

The conquest of North Africa placed the United Nations in a position to assault Europe itself, but "this was only one result of the victory," said Marshall. He named as others the opening of the Mediterranean with an immediate saving in shipping equivalent to 240 vessels, rebirth of the French army, the demonstration by American troops of their battle efficiency, proof of the Allied air forces' technique of coordination with ground troops and strategic air power, and finally a unity of Allied effort—command and staff—"had been demonstrated to the world in a most convincing manner, as evidence of the growing concentration of power which will sweep the enemy out of control of the European continent."

Army Reorganized

The report stresses also that, while fighting a global war, the army has achieved a complete reorganization not only of command functions and administrative form, but in the makeup of combat organizations, without diminishing the rate of increase in numbers and equipment, or interrupting training and the conduct of the fighting fronts.

"The end is not yet clearly in sight," the general concludes, "but victory is certain. In every emergency the courage, initiative and spirit of our soldiers and their young leaders and of our pilots and their crews have been an inspiration at the moment, and a complete assurance of the final victory to come."

Allied Gain In Pacific Called Slow But Sure

Marshall Reports War Against Japs Has Swung Other Way Since Pearl Harbor Disaster

SEP 8 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, Wednesday, Sept. 8. The war in the Pacific, begun with Japanese treachery which piled disaster upon disaster for the Allies, has swung the other way and for more than a year has seen a slow but relentless hammering of the enemy, Gen. George C. Marshall reported today.

Submitting to Secretary of War Stimson his biennial report, the chief of staff made public his narrative of events that led up to the war and the campaigns that have followed the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Jap Momentum Checked

The momentum of the Japanese conquest was checked by the Battle of the Coral Sea, stopped by the Battle of Midway, he relates. When the marines and the navy invaded the Solomons on August 7, 1942, the tide had turned and the Japanese aggressor was on the defensive.

The progress of the Allies may seem slow, Marshall said, but it is steady and determined, and accompanied by a terrific destruction of enemy aircraft and ships.

Recalls Threat To U. S.

Marshall recalled that on July 1 Hawaii, having had priority claims since 1935, was the best garrisoned and equipped of the directly menaced American territories. Priority accordingly was given Alaska and the Canal Zone. There simply was not enough to go around—the Philippines could not be reinforced without impairing the defense capacities of continental United States should disaster overtake Britain.

Equipment Made Available

Toward the end of 1941 modern equipment began to be available in larger quantities, and the Philippines got their first Flying Fortresses—assigned in July, started out in a ferrying flight in August. There were thirty-five—and there were never any more.

Meantime, Gen. Douglas MacArthur had been recalled to active duty with the army, placed in command in the Philippines. The Philippine Scouts were doubled in strength. Some fighter planes were obtained by stripping squadrons in training in the United States. A few anti-aircraft guns were shipped, the army's first fifty self-propelled artillery weapons dispatched also.

Guard Materiel Shipped

Next, the army sent to the Philippines some National Guard anti-aircraft and tank units which were deemed to be sufficiently trained, and for which equipment was available. The equipment included one hundred light tanks.

By October, the army had succeeded in assembling 500,000 tons of supplies and 20,000 fully equipped and "fairly well trained" troops as reinforcements for the Philippine Islands.

"Few troop transports were available," Marshall related, "but with hasty conversion of passenger ships to troop carriers, eleven troopships were scheduled to sail between November 21 and December 9. Twelve cargo vessels were to sail between November 21 and January 6.

"Six of the troopships and nine cargo vessels were at sea when word of the Pearl Harbor attack was received. Orders were flashed to all of these vessels to proceed to the nearest friendly port and to observe radio silence.

Four Ships Returned

Four of the troopships returned to San Francisco. The other two, which were well out from Honolulu with 4,500 troops aboard, made Brisbane, Australia, after fifteen days of silence and uncertainty.

"All but one of the cargo vessels reached friendly ports. The exception was presumed captured after having reported on January first from 600 miles south of Tahiti that an unidentified airplane had ordered her to halt but that she was proceeding to New Zealand.

"Another vessel, whose cargo included P-40 Warhawk fighters, motor vehicles, rifles, ammunition and gasoline, was at Christmas Island at the time the Japanese struck. It immediately put to sea and no word was heard from it until the twenty-third of December, when it sailed into Los Angeles harbor with its cargo intact."

troopships, at sea when hostilities began and diverted from the Philippines to Brisbane, reached Australia.

In 1942, arrivals began in Ecuador, January 16, followed by Haiti, January 19; Cuba, January 20; the British Isles, January 26; Fiji islands, January 29; Egypt, February 2; Christmas island in the Pacific, February 10; Aruba and Curacao, February 11; Canton island in the Pacific, February 13; Bora-Bora island in the Pacific, February 17; New Caledonia, March 12; Venezuela, March 12; Chile, March 15; Efate (South Pacific), March 18; Ascension island (South Atlantic), March 30; Labrador, April 9; Fanning island (Pacific), April 26; Liberia, May 6; Tongatabu (Pacific) and Galapagos, May 9; India, May 16; China, May 16; Espiritu Santo, May 28; New Zealand, May 30; Bahamas, June 2; Guadalcanal, August 7; Peru, August 15; Tongareva island (Pacific) and North Africa, November 8; Aitutaku (Pacific), November 14; Iraq and Iran, December 11.

Chronology Of American Troop Landings On Foreign Shores

Army Chief Of Staff Reveals First Move Was To Newfoundland In Jan., 1941—In Iran And Iraq Last Dec.

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, Wednesday, Sept. 8. Disclosing fo rthe first time that American troops had set up coastal defenses along the South American coast as far south as Chile shortly after the outbreak of war, Gen. George C. Marshall made public today a map disclosing the points to which army forces have been sent, with the dates the first contingents arrived.

The first move was to Newfoundland, January 29, 1941, during the establishment of Western Hemisphere defense outposts. This was followed, before the outbreak of war, by the movement of garrisons to Bermuda, April 20; Trinidad, May 5; Greenland, June 30; British Guiana, July 20; Santa Lucia, August 4; Iceland, August 6; Antigua, October 2; Jamaica, November 21, and Surinam (Dutch Guiana), December 3.

Move Into Brazil

After the Japanese struck at Pearl Harbor, movements already in progress put troops in Brazil December 19 and in Guatemala three days later. On December 22 also the first arrivals of American

Story of Ships That Failed in Bataan Mission

Marshall's War Report Tells How U. S. Supply Fleet Braved Japan's Blockade

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (Wednesday) (AP).—General George C. Marshall told today a story of heroic and heartbreaking failure in efforts to supply the starving, fever-ridden garrison firing its last cartridges at the Japanese on doomed Bataan.

Thousands of civilians who accompanied General Douglas MacArthur's forces to the peninsula complicated the supply situation, he told Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, in his biennial war report, and quickly forced the soldiers on half rations.

"Efforts were immediately initiated," General Marshall wrote, "to organize blockade running from the Netherlands East Indies and Australia and to carry medicines, special fuses and other critical munitions by submarine.

"The blockade running, financed from the funds placed at the disposal of the chief of staff by Congress, involved many difficulties; for example, it was found that the small ship owners and crew members approached in Java, Timor and New Guinea would not accept checks on our Federal funds deposited in Melbourne, but demanded cash. Therefore the actual money had to be flown across Africa and India by plane for delivery in Java.

"A complete report of these perilous operations has never been received.

"Of seven ships dispatched from Australia only three arrived at Cebu. Attempts to trans-ship these supplies from Cebu to Corregidor failed because of the rigid enemy blockade. At least fifteen of these blockade runners, totaling 40,000 tons, were sunk or captured by the enemy while attempting to get supplies through to Bataan.

"Several over-age destroyers were also fitted out as blockade runners but none of these succeeded in reaching the Philippines prior to the fall of Corregidor.

"Deliveries of supplies and the evacuation of certain personnel by submarine continued at intervals throughout the siege."

Record Of Success

SEP 8 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, Wednesday, Sept. 8—General George C. Marshall, in an extraordinary narrative of America's change from military helplessness to confidence of victory, makes these main points:

1. In two years the army has grown from 1,500,000 men to nearly 8,000,000, many of whom have proved themselves in battle.

2. The enemy now is on the defensive and the United Nations grow stronger month by month.

3. The soldiers and machines simply did not exist for adequate reinforcement of the Philippines before the Japanese struck.

Lend-Lease Never Stopped

4. Lend-lease aid to Britain and Russia continued throughout America's great crisis. (Russia so far has received over 3,000 airplanes, 2,400 tanks, 109,000 sub-machine guns, 16,000 jeeps, 80,000 trucks, 7,000 motorcycles, 130,000 field telephones and 75,000 tons of explosives.)

5. Immediately after Pearl Harbor, reinforcement of garrisons on the "uncovered" West Coast, in Panama, Hawaii and Alaska were given first priority. Detachments were sent to guard the South American coast as far as Chile.

Turn Of Tide In Pacific

6. The Anglo-American unity of command has had as powerful, perhaps the most powerful, effect on the war as anything that has happened.

7. American victories at Midway and in the Coral Sea restored the balance of seapower in the Pacific, and the resulting offensive at Guadalcanal marked the beginning of the last phase of the war.

8. The Japanese made two major miscalculations: That the Russian army would collapse and that capture of the Philippines would not delay their timetable against Australia.

9. Bombings of Germany are wrecking its war potential and at sea the U-boat appears to have lost its power.

10. The victory in North Africa demonstrated a unity of Allied effort "which will sweep the enemy out of control of the European continent."

Record Of Failure

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, Sept. 7—Gen. George C. Marshall told today a story of heroic and heart-breaking failure in efforts to supply the starving, fever-ridden garrison firing its last cartridges at the Japanese on doomed Bataan.

Thousands of civilians who accompanied General Douglas MacArthur's forces to the peninsula complicated the supply situation, he told Secretary of War Stimson in his biennial war report, and quickly forced the soldiers on half rations.

"Efforts were immediately initiated," Marshall wrote, "to organize blockade running from the Netherlands East Indies and Australia and to carry medicines, special fuses and other critical munitions by submarine.

U. S. Checks Turned Down

"The blockade running, financed from the funds placed at the disposal of the chief of staff by Congress, involved many difficulties; for example, it was found that the small ship owners and crew members approached in Java, Timor and New Guinea would not accept checks on our Federal funds deposited in Melbourne, but demanded cash. Therefore the actual money had to be flown across Africa and India by plane for delivery in Java.

Only 3 Of 7 Ships Reached Cebu

"A complete report of these perilous operations has been received.

"Of seven ships dispatched from Australia, only three arrived at Cebu. Attempts to transship these supplies from Cebu to Corregidor failed because of the rigid enemy blockade. At least fifteen of these blockade runners, totaling 40,000 tons, were sunk or captured by the enemy while attempting to get supplies through to Bataan.

"Several overage destroyers were also fitted out as blockade runners but none of these succeeded in reaching the Philippines prior to the fall of Corregidor.

"Deliveries of supplies and the evacuation of certain personnel by submarine continued at intervals throughout the seige."

Marshall Explains Early Success Of Aggressors

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—The early success of aggressor nations was explained this way in Gen. George C. Marshal's report.

"Democratic governments devote their resources primarily to improving the standards of living of their people.

"Therefore, when attacked by nations which have concentrated on preparations for a war of conquest, the initial successes inevitably will go to the aggressors.

"This was the case with the democracies of western Europe and later on was found true in the case of the United States."

Early Meeting With Stalin Is Indicated by Roosevelt

Washington, Sept. 7 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt said today that progress had been made since the Quebec conference and also since Saturday toward arranging an Anglo-American-Russian meeting in which Joseph Stalin would participate and said he hoped for more progress within twenty-four or forty-eight hours.

SEP 8 19

His words to a press-radio conference followed repeated invitations for Russia to sit in on a three-way Allied war council and made it evident that such a parley was nearer to actuality now than ever before.

It also was learned on the highest authority that Great Britain and the United States have reached a virtual agreement to continue their combined chiefs-of-staff in operation, at least for a while, in the post-war period.

The position of the American Government is that probably a transition period will be necessary after the last shot is fired. Probably no peace treaty will be signed immediately. In view of the highest American authorities, a transition period would give the world time to recover from its shell shock and would result in writing the peace in better language.

During the transition era, the administration feels that maintenance of peace by the victors will be of paramount importance and that the combined Anglo-American chiefs-of-staff should be kept working and watching, and ready to maintain peace by force, if necessary.

U. S. Bombers Blast Belgian, French Targets

Smash Railways, Airfields After R. A. F. Attack on Munich, Rail Link to Italy

LONDON, Sept. 7 (AP).—American bombers smashed railways and airfields of occupied France and Belgium today following a Royal Air Force night attack against Munich, birthplace of the Nazi party and railroad funnel to the strategic Brenner Pass. Sixteen R. A. F. planes were lost, but all American bombers returned from operations on this sixth straight day of raids by British-based Allied planes.

Raiding the Continent for the second day in succession, American Flying Fortresses swept over to bomb an airfield and airport factory at Avere, northeastern suburbs of Brussels, Belgium, and to blast targets near St. Omer, France. American Marauders flew to St. Pol for the second time in four days, further crippling enemy rail transportation centers in northwestern France.

Crew members reported good bombing results in the Marauder raid directed against the St. Pol freight yards. R. A. F. Mitchells and Typhoons hit the rail yards at St. Omer and airfields at Poix and Abbeville. Liberators attacked a convoy off the Dutch coast, it was announced.

[The United Press said it was the first time the Liberators had been engaged in the current air offensive, although they have participated with the R. A. F. coastal command in submarine patrols.]

Not one enemy fighter was seen by any of the hundreds of Spitfires and Typhoons which assisted in escorting the bombers through the day's operations, the Air Ministry news service reported tonight.

The presence of some enemy air opposition was indicated, however, by a joint Air Ministry and United States Army communique which reported that Thunderbolts downed two enemy fighters and that one Allied fighter plane was missing.

The Munich raid marked the second night in a row and the fifth in eight that R. A. F. heavy bombers had hit Germany. Munich not only is an important link in the railway system connecting Germany with Italy via the Brenner Pass, but it also is the site of important war industries. The last previous big raid on Munich was on March 9 but Mosquito bombers attacked it on July 16.

Flying Fortresses hammered Stuttgart yesterday, the first attack made on that target by American heavy bombers. This operation against the southwest German industrial city required the Fortresses to make a 900-mile round-trip. The Fortresses were escorted by Thunderbolt fighters, and the American planes were credited officially with shooting down seventy enemy fighters.

Subsequent reports on yesterday's operations showed that thirty-four American planes are missing instead of thirty-five as previously announced. "Of this number thirty-three were Fortresses, five of which were known to have landed in neutral territory," a communique said, "and one was a Thunderbolt." Reports from Switzerland yesterday said five American bombers had made landings there.

The rapidly shifting defense methods used by the Germans hinted at their perplexity. At the beginning of last week, instead of their standard dependence on flak, they tried a searchlight and fighter combination.

In the Mannheim raid on Sunday, however, they went back to flak, but instead of aiming at the bombers, their anti-aircraft guns were used to shoot up a ring "wall" around the target with their fighters operating inside.

The Germans tried once more to counter the R. A. F. attack on Munich by using flares to light up the raiders' path, but a large part of the attacking force already had left the city before the flares were dropped, the Air Ministry news service reported. Released from a great height, the flares took as long as twenty minutes to fall to the ground.

In retaliation for recent raids, a comparatively small force of German raiders struck back at Britain last night. They scattered bombs over the Thames Estuary and touched off a brief alert in some districts of Londdon at 3:30 a. m., but no bombs fell in the capital. Two of the raiders were reported destroyed and two other Nazi fighters were shot down over their Continental bases by R. A. F. fighters on intruder patrols.

Munich Blasted; Belgium And France Hit

London, Sept. 7 (AP)—American Marauder medium bombers of the Eighth Air Force hit St. Pol, France, today for the second time in four days in a continuation of the hammering of enemy rail centers in northwestern France, United States Army headquarters announced. Returning crews reported good results and all of the Marauders returned safely after encountering only slight opposition, which was parried by an effective Spitfire cover, the announcement added.

[By the Associated Press]

London, Sept. 7—American heavy and medium bombers, carrying the Allied aerial offensive against western Europe into its sixth straight day, blasted at targets in Belgium and France this morning following a heavy RAF night attack on Munich, birthplace of the Nazi party and seat of important German war industries.

Large formations of Flying Fortresses and Maruaders spearheaded the daylight assaults, which were launched only a few hours after the RAF night raiders returned to their bases.

Berlin Identifies Target

The target of the British overnight assault was identified first by the Berlin radio, a preliminary London announcement saying merely that Germany had again been bombed.

In addition to being the site of important industries, Munich is a vital communications center through which flows lines leading into Italy via the Brenner Pass.

The British Air Ministry said sixteen bombers were lost in the night's operations.

Concentrated Attack

A communique said the attack on Munich was concentrated and effective, although clouds prevented full observation of results.

Other aerial activities last night, the Air Ministry said, included intruder patrols by the fighter command over airfields in France. Naval aircraft also blasted light Nazi naval craft near the French Channel coast.

It was the first attack on Munich since the night of July 16, when swift Mosquito bombers stabbed at the city while the RAF's heavy bombers were blasting northern Italy.

The last heavy raid on Munich was made March 9, when great areas of the city were reported laid waste by the RAF's four-engined bombers.

Stuttgart Also Hit

The raid maintained the tempo of a great Allied aerial offensive which reached new heights yesterday when Flying Fortresses hammered Stuttgart and British and American medium bombers pounded targets in France.

Last night's attack was the RAF's fourth successive night assault on Germany, beginning with a heavy raid on Berlin last Friday night. Saturday night British bombers pounded objectives in the Ruhr and Rhineland and Sunday night they attacked the twin industrial cities of Mannheim and Ludwigshafen at the junction of the Rhine and Neckar rivers.

1943

3024-8143

30.24-8143

420,000 Nazis Killed in Russia In 2 Months, Moscow Tally Says

SEP 8 194

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 8 (Wednesday).—The Russians announced in a special communique last night that more than 420,000 Germans have been killed, at least 1,080,000 wounded and 38,600 captured in the first two months of the Red Army's big summer offensive, which is sweeping on unchecked along a 600-mile front.

The Red Army also has taken a great toll in material from the retreating Germans, including 5,729 planes, 8,400 tanks, 5,192 guns and more than 28,000 trucks, Moscow's announcement said. Indicating perhaps the haste of the German retreat as well as its extent, the Moscow statement listed among the captured material 1,041 tanks, 2,018 guns, 5,382 machine-guns and 7,953 trucks.

Unofficial calculations, based on the Russian advances as recorded in the daily communiques, show that the Red Army in the offensive begun July 12 has recovered approximately 30,000 square miles of territory from the Nazis.

The Russians advanced generally Tuesday, their daily communique reported, driving through the Donets Basin, despite increasing German resistance, to cut an important railway behind threatened Stalino.

Nearly 6,000 Germans were listed as killed on the various fronts in Tuesday's fighting alone. Both Berlin and Moscow in their accounts of the day's fighting stressed the ferocity of the battles, the Russians emphasizing the Germans' "desperate resistance" and reporting Nazi counter-attacks launched with large forces of tanks.

Russian losses were not stated in the special communique, which covered the period from July 5 to Sept. 5. It was on July 5 that the Germans launched the summer's heavy fighting with a drive in the Orel-Belgorod-Kursk area. This blow was absorbed by the Russians, who a week later [illegible] their own offensive, a drive still under way, now pushing the Germans back upon the Dnieper River defense line.

The regular communique recorded continuing gains Tuesday on four active fronts—the Donets Basin, the northern Ukraine, the Bryansk front and south of Kharkov—with advances of up to twelve miles and the recapture of approximately 300 towns and villages.

The Germans made little attempt to hide their retreat, Berlin's admissions differing from Moscow's announcements principally in emphasis.

For instance, the Berlin radio's expert military commentator, Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, said of the Eastern front: "The detaching movements in the Donets Basin toward the west are continuing. Stubbornly fighting German rear guards kept in check the following enemy and inflicted on him considerable losses."

There were frequent references to "furious fighting" and "strong enemy pressure."

Moscow dispatches reported a heavy rain had begun to fall in the Donets Basin, but that it had failed to halt the advancing Red Army. Likewise German tactics of sowing minefields and destroying bridges did not hold up the Russians for long.

The Soviet government newspaper "Izvestia" said German artillery protection of the minefields had grown weak, making the job of sappers easier. The Red Army newspaper "Red Star" said the Germans were not only demolishing, plundering and mining the towns they abandoned, but also were driving away the local population under threat of execution.

A Moscow communique, recorded here by the Soviet radio monitor, said more than 10,000 Germans were killed and nearly 300 towns and villages captured in gains ranging from six to fifteen miles during yesterday's advance.

Stalino's fall was expected momentarily. Outskirts of the city were won in a smashing attack on a eighty-mile front in which 3,000 Nazi soldiers were killed. Moscow broadcasts said the Germans had set fire to the city and indicated the enemy was in headlong flight. Swarms of Soviet warplanes raced on ahead of the motorized ground forces, blasting concentrations of German troop trains at Volnovakha, southwest of Stalino, and demoralizing what Berlin described as a "planned retreat" toward the Dnieper River defense wall, 140 miles to the west.

Rome 'Nearing Open Status'

London, Sept. 7 (AP)—The German-controlled Vichy radio broadcast a Rome dispatch today saying that measures to make Rome an open city had been practically completed, with everything of a military nature either removed or destroyed.

"No army command any longer exists in the city," said the broadcast, which was recorded by the Associated Press. "All military and defensive installations have been demolished. Military traffic through the city has stopped. The only supplies coming in are for the civilian population."

Pope's Activities Cited

LONDON, Sept. 7 (AP).—There was a strong and widespread feeling here today that despite the absence of any specific new evidence, Italy would be out of the war very soon.

In that connection the Italian news agency, Stefani, reported that the Papal Secretary of State, Luigi Cardinal Maglione, saw Pope Pius XII in audience today, following a long meeting yesterday of all the cardinals in Vatican City. In that meeting Cardinal Maglione, said Stefani, was believed to have given the cardinals information "about the activities of the Pope concerning Italy."

7 U-BOATS SUNK IN BAY OF BISCAY

SEP 8 1943

London, Sept. 7 (A. P.).—Combined operations by American planes and British aircraft and warships operating in the Bay of Biscay area have resulted recently in the destruction of seven German submarines, the British Air Ministry and Admiralty announced last night.

The announcement said that the latest successes were achieved after reconnaissance disclosed that the Nazis were attempting to reduce submarine losses in the bay by sending the raiders out from their bases in groups of two or three. Allied air and sea patrols were increased accordingly.

An American Liberator and a British Halifax each sank a submarine and five more were sunk by the combined attacks of Royal Navy sloops, British coastal command aircraft and American planes.

In several instances the Germans left their crew members in the water as the ships sank or submerged hurriedly to escape depth charges. The men were picked up as prisoners.

London Reports Action.

London, Sept. 7 (A. P.).—Russia's great summer offensive, battering Germans on five key sectors along a 600-mile front, drove to the outskirts of the great steel city of Stalino in the Donets Basin today and raced on toward Kiev, Capital of the Ukraine, after storming the stronghold of Konotop, junction of the Bryansk-Kiev trunk railway.

Philco Official Killed In Crash Fatal to Commodore Logan

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—United States 8th Air Force headquarters announced today that James Grimes, vice president in charge of engineering of the Philco Radio Corp., and Pilot Loren L. Myles, 44, of Los Angeles were killed in the plane crash near Belfast last week end in which Commodore James A. Logan lost his life.

The death of Commodore Logan, commandant of the United States Naval Operating Base at Londonderry, Northern Ireland, was announced yesterday.

Pilot Myles formerly was a policeman. Mr. Grimes arrived in Britain recently from the United States.

Commodore Logan, a native of Charleston, S. C., was en route to London for a conference with naval authorities.

No details of the crash were announced.

Commodore Logan's widow, Mrs. Ruth Hepp Logan, now lives at Annapolis, Md. Their regular address, however, is at Newport, R. I.

Commodore Logan was named commandant at Londonderry last March and was killed only a short time after being promoted to commodore. He had served in the Navy since his graduation from the Naval Academy in 1910, coming to London last December to join the staff of Admiral H. R. Stark, commander of United States naval forces in European waters.

His assignments had brought him much duty at sea aboard the U. S. S. West Virginia, U. S. S. Oregon and other vessels. At one time he was commander of Destroyer Division 4, Scouting Force.

U. S. CREW RESCUED

London, Sept. 7 (A. P.).—The other side of a Flying Fortress adventure—from the viewpoint of escorting Spitfires—was told today by an R. A. F. Polish fighter squadron which saved the crew of the Fortress "Hot Rock" from a close brush with death in a raid on French airfields last week.

The Fortress, piloted by Lieut. Kenneth Daugherty of Hicksville, L. I., had just made its run over the target when flak knocked out two of the engines. Fighter pilots watched as the big plane began trailing black smoke and losing altitude.

Squadron leader Jan Falkowski ordered his men to shepherd the bomber home. Just then a Focke-Wulf dived from out of the clouds to attack the crippled ship. "Kill the rat," Falkowski ordered Flight Lieut. Longin Majewski and Flight Sergt. Tadeusz Szykowiak. They closed in, gave the German two long bursts at 175 yards, and reported: "Enemy plane disintegrated in flames. No trace of pilot."

The Fortress was forced to land in the channel fifteen miles off Britain and the Poles sent an S O S to the air-sea rescue service and circled overhead as the Fortress sank. Her crew climbed into rubber dinghies. Within an hour the escort had directed a launch to the Americans and then the Poles flew back to their base because their gas was running out. But just to make sure the Americans got in safely they gassed up again and flew out just as the launch was nearing the shore.

The Americans gave them a boxer's handshake.

Will Rogers Jr. Lauds British War Effort

London, Sept. 7 (A. P.).—Representative Will Rogers Jr., of California today described the British war effort as staggering and commented:

"You have done far more with your resources than we have done with ours."

Mr. Rogers spoke at a conference organized by the Anglo-American committee for a Jewish army. Concluding a five-week tour of Britain, he expects to return to the United States soon.

Haegg Reaches London On Way To Stockholm

London, Sept. 7 (AP)—Gunder Haegg, Swedish middle distance runner who spent the summer in the United States, arrived in London tonight and left almost immediately for Scotland en route to Stockholm.

While in the United States Haegg was undefeated in eight races and his appearances netted approximately $150,000 for the army air forces relief society.

Blueprint for Renovation Of London Drawn by Council

By the Associated Press.

LONDON.—Winston Churchill, after the Germans tried and failed to destroy this biggest city in the world, promised its people that it would "rise from the ruins more healthy and more beautiful than before."

The first step toward fulfillment of this pledge has been taken by issuance of a blueprint for the most ambitious job of civic planning ever undertaken.

The report, a book illustrated with photographs and colored charts, is the result of two years' work by some of England's outstanding architects, engineers and civic leaders working under the London County Council. It lays down principles to be followed without generally attempting to work out details.

Higher Skyline.

It stresses decentralization of industry and population along with improved housing conditions, more open space, playgrounds, broader—and straighter—streets and better traffic control. It presents a picture of London as it may be in the year 2000.

The report visualizes a great saucer-shaped metropolis with its major defects remedied and with buildings of beauty and high architectural quality—yet retaining "whatever is worthy of preservation."

Although London's future skyline may be somewhat higher than at present, there is little chance for any real skyscrapers, the trademark of the large American city.

It is not so much a question of not wanting them (most Britishers express keen interest in the towering buildings of New York and other American cities) as it is a problem of geology. The sandy foundation of this city would not support the heavy weight of an Empire State or RCA Building.

Tallest Building 17 Stories.

The tallest commercial building now is the 17-story University of London. Most downtown buildings are from six to nine stories.

Instead of height the planners offer a uniform building program with the size of various structures controlled by community needs.

As a matter of fact the whole scheme is based on the "community" plan, instead of trying to consider London as one unit.

To the casual observer, it is just one immense city broken up by open spaces, industrial areas and railroads. But actually it is an amalgamation of dozens of separate towns and communities of varying sizes, each having its own identity and characteristics. This system is to be maintained and improved.

Officially, the city of London is only a dot in the center of the map, covering an area of one square mile and with a population of less than 10,000. Population of the greater London area is in excess of 8,000,000.

Community Schools.

Each community would have its own schools, shopping centers, public buildings, amusements, as well as its own industry, situated so as not to endanger the residential amenities. The object is to make each community self-contained for all ordinary purposes.

1943

With many existing parks as a starter, newly created parkways and drives would serve as buffers between one community and another as well as links to the main downtown area spread out around "the city."

It is estimated that, to bring about the proper readjustment of population, it would be necessary to remove at least 600,000 people from their present homes, especially in the congested East End industrial districts.

In discussing what the Times said would be one of the most controversial aspects of the plan, the survey predicted that approximately two-thirds of the new housing would be in the form of apartments. The Times reported many planners favor smaller homes and "are quite prepared to accept an enormous amount of decentralization of population, industry and business" to make them possible.

Many Live in Flats.

Today few Londoners, except those in the higher income brackets, live in private homes. The majority live in two and three story flats, joined together in many cases for the entire length of the block.

"London was ripe for reconstruction even before the war," the report boldly confessed. "Obsolescence, bad and unsuitable housing, inchoate communities, uncorrelated road systems and industrial congestion—all of these and more clamored for improvement before the enemy's efforts to smash the city completely by air attack."

Nothing short of complete replanning and rebuilding will suffice in some areas.

But one should not be misled into believing that all of London is either blighted or blitzed. There still are large quarters, both old and new, that preserve their mellow beauty and which might even be damaged by an overzealous planner.

Big Ben Still Chimes.

St. Paul's Cathedral still stands majestically atop Ludgate Hill; Big Ben, which shook off a glancing bomb hit, still chimes out the hours from its lofty perch above the beautiful Houses of Parliament on the Thames; high steepled Westminster Abbey is still there and Buckingham Palace continues to look out authoritatively over the Mall in much the same manner that the White House overlooks Pennsylvania avenue.

Wherever possible the plan contemplates the beautification of the Thames—London's most beautiful and most neglected open space. This famous river winds like a serpeant through the heart of the city, but of its 30 miles of frontage in the metropolitan area only 3.6 miles are really accessable to the public. This portion includes the famous embankment that runs parallel to Fleet street, the Strand and on beyond Parliament.

The report noted with some disgust that while one of this country's greaest assets is its ability to grow beautiful trees, flowers and grass, the riverfront is virtually covered by a mass of industrial buildings, wharves, warehouses and railways, many of which are not dependent upon the river.

London Bridge to Stay.

It proposes Riverside gardens and playgrounds over at least 11 additional miles, leaving on the river only those industries which make direct use of it. Just who is to convince the others to move is not discussed.

At the same time several of the 16 main river bridges would disappear in favor of tunnels. There was no indication, however, that London Bridge would be sacrificed on the altar of modernization.

Dovetailed into proposals for untangling street traffic are many suggestions for simplifying the complicated railway system.

As London spread out, the railroads followed the customers. Now there are 15 major passenger stations scattered over the city instead of one or two central or union stations.

In England the ratio of automobiles to the population before the war was one to 22—in the United States one to six or seven. A big jump in the use of cars is expected after the war but the bulk of traffic still moves by train, bus or subway.

Yet, in the words of the authors of the new London plan, there is not a single approach which gives one that "here is London" feeling. You just arirve at some station and wonder where to go from there.

The London subway system, recognized as one of the best in the world, is to be the hub of the new traffic setup. Along with the electrification of railways leading into the city, it is proposed that newer and fewer stations be constructed in close relation with the undergrounds.

Avoids Aviation Forecast.

The committee steered fairly shy of a definite plan for the skyway needs of the future, leaving the question "to more expert authorities."

But it was noted that a number of additional airdromes would be needed and the suggestion was made that one way of getting at the problem would be to construct immense transport plane stations far out in the country and run a "taxi-plane" service into the city—shuttle planes landing in parks or on rooftops.

If the design for the perfect community is carried out in full, children would not have to cross a single main road to get to school and four acres of open space is proposed for each 1,000 persons.

While the visitor might regard London today as a city of many parks they are not equally divided among the population.

The drastic need for more playground space is emphasized by figures showing that pre-war London had approximately 1,000 football (soccer) clubs and 800 cricket clubs whose requirements had to be met as best they could on 436 football fields and 360 cricket pitches.

No effort was made by the committee to estimate the cost of this monumental undertaking or to advise how it should be financed. That job was left up to the government which will have to pass scores of new laws to even get it started.

Cost Met By Taxes.

It has been suggested unofficially that the project could be financed, in the initial stages at least, by continuing the present rate of wartime taxation for a given period after the war.

"You could do a lot of rebuilding with the money it takes to fight one month of the war," said one enthusiastic citizen in a "letter to the editor."

But regardless of what may be done about it, this plan stands as a bold peacetime challenge to the imagination and resource of the brave Londoners who thumbed their noses at Hitler and fought their way out of what was until recently the most terrible aerial onslaught the world had ever seen.

WRECKED 'FORT' LANDS SAFELY

Automatic Pilot Returns Crew From Stuttgart.

A United States Bomber Station in England, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The crew of Judy, a Flying Fortress, thought they were "goners" when every vestige of their manual flight control was shot away in yesterday's raid on Stuttgart, Germany, but "George" brought them home.

High over France on the way home eight members of the crew refused to bail out because they wouldn't leave two of their comrades who were wounded. Judy's engines luckily were humming perfectly, so they decided to let "George," the automatic pilot who takes over in such situations, fly them home.

With nothing but "George"" and a prayer, Judy eased down on a just-long-enough strip of a Royal Air Force field. And today the thankful crew got another Fortress and a couple of substitute gunners to replace the wounded and went over the continent again for a second smack at the enemy in twenty-four hours.

"George" responded instantly to every twist of the knobs by Lieut. Noble M. Johnson of Brady, Tex., after yesterday's go with the Nazis. The same burst of cannon shell that wounded the two waist gunners also cut the control cables running from the cockpit, but the cable from the whirring box in the fuselage, which is George's electrical mind, still was intact. So "George" had the ship in hand.

Local Men in Fight.

Even though his right arm was useless from wounds, the right waist gunner swung his machine guns with his good left arm to keep the fighters away. Beside him lay his buddy, the left waist gunner, knocked out by shrapnel just after knocking down an ME-109.

Back in the tail a sergeant had bagged an FW-190 just before drowsiness hit him because of lack of oxygen. In the top turret Sergt. Norbert S. Jost of Woodbridge, N. J., knocked down an FW-190 between gulps from a portable oxygen bottle.

While Lieut. Johnson and his co-pilot, Lieut. Robert L. Templeton of South Bend, Ind., constantly made delicate adjustments so "George" would keep them in flight, Lieuts. Bartholomew K. Cobey of Jackson Heights, Queens, the navigator, and Kenneth L. Johnson of Manhattan, Kan., the bombardier, carted oxygen bottles through the ship to try to keep every one alert.

Hitler And Staff Reported Split

Over Po Plan

COLBURN

[By the Associated Press]

Stockholm, Sept. 7—The Allied invasion of Italy was reported today to have caught Hitler and members of his general staff at odds over the question of whether the German army should attempt to make a stand along the Po river or withdraw to positions behind the Alps.

A Swedish observer who has just returned after a long stay in Germany said Hitler was insisting—against the advice of his generals—that a stand should be made at the Po.

Po Already Fortified

The Germans already have erected huge fortifications along the Po, the traveler said, as the result of a deal made between Hitler and Mussolini before the latter's fall from power. This understanding provided for the witdrawal of Axis troops from most of Italy to the Po with little more than delaying actions against the Allies farther south.

The German general staff, headed by Gen. Franz Halder, was said, however, to have opposed this plan, holding that if the Allies succeeded in breaking the Po defense wall the Germans would face a situation similar to that which they faced in North Africa. The evacuation across the Alps, staff officers were represented as telling Hitler, would be almost as difficult as the attempt to escape across the Mediterranean from Tunisia.

Defenses Rushed

(London dispatches said the Germans, apparently fearful that the Allies were planning new invasion moves against Europe, were rushing to completion all possible measures for the defense of the southern coast of France and other vulnerable spots along the Mediterranean.)

The Swedish traveler reported that members of the high German military clique shared with the German people a desire for peace but that their Prussian tradition prevented them from entertaining any idea of a cessation of hostilities "without honor."

Military To Blame Nazis

Rather than be humiliated at the peace table, the informant said, they would continue to fight until the inevitable debacle, and then let Hitler and Nazi party leaders bear the responsibility.

The Swede concluded his observations with the remark that a foreigner left Germany today with the impression that the war would continue, "bloody and terrible, and increasingly hopeless and meaningless for many, many millions of people."

SEP 8 1943
SHANKE

Travelers Say Raids Have Paralyzed Berlin

Stockholm, Sept. 7 (AP)—The recent Allied bombings of Berlin have not only transformed wide areas of the city into rubble, but have paralyzed its public services and much of its amusement facilities, according to travelers arriving in Sweden.

A newly received issue of the Berlin newspaper Lokalanzeiger stated that most of the capital had no gas to cook with and that emergency field kitchens had been set up extensively.

Fed 7,000 At One Kitchen

Some 7,000 persons were being fed by means of a public kitchen in one southwest Berlin suburb alone, the paper said.

The amusement page listed numerous theaters and other amusement places as victims of the heavy bomber raids, the last of which was last Friday night.

Bed Down In Forest

It was said that Berlin virtually becomes a ghost town every night, emptied of citizens who have been fleeing to the great Grunewald forest for safety since the first "Hamburg-scale" raid on the capital on August 23.

Eyewitnesses said that the Berliners, leaving only air-raid workers behind, bed down in the forest—just west of the city—where once they used to take lazy, peaceful strolls. But there they slept uneasily, worrying about coming raids and the inferno they already have experienced.

Nazis Construct Paris Defenses

Bern, Switzerland, Sept. 7 (AP)—A Paris dispatch to the Tribune de Geneve said today that construction of a chain of fortifications in Paris and its outskirts confirms German intentions to defend the city street by street in the event of Allied invasion.

The dispatch said the populace had wondered whether, in the event of invasion, Paris would be declared an open city as in 1940, but that this had been dispelled by workers of the Todt labor organization building an entire system of defenses within the city and a protective belt of forts in the suburbs.

Many families have left for Brittany and small villages in the interior of France, the dispatch said.

Spanish Blues Return

Madrid, Sept. 7 (AP)—A contingent of approximately 2,000 "volunteers" of Spain's Blue Division, fighting with the Germans on the Russian front, returned to Madrid several days ago and got a taste of the Allied bombings of Berlin while en route through Germany, it was disclosed today.

In the past, there have been routine "changes of the guard," with groups of about 1,000 returning from the Soviet front and being replaced by new recruits sent from concentration points at Logrono, Calatayud and other centers.

There has been no announcement, however, that replacements were sent to Russia for the recently-arrived contingent, nor has it been officially said whether this meant a final withdrawal of the division from action.

Allies Drive 10 Miles Deeper Into Italy, Capture Palmi

(By the Associated Press)

30.24-8145

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 7—The British Eighth Army drove steadily ahead on the Calabrian coastal road today, extending the invasion arc around Italy's southernmost tip to about sixty miles, and smashed another ten miles inland in the Santo Stefano sector of Delianuova.

On the west coast British and Canadian columns had pushed ahead at least as far as Palmi, while on the south their gains extended some distance east of Melito. The capture of Palmi and Delianuova was announced by Allied headquarters today.

Believed Above Palmi

With the coastal arc held by General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's men now approximately sixty miles in length, the wedge driven inland from the original beachhead consists of a triangle running about fifteen miles east-northeast from Reggio Calabria and then to the coast at Palmi.

(An indication that the Allies already were speeding farther northward came from the German high command, whose Tuesday communique said "a British attack north of Palmi was repelled."

Scant Opposition

(Although Axis broadcasts yesterday reported that the German and Italian commands had evacuated southern Calabria, today's war bulletin, broadcast by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press, said: "On the Calabrian peninsula our protective formations engaged in minor encounters with the enemy.")

Front dispatches reported that scant opposition was encountered by the British and Canadians, but that extensive demolitions of roads, bridges and tunnels and the extreme ruggedness of the terrain made progress slow. The communique described the advance as satisfactory.

Shipping Unhampered

The Allied command, meanwhile, moved reinforceemnts and a huge amount of material across the Strait of Messina to the mainland under the protection of the British navy and British and American air units. There were scarcely any enemy attacks on this supply line.

(A Berlin broadcast recorded in London by the Ministry of Information said that "in view of the slow progress of the British landing operations in Calabria it is probable that another landing enterprise still is planned."

Convoy Move Reported

(The broadcast reported "new lively movements of Allied shipping in the western Mediterranean." Berlin asserted that seventy-two Allied ships escorted by five destroyers and four patrol vessels left Gibraltar yesterday.)

Allied air units, supporting the ground operations, battered targets in southern Italy yesterday and swept as far north as Naples to pound that important communications center.

Seized Towns Listed

Towns and villages within the area which fell into Allied hands in the drive to Delianuova include Sinopoli, Melicucca, Solano, Ceramidio, Pellegrina and San Procopio.

Palmi, on the Calabrian west coast, is approximately six miles north of Bagnara, most northerly point previously reported captured.

Delianuovo is about eight miles inland from Palmi and approximately the same distance north of Santo Stefano.

Santo Stefano is on the western slope of Aspromonte Mountain, part of a rugged chain extending down the center of the Calabrian Peninsula. The Allies appeared to be consolidating their hold on the stretch of territory lying between the mountains and the coast.

Airfield Attacked

The raid on the Naples area was made by American Flying Fortresses and was directed against both airfields and communications.

Medium bombers with a long-range fighter escort struck simultaneously at the airfields at Capua, twenty miles north of Naples, and at Grazzanise, a short distance west of Capua. The Capua airfield also was bombed by night.

Axis aircraft attacked the Bizerte area last night, but it was a costly operation. Allied headquarters said seven of them were shot down after dropping a few bombs and doing but slight damage.

Four Allied planes were reported lost in yesterday's raids, while seventeen enemy planes were bagged.

Parked Planes Hit

The Fortresses struck at airfields at Pomigliano and Capodichino, as well as at the Literno and Minturno railway yards, the harbor at Gaeta and the railroad between Casterta and Maddaloni.

United States Mitchells, which raided the Capua airfield, devasted hangars and parked aircraft. A very large fire roared through the hangars and many small fires, apparently from burning aircraft, were seen on the ground.

Hangars Damaged

Marauders had a similar success at Grazzanise, scoring hits on hangars, destroying grounded planes, pitting runways and hitting road intersections.

The Fortresses met no enemy opposition, but the Lightnings shot down seven of a force of twenty to forty planes which attacked during the Capua raid. Three out of a force of approximately thirty which attempted to intercept the Marauders and their Lightning escort also were destroyed.

Rail Junction Hit

American A-36 Invader dive-bombers droned down on Sibari, on the arch of the boot on the southern Italian coast, and tore up the railroad junction and adjoining buildings. One dive-bomber veteran, Lieut. William R. Sefton, of Fort Wayne, Ind., declared, "it was the best job I have seen on the forty-six missions I have flown.

The Battipaglia railway yards were left enveloped in smoke after RAF and Canadian Wellingtons employed light flares to place big bombs on the tracks of this junction, where the line south from Naples connects with the west coast and the central routes to the toe of Italy.

MONTGOMERY WIDENS LINE TO 60 MILES

KENNEDY

Germans Fighting Rear-guard Action Near Gioia, Nazi Radio Concedes

Allies Take Delianuova In Calabria; Flyers Again Pound Naples Area

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 7—The British Eighth Army extended its invasion bridgehead in Italy to a width of at least sixty miles today with the capture of Palmi in a ten-mile advance, while great fleets of Allied bombers struck by day and night at the Naples area.

Deepening their inland thrust on the Calabrian peninsula, the British and Canadian troops pushed another ten miles in the Santo Stefano wedge to seize Delianuova. The village is fifteen miles due east of Scilla on the Aspromonte mountain spine of the peninsula.

Calabria Seems Abandoned

Axis assertions that all southern Calabria had been abandoned seemed confirmed by the scant opposition. Extensive demolitions to roads, bridges and tunnels and the extreme ruggedness of the terrain made progress slow. The invaders were some distance east of Melito in their drive east along a southern coastal road beside the Ionian Sea.

Palmi, whose fall the Allied command announced today, is ten miles northeast of Bagnara along a tortuous road skirting precipices which run down almost to the sea. The town had a normal population of 18,000. A low plateau covered with vineyards and olive, orange and lemon groves surrounds the town.

[A Berlin broadcast said the British advancing north of Palmi had been engaged twice by German rear guards near Giola Tauro, eight miles north of Palmi. The British on the Ionian Sea were said to have failed to crack a Nazi hedgehog position leading east around the Italian toe from Reggio Calabria.]

Enemy Force Small

Headquarters reports indicated the enemy force in Calabria was quite small. Allied fighters and bombers which constantly patrolled the combat area reported an almost complete absence of substantial enemy troop movements.

Reinforcements poured across the Messina Strait. Headquarters disclosed that Allied tanks and artillery now were operating in continental Italy and that supply bases were being established on the mainland.

The air blows at Naples and its environs were so heavy and persistent they appeared to be a softening-up operation, possibly a prelude to an amphibious operation. Naples is 195 airline miles north of Messina. Its airfields, port facilities and railways were attacked by American and British planes of many categories.

Naples Area Hammered

Flying Fortresses and medium bombers operated against Naples by day and British Wellingtons and Bostons struck by night to isolate the area and virtually immobilize all Italy south of that transportation bottleneck.

Among the targets attacked were the Pomigliano, Grazzanise, Capodichino and Capua airfields; the harbor of Gaeta; the railway between Caserta and Maddaloni; and the Aversa, Literno, Minturno and Battipaglia freight yards.

In all operations, seventeen enemy planes were destroyed at a price of four Allied craft.

Results Satisfactory

Headquarters described the cautious envelopment of the Italian toe as satisfactory. Besides curling around the Calabrian peninsula, the British and Canadian forces had consolidated an inland triangle from Reggio Calabria fifteen miles east-northeast to Delianuova and thence to Palmi. Among the new inland villages ot capitulate were Sinopoli, Melicucca, Solano, Veramidio, Pellegrina and San Procopio.

The newly occupied Calabrian area runs along the steep cliffs of the Aspromonte Mountain. The villagers had little food since the Germans carried away all they could take. As in places occupied earlier, the natives welcomed the Eighth Army as liberators.

Direction Of Inland Thrust

The inland thrust to Delianuova was made along a road extending from Bagnara, twisting into the mountains.

By resorting to extensive demolitions rather than active fighting, the Axis apparently was playing a cautious game and seemed determined to avoid falling into a trap. It was sending no force into the Calabria peninsula which might be trapped by landings at numerous points up the Italian west coast.

The opposition encountered was mainly isolated pockets of resistance composed almost entirely of talians, who surrendered promptly.

Railroads Suffer

Besides the attacks on Naples, Allied air power continued its methodical destruction of Italian railroads. American dive bombers pounded a rail junction at Sibari on the arch of the Italian boot. Kitty bombers attacked San Fernando on the Gulf of Gioia. The Axis caused slight damage at Bizerte in Tunisia, losing seven bombers.

The cluster of airfields around Naples was reported strewn with wrecked planes and gaping craters. The Fortresses alone dropped thousands of fragmentation bombs and heavier demolition missiles—a combination which seldom fails to destroy virtually all ground planes and runways.

Naples Area Airfields Are Blasted Again by American Flyers

By the Associated Press.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 7.—For the second successive day American Flying Fortresses and large formations of medium bombers threw the weight of their striking power against enemy airfields in the Naples area yesterday and also continued their steady, methodical destruction of Italy's railway facilities.

The Fortresses struck at airfields at Pomigliano and Capodichino, as well as at the Literno and Minturno railway yards, the harbor at Gaeta and the railroad between Caserta and Maddaloni.

Simultaneously, a strong force of United States Army Air Force B-25 Mitchells, escorted by P-38 Lightnings, raided the Capua Airfield, devastating hangars and parked aircraft. American B-26 Marauders turned their power against two landing fields at Grazzanise.

7 Planes Shot Down.

The Fortresses met no enemy opposition, but the Lightnings shot down 7 of a force of 20 to 40 planes which attacked during the Caputa raid. Three out of a force of approximately 30 which attempted to intercept the Marauders and their Lightning escort also were destroyed.

An additional seven enemy aircraft were shot down last night when a raid was attempted on the Bizerte area of the Tunisian coast. A few bombs were dropped by the raiders there and the official report said damage was slight.

Against a total enemy loss of 17 planes, 4 Allied craft were missing.

While the Strategic Air Force was busy in the Naples area, North African tactical Air Force bombers were engaged farther to the south supporting the British 8th Army in the invasion area.

Sibari Attacked.

American A-36 Invader dive-bombers attacked on Sibari, on the arch of the boot on the Southern Italian coast, and tore up the railroad junction and adjoining buildings. One divebomber veteran, Lt. William R. Sefton of Fort Wayne, Ind., declared, "It was the best job I have seen on the 46 missions I have flown.

RAF and Canadian night bombers again teamed with American daylight raiders to give a wide portion of Italy a round-the-clock pummeling. RAF Bostons made two raids Sunday night, first on the airfield at Capua and second against the freight yards at Aversa. Both are north of Naples.

Last night the Battipaglia railway yards were left enveloped in smoke after RAF and Canadian Wellingtons employed light flares to place big bombs on the tracks of this junction, where the line south from Naples connects with the west coast and the central routes to the toe of Italy.

Gaeta harbor, 45 miles northwest of Naples, was the first target of the Fortresses, from which they went on to other targets.

Norman Davis in Africa

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 7 (AP).—Norman Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross, and Vice Chairman G. Steward Brown arrived here today for an inspection of Red Cross activities in North Africa and Sicily.

TROOPS REPORTED LEAVING FRANCE

SEP 8 1943

Algiers Commissioner Says Nazis Are Moving Best To Other Fronts

KENNEDY

[By the Associated Press]

Algiers, Sept. 7—Since last spring the Germans have moved many of their best troops out of France to Italy and the Russian front, Francois Dementhon, new Commissioner of Justice of the French Committee of National Liberation, said today.

Dementhon, who started the resistance movement, "Liberte," in the south of France and later became a member of the council of resistance formed last spring with the merger of all underground organizations, escaped from France a month ago.

Many Young Soldiers

"The German army we have in France today is not the same German army we knew in 1940," Dementhon said. "It has many very young soldiers, many soldiers wearied by the Russian campaigns, and it has been reduced."

He said the Germans had, however, built extensive fortifications along the channel and Atlantic coast. The Todt labor organization, which built the Siegfried line, constructed them, and their efficacy is a subject of considerable speculation among the French.

People In France Get Voice

1943

[By the Associated Press]

Algiers, Sept. 7—The French Committee of National Liberation voted today to allocate half of the seats in the Provisional Consultative Assembly, scheduled to convene here for the first time November 3, to the resistance movements within France.

Among these delegates will be men who have already escaped from France and others who are to be brought out as special representatives.

Others From Outside

The other half of the approximately eighty-member Assembly will come from resistance movements outside of the homeland and former deputies who are definitely known to have had no connection with the Vichy regime. The later group presumably would contain some of the twenty-seven Communist deputies who were interned in North Africa by order of the Vichy Government.

The committee also disclosed that negotiations had begun with the British Ministry of War Transport concerning the status of the French merchant fleet in the Allied shipping pool.

360,000 Tons Operating

A total of over 360,000 tons of shipping — nearly a third of France's pre-war merchant fleet—are operating in the pool, mainly from British ports, with many of the seamen working under British rates of pay.

Most of the remaining tonnage was found in North African ports when the Allies landed last November.

African Troops Sent East

Nairobi, Kenya Colony, Sept. 7 (AP)—A large force of East African troops has been sent to India and Ceylon, it was announced today.

U. S. Planes Over Burma Raid Japanese Barracks

Maymyo Blasted; Enemy Fears Allied Drive From India

NEW DELHI, India, Sept. 7 (AP).—Medium bombers of the 10th United States Air Force blasted Japanese barracks at Maymyo, forty miles northwest of Mandalay, yesterday, causing heavy damage and leaving fires from which smoke rose to 1,500 feet, a headquarters communique said today.

Brigadier General Howard G. Davidson, new commander of the 10th Air Force, has revealed that American planes were active against the Japanese in Burma twenty-five out of thirty-one days last month. During this period, he disclosed at a press conference, the American planes dropped 691 tons of bombs on enemy installations, communications and shipping. They shot down three Japanese Zeros, destroyed 200 railway freight cars, sank twenty river boats and sank or seriously damaged six ocean-going ships. American losses were two medium bombers, crews of which bailed out over the Chin Hills and made their way through enemy lines to their base.

top and are now threatening Bakhmach.

The Soviet Air Force, softening the way for the advancing ground troops, pounded the enemy front line and rear bases where the retreating Germans were concentrating their forces in order to stem the advance of the Russian troops.

Two Miles From Stalino

Heavy rains, miles of mine fields, demolished bridges and roads and river crossings, in addition to the German tanks, planes and infantry were unable to curb the Red army's Donets Basin avalanche, which is now pounding at the last two exits from the industrial district, Krasnoarmeyskoye and Stalino.

(A Reuters dispatch from Moscow said Stalino was under the fire of Russian guns and that Soviet advance units, only two miles away from the city, were closing in for the kill.)

Artillery Weaker

The Russian newspaper Izvestia said today that German artillery support behind the Nazi mine fields was considerably weakened, making the job of clearing the way much easier for the Russian engineers.

Red Star reported that the retreating Germans were not only demolishing and plundering the mining towns of the Donets Basin but were also driving away the local populations under threat of execution if they refused to evacuate.

A Red Star dispatch said the Red army, after a night battle which cleared the enemy out of Artemovsk, had moved upon Konstantinovka. From southeast of the city the Germans launched infantry in a counter-attack assisted by twenty tanks.

Counter-Attack Repulsed

Most Of Donets Basin Recaptured, Reds Say

CASSIDY

[By the Associated Press]

Moscow, Sept. 7 (AP)—The Red army in the Donets basin has practically completed the recapture of the rich mining area while Russian forces advancing in the general direction of Kiev, capital city of the Ukraine, jumped forward after capturing the rail junction of Konotop and opened a path for the Red army to Kramatorskaya.

At Kramatorskaya the Germans again put up a struggle, but again under the illumination of blazing structures in a twilight battle, the Red army cleared the city and moved on.

Soviet anti-tank cannon, rifles and mortars which were moving along with the advance forces opened fire and repulsed the counter-attack and forced the enemy back to the outskirts of the city Red Star said.

The night battle which followed, lighted by blazing buildings, cleared the Germans from the city

No 2nd Front In Italy: Reds

Moscow, Sept. 7 (AP)—The Soviet army newspaper Red Star today discounted the Allied invasion of Italy as a "second front" in Europe, asserting that only about four to six German divisions were stationed there.

Diversion of sixty German divisions from the Russian front has been set in Moscow as the standard of what Russia considers a real "second front."

Red Star said American and British newspapers had "attempted to increase the significance of the Mediterranean Italian theater of war." Referring to London reports that twenty German divisions had arrived in Italy, the newspaper declared that "all the evidence indicates that there are hardly more than four to six German divisions in Italy, or ten per cent. of the Italians."

It added that the German command had always regarded the Mediterranean Italian theater as a secondary one.

Chinese Reds Battle Forces Of Chungking

Shantung Reports Attacks by 10,000 Against Peace Corps Were Unprovoked

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, Sept. 7.—"Provocative action" by Chinese Communists against the Peace Preservation Corps of southwestern Shantung Province was charged today by the provincial government in an official report to Chungking.

The report arrived as the eleventh plenary session of the Kuomintang's (Nationalist party's) Central Executive Committee, China's highest ruling body, met for the second day to consider the country's outstanding problems.

The report alleged that the Communists, said to number more than 10,000, made two unprovoked attacks against the Peace Preservation Corps—an outfit similar to American state police—on July 20 and Aug. 6.

The corps was hopelessly outnumbered, the report continued, and its commander shot and killed himself with his last bullet.

Globe-Trotting Solons Expected Home Soon

Chungking Aug. 29 (Delayed, A. P.)—Members of the special United States Senate Committee making a round-the world inspection of American troops abroad have spent four days visiting American army installations in China and conferring with Chinese officials.

Senator Mead (D., N. Y.) said members of the party expected to complete their trip in sixty days and reach Washington shortly after Congress convenes.

Other members of the group are Chairman Russell (D., Ga.), Lodge (R., Mass.), Chandler (D., Ky.) and Brewster (R., Maine).

French Indo-China Raided

CHUNGKING, Sept. 7 (AP).—American P-40 fighter planes attacked the important Japanese railway yards near Laokay, in French Indo-China, Sunday, starting many fires and causing extensive damage, Lieutenant General Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

Americans Unruffled

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Sept. 5 (Delayed) (AP)—On the night before their first real action, American paratroops who floated down upon the Markham Valley today were calm and unafraid, yet fully aware the Japanese marksmen might pick many of them off before they reached the ground.

"We've been waiting for this for months and the morale of our outfit is higher than it has ever been," said Corp. James Kirchenski of Detroit. "None of us is particularly excited about it. We know the feel of it well by now."

The jump was the first in combat for the entire organization from the colonel in command down.

Corp. Robert Heinisch of Cleveland said his fellows had the greatest admiration for Australians who joined the parachute forces only recently and made their jumps almost without previous instruction.

The jumpingest paratrooper was a medical officer, Maj. Monroe Gall of 29 West Sixty-fourth Street, New York, who said the leap would be his eightieth.

These paratroopers are noted for their peculiar practice of carrying a sewing machine with them. Because they have been unable to find any one to make the unique equipment-carrying belt of heavy webbing which they employ, they do their own stitching, one explained.

SEP 8 1943

Medals for Sinking Battleship

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 30 (Delayed) (AP)—Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney, Commander of Allied Air Forces in the Southwest Pacific, has awarded the Air Medal to two officers of the United States Fifth Air Force: Lieut. Col. Benjamin R. Cain of Washington, D.C., and Capt. John W. Carpenter 3d of Binghampton, N. Y.

The decorations were for meritorious achievement while participating in a flight over Tonelei Harbor, Solomon Islands, on Oct. 30, 1942, in the course of which an enemy battleship was bombed so badly that it soon sank.

New Yorkers Are Decorated

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 28 (Delayed) (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Kenney has awarded the air medal for meritorious achievement to two officers from New York State—Second Lieut. Harry J. McCullough of 35-50 Eighty-second Street, Jackson Heights, and Capt. Robert J. Gerling of Snyder, N. Y.—for meritorious achievement while participating in twenty-five operational flight missions "during which hostile contact was probable and expected." The operations consisted of dropping supplies and transporting troops to advanced positions.

CITY FLYERS HONORED

General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific Area, Aug. 28 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Award of the Oak Leaf Cluster, in lieu of an additional Air Medal, to officers and men of the Fifth Air Force of the United States Army was announced by Lieut.-Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of the Allied air forces in the Southwest Pacific area.

Among those decorated were:

First Lieut. Walter M. Markey Jr., 450 City Island avenue, City Island, New York city, for meritorious achievement while participating in an aerial combat over the Bismarck Sea on March 28, 1943. Lieut. Markey was awarded the decoration for shooting down one of three Zeros he engaged in the Bismarck Sea.

Second Lieut. Joseph J. O'Connor of 168-41 89th avenue, Jamaica, Queens, for meritorious achievement while participating in aerial combat over Oro Bay, New Guinea, on April 11, 1943. Lieut. O'Connor was officially credited with the destruction of an enemy dive bomber over Oro Bay. When enemy planes approached, Lieut. O'Connor attacked, shot down one of the dive bombers in flames, and forced the others to take cover in the clouds.

BURNED FINGERS; SAVED PLANE

Somewhere in New Guinea, Aug. 30 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Red-headed Staff Sergt. Donald Crandall, Bloomfield, Ia., waist gunner in a B-24 bomber, decided it would be better for one man—himself—to burn his fingers than for ten men, including himself, to parachute into Jap territory.

So, despite an earlier bullet wound in his arm, he picked up a signal flare which had caught fire on a shelf in the plane during the Wewak, New Guinea, raid on August 29, and tossed it on the floor. Then, while Staff Sergt. Robert Wellems of Butte, Mont., the tail gunner, played a fire extinguished on the burning flare, Crandall knocked a hole in the hatch cover and kicked the flare out.

After getting rid of the flare, both gunners returned to their posts. Willens shot down one Japanese plane. Crandall probably destroyed two.

Among the others was Tech. Sergt. Jack Klenistein, Bronx, N. Y., radioman.

FIRST LADY IN SYDNEY

Sydney, Sept. 7 (A. P.).—Australia's largest city welcomed Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt as she arrived today by plane from Melbourne and was immediately whisked off to a downtown luncheon.

30.24—8147

At Mascot Field, as the four-engined plane carrying the First Lady slipped out of an overcast sky, were Lord Wakehurst, Governor of New South Wales; Lady Wakehurst and Alderman Bartley, Lord Mayor of Sydney. Mrs. Roosevelt appeared radiantly happy.

Tremendous crowds marked Mrs. Roosevelt's last day in Melbourne. Her appearance at a public reception and at an official Government House banquet there last night drew crowds which jammed the streets. It was a welcome such as had been given no visitor since the Duke and Duchess of York, now King George and Queen Elizabeth of England, came here in 1927.

SEP 10 1943

Montevideo, Sept. 7 (AP)—A private report from Buenos Aires said tonight the Argentine Cabinet had been called unexpectedly to consider an exchange of messages between Cordell Hull, United States Secretary of State, and Segundo Storni, Argentine Foreign Minister, in which Hull refused an Argentine bid for lend-lease aid.

(By the Associated Press)

New York, Sept. 7—The Tokyo radio, in broadcasts reported to the Office of War Information, told the people of Japan today that the "development of the war situation hereafter warrants absolutely no optimism."

One Tokyo domestic broadcast, the OWI said, admitted that the Japanese had suffered "costly" losses in the operations around Lae, New Guinea, and cautioned that the Allies would "continue such persistent movements."

Heavy Blows Claimed

The commentator insisted, however, that the Japanese had struck "annihilating blows" at those Allied forces which had landed near Lae.

A Japanese naval war correspondent who recently returned to Tokyo from the South Pacific broadcast an impressive picture of American strength in that war theater, the OWI added.

"The battles of the South Pacific area mount in fury with each passing moment," he was quoted as saying. "Recent offensive moves by enemy forces in the Rendova, New Georgia and New Guinea areas are a preparatory step with the objective of taking control of strategical bases on our New Guinea Island."

Cites U. S. Production

American production power, he added, has enabled the Allies to send out aircraft in day and night raids in forces of "from 100 to 200 planes, proof enough of the ferocity of the battles."

"The enemy is steadily pouring mechanized equipment into the South Pacific," the correspondent said. "We cannot afford to slacken even for a split second."

Constitution Approved At Manila, Tokyo Says

New York, Sept. 7 (AP)—A "special General Assembly" in Manila unanimously approved today a tentative constitution for the Philippine Islands drawn up by a "preparatory commission for Philippine independence," the Tokyo radio said in a Manila dispatch recorded by the Associated Press.

Jose Laurel, president of the commission and interior secretary of the executive council ruling the islands under the Japanese, explained the provisions of the constitution to the delegates, the broadcast added.

Budapest An Open City?

New York, Sept. 7 (AP)—The Rome radio said in a broadcast recorded here by NBC today that the Hungarian Government "has taken steps" to declare Budapest an open city.

The broadcast, quoting reports from Budapest, did not elaborate beyond a statement that the Hungarian capital "was being demilitarized."

SEP 10 1943

Japs Claim U. S. Cruiser Damaged

New York, Sept. 7 (AP)—The Berlin radio today quoted Japanese Imperial headquarters as announcing that an American cruiser was "heavily damaged" off New Guinea early this morning.

The German broadcast, recorded here by NBC, said the cruiser was in an Allied convoy which was attacked by Japanese planes. A destroyer was damaged in the engagement and two Allied planes were shot down, the broadcast said.

Churchill's Long Stay Linked To Peace Talk

SEP 10 1943

(By the Associated Press)

Washington, Sept. 7—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill renewed their war discussions today amid multiplying signs that they were awaiting some momentous development—perhaps a definite peace bid from Italy.

Indirect peace pleas have been emanating from radio Rome for some time, and Enrico Galazzi, an official of the Vatican, which might be an agency through which formal overtures would be made, is en route to Washington.

Mr. Churchill has been on this side of the Atlantic since August 10, and while his current mission appears to have been fulfilled, he still has exhibited no disposition to return to England.

Seen Just Marking Time

Hence speculation has developed that the two United Nations statesmen virtually are marking time.

Evidence that they had completed their planning tack for months ahead was noted in reports that Gen. George C. Marshall, United States chief of staff, has been chosen to lead the invasion of Europe from the British Isles. On the highest authority it was learned that Marshall would be commander in chief of the United Nations in the European theater, an illustration that preparations for a possible drive across the Channel are rather well advanced.

Church Leaders Uninformed

High Catholic officials here said they were unaware of the nature of the mission of Galazzi, who was secretary to Pope Pius when the latter was a cardinal and who presumably has the Pope's confidence. If his business were purely that of the Church, Washington's Catholic leaders undoubtedly would know of it.

White House officials said today they did not know how long Mr. Churchill would remain.

While the Prime Minister and the President conferred for an hour or more this morning, Presidential Secretary Stephen Early stated:

"Their conversations will continue, and members of the United States and British staffs will be coming in from time to time, on no set schedules."

No Reason For Return

Early said he saw no pressing reason for Churchill's return to England and that he did not think the Prime Minister's stay had been prolonged longer than originally was expected.

The Prime Minister told Mrs. Roosevelt, Early reported, that he was delighted with his trip to Cambridge, Mass., the ceremonies at Harvard where he received a degree, and the way he was received, and was surprised and curious that so many persons were on the streets waiting for a glimpse of his party, when their arrival had not been announced in advance.

European political problems, particularly those in which Russia would be concerned, still may be engaging their attention, although considerable progress already seems to have been made toward their solution.

It became known over the week end, for ins[illegible] had been arranged [illegible] representatives of the British, Russian and American foreign offices and that a Mediterranean commission had been formed with Russia's participation.

Mr. Roosevelt scheduled conferences today with Secretary of War Stimson; Nelson Rockefeller, who is about ready to go to Mexico as a member of an American-Mexican industrial commission; Constantin Fotitch, the Yugoslavian ambassador, and Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. He was winding up the day with his usual press and radio conference.

Hull Notes Comments

Secretary of State Hull took notice today of Churchill's address at Harvard but refrained from direct comment on the advocacy of continued Anglo-American alliance after the war, or his suggestion of a common citizenship for the British and American peoples.

Asked for comment, Hull said that anything the British Prime Minister said on international relations was of the greatest interest to this country and its Government and would receive corresponding consideration.

HULL CITES FAILURE TO CUT AXIS TIES

Asserts Goods Would Not Be Used To Defend New World

Says Ramirez Regime Has Not Kept Pan-American Pledges

SEP 10 1943

(By the Associated Press)

Washington, Sept. 7—Secretary Hull has turned down in brusque language an Argentine bid for lend-lease aid, declaring that in this country's opinion Argentina "has indicated clearly that the Argentine armed forces will not under present conditions be used in a manner designed to forward the security of the New World."

The refusal was contained in an exchange of letters with Segundo Storni, Foreign Minister of Argentina, made public tonight at the State Department.

Storni, in the letter opening the exchange, assured the Secretary of State that Argentine sentiment is "firmly opposed to totalitarian regimes" and that "Axis countries have nothing to hope for from our Government."

Reports Ramirez Approval

The Argentine Foreign Minister, writing under the date of August 5, said his comments had the full approval of President Ramirez.

He wrote that he thought it desirable to make direct contact with "your friendly Government" coincident with the trip of Ambassador Norman Armour to the United States, and to "set forth confidentially . . the situation of the new Argentine Goverment established as the result of the military movement of June 4."

Storni said the "evolution" of the Argentine people toward the side of the United Nations would be more rapid and effective if President Roosevelt "should make a gesture of genuine friendship toward our people" such as providing urgently needed airplanes, spare parts, armaments and machinery. Such a gesture, he said, would help "restore Argentina to the position of equilibrium to which it is entitled with respect to other South American nations."

Hull Expresses "Regret"

Replying on August 30, Hull wrote that "it is with regret that my Government and the people of the United States have been forced to the conclusion that the undoubted sentiments of the Argentine people have not been implemented by the action called for by the commitments freely entered into by their Government in common with the Governments of the other twenty American republics."

Hull bluntly pointed out that the United States is at war and must allocate war materials where they will be used most effectively for the defense of the hemisphere against aggression. He added:

"Since Argentina, both by its words and its actions, has indicated clearly that the Argentine armed forces will not under present conditions be used in a manner designed to forward the cause of the security of the New World, and thereby the vital war interests of the United States, it would be impossible for the President of the United States to enter into an agreement to furnish arms and munitions to Argentina under the lend-lease act."

Hull emphasized, moreover, that "questions of military and naval equilibrium as between American republics are surely inconsistent with the inter-American doctrine of the peaceful settlement of international disputes to which so many practical contributions have been made by Argentine statesmen."

Reports from South America in recent months have told of growing uneasiness in Argentina over the mounting military strength of Brazil, a recipient of lend-lease war supplies.

Tries To Justify Policy

Storni frankly was attempting to explain and justify the general foreign policy of his Government, and in particular the failure of Argentina to break relations with the Axis. Such a movement had been expected from the Ramirez Government when it first came into power. Argentina is the only American nation maintaining diplomatic relations with the Axis powers.

"Due to lack of adequate information," Storni wrote, "or to other causes the origin of which I do not know, there has been created with respect to the situation of neutrality of the Argentine Republic an atmosphere which is prejudicial to good relations with the countries of America and especially with that great friendly nation (the United States). Thus the rumor has spread that General Ramirez, the armed forces, and the men who form the new Government profess a markedly totalitarian ideology or, at the least, that we look upon the Axis powers with great sympathy.

"I can affirm, and I beg that you, Mr. Secretary, accept this affirmation as the word of a man of honor, that such assumptions are absolutely false. The Argentine nation, its armed forces, and the men in its Government, base their acts on the firmest democratic convictions. . . .

Calls Attention To Shipping

"The situation of neutrality that the Argentine republic has had to observe up to now has not been understood."

The letter called attention to exclusive operation of Argentine shipping in the Allied interest, with services extending into German-proscribed zones by order of the new Government, and to the status of "non-belligerency" granted the United States, as well as the cutting off of Axis secret communications from Argentina.

Storni called the Argentine neutrality "evidently benevolent," asserting that the nation's exports were devoted almost exclusively to the Allies and to American nations, "many times depriving our country of articles necessary for its own defense."

Storni said the former Government of President Ramon Castillo "did not understand the reality of internal and foreign policy" but a change in foreign policy "could not be effected in a violent manner because our country was not ready for it."

1943

Cites Fear Of Communism

He said the people were affected by kinship ties of numerous foreign colonies in Argentina, and the fear of Communism.

Nevertheless, he said, "Argentine sentiment, eminently American, firmly opposed to totalitarian regimes, is on the side of the United Nations." He said Hull, as a citizen of a country "that venerates freedom of conscience" would appreciate the difficulties of forcing on the people a break with the Axis "without any immediate motive."

He invoked, too, the spirit of sportsmanship to support his position:

"The war having reached its present stage, when defeat is inexorably drawing closer to the countries of the Axis, this unexpected rupture would furthermore put Argentine chivalry to a hard test. Let it suffice to recall the judgment which Italy merited when, in a similar situation, it took its position against defeated France."

Blocks Increase Shipments

Storni wrote that Argentina needed materials both "to increase its production and to arm itself in order to fulfill, should the case arise, its obligations for continental defense." He said lack of American response to a plea for oilfield equipment had prevented an increase in Argentine fuel shipments to aid American countries, and had driven Argentina itself to burn for fuel great quantities of corn, wheat and linseed which may be needed in Europe.

"The Government of General Ramirez," he wrote, "will spare no effort to fulfill the obligations contracted. But, as I have already said, it will not be able to do so without a cause to justify it. To act otherwise would afford grounds to believe action is being taken under the pressure of threat of foreign agents, and this would not be tolerated by either the people or the armed forces of the country."

Hull wrote that he had advised President Roosevelt of the contents of the letter, and told Storni:

"It is profoundly satisfactory to note your statement that the people of your country feel themselves indissolubly linked with the other inhabitants of this continent of profoundly democratic origins. The statement will be most welcome to the citizens of the United States actively engaged at the cost of tremendous sacrifices in lives and materials in a war for the survival of the principles so eloquently described by you.

Menace Being Overcome

"I feel sure that in the same spirit it will be warmly greeted by the peoples of all the other republics of the hemisphere which have taken measures essential to the defense of our continent against a menace now happily being overcome by the joint efforts of the friends of freedom everywhere."

At that point the Secretary expressed his "regret" that it appeared that the sentiments of the people had not been implemented by the governmental actions which he said Argentina had agreed to with the other American nations.

He called attention to the resolution of the meeting of Foreign Ministers at Havana in 1940 which specified that any attempt by a non-American state against the integrity or territorial inviolability of any American nation should be considered an act of aggression against all signing nations.

"The act of aggression contemplated in this declaration took place on December 7, 1941," he wrote.

He also referred to the Rio de Janeiro conference on continental defense in 1942, which adopted a resolution recommending a break in relations with Axis countries and said the language finally adopted after long discussion was "fully responsive to the views expressed by the Argentine Government." He quoted the resolution in full.

Failed To Carry Out Pledge

Hull asserted that Argentina had failed to carry out a pledge, subscribed to at the Rio de Janeiro meeting, for severance of financial and commercial relations with Axis countries.

Another of the Rio de Janeiro agreements, the Secretary wrote, provided for a concerted effort to discover and combat subversive activities.

"It is notorious," he continued, "that Axis agents in Argentina have been and are engaging in systematic espionage which has cost the United Nations ships and lives. Vicious propaganda aimed at the United Nations appears in publications which are supported by subsidies from Axis sources."

Roosevelt Tells Armed Services Of O.W.I. Power

SEP 10 1943

Orders a Freer Hand for Agency on War News, Sets Up Appeal Machinery

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP).—Following up a decision to give the public the stark facts of the war, President Roosevelt has sent out letters to the Army, the Navy and the State Departments, intimating that the Office of War Information was created for just that purpose and should have a freer hand.

In any future disagreements with the Army or Navy, the O. W. I. may appeal to the White House itself, the President indicated, even when the services might claim "military security" as the reason for withholding facts.

The letters did little more than restate the powers originally conferred on the O. W. I. more than a year ago—powers which the O. W. I. never succeeded in exercising fully—but they have tended, authoritative sources said, to restore the O. W. I.'s damaged prestige and remind the armed services that the agency's recommendations are not to be ignored.

It was disclosed Saturday that the government proposes to give the public a "more realistic" view of the war through news accounts, photographs and newsreels.

The Presidential letters to Secretaries Henry L. Stimson, Frank Knox and Cordell Hull make it clear that O. W. I. men are to have full access to military information and pictures, except the most secret matters, and that O. W. I. will participate, in an advisory capacity, in the decisions as to their release.

The letters confirmed the agreement reached at a conference with the President a week ago, in which the O. W. I. chief, Elmer Davis, Mr. Knox, John J. McCloy, acting Secretary of War, and State Department officials participated.

The O. W. I. has frequently criticized the tendency of the armed forces to present the war to the public as one in which "nobody gets hurt." They have voiced the opinion that the public should realize that battles produce wounded and crazed men, and that readers should see pictures of blasted American ships and planes as well as those of the Axis.

Such a policy, they feel, would help the civilian war agencies in combating the impression that the war is already won, and would aid in bringing about better co-operation in government drives for expanded production, war bond sales, recruiting of nurses, and co-operation with rationing.

Hull Voices 'Interest' In Churchill's Speech

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7—Secretary of State Hull took notice today of Prime Minister Churchill's address at Harvard University but refrained from direct comment on the British statesman's advocacy of a continued Anglo-American alliance after the war.

Asked what he thought of the speech, Mr. Hull said that anything the British Prime Minister said on international relations was of the greatest interest to this country and its Government and would receive corresponding consideration.

That observation, he added, definitely included Churchill's statement of yesterday.

Soviet Envoy Again Visits Hull

SEP 10 1943

Washington, Sept. 7 (AP)—Soviet Ambassador-designate Andrei A. Gromyko today paid another formal visit to Secretary Hull, bearing a communication from his Government which he described as routine.

He said he could not comment on authoritative reports that a Mediterranean commission was being formed and would include representation of the Soviet Union.

Gromyko's credentials as Ambassador to the United States have not yet arrived, he said.

U. S. Puts China In Trans-Ocean Shipping Trade

Washington, Sept. 7 (AP)—The United States today executed agreements which will place China in the trans-ocean shipping trade for the first time in history.

The War Shipping Administration announced it had assigned two Liberty ships to the Chinese Government, to be manned by Chinese seamen and operated under the Chinese flag for the duration. Due to the present lack of Chinese merchant officers, American officers will be carried until Chinese replacements can be trained.

The ships will be named the Chung Shan and the Chung Cheng, honoring the formal names of Dr. Sun Yat Sen and General Issimo Chiang Kai-shek. They will be operated by China Defense Supplies, Inc., and will be used to carry supplies for the war against Japan, and particularly supplies for China.

The Chinese seamen will be recruited in this country from among those who have survived sinkings in the United Nations war service.

Alaskan Highway Cost Set At $115,000,000

Washington, Sept. 7 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall estimated the cost of the Alaska military highway today at $115,000,000, including improvements to be completed by December 31, 1943.

The Chief of Staff, in his report to Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, said the project got under way February 14, 1942. Nine miles of road had been built by April, and the last gap of the 1,480-mile pioneer road was closed by the end of October.

U. S. Destroys 29 Subs In 3 Months

SEP 10 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, Sept. 7—The navy disclosed today that of the more than ninety enemy U-boats sunk during May, June and July, twenty-nine were destroyed by American forces alone.

Twenty-four of the submarines were sent to the bottom by American naval forces, the navy said, and five were sunk by United States army aircraft.

The navy's disclosure came shortly after Secretary Knox told newsmen that, although the submarine menace may appear to be less serious than a few months ago, the lack of enemy activity may be due to the fact that Germany has withdrawn many U-boats to bases for repairs and refitting with additional anti-aircraft weapons before launching new attacks.

Roosevelt-Churchill Report

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill reported recently that nations fighting the Axis had sunk more than ninety submarines in May, June and July. The navy's announcement today failed to locate the actions.

In addition to the twenty-nine U-boats destroyed by United States forces, at least three additional undersea craft, and probably others, were sunk by United States forces coordinating their attacks with craft of other United Nations and by other American operations, the navy said.

The navy said that eleven submarines were sunk by navy long-range patrol planes (Martin Mariners, Vega Venturas and Consolidated Catalinas and Liberators.)

Carrier Based Planes

Nine of the enemy undersea raiders were destroyed by naval carrier - based planes (Gruman Avengers assisted by Gruman Wildcats). Navy surface craft (destroyers and PC boats) accounted for two submarines, one was destroyed by combined naval surface and aircraft action (Martin Mariners), and another was sent to the bottom by navy aircraft of an unreported type.

The navy said only "positive sinkings" were included in its compilation, adding that probable and possible sinkings were purposely omitted.

All but one of the twenty-four submarine sinkings by naval action has been previously announced. The other, disclosed today, was the destruction of a German U-boat in the Atlantic as it prepared to attack a convoy. It was sent to the bottom by a destroyer and PC boat which attacked so swiftly that the submarine plunged in less than ten minutes.

The U-boat lost all hands except one sailor, who climbed out of the conning tower and was picked up by the PC boat.

Knox earlier discussed the apparent temporary withdrawal of the U-boats from the Atlantic.

"It's as sure as sunrise that they will be back in there again," he told his press conference.

Knox said that new tactics employed by the German submarine patrol in the Atlantic had reduced the usefulness of blimps and any potential usefulness of helicopters in anti-submarine warfare.

"Until they took to firing at them, the blimps were an exceptionally good weapon against submarines," Knox said, adding that now "any means of hovering over a submarine either by helicopter or by blimp has been circumscribed in its usefulness."

Withdrawal Noted

Noting an apparent recent withdrawal of the undersea craft, he asserted one assumption is that they probably are being taken in to augment their batteries of anti-aircraft guns.

Several weeks ago the navy reported that a submarine had succeeded in shooting down a blimp. It was the first reported loss of that kind in the American anti-submarine service.

Knox declined to discuss the probability of ever developing a helicopter for use against submarines in this war on the ground that he did not wish to "engage in controversy." He said that the navy has orders for some experimental types, but agreed with questioners that escort aircraft carriers have largely met the need for aircraft protection for merchant shipping in areas of the Atlantic where land-based aircraft do not go.

Menace Not Gone

Of the submarine fight generally, Knox reiterated his frequent statement that "there is no reason to believe we have disposed of the submarine menace."

No further information has come through on the navy raid on Marcus Island in the central Pacific September 1, Knox stated, explaining that the force which carried out the raid has not yet broken radio silence.

Conquered Italy To Require U. S. Coal

SEP 10 1943

By James Marlow and George Zielke

[Associated Press Correspondents]

Washington, Sept. 7—The inva-

30.24-8149

sion of Italy probably has tipped the Allied coal scuttle.

Italy has practically no coal of its own. This country has coal. So has Great Britain. Both countries are producing less than they need.

But a conquered Italy, to get on its feet, will have to depend on the Allies for help.

Supplied By Germany

Italy, using more than 15,000,000 tons of coal a year before entering the war, reecived eighty per cent. of its supply from Germany.

It has been depending on its Axis partner ever since.

Prime Minister Churchill told British miners in May that Great Britain's coal production was 15,000,000 tons short of its needs.

United States coal production is behind 1943 schedules.

Already Eastern householders—the great users of anthracite—have been told they may have, until December 1, only fifty per cent. of what they used last year.

Shutting Off Supply

But the shutting off of Italy's coal supply from Germany has begun.

Last week, as Allied ground forces swarmed across Messina Strait to start the climb up Italy's boot, Allied bombers streaked northward to plaster Germany's rail linked with Italy through the Alps' Brenner Pass.

Through that jugular vein of the Axis Germany had poured not only coal southward but also military reinforcements.

It seems likely the pass-plastering will continue as the Allied invasion moves up the boot.

Allied bombers up and down the length of Italy have smashed the electric rail lines, but they were the main lines. Two thirds of Italy's railways, the feeder lines, use coal.

The advancing Allies, if they are to keep Italy's transportation system functioning behind them, will have to keep the railways operating.

Only about fifteen per cent. of Italian industry—such as the heavy metals and synthetic rubber—depend on coal for fuel.

The great part of its industry is electrified, getting water power from the Alps in the north and the Apennines, running north and south through Italy.

Industry Near Turin

But most of the Italian industry is centered around Turin and Milan, north of the River Po, where reportedly the Germans will make a final stand against the Allies.

If the invasion moves steadily northward against the Po the great industrial area will be the last to receive Allied help in coal.

But that area, if it holds out against the invaders any length of time, seems sure to get a tremendous aerial blasting that will crush war industries.

If that happens Italian industry will need much rebuilding before it needs coal at all. Therefore, the first coal needs would be for the transportation system behind the advancing Allies and for Italian home use. Much of it, of course, would be used by Allied occupational authorities operating Italian industries.

The U. S. Coal Picture

The two types of American coal are bituminous, which is standard for American industry and most American householders in the mid-West and West, and anthracite, used for home heating in the East.

Here is America's coal picture given at the SFA:

Last year the United States produced 580 million tons of bituminous, 60 million tons of anthracite. This year's goals are 600 million tons of bituminous, 65 million tons of anthracite.

Production for both is behind schedule because—

This year's coal strikes cost about 24 million tons—20 bituminous and four anthracite—which cannot easily be made up; manpower is short, the mines having lost a net of 60,000 to 70,000 men to the armed forces and other industries.

Anthracite production now is far below World War I levels. In the intervening years anthracite demands decreased as Eastern homeowners turned from coal to oil heat.

Anthracite production in 1917-18 was one hundred million tons. It dropped to forty-eight million tons in 1938. Demand increased as war industries doomed in the East, bringing more residents, therefore more coal users.

Eisenhower Admits Overreaching Himself

Washington, Wednesday, Sept. 8 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower acknowledged he may have overreached himself once in the Tunisian campaign, it was revealed in Gen. George C. Marshall's war report.

"Our present tactical difficulties resulted from my attempt to do possibly too much, coupled with the deterioration of resistance in the central mountainous area which began about January 17," General Eisenhower said in a radio comment.

Marine Flyer Decorated

SEP 8 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, Sept. 7 — Capt. James E. Swett, 23-year-old marine flyer who shot down seven Japanese bombers in a single flight in the Solomon Islands area last April 7, has been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor by President Roosevelt, the navy disclosed today.

Swett, a native of Seattle, Wash., is the thirteenth marine to win the nation's highest award for heroism in the present war.

Attacked Bombers

The citation accompanying the award to Captain Swett, who was a first lieutenant at the time of the action, said:

"In a daring flight to intercept a wave of 150 Japanese planes, First Lieutenant Swett unhesitatingly hurled his four-plane division into action against a formation of fifteen enemy bombers and during his dive personally exploded three hostile planes in midair with accurate and deadly fire.

"Although separated from his division while clearing the heavy concentration of anti-aircraft fire, he boldly attacked six enemy bombers, engaged the first four in turn and, unaided, shot them down in flames.

Ammunition Exhausted

"Exhausting his ammunition as he closed with the fifth Japanese bomber, he relentlessly drove his attack against terrific opposition which partially disabled his engine, shattered the wind screen and slashed his face.

"In spite of this, he brought his battered plane down with skillful precision in the water off Tulagi without further injury.

NEW DECORATION FOR GEN. DRUM

Washington, Sept. 7 (A. P.)—The Oakleaf Cluster to the Distinguished Service Medal was presented today to Lieut.-Gen. Hugh Drum by Secretary of War Stimson.

Gen. Drum, commander of the First Army and Eastern Defense Command with headquarters in New York, recently was appointed chairman of the Inter-American Defense Board. The citation for the Oakleaf Cluster, presented instead of a second D. S. M., praised his "leadership, judgment and high professional attainments" as commander of the First Army.

The citation was read by Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, at a ceremony attended by John J. McCloy, Assistant Secretary of War; Lieut.-Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, Deputy Chief of Staff; Lieut.-Gen. Brehon Somervell, Army Service Forces commander, and other military and civilian officials of the Army and War Department.

Army Will Standardize On M-3 Submachine Gun

Small Arms Chief Says It Fills 'Impossible Requirements'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (UP).—The Army has adopted the M-3 submachine gun as its standard submachine weapon—a move that means "trouble to the Axis" and enormous savings in production costs, man hours and machine tools, the Army Ordnance Association said.

Writing in the current issue of the publication "Army Ordnance," Colonel Rene R. Studler said the M-3 will gradually supplant other weapons of this type. He said it was adopted after exhaustive tests showed its superiority was "so overwhelming . . . that it would not be possible to supply American soldiers with any other submachine gun and maintain a clear conscience."

Colonel Studler, chief of the small arms development branch of the Ordnance Department's technical division, said the M-3 fulfilled "impossible" requirements and proved superior in stamina, accuracy and economy of manufacture.

He said the need for such a weapon was first foreseen in July, 1942, when it became evident that production capacity then available for submachine guns of the type required under war conditions "was inadequate to meet the growing demand." The M-3 is rolling off assembly lines "in large quantities and at an ever-increasing rate."

Army Lists More Men As Wounded in Action

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP).—The War Department announced today the names of 232 United States soldiers wounded in action, including the following with next of kin in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut:

NEW YORK

European Area

GRIMALDI, ANTHONY J., second lieutenant; mother, Mrs. Concetta Grimaldi, 29 Grapal Street, Rye.

HAGAN, JOHN J., staff sergeant; father, John B. Hagan, 732 Eleventh Avenue, Manhattan.

North African Area Including Sicily

BOTTERIO, DANNY, private; mother, Mrs. Louise R. Botterio, 79 Waverly Avenue, Brooklyn.

BRADLEY, WALTER G., warrant officer; wife, Mrs. Sally Bradley, 23 Beech st., Rhinebeck.

BRENNAN, ANDREW V., private; mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Brennan, 165 West Eightieth Street, Manhattan.

BRIODY, CHRISTOPHER JR., private; mother, Mrs. Mary Briody, 1011 University Avenue, the Bronx.

CHAMBERLAIN, FRANK J., private; sister, Mrs. Anne Weickman, 43 Bartlett Street, Brooklyn.

CUNEO, EDWARD J., corporal; mother, Mrs. Frances Cuneo, 900 East 167th Street, the Bronx.

HENRY, HUGH W., private; mother, Mrs. Mary J. Henry, 137 Guernsey, Brooklyn.

HENRY, JOHN J., private first class; wife, Mrs. Helen V. Henry, 87-04 143d Street, Jamaica, Queens.

HEPPELER, CHARLES N., private first class; wife, Mrs. Vera Heppeler, 200 Herbert Street, Syracuse.

HIRSCHEY, RALPH V., private first class; mother, Mrs. Rose Hirschey, Box 24, Castorland.

HOUGHTON, WILLIAM H., private first class; wife, Mrs. Erma E. Houghton, care of A. G. Boberg, Route 1, Newfield.

IANNOLO, JACK, private; father, Dominic Iannolo, 17 Brown Street, Mineola, L. I.

IANNUZZI, CONSTANTINE, private first class; father, Salvator Iannuzzi, 236 Freemont Street, Harrison.

ITZKOWITZ, MAX, corporal; father, Wolf Itzkowitz, 505 East 175th Street, the Bronx.

KALMUS, MORRIS A., technician fifth grade; mother, Mrs. Goldie Kalmus, 2850 Bronx Park East, the Bronx.

KANE, VINCENT P., private first class; father, Thomas Kane, 311 East 193d Street, the Bronx.

KEESLER, WILLIAM C., technician fourth grade; father, William Keesler, 46 Lafayette Avenue, Middletown.

KONOPKA, EDWARD H., sergeant; brother, Matthew Konopka, 624 Broadway, Schenectady.

LISENA, CARLO S., private first class; mother, Mrs. Rose Lisena, 849 Kent Avenue, Brooklyn.

MORGAN, JOHN F., second lieutenant; mother, Mrs. Bridget Morgan, Box 8, Station Y, Manhattan.

OSTER, JULIUS, corporal; father, Hyman Oster, 4209 Fifteenth Avenue, Brooklyn.

OURIEL, MICHAEL A., private first class; mother, Mrs. Sophia Ouriel, 471 Ormond Street, Rochester.

PYLYPYSHYN, Michael, private; mother, Mrs. Rose Pylypyshyn, 230 Ashburton Avenue, Yonkers.

SCHECKENBACK, MICHAEL A., technician fifth grade; mother, Mrs. Carrie Scheckenback, 71-04 Sixty-eighth Street, Glendale, Queens.

SILVERSTEIN, LEO, private; father, Lewis Silverstein, 1380 Merriman Avenue, the Bronx.

ZAFFOS, ABRAHAM, private first class; brother, Joseph Zaffos, 97 Greene Street, Manhattan.

Southwest Parific Area

FOWLER, MANLEY R., private; father, Jerry Fowler, Route 2, Interlaken.

VERDERESE VINCENT C., private; father, Leone Verderese, 2058 Nereid Avenue, the Bronx.

VIDAL, JACINTO D., private; father, Joe Vidal, 708 Cauldwell Avenue, the Bronx.

NEW JERSEY

North Africa Including Sicily

BROWN, ROBERT M., second lieutenant; mother, Mrs. John O. Reeves, 30 Ridgewood Avenue, Pleasantville.

HASS, JACK S., sergeant; father, Benny Hass, 723 Boulevard, Bayonne.

HUBER GEORGE S., private first class; sister, Mrs. Dorothy Mount, 408 North Main Street, Hightstown.

IPPOLITO, FRANK J., private; mother, Mrs. Mary Ippolito, 270 Lembeck Avenue, Jersey City.

SMARR, ANDREW, private first class; sister, Mrs. Jelia Sebello, 78 West Hanover Avenue, Morris Plains.

WERNICKE, CHARLES F., private; father, Charles Wernicke, 160 Hillsdale Avenue, Hillside.

CONNECTICUT

North African Area, Including Sicily

CASTIGLIONE, EUGENIO, private first class; mother, Mrs. Theresa Castiglione, 175 Franklin Street, New Haven.

JONES, FRANK P., first lieutenant; mother, Mrs. Horace P. Jones, 92 Lindale Street, Stamford.

KOUBIK, JOSEPH, corporal; mother, Mrs. Magdelena Koubik, 725 South Quaker Lane, West Hartford.

Southwest Pacific Area

GILIOTTI, HARRY, sergeant; brother, Julius Giliotti, 151 East Eaton Street, Bridgeport.

GRABOWSKI, EDWARD W., private first class; mother, Mrs. Wilma Grabowski, 30 Chestnut Street, Chester.

Additional Casualties Announced by Navy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP).—The Navy announced today thirty-two casualties, including six dead, eleven wounded and fifteen missing. In addition, two men previously listed as missing, now are reported dead.

This brings to 29,230 the total of Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard casualties reported to next of kin since Dec. 7, 1941. The grand total includes 10,090 dead, 5,144 wounded, 9,835 missing and 4,161 prisoners of war.

The casualties announced today included (those listed are Navy and non-commissioned personnel unless otherwise specified):

NEW YORK

HALL, Robert L., marine, dead; mother, Mrs. Ruth M. Hall, 506 Comstock av., Syracuse.

CONNECTICUT

O'CONNOR, John Joseph, missing; wife, Mrs. Lillian Stevens O'Connor, 35 Highland av., Danbury.

DAY, VOORHIS H., first lieutenant; wife, Mrs. June Z. Day, 168 Rodney Avenue, Buffalo.

DAYTON, WARREN T., staff sergeant; father, Rennie T. Dayton, Center Moriches.

FERGUSON, WALTER H. JR., second lieutenant mother, Mrs. Dorothy B. Ferguson, 20 Lexington Avenue, Buffalo.

GOTCHER, HAROLD C., staff sergeant; mother, rs. Alida Gotcher, 104-04 Merrick Road, Jamaica, Queens.

HALL, JOSEPH J., staff sergeant; brother, 29 Highland Avenue Tuckahoe.

More Soldiers Listed As Missing in Action

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP).—The War Department announced today names of 199 United States soldiers missing in action, including these with next of kin in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut:

NEW YORK

European Area

BLONSTEIN, CHARLES, staff sergeant; mother, Mrs. Ida Blonstein, 532 Ralph Avenue, Brooklyn.

BRADNER, VINCENT J., staff sergeant; aunt, Mrs. George White, Orchard Terrace, Piermont.

1943

More Bodies Are Cut Free From Congressional Limited

At Least 125 Are Injured in Crash Near Philadelphia—Morgue and Hospitals Overflow—Rescue Work Goes On.

SEP 8 1943

Philadelphia, Sept. 7 (A. P.).—Twisted wreckage of the Pennsylvania Railroad's Congressional Limited gave up seven more bodies to rescue workers at noontime today, bringing to sixty-five the number known to have perished when the train piled up as it sped into a curve in northeast Philadelphia last night.

At least 123 among the Labor Day crowd of 541 passengers were injured as the sixteen-car, Washington to New York express developed a "hot box" and crashed with a roar. Many in overcrowded hospitals were reported near death.

The newly discovered bodies and remnants of bodies were taken to the city morgue, where crowds of sorrowing relatives, some hysterical, filed past long rows in an attempt to make identifications.

Take Out Dead Marine Officer.

The first body discovered as rescue workers broke into the No. 8 coach and raised it with a crane was that of a Marine lieutenant. Two other Marine lieutenants and a sailor immediately ordered workers away and took the body, and a Marine detail which had stood guard through the night, was ordered closer to the wreckage.

As the crane resumed lifting, the decapitated body of a woman tumbled from the raised coach. Two more bodies were found when rescue workers crawled under.

Workers immediately began dissecting the tangled metal of No. 7 coach and three more bodies were discovered.

Eight cars of the Washington to New York express wrenched loose and piled up last night in one of the nation's worst rail disasters.

Wheel Burns Loose From Axle.

The electric - powered train, which makes the 226-mile run in 210 minutes with Newark, N. J., the first stop, and carried 541 passengers—many of them service men—was heading into a curve at Frankford Junction, in northeast Philadelphia, when the accident happened at 6:02 P. M.

A waste-packed journal box ran hot, railroad officials said, on the front of the seventh car of the 16-car train, burning the wheel loose from the axle.

The coach, hurtled into a steel pole supporting overhead power lines, was cut in two vertically as though by a giant ax. The coach behind jammed accordion-like against it. Six other cars behind them were thrown from the rails, but all the dead and most of the injured were in the seventh and eighth coaches.

Passengers were buried under the debris from which many of the living were not released until hours later. Some were thrown through windows; galley workers n the diner were scalded. One woman lay in the wreckage for six hours, calmly telling rescuers: "Take your time; I can stand it."

Continued on Page 2.

Veteran Knocked Out.

Robert Calvert of Birmingham, Ala., a veteran of the fighting in North Africa, who was walking in the aisle of the third car, said something hit him in the stomach and—

"It seemed a million people were on top of me. I couldn't get my breath. I thought: 'This is it. I will die now.'"

Roy Howard, president of the New York World-Telegram, and his wife, and Lin Yutang, the Chinese author, were on the train but escaped injury.

"We were lucky to be in one of the cars that was not overturned," said Dr. Lin, who with his wife and three children escaped uninjured.

A series of light jerks rocked his car before it came to a stop, Dr. Lin said, but no one in the car was thrown from his seat.

After he had helped his family from the car, Dr. Lin said that he went up ahead and saw a scene of horror.

"Bodies were crushed beneath the wreckage," he related. "Others had been pulled out and laid beside the tracks. But no one paid any attention to the dead. They were trying to help the injured trapped inside. Children were screaming for their relatives," he related.

Dr. Lin said "the ambulances came soon and within an hour all the stretcher cases had been cared for."

He described as a slow jolt the final shock before his car came to a stop. He said he did not hear any loud noise. The cars in front were jammed in a zig-zag fashion, he added.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard were in the eleventh car from the locomotive.

"I knew it was a wreck and I pushed my wife to the floor, believing she would be safest there if the car turned over," Mr. Howard said. "I lay down on the floor too.

Phones in the Story.

"Fortunately, the car did not overturn and we were not hurt. I took my time, and as soon as I was able I left the train and telephoned the story of the wreck to New York."

Mr. Howard said he had seen Dr. Lin and his family board the train in Washington. After the wreck he found them unhurt.

Another newspaper executive aboard was Lee Tracy, promotion manager of the New York Mirror, who was on the tenth car.

"The car started to jerk and began bouncing down the rails," he said. "I saw many people fall from their seats into the aisles. Some were moaning, but did not seem to be hurt seriously."

Also among the passengers were Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, wife of the former Secretary of War, now a brigadier-general, and Mrs. Myron C. Taylor, wife of the former president of the United States Steel Corporation and President Roosevelt's personal Ambassador to the Vatican.

Traffic on the main line was still blocked early today, but freight and through passenger trains were rerouted around the city on a cutoff extending from Trenton, N. J., to Coatesville, Pa., thirty miles west of Philadelphia, and on other railroad lines.

Army guards with fixed bayonets and sub-machine guns headed a crowd away from the wreckage. Stretcher bearers had difficulty getting the dead and injured through the thousands who earlier had gathered at the scene, which is a crowded business and industrial section, three miles east of the North Philadelphia station.

All available ambulances went to the scene and hundreds of air raid wardens were mobilized to help the police, firemen, soldiers and sailors in rescue work. Hospitals pleaded for registered nurses and blood donors.

The last person to be taken alive from the wreckage, Mrs. Christina Nix, 28 years old, of Jackson Heights, N. Y., died in a hospital in mid-morning. A physician had amputated her leg to free her from the wreckage, in which she lay six hours with her head and torso outside a sheared coach and both legs held firmly inside.

It was she who had said, "Take your time. I can stand it."

"There are dead people in here all around me," she moaned to a physician who administered a drug to relieve the pain. A Marine who had occupied the seat with Mrs. Nix lay dead near by.

In the same car, rescue workers saw the bodies of a man and a woman, the man's arm protectively around the woman's shoulders.

"Please take care of me; my mother would want you to," pleaded a soldier to Mrs. Margaret Akers, a volunteer worker, before he died in her arms. His identification tag torn away by the wreck, the soldier's body was placed with the unidentified dead.

Bailey Beard, 54, the Congressional Limited's head waiter and a veteran of twenty-six years of service with the Pennsylvania on the Washington-New York run, was in the diner, which was midway of the train, when he was thrown to the floor by a severe jolt.

Some Thrown Through Windows.

There were about fifty people in the diners at the time, Beard said, about half of them women. A terrific crash whipped the diner sideways and threw half a dozen passengers through the windows.

"Coffee and hot water and dishes flew all over the galley," he related, and men working there were badly scalded.

When the car finally stopped, Beard was lying on the floor beneath three tables.

"There was panic everywhere," he said. "Women were screaming at the top of their lungs. The men in the galley were screaming from the pain of the scalding."

RAIL DEATHS MOUNT TO 81

Approximately 136 Injured In Wrecking Of Four Trains. Probes Begun

SEP 8 1943

[By the Associated Press]

New York, Sept. 7—The nation's railroad casualties stood at 81 dead and about 136 injured tonight as officials sought the causes of the wrecking of four trains, including the Congressional Limited, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the New York Central's Twentieth Century Limited.

Seventy-eight persons were killed and 123 injured when coaches of the Congressional piled up in one of the nation's worst train wrecks at Philadelphia on its run between Washington and New York last night.

Eleven hours after the Pennsylvania accident, the Twentieth Century, bound for New York from Chicago, hurtled off the tracks near Canasota, N. Y., and its boiler exploded. Three crewmen were killed, and seven passengers were injured.

Marylander Killed

A combination passenger and milk train on the Erie Railroad main line near Port Jervis, N. Y., was derailed and a fireman and engineer severely burned today. At Hempstead, N. Y., a Long Island Railroad train left its tracks last night. Four women were hurt.

Identification of dead in the Congressional wreck continued. Among the dead in this accident was Mrs. Rose Gruenstein, 47, of Bethesda, Maryland.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation began itsstudy of a burned-out axle journal, which railroad officials said caused a forward coach on the train to drop onto its wheels and touch off the smash-up.

Probes Begun

The FBI at Washington announced earlier there was no evidence of sabotage in the wreck.

Interstate Commerce Commission and FBI officials were conducting the investigation into the wreck of the eighteen-car Twentieth Century.

Philip C. Agan, superintendent of the New York Central's Syracuse division, said that "something let loose, I don't know just what happened. Maybe we can tell when we take the boiler apart. Whether it was due to low water or what, the investigation may show."

Hale Would Back Russia In Taking 3 Baltic States

Says the Red Army Has Done 'Beautiful Job' for Allies

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 7 (AP).—Belief that Russia "should have a good deal to say about her western boundaries," even though it means her acquisition of the small nations of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, was expressed today by United States Representative Robert Hale, Republican, of Maine.

Speaking before the Portland Lions Club, Representative Hale said that Russia's desires should be heeded because of the "beautiful job she has done for us" against the Germans. He excluded Poland from the small nations which he believed Russia might justifiably take over.

He said that Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania had been taken from Russia in 1919 and said the situation in Poland was "different," recalling that Stalin had expressed the desirability of a "strong Poland."

Willkie Believes Voters Put Foreign Policy First

In Maine, He Says Domestic Issues Are Secondary

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 7 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie is convinced that the voters of the United States are more interested in their nation's future foreign policy than in domestic issues.

In a press interview today, the Republican party head indicated a belief that the next Presidential campaign would be contested primarily on the question of the United States' post-war world relationships with domestic matters an important, but secondarry, factor.

eH added, however, that the two phases of national policy could not be wholly separated, expaining that if some proposal involved in future foreign policy should require an expenditure of billions of dollars, its costliness would make it a vital domestic issue.

On a tour of the New Engand states for informal conversations with party leaders, Mr. Willkie was the guest here of William S. Linnell, Republican National Committeeman.

He planned to be in Providence tomorrow.

Pending study of the text of the Mackinac post-war advisory council foreign policy charter, Mr. Willkie withheld indication of his reaction to it.

PRESIDENT COMMUTES SOLDIER'S SENTENCE

Orders Life Imprisonment for Prentiss, Who Killed Sentry

NAUGATUCK, Conn., Sept. 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt has commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of Pvt. Roy A. Prentiss of Winsted, who was convicted of the fatal shooting on April 4 of Corp. Lloyd W. Knapp, 23, of Norwalk, a sentry at Camp Hood, Tex.

Representative Joseph E. Talbot of Naugatuck was advised of the executive order by his office in 1943

30.24—8151

30.24—8151

Washington this afternoon.

Prentiss, who later shot himself through the head and thereby lost the sight of both eyes, was sentenced to death for the shooting by a court-martial last month.

Prentiss, under arrest at the time, was being transported in an army truck from his camp to a post stockade at Camp Hood. He disarmed a sentry, shot and killed him, and then threatened to kill the driver. While en route to the post stockade Prentiss shot himself.

Representative Talbot appeared recently before a military board of appeal in Washington in an effort to obtain executive clemency for the Winsted soldier.

Century Limited Engine Blows Up On Run

[By the Associated Press]

Canastota, N. Y., Sept. 7—The eastbound Twentieth Century Limited, New York Central extra-fare Chicago-New York train, was wrecked today when the locomotive's boiler exploded, killing the three crewmen in the cab.

At least seven others were injured when the flyer left the track at 4.34 A. M. two miles east of Canastota and twenty miles east of Syracuse.

173 Reported On Train

Joseph Endres, Syracuse district claim agent for the railroad, who said the boiler explosion caused the wreck, reported 173 passengers were on the train.

He identified the dead as:

GEORGE PIERCE, of Syracuse, engineer.

J. CHRISTIAN LARSEN, of Syracuse, fireman.

CLARENCE WRIKER, of Albany, traveling fireman.

An investigation was begun by representatives of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the FBI, while the superintendent of the Syracuse division of the Central suggested the possibility low water in the boiler may have caused the blast.

"Something let loose, I don't know just what happened," Philip C. Agan said. "Maybe we can tell when we take the boiler apart."

Traffic Partially Resumed

He reported traffic over two of the four tracks was resumed at 12.30 P. M., and a halt had been called to rerouting trains over the West Shore tracks.

Wriker's body was found in a field, about sixty feet from the four-track right of way. Parts of the engine were scattered over the field.

The locomotive, coal car, mail car and nine of the fifteen passenger cars were derailed. The first four cars plunged down an embankment. Others were strewn on the tracks, all of which were ripped up and twisted into weird shapes.

Most of the passengers, returning home after the Labor Day holiday, were asleep when the accident occurred.

The main line was blocked completely. Eastbound trains were rerouted at Syracuse.

Father Of Missing War Reporter Dies

Bluefield, W. Va., Sept. 7 (AP)—Charles Benjamin Hancock, 75, father of four sons in the army and of an Associated Press correspondent missing for more than a year, died today in a Bluefield hospital after a brief illness.

Hancock, a prominent Bluefield broker, civic leader and churchman, was admitted to the hospital several weeks ago for treatment.

One son, Witt Hancock, filed his last story for the Associated Press before the fall of Java in March, 1942, and has not been heard of since.

The elder Hancock was a native of Appomattox county, Virginia, and came to Bluefield in 1898.

Code Mixup Got Out Gold Braid

Burma Transport Operator Sent Message That Fooled Chennault as Well as Japs.

Miami, Fla., Sept. 7 (A. P.).—The be-medaled sergeant chuckled today as he hopped out of a plane at the 36th street airport and told how he caused Major-Gen. Claire L. Chennault and his staff and some Chinese generals to turn out at a Chinese air base to greet thirteen enlisted men and two lieutenants of the United States Army.

"It was the biggest boner in the Air Transport Command," ruefully admitted Sergt. Ralph J. Galanti Jr., an ATC Radio operator from Lackawana, N. Y., credited with more than 600 hours of combat flying "over the huump" from India to China. He wears the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal.

Galanti, flying his second run over the Himalaya Mountains as radio operator, wasn't sure of the code used to confuse the Japanese. so when the pilot instructed him to radio for reservations for two lieutenants and thirteen enlisted men aboard, Galanti did the best he could. "I worked in a couple of santa causes and some Betty Grables, but I wansn't sure," he said.

When the plane reached the base, Galanti opened the door and looked out upon "all the gold braid and brass in that section of China." By that time the enlisted men were piling out, and Galanti was last on the ground, to be met by an irate colonel who asked:

"Did you send the message that two generals and thirteen high-ranking officials were arriving on this plane?"

"The colonel marched me over to Gen. Chennault and the Chinese generals and told Chennault what I had done. The General was pretty interested.

"But I'll be damned if he didn't start laughing and saying it was the damndest thing he'd seen in China, and he said let me go."

Galanti didn't waste any time learning the code, though.

REPUBLICANS COMPROMISE ON POST-WAR AIMS

SEP 8 1943

Adopt Proposal Favoring Qualified American Co-operation.

ACCEPTABLE TO ALL FACTIONS

Declaration Provides That Where Clash of Interests Occurs U. S. Cling to 'Constitutionalism.'

Mackinac Island, Mich., Sept. 7 (A. P.).—The Republican Post-War Advisory Council today adopted a comprehensive compromise proposal favoring qualified American participation in a "co-operative organization among sovereign nations" to keep peace after the present war is won.

The foreign policy declaration, to be recommended to the platform makers in the next Republican national convention, was limited to the extent of providing that where American participation in any peace organization might clash with the "vital interests of the nation," this country shall adhere to its "constitutionalism."

The declaration was described as acceptable, however, to all factions, including prewar isolationists and interventionists. It was reported earlier by a six-man committee headed by Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, who has been holding out for reservations.

A further qualification provided that the council in examining means by which its peace aims may be fully achieved, give "due regard for all American interests and responsibilities."

Contents of Proposal.

Contending a detailed post-war foreign policy would be "impractical" at this time, the proposal calls for:

"1. Prosecution of the war by a United Nation to conclusive victory over all our enemies, including (a) disarmament and disorganization of the armed forces of the Axis; (b) disqualification of the Axis to construct facilities for the manufacture of the implements of war; (c) permanent maintenance of trained and well-equipped armed forces at home.

"2. Responsible participation by the United States in post-war co-operative organization among sovereign nations to prevent military aggression and to attain permanent peace with organized justice in a free world.

The proposal also advises that "peace and security ought to be ultimately established upon other sanctions than force" and recommends that "we work toward a policy which will comprehend other means than war for the determination of international controversies."

It said the nation will have a triple responsibility after the war:

"We must preserve and protest all our own national interests.

"We must aid in restoring order and decent living in a distressed world.

"We must do our full share in a program for permanent peace among nations."

Labor Not Fascist.

After approving the foreign policy declaration unanimously on a standing vote the council adopted a revised committee report on domestic policy indicting what he called New Deal "instruments of Fascism" and denouncing the "political effort to reducee labor in the United States to the European level of a class-conscious, vote-shackled proletariat."

"We reject the doctrine," the report said, "that the American workman's mind must be made up in Washington and his personal life turned oved to the management of Washington's political coddlers.

"The destiny of American labor is not Fascist. It must remain American."

Foreign Policy Report

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., Sept. 7 (AP).—Following is the text of the report on foreign policy adopted today by the Republican Post-War Advisory Council:

The members of this council are aware of the gravity of the problem our nation faces. We are fighting a desperate war, which must be won as speedily as possible. When the war is ended we must participate in the making of the peace. This puts upon the nation a triple responsibility.

a. We must preserve and protect all our own national interests.

b. We must aid in restoring order and decent living in a distressed world.

c. We must do our full share in a program for permanent peace among nations.

At this time a detailed program for the accomplishment of these great objectives wil be impossible and specific commitments of this council of the Republican party, or by the nation, would be unwise. We cannot know now what situation may obtain at the war's end. But a specific program must be devolved in the months to come, as events and relations unfold.

Therefore we consider it to be our duty at the beginning of our work as an advisory council of the Republican party to declare our approval of the following:

1. Prosecution of the war by a united nation to conclusive victory over all our enemies, including

(a) Disarmament and disorganization of the armed forces of the Axis;

(b) Disqualification of the Axis to construct facilities for the manufacture of the implements of war;

(c) Permanent maintenance of trained and well equipped armed forces at home.

2. Responsible participation by the United States in post-war co-operative organization among sovereign nations to prevent military aggression and to attain permanent peace with organized justice in a free world.

In making this recommendation we ground our judgment upon the belief that both the foreign policy and domestic policy of every country are related to each other so closely that each member of the United Nations (or whatever co-operative organization perpetuating existing unity, may be agreed upon) ought to consider both the immediate and remote consequences of every proposition with careful regard for,

(1) Its effect upon the vital interests of the nation,

(2) Its bearing upon the foreseeable international developments.

If there should be a conflict between the two, then the United States of America should adhere to the policy which will preserve its constitutionalism as expressed in the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution itself, and the Bill of Rights, as administered through our republican form of government. Constitutionalism should be adhered to in determining the substance of our policies and shall be followed in ways and means of making international commitments.

In addition to these things this council advises that peace and security ought to be ultimately established upon other sanctions than force. It recommends that we work toward a policy which will comprehend other means than war for the determination of international controversy; and the attainment of a peace that will prevail by virtue of its inherent reciprocal interests and its spiritual foundation, reached from time to time with the understanding of the peoples of the negotiating nations.

In all of these undertakings we favor the widest consultation of the gallant men and women in our armed forces who have a special right to speak with authority on behalf of the security and liberty for which they fight.

It is determined that this council make complete examination of the means by which these ends may be fully achieved with due regard for all American interests and responsibilities.

The council invites all Americans to adhere to the principles here set forth to the end that our place among the nations of the world and our part in helping to bring about international peace and justice shall not be the subject of domestic partisan controversy and political bitterness.

Republican Report on Domestic Problems

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., Sept. 7 (AP).—Following is the text of the report of the committee on domestic problems of the Republican Post-War Advisory Council:

Liberty at home.

Immediately at the end of the war we shall face the vital problem of reconstruction at home. A military victory abroad without preservation in America of the fundamental principles on which our way of life depends will be no victory. It will be a defeat. The way we meet the problem of reconstruction will determine whether the American way of life shall survive.

We will prepare an affirmative program designed to preserve to our people all the freedoms for which we fight throughout the world. Based on individual liberty, the independence of state and local government, and the independence of Congress and the courts.

That program must as promptly as possible return men to work and to industry with special attention to those who have made sacrifices by serving in the armed forces, take government out of competition with private industry and terminate rationing, price fixing and all other emergency powers. It must maintain full employment through private enterprise, and full production to furnish the goods and services so needed by our people. In so doing we must seek to make sure that the unemployment and insecurity of the years preceding the war do not return, and that hardship and poverty shall be prevented by a supplementary but comprehensive program of social security on sound principles.

Aid to Small Business

We must eliminate all unnecessary regulation of the individual and of business, restore and protect small business which has been so recklessly destroyed and assure incentive and equal opportunity for the youth of America.

The present program of the New Deal Administration, with the enlargement thereof set forth in the reports of the National Resources Planning Board would wreck the country because the only remedy it proposes for any problem is unlimited government spending of borrowed money. It would socialize all industry. It would extend existing regulation until no man or woman could act, write, or live without governmental approval. It would substitute for American liberty the regimented existence of a subject people.

Our reconstruction, to insure real happiness, cannot be based alone on the improvement of standards of living, but it must be based upon the character of the American people, their religious faith, industry, morality, educated intelligence, and ingrained love of justice. Only thus will we remain a nation of free men who are masters of our own souls.

The Republican party is devoted to the Federal system of government by which basic rights and duties are reserved to the states, free of dictation and subject to the control of their people. These rights and duties the New Deal has arrogated to itself.

It has now multiplied the number of Federal civilian employees five times. Three million of them, three times as many as during the last war, regulate the lives of our people. The number of bureaus has so multiplied that every detail of American life is now regulated by bureaucratic decree.

The Republican party insists upon equality of opportunity for all Americans, regardless of race, color or creed, in the economic, educational, political and military life of the nation.

The production of food is vital to our armed forces, to the life of the people of our Allies.

The Administration's policies on man power and farm machinery and inexpert price regulation have long hampered production. Its bungling regulations issued through multitudes of overlapping agencies have interfered with farmers, processors, wholesalers and retailers, until the normal channels of trade have been completely disrupted. Many small operators have been forced out of business.

Single Agency Is Urged

An immediate program of increased production and improved distribution must be adoped by a single agency clothed with full power over food in all of its aspects. Otherwise, we shall not only be without the means of relieving the starving people of Europe and Asia, but there will be the most serious shortage and hardships in the United States itself.

For the post-war period our agricultural program must seek to assure prices in the marketplace comparable to the prices of other commodities. Not only should no successful crops be eliminated, but the great field of new, improved and suitable crops must be explored and the greater industrial use of agricultural products should be vigorously encouraged. Our soil resources need to be conserved and sound reclamation projects should be developed.

The individual initiative of the American farmer must be unshackled and in all governmental action there should be a minimum control from Washington and a maximum freedom of operation by the American farmer.

This council affirms its belief in the strength, the character and the right of the American workman; his pride in himself; his aims to get for himself a bank account, an insurance policy, a home of his own with a self-reliant American family in it; his right to organize and bargain collectively through agents of his own free choice.

We denounce the political effort to reduce labor in the United States to the European level of a class-conscious, vote-shackled proletariat. We reject the doctrine that the American workman's mind must be made up in Washington and his personal life turned over to the management of Washington's political coddlers. The destiny of American labor is not Fascist. It must remain American.

The basic position of American labor in the economic system must be guaranteed by fair and equitable laws.

It is our solemn duty as a people to take those sound measures, as Abraham Lincoln once pointed out—to bind up the nation's wounds, to take care of him who has borne the battle, his widow and his orphans.

Pay and Jobs for Veterans

The supreme obligation of our country is to immediately pay our debt of honor to those who are fighting our crusade for peace and freedom. Our post-war program must and does include fullest provision for the rehabilitation and employment of the men and women of the armed forces.

Temporary help must of course be given but that is not enough. The returning veterans must and shall have the right to launch projects, till the soil, work in the arts and in business or profession, free to forge ahead. They are entitled to jobs; good honest jobs; jobs with which they can start and go forward; send their children through school; own their own homes; jobs which will feed and clothe them in comfort.

Veterans must not come home to be treated as wards of a state or nation, but must find their nation a land of greater opportunity under a free American system.

The deepest yearnings of our people is for victory and union of our family in peace. That is the very heart of our whole life. If we build a better America with the highest standards of living and deep spiritual values, we shall have met their challenge and shall have approached their devotion.

MISSING FLYER DEAD

Dyersburg, Tenn., Sept. 7 (A. P.).—The Dyersburg Army air base announced today that an airman missing in the crash of a bomber on Sunday near Dresden, Tenn., had been found dead. He was Staff Sergt. Milton Gresfeld, 19 years old, engineer, of 601 West 174th street, New York.

Six of his companions were killed and three others parachuted to safety.

The dead included Sergt. Clement J. Funai, 22, assistant radio operator, son of Mrs. Lillian Funai of 1762 East 37th street, Brooklyn.

Among the survivors was Second Lieut. Andrew G. Kohlhof, 27, bombardier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew O. Kohlhof of Floral Park, L. I.

Five were killed, while four are missing and seven survived when they parachuted after two fortresses, also from the Dyersburg base, were in collision in flight Saturday near Rolla, Md.

The dead included Second Lieut. James E. Gallagher, 26, pilot, son of James E. Gallagher of Jersey City, and Sergt. Angelo Catalfamo, 24, engineer, son of Mrs. Minnie Catalfamo of New Bunswick, N. J.

Wendover Field, Utah, Sept. 7 (A. P.).—A four-engined Liberator bomber crashed on the salt desert yesterday, killing the crew of eight.

The victims included Second Lieut. Roy Q. Davison of Bloomfield, N. J., and Sergt. Robert Cohen of 1844 Bryant street, New York.

Legion D.S.M. for Marshall

Admiral King Also to Get Medal at Omaha Convention Sept. 21-23

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 7 (AP).—The American Legion will award its Distinguished Service Medal to the Army's chief of staff and the commander in chief of the United States Fleet at the twenty-fifth national Legion convention in Omaha, on Sept. 21-23.

This was announced today by the Legion's national executive committee, which said both General George C. Marshall and Admiral Ernest J. King have accepted invitations to appear to receive medals from National Commander Roane Waring. Both will address the convention.

The presentation to General Marshall will take place on the opening day of the convention, and Admiral King will appear on the last day.

Guests Trapped As Blaze Cuts Off One Exit

[By the Associated Press]

Houston, Texas, Sept. 7—Forty-eight men, war workers, transients and old-age pensioners, died here today in a fast-spreading fire that ravaged the Gulf Hotel, an ancient brick-and-frame structure.

Others of the 133 men listed on the hotel's register last night were in critical condition. Thirty-two were taken to hospitals, but fifteen were soon released.

Police and fire officials said they believed all bodies had been removed from the ruins.

Fight Way Out

Eyewitnesses said many men jumped from the windows and a fire escape. Men fought and clawed to get through one unblocked exit.

The blaze, discovered shortly after midnight, quickly blocked off one of the two fire escapes to the three-story brick structure. An inside stairway likewise was made impassable for those caught on the two upper floors.

Flames poured from every opening and crevice in the building, one of the oldest in Houston. Firemen could not lay ladders against it.

Jammed At Escape

W. A. Wheeler, occupant of a second-floor room, said he ran to one fire escape and found it cut off.

"Then I and three other men went to the third floor trying for the (other) fire escape. We ran stumbling over bodies.

"At the fire escape men were jammed together fighting to start down. We begged them to let each man take his time and they did. Men started pouring down the escape. I saw one man run to the window and jump head first. He dropped straight down to the sidewalk. As we went down we saw men jumping off the fire escape at every level."

They said that only three of the forty-eight had so far been identified.

Their names were given as:

CLYDE SPRUELL, 45, iron worker.

J. S. HEBERT, shipyard worker.

CHARLES S. DIXON, occupation unknown.

133 Guests Registered

Bodies were taken to the city morgue for identification as rapidly as firemen pulled them from the smoldering structure, one of the oldest in Houston.

Police said that an undetermined number of guests made their way to the street by means of fire escapes. By the time firemen arrived the building was an inferno and it was impossible, police said, for ladders to be hoisted.

Near Midnight

The fire started shortly after midnight on the second floor of the three-story structure. The hotel occupied the upper two floors.

Police quoted W. L. Chappell, the night clerk, as saying that about 12.15 A. M. he heard someone on the second floor call "fire." Chappell said he found a mattress ablaze in one of the rooms, but that he extinguished the flames with a bucket full of water.

Flames In Luggage Room

Shortly afterward, Chappell declared, flames were discovered shooting out from a luggage room across the hall.

Police said the fire apparently ate quickly through the framework interior of the old brick building, trapping most of the persons on the second floor.

U.S. PLANES TAKING PART WERE FROM THE SQUADRONS COMMANDED BY MAJOR S.D. MCELROY AND MAJOR A.K. BRECKINRIDGE.

IN RETALIATION FOR THESE ASSAULTS THE GERMAN AIR FORCE STRUCK BACK AT BRITAIN LAST NIGHT IN COMPARATIVELY SMALL FORCE, SCATTERING BOMBS

JRD36AEN

30.24-8153

OVER THE THAMES ESTUARY AND TOUCHING OFF A BRIEF ALERT IN SOME DISTRICTS OF LONDON ABOUT 3:30 A.M. NO BOMBS FELL IN THE CAPITAL, HOWEVER.

SEP 8 1943

TWO OF THE ENEMY RAIDERS WERE REPORTED DESTROYED AND TWO OTHER NAZI PLANES WERE SHOT DOWN OVER THEIR BASES ON THE CONTINENT BY RAF FIGHTERS ON INTRUDER PATROLS.

THE STUTTGART ATTACK WAS THE FIRST ON THAT TARGET BY THE FLYING FORTRESSES. THE BIG SHIPS MADE THE 900-MILE ROUND TRIP IN EIGHT HOURS TO TURN THE SOUTHWEST GERMAN CITY---WHICH MANUFACTURES PLANE AND SUBMARINE ENGINES---INTO A BLACK AND SMOKING RUIN. #

LONDON -RUSSIAN (LONG) xxx "EXECUTION"

AP SOVIET AIRCRAFT RANGING AHEAD OF THE ADVANCING RED ARMY GROUND FORCES BOMBED GERMAN TROOP CONCENTRATIONS AT SEVERAL RAILWAY JUNCTIONS, INCLUDING GOMEL IN THE NORTH AND KRASNOARMEISKOYE, NORTH OF STALINO, SAID A MOSCOW RADIO ANNOUNCEMENT TODAY.

THE RAIL JUNCTION OF OVCHERIKINO BEHIND STALINO APPARENTLY WAS TAKEN BY RUSSIANS DRIVING ON FROM KONSTANTINOVKA, 20 MILES TO THE NORTHEAST, CAPTURE OF WHICH WAS ANNOUNCED YESTERDAY.

"THE GERMANS ARE OFFERING DESPERATE RESISTANCE AND ARE COUNTER-ATTACKING" IN THE ADVANCE FROM KONSTANTINOVKA, SAID TODAY'S COMMUNIQUE, RECORDED BY THE SOVIET MONITOR. "IN FIERCE BATTLES OUR TROOPS KILLED 2,000 HITLERITES, CAPTURED TROPHIES AND TOOK PRISONERS.

"ATTEMPTING TO STEM THE OFFENSIVE OF THE SOVIET TROOPS, THE GERMANS ARE THROWING LARGE FORCES OF TANKS INTO THE BATTLE."

THE RUSSIANS REPORTED DESTRUCTION OF 59 GERMAN TANKS HERE AND MANY SELF-PROPELLED GUNS, AND THE SHOOTING DOWN OF 42 NAZI PLANES.

TO THE NORTH IN THE SMASH ACROSS THE NORTHERN UKRAINE THE GERMANS WERE SAID TO BE SUFFERING EXTREMELY HEAVY LOSSES. "IN SOME CASES," SAID TODAY'S COMMUNIQUE, "ONLY 20 TO 30 MEN ARE LEFT IN COMPANIES, AND EVEN IN BATTALIONS."

IN CAPTURING NAVLYA, SOUTH OF BRYANSK, THE RED ARMY "BY A SUCCESSFUL MANEUVER PLANED THE GERMANS UNDER THREAT OF ENCIRCLEMENT," SAID THE DAILY BULLETIN, WITHOUT EXPLAINING FURTHER WHERE THESE FORCES WERE OR GIVING A HINT OF THEIR SIZE.

STILL FARTHER NORTH, IN THE AREA SOUTHWEST OF YELNYA, A BATTALION OF GERMANS WAS SURROUNDED AND THE RED ARMY IS "FIGHTING TO ANNIHILATE THEM," THE COMMUNIQUE SAID.

SB902PEW

LONDON, SEPT.7-(AP)-THE UNITED NATIONS RADIO AT ALGIERS REPORTED TODAY THAT ALLIED TROOPS MOVED NORTHWARD ALONG THE WEST COAST OF THE CALABRIAN PENINSULA IN ITALY, HAD CAPTURED THE TOWN OF PALMI.

PALMI IS ABOUT SIX MILES NORTH OF BAGNARA, THE MOST NORTHERLY POINT PREVIOUSLY REPORTED CAPTURED BY THE ALLIES. SEP 8 1943

DELIANUOVA, EIGHT MILES INLAND FROM BAGNARA, ALSO HAS BEEN TAKEN, THE ALGIERS RADIO SAID.

PROGRESS EVERYWHERE WAS REPORTED CONTINUING SATISFACTORILY DESPITE EXTENSIVE ENEMY DEMOLITIONS AND DIFFICULT COUNTRY, ADDED THE BROADCAST, WHICH WAS RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

RP632AE, SEP[illegible],-THE [illegible] TWO [illegible] LANGUAGE BROADCASTS TODAY TO EXPLAIN TO THE AXIS PEOPLES HOW ALLIED FORCES MANAGED TO GET A FOOTHOLD ON ITALY AND PICTURED NAPLES AS A RUINED CITY, APPARENTLY TRYING TO DISCOUNT IN ADVANCE THE POSSIBLE LOSS OF THE PORT.

ONE OF THE BROADCASTS, WHICH WERE RECORDED BY ASSOCIATED PRESS, SAID OF THE CALABRIAN LANDINGS:

"THE ARTILLERY FIRE PREPARATION OF THE ENEMY LANDING, COUPLED WITH THE ACTION OF HIS NAVAL GUNS AND THE FIERY UMBRELLA SPREAD BY HIS AIR FORCE, WAS SOMETHING THE WORLD HAS NEVER SEEN BEFORE. OUR SOLDIERS STUCK IT OUT IN THE FACE OF THIS HURRICANE OF FIRE AS LONG AS IT WAS HUMANLY POSSIBLE."

THE OTHER SAID THAT "AFTER MORE THAN 100 AIR RAIDS, NAPLES IS TODAY NOTHING MORE THAN A HEAP OF RUBBLE."

LONDON, SEPT, 7-(AP)-JOHN HIGH, AN EAST ANGLIA FARMER CHARGED WITH SELLING MILK DEFICIENT IN FATS, PLEADED IN COURT THAT NEARBY FIRING OF GUNS HAD DISTRUBED HIS HERD, THUS AFFECTING THE MILK.

AN EXPERT TESTIFIED THAT THAT COULD BE.

THE MAGISTRATE DISMISSED THE CASE. #

SEP 8 1943

LONDON,SEPT.7-(AP)-MAJ.JOHN C.DUFOUR, 35, FORMER EAGLE SQUADRON PILOT, IS THE OLDEST AMERICAN PILOT FLYING ACTIVELY IN THIS WAR THEATER WITH THE EIGHTH FIGHTER COMMAND, THE U.S.ARMY SAID TODAY.

HE ORIGINALLY CAME TO ENGLAND, AFTER SERVING AS AN AIRLINE PILOT IN CALIFORNIA, AS A PRIVATE IN THE SEAFORTH HIGHLANDERS, IN WHICH HE ENLISTED AFTER DUNKIRQUE.

MAJ.DUFOUR HAS FLOWN OVER NAZI EUROPE 115 TIMES.

HIS MOTHER, MRS.MARTHA DUFOUR, LIVES AT 1310 BAY ST., ALAMEDA, CALIF.

NW1024PEW

LONDON, SEPT 7-(AP)-THE VATICAN RADIO TODAY BROADCAST A LETTER, WHICH IT SAID WAS SIGNED BY A GROUP OF GERMAN CATHOLIC LEADERS ATTENDING THE BISHOPS' CONFERENCE AT FULDA LAST MONTH, SAYING THAT DEPARTURES FROM THE PRINCIPLES OF CHRISTIANITY END IN BITTER DISAPPOINTMENT.

SEP 8 1943

"ONLY IGNORANCE OR UNTRUTHFULNESS CAN DARE TO ASSERT THAT THE INTRODUCTION OF CHRISTIANITY WAS A MISFORTUNE FOR GERMANY," THE STATION QUOTED THE LETTER IN THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATION PRESS.

"ALL SPIRITUAL MOVEMENTS AND WORLDLY PHILOSOPHIES WHICH DEVIATED FROM THE CHRISTIAN FAITH HAVE PROVED TO BE FALSE DOCTRINES AND HAVE ENDED IN BITTER DISAPPOINTMENT."

AMONG THOSE SIGNING THE LETTER THE VATICAN RADIO SAID WERE ADOLF CARDINAL BERTRAM OF BRESLAU; MICHAEL CARDINAL FAULHABER OF MUNICH, AND THEODORE CARDINAL INNITZER OF VIENNA.

SB1105PEW

LONDON, SEPT 7-(AP)-THE U.S. EIGHTH AIR FORCE IS USING PARACHUTE BOMBS IN ATTACKS ON GERMAN AIR FIELDS, IT WAS DISCLOSED TODAY.

THE PURPOSE IS TWO-FOLD: TO ALLOW LOW-FLYING RAIDERS TIME TO ESCAPE AND TO LAND THE EXPLOSIVES SQUARELY, WITH GREATER EFFECT.

THE PARACHUTE BOMB IS A STEEL CYLINDER WITH TNT CORE WHICH BREAKS UPON LANDING INTO ABOUT 1,500 PIECES. THESE SCATTERED AT VELOCITIES UP TO 4,000 FEET A SECOND. AIRMEN SAID THAT AT 200 FEET THE FRAGMENTS WOULD PIERCE THE HULL OF A TANK. #

30.24-8157

LONDON, SEPT 7-(AP)-ALFRED DUFF COOPER, FORMER FIRST LORD OF THE ADMIRALTY, SAID TODAY IN A CHURCHILL CLUB ADDRESS, THAT THE WISE GERMANS KNEW THIS WAR WAS LOST AND NOW WERE THINKING OF HOW TO PREPARE FOR THE NEXT ONE.

SEP 8 1943

"THEY HAVE GOOD GROUNDS FOR OPTIMISM," HE ADDED. "YOU MAY THINK IT ABSURD. THEY SAY TO THEMSELVES:

"'WE HAVE DONE BETTER THIS TIME THAN WE DID BEFORE. WE WALKED OVER FRANCE AND HOLLAND. WE VERY NEARLY DEFEATED BRITAIN.

"'THE UNITED STATES WERE UNWILLING TO COME IN THE LAST TIME. THEY WERE MORE UNWILLING THIS TIME AND WILL STILL BE MORE UNWILLING THE NEXT TIME.'"

DUFF COOPER SAID HE SPOKE FROM "KNOWLEDGE IN MY POSSESSION."

WHAT WILL BE DONE WITH GERMANY AFTER THE WAR, HE SAID, HAS NOT YET REACHED THE BLUEPRINT STAGE.

SB1107PEW

LONDON, SEPT 7-(AP)-REFERRING TO PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL'S SUGGESTION TO PRESERVE THE ANGLO-AMERICAN STAFFS AFTER THE WAR, SIR RICHARD ACLAND, COMMONWEALTH PARTY LEADER, DECLARED TODAY THAT THE STAFFS EASILY COULD INCLUDE THE RUSSIANS AND CHINESE.

"ONE WONDERS IF THE RUSSIANS AND CHINESE HAD BEEN INVITED TO JOIN," HE ADDED.

ADDRESSING A PARTY MEETING, HE SAID "UNFORTUNATELY, TO MANY PEOPLE THE SUGGESTION OF A STAFF CONFINED TO ANGLO-AMERICAN OFFICERS ONLY MAKES US WONDER IF THERE IS GOING TO BE A WORLD WAR THREE."

SB1207AEW

30.24-8157

LONDON, SEPT 7-(AP)-A RUSSIAN COMMISSION FOR THE INVESTIGATION OF ALLEGED NAZI ATROCITIES CHARGED TODAY THAT THE GERMAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION HAD FORCED RUSSIAN PRISONERS OF WAR AT NEWLY-LIBERATED OREL TO LIVE "UNDER CONDITIONS SO HORRIBLE AS TO ALMOST DEFY DESCRIPTION."

IN A MOSCOW RADIO BROADCAST RECORDED BY THE SOVIET MONITOR, THE COMMISSION SAID THE DEATHS OF THOUSANDS OF RUSSIANS AT OREL MUST BE PLACED ON SEVERAL GERMAN COMMANDERS WHOSE PUNISHMENT WAS CALLED FOR.

THREE THOUSAND PERSONS PERISHED FROM STAVATION OR COMPLICATIONS CAUSED BY UNDERNOURISHMENT, THE BROADCAST SAID. NO LESS THAN 5,000 PRISONERS OF WAR AND NONCOMBATANTS WERE BURIED IN A CEMETERY NEAR THE TOWN PRISON, IT DECLARED, ADDING THAT THERE WERE DOZENS OF SUCH CEMETERIES IN THE OREL REGION.

SB1204AEW

SB1204AEW

LONDON, SEPT.7-(AP)-THE BERLIN RADIO REPORTED TODAY THAT RAF RAIDERSWHICH ATTACKED GERMANY LAST NIGHT HAD STRUCK AT MUNICH, BIRTHPLACE OF THE NAZI PARTY AND SEAT OF IMPORTANT WAR INDUSRIES.

PS437AEW

LONDON,SEPT.7-(AP)-A YOUNG AMERICAN SOLDIER ENTERED THE LOUNGE OF A HOTEL AT SHREWSBURY, MARCHED UP TO AN AMERICAN ARMY OFFICER AND SALUTED.

SEP 8 1943

"COL.L.B.SMITH?" HE INQUIRED.

"YES," REPLIED THE OFFICER.

"PRIVATE SMITH REPORTING, SIR," SAID THE PRIVATE. THEN HE GRINNED AND HELD OUT HIS HAND. "I'M YOUR SON, OTHELL. HOW ARE YOU, POP?"

"I'M FINE," DRAWLED COL.SMITH, LOOKING THE PRIVATE UP AND DOWN.

"YOU'VE ALTERED A BIT, SON."

IT WAS 15 YEARS SINCE THE TWO HAD MET.

PRIVATE SMITH, 22,3 '-88 £3 £-$?33, '3,5 59)8;3 285£ £8' £4-,3- MOTHER AT PALM SPRIN

SEP 8 1943

PRIVATE SMITH, 22, SAID HE HAD BEEN SENT TO LIVE WITH HIS GRANDMOTHER AT PALM SPRINGS, CALIF., WHEN HE WAS FOUR YEARS OLD BECAUSE HIS FATHER IN THE ARMY WAS ALWAYS TRAVELING.

"WHEN MY GRANDMOTHER DIED IN 1940 I DECIDED TO LOOK UP MY FATHER," YOUNG SMITH EXPLAINED. "SO I JOINED THE ARMY, AND I'VE JUST CAUGHT UP WITH HIM."

INVASION

BY WILLIAM SMITH WHITE

LONDON, SEPT. 7--(AP)--- THE GERMANS STROVE WITH NERVOUS PERSISTENCE TODAY TO BREAK THE IMPENETRABLE ENIGMA THAT STIRRED THE IMAGINATION OF THE WHOLE WESTERN WORLD--- THE QUESTION OF THE EXACT WHEREABOUTS AND DESIGNS OF HIDDEN ALLIED ARMIES OF THE MEDITERRANEAN THEATER.

THE MYSTERY REVOLVED PARTICULARLY AROUND THE AMERICAN SEVENTH ARMY OF LIEUT. GEN. GEORGE S. PATTON, JR., WHICH HAD TAKEN A LONG BREATH AND A REST SINCE ITS SICILIAN VICTORY, AND THE AMERICAN FIFTH ARMY OF LIEUT. GEN. MARK W. CLARK, LONG TRAINED IN THE MEDITERRANEAN THEATER AND HUNGRY FOR ACTION.

WHATEVER THE PLANS OF GEN. DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, THE ALLIED COMMANDER IN THE MEDITERRANEAN, HE ALREADY HAD PUT THE ENEMY IN GREAT STRATEGIC DISTRESS; IT WAS PERHAPS THE MOST SUPERB EXAMPLE OF THE ART OF THE NERVES YET SEEN IN ANY THEATER.

SEP 8 1943

BERLIN'S WHEEL OF ANXIOUS SPECULATION HAD TAKEN ALMOST A FULL TURN IN THE FIRST FOUR DAYS ELAPSING SINCE THE BRITISH AND CANADIAN TROOPS OF THE EIGHTH ARMY LANDED ON THE ITALIAN TOE.

YESTERDAY THE NAZIS APPEARED TO FAVOR SOUTHERN FRANCE AS A LIKELY AVENUE AMONG ALL THE GREAT ROUTES OPEN TO THE ALLIED COMMAND FOR THE NEXT SPRING AGAINST THE CONTINENT, BUT TODAY THEY SPOKE IN THEIR BROADCASTS OF THE "JUSTIFIED" ASSUMPTION OF AN ALLIED LANDING FARTHER UP THE COAST OF ITALY.

SUCH A LANDING WOULD BE MADE AT THE REAR OF AXIS REAR GUARD FALLING BACK PAINFULLY BEFORE GEN. MONTGOMERY'S TIRELESS LUNGES IN CALABRIA.

30.20-8159

SELDOM IN MARTIAL HISTORY HAD SUCH AN IMMENSE AND FATEFUL RIDDLE BEEN POSED FOR A COMMAND ON THE DEFENSIVE. PARTS OR ALL OF SEVEN ALLIED ARMIES CAST THEIR MENACING SHADOWS, THE NAZIS KNEW NOT WHERE. THESE WERE UNITS OF THE BRITISH EIGHTH, NINTH, TENTH AND THE AND FIRST AMERICAN FIFTH AND SEVENTH ARMIES, AND THE NEWLY-EQUIPPED FRENCH FORCES OF GENERALS GIRAUD AND DE GAULLE.

SEP 8 1943

THE ARENA OF POSSIBLE INVASION WAS AS TREMENDOUS AS THE ISSUE YET HANGING--- FROM CYPRUS AGAINST GREECE ON THE EAST, FOR EXAMPLE, TO THE VALLEY OF THE RHONE ON THE WEST. IN BETWEEN THERE WAS THE ANCIENT ROAD OF BATTLE FORMED BY THE VALLEY OF THE VARDAR IN THE BALKANS.

THE PRESENT ITALIAN CAMPAIGN WAS ALMOST WHOLLY OVE SHADOW IN THE WORLDWIDE GUESSING GAME, BUT THE INTERNAL POSITION OF ITALY APPEARED TO PRESENT A FAR LESS MYSTERIOUS FACE.

THERE WAS A STRONG AND WIDESPREAD FEELING HERE THAT DESP THE ABSENCE OF ANY SPECIFIC NEW EVIDENCE, ITALY WOULD BE OUT OF THE WAR VERY SOON. IN THAT CONNECTION THE ITALIAN NEWS AGENCY STEFANI REPORTE

30.24-8159

THAT THE PAPAL SECRETARY OF STAT CARDINAL MAGLIONE SAW POPE PIUS IN AUDIENCE TODAY FOLLOWING A LONG MEETING YESTERDAY OF ALL THE CARDINALS IN VATICAN CITY.

IN THAT FIRST MEETING CARDINAL MAGLIONE, SAID STEFANI, WAS BELIEVED TO HAVE GIVEN THE CARDINALS INFORMATION "ABOUT THE ACTIVITIES OF THE POPE CONCERNING. ITALY."

SEP 8 1943

WHITES FOURTH 1637...LAP..HTH..1241P

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

A UNITED STATES BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, SEPT 7-(AP)-HITLER APPARENTLY THREW EVERYTHING HE HAD IN THE WAY OF FIGHTERS INTO THE AIR TO TRY TO BEAT THE FLYING FORTRESSES AWAY FROM STUTTGART YESTERDAY BUT THE PRECISION-BOMBING AMERICANS SHOT A PATH RIGHT THROUGH THEM TO HIT THE TARGET AND LEAVE THAT GREAT CENTER OF NAZI INDUSTRY IN FLAMES.

THE RETURNING FLIERS SAID THEY ENCOUNTERED A CONGLOMERATION OF VIRTUALLY EVERY KNOWN MAKE OF GERMAN FIGHTER OVER THE TARGET WHERE THE TRAFFIC WAS SO HEAVY THE BOMBERS HAD TO QUEUE UP TO TAKE TURNS ON THE BOMBING RUN.

INCOMPLETE REPORTS SHOWED THAT AT LEAST 70 ENEMY FIGHTERS WERE SHOT DOWN BY THE FORTRESSES.

THIS NUMBER, ADDED TO 12 DESTROYED BY U.S. AND RAF FIGHTERS ESCORTING AMERICAN MARAUDERS ON MISSIONS ACROSS FRANCE, BROUGHT THE DAY'S SCORE TO 82 NAZI CRAFT DOWNED.

THE MARAUDERS STRUCK THEIR HEAVIEST BLOW TO DATE BY DROPPING NEARLY 300 TONS OF BOMBS ON THE MARSHALLING YARDS AT AMIENS, SERQUEUX, AND ROUEN. IT WAS THE MEDIUM BOMBERS' EIGHTH SUCH TARGET IN FOUR DAYS.

FROM ALL OF THESE OPERATIONS 35 AMERICAN AIRCRAFT ARE MISSING.

CAPT.ROY EVANS OF SAN BERNARDINO, CALIF., PILOTING A THUNDERBOLT COVERING THE WITHDRAWAL OF THE FORTRESSES FROM STUTTGART, WAS CREDITED WITH SHOOTING DOWN HIS FOURTH GERMAN FIGHTER.

BRIG.GEN.R.F.TRAVIS OF SAVANNAH, GA., COMMANDED ONE LARGE FORCE OF FLYING FORTRESSES AS COPILOT OF "SATAN'S WORKSHOP," WHOSE PILOT IS MAJ.LOUIS E.LYLE OF PINE BLUFF, ARK., VETERAN OF 30 RAIDS OVER EUROPE.

"THE FORMATION WAS EXCELLENT AND THE GUNNERY EXTREMELY EFFECTIVE," SAID TRAVIS. "THE FLAK WAS VERY HEAVY OVER THE TARGET AND WE HAD INNUMERABLE FIGHTER ATTACKS ALONG MOST OF THE ROUTE. I SAW THRE E ENY FIGHTERS GO DOWN JUST IN FRONT OF MY SHIP."

MAJ.DAVID E.KUNKEL JR., OF MUSKEGON, MICH., LEADER OF ANOTHER GROUP, SAID IT WAS QUITE A SIGHT TO SEE SO MANY FORTRESSES SWARMING OVER A TARGET. "WE HAD TO GET IN LINE TO TAKE OUR TURNS."

SGT.PAUL SEARS, 21, TAIL GUNNER, OF SOMERSET, KY., SHOT DOWN HIS FIRST PLANE, A ME-109, AND WAS SO THRILLED HE WAS HARDLY ABLE TO TELL ABOUT IT.

SEP 8 1943

"IT CAME UP BEHIND US AND I CAUGHT HIM WHEN HE SEEMED TO STALL. I GAVE HIM THREE BURSTS. HE JUST SMOKED AND WENT DOWN SPINNING," HE SAID.

SGT.ROBERT BORT, TAIL GUNNER, OF CORBIN, KY., COMMENTED, "IT WAS ROUGH BUT SURELY WORTH WHAT WE ARE FIGHTING FOR. I AM READY TO GO BACK TOMORROW."

SECOND LIEUT.LEONARD A.WERNMAN, 25, OF WINTERS, CALIF., CO-PILOT OF "RHAPSODY ON FLAK" ADDED: "WE HAD A GOOD FIGHTER ESCORT GOING IN BUT AFTER WE GOT NEAR THE TARGET THE ENEMY FIGHTERS WERE AS ROUGH AS HELL."

THE RETURNING CREWMEN WERE ENTHUSIASTIC OVER THE BOMBING RESULTS ON AMIENS, IMPORTANT CONTROL DISTRIBUTING POINT FOR TRAFFIC BETWEEN REIMS IN EASTERN FRANCE AND THE CHANNEL PORTS.

THEY ALSO REPORTED GOOD RESULTS ON HERBOUVIL, WHERE 13 SIDINGS HANDLE A GOOD CHUNK OF THE RAIL TRAFFIC BETWEEN DIEPPE, LE HAVRE AND NORTH-WEST FRANCE.

SEP 8 1943

COL.SAMUEL ANDERSON OF GREENSBORO, N.C., COMMANDING OFFICER OF A MEDIUM BOMBARDMENT WING, RODE AS AN OBSERVER IN A SHIP PILOTED BY 1ST LIEUT.JOHN H.SPATTS OF WAYNE, PA., IN A FORMATION WHICH WENT TO AMIENS.

"THE FIRST BOMBS HIT RIGHT WHERE THEY WERE SUPPOSED TO HIT," ANDERSON SAID. "IF THE OTHERS WERE AS GOOD WE DID A FINE JOB."

SIX SPIRALS OF SMOKE AND FLAME WERE SEEN OVER THE AMIENS YARDS AS THE BOMBERS SWARMED AWAY ON THEIR HOMEWARD JOURNEY.

"FIRES BLAZED EVERYWHERE," SAID A.U.BRAGG BEEMERDEN, WAIST GUNNER OF THE "HONEST INJUN." "IT LOOKED LIKE A NEW ORLEANS MARDI GRAS".

"I SAW STRINGS OF BOMBS LAND RIGHT ON THE TRACKS AND TWO BIG FIRS STARTED," ADDED LIEUT.ALBERT J.RIEBE, OF DENVER, COLO., NAVIGATOR-BOMBARDIER ON THE "LORRAIN II," PILOTED BY 1ST LIEUT.STANLEY S. ROTTNICZ OF CLIFFSIDE PARK, N.J.

"THE PLANES IN THE FORMATION AHEAD OF US DIDN'T LEAVE A WHOLE LOT OF TERRITIRY," REMARKED MAJ.CHARLES R.KELLER OF CAMARILLO, CALIF., PILOT OF THE MARAUDER "KELLER'S KILLER," BUT IF THEY DID LEAVE ANYTHING WE GOT IT."

BZ692AEW

30.24-8161

ADD STOCKHOLM (SHANKE) XXX "EXPERIENCED"

STORIES OF TRAVELERS FROM GERMANY WHO SAW THE CONDITION OF BERLIN ADDED CREDENCE TO THE MOUNTING REPORTS OF DESTRUCTION.

"WHEN THOSE BIG RAF BOMBS HIT A BUILDING," SAID ONE, "THERE WAS ABSOLUTELY NOTHING LEFT. AND THOSE (PEOPLE) IN BASEMENT SHELTERS, REINFORCED THROUGH THEY ARE, NEVER GET OUT. THEY ARE HOPELESSLY TRAPPED. SIX DAYS AFTER ONE RAID, I WATCHED RESCUE SQUADS WORKING IN THE RUINS OF HOUSES REMOVING THE DEAD."

SAID ANOTHER:

SEP 8 1943

"I SAW PEOPLE RUNNING DOWN THE STREETS ABSOLUTELY MAD, THEIR CLOTHES BLAZING LIKE A TORCH. THEY HAVE FOUND LEATHER CLOTHING GIVES THEM THE BEST PROTECTION AGAINST FIRE, BUT UNLESS THEY HAPPEN TO HAVE LEATHER JACKETS OR COATS, OBTAINING SUCH CLOTHES NOW IS OUT OF THE QUESTION."

HE TOLD OF STREET AFTER STREET BEING LINED WITH FURNITURE PLUCKED FROM THE SMOULDERING RUINS OF GERMAN HOMES.

STILL ANOTHER EYE-WITNESS RELATED:

"FAMILIES HUDDLED NEXT TO PILES OF TREASURED BELONGINGS THEY HAD REMOVED FROM WRECKED HOMES. THEY JUST SAT OR STOOD THERE--DAZED. THEY DIDN'T KNOW WHAT TO DO OR WHERE TO GO.

"ONE OF THE STRANGEST EFFECTS OF THE BOMBINGS OCCURRED AT STREET CROSSINGS. THERE, THE FORCE OF EXPLOSIONS COULD RUSH IN WITH EQUAL PRESSURE IN ALL DIRECTIONS. BOMBS LANDING IN THESE OPEN CROSSINGS TORE AWAY BUILDINGS ON ALL SIDES--SIMPLY ROLLED BACK STRUCTURES AT EACH OF THE FOUR CORNERS. THIS WAS ESPECIALLY TRUE AT CHARLOTTENBURG

30.24-8161

THE NEWSPAPER HAMBURGER FREMDENBLATT OF HAMBURG, WHICH WAS LAST RAIDED AUG.2, SAID YESTERDAY THAT THAT CITY'S WATER SUPPLY WAS PARTIALLY RESTORED--BUT ADDED THAT ONLY FIRST AND SECOND STORIES OF DWELLINGS WERE RECEIVING WATER.

B1013PEW

STOCKHOLM, SEPT. 7-(AP)-HUNGARIAN PARTISAN GUERILLAS ARE HARASSING TRAINS CARRYING GERMAN EAST TROOPS AND SUPPLIES ON THE IMPORTANT BERLIN-SOFIA RAILWAY LINE, A BUDAPEST DISPATCH TO THE STOCKHOLM NEWSPAPER, DAGENS NYHETER, SAID TODAY.

SABOTEURS DAMAGED TRAINS FIVE TIMES IN THE PAST WEEK, THE DISPATCH ADDED.

SEP 8 1943

LN/COLBURNS 1005/825

STOCKHOLM, SEPT. 7-(AP)-A BUDAPEST DISPATCH TO THE STOCKHOLM NEWSPAPER, DAGENS NYHETER, SAID TODAY THAT THE BALKANS WOULD HAVE THE WORST HARVEST IN TEN YEARS AS A RESULT OF A DROUGHT DURING THE PAST TWO MONTHS.

IN HUNGARY, 30 PER CENT OF THE HORSES WERE REPORTED SLAUGHTERED BECAUSE OF A LACK OF FODDER.

BERN, SEPT 7-(AP)-A BUDAPEST DISPATCH TO THE BERN NEWSPAPER, DER BUND, SAID TODAY THAT GOVERNMENT MINISTRIES IN BRATISLAVA, CAPITAL OF SLOVAKIA, AND ALL UNESSENTIAL PERSONS WERE BEING TRANSFERRED TO THE COUNTRY THROUGH FEAR THAT ALLIED AIR RAIDS WERE IMMINENT.

SB1208AEW

MADRID, SEPT 7-(AP)-A SPANISH NEWS AGENCY DISPATCH FROM ALGECIRAS SAID TONIGHT THE SPANISH FREIGHTER ANTEQUERA HAD RESCUED THE ENTIRE CREW OF A BRITISH DESTROYER WHICH BURNED AND SANK IN THE MEDITERRANEAN, 25 MILES OFF GIBRALTAR.

THE NEWS AGENCY SAID THE MISHAP OCCURRED THIS AFTERNOON FROM AN UNDETERMINED CAUSE. THE CREW OF 125 WAS REPORTED LANDED AT ALGECIRAS, WHICH LIES NEAR THE BRITISH FORTRESS.

SEP 9 1943

SB1206AEW

ADD ALLIED H-Q N-AFRICA (NORGAARD) XXX TARGETS

AT CAPUA A VERY LARGE FIRE ROARED THROUGH THE HANGARS AND MANY SMALL FIRES, APPARENTLY FROM BURNING AIRCRAFT, WERE SEEN ON THE GROUND.

THE MARAUDERS HAD A SIMILAR SUCCESS AT GRAZZANISE, SCORING HITS ON DANGARS, DESTROYING GROUNDED PLANES, PITTING RUNWAYS AND HITTING ROAD INTERSECTIONS. ONE OF THREE ENEMY FIGHTERS DESTROYED WAS A ME-109, CREDITED TO STAFF SGT. FLOYD DUNN, 472 NORTH MULBERRY ST., MARTINSVILLE IND.

A KITTYHAWK BOMBER FORCE WITH A SPITFIRE ESCORT SPOTTED A TRAIN WITH STEAM UP AT NICOTERA, ON THE GULF OF GIOIA. BOMBS RIPPED UP TRACKS, DAMAGED THE TRAIN AND HIT WAREHOUSES AROUND THE STATION.

JR918AEW

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, SEPT. 7-(AP)-ALLIED AIRMEN, SUPPORTING GROUND FORCES MOVING UP THE CALABRIAN PENINSULA, STRUCK HEAVILY YESTERDAY AT NAPLES, VITAL COG IN RAILWAY COMMUNICATIONS BETWEEN NORTHERN AND SOUTHERN ITALY, IT WAS ANNOUNCED TODAY.

RP609AEW

(EDITOR'S NOTE: THE FOLLOWING DISPATCH WAS WRITTEN BY CAPT.ROY JOHNSON OF OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA., WHO PILOTED A FLYING FORTRESS IN ONE OF THE SQUADRONS THAT BOMBED BOLZANO, ITALY, JUST SOUTH OF THE BRENNER PASS, LAST WEEK. IT WAS HIS 49TH MISSION. AN ALLIED HEADQUARTERS COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCED SEPT.3 THAT UNESCORTED HEAVY BOMBERS HAD RAIDED BOLZANO, TRENTO AND BOLOGNA IN STRENGTH.

("AT BOLZANO, THE RAILWAY BRIDGE CARRYING THE LINE FROM THE BRENNER PASS WAS HIT AND BROKEN," THE COMMUNIQUE SAID. "HITS WERE ALSO MADE ON YARDS AND THE ADJACENT TRACK.")

BY CAPT.ROY JOHNSON

WRITTEN FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SEP 8 1943

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, SEPT.7--DURING THE BRIEFING MY MAIN THOUGHTS WERE OF THE IMPORTANCE OF THE SPECIAL TARGET OUR SQUADRON HAD BEEN ASSIGNED TO BOMB.

THIS AS NO ORDINARY MILK MAN MISSION. WE WERE GOING TO NEW TERRITORY AND NEW FIELDS. I TRIED TO PICTURE IN MY MIND WHAT THE TARGET WOULD LOOK LIKE BY STUDYING THE MAPS ON THE WALL OF THE BRIEFING TENT.

(THIS DISPATCH DID NOT STATE THE NATURE OF THE "SPECIAL TARGET." IT MAY HAVE BEEN THE RAILWAY BRIDGE.)

THE MISSION WAS TO CLIMAX MY TOUR OF COMBAT DUTY.

I WAS A LITTLE CONCERNED WITH THE GAS CONSUMPTION AND CHECKED THE SUPPLY OF GAS A DOZEN TIMES, BUT EACH TIME THE FIGURES SHOWED I HAD MORE THAN ENOUGH. THEN WE WERE OFF.

WE STARTED CLIMBING AFTER A WHILE. SUDDENLY I SAW THE SMOKE

30.24-8163

SCREEN IN THE HARBOR OF LEGHORN. I HADN'T REALIZED WE WERE SO CLOSE TO THE MAINLAND. ABOUT FIVE MINUTES PAST LEGHORN I HEARD THE GUNNERS REPORTING ENEMY FIGHTERS IN THE VICINITY, AND I WISHED WE HAD MORE ALTITUDE.

SEP 8 1943

I SIGNALLED THE OTHER PLANES IN THE SQUADRON TO CLOSE UP TIGHT, AND I PULLED THE SQUADRON IN AS CLOSE TO THE GROUP FORMATION AS POSSIBLE.

WE WERE AT THE TAIL END OF THE SQUADRON SO WE WERE THE MOST VULNERABLE TO ATTACK. WE GOT QUITE A NUMBER OF FIGHTER ATTACKS, BUT OUR FORMATION WAS SO COMPACT THEY DID NOT COME VERY CLOSE.

IN BETWEEN LONG MACHINE-GUN BURSTS SERGEANT CROWAN (FIRST NAME AND ADDRESS MISSING),
IN THE UPPER TURRET, KEPT REMARKING WHAT A GOOD SHOW IT WAS. THE MORALE OF THE GUNNERS MUST HAVE GONE UP SIX POINTS. THIS WAS THE MOST SHOOTING THEY HAD HAD FOR SOME TIME.

WE ALMOST REACHED OUR BOMBING ALTITUDE WHEN THE FIGHTERS WERE DRIVEN OFF, AND I HAD TIME TO LOOK AT THE SCENERY. THE MOUNTAINS WERE PEAKED WITH SNOW, AND THE VALLEYS WERE DEEP AND GREEN. I REMEMBERED THE MOVIES I HAD SEEN OF THE ALPS, BUT THIS WAS FAR MORE BEAUTIFUL.

THE MONOTONOUS ROAR OF THE ENGINES FADED INTO THE BACKGROUND AS I IMAGINED MYSELF DOWN IN ONE OF THOSE GREEN VALLEYS LOOKING UP AT THE MOUNTAIN PEAKS. WE PASSED OVER A LARGE, BLUE LAKE, AND I THOUGHT OF THE GOOD FISHING THAT WOULD BE IN THERE AND IN THE COUNTLESS LITTLE STREAMS NEAR IT ON ONE OF THE MOUNTAINS. I SAW WHAT LOOKED LIKE A RESORT OF SOME KIND AND EXPECTED TO HEAR A COUPLE OF BARS OF THE SKATING WALTZ AT ANY MOMENT.

FOUR BIG BLACK PUFFS MARRED THE SCENERY FOR A MOMENT, AND IT WAS TIME TO GO TO WORK AGAIN. A BATTERY OF FLAK GUNS WENT INTO ACTION BELOW US, SO I TOOK THE NECESSARY EVASIVE ACTION. THE SHELLS WERE BURSTING TOO FAR BELOW US FOR US TO BE VERY CONCERNED ABOUT THEM. WE WERE PROBABLY THE FIRST AIRPLANES THEY HAD EVER HAD A CHANCE TO SHOOT AT, SO THEIR MARKSMANSHIP WAS POOR.

WE WERE GETTING CLOSE TO THE TARGET, BUT I COULDN'T SEE IT FROM THE COCKPIT. THE BOMBARDIER, SECOND LT.JACK E.ROBINSON OF COLUMBIA, MO., GAVE ME A FEW DIRECTIONS. THEN WE TURNED ON THE BOMBING RUN.

THIS HAD TO BE GOOD. MY HEART BEAT A LITTLE FASTER. A GLANCE TO THE REAR ASSURED ME THAT THE OTHER PLANES WERE IN CLOSE FORMATION. THE AIR-SPEED DROPPED A LITTLE. I GAVE MORE THROTTLE. OUT OF THE CORNER OF MY EYE I COULD SEE FLAK BURSTS ALL OVER THE SKY. FEW OF THEM WERE CLOSE TO US.

THE BOMB RUN SEEMED EXCEPTIONALLY LONG. I MADE MORE CORRECTIONS WITH THE RUDDER AND AN ALTITUDE CORRECTION, AND I COULD FEEL THE SWEAT BREAKING OUT ON MY HANDS AND MY LEGS BEGAN TO ACHE FROM KICKING THE RUDDER AROUND. THEN CAME THE MOST WELCOME WORDS I'VE EVER HEARD--"BOMBS AWAY."

MY WHOLE BODY SEEMED TO RELAX.

SEP 8 1943

THERE FOLLOWED A FEW MORE SECONDS OF FLYING STRAIGHT AND LEVEL UNTIL THE PLANES BEHIND HAD RELEASED THEIR LOADS. THEN WITH A STEEP GLIDING TURN AWAY FROM THE TARGETS THE TRIP WAS OVER. I WAS LEFT WITH THE THOUGHTS OF ANY IMPORTANT JOB WELL DONE AND A STRANGE DESIRE TO VISIT NORTHERN ITALY AGAIN.

NWS43PEW

BY EDWARD KENNEDY

ALGIERS, SEPT.7-(AP)-SINCE LAST SPRING THE GERMANS HAVE MOVED MANY OF THEIR BEST TROOPS OUT OF FRANCE TO ITALY AND THE RUSSIAN FRONT, FRANCOIS DEMENTHON, NEW COMMISSIONER OF JUSTICE OF THE FRENCH COMMITTEE OF NATIONAL LIBERATION, SAID TODAY.

DEMENTHON, WHO STARTED THE RESISTANCE MOVEMENT, "LIBERTE," IN THE SOUTH OF FRANCE AND LATER BECAME A MEMBER OF THE COUNCIL OF RESISTANCE FORMED LAST SPRING WITH THE MERGER OF ALL UNDERGROUND ORGANIZATIONS, ESCAPED FROM FRANCE A MONTH AGO.

"THE GERMAN ARMY WE HAVE IN FRANCE TODAY IS NOT THE SAME GERMAN ARMY WE KNEW IN 1940," DEMENTHON SAID. "IT HAS MANY VERY YOUNG SOLDIERS, MANY SOLDIERS WEARIED BY THE RUSSIAN CAMPAIGNS, AND IT HAS BEEN REDUCED."

SEP 8 1943

HE SAID THE GERMANS HAD, HOWEVER, BUILT EXTENSIVE FORTIFICATIONS ALONG THE CHANNEL AND ATLANTIC COAST. THE TODT LABOR ORGANIZATION, WHICH BUILT THE SIEGFRIED LINE, CONSTRUCTED THEM, AND THEIR EFFICACY IS A SUBJECT OF CONSIDERABLE SPECULATION AMONG THE FRENCH.

ADD ALGIERS (KENNEDY) XXX "FRENCH"

THE COUNCIL OF RESISTANCE HAS 16 MEMBERS, HE SAID, EIGHT REPRESENTING REGIONAL UNDERGROUND MOVEMENTS WHICH HAVE MERGED. ONE REPRESENTS THE GENERAL LABOR FEDERATION AND ONE THE CATHOLIC LABOR FEDERATION, AND ONE EACH REPRESENTS THE FOLLOWING POLITICAL GROUPS: THE SOCIALIST COMMITTEE OF ACTION, A RECONSTITUTED RADICAL SOCIALIST PARTY, THE POPULAR DEMOCRATIC PARTY, THE DEMOCRATIC ALLIANCE, THE REPUBLICAN FEDERATION AND THE COMMUNIST PARTY.

"ITS AUTHORITY IS RECOGNIZED BY ALL THE FRENCH UNDERGROUND," HE SAID.

AS TO THE EXTENT OF THE FRENCH RESISTANCE MOVEMENT, DEMENTHON SAID THERE ARE 150,000 "MILITANTS" FULLY ORGANIZED.

"I WOULD SAY 60 TO 70 PER CENT OF THE FRENCHMEN ARE DE GAULLISTS, 20 PER CENT FOLLOW COMMUNIST DIRECTIVES, AND 10 TO 15 PER CENT TOO COMPROMISED WITH VICHY OR GERMANY TO CHANGE THEIR POSITION NOW."

HE SAID FOOD CONDITIONS IN FRANCE HAD NOT CHANGED MUCH IN THE PAST YEAR, WITH WORKERS OF THE BIG CITIES HAVING THE HARDEST TIME. OFFICIAL RATIONING ALLOWS ONLY ENOUGH MEAT FOR ONE MEAT MEAL WEEKLY AND ONLY 10 GRAMS OF FATS DAILY. #

SEP 8 1943

BY LYNN HEINZERLING

CAIRO, SEPT. 7-(AP)-THREE PLANES OF THE U.S. NINTH AIR FORCE WHICH HAVE SCOURGED AXIS INSTALLATIONS FROM ONE END OF THE MEDITERRANEAN TO THE OTHER, BETWEEN THEM DROPPING 469 TONS OF BOMBS FROM EL ALAMEIN TO PLOESTI AND SHOOTING DOWN 31 ENEMY PLANES, ARE BEING FLOWN TO THE UNITED STATES FOR A CONGRATULATORY TOUR.

THE PLANES ARE TWO LIBERATORS, THE "WASHES TUB" (CORRECT) AND THE "SQUAW," AND A MITCHELL, "DESERT WARRIOR." THE TUB AND THE WARRIOR HAVE PARTICIPATED IN 73 MISSIONS EACH AND THE SQUAW HAS TAKEN PART IN 71 RAIDS.

IT WILL BE THE FIRST TIME THAT PLANES FROM THE MIDDLE EAST HAVE RETURNED TO THE UNITED STATES FOR EXHIBITION. ALL 27 MEMBERS OF THE CREWS HAVE BEEN DECORATED SEVERAL TIMES.

MAJ. GEN. LEWIS H.BRERETON, U.S. COMMANDER IN THE MIDDLE EAST, CITED ALL THREE SHIPS AS THEY PREPARED FOR THE RETURN WITH THE VETERAN CREWS AT THE CONTROLS.

THE "WASHES TUB" ALONE SHOT DOWN 22 ENEMY FIGHTERS IN 15 MONTHS OF OPERATIONS IN THE MIDDLE EAST, DROPPED 219 TONS OF BOMBS AND FLEW NEARLY 100,000 MILES.

30. 24 - 8165

THE "SQUAW" DROPPED 180 TONS OF BOMBS ON AXIS TARGETS IN AFRICA, SICILY, ITALY, GREECE, CRETE AND RUMANIA IN A YEAR AND TOOK PART IN THE DARING LOW LEVEL ATTACK ON THE PLOESTI RUMANIA, OIL FIELDS.

THE "DESERT WARRIOR" DROPPED 70 TONS OF BOMBS ON AXIS ARMIES AS THEY FLED FROM EL ALAMEIN ACROSS NORTH AFRICA TO SICILY AND ITALY AND FLEW 191 COMBAT HOURS.

SEP 8 1943

VETERANS OF THE MEDITERRANEAN CAMPAIGN WHO ARE FLYING THE SHIPS BACK WILL TAKE THEM ON A TOUR OF AIRCRAFT FACTORIES TO DEMONSTRATE THE HARDINESS OF THEIR PRODUCTS.

LT. COL. ROBERT H.PARHAM OF NORMAN, OKLA., PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICER OF THE NINTH AIR FORCE, IS RETURNING WITH THE PLANES TO CONDUCT THE TOUR.

CREWMEN MAKING THE RETURN FLIGHT ON THE "WASHES TUB" ARE CAPT. EDWARD G.FEELEY OF CHICAGO, CAPT. RICHARD W.BECK, BROOKLYN, N.Y.; LT. CLIFFORD R.GUGGENHEIM, LOS ANGELES; LT. IRVING C. BLOOM, HANNIBAL, MO.; SGT. FREDERICK P.RUSSEK, SCHULENBURG, TEX.; SGT. CHARLES J.CANNO, CLEVELAND, O.; SGT. FRED R.BOND, FLINT, MICH.; SGT. RAY W.ROMICK, OGDEN, UTAH; AND SGT. RICHARD C.HERBERT, NEW ORLEANS.

MEMBERS OF THE CREW OF THE "SQUAW" ARE LT. ROYDEN L.LEBRECHT, DENISON, TEX.; LT. CLINTON H.KILLIAN, ROOSEVELT, UTAH; LT. GROVER A.ZINK, TURON, KAS.; LT. ALBERT J.MICKISH, PERRY, OKLA.; AND SGTS. HAROLD F.WIER, LAPEER, MICH.; JOHN A.GIVENS, ST. LOUIS; JOHN R. [illegible] N.Y.; PAUL E.DAVIDSON, SPRINGFIELD, MO.; ADNEY J.

30. 24 - 8165

[illegible] HARMON, SACO, ME.; JOHN GUANUA, ALBANY, N.Y., AND PAUL T.BASKIS, CAMBRIDGE, MASS.

THOSE IN THE CREW OF THE "DESERT WARRIOR" ARE CAPT. RALPH M.LOWER, SPOKANE, WASH.; LT. CLARENCE SEAMAN, FRESNO, CALIF.; LT. THEODORE R. TATE, HINDMAN, KY.; LTM LOYD F.PON

RATE, HINDMAN, KY.; LT. FLOYD F. PONB, ANADARKO, OKLA.; SGT. JAMES P.GAROFALO, QUEENS, NEW YORK CITY; SGT. JOHN R.DAWDY, SAN ANTONIO, TEX., AND RCAF PILOT OFFICER ANTHONY A.MARTIN OF SQUAMISH, CANADA.

GH2PEW

(ADVANCE)...SCILLA, ITALY, SEPT 6-(DELAYED)-(AP)-WILL-OF-THE-WISP LUCE GERMAN FORCES ACCOMPLISHED MORE WITH ONE HIGHWAY DEMOLITION THAN ALL OF THEIR 88-MILLIMETER GUNS, MINES AND MACHINEGUNS HAD ACHIEVED IN THE DEFENSE OF THE FOOT OF ITALY.

BY BLOCKING THE ROAD JUST NORTH OF BAGNARA WITH A TNT BLAST, THE NAZIS HELD UP AN ADVANCE OF GUARDS OF THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY FOR NEARLY 48 HOURS IN THEIR ALMOST SHOTLESS MARCH UP THE ITALIAN PENINSULA.

SEP 8 1943

THIS SHADOW OF WAR, IN WHICH NO REAL BATTLE HAS YET BEEN FOUGHT SINCE THE LANDING ON THE MAINLAND SEPT. 3, TOOK ON AN EVEN STRANGER ASPECT AS COMPANY AFTER COMPANY OF ITALIAN TROOPS, COMPLETELY EQUIPPED, MARCHED WITH THEIR OFFICERS INTO BRITISH REAR BASES ON MESSINA STRAITS.

MANY PRISONERS DECLARED THAT NO ITALIANS ANYWHERE IN ITALY WOULD FIGHT AGAINST THE BRITISH OR THE AMERICANS.

WHILE THE 8TH ARMY FLANK ON THE ITALIAN WEST COAST WAS TEMPORARILY HALTED BY THE GERMAN DEMOLITIONS THE FLANK ON THE OPPOSITE COAST RACED FORWARD YESTERDAY, ENCOUNTERING NO RESISTANCE OR ROAD BLOCKS.

BETWEEN 2000 AND 3000 UNHAPPY INHABITANTS OF THE BAGNARA AREA HID IN RAILROAD TUNNELS AS THE OCCUPATION OF THE LITTLE SEASIDE TOWN WAS CARRIED OUT ON SATURDAY NIGHT BY A BRITISH DETACHMENT LANDED FROM THE SEA.

TWENTY-FOUR SURLY GERMANS WERE CAPTURED AND THEY WERE IN SUCH A STATE OF CONFUSION THAT THEY DID NOT KNOW THE NAME OF THE TOWN THEY WERE IN. THEIR MACHINEGUNS WERE POINTING IN THE WRONG DIRECTION.

(END ADVANCE FOR USE AT 10 P.M. EWT TODAY, TUESDAY, SEPT. 7)

SB931PEW

BY ROSS MUNRO

CANADIAN PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT

(DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

SEP 8 1943

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, SEPT 6-(DELAYED)-WE THOUGHT THOSE FIRST FEW DAYS ON THE PACHINO PENINSULA, WHERE THE CANADIANS FIRST LANDED IN SICILY NEARLY TWO MONTHS AGO, MADE FOR A CRAZY KIND OF WAR BUT IT WAS FAIRLY REASONABLE COMPARED TO THIS UNBELIEVABLY EASY INVASION OF THE ITALIAN TOE.

THE CANADIANS HAVE BEEN IN ITALY FOR THREE DAYS. I HAVE SEEN ABOUT A DOZEN ENEMY SHELLS LAND AND WATCHED ABOUT FIVE DIVE-BOMBING ATTACKS BY ENEMY AIRCRAFT WITH LITTLE INCLINATION TO GET TOO CLOSE TO THE ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE AROUND THE TARGETS. THAT IS ALL.

I HAVEN'T HEARD A GERMAN MACHINE-GUN IN ITALY YET. THE WHANG OF 88-MILLIMETER SHELLS FROM A LONE GUN AS WE NEARED THE SHORE WAS THE ONLY CHILLY INCIDENT.

THAT NIGHT CROSSING OF THE MESSINA STRAIT AS THE INVASION WAS LAUNCHED COULD BE BILLED ANYWHERE AS "THE GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH"--SEARCHLIGHTS PROBING THE SKY, SMOOTH BLACK WATER FLICKERING WITH THE LIGHT FROM THE FLAMING ALLIED GUNS ON THE SICILIAN SHORELINE, FLEETS OF LANDING CRAFT MOVING TOWARDS ITALY THROUGH SMOKE AND MIST.

AFTER LANDING WE WALKED DOWN THE MAIN STREET OF REGGIO CALABRIA. IT WAS LIKE TAKING A SUNDAY STROLL AT HOME. THE INFANTRY WERE AROUND US, BUT THEY MARCHED ALONG AS IF ON SUMMER MANEUVERS.

EVEN THE REACTION OF THE ITALIAN CIVILIANS WAS SOMETHING NOT EXPECTED. SOME OF US TOOK OVER A COUPLE OF ROOMS IN AN APARTMENT BLOCK FOR THE FIRST NIGHT. WE HAVE A CARETAKER AND 15 OCCUPANTS TRYING TO MAKE US COMFORTABLE. WHEN WE GAVE THE CARETAKER A TIN OF STEW HE NEARLY WEPT WITH PLEASURE. HE HAD BEEN EATING HERBS FOR WEEKS.

A DOZEN TIMES I WAS ASKED, "WHAT'S THE REASON FOR THE LACK OF RESISTANCE? WHAT ARE THE GERMANS DOING?" I COULD ONLY THINK OF ONE GENERAL ANSWER:

"WE'RE WINNING."

SEP 8 1943

SB1049PEW

(NR) A U.S.AIR BASE IN INDIA, SEPT 7-(AP)-TAKING PART IN METHODICAL BOMBING RAIDS ON JAPANESE COMMUNICATIONS AND SUPPLY BASES IN NORTHEASTERN BURMA ARE LIEUT.ELLIOTT MASON 26, OF WESTFIELD,N.J., A NAVIGATOR, AND SGT.ABE DWORKIN, 25, OF WEST NEW YORK,N.J.

BOTH ARE MEMBERS OF THE "SKULL AND CROSS BONES" SQUADRON.

0728AEW

1943

30.74-8167

30.24-8167

ADD CHUNGKING ... AA REMAINS)

THE SENATORS WERE GREETED BY LT.GEN.JOSEPH W.STILWELL, COMMANDING GENERAL, AND MAJ. GEN. CLAIRE CHENNAULT, COMMANDER OF THE 14TH U.S. AIR FORCE.

SEP 8 1943

IN A PRESS INTERVIEW RUSSELL AND BREWSTER DECLARED THAT A MASSIVE NAVAL ATTACK WAS BEING PREPARED AGAINST JAPAN. BREWSTER SAID THAT THE "AMERICAN PEOPLE WILL NEVER BE SATISFIED WITH LESS" THAN WIPING OUT OF THE JAPANESE FLEET.

NW1021PEW

HEADQUARTERS OF THE 14TH U.S.ARMY AIR FORCE, SEPT.5-(DELAYED)--(AP)-RUNWAYS AND HANGARS AT THE BIG JAPANESE AIRBASE AT TIENHO, CANTON, WERE POUNDED AGAIN YESTERDAY BY MITCHELL BOMBERS LED BY CAPT.JOE SKELDON OF TOLEDO, OHIO.

RETURNING PILOTS REPORTED THAT ALL BOMBS WERE OBSERVED TO EXPLODE ON THE AIRDROME, WHICH IS STILL UNDERGOING REPAIRS AS THE RESULT OF HEAVY DAMAGE INFLICTED BY AMERICAN AIR RAIDERS ON AUG.28.

WHEN THE MITCHELLS WERE LEAVING THE TARGET, 15 OR MORE JAPANESE FIGHTERS ATTEMPTED TO INTERCEPT. THEY WERE ENGAGED BY ESCORTING P-40'S AND THREE ENEMY AIRCRAFT WERE DEFINITELY DESTROYED WHILE SEVERAL OTHERS PROBABLY WERE SHOT DOWN.

CAPT.WILLIAM CROOKS OF COLUMBIA, IND., AND FIRST LIEUT. HARLAN VIDOVICHY OF SACATON,ARIZ., EACH SHOT DOWN ONE ENEMY PLANE, WHILE LIEUT.VERNON KRAMER OF APPLETON, WIS., WAS CREDITED WITH A PROBABLE.

MJ1114AEW

(ADD SOMEWHERE IN N-GUINEA (SCHEDLER) XX OPERATION

...FORTRESS WAS PILOTED BY LT.COL. HARRY HAWTHORNE, OF 230 PLEASINGTON ROAD, SAN ANTONIO, TEX. THE CO-PILOT WAS BRIG. GEN. ROGER RAMEY, OF DENTON, TEX., COMMANDING GENERAL OF THE FIFTH AIRFORCE.

MEMBERS OF THE CREW OF GENERAL MACARTHUR'S PLANE WERE: NAVIGATOR, LT. HARVEY WILSON, HAWTHORNE, CALIF; BOMBARDIER, LT. JEROME BORDAUX, MUSKEGON, MICH; GUNNER-PHOTOGRAPHER, LT. THOMAS EVANS, LUZERNE, PA; ENGINEER, SGT. JAMES STANDLEE, CASSVILLE, MO; RADIO OPERATOR, TECH. SGT. LOUIS COLITRI, BARRINGTON, R.I; BALL GUNNER, SGT. WILLIAM ELROD, CINCINNATI, OHIO; AND TAIL GUNNER, SGT. ART PAREN, WEBSTER, MASS.

SEP 8 1943

ANOTHER FORTRESS, "CAPTAIN AND THE KIDS," CARRIED GENERAL KENNEY. THE FORTRESS, "MUSTANG," CARRIED GENERAL SUTHERLAND AND GENERAL WHITEHEAD.

WW509APW

ADD SOMEWHERE IN N-GUINEA THAILAND) XX EXPLAINED

SGT.THOMAS DIGIROLAMO, (3335 NICHOLS AVE. S.E.) WASHINGTON, D.C., SAID EVERYONE WANTED TO GO ON THIS MISSION, AND THOSE NOT SELECTED WERE DISAPPOINTED GREATLY. "I WAS SELECTED," HE GRINNED.

FIRST LT. HENRY BUCHANAN OF ANDERSON, S.C., HAD BEEN PREPARING FOR THIS TRIP FOR MONTHS BUT TWO DAYS PRIOR TO THE TIME SET FOR DEPARTURE HE HURT HIS SHOULDER IN A GAME OF TOUCH FOOTBALL. "I MANAGED TO GET CHOSEN NEVERTHELESS," HE SAID.

THE JUMPINGEST PARATROOPER WAS A MEDICAL OFFICER, MAJ. MONROE GALL OF (29 WEST 64TH ST) NEW YORK CITY, WHO SAID THE LEAP WOULD BE HIS 80TH. #

ALLIED H-Q-AUSTRALIA - KLEBANS XXX "JUNGLE"

ADD "WE PLODDED AHEAD FOR A FEW MINUTES AND THEN SUDDENLY, EVERY MAN FROZE IN HIS TRACKS. THE SOUND OF SHOOTING ECHOED TO OUR RIGHT. WE HIT THE DIRT. IT CEASED AND THEN STARTED AGAIN. WE WAITED WONDERING WHAT IT WAS, WHEN A MAN CAME RUSHING UP AND SAID ONE OF OUR MEN HAD GONE 50 FEET FROM HIS CHUTE, HAD THEN FALLEN EXHAUSTED UNABLE TO GO ON. THEY HAD BROUGHT HIM IN.

"THE FIRING STOPPED AS SUDDENLY AS IT STARTED, BUT WE PUT OUT ADDED SECURITY PATROLS AND WENT ON. OUR PLANES OVERHEAD WERE A GREAT COMFORT.

SEP 8 1943

"1ST LT.EUGENE W.HORNER, ARMISTON, ALA., CAME TOWARDS US WITH A FILE OF MEN TO MEET US AT THIS PREARRANGED SPOT AND ONCE AGAIN WE SET OFF SLOGGING IT WEARILY ALONG AND FIGHTING OUR WAY FROM ONE JUNGLE PATCH TO ANOTHER.

"THROUGH A FIELD CAME THE AUSTRALIANS TO JOIN OUR UNIT. WE SAW ONE ANOTHER AT THE SAME MOMENT. WITH GLEEFUL SHOUTS WE RAN AT EACH OTHER, HUGGING AND SHOUTING LIKE LONG LOST BROTHERS, SLAPPING EACH OTHER ON THE BACK, SWAPPING SMOKES AND ASKING QUESTIONS.

"THE AUSSIES MADE A TORTUOUS FIVE-DAY MARCH TO REACH US ACROSS THE MARKHAM RIVER ACCORDING TO PLANS. THEY HAD WATCHED US JUMP WHICH WAS THE SIGNAL FOR THEM TO COME AND JOIN US.

"AS EVENING CAME ON, FIRING OPENED UP ALL AROUND US AND BECAME HEAVIER THROUGH THE NIGHT. WE SENT OUT PATROLS AND TRIED TO KEEP THE INSECTS OUT AND SETTLED DOWN TO A RESTLESS, ALMOST SLEEPLESS NIGHT.

"AT DAWN, I SET OUT WITH CAPT.HARRY SHAVELY, LAMPETOCA, PA., (NOT IN POSTAL GUIDE, POSSIBLY LAMPETER) AND CORP. FLETCHER WILSON, SALISBURY, MO., TO INVEETIGATE THE FIRING WE HAD HEARD DURING THE NIGHT.

"COL.KENNETH KINSLER, DAVENPORT, IOWA, WAS DIRECTING A GROUP OF MEN LAY OUT GROUND PANELS FOR OUR PLANES OVERHEAD. WE WATCHED HIM AND NOTICED HE WAS THE ONLY MAN WE HAD SEEN WHO HAD SHAVED THAT DAY.

"THE MEN TOOK TO THE JUNGLE LIKE VETERANS AND SEEMED ESPECIALLY PROUD THAT EVERYTHING HAD GONE SO SMOOTHLY. THEIR MONTHS OF TRAINING WAS EVIDENT HERE AND PROVED ITS VALUE."

SEP 8 1943

GG1154ACW NM

ADD ALLIED HQ S.W.PACIFIC (MACARTHUR) IN PACIFIC

IN ADDITION TO GENERAL MACARTHUR, OTHER HIGH RANKING OFFICERS MADE CLEAR BY THEIR PRESENCE THE IMPORTANCE OF THE OPERATIONS. FLYING IN A SEPARATE PLANE WAS LT. GEN. GEORGE C. KENNEY, COMMANDER OF ALLIED AIR FORCES IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC. MAJ.GEN. RICHARD K.SUTHERLAND, MACARTHUR'S CHIEF OF STAFF, AND MAJ. GEN.ENNIS WHITEHEAD, OF THE ADVANCED ECHELON GROUP, WERE IN ANOTHER. ACTING AS CO-PILOT ON GENERAL MACARTHUR'S PLANE WAS BRIG.GEN.ROGER RAMEY, OF DENTON, TEX., COMMANDING GENERAL OF THE FIFTH AIRFORCE.

AIR SUPPORT OF THE OPERATIONS WAS IMPRESSIVE. MITCHELLS BOMBED THE LANDING AREA BEFORE THE TRANSPORTS ARRIVED. NEARER LAE, THEY SPILLED FRAGMENTATION BOMBS AMONG ENEMY ARTILLERY POSTS AND RAKED INSTALLATIONS WITH 60,000 ROUNDS OF AMMUNITION. NORTH OF LAE AN ENEMY STRONG POINT WAS DESTROYED BY 94 TONS OF BOMBS.

EA1203APW NM

30.24-8169

30.24-8169

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC AREA,AUG.27-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE AIR MEDAL FOR MERITORIOUS ACHIEVEMENT HAS BEEN AWARDED TO CAPT.PHILIP CONTI OF 2 BOLSTER STREET, BARRE, VT., WHO WAS A MEMBER OF A BOMBER CREW WHICH RAN THROUGH HEAVY ANTI-AIRCRAFT AND MACHINE GUN FIRE THREE TIMES TO SINK AN ENEMY VESSEL NEAR HUMBOLT BAY.

SEP 8 1943

THE MEDAL WAS AWARDED BY LIEUT.GEN.GEORGE C.KENNEY, COMMANDER OF THE ALLIED AIR FORCE IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC AREA.

CONTI'S CITATION SAID:

"FOR MERITORIOUS ACHIEVEMENT WHILE PARTICIPATING IN AN AERIAL FLIGHT OVER THE NORTH COAST OF NEW GUINEA IN JUNE, 1943. THIS CREW OF A HEAVY BOMBER WAS ENGAGED ON AN INDIVIDUAL RECONNAISSANCE MISSION OVER HOSTILE TERRITORY WHICH HAD NEVER BEEN PHOTOGRAPHED. AT HUMBOLT BAY, AN ENEMY VESSEL, PROTECTED BY A GUNBOAT OR CORVETTE, WAS SIGHTED. THREE BOMBING RUNS WERE MADE AND THE LAST TWO BOMBS WERE SUCCESSFULLY DROPPED. TWO DIRECT HITS WERE SCORED, CAUSING THE HOSTILE VESSEL TO SINK WITHIN A SHORT PERIOD. DURING THE BOMBING ATTACK ANTI-AIRCRAFT AND MACHINE GUN FIRE FROM THE GUNBOAT AND THE CARGO VESSEL WAS INTENSE. THE COURAGE, ABILITY AND DEVOTION TO DUTY OF CAPT.CONTI IN THE CONDUCT OF THIS MISSION ARE IN KEEPING WITH THE HIGH STANDARDS OF THE SERVICE."

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS,SOUTHWEST PACIFIC AREA,AUG27-(DELAYED)-AP)-THREE CORPORALS WHO, DESPITE EXPLODING AMMUNITION AND FLARES, RESCUED TWO MEMBERS OF A BOMBER WHICH CRASHED IN NEW GUINEA HAVE BEEN AWARDED THE SOLDIER'S MEDAL FOR HEROISM.

THE AWARDS WERE MADE BY LIEUT.GEN.GEORGE C.KENNEY, COMMANDER OF THE ALLIED AIR FORCE IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC.

THE RECIPIENTS WERE:

CORP.DAVIS S.GRANT, 354 MARKET STREET, NEWBURYPORT, MASS.; CORP. ROBERT L.MILLER, ROUTE 4, BROKEN ARROW, OKLA.; CORP.MILTON SOSENSKY, 264 DIXWELL AVE., NEW HAVEN, CONN.

THE BOMBER CRASHED INTO A TRUCK WHILE TAKING OFF FROM AN AIRFIELD ON JAN.2, 1942. IT WAS CARRYING A FULL LOAD OF BOMBS, ONE OF WHICH EXPLODED. AS AMMUNITION AND FLARES BEGAN BURSTING, THE THREE CORPORALS RAN TO THE BURNING PLANE, RESCUED TWO OF THE CREW, AND THEN RETURNED TO THE WRECKAGE IN SEARCH OF OTHERS.

"THIS ACT," THE CITATION SAID, "DEMONSTRATED EXTRAORDINARY COURAGE IN THE FACE OF DANGER WITH UTTER DISREGARD FOR THEIR PERSONAL SAFETY."

GHASRAEW

SEP 8 1943

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS,SOUTHWEST PACIFIC,AUG 27-(DELAYED)-AP)-LIEUT.GEN.GEORGE C.KENNEY, COMMANDER OF ALLIED AIR FORCES IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, WAS AWARDED THE SOLDIER'S MEDAL TO THE FOLLOWING MEN OF THE U.S. ARMY AIR FORCE FOR HEROISM:

STAFF SERGT.NOEL G.BRAGWELL, ALMYRA, ARK.; CORP. DEAN E. CUMMINS, MARKED TREE, ARK.; STAFF SERGT.JOSEPH A.GALLANT, 4 FRANKLIN AVE., CHELSEA, MASS.; STAFF SERGT.THOMAS F.HIMM, 171 TOMPKINS STREET, PITTSTON, PENN.; STAFF SERGT.LELAND F. POWERTON, CANTON, KAN.; SERGT.CHARLES H.MCDONALD, WINDIN, GA.

THEIR CITATION SAID:

"FOR HEROISM AT AN ADVANCED OPERATIONAL BASE IN AUSTRALIA ON JULY 1, 1942. WHEN A FLYING FORTRESS WAS HEARD TO CRASH IN THE BUSH NEAR AN ALLIED AIRFIELD, THESE ENLISTED MEN RUSHED TO THE SCENE WHERE THEY FOUND THE PLANE TO BE BADLY WRECKED AND ON FIRE. ALTHOUGH WARNED BY MEMBERS OF THE BOMBER CREW TO STAY CLEAR OF THE PLANE AS IT WAS IN IMMEDIATE DANGER OF EXPLODING, THESE MEN RUSHED TO THE AID OF THOSE TRAPPED INSIDE AND CONTINUED THEIR EFFORTS UNTIL EVERY MEMBER OF THE BOMBER CREW HAD BEEN CARRIED TO SAFETY."

GH430AEW -

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 8- (AP)-THE AUSTRALIAN BOOMERANG IS IN ACTION AGAINST THE JAPANESE.

IT IS A NEW TYPE OF SINGLE-ENGINE FIGHTER PLANE, DESIGNED TO BE ESPECIALLY USEFUL FOR GROUND COOPERATION WORK. IN THIS CAPACITY, IT HAS HELPED THE AMERICANS AND AUSTRALIANS OVERRUN MUBO, A STRONG-POINT 12 MILES BELOW SALAMAUA, NEW GUINEA, HAS AIDED THE ALLIES IN MOVING TO THE VERY EDGE OF THE SALAMAUA AIRSTRIP AND IN MAKING THE NEW LANDINGS OF THE PAST FEW DAYS AROUND LAE.

HEADQUARTERS, HOWEVER, WITHHELD DISCLOSURE OF THE PLANE'S USE UNTIL TODAY.

FT11PCW NM

(HR) SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, SEPT 7-(AP)-WHILE PARATROOPERS DROPPED FROM AMERICAN PLANES TO POSITIONS BEHIND THE JAPANESE IN THE MARKHAM VALLEY NEAR LAE, STAFF SGT. FRED HEHLING OF ORANGE, N.J., WAS TAKING AERIAL PHOTOGRAPHS OF THE ACTION.

BY DEAN SCHEDLER

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, SEPT 7 (AP)-THERE IS STILL TIME FOR MATRIMONY IN NEW GUINEA DURING THIS BUSINESS OF WAR AGAINST JAPAN.

IN A BRIEF ARMY PROTESTANT CEREMONY IN THE SMALL OFFICE OF A CHAPLAIN TODAY, THE MARRIAGE OF MAJOR LOUIS S. GREEN OF KANSAS CITY, MO., AND ARMY NURSE SECOND LT. MARY E. CHAPLIN OF FALLING SPRING, VA., WAS SOLEMNIZED WITH ALL THE SERIOUSNESS OF A FIFTH AVENUE WEDDING.

THE CHAPLAIN OFFICIATING WAS LT.COL. ERNEST B. ELLIOTT OF HAMMOND, LA. COL. JOHN CREHAN OF BROOKLYN, N.Y., GAVE THE BRIDE AWAY AND THE BEST MAN WAS FIRST LT. ROBERT NEWSOME OF RAPID CITY, S.D.

NATIVE FLOWERS COVERED THE BRIDAL PATH AND WERE DRAPED OVER THE DOOR OF THE CHAPLAIN'S OFFICE.

CORP. HILARY HUX OF PORTSMOUTH, VA., PLAYED THE VIOLIN.

THE HONEYMOON WILL TAKE THE NEWLYWEDS ON A BRIEF TRIP TO SYDNEY.

GG107PCW

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, SEPT. 5-(DELAYED)-(AP)-RETURNING FROM A BOMBING AND STRAFING MISSION NEAR LAE, A MITCHELL BOMBER BLEW A TIRE ON LANDING AND CAREENED INTO THE DIRT AT HIGH SPEED.

RANKING OFFICERS STANDING ON THE FIELD TO WATCH THE RETURN OF THE SHIPS HASTENED TO THE SCENE OF THE ACCIDENT. CRASH TRUCKS AND AMBULANCES ALSO RACED OUT FULL TILT. THEY FOUND NO ONE HURT.

WHILE THE CREW STOOD AROUND THE BOMBER SOMEWHAT SHAKEN BY THE LANDING, MAJ. GEN. RICHARD K. SUTHERLAND WALKED TO THE PILOT, FIRST LT. ROBERT ROBINETTE OF HOUSTON, TEX., AND CONGRATULATED HIM ON HIS EXCELLENT MANEUVERING OF THE CRIPLED PLANE.

OTHER CREW MEMBERS INCLUDED FIRST LT. SAMUEL SLVTZKY OF PEEKSKILL, N.Y., THE OBSERVER; TECH. SGT. VERNON ANDERSON, RED GRANITE, WIS.,

RADIO OPERATOR; AND SGT.ROBERT JONES, SANTA ANA,CALIF., GUNNER.

A SOLDIER STANDING NEARBY LEANED OVER TO HIS BUDDY AND WHISPERED: "BROTHER, THAT'S SOME DEAL. TWO-STAR GENERALS RIGHT ON THE SPOT AS FAST AS THE CRASH TRUCK. SOME ATTENTION WE'RE GETTING!"

FJ351ACW

(NR) MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA,SEPT 7-(AP)-MRS.ELEANOR ROOSEVELT WAS SHOWN THE KITCHEN OF THE MELBOURNE GENERAL HOSPITAL BY TECH. SGT.EARL BENNETT OF WILDWOOD,N.J., DURING HER RECENT VISIT THERE WITH SEVERAL HUNDRED AMERICAN SERVICEMEN WHO ARE PATIENTS IN THE INSTITUTION.

SEP 8 1943

Q712AEW

SYDNEY, WEDNESDAY, SEPT.8-(AP)-MRS.ELEANOR ROOSEVELT, ACCOMPANIED BY A GUARD OF HONOR COMPOSED OF FIRST WORLD WAR VETERANS, VISITED HOSPITALS AND MET MILITARY PERSONNEL DURING HER SECOND DAY IN AUSTRALIA'S LARGEST CITY.

THE FIRST LADY OF UNITED STATES ALSO VISITED THE SYDNEY SERVICES CLUB, PATRONIZED BY 9,000 AMERICAN AND 7,000 AUSTRALIAN FIGHTING MEN WEEKLY.

AT ST.ANTHONY'S NURSES HOME, THE FIRST LADY WAS GREETED BY USO CLUB DIRECTOR HALLIE BAUMBERGER OF LOUISVILLE, KY. SHE CHATTED WITH LOIS CHAPPEL OF WETHERFIELD, CONN.

MRS.ROOSEVELT WISHED "MUCH HAPPINESS TO AIR CORPS LT.GORDON PRENTISS OF CLEVELAND, O., AND JOAN MANNING, ATTRACTIVE SYDNEY MODEL, WHO HAVE JUST ANNOUNCED THEIR ENGAGEMENT.

AT THE CHEVERELLS OFFICERS CLUB SHE MET LOUISE LEE OF NEW YORK CI ASSISTANT DIRECTOR, ELAINE CHAPMAN OF UNION CITY, PA., AND KATHERINE GREGG LITSCHER OF HAMILTON, VA., STAFF ASSISTANTS. AT

30.24 - 8171

THE BERNLEY OFFICERS CLUB WERE ANETTE ROBIN OF NEW YORK CITY, AND ELEANOR JACKSON OF NEW BRITAIN, CONN., STAFF ASSISTANTS.

WELCOMING GROUP AT THE SYDNEY SERVICES CLUB WAS COMPOSED OF DIRECTOR ANTHONY M.CANORA OF HARTFORD, CONN., ASSISTANT MARJORIE HENDRICKS OF WASHINGTON, D.C., LUCILE ALLEN OF BROCTON, N.Y., CHARLES LYLE CARRUTHERS OF AKRON, O., ETHEL PARKER OF ALEXANDRIA, VA., MARY IRENE MCKAY OF TAMPA, FLA., MARTHA MORE GOLDEN OF GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., AND MRS.THYRZA STURGES HERSHEY OF NEW YORK CITY.

FR1005PCW NM

A U.S. ARMY MULTI-MOTORED TRANSPORT WAS

BOGOTA, COLOMBIA, SEPT. 7-(AP)-~~CRUXERRXOASXPREPXZXOBAXZMARXEMEXBAPERZXZORX~~

LONG OVER-DUE TODAY ON A FLIGHT FROM MANAOS, BRAZIL,TO CALI, COLOMBIA, AND CONCERN FOR THE SAFETY OF THOSE ABOARD WAS ~~EXPRESS~~ FELT HERE.

NEWSPAPER REPORTS THAT THE PLANE HAD EITHER CRASHED A OR MADE A FORED LANDING NEAR RONCESVALLES IN THE MOUNTAINOUS DEPARTMENT OF TOLIMA LACKED OFFICIAL CONFIRMATION.

SEP 8 1943

TWO COLOMBIAN ARMY AND ONE U.S. ARMY PLANES, MEANWHILE, CONTINUED THE SEARCH FOR THE ~~EXPRZ~~ MISSING PLANE, WHICH WAS DUE AT CALI SATURDAY NOON.

THE NAMES AND NUMBER OF PERSONS ABOARD WERE N O T IMMEDIATELY AVAILAB ALTHOUGH AN AIRCRAFT OF THIS TYPE NORMALLY CARRIES AT LEAST SIX MEN.

THE NEWSPAPER EL TIEMPO REPORTED THAT RESIDENTS OF TOLIMA SAW A PLANE

WHICH MIGHT HAVE BEEN THE MISSING ONE PREPARING TO DESCEND ZXXXZXXXZX ZXZXZXXXX BUT THEY WERE UNABLE TO DETERMINE WHETHER THE CRAFT LANDED SAFELY OR CRASHED.

DESPITE ALARM OVER THE MISSING PLANE'S FATE, IT WAS THOUGHT HERE THAT A LANDING MIGHT POSSIBLY HAVE BEEN MADE SOMEWHERE N O T IMMEDIATELY IN DIRECT COMMUNICATION WITH BOGOTA.

SEP 8 1943

LN/MCEVOYS1030/1230

LIMA,PERU, SEPT. 7 (AP)--A UNITED STATES ARMY PLANE DOING PHOTOGRAPHIC WORK OVER THE AMAZON JUNGLES WAS REPORTED TODAY TO HAVE CRASHED YESTERDAY AND SIX MEMBERS OF THE CREW WERE KILLED. A SEVENTH, AN ENLISTED MAN, WAS REPORTED IN A SERIOUS CONDITION IN A HOSPITAL AT IQUITOS,PERU,NEAR WHERE THE ACCIDENT OCCURRED.

THE PHOTOGRAPHS TAKEN FROM THE PLANE WERE XXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX FOR USE IS HELPING TOXX ESTABLISH A NEW BOUNDARY BETWEEN PERU AND ECUADOR,THE REPORT SAID.

BUENOS AIRES, SEPT 7-(AP)-THE ARGENTINE CABINET DECIDED TONIGHT AT A TWO-HOUR MEETING TO PUBLISH THE TEXTS OF MESSAGES EXCHANGED BETWEEN SECRETARY OF STATE HULL AND FOREIGN MINISTER SEGUNDO STORNI IN WHICH HULL REFUSED AN ARGENTINE BID FOR LEND-LEASE AID.

AFTER THE MEETING STORNI SAID IT HAD BEEN DECIDED TO DISTRIBUTE THE MESSAGES WITHOUT COMMENT, LEAVING THE PRESS TO EXPRESS ITS OWN VIEWS.

SB1053PEW

RIO DE JANEIRO, SEPT 7-(AP)-PRESIDENT GETULIO VARGAS, SPEAKING TODAY ON THE 122ND ANNIVERSARY OF THE INDEPENDENCE OF BRAZIL, SAID THE SUPREME OBJECTIVE OF HIS COUNTRY AT THIS TIME "IS TO AID IN WINNING THE WAR AND PLACING BRAZIL IN A POSITION TO COLLABORATE WITH THE VICTORIOUS NATIONS IN THE REESTABLISHMENT OF PEACE."

PRESIDENT VARGAS ADDRESSED A HUGE CROWD GATHERED AT THE VASCO STADIUM.

"OUR FIGHTING PROBLEMS ARE NOT THE PROBLEMS OF MEN; THESE WE KHAVE ABUNDANTLY, READY FOR COMBAT," HE SAID. "WE NEED ONLY EQUIPMENT, WHICH IS INDISPENSIBLE TO MODERN WARFARE."

IN THIS MATERIAL ASPECT, HE SAID, BRAZIL IS RECEIVING THE "EFFICIENT AID OF OUR LOYAL AND VALOROUS ALLIES" OF THE UNITED STATES.

SEP 8 1943

SB1110/032

SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO, SEPT.7-(AP)-COMM.CRUTCHFIELD ADAIR, COMMANDING OFFICER OF THE SAN JUAN NAVAL AIR STATION, HAS BEEN TRANSFERRED TO THE NORFOLK NAVAL AIR STATION AS EXECUTIVE OFFICER, HEADQUARTERS OF THE TENTH NAVAL DISTRICT ANNOUNCED TODAY.

COMM.ADAIR, A NATIVE OF LONG BEACH,CALIF., HAS BEEN ASSIGNED TO THE CARIBBEAN AREA FOR MORE THAN TWO YEARS. HE FORMERLY SERVED ON THE U.S.S.LEXINGTON.

NW1056PEW

30.24—8173

ottawa,sept. 7 (ap)--pvt. george brookes of glandale,calif.,was list as wounded in the sicilian campaign in a casualty list issued tonigh by the canadian defense headquarters.

brookes' sister, mrs. jean paula cappellitti lives at 811 east colorado st.,glendale,the casualty list reported.

ottawa,sept. 7 (ap)--pvt. joseph grigas of worchester,mass.,was listed as wounded in a casualty list issued tonight by the canadian defense headquarters in connection with the sicilian campaign.

grigas' father, paul grigas, was listed as living at 3 clapp st.,worchester.

SEP 8 1943

cpl2-am815pew

MIAMI,FLA., SEPT. 7-(AP)-THE SUB-CHASER PC-565 BLASTED AN ENEMY SUBMARINE TO THE BOTTOM OF THE ATLANTIC WITH DEPTH CHARGES AND THE LONE SURVIVOR WAS ITS COMMANDING OFFICER, WHO SCRAMBLED OUT OF THE CONNING TOWER HATCH JUST BEFORE THE SUB TOOK ITS FINAL DIVE.

THE 170-FOOT SUB-CHASER WAS ESCORTING A CONVOY WHEN 19-YEAR-OLD CISCO WILLIAM REEH OF COMFORT, TEXAS, A SOUNDMAN, PICKED UP THE SUB.

GENERAL QUARTERS SOUNDED. LT. WALTER T. FLYNN OF CANADAIGUA, N.Y., THE COMMANDER, ORDERED PC-565 TO START DEPTH CHARGES, AND THE FIRST WAS DROPPED WITHIN FOUR MINUTES OF THE FIRST CONTACT. A HEAVY RUMBLE OF EXPLOSIONS FOLLOWED.

NAVAL HEADQUARTERS HERE TOLD THE STORY OF THE SUB SINKING TONIGHT IN A STATEMENT, WHICH SAID IT WAS ONE OF THE 90 SUBMARINES THE NAVY DEPARTMENT REPORTED SUNK IN MAY, JUNE AND JULY.

LT. FLYNN IS NOW AN INSTRUCTOR AT THE MIAMI SUBCHASER TRAINING CENTER.

SEP 8 1943

"THE PATROL BOAT TURNED BACK TOWARD THE TARGET AS ENORMOUS AIR BUBBLES ROSE FROM THE SPOT CLOSE TO THE DEPTH CHARGE PATTERN," THE NAVY'S STATEMENT RELATED. "THEN THE SUBMARINE'S CONNING TOWER BROKE SURFACE ALMOST DEAD AHEAD. A LOOKOUT SHOUTED:

"'SUBMARINE ON SURFACE.'

"THE CONNING TOWER BROACHED HIGHER UNTIL THE DECKS WERE NEARLY AWASH. THE CRIPPLED ENEMY VESSEL BORE SLUGGISHLY TO THE RIGHT. ALL OF THE PC-565'S GUNS WHICH COULD BE BROUGHT TO BEAR OPENED FIRE AND HITS WERE SCORED."

AS LIEUT. FLYNN BORE DOWN ON THE SUBMARINE TO RAM IT, THE ENEMY CRAFT BEGAN TO SINK AGAIN. THE CONNING TOWER HATCH OPENED AND ONE MAN CLIMBED OUT.

. "SUBMARINES DON'T DIVE WITH THEIR CONNING TOWER HATCHES OPEN," THE NAVY'S STATEMENT SAID, SIGNIFICANTLY.

LIEUT. FLYNN ORDERED ANOTHER DEPTH CHARGE DROPPED OVER THE SPOT WHERE THE ENEMY CRAFT WAS LAST SEEN. THE WATER CHURNED AND OIL BEGAN TO COME UP. THEN THE LONE SURVIVOR, THE COMMANDING OFFICER OF THE UNDERSEA CRAFT, WAS PICKED UP.

THE PC-565 SEARCHED THE AREA, BUT SAW ONLY OIL, BUBBLES AND WRECKAGE ARISING FROM THE SEA.

LIEUT. ERNEST D. BUTTON OF MANHASSET, L. I., IS EXECUTIVE OFFICER OF THE PC-565, AND LIEUT. (JG) CHARLES P. SHEPPARD OF SULPHUR

1943

SPRINGS, TEXAS, IS GUNNERY OFFICER.

SEAMAN JAMES CLEMENT WEBER OF MILWAUKEE, WIS. (2532 W. LOCUST ST.) STEERED THE PC-565 IN THE ATTACK AND HAS BEEN PROMOTED TO QUARTERMASTER, THIRD CLASS, THE NAVY SAID.

GS1058PCW NM

NEW YORK, SEPT 7-(AP)-TWO DAUGHTERS OF PREMIER HIDEKI TOJO OF JAPAN ARE WORKING IN A JAPANESE ARMAMENT FACTORY, THE BERLIN RADIO SAID TONIGHT IN A BROADCAST RECORDED BY CBS. THE BROADCAST SAID THE YOUNG WOMEN, AGED 26 AND 20, HAD BEEN AT THEIR JOBS MORE THAN TWO MONTHS UNDER ASSUMED NAMES.

SEP 8 1943

SB1059PEW

NEW YORK, SEPT. 7 - (AP)- "MORE AND MORE GERMAN REGULARS ARE BEING DRAWN OUT OF RUMANIA, THE MOSCOW RADIO SAID TODAY, QUOTING MESSAGES FROM ISNABUL.

"THE DIVISION OF REGULARS, FORMERLY STATIONED AT TASSY, HAS ALREADY BEEN FURTHER REPLACED BY TWO REGIMENTS OF RUMANIAN AND BULGARIAN GERMANS AID SENT TO THE SOVIET-GERMAN FRONT," SAID THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY CBS.

IT ADDED THAT THIS WAS "VERY MUCH AGAINST THE WISHES OF MARSHAL ANTONESCU, WHO HAS BEEN ASKING TO HAVE THE GERMAN GARRISONS IN RUMANIA REINFORCED.

UNDATED JAPANESE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SEP 8 1943

THE TOKYO RADIO SAID TODAY THAT THE WAR MINISTRY HAD PROMOTED LT. GEN. SHIZUICHI TANAKA, FORMER COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF THE JAPANESE EXPEDITIONARY FORCES IN THE PHILIPPINES, TO A FULL GENERAL.

THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, SAID THAT TANAKA RETURNED TO JAPAN FROM THE PHILIPPINES LAST MAY AND NOW WAS SERVING AS A MEMBER OF THE ARMY GENERAL STAFF.

TANAKA, A FORMER MILITARY ATTACHE TO THE JAPANESE EMBASSY IN WASHINGTON, COMMANDED AN ARMY UNIT IN CHINA FROM 1939 TO 1942 BEFORE HE WAS APPOINTED HEAD OF THE JAPANESE FORCES IN THE PHILIPPINES.

M1127AFM

D12CWX (WAR INTERPT)

AP SPECIAL BUDGET FOR AMS

EDITORS: DURING KIRKE L.SIMPSON'S VACATION, THIS SPECIAL FEATURE IS BEING WRITTEN BY VARIOUS MEMBERS OF THE WASHINGTON STAFF OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

BY JOHN J.WIGGINS

NEWS OF CONTINUING ALLIED GAINS THROUGHOUT THE WORLD-WIDE FIGHTING FRONTS IS COUPLED WITH INCREASING INDICATIONS THAT AMERICAN AND BRITISH CHIEFTAINS ALREADY HAVE THE FOUNDATION OF A POST-WAR PLAN WHICH THEY WOULD LIKE TO SEE PUT INTO EFFECT WHEN THE SHAKY AXIS FRAMEWORK EVENTUALLY COLLAPSES.

IT WOULD BE OUT OF CHARACTER FOR PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT OR PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL, WHO ARE NOW IN CONFERENCE, TO BE WITHOUT STRONG IDEAS ABOUT WHAT FORM THE POST-WAR WORLD SHOULD TAKE.

SIMILARLY, IT CAN BE PRESUMED THAT EACH COULD NOT AFFORD TO BE CAUGHT UNPREPARED SHOULD THE AXIS BLOW UP TOMORROW OR A YEAR OR EVEN TWO YEARS HENCE.

EVEN NOW, WORD COMES FROM A HIGH AUTHORITY THAT THE TWO NATIONS VIRTUALLY ARE AGREED ON AT LEAST TEMPORARY CONTINUATION OF THEIR COMBINED CHIEFS-OF-STAFF AFTER THE WAR.

HOW FAR REACHING SUCH PLANS MAY BE DEPEND LARGELY ON THE REACTION OF RUSSIA'S MARSHAL STALIN, WHO MAY BE PREVAILED UPON TO ATTEND A TRIPARTITE CONFERENCE.

MR.ROOSEVELT LET IT BE KNOWN YESTERDAY THAT A THREE-DAY ALLIED WAR COUNCIL IS NEARER ACTUALITY AND THAT ITS OBJECTIVES WOULD BE GREATER MILITARY COORDINATION NOW AND A CLOSER UNDERSTANDING ON PRESENT AND POST WAR POLITICS.

A TIP THAT THE LEADERS OF BRITAIN AND AMERICA AT LEAST HAVE A SKELETON PLAN FORMED FROM THEIR NUMEROUS CONFERENCES CAME FROM CHURCHILL.

3024-8175

3024-P175

SPEAKING AT HARVARD UNIVERSITY MONDAY, THE PRIME MINISTER OBSERVED THAT THE SMOOTHLY RUNNING MACHINERY OF THE ANGLO-AMERICAN CHIEFS OF STAFF MUST BE KEPT OPERATING PROBABLY FOR A GOOD MANY YEARS AFTER THE WAR-- "FOR OUR OWN SAFETY AS WELL AS FOR THE SECURITY OF THE REST OF THE WORLD."

WHILE THE PRIME MINISTER WAS REFERRING PRIMARILY TO CONTINUED AMERICAN-BRITISH COOPERATION, IT IS LIKELY NOW THAT STALIN IS AS WELL INFORMED OF THESE PLANS AS OF AMERICAN-BRITISH MILITARY MANEUVERS.

MEANTIME, PERSISTENT MILITARY ADVANCES AGAINST THE AXIS IN RUSSIA, ITALY AND THE SOUTH PACIFIC DEMONSTRATED ANEW THAT THE "POST-WAR ERA" MAY ARRIVE SOONER THAN WAS ONCE THOUGHT POSSIBLE.

THE ROME RADIO CAST OUT NEW PEACE FEELERS AND SPECULATION GREW THAT ENRICO GALEAZZI, A VATICAN OFFICIAL, IS ON THE WAY TO WASHINGTON IN A MISSION TO TAKE ITALY OUT OF THE WAR.

REPORTS FROM NEUTRAL STOCKHOLM INDICATED THAT HITLER INTUITION IS AT VARIANCE AGAIN WITH HIS OFFICERS' MILITARY STRATEGY--THE QUESTION BEING WHETHER THE AXIS SHOULD GAMBLE ON A STAND AT THE RIVER PO IN ITALY AS HITLER WANTS OR WITHDRAW BEHIND THE ALPS.

THE ALLIED PENETRATION IN ITALY IS NOT THE CORPORAL'S SOLE ALARM, HOWEVER. THE RUSSIANS ARE RELENTLESSLY PUSHING BACK HIS ARMIES IN THE EAST WITH TERRIFIC LOSSES AND THE UNPRECEDENTED SCALE OF THE AIR WAR OVER HIS EUROPEAN FORTRESS INDICATES THAT THE SOFTENING UP PROCESS IS ATTAINING A CLIMAX.

THE TRAP IS CLOSING ON ABOUT 20,000 JAPANESE IN THE LAE-SALAMAUA AREA OF NEW GUINEA WHERE A SPECTACULAR U.S. PARACHUTE ATTACK BOTTLED UP THE ONLY ESCAPE ROUTE BEHIND LAE.

THE SPEEDING UP OF THE WAR AGAINST JAPAN IS BEING FELT BY TOKYO. IN BROADCASTS REPORTED TO THE OFFICE OF WAR INFORMATION, TOKYO RADIO TOLD THE NIPPONESE THAT THE WAR OUTLOOK "WARRANTS ABSOLUTELY NO OPTIMISM."

VX546PEW NM

SEP.8 1943

Marshall May Command Invasion from England

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

This past long weekend has been a notable one for Allied arms around the world.

Since invasion of France across the English channel is one of the Paramount issues of the moment, I think we must place among the foremost of the developments an announcement in the Washington Evening Star. The Star's foreign affairs writer, Constantine Brown, says he learns on the highest authority that General George C. Marshall, U. S. chief of staff, will be named commander-in-chief of any Allied invasion of the continent from England.

This means, Brown points out, "that preparations for operating across the English channel are sufficiently advanced to select a leader." He emphasizes, however, that well-informed circles say this mustn't be taken as meaning the invasion is ready to begin within the next few weeks.

Well, whether the invasion comes soon or late, what we have to keep in mind is this: When it does arrive, and we have an Allied army safely ashore in France, it's going to place an unescapable squeeze on Herr Hitler, for he will be between the Russians on the East and the other United Nations on the west.

Should the Allies be able to carry out this most dangerous and difficult of all operations this year, the Nazi all highest will have a very, very unhappy Christmas.

Fitting this announcement like a glove is the news of the continued Red advance against the Nazi right wing. Soviet forces are smashing at the gates of the big industrial city and mining center of Stalino which is the key position of the Germans in the rich Donets basin. The invaders have held this strong point ever since they captured it almost two years ago, and have fortified it heavily as their main bastion in the south.

Farther north the Reds have tightened their grip on the strategic Bryansk-Kiev railway which controls a wide sweep of territory. Up in the Smolensk sector, along the route where Napoleon broke his back, the Germans have been counter-attacking fiercely, but Moscow reports that all thrusts have been repulsed.

BLANK

ITALY SURRENDERS, WILL RESIST GERMANS; AMERICAN TROOPS LAND IN ITALIAN PORTS; RUSSIANS IN STALINO, CLEAR DONETS BASIN

BADOGLIO ORDERS ARMY TO FIGHT BACK IN EVENT OF ATTACK BY GERMANS

KENNEDY

Eisenhower Reveals Armistice Was Signed Day Invasion Began But Effective Date Delayed Until Moment Favorable To Allies

SEP 9, 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 8 — War between the United Nations and Italy ended at 6.30 P. M. (12.30 P. M., E. W. T.) today, as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower accorded a military armistice following unconditional surrender of Marshal Pietro Badoglio's Government. Eisenhower's announcement was coupled with an appeal to the Italian people to drive the Germans from their soil, and a promise of help from the Allies in doing so.

But there is a powerful German army in Italy, giving prospect of a gigantic battle and no hope that all Italy itself will fall like a plum to the Allies.

There is every likelihood the Nazis will fight desperately to hold the country and that one of the most critical phases of the battle of Europe is about to begin.

To Oppose Attack From "Other Quarters"

Badoglio in a proclamation issued simultaneously called on Italian soldiers to cease fighting the American and British forces but to "oppose attacks from any other quarter."

This could only mean to fight back if the Germans attack them.

The military armistice, approved also by Russia, actually was signed in Sicily last Friday, on the day Italy was invaded, with the stipulation it would "come into force at a moment most favorable to the Allies."

"Moment Has Arrived," Says Eisenhower

"That moment has now arrived," headquarters asserted.

Eisenhower pledged the aid of the United Nations to Italians who help to "eject the German aggressor."

Allied bombers immediately roared over the war-weary nation, dropping pamphlets declaring that, "Backed by the might of the Allies, Italy now has the opportunity of taking vengeance on the German oppressor and of aiding in the expulsion of the eternal enemy from Italian soil."

Call Issued To Italian Workers

It called on workers to prevent the movement of German troops or supplies by ship, rail or road, and Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, Allied naval commander, broadcast an appeal to seamen to save their vessels from Germans.

Official statements here did not specifically say Allied forces would occupy Italy, but the assertion that they would smash at the Germans in Italy made this seem obvious.

Italy accepted all the terms imposed by the Allies—they were not disclosed—and will be obliged to "comply with political, economic and financial conditions" which will be imposed later.

The surrender was announced simultaneously by Allied headquarters and by Marshal Pietro Badoglio's Government.

Leaflets Give Civilians "Battle Orders"

The leaflets dropped by Allied planes announced the news of the armistice to Italian civilians, and gave them these "battle orders for this phase of the war for the liberation of Europe."

SEP 9 1943

To obey all orders of Allied commanders in occupied areas.

To do "nothing whatsoever to assist the Germans."

"He who wins the battle of transport wins the war" in Italy, the message declared, and transportation workers "can and will play a decisive role."

Complete And Absolute Defeat

The war adventure into which Italy was embarked by Benito Mussolini, the creator of Fascism, who was himself deposed last July 25, thus ended in complete and absolute defeat—but with the promise that the Allies would help in freeing the country of the German yoke.

As the armistice was announced, British and Canadians of the Eighth Army were already installed on the Italian toe, widening their invasion hold with scant opposition.

Italy was primarily important to the Germans because of her position in the Mediterranean and other geographical advantages. These now are lost except in so far as the Nazis may be able to keep some hold on the nation.

Considerable Nazi Force In Italy

Germany still has considerable forces in Italy.

In the coming hours events may continue to move swiftly.

Italy's collapse represents the greatest victory so far scored by the United Nations in four years of the second World War, and reduces the opponents worthy of consideration from three to two.

An additional communique issued late tonight said "the armistice is strictly a military instrument signed by soldiers. No political, financial or economic terms are included. These will be imposed later.

"Granting of the armistice means only cessation of 30 24- 8177

30 24- 8177

Badoglio Tells Italian Forces To Resist Nazis

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Thursday, Sept. 9—(AP) Allied troops landed early today in the Naples area, a third of the way up the Italian boot, a few hours after the surrender of Italy was announced.

The occupation of the bomb-battered area presumably places Allied forces behind at least some of the German troops retreating from southern Italy.

The Allied announcement said merely that "further operations have started on the Italian mainland in the vicinity of Naples."

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower granted Italy a military armistice on terms of unconditional surrender yesterday and Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio read the announcement to his people on the Rome radio.

(This dispatch did not indicate the makeup of the landing parties. A Tunis radio broadcast reported by the OWI, however, said powerful British, American and Canadian armies participated.

Naples, in peace-time a city of almost 1,000,000 population, is a vital link in Italy's north-south railway communications and a major supply port. Rising from the shore in the form of an amphitheater, it has been pounded long and hard by Allied bombers seeking to check its use for military purposes of the Axis.

The one-sentence announcement of the new operations came just 12 hours after that of the Italian surrender. No details were immediately available.

Some 200 miles separate the zone of operations in Calabria, where the British Eighth army is pushing ahead, and the new battlefield created by the invasion in the Naples area.

From Naples it is approximately 83 airline miles in a northeasterly direction across the Italian mainland to the Adriatic sea.

(Multiple Allied landings upon the west coast of the peninsula were reported by two Swedish newspapers and an Italian language broadcast from the Allied-controlled Tunis radio as President Roosevelt told the American people "we must drive the Germans out of Italy."

Sardinia Invasion Told

(The Swedish papers reported Allied landings at Naples, Genoa, Gaeta and Civitavecchio as well as on the island of Sardinia. The Stockholm Dagens Nyheter said there were rumors that parachute troops had dropped at the Calabrian town of Pizzo, on the instep of the Italian boot. The Tunis radio said "powerful British, American and Canadian armies are landing at various points in the heart of Italy.")

The war between the United Nations and Italy officially ended at 6:30 p. m. (12:30 p. m. E. W. T.) yesterday.

Gen. Eisenhower's announcement was coupled with an appeal to the Italian people to drive the Germans from their soil, and a promise of help from the Allies in doing so.

Premier Badoglio in a proclamation issued simultaneously called on Italian soldiers to cease fighting the American and British forces but to "oppose attacks from any other quarter."

This could only mean to fight back if the Germans attack them.

The military armistice, approved also by Russia, actually was signed in Sicily last Friday on the day Italy was invaded, with the stipulation it would "come into force at a moment most favorable to the Allies."

"That moment has now arrived," headquarters asserted.

Nazi Bastion Breached

Thus was Hitler's continental bastion breached, and the war shortened by this greatest of Allied triumphs.

Gen. Eisenhower pledged the aid of the United Nations to Italians who help to "eject the German aggressor."

Allied bombers immediately roared over the war-weary nation, dropping pamphlets declaring that "backed by the might of the Allies, Italy now has the opportunity of taking vengenace on the German oppressor and of aiding in the expulsion of the eternal enemy from Italian soil."

It called on workers to prevent the movement of German troops or supplies, by ship, rail, or road.

Official statements here did not specifically say Allied forces would occupy Italy, but the assertion that they would smash at the Germans in Italy made this seem obvious.

Italy Accepts All Terms

Italy accepted all the terms imposed by the Allies — they were not disclosed — and will be obliged to "comply with political, economic, and financial conditions" which will be imposed later.

The surrender was announced simultaneously by Allied headquarters and by Marshal Pietro Badoglio's government, with Gen. Eisenhower in a brief broadcast (at 12:30 p. m., E. W. T.) stating that "the Italian government has surrendered its armed forces unconditionally."

"As Allied commander in chief," he said, "I have granted a military armistice, the terms of which have been approved by the governments of the United Kingdom, the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

"Thus, I am acting in the interests of the United Nations.

"The Italian government has bound itself to abide by these terms without reservation," and the armistice "becomes effective this instant.

"Hostilities between the armed forces of the United Nations and those of Italy terminate at once. All Italians who now act to help eject the German aggressors from Italian soil will have the assistance and support of the United Nations."

The proclamation by Premier Badoglio sent to Allied headquarters and released here said Italian troops will "cease all acts of hostility against the Anglo-American forces wherever they may be met. They will, however, oppose attacks from any other quarter."

The Italian government "recognizing the impossibility of continuing the unequal struggle against the overwhelming power of the enemy" asked for the armistice "with the object of avoiding further and more grievous harm to the nation."

The war adventure into which Italy was embarked by Benito Mussolini, the creator of Fascism, who was himself deposed last July 25, thus ended in complete and absolute defeat — but with the promise that the Allies would help in freeing the country of the German yoke.

Firm Hold on Toe

As the armistice was announced, British and Canadians of the Eighth army were already installed on the Italian toe, widening their invasion hold with scant opposition.

Germany still has considerable forces in Italy.

In the coming hours, events may continue to move swiftly.

Italy's collapse represents the greatest victory so far scored by the United Nations in four years of the Second World war, and reduces the opponents worthy of consideration from three to two.

A special headquarters announcement said Italy made peace overtures "some weeks ago" and that a meeting was held in neutral territory. The Allied terms, on the Casablanca pattern, were "unconditional surrender."

"On this understanding," the announcement continued, "representatives of the Allied commander in chief were empowered to communicate to them (Italian representatives) the military conditions which they would have to fulfill.

"One clause in these military terms binds the Italian government to comply with the political, economic and financial conditions which will be imposed later.

"Further meetings were arranged and took place in Sicily.

"The armistice was signed at Allied advance headquarters there on Sept. 3, but it was agreed with the representatives of the Italian government that the armistice should come into force at a moment most favorable to the Allies, and be simultaneously announced by both sides. That moment has now arrived.

"The possibility of a German move to forestall publication of the armistice by the Italian government was discussed during the negotiations. To meet this eventuality, it was agreed that one of the senior Italian military representatives should not return to Rome. He is now in Sicily.

"Further, Marshal Badoglio arranged to send the text of his proclamation to Allied headquarters."

Italy was primarily important to the Germans because of her position in the Mediterranean and other geographical advantages. These now are lost except insofar as the Nazis may be able to keep some hold on the nation.

Battle Orders for Public

The leaflets dropped by Allied planes announced the news of the armistice to Italian civilians, and gave them these "battle orders for this phase of the war for the liberation of Europe":

To obey all orders of Allied commanders in occupied areas.

To do "nothing whatsoever to assist the Germans."

"He who wins the battle of transport wins the war" in Italy, the messages declared, and transportation workers "can and will play a decisive role."

It asked railway, dock, and road workers to see that not a single train, a single German ship, nor a single truck carrying Nazi troops or war materials is permitted to move.

---

hostilities between the armed forces of Italy and those of the United Nations.

To Help Italy Against Nazis

"On the other hand, representatives of the United Nations have indicated they will assist and support any Italian armed forces or Italian individuals who oppose the Germans or obstruct the (German) war effort."

Mussolini and the others who led Italy into the war face punishment at the hands of the victorious United Nations.

While Italian armed forces undoubtedly will be accorded the right of honorable surrender, there was no mention of this in the official statements.

Collapse of the Italian war machine gives the Germans staggering problems of occupation.

It was reported that Italian occupying troops in France already were moving home. Those in the Balkans presumably will try to get home.

Should the Nazis attempt to occupy northern Italy, it would be one more country to be garrisoned against hostile acts of the population.

The communique said the truce was approved by the United States, British and Russian governments, but made no mention of French or other United Nations governments. It is known, however, that the French Committee of National Liberation here was aware in recent days that the negotiations were going on.

North Africa Troops Sing

Algiers and other North African cities were filled tonight with singing, jubilant soldiers.

Italy entered the war June 10, 1940, when Mussolini attacked a prostrate France in hopes of winning some cheaply gained loot. The nation thus was at war 3 years, 2 months and 29 days.

Her war history was almost entirely one of defeats and increasing German domination. At the start she was theoretically an equal partner of the Axis. At the end, she was reduced to German vassalage and was the object of German scorn.

Despite their record of defeats, the Italian soldiers often showed valor, however, and the task of defeating Italy was not an easy one.

Nearly 1,000,000 Captured

Italy's casualties in dead and wounded, while considerable, were nothing like those suffered by the Nazis on the Russian front. Her losses in soldiers captured were enormous. The total of Italians in Allied prison camps now approaches 1,000,000.

One thing seems certain—the Italian people never had their heart in the war and their disaffection increased with reverses and the German domination. For centuries the Germans have been one people the Italians heartily disliked.

Capitulation No Surprise

The capitulation was no great surprise, as for weeks Italy had been tottering, and the feebleness of opposition to the British landing in Calabria last Friday made it plain there was not much fight left in the Italian armed forces.

More than 200 persons, including war correspondents, saw some of the Italian negotiators arrive at Palermo airfield in Sicily. They came in a tri-motored Italian plane escorted by Spitfires, and gunners around the field had instructions to hold their fire.

But their presence remained an official secret until today.

General Eisenhower's Announcement

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 8—The text of General Eisenhower's announcement today on the capitulation of Italy:

This is Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander in chief of the Allied force. The Italian Government has surrendered its armed forces unconditionally. As Allied commander in chief, I have granted a military armistice, the terms of which have been approved by the governments of the United Kingdom, the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. Thus, I am acting in the interests of the United Nations.

The Italian Government has bound itself to abide by these terms without reservation. The armistice was signed by my representative and the representative of Marshal Badoglio, and it becomes effective this instant.

Hostilities between the armed forces of the United Nations and those of Italy terminate at once. All Italians who now act to help eject the German aggressors from Italian soil will have the assistance and support of the United Nations.

SEP 9 - 1943

Badoglio's Proclamation

[By the Associated Press]

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 8—The text of Marshal Badoglio's proclamation announcing Italy's surrender:

The Italian Government, recognizing the impossibility of continuing the unequal struggle against the overwhelming power of the enemy, with the object of avoiding further and more grievous harm to the nation, requested an armistice from General Eisenhower, commander in chief of the Anglo-American Allied forces.

This request has been granted.

The Italian forces will, therefore, cease all acts of hostility against the Anglo-American forces wherever they may be met. They will, however, oppose attacks from any other quarter.

[Premier Badoglio personally read to the Italian people tonight his proclamation of surrender and his appearance before the Rome radio's microphone indicated that he was free of German molestation.]

Surrender Arrangements

Allied Headquarters of North Africa, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Allied headquarters' announcement on Italy's surrender:

Some weeks ago the Italian Government made an approach to the British and American governments with a view to concluding an armistice. A meeting was arranged and took place in neutral territory. It was at once explained to the representatives of the Italian Government that they must surrender unconditionally.

On this understanding representatives of the Allied commander in chief were empowered to communicate to them the military conditions which they would have to fulfill.

One clause in these military terms binds the Italian Government to comply with the political, economic and financial conditions of the Allies which will be imposed later.

Further meetings were arranged and took place in Sicily.

The armistice was signed at Allied advance headquarters there on September 3, but it was agreed with the representatives of the Italian Government that the armistice should come into force at a moment most favorable for the Allies, and be simultaneously announced by both sides. That moment has now arrived.

The possibility of a German move to forestall publication of the armistice by the Italian Government was discussed during the negotiations. To meet this eventuality it was agreed that one of the senior Italian military representatives should not return to Rome. He is now in Sicily.

Further, Marshal Badoglio arranged to send the text of his proclamation to Allied headquarters.

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 8—Italian naval and merchant marine commanders were asked today by the Allied naval commander in chief in the Mediterranean, Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, to avoid letting their ships fall into German hands and to sail immediately for Allied ports.

A message, broadcast by the United Nations radio in Algiers and recorded by the Associated Press, gave the Italians detailed instructions as to their course of action. It said:

"Sailors of the Italian navy and the mercantile marine! Your country has terminated hostilities against the United Nations. The German armed forces have become the open enemy of the Italian people and intend to seize your ships.

"Your ships are urgently needed to assist in the work of pouring supplies to Italy and your warships to protect them from the Germans. Take heed, therefore, that you do not scuttle your ships or allow them to be captured.

"The forces of the United Nations are watching out to receive you and protect you.

"Sail your ships and follow the directions now given to you by the United Nations.

"Ships in the Mediterranean: Sail to a place safe from the interference of the German armed forces. Sail if you can to North Africa or Gibraltar, to Sicily or Malta, to Haifa or Alexandria, or to Sicily, there to await the outcome of events.

"Ships in the Black Sea: Sail to Russian ports. If you have not the fuel to do this then proceed to neutral ports.

"When you meet forces of the United Nations identfy yourselves

(Continued on Page 6, Column 4)

Italian Ship Captains Urged To Save Vessels From Nazis

Admiral Cunningham's Broadcast Gives Directions For Gaining Haven In Allied Ports

[By the Associated Press]

—by day, by flying a large black or dark blue pennant from the mainmast, by showing large circular black discs on your decks as identification to aircraft.

"By night if darkened ships are met burn, dimmed navigation lights and flash the letters G A or the darkened ship.

"Follow closely all directions of United Nations forces. These are given to ensure your safety.

Opportunity For Employment

"Merchant seamen: If you first preserve your ships intact and afterward satisfy the authorities of the United Nations that you will loyally cooperate with them, there will be opportunities for further seagoing employment for you on Italian ships.

"Those of you who are in the Aegean or Black Sea: You cannot make good your escape from the Germans who are now our enemies. Do not let your ships fall into their hands. In the last resort scuttle them or sabotage them rather than let them fall into the hands of the Germans, to be used against Italy.

"Ships intending to act in conformity with this message may confirm their safe conduct by calling Malta VPT or Algiers FUG or Alexandria SUH on 500 kilocycles."

Estimated At 300 Vessels

The Italian capitulation and the Allied message evoked a strong possibility that the Allies might obtain possession and use of both the Italian navy and merchant fleet, estimated at 300 vessels totaling 1,500,000 tons.

An authoritative naval source at Allied headquarters also pointed out that the capitulation might mean the release of United Nations vessels for service outside the Mediterranean — quite possibly some of them in the Pacific.

He estimated that the Italian navy, despite severe losses in the past two years, consists today of seven battleships, three aircraft carriers under construction, two heavy cruisers, both of which are damaged; nine light cruisers with two more nearing completion, some twenty-five destroyers and about sixty submarines.

Besides these, the Italians had a very considerable number of smaller craft, including torpedo boats, escort vessels, mine sweepers, trawlers and "E" boats.

Motor Craft A Specialty

Light, fast motor craft have always been an Italian specialty. They are quite similar to the American and British motor torpedo boats.

The Allied capture of Sicily, closing the Strait of Messina, virtually immobilized the Italian fleet which had been split in two—half at Taranto on the arch of the Italian foot and half at Spezia in northern Italy.

A few days ago the Taranto squadron sailed into the Adriatic Sea and far up to Pola, possibly within easy reach of the Germans.

Italy's known losses during the war by official count, omitting warships which were damaged but were later back in service, amount to five heavy cruisers, seven light cruisers, thirty-five destroyers and large torpedo boats and a large number of submarines and many lighter craft.

Include Luxury Liners

Of the 300 Italian merchant ships believed still harbored in Mediterranean ports, the most imposing are some sixty passenger vessels, aggregating 500,000 tons, notably the luxury liners Rex and Conte di Savoia.

Perhaps even more important, however, from the standpoint of the Allies are about 250 freighters totaling 700,000 tons and 60 oil tankers, aggregating 300,000 tons. Besides, there are innumerable coasters, schooners, fishing craft.

As important as the navy and merchant ships was the fact that the Allies have gained possession of great, undamaged Italian ports.

Allied air power concentrated its efforts principally on the Italian railroads and airdromes and left the ports undamaged in most instances.

Cunningham's Broadcast

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 8 (AP).—The complete text of the broadcast today by Admiral Cunningham follows:

"Sailors of the Italian Navy and the mercantile marine! Your country has terminated hostilities against the United Nations. The German armed forces have become the open enemy of the Italian people and intend to seize your ships.

"Your ships are urgently needed to assist in the work of pouring supplies to Italy and your warships to protect them from the Germans. Take heed, therefore, that you do not scuttle your ships or allow them to be captured.

"The forces of the United Nations are watching out to receive you and protect you.

"Sail your ships and follow the directions now given to you by the United Nations.

"Ships in the Mediterranean: Sail to a place safe from the interference of the German armed forces. Sail if you can to North Africa or Gibraltar, to Sicily or Malta, to Haifa or Alexandria, or to Sicily, there to await the outcome of events.

"Ships in the Black Sea: Sail to Russian ports. If you have not the fuel to do this, then proceed to neutral ports.

"When you meet forces of the United Nations identify yourselves —by day, by flying a large black or dark blue pennant from the main mast, by showing large circular black disks on your decks as identification to aircraft.

"By night, if darkened ships are met, burn dimmed navigation lights and flash the letters G A for the darkened ship.

"Follow closely all directions of United Nations forces. These are given to insure your safety.

Merchant seamen: If you first preserve your ships intact and afterwards satisfy the authorities of the United Nations that you will loyally co-operate with them, there will be opportunities for further sea-going employment for you on Italian ships.

"Those of you who are in the Aegean or Black Sea: If you cannot make good your escape from the Germans, who are now your enemies, do not let your ships fall into their hands. In the last resort scuttle them or sabotage them rather than let them fall into the hands of the Germans, to be used against Italy.

"Ships intending to act in conformity with this message may confirm their safe conduct by calling Malta VPT or Algigers FUG or Alexandria SUH on 500 kilo-

Nazis Believed Intrenched

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 8 (AP).—An additional headquarters communique issued late tonight said: "The armistice is strictly a military instrument signed by soldiers. No political, financial, or economic terms are included. These will be imposed later.

"Granting of the armistice means only cessation of hostilities between the armed forces of Italy and those of the United Nations.

"On the other hand, representatives of the United Nations have indicated they will assist and support any Italian armed forces or Italian individuals who oppose the Germans or obstruct the (German) war effort."

While Italian armed forces undoubtedly will be accorded the right of honorable surrender, there was no mention of this in the official statements.

The communique said the armistice was approved by the American, British and Russian governments, but made no mention of French or other United Nations governments. It is known, however, that the French Committee of National Liberation here was aware in recent days that the negotiations were going on.

Algiers and other North African cities were filled tonight with singing, jubilant soldiers.

This correspondent has learned authoritatively that the German force in Italy is far more powerful than any the Allied armies yet have engaged on the southern front and that it is many times the size of what the Germans had in Africa and Sicily.

[Reports from neutral sources have indicated that the Germans had between twelve and eighteen divisions in the Po Valley region a month ago.]

Some of the toughest and best German divisions are on the peninsula. Italy, already badly torn and blasted by the war, apparently is to become the scene of a titanic struggle. The Germans are solidly intrenched in airfields and at other strategic points.

DISASTER FACES GERMAN TROOPS AS ITALY FALLS

Gen. Eisenhower Moves to Destroy or Trap All Nazis Below Alps.

ITALIANS MAY ASSIST

Whole German Position in South Bared by Nation's Collapse.

LONDON, Sept. 8. — (AP) Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower moved implacably toward the destruction or possible entrapment of every German in Italy tonight with the abrupt collapse of the southern end of the Axis.

Catastrophe at last had caught Adolf Hitler by the throat and the German high command faced the greatest strategic disaster since the autumn of 1918 when the central powers' Balkan front disintegrated.

As the war thus entered a new and decisive phase for the Allies in the west leaflets were dropped to the Italian people—presumably at Gen. Eisenhower's direction—calling upon them to have their revenge upon the Germans and to aid the Allies in beating them down.

Italians were instructed in "battle orders" to give every assistance to United Nations troops and under no circumstances to aid any Nazi.

These instructions, too, went out over the Italian radio.

The Germans themselves apparently believed that huge Allied armies already were on the move to spring a cunningly-timed trap. Their broadcasts reported 200 ships, forming two convoys presumably laden with American troops and their equipment, were streaming toward Italy for the last campaigns of that peninsula.

Italians May Fight Nazis

And the government of Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio gave strong indication that it would order Italian troops to march with Americans, British and Canadians if that became necessary to expel the Germans from Italian territory.

"Italians will resist x x x if attacked from any other (non-Allied) quarters" said a proclamation of Marshal Badoglio as heard by Algiers radio listeners.

How studied was the Allied plan for extermination of every shadow of German power in Italy was indicated by the fact that Premier Badoglio signed an unconditional surrender five days before it was announced.

The delay in making the surrender public seemed to mean that Gen. Eisenhower had calmly withheld the news of the greatest Allied victory of the war in order to make the best disposition of his forces to finish the job.

There were a number of suggestions as to who might take over the occupation of Italy and the final destruction of German strength there. Clearly the Germans had no intention of committing large forces south of Rome, but they may make a fight in the region of the Po in the north.

Mussolini Sought

To the occupation force presumably would fall the lot of seizing the person of Benito Mussolini against the day when judgment may be passed upon the man, who, of all Italians, was an enemy of the Allies and the leader who thrust his unhappy country into alliance with Hitler.

There was some hint, however, that this day of Allied justice might never come. Reports from Turkey said the former dictator was ill with cancer and interned in Fort Braschi, north of Rome.

The collapse of Italy—a nation that had lost more than 1,000,000 soldiers and an empire in a little over three years of ill-fated war—laid bare the whole German position in the south, from the Dardanelles to the French Riviera.

Hitler's loss of his greatest European ally perhaps was as fateful as was the Kaiser's in 1918 when Bulgaria, then Turkey, then Austria succumbed in quick succession to Allied arms and paved the way for the final catastrophe in Germany itself.

Premier Badoglio's capitulation had the immediate effect of stripping Hitler of about 27 Italian divisions posted in the Balkans. It probably means the immediate occupation by the Allies of such strategic spots as Sardinia and Corsica from which southern France may be invaded.

Bloody Campaign Held Possible

Although a bloody campaign may have to be fought in northern Italy before the last German is driven beyond the Alps, the Allies probably will gain quickly a variety of strategic air bases from which to punish every corner of the Reich.

An even more staggering blow to the Nazis may be the moral effect placing in doubt Hitler's ability to hold anywhere in southeastern Europe.

The dramatic bankruptcy of Fascism where it was cradled appeared bound to open crevices there, as well as in Germany.

Poised to take advantage of new battle arenas opened up in the southern theater were no less than seven Allied armies, some of them superbly in action in Italy, the American Seventh army, mysteriously inactive since the fall of Sicily, the British First and American Fifth armies which have been held in reserve in North Africa, the newly-equipped French army in North Africa, and the British Ninth and Tenth armies in the Middle East.

Hitler Relies on Satellites

Opposed to these forces of perhaps 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 men Hitler had up to 18 divisions in Italy and perhaps 15 divisions in the Balkans, plus 20 Hungarian, 12 Rumanian and 15 Bulgarian divisions—perhaps 1,200,000 men.

This meant that Hitler must depend largely on unreliable satellite troops to hold in the south.

Balkans In Foment

But already the situation in the Balkans was such that the Allies might turn the business of taking countries "by telephone"—as Hitler used to do—to their own account.

In Bulgaria, the Cabinet was reported in session today to consider the knotty problem of choosing a regent to run the country following the death of King Boris. The choice undoubtedly will be sharply influenced by the news from Italy, especially since the mother of 6-year-old King Simeon is the daughter of King Vittorio Emanuele of Italy.

Hungary was reported taking steps to declare its capital, Budapest, an open city before Allied bombing fleets arrive.

Rumania, as well as Bulgaria and Hungary, long has been reported desirous of quitting the war.

In Yugoslavia and Greece guerrilla armies probably will be receiving Allied supplies through the Adriatic soon—if there is no outright Allied invasion.

DOWNING ST. SAYS TERMS ARE SECRET

London, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Herewith is the text of a statement from No. 10 Downing Street, official residence of Prime Minister Churchill, on the surrender of Italy:

"Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has announced from Algiers this afternoon the unconditional surrender by the Italian Government. The United Nations will recognize in this event a further signal weakening of Axis forces.

"The armistice is strictly a military instrument, signed by miltiary authorities, and does not include the political, financial and economic terms which will be imposed later.

"Furthermore it is evident that the present position does not permit public announcement of the contents of a military document signed in these circumstances.

"It is not, therefore, at present proposed to alter the date of the meeting of Parliament, but the Prime Minister expects to be in a position to make a full statement to Parliament on its reassembly."

Radio and Leaflets Urge Italians to Oust Germans

Order Rail and Dock Workers to Block Nazi Transport

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 8 (AP).—The Italian people are being informed by radio and leaflets of the surrender of their government to the Allies.

The leaflets telling the news of the armistice also carried the following instructions to the Italian people:

"Italians! Backed by the might of the Allies, Italy now has the opportunity of taking vengeance on the German oppressor and of aiding in the expulsion of the eternal enemy from Italian soil.

"Italians! Here are your battle orders for this phase of the war for the liberation of Europe:

"1. In all territories occupied by the Allied armies give them all your assistance and obey precisely the orders of the commander in the field.

"2. In all areas where the German armies operate do nothing whatsoever to assist the Germans. Show your natural unity and your will to resist them by disciplined, unanimous refusal to become the accomplices of the German pirate.

"Workers! The war in Italy is your battle of transport. He who wins the battle of transport wins the war.

"In this battle the Italian people, and in particular the Italian transport workers, railway workers, dock workers and road workers, can and will play a decisive role.

"Railway workers! See that no single train carrying German material is permitted to pass.

"Dock workers! See that no single ship carrying German troops or materials is permitted to move in the area where you work.

"Italians! Make a supreme heroic effort now. In the next crucial week, by your disciplined resistance against the Germans, you can paralyze their communication lines and so help to win the Italian war of liberation."

Whereabouts of Fleet

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 8 (AP)—It was learned at Allied headquarters that the Italian Fleet had abandoned the naval base at Taranto, at the heel of the boot, steaming out of the much-bombed port and going to Pola, on the eastern Adriatic coast south of Trieste—the Italian port most distant from the war areas. So far as is known, the other main portion of the fleet still is at La Spezia, on the northwest coast.

Meaning Of Broadcast From Rome Now Clear

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 8 (AP)—A few days ago the Rome radio promised the Italian people that "help can be expected soon from an unexpected source."

Now the meaning is clear. The Italians meant help from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower—not against the Allies but against the Germans.

Berlin Admits Fall of Stalino.

London, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—The driving Russian forces smashed in to seize Stalino, Key city of the rich Donets Basin, and cleaned up the entire basin with the capture of 150towns and villages in an advance of up to twelve miles, Moscow announced tonight, adding that the drive carried as far as Novoekonomicheskoye, a little more than 100 miles from the Germans' last ditch line along the Dnieper.

The Soviet communique, broadcast by the Miscow radio and recorded by the Soviet monitor here reported more than sixty populated places captured in the Bakhmach area west of Konotop where the Red Army pushed on by as much as seven miles. South of Bryansk another advance went forward more than six miles while gains were made west and southwest of Kharkov.

The capture of fiercely defended Stalino by the Russians was acknowledged by the Germans just a few hours earlier today.

The Red Army advance also crossed the rail line to Mariupol, sixty-five miles southwest of Stalino on the Sea of Azov.

The Red Army newspaper Red Star reported that other units had severed the main railroad from the Donets Basin to Dniepropetrovsk, 115 miles west of Stalino.

Nazi's Explanation.

The German communique, recorded by the Associated Press, said Stalino, Russia's twelfth largest city, had been evacuated "to shorten the front" after all military installations had been destroyed. Russian dispatches indicated Stalino fell in flanking moves rather than by direct assault.

This new victory followed upon Moscow's announcement that the Red armies had killed more than 420,000 Germans, wounded 1,080,000 and captured 38,600 in taking back at least 30,000 square miles of occupied territory since July 5.

Stalino, a city of about 500,000 pre-war population, was taken by the Germans in October, 1941, and the Russians never had been able to wrest it back until now.

Battle Continuing.

At the hub of a railway system serving the Donets Basin, Stalino is an excellent base for a possible thrust southwest to pinch the invaders completely out of their foothold in the Kuban and in the Crimea.

The German war bulletin said the Donets battle was raging with "undiminished violence."

The Russians said their armies were advancing all along the 600-mile front, and the Germans, as in the case of Taganrog and other cities, were the first to announce that Stalino had fallen.

Nazis Lose Much Material.

The tremendous German casualties were announced in a special Soviet communique broadcast from Moscow last night. Listed also were staggering losses in war material, the Russians reporting they had destroyed 5,729 warplanes, 8,400 tanks, 5,192 guns and more than 28,000 trucks. Captured material included 1,041 tanks, 2,018 guns, 5,382 machine guns and 7,953 trucks.

There was no reference in the Russian recapitulation to their own losses, which the Germans have asserted were extremely heavy.

The regular Soviet communique recorded a steady advance along the entire front yesterday, despite increasing German resistance, especially in the important Donets Basin salient. Here Red Army troops by-passed embattled Stalino to cut a rail supply line to the steel capital.

It was in this operation, the bulletin announced that the swiftly advancing Soviet troops captured the rail junction of Ovcherikino, twenty miles northwest of Stalino, on the main line to Dnieperopetrovsk, which blocked another escape avenue to the Germans. More than ninety smaller localities also were swept into the Soviet bag, the Russians said.

Reds Gain Steadily.

The relentless strength of the Red Army offensive gave the Nazis no rest on the other three fronts that were active yesterday, according to the Moscow war bulletin. In the northern Ukraine, the area south of Kharkov and on the Bryansk sector continuous gains were recorded, with more than 200 towns and villages captured in advances up to twelve miles.

The northern Ukraine armies were under the command of Gens. Rokossovsky and Vatutin, already cited for their brilliant strategy by Premier Joseph Stalin. These forces stabbed westward from captured Konotop to storm the town of Chestnobudka, five miles north of Bakhmach, an important junction on the railway line to Kiev, the Nazi's Dnieper River key Bastion.

Gains of from two and one-half to four miles were reported on the front south of Kharkov. Here the railway town of Korkhi, twenty miles below Kharkov, and several other points were captured.

Advance in Bryansk Area.

To the north on the Bryansk sector, the Red advance westward continued at the same pace. The rail junction of Navlya, thirty miles south of Bryansk on the line to Konotop, fell to the Russians, together with fifty smaller towns and villages, the Soviet war bulletin said.

Chestnobudka, taken by the Red Army forces in their northern Ukraine drive yesterday, is on the railway leading to Gomel in White Russia, and is barely seventy-five miles from the famed Pripet Marshes. If the Russians are able to reach this wasteland area before the autumn heavy rains make further advances impossible, the whole German position would be in peril, and the entire Ukraine would be open to the threat of Russian encirclement. The rains have already started, Moscow dispatches said, but so far they have failed to hinder the Russian offensive.

REDS COMPLETE RECAPTURE OF RICH DONETS AREA

Fall of Stalino, Industrial Center, Wipes Out Entire Nazi Salient.

TANKS DRIVE WEST

German Planes, Supply Trains Are Captured Intact.

LONDON, Thursday, Sept. 9 — (AP) The Soviet army smashed in to capture Stalino, steel making center, wiped out the entire German salient in the important Donets basin and flung its might against the retreating German army along a 600-mile front north to Smolensk, Moscow announced today.

Even as 224 Moscow guns thundered their salute for Stalino, tank spearheads were stabbing 40 miles northwest of the city—named for Marshal Joseph Stalin—so swiftly they captured German planes still parked on an airfield and seized trainloads of supplies.

In the Donets basin area the Soviet forces were reported to be 100 miles from Dnieperopetrovsk, on the Dnieper river line to which the Germans appeared to be retreating. Far to the north, near captured Konotop, the Red army slashed to Borzna, 100 miles from Kiev, key city on the Dnieper.

The Germans, now menaced by the capitulation of Italy, the sagging of the Balkans and threat of an Allied invasion from the west appeared to be falling back to their last ditch line in Russia abandoning gains won in more than two bitter years of war.

Capture of the Donets basin returned to Russian an area rich in mines and factories and straightened the line south from Kharkov to the Sea of Azov.

200 Towns Seized

The Moscow midnight communique, recorded by the Soviet monitor, said more than 200 towns and hamlets were captured in the day's advances around Stalino, south of Bryansk, west of Kharkov and toward Smolensk.

Stalino fell after fierce street fighting only today, the communique said, although the Germans announced earlier they had abandoned the city and destroyed its installations. The Russians said they captured large dumps of ammunition, many guns and mortars and other war materials in the city.

North of the city other Soviet columns, clearing out the Donets basin, routed the Germans from Krasnoarmeisokoye where 19 German planes were found intact on the abandoned airfield. Several railway trains, complete with military cargo were captured.

Borzna, northwest of Bakmarch, was captured in the push toward Kiev as 1,000 Germans fell before the advancing Russians and stores of military goods were captured. In another sector a battalion of Germans was routed and all its arms captured.

On the Bryansk front, Soviet forces swept up through the forests to capture Navlya, 30 miles south of Bryansk, penetrating the flank and rear of the Germans. Twelve hundred Nazi soldiers were killed and 25 guns captured.

West and southwest of Kharkov another 1,200 Germans were killed and 32 tanks disabled.

Premier Stalin, in a special order of the day, announced the recapture of Stalino and the Donets basin.

This greatest Russian victory since Kharkov toppled Russia's 12th largest city of nearly 500,000 which the Germans described as the "Essen of the Soviet Union" when they first overran the center on Oct. 21, 1941, when their war with Russia was four months old.

Main Nazi Base

Stalino then became the German command's main headquarters for the entire southern front, and served as such until recently.

The Germans attempted to explain their defeat with the time-worn descriptives of "shortening the line" and "elastic defense."

Moscow advices said the Red army had converged on Stalino from three sides and had been in its suburbs since Tuesday. The capture of Makeevka, suburb six miles to the northeast, virtually sealed the fate of the city. The Germans were reported to have set the city afire as early as last Sunday.

Without pause, the Red army was said in Moscow dispatches to be striking along the 100 - mile stretch of railway west of Stalino toward Dnieperopetrovsk, site of the great Dnieper dam which the Russians blew up during the Red army's retreat from the Ukraine two years ago.

Hard Fighting Expected

Hard fighting was expected for both Dnieperopetrovsk and Zaporozhe, key to the Crimea, 40 miles south of Dnieperopetrovsk.

The first autumn rains already have fallen in the northern Ukraine and these are expected to bog the roads in that area soon. But in the south Ukraine and the Donets basin, several more weeks of hard, dry weather are normal.

The Red army already has won back two-thirds of the Ukraine's grain lands.

Stalino centers a lucrative iron, steel and manganese mining center and produces most of Russia's coke. It is the hub of a railroad network and until recently was headquarters of all German armies in the south.

All along the 600-mile front from the Smolensk area to the Sea of Azov, the Russians were declared driving ahead. In the northern Ukraine the capture of Chestnobudka placed Soviet vanguards within 75 miles of the Pripet marshes — a part of the Germans' east wall.

Other Russians driving along the railway from Konotop were within 125 miles of Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, and within five miles of the important rail junction of Bakmach.

NAZIS BETRAYED, SAYS BERLIN RADIO

Capitulation of Italy Is Charged to 'Criminal' Allied Plot.

LONDON, Sept. 8—(AP) The German radio screamed "betrayal" in giving the German people news of Italy's unconditional surrender tonight.

The oficial German news agency DNB made it plain that the Nazis had not been taken into the confidence of King Vittorio Emanuele and Marshal Badoglio when the Italian government decided to get out of the war.

Shifting its propaganda line to keep up with events, Berlin said an American-British "plot" overturned the Fascist regime of Premier Mussolini, which it described as loyal to Berlin. Just after July 25, when Mussolini fell, Berlin said that Fascism in Italy had proved sterile and was quite properly ousted. Then the Germans obviously hoped to keep Italy in the war through the Badoglio government.

Prepared for Treachery

"Since the criminal plot against Il Duce of July 25th and the coup d'etat prepared in cooperation with the British and Americans for removal of the Fascist regime, which was loyal to the alliance, German authorities were prepared for such open treachery and they therefore took all the measures required by the situation," said the broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press.

"The criminal plot against the defenders of Europe will fall ultimately, just as all similar actions."

Berlin's announcement of Italy's fall trailed by several hours Mar-Badoglio government.

Italians over the Rome radio.

Quoting Allied announcements on the capitulation and stating that an armistice was now in effect. Berlin added bitterly:

"Marshal Badoglio in the meantime confirmed the capitulation in a broadcast from Rome, although the King of Italy only on September 8 had rejected as slander the suggestion that Italy was thinking of capitulation.

"Badoglio admitted that he had asked Gen. Eisenhower for an armistice."

All telephone communication between Berlin and Italy has been severed, Berlin announced tonight, declaring that the Italians had refused to accept urgent calls by way of Hungary or Switzerland.

Hours after the surrender had been announced by the Badoglio government and Allied headquarters the Berlin radio first took cognizance of the situation unofficially.

A broadcast said well-informed "Foreign office circles" in Berlin understood that the German government was not informed of the step taken by King Vittorio Emanuele and Premier Badoglio.

"These circles state that Germany has taken precautionary measures for the security of the Reich and its Allies for the prosecution of the war to final victory," added the broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press.

7th Army May Be Ashore

LONDON, Sept. 8 (AP).—The German radio reported today that there are "indications" that the United States 7th Army, stationed in the Mediterranean area, has gone to sea.

"News of the beginning of landing operations is not yet available," said the broadcast.

[Merrill Mueller, a correspondent for the National Broadcasting Company, said Wednesday night in a broadcast from Algiers that "the strangest armistice in history has turned Italy into a bloody battlefield." He added: "Instead of a victorious parade the Allied forces face a violent, long-drawn-out battle that has already been partially joined. Caught in between are the Italians, who sought peace."

[In distributing Mueller's remarks, N. B. C. commented: "This was interpreted as an indication that the American 7th Army, whose whereabouts have been a secret ever since the Italian invasion, has landed in northern Italy and that a battle with the German forces may now be in progress there."]

The 7th Army participated in the conquest of Sicily.

Nazis Talk of Convoys

The Nazi propaganda machine blared forth reports that two Allied convoys of 200 ships were steaming toward Italy today as the desertion of Italy left Germany standing alone to meet new Allied attacks on the fortress of Europe.

As the nervous Nazis themselves have been forecasting, the blows may not be long in coming—from one or more directions at once.

The 200 Allied freighters which the Germans said were steaming toward Italy north of Sicily presumably were loaded with American troops. The Germans surmised that the convoys had come from Palermo, Sicily.

[Palermo is 460 air-line miles south of Genoa, which is 230 air-line miles northwest of Rome and only 175 air-line miles from the nearest German border.]

The German radio also reported fresh landings of British troops near Pizzo, northeast of Cape Vaticano, on the Gulf of Santa Eufemia. Possibly with foreknowledge of what was about to happen, the Nazi commentator added that these forces were put ashore with the aim of cutting off German units still in southern Italy.

Allied confirmation of these enemy reports was lacking, but, assuming they might be true, it is reasonable to conclude that the Allied command is bent upon a quick clean-up of Italy before launching a grand-scale invasion of the European fortress.

On the day before the Allies moved into Italy proper on Sept. 3, the German radios let loose a series of radio broadsides, predicting invasion thrusts simultaneously from Great Britain in the west and against the Italian mainland from Sicily.

30.24-8181

Effects of Surrender Listed

Fall of Italy May Prove a Catastrophe to Hitler's Whole War Effort.

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE.

London, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—The war for the western world entered its final and decisive phase tonight, bloody and prolonged though that phase may be. The fall of Italy laid the whole German position in the south open to attack all over the Mediterranean, along whose shores immense Allied forces were marshaled and ready for the campaigns of destiny that now lie ahead.

It was the first great payment on Hitler's bill of defeat. He had lost by far the strongest of his European allies, and the loss was perhaps as punishing and fateful as the Kaiser's loss in 1918 when Bulgaria, and then Turkey and then Austria-Hungary collapsed. After that came catastrophe.

Today's capitulation represents the greatest turn of the war since the Russians demonstrated their ability to hurl back the Germans. It had the immediate effect of stripping Hitler's Balkan defenses of an estimated twenty-seven Italian divisions and of putting him in imminent peril in such vital areas as Rumania, where he is believed to have been getting a fourth of his entire oil supplies.

Even More Staggering.

The longer range effects of Italy's surrender were even more staggering to the Nazis, for the final defeat of the first home of Fascism put in grave question Hitler's ability to hold on anywhere in southeastern Europe. The surrender exposed the bankrupt principle of ruthlessness, which had originated in Fascist Italy, and on which Hitler's politics had been based.

Arrayed against the Germans in the Mediterranean alone were all or parts of seven Allied armies: The American Fifth and Seventh armies, the British Eighth, Ninth, Tenth and First armies and the French Forces of Gen. Henri Giraud. Somewhere in the middle East there stood tens of thousands of Poles—perhaps more than 100,000—with burning memories of Warsaw. And there stood, too, such an army of Greeks who had escaped from Greece.

The forces, the great bulk of them fresh and superbly equipped, now stood opposed in the Balkans by an estimated fifteen German divisions, twenty Bulgarian and twelve Rumanian divisions and about 300,000 Hungarian troops. This means, of course, that Hitler's holding force in the south must depend now in large part, not on the admittedly able German troops, but upon the forces of the small accomplice Powers that have nothing much in common beyond mutual dislike.

May Take Balkans by Telephone.

The ability and willingness of these satellites to fight on much longer is plainly questionable, and the mere menace of an Allied invasion may yet cause them to call it quits. It appeared, in other words, that the technic of taking countries "by telephone," as Hitler used to do, may now be turned against him.

The defeat of the master principle was bound to affect these people profoundly, just as it was bound to open crevices in the whole facade of German political unity at home.

From the tip of Greece westward over the broad sweep of southern Europe—across the Balkan peninsula with its wide valleys and on to the easy terrain of Southern France—all this formed a possible arena for the final battle for the west. Not since another September, twenty-five years ago, had the German High Command stood in a strategic situation of such general peril.

Hitler was in this situation: His whole southern front was threatened from France to the eastern Mediterranean. His eastern front was bending and breaking under the shock of the terrible blows of Stalin's armies and he was under the menace as well of British and American attack at the flank and rear, and his western front also was open to an Allied attack based upon Great Britain.

The Allied Armies had firmly set foot upon the road to Berlin whether that road is to be via the Balkans or France.

The news will indoubtedly have an immediate, important effect on the reported negotiations for a three-power conference between President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin. His advance knowledge of Italy's surrender undoubtedly was what prompted Mr. Roosevelt yesterday to predict further new steps toward the conference within the next twenty-four or forty-eight hours. The victory in Italy, which in one stroke removed at least sixty enemy combat divisions from the war, undoubtedly will raise the Anglo-American Allies in the estimation not only of the neutrals but also of Russia, which has so often minimized the value of the British and American efforts.

30.24-8181

most maps as Civita Livinia is five miles west of Velletri. The Rome radio later reported that Albano, on the same railroad as the other four towns and fourteen miles southeast of Rome, was bombed.

The broadcast declared that the principal street of Frascati was almost totally destroyed and the buildings on the main square including the cathedral either collapsed or were seriously damaged.

This raid was staged shortly before the armistice went into effect.

ROME'S SUBURBS BOMBED BY ALLIES

London, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—The Rome radio said today that Frascati and other localities in the suburbs of Rome were heavily bombed at noon today by Allied planes. A broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said that the towns of Colonna, Grottoferrata, Lanuvio and Velletri, all on a railroad circling Monti Albani, which dominates the Italian capital, were also bombed and strafed.

The greatest damage was done, however, the broadcast added, at Frascati by "enemy" planes which swept over the town in waves exactly at noon. The town was described as a favorite summer resort for the population of Rome.

Frascati is twelve miles east of Rome, while Velletri is twenty-one miles southeast of the Italian capital. Grottoferrata is three miles directly south of Frascati, and Lanuvio which appears on

GREEK AND ITALIAN EXILES HAIL NEWS

London, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—News of Italy's surrender was greeted happily by the Free Italian Organization here and by the Greeks, who called it the biggest step yet toward the liberation of their countries.

Andrea Simoni, head of the Free Italian movement, said: "It is perhaps too soon to talk, but it a happy thing that Italy is out of the war."

Awaiting word from the Government seat in Cairo, Greek spokesmen were cautious, but said that the Axis would be unable to continue domination of the Balkans with the east coast of Italy occupied by the Allies.

The first public break of the news that Italy had capitulated caused major excitement in the Foreign Office section of the British Ministry of Information. It was obvious that, although the officials here had been sitting on a big news story, they had not expected it to break as quickly as it did.

Nearly half an hour after the news had been flashed by the agencies from Army Headquarters in North Africa, the Ministry of Information summoned newsmen to confirm the announcement. J. H. Brefner head of the Ministry's news division, smiled when he stepped to the microphone to read Gen. Eisenhower's announcement. As he finished reading the text he added these words: "End of damned good message."

British See Cleanup Signal

O'QUINN

London, Sept. 8 (AP)—England received the news of the fall of Italy calmly tonight, with the man in the street taking it as a signal for the early cleanup of the Continent.

There were no big demonstrations in London. The news came too late for many Londoners, who were en route home at the time, but the British Broadcasting Company kept up victory broadcasts, while cheering theater crowds were told of the Italian fall.

London's Little Italy in Soho, buzzed with general satisfaction.

Relief And Pain Mingle

"Every Italian seems to have the same thought," said a cafe proprietor. "One part of him feels great relief; the other still patriotic enough to feel pain at what happened to his country."

The British press hailed the fall of Italy as the breakup of the Axis.

"The Axis is no more," said the Herald. "That once-terrifying term was meaningless at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The effect in Germany will be profound. It will immensely weaken the Fuehrer's authority. It will hasten his end."

"Much agony and much bloodshed lie ahead of us before the war in Europe is over," commented the News Chronicle. "But here in actuality is the end of one of our enemies."

Brings Surge Of Hope

"The news will bring a surge of hope to the captive peoples throughout Europe," said the Plymouth Western Morning News.

"It is Hitler's turn next," the Daily Worker stated. "And it will be Hitler's turn this year if a second front is opened without delay."

It was an entirely different picture from the dark day in June, 1940, when Mussolini strode to his balcony in the Palazzo Venetia to tell the world that Italy was entering the war against a practically defeated France.

On that day, the average Britor was wondering if il Duce's stab in the back might not be the crowning blow from the Axis.

Tonight he took Italy's fall as the signal for an early cleanup of the Germans.

"Now we can get at the bloody Nazis," said a pub patron. "Just think of the lives of our boys saved with the ending of the useless fight in Italy."

Andrea Simoni, head of the free Italian movement, said "perhaps it is too soon to talk, but it is a happy thing Italy is out of the war." A Greek leader said that with the east coast of Italy occupied by Allied troops the German domination of the Balkans could not be continued.

70,000 War Prisoners To Be Freed In Italy

London, Thursday, Sept. 9 (AP)—There are at least 70,000 British and Canadian prisoners of war and an estimated 1,200 Americans, for whom the Italian capitulation means freedom.

"It can be assumed that the unconditional surrender accepted by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower took into account the immediate release of all prisoners of war and that they will reach Allied hands as soon as conditions allow, the War Office said.

High British officers among the prisoners included Air Marshal O. T. Boyd and Maj. Gen. Carton de Wiart.

Also prisoners are Larry Allen and Godfrey H. P. Anderson, Associated Press correspondents.

Eisenhower In Italy, Report

London, Thursday, Sept. 9 (AP)—London morning newspapers today quoted an Algiers radio report that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower flew to the Italian mainland Sunday and met Marshal Pietro Badoglio for final discussions on Italy's surrender.

LONDON Thursday, Sept. 9—(AP) Reuters correspondent in Stockholm quoted reports received there today that the Italians garrison on the island of Corsica, off the southern coast of France, had overpowered German troops stationed with them.

GERMAN AIRFIELDS POUNDED BY R.A.F.

Nine Axis Planes Shot Down in Vicious Dog-fights.

LONDON, Sept. 8—(AP) The Allied aerial pincers on beleaguered German Europe closed tighter today as Italy capitulated and Britain-based bombers, operating in close concert with the Mediterranean drive, continued their intensive hammering of enemy airfields and communications in the west.

This assault was obviously building toward an eventual climax like that in the south.

Italy's capitulation, which the air battering from Britain materially hastened by hampering both aerial and ground reinforcements, will in turn give impetus to the western campaign, permiting closer concentration of Allied airpower on the Germans' crumbling Europena fortress.

Italian air bases, in addition to providing an advance striking point against Germany from the south, were also a likely terminus for shuttlebombing from Britain. Flying Fortresses have already shuttled much farther to North Africa.

Nine Axis Planes Downed

Carrying the northern pincers attack into the seventh straight day American Marauders followed up R. R. F. night attacks with Mosquitos and Intruders by raiding two more Nazi airbases in France, Lille-Vendeville and Lille-Nord, while R. A. F. Mitchells attacked a field at Vitry-en-Artois. Nine enemy fighters were brought down in these raids.

The largest fleet of Spitfires ever used by the R. A. F. fighter command on one operation escorted bombers on the Lille and Vitry-en-Artois attacks and started one of the war's biggest dogfights.

One squadron saw more than 90 German Fighters. A Polish Spitfire wing covering the Marauders shot down six Nazi planes and damaged many more.

"I never saw the sky so full of battling aircraft," one pilot reported. "The dogfights were still going on when we crossed the coast."

Mardyck Hit Again

A separate force of R. A. F. Typhoons gave the Mardyck airfield near Dunkerque its third pasting in a week. It was hit on Thursday by American Flying Fortresses and on Sunday by Typhoons.

Describing the Lille-Nord attack group commander Col. Herbert Thatcher of Chevy Chase, Md. commented "they won't land at one fighter nest for some time."

Evening brought no confirmation of the noon Paris radio report that 1943

American bombers had raided Amiens and Abbeville again, but toward dusk coastal observers reported more formations of medium bombers streaming back across the channel from attacks still unannounced.

Flyers reported that in the attack upon Lille-Vendeville, near the Belgian frontier, direct bomb hits blew up a hangar and a German transport plane.

American Thunderbolts swarmed through the skies of northern France and Belgium, while R. A. F. fighters tangled with the Germans over the Continent. Eight German planes were brought down with a loss of five Allied fighters.

Medium and fighter bombers in seven days had about completed the coverage of the Nazis' main French airfields and appeared to be starting the circuit again before the bases could be restored to operation. Lille-Vendeville was hit on Aug. 31 and Lille-Nord only last Friday. Altogether, probably thirty bases were blasted.

Hitler Decrees War Production Reorganization

Fuehrer Asserts "Events" Necessitate Wide Change; New Powers Given Speer

LONDON, Sept. 8 (AP).—Fuehrer Adolf Hitler has ordered a complete reorganization of Germany's bomb-hampered war production, the German radio reported today in a broadcast of a decree dated Sept. 2.

Wider powers were given Albert Speer, Minister for Armament and Production, who was placed in charge of all Nazi war production.

Nazi Minister of Economics Dr. Walther Funk received the responsibility for "the general trend of economic policy, for supply of the civilian population, for currency problems, for foreign trade and for financing German economy and the economy of protectorates." Funk was called into the Central Planning Committee.

"War events have made necessary further concentration regarding organization and management of German war economies," said the broadcast.

The radio said the powers of Reich Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop were not infringed by the new arrangement.

Life in northern Jutland, Danish coastal region heavily fortified by German military authorities, has been disrupted during the last few days, the Berlin radio said, as the result of forays by "irresponsible elements, mainly of foreign nationality."

The execution in Paris of Sigmund Israel Amarant, 62-year-old Frenchman, "for helping the enemy," also was announced by the Berlin radio.

Germans Execute Dane As Sabotage Continues

Slay Another Who Was Hiding Arms Dropped by British

LONDON, Sept. 8 (AP).—A Danish engineer has been executed for sabotage and another Dane was slain while trying to escape when caught caching a large quantity of explosives dropped by British planes, according to a Copenhagen dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio today.

The name of the executed man, who is believed in London to have been the first Dane to be put to death for sabotage, was given by the Berlin radio as Paul Edwin Soerensen, of Aalborg. The broadcast was recorded here by The Associated Press.

The Berlin broadcast quoted Nazi occupation authorities in Denmark as saying that Soerensen was one of a group of Danes engaged in blowing up trains carrying German troops and war material.

Despite severe reprisals and the offer of bribes to Danish citizens to betray the saboteurs, the Berlin radio disclosed in another broadcast that attacks on railroads were continuing.

ATROCITIES IN OREL

London, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—A Russian commission for the investigation of alleged Nazi atrocities charged today that the German Army of Occupation had forced Russian prisoners of war at newly liberated Orel to live "under conditions so horrible as to almost defy description."

In a Moscow radio broadcast recorded by the Soviet monitor the commission said the deaths of thousands of Russians at Orel must be placed on several German commanders whose punishment was called for.

Three thousand persons perished from starvation or complications caused by undernourishment, the broadcast said. No less than 5,000 prisoners of war and non-combatants were buried in a cemetery near the town prison, it declared, adding that there were dozens of such cemeteries in the Orel region.

Albanian Guerrillas Prepare to Aid Allies

London, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Albanian guerrilla forces anticipate an Allied invasion of the Balkans within a month, and the Germans are moving men and equipment from Yugoslavia into Albania to meet a possible thrust across the Strait of Otranto from the Italian heel, Istanbul press dispatches reported today.

Leaders of the Albanian guerrilla bands met recently near Tirana to decide how best they could aid an invading Allied force, these reports said.

WARNS OF NEXT WAR

London, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Alfred Duff Cooper, former First Lord of the Admiralty, said yesterday in a Churchill Club address that the wise Germans knew this war was lost and now were thinking of how to prepare for the next one.

"They have good grounds for optimism," he added. "You may think it absurd. They say to themselves: 'We have done better this time than we did before. We walked over France and Holland. We very nearly defeated Britain. The United States were unwilling to come in the last war. They were more unwilling this time and will still be more unwilling the next time.'"

Duff Cooper said he spoke from "knowledge in my possession."

What will be done with Germany after the war, he said, has not yet reached the blueprint stage.

SINK TWO NAZI CRAFT

London, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Light coastal forces of the British Navy sank an enemy patrol vessel and an armed trawler today in a surprise attack off the coast of France.

An Admiralty communique said that the British forces encountered three patrol vessels and two trawlers in the vicinity of Fecamp and St. Valery and attacked with torpedoes at close range. One of the Nazi patrol vessels blew up and disappeared, and after a second explosion one of the trawlers was seen to sink, the Admiralty added.

U. S., British And Soviet Diplomats Get Together

London, Sept. 8 (AP)—A cordial gathering here today of British, American and Soviet diplomats who had been told of Italy's surrender before it was announced publicly gave rise tonight to expectations that a tripartite parley would be speeded considerably.

Representatives of the three Allied powers were together here for the first time, it was announced officially, at a luncheon given by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in honor of Ivan Maisky, Soviet Vice-Commissar of Foreign Affairs, and attended by United States Ambassador John G. Winant.

The Chinese Ambassador, the Soviet emissary to the French Committee of National Liberation and thirty-six other diplomatic representatives also were guests.

Among those told the news of Italy by Eden were the Ethiopian Minister, the Foreign Ministers of all refugee governments here and the representatives of the French Committee.

Parachute Bombs Used By U. S. in Europe

London, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—The United States Eighth Air Force is using parachute bombs in attacks on German air fields. The purpose is two-fold: to allow low-flying raiders time to escape and to land the explosives squarely, with greater effect.

The parachute bomb is a steel cylinder with TNT core which breaks upon landing into about 1,500 pieces. These scattered at velocities up to 4,000 feet a second. Airmen said that at 200 feet the fragments would pierce the hull of a tank.

ROBERT SWEENY SINKS 2 U-BOATS

London, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Flying Officer Robert Sweeny, former Pasadena golfer who won the 1937 British amateur championship and who stayed in England to help organize the American Eagle Squadron, piloted one of the R. A. F. Coastal Command planes which participated in the destruction of two of seven U-boats in the Bay of Biscay recently, it was disclosed today.

The two submarines were destroyed at an interval of only a few days. In each case they were first damaged by a Liberator manned by an American crew and finally sunk by Sweeny's Liberator.

For the double-barreled attack on the second U-boat, which was pressed home despite severe damage to his ship by flakfire, Sweeny has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Other American pilots played a big part in the U-boat sinkings, which was a combined United States-British air and naval operation. The first submarine was sighted by the crew of a Liberator piloted by First Lieutenant Charles F. Gallameier of Fort Wayne, Ind. The second was damaged by a Liberator flown by First Lieutenant Arthur J. Hammer of Larchmont, N. Y., before being sunk by the British.

Members of Lieut. Hammer's crew included Lieut. Walter B. Corkin, New Rochelle, N. Y., navigator; Lieut. Arthur A. Edgarlan, New Britain, Conn., bombardier; Sergt. Charles Parysek, Long Island, N. Y., radio gunner; Sergt. Howard W. Bard, Madalin, N. Y., engineer; Sergt. George J. Bullis, Syracuse, N. Y., gunner.

Capt. H. L. Thompson In North Ireland Post

London, Thursday, Sept. 9 (AP)—The appointment of Capt. Harry L. Thompson, former commander of the U. S. S. Nevada, as acting commandant of the Londonderry, Northern Ireland, operating base was announced today by headquarters of the United States naval forces in this theater. Thompson, a member of the staff of Admiral Harold R. Stark, European naval force commander, succeeds Commodore James A. Logan, who was killed September 4 in a plane crash.

Comdr. J. A. Logan Rites

COWAN

Head of U. S. Naval Base in Ireland Was Plane-Crash Victim

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland, Sept. 8 (AP).—American soldiers, sailors and marines were joined today by their British and Irish allies in honoring the memory of Commodore James A. Logan at funeral services for the commandant of the United States naval operating base here, who was killed in a plane crash last Sunday.

Services for the veteran Navy man from Charleston, S. C., held in a crowded recreation hall, were arranged by Lieutenant Commander F. A. Burke, of Hammond, Ind., Catholic chaplain at the base, and conducted by the Rev. Henry J. Cluber, Episcopal clergyman and Red Cross worker from Emporium, Pa.

Capt. H. Martelli, personal representative of the King, was in the group, which included British army navy and air-force officers and dignitaries of the Irish Government as well as Logan's own comrades.

LORD HAW HAW MOVES

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 8 — (AP) Because of the R.A.F. bombings of Berlin "Lord Haw Haw," who has been trying to ruffle British confidence by broadcasts over German radio stations, has been transferred to Koenigsberg, in East Prussia, along with the entire foreign department of the Berlin radio center, it was reported tonight. "Lord Haw Haw" is American-born William Joyce.

French Youths Die In Clash With Italians

Berne, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—A Swiss Telegraphic Agency dispatch from Chamonix, a French town ten miles from the junction of the borders of France, Switzerland and Italy, reported yesterday that five French youths had been killed and ten wounded in a sharp fight with Italian troops in the Chamonix region.

The youths, the dispatch said, fought to evade forced labor in Germany.

Slovakians Reported Evacuating Bratislava

Berne, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—A Budapest dispatch to the Berne newspaper, Der Bund, said today that Government Ministries in Bratislava, capital of Slovakia, and all unessential persons were being transferred to the country through fear that Allied air raids were imminent.

Three Other Cities Named

Stockholm, Thursday, Sept. 9 (AP)—Allied invasion forces have struck Gaeta, Civitavecchia and the Calabrian town of Pizzo in an effort to cut off German troops following the capitulation of Italy, the newspaper Dagens Nyheter reported today in a dispatch from the Italian frontier.

SEP 9 1943

An invasion fleet moved men and supplies ashore at Civitavecchia, fifty-five miles north of Rome, the Swedish correspondent said. The harbor there previously had been used by the Axis to ship troops to Sardinia.

He reported there were rumors that Allied parachute troops had established positions at Pizzo, on the coast fifty miles north of Reggio Calabria.

Gaeta, a port lying on a gulf of the same name, is seventy-five miles south of Rome.

Spain Reports Rescue Of British Destroyer Crew

Madrid, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—A Spanish news agency dispatch from Algeciras said last night that the Spanish freighter Antequera had rescued the entire crew of a British destroyer which burned and sank in the Mediterranean, twenty-five miles off Gibraltar.

The news agency said the mishap occurred this afternoon from an undetermined cause. The crew of 125 was reported landed at Algeciras, which lies near the British fortress.

30.24-8183

MADRID, Thursday, Sept. 9—(AP) A French report, said today rail lines along the Riviera had been sabotaged at several points and that German reinforcements from Bordeaux, Toulouse and Avignon were moving into the Riviera by all possible routes to strengthen its garrisons.

FOGGIA AIRFIELD BLASTED HEAVILY BY ALLIED AIRMEN

NORGAARD

Eighth Army Had Advanced 10 Miles Beyond Melito When Italy Quit.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 8 — (AP) Axis airfields at Foggia, comprising what is believed to be the only remaining important German air base in southern Italy, were pounded heavily yesterday by Allied airmen as the British Eighth army continued moving along coastal roads in southern Calabria, Allied headquarters announced today.

When the surrender of the Italian military forces as announced later in the day, the British and Canadian invaders had expanded their hold on the boot of the Italian peninsula to more than 76 miles of coast.

In addition to the concentrated attacks on Foggia, other Allied planes, in great numbers, yesterday roamed the skies over northern Calabria almost without opposition as they blasted railways, highways, troop detachments and other targets. Flying Fortresses alone encountered any enemy opposition. The Fortresses shot down 11 out of well more than 50 Axis planes which attempted to give battle over the Foggia air strips.

Center of Nazi Air Units

The determination of the Germans to defend the airfield at Foggia was interpreted by Allied headquarters as indicating it was still the center from which the Nazi airforce hoped to send bombers and fighters against any further Allied landing attempts. An estimated 300 German bombers were withdrawn from Sicily before it fell to the Allies and it is believed they were stationed at Foggia.

Shortly before capitulation of the Italians, British Canadian forces had pushed their grip on the peninsula to Bova Marina, ten miles east of Melito in the south. Along the west coast they had advanced as far as the Petrace river north of Palmi.

The progress of the British Eighth army was slowed considerably by the extensive demolition work carried out by the German forces. Such opposition as was encountered failed to indicate that it was more than delaying action by small forces.

Bombing Drove Fleet to Sea

Continued Allied air bombing forced the Italian fleet to abandon the naval base at Taranto at the heel of the boot, Allied headquarters learned. The fleet was reported to have gone to Pola on the eastern Adriatic shore south of Tieste—the Italian port most distant from the war zones. As far as is known, the main portion of the fleet, however, still is at La Spezia on the northwest coast.

(Today's German communique said Allied forces had swung 40 miles up the coast to the north in a new landing at the Gulf of Eufemia last night and had been "subjected to concentrated attacks" since early today. There was no Allied confirmation of this report.)

Fortress crewmen, who covered the landing fields at Foggia with bombs, said the enemy opposition was "really tough."

Other medium bombers and dive bombers struck at the Crotone freight yards and a combined highway-railroad bridge at Lauria, 15 miles southeast of Sapri.

More Allied Troops Cross

The building up of Allied forces in Italy was being pushed vigorously by fleets of boats plying back and forth across the Strait of Messina under the protection of Allied warships and planes.

The gains announced today extended by approximately 16 miles in the last 24 hours the coastal strip controlled by the invaders.

The Allied invasion five days ago began with a terrific bombardment of the Italian mainland from artillery across the narrow Strait of Messina.

Under cover of darkness the amphibious landing force hit the beaches near Reggio Calabria and established bridgeheads. Reinforcements poured in and against light opposition the Allied troops fanned out.

Throughout the five days of the campaign which resulted in the fall of Italy the invading Allied forces had little contact with opposing troops. The main obstacle to even more rapid expansion was the demolition work of the retreating Germans and Italians, which was aided by the difficult ground over which the Allied forces were advancing.

30.24-8183

Allies Gain 2 Major Aims In Ten Months of Fighting

NORGAARD

Fall of Italy Obtained Far Ahead of Timetable; Air Power Cited.

SEP 9 1943

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 8 — (AP) The Allied armies, airforces and navies took exactly ten months to achieve the first two major aims envisioned by the combined Allied chiefs of staff when in Washington, well more than a year ago, they mapped the offensive against Europe.

The first objective was obtained in May when the last of the German-Italian armies in Africa surrendered. The second came today—just ten months after the Allied landings in French North Africa—when Italy surrendered unconditionally.

Italy's capitulation put General Dwight D. Eisenhower far ahead of the timetable most military men conceived for the Allies — to knock Italy out of the war before the end of 1943.

Beyond a doubt it would have taken that long and possibly much longer but for the Allied mastery of aerial warfare—a mastery on a scale and with a versatility never approached by the Axis in the earlier years of the war when it ruled the skies over Europe.

100 Airfields Available

Italy's surrender may throw open to Allied air forces at least 100 good airfields and satellite landing grounds in central and southern Italy from which all the German-occupied Balkans, all of Austria, and a large part of Germany, herself would be within easy range.

An official airforce statement, calling attention to the bases that would become available if the Allies occupy central and southern Italy, said the Fortresses could bomb all places up to 750 miles away.

"The arc of this circle 750 miles from Foggia includes the whole of Bulgaria, Rumania, Hungary, Austria and goes well into Germany," the statement said. "It runs through Ploesti oil fields, Warsaw and Berlin and goes within 80 miles of Paris.

Shorter Run to Berlin

"The Lombardy plain in northern Italy is very well supplied with good airfields. Based on them, the Fo[illegible] same basis of the 750-mile outward trip, would be able to bomb as far north as Copenhagen and Brest and would be only 500 miles from Berlin.

"This would make the round trip to the German capital 100 miles less than it is from Britain, which is 600 miles away."

Few are optimistic enough to believe, however, that the Lombardy plain is likely to become an Allied bombing base in the immediate future.

In the midst of the jubilation over Italy's complete collapse, realistic soldiers took a sober view and cautioned against premature optimism.

They are well aware that Germany already has poured undetermined numbers of troops into northern Italy and will exert every possible effort to prevent two of the biggest prizes—the Italian navy and merchant fleet—from falling into Allied hands.

Despite this, soldiers and people of the Allied nations realize how well the campaign was planned and executed after the decision was reached to knock the weakest Axis partner out of the war first, then to bring the concentrated might of the Allies to bear from every side on the Nazis.

The attack through Italy became an absolute certainty when the Axis armies in Tunisia were battered into submission.

With the Northwest African airforce setting the pace, the stage was set with the capture of the little islands of Pantelleria and Lampedusa and then the more ambitious and infinitely more difficult conquest of hilly Sicily.

Systematic Bombing Next

Then began the systematic bombing of the vital points in Italy. The Allied command had two paramount objectives in view—destruction of railroads and rolling stock at important junctions so that the German high command could not retreat or move large armies into southern Italy, and the wiping out of the German Air force and its bases throughout the southern part of the country.

The great ports — essential to rushing Allied troops into Italy to meet the Germans at whatever point the enemy elects to attempt a stand — were left untouched in most cases.

An airforce statement today disclosed that well over 20,000 tons of bombs had fallen in Italy's freight marshalling yards, industrial installations, airfields and ports in the last six months and of that total more than half was sent crashing down onto railway systems and airfields in August alone.

Naples Major Target

The statement said that since last April Naples had been the most frequent target as the Allied airforce put a "tourniquet around this supply artery x x x."

On July 19, the statement said, more than 500 Allied bombers raided military objects in Rome, and it brought down Premier Mussolini's tottering regime in less than a week.

Again on Aug. 13 Rome was hit again.

The long careful planning has paid big dividends but few believed until tonight the payoff would come so quickly. The Allies still have a big problem of rushing armies onto the continent to battle the Germans wherever they attempt a stand. But Hitler has an even bigger problem of getting troops into central Italy.

ITALIANS ADOPT ALLIED PLANES

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—A Spitfire droned over Reggio Calabria and an Italian civilian looked up apprehensively. Then with evident relief, he said, "it's one of ours."

"No, it's one of ours," corrected an R. A. F. officer with whom the civilian had been chatting.

"That's the same thing now," replied the Italian with a shrug of his shoulders. The story was related today in an official R. A. F. statement.

Naz.-Italian Battle In Calabria Reported

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 8 (AP)—The story of a bloody battle between German and Italian troops three days before the Allied invasion of Italy was revealed today by an RAF officer.

The officer, who visited the hilly region behind Reggio Calabria where the fighting took place, said an Italian, who formerly lived in the United States, told him 200 Germans and one hundred Italians were killed or wounded.

The Italian was quoted as saying the fighting started when Italian troops refused to oppose the Allies. The fight, he reported, "lasted only a few hours, but it was heavy in casualties . . . and neither side showed any mercy."

Residents of Reggio reported that some Italian civilians had killed a number of Germans and then fled to the hills.

ports and water supplies must be prevented by force of arms. All German orders are to be disregarded.")

Dodecanese Thrusts Ordered

(A third proclamation by General Wilson to Italian troops in the Aegean islands urged them to "take possession by force of all fronts occupied by the Germans in the Dodecanese, said a British broadcast recorded by N.B.C.

The text of General Wilson's message:

"A message from the commander in chief of Middle East forces to the Greeks and Yugoslavs:

"The Italians have been beaten to their knees. The armistice was signed between them and the United Nations.

"The gallant work of your guerrilla bands and underground organizations in disorganizing the Axis plans have helped the great Allied victory in Italy. The Italians are bound to fulfill the terms of this armistice, otherwise they are liable to the pains of penalties. Italian troops in the Balkans are now obeying my, not German, orders. According to my order they must cease all hostile acts to the Greeks and the Yugoslavs. Their ships must be handed over to the United Nations. Their aircraft must be flown to Allied airfields. They must not hand over their arms and equipment or defended points to the Germans.

Fight Continues Against Nazis

"The fight still goes on against these Germans, the real enemy, who are seeking to postpone the liberation of your country. To all of you who are our friends I say:

"1—Don't prevent the Italians from returning home.

"2—The Germans will seek to cause bloodshed between you and the Italians in order to strengthen their position. Don't be misled by this and play the German game.

"To those of you who are fighting the Axis in the open I say: Do your best to obtain peacefully Italian arms and equipment which will enable you to carry on your glorious struggle against the remaining

Reserve Categories Abolished

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 8 (AP)—An indication that Italy may already be beginning partly to demobilize her army was reported today in a Rome broadcast of a new decree abolishing several categories of reserve officers as "unnecessary."

SEP 9 1943

A French officer at Allied Headquarters said that Italian occupation troops were being withdrawn from the Nice area in France and were being replaced by Germans.

TIME TO STRIKE NOT YET AT HAND, BALKANS WARNED

MCGAFFIN

Gen. Maitland Wilson Calls on Italians in Aegean to Expel Nazis.

CAIRO, Sept. 8.—(AP) Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, Allied commander in chief in the Middle East, tonight called upon Greeks and Yugoslavs to "await our signal for a general uprising," and cautioned that the hour of their liberation had not yet arrived.

In his broadcast message General Wilson informed the two occupied countries of the Italian armistice and paid tribute to guerrilla bands for helping bring about the victory.

(Addressing Italian troops in the Balkans by radio, General Wilson asked them to prevent "by force of arms" the Germans from taking over their weapons and supplies. The broadcast was recorded by C.B.S.

("The war between Italy and the United Nations has come to an end," said General Wilson. "All attempts made by the Germans or their vassals to disarm Italian troops or to dissolve them, take over their arms, supplies, trans-enemy with greater success.

1943

"To those of you who are waiting to see which way events will go I say: Make up your minds now or be involved in the ruin that will befall the Germans.

Warns of German Tricks

"To those of our friends who have not yet revealed themselves I say: The Germans will now try by ruses to make you show your hand and reveal your secret plans and organizations prematurely. By doing so he plans to destroy you piecemeal. Don't be caught by this trick. The hour of final liberation has been brought much nearer but it is not here yet. Await our signal for a general rising.

"Meanwhile, the fight of the United Nations against the Germans goes on. The Germans will be utterly destroyed."

AIR AND SEA BLOCKADE PINS NAZIS IN BALKANS

O'BRIEN SEP 9 1943

Bulgaria, Rumania And Hungary Left To Own Resources As Italian Troops Quit—Allied Planes Drop "Clock Leaflets" To Warn Sofia

[By the Associated Press]

Istanbul, Sept. 8—An Allied submarine and air blockade, bracketing the Black Sea and Aegean entrances to the Dardanelles, throttled German military efforts in the lower Balkans today as the satellite nations there, faced with Italy's surrender, pondered continuation of the war or throwing themselves on the mercy of the United Nations.

With Italian soldiers supposedly throwing down their arms all through the Balkan region, Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary were left to their own resources and what few troops the Germans could spare to face revenge-hungry Yugoslav and Greek guerrillas.

Clock Leaflets On Sofia

Allied planes have been making regularly repeated flights over Bulgaria dropping "clock leaflets" warning Bulgarians that the zero hour for them is fast approaching, one traveler reported on arriving here today. The leaflets picture a clock with the hands creeping toward midnight.

Allied planes dropped the first "clock" leaflet three weeks ago, he said, with the hands pointing to 11.45 and carrying a warning to Bulgaria to get out of the war while there was still time.

The second batch of leaflets, a week later, set the time at 11.50 and a few days later the ominous clock pointed to 11.55. The last raid over Sofia ten days ago showered leaflets, picturing the time at just three minutes to midnight.

The last leaflet also carried a picture of a big United States bomber of the type which attacked Ploesti in Rumania.

Because of weakened overland routes through Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Greece, the Germans rely strongly on sea traffic to build up gasoline, oil and other vital [illegible] stores at forward Greek and Aegean defense postions which might come under Allied attack.

The overland routes are straining to carry troops which cannot be shipped through Turkey's neutral waters and are continually being disrupted by Yugoslav and Greek guerrillas.

As the hour of Italy's doom was striking, opposition members of the Bulgarian Sobranje (Parliament) raised their voices against the collaborationist government and dictatorship of Premier Bogdan Philov—only to be silenced by a vote depriving them of freedom of speech.

Hitler Sends Message

A message from Adolf Hitler was read at the session. Opposition protests were aroused by the Government's decision, as reported by the German news agency DNB and recorded by the Associated Press, to postpone convoking a new Parliament to choose a regency to reign over the country during the minority of 6-year-old King Simeon, son of the late King Boris.

In announcing the decision, the Cabinet acknowledged "present difficulties" prevented summoning of the Parliament to elect regents according to constitutional methods.

The Cabinet's proposal will be voted on by the Sobranje tomorrow. Among candidates for the regency council are the Queen Mother whose home country is Italy.

But the German masters were apparently in too much difficulty of their own to bother with the petty details of satellite politics and strife.

During the past two years, the Allied blockade has kept a potentially-enormous Black sea-Aegean traffic to a mere 300,000 register tons and has sunk 20 per cent of that.

Although only 20 per cent of the total two years' shipping tonnage through the straits was sunk, better than half—24 out of 46—of the 46—of the actual number of ships used was sunk. In addition two were severely damaged.

This record hangs upon the vigilance of Soviet submarines and air patrols in the Black sea and British submarines operating in conjunction with American and British air eyes in the Aegean.

The traffic is mostly between Constanza in Rumania and Piraeus in Greece, both of which are capable of handling far heavier traffic. The south French and Greek ports provided the Germans with large reserves of tankers and freighters.

Constant Threat

Consequently, only the constant threat of the Allied two-sea patrol team can account for the fact that less than a third of a million tons of shipping attempted to ease the overland strain.

Most sinkings have been tankers carrying Rumanian oil and gasoline to the Aegean area. The latest sinkings, however, sent 2,000 tons of Turkey's chrome ore, bound through the Black sea to Germany, to the bottom.

Moscow, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Russian Orthodox Church Congress today elected 76-year-old Sergei, Metropolitan of Moscow, as Patriarch of Moscow and all Russia.

As Patriarch, he became the head of the Holy Synod (administrative body, consisting of six members which the congress named, and the leader of Greek Orthodox churches in other parts of the world.

The Patriarch served as acting head of the church for more than a decade when it was without a formal leader. He was the first to swing its support to the side of the Soviet Union after the German invasion.

New Zero Fails To Check U. S. Flyers in China

SEP 9 1943

Chennault Says Its Explosive Bullets Make It 'Blow Up Easier When We Hit It'

HEADQUARTERS 14TH UNITED STATES ARMY AIR FORCE IN CHINA, Sept. 6 (Delayed) (AP).—The Japanese are relying to a large extent on an improved type of fighter plane in an unsuccessful attempt to check the ever-growing activities of the 14th United States Army Air Force in China, Major General Claire L. Chennault said in an interview today on his fifty-third birthday.

General Chennault disclosed that the 14th Air Force has been reinforced with fast, high-climbing Lightning fighters which are being used with Warhawks, Liberators and Mitchells in stepping up the tempo of offensive operations against the enemy.

Reviewing the situation since Aug. 1, General Chennault said the Japanese "started using for the first time considerable forces of new Zeros from Hankow, Canton and Hongkong to attack our airdromes."

"I concluded," he said, "that they believed the new Zero so superior they did not need to send bombers. Although they employed new tactics, the results show that their loss during August was 125 planes definitely destroyed, 38 probably destroyed and two damaged—all in air combat."

Chennault described the new Zero, called the "Hap" as the successor to the old "Oscar," as having a higher ceiling and better diving characteristics, permitting almost vertical attacks. The "Hap" armament includes 20-millimeter cannon and a 13-millimeter gun with a new high-explosive bullet.

"But the 'Hap' blows up easier when we hit it," General Chennault said.

During August, the 14th Air Force made 512 sorties against the Japanese, bombing and machine-gunning enemy shipping, supply depots, communication and airdromes in an arc through occupied China from Ichang on the upper Yangtse, through Hankow to the coast at Hongkong and Canton, and in Indo-China from Hanoi to near the Yunnan border.

"In August," Chennault said, "the Japanese tried attacking our main bases. Now they have shifted back to an aggressive defensive, using bombers heavily escorted by fighters only against our unoccupied advance auxiliary airfields where no aircraft are stationed.

"Their bombing efforts have been expended for nothing. They avoid airdromes which they know we occupy.

"The Japanese are trying to conserve air losses in China and are getting more cautious, raiding only when they think it is imperative. Anything they lose in China they consider very serious because the planes are needed elsewhere, especially in the southwest Pacific.

"China is a closed issue to them until somebody opens it, so they occupy it and hold most of what they want."

Summarizing operations since the first of September, General Chennault said that four Zeros were destroyed and three probably shot down without loss to the American force.

Four Locomotives Smashed.

Fourteenth United States Air Force headquarters in China, Sept. 7 (Delayed) (A. P.).—American Lightnings and Warhawks took further toll of Japanese transport facilities in the area south of Hankow on Monday in dive bombing and strafing sweeps, a communique announced today. Four Yangtze River boats, two tugs and two barges were reported sunk and five other river boats were burned or damaged. Only one Japanese plane was encountered and it was shot down.

J. B. Powell Honored in China

CHUNGKING, Sept. 8 (AP).—The Foreign Correspondents' Club here today elected J. B. Powell, American newspaper man, an honorary member in recognition of "particularly meritorious service in the field of foreign correspondence in China." Mr. Powell, the first person so honored, was editor of "The China Weekly Review" until his arrest by the Japanese shortly after Pearl Harbor. Ill treatment at the hands of his captors resulted in the amputation of one foot. He was returned to the United States on an exchange ship.

Japanese Put Pressure On Portuguese in Macao

Move Up Troops When 'Adviser' Demands Are Refused

CHUNGKING, Sept. 8 (AP).—A dispatch to Chungking newspapers from Macao, Portuguese colony on the coast of south China near Hongkong, reported today that the Japanese have demanded the installation of Japanese "advisers" in Macao under pain of military occupation. The Governor of Macao was said to have refused the Japanese demand, reminding them of Portugal's neutrality.

Thereupon, the dispatch reported, the Japanese sent additional troops into the districts bordering Macao to "increase the pressure on the Portuguese authorities."

U. S. PARACHUTE GUNS IN ACTION IN NEW GUINEA

HAUGLAND SEP 9 1943

Air-borne Artillery Shells Jap Targets in Markham Valley Near Lae.

AUSTRALIANS ROUT ONE UNIT

Most of Patrol Is Believed Slain as Anzacs Get Within Five Miles of Lae Airport.

Allied Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Field artillery pieces dropped by parachute with American paratroopers at Nadzab airport on Sunday are now firing at Japanese targets in the Markham Valley in the direction of Lae, Allied Headquarters disclosed tonight.

It was also announced that a strong offensive patrol of 100 Japanese troops was routed near Singaua Plantation, ten miles east of Lae, on Monday by Australian infantry which had landed on the New Guinea coast forty-eight hours earlier. The troops were advancing westward along the Huon Gulf toward Lae itself and were approaching the Busu River, only five miles from Malahang, one of the threatened city's main airdromes. Most of the Japs were believed killed.

The Australians were within range of enemy guns at Lae, but these weapons have not been fired so far, indicating the effectiveness of the heavy aerial pounding of Lae by Liberator bombers before the Allied invasion on Saturday.

Guns Dropped From Planes.

The field guns dropped from transport planes on Sunday were assembled "as quickly as men could find the pieces in the tall grass" and have now been rolled into position and placed in action, headquarters announced. The guns have been directed on a target along the road to Lae.

American paratroopers and other units in Markham Valley have not yet met serious opposition.

It was said officially that operations on both sides of Lae are proceeding according to plan without real resistance. Since the first few days are all-important in operations of this kind, it was pointed out that the lack of opposition augurs well for the ultimate success of the pincer movement.

Malahang airdrome, across the Busu River from the advancing Australians, is three miles from Lae airfield proper, which was the town's secondary airdrome.

Americans Take Air Strip.

The American paratroopers, virtually unopposed, captured the Nazdab airstrip—in the Markham Valley, twenty miles northwest of Lae—on Sunday, and today headquarters disclosed that it has been placed in shape, and that Australian troops were streaming in by air transport to reinforce the paratroopers moving on Lae from the rear.

Lae has two airdromes. Salamaua, eighteen miles to the southeast, has one. All three are in danger of seizure as a consequence of an encirclement which has trapped a Japanese Army estimated at 20,000 men. And not one of the three can any longer be used by the enemy. On the other hand, Allied bombers, escorted by fighters, have made it

30.24-8185

30.24-8185

JAPS SEEK PLANES FOR LAE DEFENSE

HAUGLAND

Air Strength on Other Fronts Seriously Depleted, Says MacArthur.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Thursday, Sept. 9—(AP) The Japanese, still putting up no heavy resistance against advancing Allied troops at Lae, New Guinea, are so desperately in need of air support in that battle sector that they are perilously depleting their plane strength on other fronts.

This disclosure was made today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters which pointed out that the enemy by thus rehabilitating his badly battered airforces in New Guinea and in the Solomons, is "becoming weakened and vulnerable to air penetration in other theaters."

The Japanese, who have lost more than 400 planes recently in New Guinea and more than 500 since Aug. 1 over the Solomons, lost 21 more for certain and nine others probably in operations reported in today's communique against the loss of only five Allied planes.

Little News of Fighting

News from the ground front was of a limited character. Northeast of Lae, Australians who previously had been reported within five miles of that air base moved ahead, meeting resistance only from minor Japanese patrols. Northwest of Lae, American paratroopers who landed in the Markham valley and seized an airstrip, consolidated their position.

SEP 9 1943

The pressure below Lae and Salamaua was maintained, with sharp fighting at Bobdubi, five miles south of that air base.

At Lae, where Japanese strongpoints have been pounded into ruins in repeated heavy air attacks, 96 more tons of explosives have been dropped, headquarters reported.

Twenty Japanese planes appeared over the Darwin, Australia, area and 14 were downed or damaged.

In the Solomons, the American Air force made a heavy raid on southern Bougainville, site of the big enemy air base of Kahili. Five enemy planes were downed during the raid.

Today's advices on the New Guinea fighting still emphasized the weak opposition encountered at Lae, a note which has been sounded by each communique since the Australians landed from the sea northeast of the enemy air base and American paratroopers, with a few Australians, descended northwest of it in the Markham valley.

"No heavy resistance has as yet been encountered," today's communique said.

During sporadic Japanese air raids, one enemy fighter was downed by anti-aircraft.

In the region of Morobe, which is below the Salamaua battle scene, Allied fighters intercepted 27 Japanese bombers and 35 fighters. The bombers were forced to jettison their bombs and four of the fighters were shot down. There were no Allied loshes.

Other Japanese plane losses reported today included two torpedo planes and four dive bombers downed by surface ships and anti-aircraft defenses during an enemy air attack September 4 on Allied naval vessels in the Huon Gulf. It said the damage the planes inflicted was superficial.

In the Solomons sector, where the Americans have posed a new threat against Japan's garrison at Vila, Kolombangara, by occupying Arundel Island, just off New Georgia, today's communique reported there still were a few Japanese on Arundel. They are being engaged in the northern part of the island, which is within artillery shelling distance of Vila.

SENATORS TOUR DOWN UNDER

Allied Headquarters, Australia, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—The Congressional party which has been touring the Allied battlefronts inspecting the United States Army personnel overseas, arrived in Townsville today. It was understood that the party had come in from an extensive survey of this area.

Headed by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. (R.-Mass.), the committee included Senators Albert B. Chandler (D.-Ky.), Ralph C. Brewster (R.-Me.), Richard B. Russell (D.-Ga.) and James M. Mead (D.-N. Y.). They were met by Major.-Gen. Richard J. Marshall, representing Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and J. P. Ragland, the American Consul, representing Nelson J. Johnson, the American Minister.

After a night's sleep in a tent in the bush, the party arose before dawn, ate a camp breakfast and went searching for kangaroos. Riding in jeeps they pursued a herd of 150, found the animals made a speed of about twenty miles an hour, and caught one.

New Australian Plane In Action in Pacific

Allied Headquarter in the Southwest Pacific, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—The Australian Boomerang is in action against the Japanese.

It is a new type of single engine fighter plane, designed to be especially useful for ground co-operation work. In this capacity, it has helped the Americans and Australians overrun Mubo, a strong point twelve miles below Salamaua, New Guinea; has aided the Allies in moving to the very edge of the Salamaua airstrip and in making the new landings of the past few days around Lae.

Headquarters, however, withheld the plane's use until today.

FIRST LADY IS BUSY

Sydney, Australia, Sept. 8 (A P.).—Making friends with Australian service groups and meeting "as many Americans as I can," Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt spent two hours at the 118th General Hospital and then made brief visits today to Australian hospitals. She visited many battle casualties from the Pacific campaign.

BUNSEN

America's First Lady ate dinner at the regular mess and autographed a white chef's can for Pfc. John Mourey of Johnstan Pa. She was serenaded by the Fourth Depot Band.

The next stop was an Australian military hospital where Lord and Lady Wakehurst were her hosts. Three platoons of Australian service women and nurses stood at attention and offered her snappy salutes. She answered with handshakes.

At the zoo she posed for pictures with a chubby Koala bear, Australia's mascot. The Koala grabbed at her lapel. Mrs Roosevelt wasn't perturbed, but other members of her official party were.

Japan Lost 80% of Installations In U. S. Raid on Marcus Island

IN CHURTRY

By The Associated Press

PEARL HARBOR, Sept. 8.—Eighty per cent of Japan's military installations on Marcus Island, 1,200 miles southeast of Tokio, were probably destroyed by an aircraft-carrier task force in the attack Sept. 1, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced at his headquarters here today.

Admiral Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet, issued this communique:

"A task force commanded by Rear Admiral Charles A. Pownall attacked Marcus Island at dawn the first of September, east longitude time. The first wave of the attack apparently caught the enemy completely by surprise. It is estimated that the attack, made in several waves throughout the day, destroyed 80 per cent of military installations on the island.

"Our losses totaled two fighters and one torpedo plane.

"Some anti-aircraft fire was encountered by the inital wave but it was eliminated by succeeding attacks.

"Fires started throughout the island were still burning the day following the attack.

"No enemy planes left the ground. Seven twin-motored bombers which were parked on a runway were destroyed by our fighters. Installations destroyed included hangars, fuel and ammunition storage, shops and living quarters. The two landing strips were severely damaged by heavy bombs.

"An enemy trawler caught the island was sunk by our pl

[This raid was first ann on Sept. 1 by Tokio, whic

(Continued on page 15,

cast that planes and guns of the naval force struck Marcus. The Navy Department in Washington immediately confirmed it, adding that "no report has been received from the raiding force and it is presumed that there will be none until need for radio silence ceases to exist."]

Chileans Hail News Of Italy's Surrender

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 8 (AP)—News of Italy's capitulation was received joyously today by Chileans, who saw an indication of an earlier termination of the war through the opening of Germany to attacks by way of the Balkans and Italy.

President Juan Antonio Rios was informed of the news by the Associated Press.

U. S. SUBSIDIARY SEIZED

Argentine Police Act Against Light Company in Mendoza

MENDOZA, Argentina, Sept. 8 (AP)—Police, acting under a decree issued by the Federal Commissioner, today raided the branch office of the Compania de Electricidad los Andes, a subsidiary of the American and Foreign Power Company records and placed guards over the office and home of the manager.

In an explanation, the decree said only: "It is the Government's duty to safeguard the public interest."

Last Friday police raided the Buenos Aires offices of the Compania Electricidad del Sur.

Six Die as U. S. Plane Crashes in Peru

Lima, Peru, Sept. 8 (AP).—A United States Army plane, doing photographic work over the Amazon jungles, was reportd to have crashed Monday and six members of the crew killed. A seventh, an enlisted man, was reported in a serious condition in a hospital at Iquitos, near where the accident occurred.

The photographs taken from the plane were for use in helping to establish a new boundary between Peru and Ecuador, the report said.

Earl of Athlone Tours Alaskan Bases

Prince Rupert, B. C., Sept. 8 (Canadian Press)—The Earl of Athlone, Governor General of Canada, has paid his first visit to Alaska, personally piloting an amphibian bomber of the Royal Canadian Air Force part of the way north from this port.

Yesterday he and his party inspected a Canadian-manned air base in southeastern Alaska and visited the United States Army garrison and service camp and a United States military hospital there.

Brazil Approves Terms For Italy

SEP 9 1943

Rio de Janeiro, Sept. 8 (AP)—Brazil, a United Nations bulwark in South America, was given a full part in approving the final surrender terms for Italy and authorized Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to act in her behalf, it was announced today.

United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery submitted the Allied terms to Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha and they were approved by President Getulio Vargas.

BRAZIL'S AIM IN WAR

Rio de Janeiro, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—President Getulio Vargas, speaking yesterday on the 122d anniversary of the Independence of Brazil, said the supreme objective of his country at this time "is to aid in winning the war and placing Brazil in a position to collaborate with the victorious nations in the re-establishment of peace."

President Vargas addressed a huge crowd gathered at the Vasco stadium.

"Our fighting problems are not the problems of men; these we have abundantly, ready for combat," he said. "We need only equipment, which is indispensable to modern warfare."

In this material aspect, he said, Brazil is receiving the "efficient aid of our loyal and valorous Allies."

Leatherneck Has Dog's Life

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba—(AP) Here's what the record shows about Private Sammy Embry, officially a leatherneck at this post, actually a small black and white and vivacious canine of unrecognizable breed.

He enlisted in October, 1942. His address is "Guard House, Marine Corps base." He has drawn this equipment: harness, canteen and heat can, GI. Against him are three demerits, one for fighting, one for stealing laundry, one for chewing socks. And he is described as possessing "one tail, six inches long."

His master, a Springfield, La., first lieutenant, Dewitt Embry, reports he marches in parades, accompanies his platoon on maneuvers, never misses "chow" and is an inveterate movie-goer.

U. S. LEADERS HAIL ITALY'S SURRENDER

Overwhelming Weight of War Production Decisive Factor, Says Nelson.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here are some comments from prominent Americans on the surrender of Italy:

Former President Herbert Hoover: "The Italian victory is a glorious turning point in the war. We can take great pride in the share of our splendid forces with the British in bringing it about."

Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production board: "The overwhelming weight of American war production was a decisive factor in enabling the fighting men of the United Nations to win this tremendous victory. We cannot let the march toward victory falter now."

Rep. Clare Boothe Luce (R.-Conn.) (member Military Affairs committee)—"The very best news of the war so far. There goes the first nation out. One down and two to go

1943

Others To Follow

Speaker Sam Rayburn (D.-Tex.): "Good news. Italy is out of the war. As Italy goes, so will go Germany and Japan."

Sen. Tom Connally (D.-Tex.): "The Italians must expel the Nazis from Italy. We must not permit them to use the pretext of the armistice to delay our military occupation of Italy o. the capture or expulsion of the Nazis."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor: "Italy's surrender marks the beginning of the collapse of the Axis. Further resistance only will cause needless slaughter. Because we know that victory in the war in Europe is almost in sight the workers of America must not relax their efforts for a single instant."

Rep. Miller (R.-Neb.): "I predict the downfall of the Balkan countries and the elimination and cracking up of Germany before the Spring thaws."

Quicker Crack at Japs

Senator Overton (D.-La.): "It means shortening the war materially and will give us an opportunity to wipe out the Japs quicker than we expected."

Senator Thomas (D.-Utah), member of both the Foreign Affairs and the Military Affairs committees: "The fall of Italy is more significant than merely the surrender of one of the three Axis powers."

Senator Aiken (R.-Vt.): "It should have a devastating effect on German morale."

Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information: "We haven't licked the Germans yet."

ITALY'S COLLAPSE HAS A PARALLEL

By Associated Press.

Knocking Italy out of world war II parallels the first capitulation among the Central Powers—that of Bulgaria—in the first world war.

The first Axis Power to collapse, Italy quit almost exactly four years after the current conflict began September 1, 1939 with the German invasion of Poland. Italy entered the present conflict June 10, 1940.

Bulgaria, crumpling under a brilliant offensive carried out by French, British, Italian, Greek, Serbian, Czecho-Slovakian and Yugoslavian forces, signed an armistice of unconditional surrender September 29, 1918. That was four years and two months after world war I started July 28, 1914 with the Austro-Hungarian declaration of war against Serbia.

World war 1 was all over forty-three days after Bulgaria surrendered. In fact it was only four days later (October 3) that Germany, suffering from crushing blows by Allied armies and strangling economically in the British naval blockade, sent to President Wilson an appeal for an immediate armistice.

But before the armistice with Germany was worked out and signed on November 11, 1918 the two other remaining Central Powers, Turkey and Austria-Hungary, capitulated. Both gave up on October 30. Factors leading to their surrender were the rout of the Turks in Syria by the British forces of Gen. Allenby and the rolling back of the Austro-Hungarian army in northern Italy by Italian forces reinforced by French and British troops.

6 QUESTIONS LEFT WITHOUT ANSWER

Fate Of Italian Fleet And Nazi Decision On Po River Stand Head List

[By the Associated Press]

These questions arose from the Italian surrender today:

1. What becomes of the Italian fleet, which is built around seven battleships and is split between Pola, on the Adriatic, and Spezia, on the Italian west coast?

2. Will the Germans retire from the Po valley in the north, where they have been reported to have as many as fifteen or twenty divisions?

3. What happens to the twenty-five to thirty Italian garrison divisions in the Balkans and France? And to the 250,000 Italian workmen estimated to be in Germany?

4. What effect will the Italian surrender have on the wavering morale of Hitler's Balkan satellites, Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria and Crotia? Hungarian policy has been linked more closely with Italy than with Germany and all the Balkan states have shown increasing signs of war weariness.

5. Does the surrender include the French island of Corsica, barely thirty miles from southern France, which the Italians occupied when the Allies landed in North Africa?

6. Will the scattered German units still in southern and central Italy be allowed to return to Germany?

SEP 9 1943

SURRENDER BRINGS UP MUSSOLINI ISSUE

By Associated Press.

The unconditional surrender of Italy raises the question of when Benito Mussolini and his fallen Fascist hierarchy will, in the words of President Roosevelt, be "brought to book and punished for their crimes against humanity."

Official announcements today did not mention Mussolini, who quit as Italy's Duce on July 25. In the last forty days he has been reported under arrest in Rome, under guard at an Ostia Villa, retired to a home on the Gulf of Genoa and a prisoner on the isle of Ischia, a peacetime summer resort at the north entrance to the Bay of Naples.

Soon after Mussolini had handed over the Premiership to Marshal Badoglio, rumors developed in Madrid that the Germans were plotting to take him with them when they moved north. A dispatch from Ankara today reported that Mussolini was suffering from cancer and that physicians had said he was already beyond the operating state.

President Roosevelt reaffirmed the Allied plan to punish Mussolini and "his Fascist gang" in a broadcast address to the American people on July 28.

ITALY'S ECONOMY WILL TAKE MONTHS TO REORGANIZE

Country Relied Heavily on Imports; Nazis to Miss Italian Goods.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 — (AP) It will take a lot of work to straighten Italy out economically after her unconditional surrender so that she can be made an asset in the United Nations' war effort instead of a liability.

Germany, however, will miss a lot of things its junior Axis partner furnished.

Here's how the U. S. Department of Commerce explains the situation from latest reports in its possession:

Italy furnished a substantial part of Germany's needs of fresh fruits and vegetables plus some minerals—especially mercury, bauxite and sulphur from Europe's greatest producer, Sicily.

"Normally Italy's imports from Germany greatly exceed the export trade," the department said.

Italy also gave manpower to German agriculture and industry—more than 300,000 workers in 194 and up to an estimated 400,000 recently.

Many Items Scarce

When Mussolini's legions entered the war by marching into France in the spring of 1941, these materials became increasingly scarce because war cut off the country's overseas trade:

Cotton, wool, petroleum, scrap iron, rubber, copper, nickel and coal. Germany had to furnish Italy about 1,000,000 tons of coal a month to run her industries and also was thought to be an important factor in keeping Italian metallurgical plants active.

But Italy's greatest problem was getting food with which to feed her armed forces and furnish proper nourishment to her war workers.

Although Italy's self-sufficiency in food was estimated at 94 per cent in pre-war years, production actually was unbalanced because surpluses of fresh, citrus and dried fruits, nuts, vegetables, cheese, rice and wine were offset by insufficient domestic output of wheat and other cereals, meat, fish, oils (including olive oil), fats and eggs.

Relied on Food Imports

Even in peacetime Italy had to import about five per cent of her consumption of corn, 3,500,000 bushels of barley to supplement 10,000,000 produced, 15 per cent of oats and 7 per cent of rye. Contrary to popular belief imports of olive oil in recent years exceeded exports with 18,551,000 pounds imported annually in the five-year average, 1934-38.

In 1938 a wheat crop of about 300,000,000 bushel approximated Italy's national needs (she imported 6,000,000 bushels that year).

But production of almost 260,000,000 bushels in 1940 caused stretching stocks by adulteration with flour made from potatoes and particularly from corn. In 1941 Italy reportedly had a partial crop failure in northern regions and bread rationing started Oct. 1, 1941.

Coffee, tea and cocoa are not produced in Italy. Tea consumption is relatively small while coffee drinking generally was prohibited throughout the war period.

Food rationing has been exceedingly severe, frequently hitting lower income groups rather than those who could afford to buy in the notorious black markets.

Before the war the United States was Italy's most important customer next to Germany. We held the balance of trade up to 1938, last year of official reports, with Italian imports from us totaling $70,405,000 and exports amounting to $41,152,000.

Italy sent to the United States things such as canned tomatoes, cheese, raw silk, rayon goods, hats and caps, olive oil and wine. She received raw cotton, crude mineral oils, lubricating oils, scrap iron and steel and machine tools.

Italy Provides Bases For Raids on Nazis

SEP 9 1943

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8. — (AP) Italy's surrender presents to Adolf Hitler a new strategic problem with a vengeance.

The Allies are provided with a base from which practically to double the air poundings of Germany which General Marshall said last night would pave the way for the final shattering of Nazidom.

Many divisions of Italian troops, recently estimated as high as 30, are lost to the Axis forces guarding the rebellious Balkans.

Instead of having to conquer Italy, breeding hatred which might have proved a continuing hindrance, the wording of General Badoglio's statement suggests the Italians may even cooperate in ousting the Germans.

His instructions to the army are to cease obstructing the Allies, but also—the really big thing—to "oppose attacks from any other quarter."

That may not mean that Italy is coming in on our side, but it does mean that the Germans will not be permitted unopposed consolidation of any positions they don't already control in Italy, and it could mean organized Italian resistance against consolidations now being carried forward in the north.

HARDLY ANYTHING, aside from possession of bases in northern France and the Lowlands, could mean so much to the Allies today.

Marshal Stalin has just announced that the Donets basin is swept clear of Germans. The Allies apparently control all of Italy south of Rome. Within a few days, if not already, an air force second only to the one based on Britain will be within striking range of all Germany. This Italy, this friendly base, this country whose every aspiration draws it into natural affinity with the Allies, means, beyond a shadow of a doubt, a tremendous saving in American, British and Russian lives through a much earlier end of the war than could otherwise have been expected.

Complacency and overconfidence are dangerous, but comparison of this event with the capitulation of Bulgaria in September, 1918, is inescapable. The denouement of Nazidom has been nearing with express-train speed even without counting the Italian equation. Now it is assured if not actually within sight.

PEACE MOVES, however they must be kept under cover from the Nazi overlords, may be expected from the Balkans immediately if they are not already under way. Hitler may choose to fight for a time in northern Italy, but in the long view he now is required to prepare for the last stand within his inner fortress, which means Germany and possibly Poland and France.

In trying to carry out an air war against Germany from England the Allies have been forced to fly great distances over enemy territory. The Germans have had the advantage of knowing from which direction the blows would come and have concentrated their fighter defenses in the west.

It is an axiom that an airforce's effectiveness decreases in direct ratio to the distance it must operate from its bases.

Airfields in northern Italy would cut the distance Allied bombers would have to fly to reach Czechoslovakia's great Skoda munition works, from 750 miles to 300, the distance to the aircraft factories at Vienna from 800 to less than 300 and to Berlin itself from 650 miles to about 400.

Bombers flying from England can now cross Germany and land in Italy, returning the next night or day, and the Germans can never be able to set their defenses to meet the blows. The strain on the already battered Luftwaffe is increased tremendously.

GREAT NEW areas of Hitler's creaking communication system now will come under the deadly fire of fighters, bombers and trainbusters.

Northern Italy provides narrow gaps—none too good but openings nevertheless — from which Allied troops might force their way west into France or east into Hungary.

The narrow Brenner pass into Austria would offer scant room for operations and it is doubtful if the Allies would try to force it.

Immediate moves on sea and land which may be set off by the surrender are not clear. The Germans report the American Seventh army on the move, but whether it already is in middle Italy, going into Sardinia, Corsica and France, or into the Balkans, is not clear.

Close observers have predicted for some time that the collapse of Italy would see immediate action in the Balkans. Polish, British and American armies all are in position, and word has come only recently of organization of internal armies to aid the Allies.

The bombing pattern over northern France in recent days certainly has been of the invasion type. In addition to Allied forces, 300,000 Frenchmen in North Africa are looking longingly toward the mouth of the Rhone.

But Germany is still strong in the west and, although reeling under Russian blows, there is evidence that defenses against a new invasion have been strengthened rather than weakened.

This is coupled with frequently-expressed Allied intentions to use the time required for bomb-softening rather than to rush into a life-consuming campaign before preparations are complete.

Whether or not Hitler seeks to hold northern Italy, the country's chief importance now is as an air base rather than a bridgehead.

30.24-8187

30 24 - 8187

Tunis Radio Reports Invasion

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—American, British and Canadian armies "are landing at various points in the heart of Italy," the United Nations radio at Tunis announced tonight in an Italian-language broadcast reported to the Office of War Information.

A German radio broadcast recorded by CBS said that four or five Allied infantry divisions were reported to have landed on the Gulf of Eufemia, about thirty miles ahead of the British Eighth Army's lines.

The text of the broadcast to the Italians follows:

SEP 9 1943

"Take vengeance on the Germans.

"Powerful British, American, and Canadian armies are landing at various points in the heart of Italy.

"Arrival of these armies, powerfully equipped and protected by an invincible Allied air force and by the full might of the Mediterranean Allied naval forces, gives you, Italians, a last great opportunity.

"Supported by the might of the Allies, Italy now has the possibility of avenging itself on the German oppressor and to cooperate in repelling the traditional enemy from Italian soil.

"Italians! These are your fighting orders for this phase of the war for the liberation of Europe.

"Wherever Allied forces are to be found, give them your support and obey the orders of the commanders to the letter. Wherever German forces are to be found, refrain from assisting them in any way.

"Give proof of your national unity and of your will to resist by refusing unanimously and in perfect discipline, to be accomplices of the Germans."

ITALY MAY BECOME BLOODY BATTLEFIELD

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 — (AP) N.B.C. Correspondent Merrill Mueller declared tonight in a broadcast from Algiers that "the strangest armistice in history has turned Italy into a bloody battlefield."

"Instead of a victorious parade," Mr. Mueller added, "the Allied forces face a violent, long drawn-out battle that has already been partially joined. Caught in between are the Italians, who sought peace."

In distributing Mr. Mueller's remarks, N.B.C. commented:

"This was interpreted as an indication that the American Seventh army, whose whereabouts have been a secret ever since the Italian invasion, has landed in northern Italy and that a battle with the German forces may now be in progress there."

Dutch Commentator Happy

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Netherlands Government radio commentator was so overjoyed as he told the people of occupied Holland about the surrender of Italy today that United States Government monitors, reporting the Dutch broadcast, said it sounded as if the announcer "must be dancing up and around the microphone."

Tokyo Says War Plan Will Not Be Affected

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—A Domei dispatch broadcast by Radio Toyko said tonight that official Japanese quarters declared "Japan's war policy remains unaffected by the latest development in the European theater of war."

The Japanese determination to fight is unshaken, the dispatch said, and "meanwhile the Japanese public received the news of the Italian capitulation with complete calmness."

What's Behind the War News

By JOHN H. WIGGINS

The knockout of Italy ripped pages from the Allied victory calendar but many days of furious battle still may be expected in the Mediterranean boot before Hitler's hordes are erased.

Tens of thousands of German troops, poured into Italy with the expectation of making it a continental battlefield, presumably remain in the northern area, reluctant to relinquish what yet remains of the industrial and agricultural riches in the region of the river Po.

But regardless of where Hitler tries to slam the door against invasion from Italy, the corporal's intuitive strategy will collide headon with the hard fact that capitulation of the peninsula clears excellent and various routes for heavily concentrated land and air offensives by the Allies.

Attempts of the German military to elicit information on where next the blow—or blows—will fall, won't help the Axis jitters already evidenced by the Berlin radio.

Closing the straits to bottle the Adriatic, Allied naval power, with a blanket of land-based planes, potentially is capable of striking across the sea from Italy's east coast to Yugoslavia for invasion thrusts at Germany's "impregnable fortress."

To the west, a similarly air-protected fleet might cross the Tyrrhenian and Ligurian seas to southern France.

The peninsula's possibilities as an invasion springboard are vast.

underscored the statement of Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, that "victory is certain;" that a crashing, finishing blo[illegible]

(Continued on [illegible])

Germany must know [illegible]dustries and mili[illegible]s are far closer [illegible]ed bombers than [illegible]efore in the war.

There are signs, too, that the cracks that broke in the Axis armor with Italy's unconditional surrender might spread to the restless Balkans where Hungarians, Rumanians, Croats and Bulgarians show evidence of straining at their German fetters.

In addition to the physical gains from Italy's collapse as an Axis partner, Germany and Japan must have received a psychological blow as depressing as the event is stimulating to the Allies.

The armistice, enforced "at a moment most favorable to the Allies," German-dominated Europe is close at hand.

Soviet Forces Driving Ahead

The announcement came at a time, too, when Soviet armies plowed triumphantly on along a 600-mile front and wiped the rich Donets industrial basin in southern Ukraine clean of German invaders.

While Russia has discounted the Allied invasion of Italy as a second front, knocking Italy out of the war obviously brought closer to fulfillment Soviet demands for an invasion that would divert heavy German forces.

ITALY'S CONQUEST BRINGS OPTIMISM IN WASHINGTON

Some Congressmen Predict Nazi Fall This Year, Others Urge Caution.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 — (AP) Italy's capitulation brought optimistic predictions fro[illegible] some Congress members today that the European war would be over before the year's end, but others cautioned against overconfidence and neither military quarters nor the White House encouraged extreme jubiliation.

Aides reported that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill received the news matter-of-factly. They had known, of course, of the Italian government's acceptance of armistice terms five days ago, but could not be certain that the Nazis would not be able to prevent Marshal Badoglio from issuing his proclamation.

Neither made any immediate formal comment.

Stephen Early, Presidential secretary, took the military dispatches to Mr. Roosevelt who was working at his desk in the Executive offices and brought back to reporters this comment from the President:

"It is General Eisenhower's story. Let him tell it."

Congressm[illegible]siastic

But at the Ca[illegible]action was less restrained. With[illegible] exception the legislators hailed the news with enthusiastic expressions.

Among those who predicted that the European phase of the war would now be quickly brought to an end were Reps. Sabath (D.-Ill.), Fulmer (D.-S.C.), and Disney (D.-Okla.).

"I believe Germany will be defeated within 1943 and that we will beat hell out of the Japs before the end of 1944," Rep. Fulmer declared. Rep. Sabath said it meant "the downfall of Hitler this year," and Rep. Disney predicted that "Germany won't last another winter."

Senator Clark (D.-Idaho) called it an occasion for rejoicing, but said, "We should not let this good news make us too optimistic or overconfident."

"Any slackening of effort would be bad," he added.

In military quarters, it was pointed out that many questions still were unanswered and should check optimism.

Taking Control Another Matter

A major one is whether the Italian government will be able to deliver the country physically into Allied hands. There are still many German divisions at least in the northern part of the peninsula and the job of taking possession may be in itself a major campaign. A corollary question is what help, if any, the Italians may give in ejecting the Germans from Italy.

Still another matter awaiting clarification is the condition and eventual disposition of the Italian fleet of some 190-odd units including seven battleships.

There was general speculation that Prime Minister Churchill, who already has been here a month, might continue his stay until some of these questions are answered.

Another matter for Roosevelt-Churchill deliberations also is what to do with Mussolini, presuming he is now delivered into Allied hands. This might be a subject, too, for consideration at the meeting with Premier Stalin which Mr. Roosevelt indicated yesterday had about been arranged.

Father Draft Involved

There were indications at the Capitol that the development might figure in the debate over drafting fathers. Legislators questioning the necessity of this step have contended that military developments have been much more favorable than were anticipated when the Army originally estimated its manpower needs.

Senator Burton (R.-Ohio) suggested that it should speed action by the United States on a post-war program to maintain peace.

"Italy's surender," he said, "certainly is a step in our favor, and the event emphasizes the urgency for progress toward adoption of a post-war program by the Congress."

Committee, said: "It's a great victory for a great cause. They used good judgment, and it will save the lives of thousands of our boys. It should bring about an early ending to the war in Europe and, as I predicted some time ago, the downfall of Hitler this year.

Senator Guffey (D.-Pa.), member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said: "I'm delighted. It's a great victory for the Allies. Gen. Eisenhower and his staff deserve the highest praise for this magnificent triumph.

Representative Cole (R.-N. Y.), member of the House Naval Affairs Committee, said: "I am delighted at the good judgment of the Italians in removing themselves from a hopeless cause and thus preventing needless bloodshed."

Representative May (D.-Ky.), chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, declared: "That's the beginning of the end. Germany next and then Japan."

Representative Knutsen (R.-Minn.) said: "It will have a terrific impact on the morale of the German people and . . . should bring home to them the hopelessness of their continuing."

Washington Is Jubilant

SEP 9 1943

Roosevelt and Churchill Silent on Italy—'It's Eisenhower's Story,' Says Former.

Washington, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt was seated at his memento-crowded desk in the White House offices and Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain was busy elsewhere in the Executive Mansion when the world heard today that Italy had capitulated. Both leaders had obviously known the news for some time, since the terms had been agreed upon last Friday. But from neither was there any immediate formal comment.

But everywhere else in Washington it was "big stuff." Suppressed excitement was evident among the White House staff when news dispatches gave the story to a jubilant American capital.

Secretary Stephen Early rushed into the presidential offices with the dispatch and reported later that Mr. Roosevelt had commented calmly: "It is Gen. Eisenhower's story. Let him tell it."

The word was also conveyed to Mr. Churchill whose reason for tarrying in the American capital so long after the Quebec conference now became apparent. Obviously awaiting the surrender announcement at any moment, Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt conferred into the late hours last night, and were together again this morning.

Secretary of State Hull likewise withheld a statement when he held his press conference soon after the announcement.

Reports that "a break" was imminent had spread through Washington last night, and today's formal announcement of the Italian surrender brought enthusiastic comments from many leaders on Capitol Hill.

Representative Bloom (D.-N. Y.), chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, declared: "It is very, very cheerful news—something that will lead to a final victory in our war in Europe. It is a stepping stone in the right direction."

Representative Sabath (D.-Ill.), chairman of the House Rules

ROOSEVELT HAILS 'GREAT VICTORY,' OPENS BOND DRIVE

There Must Be No Letup in War Effort, Nation Is Warned.

SEES LONG FIGHT AHEAD

Public Urged to Contribute 'More Than Your Share.'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 — (AP) President Roosevelt tonight hinted that new invasion operations may be under way and hailed the capitulation of Italy as a "great victory" but grimly warned there must be no letup in the war until Allied troops march into Berlin and Tokyo.

Launching the nation's $15,000,000,000 Third War Loan campaign, the President in a radio address raised the possibility of new invasion thrusts by referring to fighting men in landing baregs moving against enemy coasts "at this moment." The phrase "at this moment" was interpolated in the prepared text as distributed earlier to the press.

For those fighting men, the Chief Executive said, the war "does not and must not stop for one single instant." Appealing for support of the loan drive, the President said it is now up to American citizens to prove to the soldiers that "you are contributing your share and more than your share."

Nazi Ouster Essential

"We must not delude ourselves" that the Italian armistice means the end of the war in the Mediterranean, he said, because the Germans still must be driven from Italy, from France and all other captive countries.

"And we must strike them on their own soil from all directions," he said.

The ultimate objectives in the war, the Chief Executive said, continue to be Berlin and Tokyo.

"I ask you," he said, "to bear these objectives constantly in mind—and do not forget that we still have a long way to go before attaining them.

"The great news you have heard today from General Eisenhower does not give you license to settle back in your rocking chairs and say, 'well, that does it. We've got 'em on the run. Now we can start the celebration.'"

The time has not come for celebration, the Chief Executive declared, and the war must not stop for a single instant.

The President referred to the conferences which he and Prime Minister Churchill of Britain have been holding in the past few weeks and said they had made "new, extensive plans for the future."

Tougher Fight Ahead

But they never lost sight of the fact, he said, that the war will become bigger and tougher, rather than easier, during the months to come.

SEP 9 1943

The President compared the United Nations' war effort to the community task of a Middle Western city where every person pitched in to fill sand bags and hold back a destructive flood.

"Today," he said, "in the same kind of community effort, the United Nations and their people have kept the levees of civilization high enough to prevent the floods of aggression and barbarism and wholesale murder from engulfing us all.

"The flood has been raging for four years. At last, we are beginning to gain on it; but the waters have not yet receded enough for us to relax our sweating work with the sand bags. In this war bond campaign we are filling bags and placing them against the flood — bags which are essential if we are to stand off the ugly torrent which is trying to sweep us all away.

"Today, an armistice with Italy was concluded.

Italy's Liberation Near

"This was a great victory for the United Nations — but it was also a great victory for the Italian people. After years of war and suffering and degradation, the Italian people are at last coming to the day of liberation from their real enemies, the Nazis.

"But let us not delude ourselves that this armistice means the end of the war in the Mediterranean. We must drive the Germans out of Italy as we have driven them out of Tunisia and Sicily; we must drive them out of France and all other captive countries; and we must strike them on their own soil from all directions."

Mr. Roosevelt told his vast radio audience it was up to them to prove to their fellow Americans on the fighting fronts that they were contributing more than their share to the cause.

"We must put money into war bonds which we would not normally save," Mr. Roosevelt asserted. "Only then have we done everything that good conscience demands."

Power for Victory

The money Americans lend the government and pay in taxes, he said, "buys that death-dealing, life-saving power we need for victory." The people, he said, know there can never be "any economic justification for failing to save freedom."

No one knows, the Chief Executive told his countrymen, when total victory will come. Success of the Third War Loan drive, he said, will be a symbol that America knows of the tough, bitter job ahead and will not stop until it is finished.

Allies Landing Now, Roosevelt Says

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—A possibility that new invasion operations may have got under way shortly before President Roosevelt's war-bond address tonight was indicated by a last-minute change in the Chief Executive's words.

SEP 9 1943

Telling his radio audience that the "war does not and must not stop for one single instant," the President said fighting men who "are landing at this moment in barges moving through the dawn up to strange enemy coasts" know that the war is a full-time job.

His original text as distributed to newspaper offices a few hours earlier, did not include the phrase "at this moment," referring simply to fighting men in landing barges.

Roosevelt Appeal for War Bonds for Victory

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP).—The text of President Roosevelt's address tonight in connection with the third war loan drive follows:

Once upon a time, a few years ago, there was a city in our Middle West which was threatened by a destructive flood in the river. The waters had risen to the top of the banks. Every man, woman and child in that city was called upon to fill sand bags in order to defend their homes against the rising waters. For many days and nights, destruction and death stared them in the face.

As a result of the grim, determined community effort, that city still stands. Those people kept the levees above the peak of the flood. All of them joined together in the desperate job which had to be done—business men, workers, farmers, doctors, preachers—people of all races.

To me, that town is a living symbol of what community cooperation can accomplish.

Today, in the same kind of community effort, the United Nations and their people have kept the levees of civilization high enough to prevent the floods of aggression and barbarism and wholesale murder from engulfing us all. The flood has been raging for four years. At last, we are beginning to gain on it; but the waters have not yet receded enough for us to relax our sweating work with the sand bags. In this war bond campaign we are filling bags and placing them against the flood—bags, which are essential if we are to stand off the ugly torrent which is trying to sweep us all away.

The Fall of Italy

Today, an armistice with Italy was concluded.

This was a great victory for the United Nations—but it was also a great victory for the Italian people. After years of war and suffering and degradation, the Italian people are at last coming to the day of liberation from their real enemies, the Nazis.

But let us not delude ourselves that this armistice means the end of the war in the Mediterranean. We must drive the Germans out of Italy as we have driven them out of Tunisia and Sicily; we must drive them out of France and all other captive countries, and we must strike them on their own soil from all directions.

Our ultimate objectives in this war continues to be Berlin and Tokio.

I ask you to bear these objectives constantly in mind—and do not forget that we still have a long way to go before attaining them.

The great news you have heard today from General Eisenhower does not give you license to settle back in your rocking chairs and say, "Well, that does it. We've got 'em on the run. Now we can start the celebration."

The time for celebration is not yet. And I have a suspicion that when this war does end, we shall not be in a very celebrating frame of mind. I think that our main emotion will be one of grim determination that this shall not happen again.

During the past weeks, Mr. Churchill and I have been in constant conference with the leaders of our combined fighting forces. We have been in constant communication with our fighting allies, Russian and Chinese, who are prosecuting the war with conspicuous success on far distant fronts, and he and I are together here at this crucial moment.

We have seen the satisfactory fulfillment of plans that were made in Casablanca last January and here in Washington last May. And we have made new, extensive plans for the future. But throughout these conferences we have never lost sight of the fact that this war will become bigger and tougher, rather than easier during the long months that are to come.

"War Does Not Rest"

This war does not and must not stop for one single instant. Our fighting men know that. Those of them who are moving forward through jungles against lurking Japs—those who are landing at this moment in barges moving through the dawn up to strange enemy coasts—those who are diving their bombers down on the target at roof-top level at this moment—every one of these men knows that this war is a full-time job and that it will continue to be until total victory is won.

And, by the same token, every responsible leader in all the United Nations knows that the fighting goes on twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week, and that any day lost may have to be paid for in terms of months added to the duration of the war.

Every campaign, every single operation that we plan and carry through, must be figured in terms of staggering material cost. We cannot afford to be niggardly with any of our resources, for we shall need all of them to do the job that we have undertaken.

Your fellow Americans have given a magnificent account of themselves—on the battlefield and on the oceans and in the skies all over the world.

Now it is up to you to prove to them that you are contributing your share and more than your share. It is not sufficient simply to put money into war bonds which we would normally save. We must put money into war bonds which we not normally save. Only then have we done everything that good conscience demands. It is up to you—the Americans in the American homes—the very homes which our boys and daughters are working and fighting and dying to preserve.

I know I speak for every man and woman in America when I say that we Americans will not be satisfied to send our troops into the fire of the enemy with equipment inferior in any way. Nor will we be satisfied to send our troops with equipment only equal to that of the enemy. We are determined to provide our troops with overpowering superiority of quality and quantity in any and every category of arms and armaments that they may conceivably need.

And where does our dominating power come from? It can come only from you. The money you lend and the money you give in taxes buys that death-dealing, life-saving power we need for victory. This is an expensive war — expensive in money; you can help keep it at a minimum cost in lives.

The American people will never stop to reckon the cost of redeeming civilization. They know there can never be any economic justification for failing to save freedom.

Enemies Watching Drive

We can be sure that our enemies will watch this drive with the keenest interest; they know that success in this undertaking will shorten the war. They know that the more money the American people lend to government, the more powerful and relentless will be the American forces in the field. They know that only a united and determined America could possibly produce on a voluntary basis so large a sum of money as fifteen billion dollars.

The overwhelming success of the second war loan drive last April showed that the people of this democracy stood firm behind their troops.

The third war loan, which we are starting tonight, will also succeed—because the American people will not permit it to fail.

I cannot tell you how much to invest in war bonds during this third war loan drive. No one can tell you. It is for you to decide under the guidance of your own conscience.

I will say this, however. Because the nation's needs are greater than ever before, our sacrifices too must be greater than they have ever been before.

Nobody knows when total victory will come—but we do know that the harder we fight now, the more might and power we direct at the enemy now, the shorter the war will be and the smaller the sum total of sacrifice.

Success of the third war loan will be the symbol that America does not propose to rest on its arms—that we know the tough, bitter job ahead and will not stop until we have finished it.

Now it is your turn!

Every dollar that you invest on the third war loan is your personal message of defiance to our common enemies—to the ruthless militarists of Germany and Japan—your personal message of faith and good cheer to our allies and all the men at the front.

NEW ALLIED MOVES FORESEEN IN CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8—(AP) What made today the "favorable moment" for announcing and thereby putting into effect the surrender of Italy?

This question intrigued the capital tonight and produced considerable speculation that new Allied military moves are in immediate prospect.

The phrase "favorable moment" was used by General Dwight D. Eisenhower to describe the time for making the armistice with Italy effective and disclosing it to the world.

Eisenhower himself offered no explanation as to why the time chosen was favorable.

Morgenthau's Bond Plea Hails

30.24-8189

30.24-8189

End of Round 1

Opening 15 Billion Drive, He Calls for Help of All 'Now More Than Ever'

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Voicing a renewed plea for success of the $15,000,000,000 Third War Loan, Henry Morgenthau jr., Secretary of the Treasury, said tonight "the fall of Italy is glorious news—if we take it as the end of round one instead of the finish of the fight."

In a statement issued only hours before President Roosevelt's radio address to the nation at 9:40 p. m. formally opening the twenty-two-day bond campaign, Mr. Morgenthau said war bonds already purchased "have paid for our victory over Italy in part," but added that "now, more than ever before, we need the help of every individual American."

The Treasury has set a goal of at least $5,000,000,000 in war bond sales to individuals. The rest of the quota is expected to be subscribed by insurance companies, corporations, and other business firms except banks, which have been excluded for the first time from participating in a war loan.

"Before the last shot is fired, a lot of lives are going to be lost and a lot of billions spent," Mr. Morgenthau declared. "The more American dollars go into superior equipment, the less American blood is going to redden foreign soil.

"It cost $46,000,000 to lay Hamburg low. It cost another $300,000,000 to train, equip and transport the crews and ready everything for the task. And Hamburg is just one enemy city."

Earlier in the day the capital was given a preview of the Hollywood cavalcade which started a nation-wide bond-selling tour at midnight.

Riding in jeeps behind the Army Air Forces band, the dozen film personalities followed a parade route lined with noon-time crowds. It led to the Washington Monument grounds, where the Army opened a "back-the-attack" display of weapons and equipment.

In the cavalcade are Lucille Ball, Judy Garland, Greer Garson, Kathryn Grayson, Betty Hutton, Fred Astaire, James Cagney, Paul Henreid, Harpo Marx, Dick Powell, Mickey Rooney, Kay Kyser and his band.

All will travel aboard a special red-white-and-blue train, which will make its first stop tomorrow at Philadelphia. The tour will end with a two-day show in Los Angeles Sept. 26 and 27.

Members of the cavalcade, together with other screen, stage and radio notables who will participate in the twenty-two-day drive, form only a tiny segment however, of the actual selling force the Treasury has assembled.

It embraces 5,000,000 volunteers, 2,000,000 of them women. They will make a country-wide door-to-door canvass.

NEWS ENTERS TAX PICTURE

Carlson Says Italian Move Eases Need For Boost; Others Differ

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, Sept. 8—The surrender of Italy reverberated quickly in Capitol Hill tax discussions today, with Representative Carlson (R., Kan.) saying "this turn of events erases or at least materially reduces" the need for higher levies.

Other members of the House Ways and Means Committee were divided on the tax effect of the capitulation.

News that Italy had run up the white flag came shortly after the tax-framing committee, ending its vacation a week ahead of the reconvening of Congress, decided to open public hearings September 20 looking toward new and higher taxes.

Views Differ

Carlson, author of the Ruml skip-a-tax-year bill which was much debated prior to passage of pay-as-you-go legislation, said:

"Why should we get the people all excited and have them concerned over taxes when one of the Axis partners already has dropped out? I think taxes are high enough anyway, at least until we reduce Federal expenditures or insist on their justification."

On the other hand, Representative Disney (D., Okla.) also a Ways and Means member, commented:

"We are too smart to let down our efforts even remotely because Italy is out. No matter how optimistic we are, the bill has to be paid and must be paid by taxes. We can't save the bills for the soldiers to pay when they get back."

Time "To Hit Hardest"

Representative Robertson (D., Va.) said he thought "the time when your enemy begins to weaken is the time to hit the hardest," and added: "It is not a time to let up on our military effort, our financial effort, or any other effort."

In the opinion of Representative Knutson (R., Minn.), ranking minority Ways and Means member the Italian capitulation will have little effect in the consideration of taxes, because "Italy wasn't much of a factor in the war anyway."

12 Billion Sought

He said "Congress and the Ways and Means Committee will be most reluctant to impose any additional taxes, but the war needs may drive us to it."

Several members said they hoped to complete committee work on the new general tax measure by November 1, and Doughton (D., N. C.), chairman, said he expected Congressional action would be completed by January 1.

The Treasury Department has said $12,000,000,000 is needed in addition to the present $38,000,000,000 annual levy.

The Ways and Means Committee will open public hearings tomorrow on proposed revision of the law regulating renegotiation of war contracts.

Ickes And Knox Rush To Hear News Of Italy

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—Two men dashed into the Government radio studio in the Interior Department Building today and one, in shirt sleeves, began fiddling furiously with receiving instruments.

Studio employes closed in quickly, found the shirt-sleeved man was Secretary of Interior Ickes and his companion was Navy Secretary Knox.

They had been conferring in Ickes' office a floor below when a telephone call brought them word of Italy's surrender. They then rushed to the studio—Ickes ignoring his coat—to tune in for further details.

Doubled Air Offensive Against Reich Is Seen

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—Occupation of Italy by the Allied troops of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will probably double the aerial bombing offensive against Germany.

The most immediate foreseeable result of the occupation of Italy as far north as Rome will be the hurling of the hundreds of bombers of the Northwest African Strategic Air Force against Germany in the opening of a second aerial front.

From the airfields near Rome, which have been heavily battered by Allied bombers, but presumably could be put back into serviceable condition, most of the Balkans, all of Austria and Czecho-Slovakia, including the huge Skoda munitions works, Silesia and south and central Germany are in relatively short bombing range of 650 to 700 airline miles.

It has been generally understood that one of the principal objectives of the campaign against Italy has been to secure this advantage to the Allied air forces. The action is expected to reduce immediately the fighter opposition now encountered by bombers operating from Britain.

U. S. BARS HELP TO ARGENTINA

Request for Lend-Lease Aid Is Firmly Refused.

Washington, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Possibly jealous and fearful of the growing power of Brazil, Argentina has asked for—and has been firmly refused—American lease-lend materials, includir implements of war.

The request came from the Argentine Foreign Minister, Vice-Admiral Segundo Storni, on August 5, and the flat refusal was released by Sercretary of State Hull last night. The exchanges, in which Mr. Hull pulled no punches, were made public here and in Buenos Aires, where the Argentine Cabinet distributed the messages without comment.

Argentine's principal competitor in South America—Brazil—was praised only today by Gen. Marshall for her early plunge into the war on the Allied side, and for her work in protecting that theater.

Says Nation Is Pro-Ally.

Admiral Storni contended Argentina was pro-Ally. He intimated, however, that his country could be accused of stab-in-the-back tactics if she changed now from neutrality to open warfare.

Admiral Storni, in his letter, recalled the military coup that placed Gen. Pedro Ramirez's government in power, and said that the present administration was not Fascist nor even sympathetic with the Axis.

"Argentine sentiment, eminently American, firmly opposed to totalitarian regimes, is on the side of the United Nations in material and spiritual action," he declared.

Admiral Storni acknowledged that "defeat is inexorably drawing closer to the Axis," but that to break off relations now would put Argentine chivalry to a hard test. "Let it suffice," he said, "to recall the judgment which Italy merited when, in a similar situation, it took its position against defeated France."

Meanwhile, the Admiral continued, the Axis countries have nothing to hope for from Argentina, and "public opinion is daily more unfavorable to them, but this evolution would be more rapid and effective for the American cause if President Roosevelt should make a gesture of genuine friendship toward our people; such a gesture might be the urgent provision of airplanes, spare parts, armaments and machinery to restore Argentina to the position of equilibrium to which it is entitled with respect to other South American countries."

Three Main Points.

In reply, Mr. Hull made three points:

1. Only Argentina, of the twenty-one American republics (thirteen of whom have actually declared war) has not broken off relations with the Axis, nor has Argentina severed financial and commercial relations, and as a result has authorized financial transactions beneficial to the enemies of the United Nations.

2. Axis agents continue to engage in espionage activities in Argentina, which is costing the United Nations ships and lives. They spread Axis propaganda, and their publications receive supplies of newsprint at favorable prices through the intervention of the Argentine Ministry of Agriculture.

3. Argentina is the only American republic still maintaining radio-telephone and radio-telegraphic communication with Japan, Germany and Italy.

All these, said Mr. Hunll, were contrary to inter-American agreements to which Argentina had fully subscribed. They explained convincingly, he indicated, why Argentina's neutrality had not been "understood."

Bars Aid for Rivalry.

"Neither the present Argentine Government nor its predecessor has at any time evidenced a disposition to strengthen the security of Argentina by having Argentine military and naval forces take part in measures designed for the defense of the hemisphere," he declared, and, regarding Admiral Storni's suggestion that a "gesture" of arms and munitions might speed up the pro-Allied evolution of Argentine public opinion by restoring her "equilibrium" in Latin America, added: "I must point out emphatically that questions of military and naval equilibrium as between American republics are surely inconsistent with the inter American doctrine of the peaceful settlement of international disputes to which so many practical contributions have been made by Argentine statesmen."

American arms are furnished to other American republics, Mr. Hull said, for the purpose of defending this hemisphere.

"Since Argentina, both by its words and its actions, has indicated clearly that the Argentine armed forces will not under present conditions be used in a manner designed to forward the cause of the security of the New World, and, thereby, the vital war interests of the United States, it would be impossible for the President of the United States to enter into an agreement to furnish arms and munitions to Argentina under the lend-lease act."

War Production.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 — (AP) American casualties in the war "have run at the rate of one American fighting man killed, captured, wounded or reported missing every nine minutes," Charles E. Wilson of the War Production board said today in urging greater war production.

The WPB executive vice-chairman appealed for wider use of plant-wide production bonuses, and formation of more Labor-Management ar production drive committees.

He said in the current issue of Factory magazine that while "production rates have risen constantly and are still rising, they did not meet July's substantially stepped-up schedules in every category, notably in airplanes."

Warning against over-confidence, Mr. Wilson said "it is disturbing to have to report that recently there have been plants—exceptions to be sure—in which not only the rate of production but production itself has fallen off as much as 25 per cent for no clear, visible reason.

Admitting that lack of manpower is a prime reason for failure to meet stepped-up production schedules, Mr. Wilson said plant-wide incentive systems are among the solution. They offer industry a chance "to make the most of the available working force," he said.

Mr. Wilson said that as workers and management benefit in plants with an incentive system, and the nation benefits in increased production, he foresaw no resistance to the plan.

Phillips Going to London

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP).—Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, said today that William Phillips, former Ambassador to Italy, has been asked to go to London on a special and temporary assignment for the War Department.

Mr. Hull stressed that Mr. Phillips's London mission is temporary and has no effect on his status as President Roosevelt's personal representative at New Delhi. Mr. Phillips will continue to represent the President in that capacity," he said.

Casualty Every Nine Minutes Among U. S. Troops, Says Wilson

WPB Vice Chairman Issues Warning on Declining

1943

Mr. Hull did not say whether Mr. Phillips's special assignment is connected with carrying out the terms of the armistice granted Italy.

The Secretary repeatedly has stressed in recent weeks, however, that the Italian situation is primarily a military problem and, therefore, basically a responsibility of General Eisenhower.

EXPECTS SOME PAY FOR ARMS

President Admits Error in Lend-Lease Letter.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Although the United States does not necessarily expect the nations it is now supplying with lend-lease aid to repay it necessarily in dollars, President Roosevelt asserted yesterday at his press conference, it is his thought and also that of most of the countries that they will repay all that they possibly can.

The President thus clarified again his understanding of the lend-lease agreements as he repudiated two sentences of a letter transmitted to Congress on August 25 with the eleventh lend-lease report. Although the letter was attributed to him and bore his initials, he said he had never seen it.

"The Congress in passing and extending the lend-lease act made it plain that the United States wants no new war debts to jeopardize the coming peace," the controversial letter stated. "Victory and a secure peace are the only coin in which we can be repaid."

Sees Quarter Truth.

The President acknowledged that there was truth in those words, but he described it as a condensation of the truth which might lead to misunderstanding. He described these as only about one-quarter truths.

What are war debts, the President asked—money or goods, or some other benefits? It is perfectly true in a narrow, technical sense, he acknowledged, that the United States wants no new war debts but the lend-lease act provides that many nations will pay for services if they possibly can. This, he added, does not necessarily mean in dollars.

The President objected to the use of the word "coin" in the letter, reasoning that a great many people in this country think of coin as something that jingles in the pocket. There are all kinds of coins, he added, whether or not they jingle.

Sought to Apologize.

At the time that the letter of August 25 was published, there were some protests. The President told his press conference that a mistake had been made and he wanted to apologize for it, explaining that while he was at Quebec for the conference with Prime Minister Churchill several drafts of a letter were prepared and somehow one of them was said to have had his approval. He objected to only the two sentences, he added.

In the same pamphlet with the President's letter and report Section 3 (B) of the act is set forth as stating that the terms and conditions under which lend-lease aid is granted to foreign countries shall be "those which the President deems satisfactory." The same section also states that "the benefit to the United States may be payment or repayment in kind or property or any other direct or indirect benefit which the President deems satisfactory."

The master lend-lease agreement with Great Britain, model for most of the others, provides that the British Government undertakes to return to the United States after the war any lend-lease articles which have not been "destroyed, lost or consumed" by that time, provided the President can find use for them in this country or in defending the Western Hemisphere.

General Arnold Back From European Theater

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding general of the Army Air Forces, returned to Washington today after a visit to headquarters of the European theater of operations in London, the War Department announced. He had been abroad about a week.

U. S. Indicts 12 For Fraud in Army Contracts

Employees of Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot and Bidders' Agents Accused

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP).—The Justice Department announced today that a Federal grand jury in Philadelphia had returned eleven indictments accusing twelve persons of conspiracies to defraud the government, illegally aiding in the procurement of government contracts, bribery and receiving bribes in connection with War Department contracts made through the Philadelphia quartermaster depot.

The defendants are either civilian War Department employees at the depot or officials or agents of companies which have obtained War Department contracts there.

The indictments followed an investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation after a tip from Philip Kirk Patrick, owner of the Patrick Drapery Company, of Omaha, Neb., the department said.

One indictment alleged that two employees of the depot sought to induce Mr. Patrick to increase his bid for the manufacture of insect bars from 95 cents to $1.31 a unit and agree to pay the defendants one-half of the difference between the two bids.

Mr. Patrick immediately notified the F. B. I. and co-operated in the investigation. Justice Department officials praised him for his co-operation.

Named in Indictment

The indictments named:

Elmer Thomas Frasch, administrative assistant at the quartermaster depot.

Ned Sonstein, principal clerk.

John Francis Cronin, junior purchasing agent.

Robert Clifton Pyle 3d, principal clerk.

Harry Milberg, operator of a needlework factory at Asbury Park, N. J.

Albert Edward Conrad, junior purchasing agent at the depot.

Harry Hanchrow, a partner in H. Hanchrow and Company, New York City.

David Nager, principal clerk at the depot.

Samuel Weiner, owner of the Jones-Littlestown Clothing Company, Littlestown, Pa.

Max Newmark, of New York and Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Nathan Zuckerman, of Brooklyn, agents for manufacturers seeking Army contracts.

Sidney L. Quitman, vice-president and treasurer of the Crown Curtain Mills, Inc., Philadelphia.

The first count of the first indictment alleges that Pyle received $100 from Milberg for helping Milberg to obtain an Army contract for the manufacture of 53,000 cotton mattress covers. The second count charges Pyle with receiving compensation for services rendered in connection with a government contract.

The second indictment accuses Cronin of receiving $100 from Milberg in connection with the same contract, and accuses Milberg of paying Pyle and Cronin $100 each for their aid in obtaining an Army contract.

The third indictment charges Pyle, Conrad and Hanchrow with conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with a contract to supply medical bathrobes. Pyle and Conrad are accused of aiding Hanchrow in getting a contract for 60,000 bathrobes, and in return receiving $500 from Hanchrow.

Bribery Charged

Another indictment charges Hanchrow with paying a $500 bribe to Conrad.

The next indictment charges Conrad with accepting a bribe and illegally aiding in the procurement of a government contract and Pyle with aiding and abetting Conrad.

Still another indictment accuses Cronin and Nager with illegal aid in procurement of government contracts and receiving payment in connection with a contract. Nager is accused of receiving $500 from Weiner for helping procure a contract for 50,000 raincoats, and Cronin is accused of aiding and abetting Nager. In the next indictment Weiner is accused in connection with another contract.

Conrad, Newmark and Zuckerman are accused in another indictment. It is charged that Conrad assisted Newmark and Zuckerman to obtain contracts for concerns they represented and in return received a share of the agents' commission.

Frasch, Sonstein, Cronin and Quitman are named jointly in an indictment which alleges the three depot employees assisted in obtaining a subcontract for manufacture of cotton mattress covers for the Army, and that Quitman paid the other defendants a total of $1,275.

In the final indictment Cronin and Nager are accused of seeking to induce Mr. Patrick to increase his bid for the manufacture of insect bars.

DILL PRAISES REPORT

Washington, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—British Field Marshal Sir John Dill commented today that in the report by Gen. George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff, "we see how the seeds of sure victory have been sown."

"No one who reads it," he said in a statement, "can fail to be impressed with the foresight displayed and with the calm way in which early disasters were met and their consequences overcome. Every American citizen will, I am confident, be filled with pride and thankfulness."

Marshal Dill represents Prime Minister Churchill on the combined chiefs of staff.

SINKING OF 2 U-BOATS TOLD

Third Damaged By Planes And Escort Of Mediterranean-Bound Convoy

SEP 9 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Washington, Sept. 8—Destruction of two German submarines and damaging of a third in a single day's action by carrier planes and escort destroyers guarding a Mediterranean-bound convoy was reported today by the navy.

The submarines sunk were part of the total bag of more than ninety announced by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in May, June and July. The date of the action was not given.

Previously Earned Fame

The carrier planes were from the air group operating from escort carrier "B" which previously earned fame for sinking two submarines, and accounting for eight probables out of eleven attacks on a previously announced mission.

The first submarine was spotted by Ensign Stewart Edward Doty, of Camillo, Cal., flying an Avenger, and Lieut. (j. g.) Omer John Donahoe, of Superior, Wis., in a Wildcat fighter. The submarine, apparently waiting for the convoy, was on the surface eleven miles ahead of the carrier.

Donahoe attacked first with his guns and Doty followed up, bombing the sub's conning tower and stern. It disappeared but in the absence of definite evidence that it sank the flyers were credited only with severely damaging it.

25-Year-Old Craft Scores

The first sinking was scored by the twenty-five-year-old modernized destroyer George E. Badger which came upon a submerged U-boat and attacked it five times with depth charges. The destroyer's commander is Lieut. Thomas H. Byrd, of Englewood, N. J.

Wreckage from the torn hull of the destroyer's victim included "mutilated portions of human torsos, parts of plotting boards and lockers and mattresses, and even a German translation of Edgar Allen Poe's 'Murders in the Rue Morgue,'" the navy said.

Second Sunk By Plane

The second kill was scored by Lieut. (j. g.) Robert Lloyd Stearns, of Santa Rosa, Cal., in another Avenger, and his gunner, Elton L. Myers, seaman first class, of Kermit, Texas, who spotted two U-boats about fifty yards apart.

As Stearns attacked, the smaller submarine dived but the larger raced for a fog bank while firing anti-aircraft guns. Stearns' bombs straddled the bigger sub, blowing one crewman high in the air. Less than a minute later, it sank stern first as survivors jumped into the sea. They were picked up later by an escort destroyer.

U. S. SHIP OUTPUT TOPS ALL NATIONS

Admiral Land Calls for Large Post-War Merchant Fleet.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. — (AP) Reporting that American shipyards now are building more merchant vessels than the rest of the world combined, Rear Admiral Emory S. Land said tonight this nation should not allow its merchant marine to deteriorate as it did after the last war.

We will need a merchant fleet of 1,500 to 2,000 ships aggregating 15 to 20 million tons, or double the pre-war tonnage, the Maritime commission chairman predicted in an address prepared for the Washington Star's national radio forum on the Blue network.

"We must plan so there will be no collapse of the shipbuilding industry," he said. "Most certainly it has been proven that a strong merchant marine is just as necessary to this nation as its Army, Navy and Air forces."

Admiral Land, who also is War Shipping administrator, said the Maritime commission already has set up a post-war planning organization.

He advocated a return of shipping and ship-building to private ownership after the war and proposed that the United States maintain a reserve fleet to meet any emergency.

Greek to Give Store When Germany Falls

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8—(UP) Pete Kreis, 47-year-old Greek florist, celebrated the Italian surrender today by giving away roses in front of his downtown shop to every woman who passed.

A crowd of several hundred women quickly gathered. Many a woman heard the news for the first time when Mr. Kreis thrust a big red rose into her hands. As the crowd grew, Mr. Kreis shouted:

"When the Germans surrender, I give the store away."

Christmas Buying Rush Starts For Servicemen Overseas

SEP 9 1943

Mailing of Gifts Will Start Next Wednesday, Continue to Oct. 15.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP) Soldiers in foxholes and bluejackets at naval guns are bound to find out sooner or later that there's a Santa Claus—but the sooner the better.

For America's millions of mothers, wives and sweethearts have begun Christmas shopping for 21,000,000 gifts to send to their men in the armed forces.

Army and Navy post offices expect to handle 15,000,000 Army Christmas gifts, and 6,000,000 Navy packages. And a few hundred thousand more for women in uniform.

30.24 - 8191

It's early, as Christmas shopping goes, but not too early to buy and wrap packages for mailing between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15, the month in which the Army ban on overseas gifts has been lifted.

The Navy warned, meanwhile, that although it has no restrictions against packages, gifts for sailors, Marines and Coast Guardsmen must be mailed before Nov. 1 to arrive on time.

New York department stores began advertising gifts for service men, and merchandisers generally believe that the public has been well educated on what individuals want and what they are forced to toss away because of the contingencies of war.

Some Important Points

Some important things to remember while shopping, postal authorities said, are these: Five pounds is the weight limit on a parcel and one pound of the five should be wrappings. Be sure to wrap durably and carefully (a large proportion of last year's gifts was smashed in transport.)

Don't send food or other perishables (tons of weight may rest on any article sent overseas and the temperatures in ship holds may reach 130 degrees.)

While shopping, all branches of service suggest, keep in mind that the recipient of the gift must carry it around with him.

Almost every store has special advice bureaus to help the wavering customer.

Relatives and friends can avoid disappointment by checking each other's gifts and avoiding duplication.

Women overseas gurgle with glee over sheer stockings and cosmetics, and the Army newspapers report that these articles also "make very useful gifts for soldiers to give when they go visiting."

WHAT SOLDIERS WANT

Washington, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Letters or family photographs are No. 1 items on the Christmas lists of men and women serving overseas.

The OWI, after questioning recently returned officers, overseas Yank correspondents and the Army Exchange Service, said today that "more than the most elaborate gift, soldiers will welcome newsy, cheerful letters from home and recent photographs or snapshots of family and friends."

Other gifts rated highly are cigarette lighters that will light in a strong wind, shockproof and waterproof wrist watches, hunting or Boy Scout knives and small inexpensive cameras with film.

Items not wanted, according to OWI, include: Cigarettes, assorted commercial packages of goodies, elaborate shaving kits, or food, except for a well-packed fruit cake. Gifts should be mailed between September 15 and October 15.

EXTOLS WACS' WORK

Washington, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Women have decidedly won a place in the Army, on the word of the United States Chief of Staff, Gen. George C. Marshall.

"There is a growing demand for Wacs' services throughout the Army," said Gen. Marshall in his biennial report to Secretary of War Stimson.

"Enlistees represent the highest type of American womanhood and as a whole the women have maintained the highest standards in every respect. They have fulfilled their duties in an efficient and businesslike manner and have been a definite asset to the Army."

He envisaged a corps of 150,000, releasing the equivalent of ten full divisions of men for combat duty. The Wacs have taken over 155 varied specialists' jobs at 240 Army posts. Some are abroad, serving as chauffeurs and in administrative positions.

MAY REVISE STAND ON FATHER DRAFT

Washington, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Senator Reynolds (N. C.), chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, which recommended passage of the Wheeler anti-draft bill for fathers, disclosed today that the measure may be recalled so that high Army and Navy officials can be questioned about possible revision of the over-all military manpower needs.

"In view of the Sicilian campaign and other events which have transpired since the committee approved the bill last July," Mr. Reynolds told reporters, it might be wise to call in Selective Service Director Hershey, Manpower Commissioner McNutt and high-ranking Army and Navy men to ascertain what our losses have been, how many replacements are needed and what the general requirements for men are in the light of changing conditions."

Senator Wheeler (D.-Mont.) previously had announced plans to call up his bill almost immediately after Congress reconvenes next Tuesday following its summer recess. The measure, opposed by Secretary of War Stimson and Navy Secretary Knox, would grant fathers an automatic deferment until next January 1.

Representative Sparkman (D.-Ala.) expressed belief that Congress would pass a national service act giving the Government power to shift both men and women into essential war jobs.

Draft Board Was Ousted For Refusal to Obey

Washington, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Selective Service Headquarters said today that the members of the Haverhill, Mass., Local Draft Board 76, were removed because they refused to discharge their duties and not, as the members were quoted as saying, because they publicly criticized the scheduled father-draft.

The board, a spokesman said, wrote both National Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey and the State directod that it would not draft fathers until all non-fathers had been inducted, although it had been ordered to do so after October 1 if the non-fathers were entitled to deferment.

It was the refusal rather than the public announcement that brought about the removal, the spokesman said. New board members, he added, will be appointed by the President when nominations are received from the Governor of Massachusetts.

Army Officer Wins Navy Medal

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP).—An Army officer, Major General Edwin J. House, forty-eight years old, of Syracuse, has received the Navy Distinguished Service Medal for his work as commander of an air task force in the Caribbean Sea frontier area from Dec. 7, 1941, to June 10, 1943, the Navy announced today. The citation credited General House with building up air installations in the area and contributing materially to combatting enemy submarines.

Gibbs Quits Shipbuilding Post

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP).—Reporting that his job has been "satisfactorily accomplished," William Francis Gibbs, noted naval director, resigned today as controler of shipbuilding for the War Production Board. The W. P. B.'s agreement that he might leave the post was taken as evidence that it and the Navy feel the technical obstacles to a victorious shipbuilding effort have been cleared away. Vice-president of Gibbs & Cox, Inc., of New York, Mr. Gibbs took over the job of co-ordinating the shipbuilding effort of the Maritime Commission, the W. P. B. and the armed services early last December.

President Okays Pact Ending Elk Hills Tieup

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt has approved formally an agreement between the Navy Department and Standard Oil Company of California terminating their arrangement for operation of the Elk Hills (Cal.) oilfield.

RAYON FACTORIES ON ALL-WAR BASIS

Washington, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—The War Production Board moved today toward increasing the output of combat airplanes and commercial synthetic rubber tires by directing twelve major makers of rayon tire cord and self-sealing fuel-tank yarns to devote their facilities exclusively to this production. All other orders, directives and regulations affecting the twelve mills were superseded by the must order designed to assure maximum production of the two items.

Today's directive is effective on October 1. Most mills affected have been making cotton-duck textiles. The cotton-duck supply has improved recently and the WPB has released certain grades of duck for civilian use.

DIES BLAMES WASTE

Washington, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Representative Dies (D.-Tex.) declared today that the nation now is only 60 per cent mobilized for war and that waste and inefficiency in use of man power and materials is responsible.

Just returned from Texas, Mr. Dies asserted in an interview that 100 per cent mobilization would shorten the war by one to two years.

The 40 per cent slack in the home front's war effort, in the Texan's opinion, could be taken up through use of idle man power already on the pay roll of war plants and through "elimination of red tape and bungling on the part of the Government."

TO ENLARGE SAMPSON

Washington, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—The Navy Department announced today that expansion of the Sampson primary training center in upstate New York to accommodate an additional 5,000 men will be undertaken at once.

The Sampson establishment is one of the Navy's largest for the boot training of enlisted men.

4550 From Army To Work in Mines

Washington, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—The release of soldiers to work in non-ferrous metal mines stopped today with approximately 4,550 service men placed in mines through a co-operative agreement, now terminated among the War Manpower Commission, the War Department and the War Production Board. The WMC said in a statement that those released would help meet the labor shortage in mines producing vitally needed copper, zinc and molybdenum. Former miners in Army camps in the Ninth Service Command are asked to volunteer to return to mining and the WMC said that "many over the number required responded."

Ickes Turns 138 More Mines Back To Owners

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP)—Secretary of Interior Ickes, as boss of Government-controlled coal mines, announced today that 138 more mines, belonging to 94 companies, had been returned to private operation under provisions of the Smith-Connally Anti-Strike Act.

This brought to 687 the total number of mines returned to private owners since August 21. The shafts are situated in twenty-five States. Thus far there have been no reports of strikes resulting from Government release of the property.

Mines still under control of Ickes' coal mines administration now total 2,691, belonging to 2,053 companies. Only 39 are anthracite mines and the rest are bituminous.

Bloom Loses Draft Appeal

Board Rejects Deferment for His Committee's Messenger, 23

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP).—The District of Columbia Selective Service Appeal Board announced today it had denied the appeal of Representative Sol Bloom, Democrat, of New York, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, for the deferment of Clarence E. Fuller, twenty-three-year-old Negro messenger for the committee, on occupational grounds.

Representative Bloom said he believed that if the man could be deferred the committee could use him. He declared also Fuller was not "physically able to go into service."

"I'm not trying to keep any one out of the service," the New Yorker added. "If he was an important person it would be different. He's been with me so long that I'd like to keep him."

Navy Casualty List Reaches 29,252 Total

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP).—The Navy announced today twenty-two casualties, including eleven dead, nine wounded and two missing, bringing to 29,252 the total of Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard casualties reported to next-of-kin since Dec. 7, 1941. The grand total includes 10,107 dead, 5,153 wounded, 9,831 missing and 4,161 prisoners of war.

The casualties announced today include:

NEW YORK

Dead

DOLE, FRANK ALLEN Jr.; father, Frank Allen Dole sr., Buffalo.
NEUMANN, ROBERT FREDERICK; mother, Mrs. Anna E. Neumann, of 140 South Park Place, New Hyde Park, L. I.

Wounded

MUCCI, CARMEN EUGENE; mother, Mrs. Laura Ventura, Buffalo.

NEW JERSEY

Dead

VILLANI, JOHN; father, Camine Villani, 25 East Nineteenth Street, Paterson.
WAHL, HILDING IVER, ensign; wife, Mrs. Frances Gladys Wahl, 1140 North Twenty-fourth Street, Camden.

Wounded

PICCOLO, JOSEPH; father, Anthony Piccolo, 266 Scoles Avenue, Clifton.
WHITEHEAD, ERNEST FRANKLIN; parents, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Whitehead, Pennsylvania Avenue, Shimer Manor, Phillipsburg.

Missing

MILLIGAN, ROBERT SYLVESTER jr.; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sylvester Milligan sr., 42 Elm Street, Summit.

CONNECTICUT

Wounded

EZZO, LAWRENCE; mother, Mrs. Carmilitta Ezzo, 545 Ellis Street, New Britain.

JAP AGENCY IS ADMITTED

J. C. Le Clair Pleads Guilty To Writing In Pay Of Foreign Government

[By the Associated Press]

New York, Sept. 8—John C. Le Clair, 41, former instructor in New York and New Jersey colleges, pleaded guilty today to a Federal grand-jury indictment charging him with action as an unregistered agent of the Japanese Government.

Federal Judge J. Waties Waring released Le Clair in $5,000 bail pending imposition of sentence September 22. Max D. Novak, assistant United States attorney, said the maximum penalty fixed by law was twelve years' imprisonment and $30,000 fine.

Conspiracy Charged

The indictment charged Le Clair conspired with Shintaro Fukishima, press attache of the Japanese Embassy in Washington, Kyuskike Hoshide, assistant to the treasurer of the Japanese Consulate here, and Shinichi Kondo, vice consul in New York.

The Japanese Government representatives were not named as defendants in the indictment.

As part of the conspiracy, the indictment charged, Le Clair wrote pro-Japanese articles and procured publication of them in magazines. Le Clair was employed from July, 1938, to March, 1941, by the Japanese, E. E. Conroy, head of the New York FBI office said.

In Syndicated Column

Conroy said Le Clair was paid $500 a month by the Japanese consulate in New York from July, 1938, to December, 1939, for writing a syndicated column entitled "Comments and Forecasts," which contained two pro-Japanese articles a month. The column was distributed to more than 200 newspapers in the United States, Conroy said.

Conroy also said that from April, 1938, to March, 1941, Le Clair wrote special articles at the request of the Japanese and his activity as a propaganda agent netted him more than $12,000.

Double Market Action Follows Italian News

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Italian surrender announcement brought a brisk selling movement today in war stocks and a sharp advance in many of the so-called peace shares.

At the close declines ranged from 25 cents to around $1.50 a share in the general run of steels, motors, aircrafts, coppers and rails. Sharper gains were the rule in the air transports, can-manufacturing and soft-drink shares, farm implliments and a scattering of gold mines and utilities with foreign connections.

Stock-exchange dealings were around 800,000 shares, largest for about a month.

Economists Open Post-War Money Standards Study

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—A group of economists announced today formation of the Monetary Standards Inquiry to investigate a basis for international reconstruction and stabilization.

Herbert M. Bratter, formerly with the Department of Commerce and United States Treasury specializing in Far Eastern financial and monetary problems, was named director of the inquiry.

"The Monetary Standards Inquiry is being conducted on the assumption that . . . it is of the greatest importance at this time to evolve monetary arrangements that will solve effectively the urgent problems that will confront us in the post-war world," Bratter said.

Included among participants in the inquiry were Frank D. Graham, professor of economics, Princeton University; Walter E. Spahr, economics professor, New York University; Amos E. Taylor, Department of Commerce balance-of-payments expert, and Arthur R. Upgren, vice-president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis.

Rome Is Still in the War; News Spurs Upstate City

Many Italian-Americans Work in Armament Mills There

ROME, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP).—Rome, N. Y., took the fall of Rome, Italy, today without stopping one war-production machine.

The site of large copper and brass-fabricating mills and of a huge Army air depot, this city did not pause for celebration of the unconditional surrender of Italy.

To thousands of residents of Italian extraction, it meant their home towns would be spared the further scourge of war and their kinfolk in occupied Italy freed of the horrors of aerial destruction.

Rome, N. Y., has about 3,000 men in service, many of them of Italian extraction.

Prompt Release Of Jews Interned In Italy Asked

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—The executive board of the emergency committee to save the Jews in Europe, in a statement to Secretary of State Cordell Hull, tonight urged the immediate release of Jews interned in Italy and Italian-controlled territories.

The emergency committee announced plans for a mass demonstration for sympathy for Jews in Europe, to take place in New York city next month.

Hoover Calls Victory War's Turning Point

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Italian victory "is a glorious turning point in the war" and "great statesmanship now will hasten the surrender of others," former President Herbert Hoover said today, in commenting on the unconditional surrender of Italy.

"We can take great pride in the share of our splendid forces with the British in bringing it about," Hoover said.

"We have now quickly to show the Italian people that this is their redemption from oppression; that it is the resurrection, not the destruction of their national life."

USE NEW CARTRIDGE

New Haven, Sept. 8.—With the development of the new type of non-corrosive carbine cartridge that leaves no damaging deposit in the barrel after the carbine has been fired, gun-barrel cleaning has been reduced to a minimum, it was announced today by Thomas I. S. Boak, works manager of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company, a division of Western Cartridge Company.

Hitherto, the deposit left in the barrel by the primer, after a cartridge had been fired, produced rust and made frequent cleaning necessary. The new primer developed by Winchester for the .30-caliber carbine leaves a protective deposit in the bore and thus makes constant cleaning unnecessary.

Mr. Boak further explained that in order to take care of deposits due to elements other than the primer, the carbine is equipped with a cleaning apparatus, the use of which is required only once a day. The new cartridge is a .30-caliber pistol type, the bullet of which has a muzzle velocity of 2,000 feet per second. Its effective range is 300 yards, which is four times that of a .45-caliber automatic pistol cartridge.

Jersey Prison Honored By Lawes for War Work

900 Inmates Win National Service Pennant

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 8 (AP).—Lewis E. Lawes, former warden of Sing Sing, who now is consultant to the prison industries branch of the War Production Board, presented a National Service pennant to the New Jersey State prison today in recognition of its war activities.

Accepting the award, Robert C. Eckenrode, an inmate and a former night club master of ceremonies, said:

"There isn't any one of us who wouldn't be glad to exchange the stripe on our trousers for one on our sleeve."

The prison's more than 900 inmates applauded as Eckenrode continued: "All we really want is more active participation in the war effort and a larger share of war work."

Mr. Lawes, in a national survey of prison activities during war time, said inmates's subscription to war bonds had reached the point where there was a possibility $300,000 would be subscribed in the country for the purchase of a bomber, to be named by the prisoners. He also reported there were 15,000 former prisoners serving in the armed forces.

Principal Keeper John L. O'Hara said the 1,700 inmates of the state prison and its prison farms at Bordentown and Leesburg had purchased almost $25,000 worth of war bonds, donated more than 1,600 pints of blood to the Red Cross blood bank and co-operated in the production of vaccine. Clothing and equipment were manufactured for the armed services and laundry, packing and shoe repair service were provided for military units, he said.

Seventy-five parolees and fourteen employees of the prison are in the armed services, Mr. O'Hara added.

Navy Checking Plane Parts Found in Sea

Philadelphia, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Fragments that rose to the surface of the ocean from a plane that crashed yesterday and sank off Ventnor, N. J., were being checked today by naval men, the Fourth Naval District said.

The district office said last night the Navy was investigating to learn whether the plane was one which is missing from the Atlantic City Naval Air Station. No body was recovered from the sea, they said.

Italian Surrender Pleases Dr. Einstein

Princeton, Sept. 8.—Dr. Albert Einstein, the mathematician, expressed satisfaction today over the Italian surrender when seen here at his home, 112 Mercer street, but declined to comment on it.

"I am very pleased," was all he would say.

He is associated here with the Institute for Advanced Study.

FEWER DRAFTEES SEEN NECESSARY

Hershey Predicts Lower Quotas; Sees 67 Pct. of Fathers 4-F.

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 8 — (AP) Almost simultaneous with the announcement of Italy's unconditional surrender was the assertion here today by the nation's Selective Service director, Major General Lewis B. Hershey, that "we probably won't have to mobilize as many men for the remainder of the war as we have in the past."

"It has been remarkable," General Hershey said, "that we have obtained so many men for the armed forces and still have the present number to carry on production on the home front in various fields."

Of the victory in Italy, General Hershey said "I hope it becomes an epidemic," adding:

"Obviously I, as well as everyone else, am mighty pleased with this development of the war, for no matter how insignificant our enemy may be, we are glad to see it go down to defeat."

General Hershey said in an interview that he could offer little information on the drafting of fathers situation. But he did assert that probably "not more than 2,000,000" for the 6,000,000 fathers now subject to the draft "could pass their physical examinations." He could not predict what percentage of the 6,000,000 would be inducted in the next year.

Major Glass in New Post

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8 (AP).—Major Carter Glass jr., of Lynchburg, Va., has been named officer in charge of a newly opened Philadelphia Army public relations section, Major General Milton A. Reckford, commanding general of the 3d Service Command, announced today Major Glass is co-publisher with his father, Senator Carter Glass, and brother, Powell Glass, of "The Lynchburg News" and "The Lynchburg Daily Advance." He is a member of the Virginia State Senate and was formerly president of the American Philatelic Society.

Pacifist Must Serve Jail Term

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8 (AP).—A five-year suspended prison sentence against thirty-one-year-old Hazen Louis Ordway, former Easton, Pa., farm worker and self-styled pacifist, was ordered effective today by Federal Judge Guy K. Bard after Ordway was accused of failing to report for non-combatant service in the Army. Ordway, a social worker, who lived at 1014 East 172d Street, the Bronx, received the sentence July 6 on a charge of violating the selective service act. The court suspended it on condition that he obey any future draft-board order for non-combatant duty. Federal Probation Officer Randolph E. Wise said such an order was issued and he disregarded it.

2 CIVIL AIR PATROL FLYERS ARE KILLED

Erie, Pa., Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Two Civilian Air Patrol flyers were killed last night when their plane, one of four taking part in an air raid protection demonstration, crashed in a Victory garden in a residential area.

They were Lieut. Dayton Davis, the pilot, and Fred Streisel, observer, both of Cleveland. They were members of the Lake county CAP unit, Willoughby, Ohio.

RUBBER PLANTS NOW PRODUCING

Optimistic View Taken by Successor to Jeffers.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Bradley Dewey, newly named Acting Rubber Director, gave assurance today that all the synthetic rubber plants in the Government's big 850,000-ton program would be completed this year.

In a speech before the American Chemical Society here, Mr. Dewey disclosed that production this month would exceed 30,000 tons of synthetics, which he said was approximately as much as the crude rubber consumed in the United States during this month a year ago.

This optimistic report marked Mr. Dewey's first public appearance since he took over the rubber program in succession to William M. Jeffers.

"There are still problems," he asserted, "but now that we know that we can make rubber, the spectre of collapse from its shortage is gone. If the other components are provided in sufficient volume there will be enough tires to meet essential needs and keep essential driving and the military on wheels.

"Today's high grade passenger car tire made from all-synthetic rubber is better than all but the top grade, first-line tire of a few years ago made from crude rubber," he said, adding that the reclaim-rubber industry had done a superb job.

Big Re-cap Program.

He predicted that the recapping program will carry through for a long time to come, with every effort being made to recap up to 2,500,000 tires per month.

"Next year there must be made and issued to essential civilian drivers a minimum of 30,000,000 new tires," Mr. Dewey said. He noted that shortages of tire cords exist and are in prospect, but declared that heroic efforts are being made to overcome them.

The Amazon and other Latin-American areas are expected to contribute between 35,000 and 50,000 tons of crude rubber next year, he said, but no appreciable amounts are expected from cryptostegia or from guayule plantings in this country.

The low point of the country's stock pile of crude and synthetic rubbers will be reached sometime early in 1944, he stated. As the new production of synthetics comes in, however, he said there must be a gradual but marked easing up of the restrictions upon the use of these synthetics.

Italian Captives In U. S. To Celebrate Surrender

Fort Benning, Ga., Sept. 8 (AP)—Italian prisoners of war will celebrate the surrender of their homeland with a Thanksgiving Mass Sunday, the public relations office announced today.

Spontaneous cheers of Viva le Roosevelt and Viva la America came from several hundred prisoners just arrived from Sicily when the news of the surrender was announced, public relations said.

Leaders of the prisoners requested permission to hold a te deum mass. More cheers followed the announcement that it would be permitted.

30.24-8193

Mrs. Churchill Hears News At Williamsburg

Williamsburg, Va., Sept. 8 (AP)—News of the Italian surrender reached the wife and daughter of British Prime Minister Winston Churchill here today while they were on a visit to colonial Williamsburg.

Both Mrs. Churchill and her daughter, Subaltern Mary Churchill, received the account of the surrender with calm satisfaction.

The two were among a party which included Lord Moran, Mrs. Churchill's private physician and two high-ranking officers of the United States Army.

Prisoner's Optimism In Italy Is Justified

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 8 (AP).—Last April 19 an American prisoner of war in Italy wrote this letter, recently received by officials at the United States Naval Academy:

"I am writing under somewhat optimistic circumstances, but would like to reserve two (2) tickets for the Army-Navy football game. Please send same to (name and address censored out by Navy Department), Pa., who will fill reservations. Thank you."

The Navy complied, and it appeared today that the prisoner may not have been too "optimistic" after all about seeing the annual classic.

Dyersburg, Tenn., Sept. 8 (A. P.).—The death toll in a collision of two Flying Fortresses near Rolla, Mo., was raised to seven today when the bodies of two aviators were found by searching parties. One of the two bodies recovered was that of Sergt. Richard J. Fitzgibbon, assistant engineer, son of Mrs. Alice Fitzgibbon of 468 83d street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Seven parachuted to safety after the crash last Saturday and two others still are missing.

TOWERS WINS WINGS

New Orleans, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Being the son of Vice-Admiral John Henry Towers, commander of the United States Pacific Air Force, brought little public acclaim for Charles Stewart Towers, 23 years old, until today after Ensign Towers had been graduated from the United States Naval Air Station as a primary flight instructor.

The student did his daily ramp duty, marching back and forth six hours with a rifle on his shoulder. No one here knew until his course was more than half over that he was the son of "Aviator No. 1 of the United States Navy."

Ensign Towers remained in relative obscurity by giving his father's name merely as "J. H. Towers" and listing no occupation.

Ensign Towers reports next week to the United States Naval Air Station at Glenview, Ill., where he will train primary flight students.

U-BOAT SKIPPER IS SOLE SURVIVOR

Miami, Fla., Sept. 8 (A. P.).—The sub-chaser PC-565 blasted an enemy submarine to the bottom of the Atlantic with depth charges and the lone survivor was its commanding officer, who scrambled out of the conning tower hatch just before the submarine took its final dive.

The 170-foot sub-chaser was escorting a convoy when 19-year-old Cisco William Reeth of Comfort, Tex., a soundman, picked up the submarine.

Lieut. Walter T. Flynn of Canandaigua, N. Y., the commander, ordered PC-565 to start depth charges, and the first was dropped within four minutes of the first contact A heavy rumble of explosions followed.

Naval headquarters here told the story of the submarine sinking in a statement which said it was one of the ninety submarines the Navy Department reported [illegible] in May, June and July.

"The patrol boat turned back toward the target as enormous air bubbles rose from the spot close to the depth charge pattern," the Navy's statement related. "Then the submarine's conning tower broke surface almost dead ahead."

As Lieut. Flynn bore down on the submarine to ram it the enemy craft began to sink again. The conning tower hatch opened and one man climbed out. He was the commanding officer of the undersea craft. He was picked up. Lieut. Ernest D. Button of Manhasset, L. I., is executive officer of the PC-565, and Lieut. Charles P. Sheppard of Sulphur Springs Tex., is gunnery officer.

U. S. Outlines Added Charges Against Colman

Use of Contractor's Lodge Laid to Colonel on Trial in Selfridge Field Shooting

SEP 9 1943

SELFRIDGE FIELD, Mich., Sept. 8 (AP).—Testimony designed by the government to show that Colonel William T. Colman was intoxicated and careless in the handling of firearms at the time of the shooting last May of Private William McRae, a Negro chauffeur, was introduced at Colman's court martial here today.

Colonel Colman, who was relieved as post commandant here following the wounding of Private McRae, went on trial Monday, charged with the shooting and with more than a score of other violations of the Articles of War.

The court having denied a defense motion for dismissal of most of the charges against Colonel Colman, the government announced it would endeavor to prove that Colonel Colman was "a careless, drunken man"; that he arranged the transfer of certain enlisted personnel to Selfridge, in one instance of a soldier scheduled for embarkation for overseas service, and that he accepted the use of a summer lodge near Oscoda, Mich., from the representative of a contracting concern employed by the government.

Today's witnesses testified chiefly about the shooting of Private McRae.

McRae repeated the story he told yesterday of having responded to a call from Colonel Colman's office for a chauffeur, to be shot without preliminary warning when he approached the Colman car. He said he was in the base hospital for ninety-five days following the shooting.

Private McRae testified that after he had been shot, Captain Will O. Ross, who was officer of the day, ran over and picked him up, saying: "That could have been me."

Private Oliver C. Hedger, who was acting corporal of the guard, told of hearing the shots and following Colonel Colman into the latter's office.

"The colonel opened a drawer of his desk," Private Hedger said. "There was a gun in it, and I shut the drawer and stood in front of it. He mumbled a threat to report me and pointed to a sign he had on his desk, with the word 'relax' on it. His speech was thick and rambling."

Major John H. Lukas, of the Medical Corps, testified that he examined Colonel Colman in his quarters an hour after the shooting and found him intoxicated.

Outlining the charge that Colonel Colman accepted use of a lodge from a government contractor, Captain W. Stanley Dolan, assistant trial judge advocate, said the government would attempt to show that it was given to Colonel Colman by Herman Granse, representing a concern in Bay City, Mich., which was erecting prefabricated buildings at Selfridge Field, after Colonel Colman had arranged to have Mr. Granse's two soldier sons transferred to the field.

Congressman's Son Killed

Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 8 (AP)—Representative John R. Murdock (D., Ariz.) was advised today by the War Department that his son, First Lieutenant David N. Murdock, 29-year-old infantryman, was killed in action in the Mediterranean area August 11, the second anniversary of his army service.

ITALY, TEX., SEALS NEWS

Postmarks Collector Mail on Hour of Namesake's Fall

ITALY, Tex., Sept. 8 (AP)—News of Italy's surrender reverberated today through this central Texas town of 1,000 population and got its biggest—and busiest—reception in the postoffice.

For weeks collectors and others had been sending postcards and letters to Italy, Tex., to be postmarked at the day and hour of the Italians' capitulation.

Postmaster Frank Sheppard called in extra help today to dispatch the mail to all parts of the world.

Syracuse Scientist Accepts China Post

Syracuse, Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Dr. George B. Cressey, chairman of the Syracuse University department of geography and geology was on leave of absence from the university today to accept an appointment as representative of the United States Department of State in China.

Chancellor William P. Tolley, in announcing the leave of absence, said the appointment was in connection with cultural relations in China and was at the request of the Chinese Government, for whom the Syracuse professor was a consultant in 1934.

ADD LONDON-WHITE
ALREADY ALLIED STAFF OFFICERS FROM CAIRO HAVE HELD CONFERENCES
IN YUGOSLAVIA TO COORDINATE STRATEGY.
THE VICTORY IN ITALY WHICH AT ONE STROKE REMOVED AT LEAST 60 COMBAT DIVISIONS FROM THE AXIS FORCES APPEARED LIKELY TO RAISE THE BRITISH AND AMERICAN WAR EFFORT IN THE ESTIMATION OF SOVIET RUSSIA
WHERE THE VALUE OF THE MEDITERRANEAN FRONT HAS BEEN MINIMIZED.
WHILE TODAY'S DEVELOPMENT MAY NOT SILENCE THE KREMLIN'S DEMAND FOR A FRONT IN FRANCE, IT WAS EXPECTED THAT THE RUSSIANS WOULD READILY RECOGNIZE THAT ELIMINATION OF ITALY WAS A MAJOR STEP IN THE DIRECTION OF CRUSHING GERMANY.
IN LONDON IT WAS EXPECTED THAT THE NEWS WOULD HAVE AN IMMEDIATE AND IMPORTANT EFFECT ON NEGOTIATIONS FOR A THREE-POWER CONFERENCE

SEP 9 1943

AMONG PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL AND PREMIER JOSEPH STALIN. ANTICIPATION OF TODAY'S ANNOUNCEMENT WAS BELIEVED TO HAVE PROMPTED PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT YESTERDAY TO PREDICT FURTHER STEPS TOWARD A CONFERENCE WITHIN THE NEXT 24 OR 48 HOURS. #

ADD LONDON - AERIAL (HILL) xxx BLASTED

KEY RAILROAD YARDS HAVE TAKEN A SIMILAR BEATING. ROUEN, ABBEVILLE, SERQUEUX AND AMIENS WERE EACH BOMBED TWICE IN A WEEK, IN ADDITION TO MUNICH, IMPORTANT NAZI RAILROAD CHANNEL INTO ITALY, HIT BY RAF HEAVY BOMBERS MONDAY NIGHT.

SEP 9 1943

THE EFFECT WAS SHOWN IN ALREADY WEAKENED GERMAN DEFENSE. THE RAF LOST ONLY 16 BOMBERS OUT OF A FORCE OF PROBABLY 700 AT MUNICH MONDAY AND FORTRESSES BOMBED THREE TARGETS IN BELGIUM AND FRANCE YESTERDAY WITHOUT LOSING A SINGLE PLANE.

THE EFFECTS WERE EXPECTED TO SNOWBALL IN THE NEAR FUTURE AS ALLIED BOMBERS, WITH LESS RESISTANCE, WERE ABLE TO MAKE DEEPER INROADS ON THE GERMANS.

ONE EFFECT OF THE AIR PASTING OF GERMANY WAS SEEN IN THE BERLIN ANNOUNCEMENT THAT GERMANY'S ENTIRE WAR PRODUCTION HAS BEEN REORGANIZED--APPARENTLY IN AN ATTEMPT TO MAKE UP FOR LOSSES BY ALLIED BOMBS.

WIDER POWERS WERE PLACED WITH ALBERT SPEER, MINISTER FOR ARMAMENT AND MUNITIONS, WHO WAS PLACED IN CHARGE OF ALL NAZI WAR PRODUCTION. WALTHER FUNK, MINISTER OF ECONOMICS, WAS MADE RESPONSIBLE FOR GENERAL ECONOMIC POLICY, FINANC[illegible]G OF TRADE AND INDUSTRY, SUPPLY OF CIVILIAN GOODS, MONETARY AND [illegible]FFAIRS AND FOREIGN TRADE.

HW448PEW

LONDON - SWEENY xxx GUNNER

ADD MEMBERS OF HAMMER'S CREW:

FLIGHT OFFICER ROBERT. J. CONWAY, WOODSTOCK, ILL., CO-PILOT; LT. WALTER B. CORKIN, NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y., NAVIGATOR; LT. ARTHUR A. EDGARLAN, NEW BRITAIN, CONN., BOMBARDIER; SGT. RALPH A. BRANSTETTER, VANDALIA, MO., RADIO OPERATOR; SGT. CHARLES PARYSEK, LONG ISLAND, N.Y., RADIO GUNNER, SGT. HOWARD W. BARD, MADALIN, N.Y., ENGINEER; SGT. VERNON W. MEYERHOEFFER, PENN LAIRD, VA., ASST. ENGINEER; SGT. GEORGE J. BULLIS, SYRACUSE, N.Y., GUNNER, AND SGT. GEORGE R. FINNEY, GRENADA, MISS, GUNNER.

JR540AEW

LONDON, SEPT.8-(AP)-AMERICAN TROOPS WERE REPORTED IN A REUTERS DISPATCH FROM STOCKHOLM TONIGHT TO HAVE LANDED AT NAPLES AND GENOA AND ON SARDINIA. THE DISPATCH QUOTED THE STOCKHOLM NEWSPAPER SVENSKA DAGBLADET.

SEP 9 1943

LONDON, SEPT.8-(AP)-THE GERMAN OVERSEAS RADIO ANNOUNCED TONIGHT THAT ALL TELEPHONE COMMUNICATIONS BETWEEN BERLIN AND ITALY HAVE BEEN SEVERED.

THE GERMAN REPORT SAID THE ITALIANS REFUSED TO ACCEPT URGENT CALLS BY WAY OF BUDAPEST OR ZURICH.

HW545PEW

LONDON, SEPT. 8-(AP)-A GERMAN COMMUNIQUE SAID TODAY THAT ALLIED FORCES HAD LANDED AT THE GULF OF EUFEMIA, IN ITALY ABOUT 40 MILES ABOVE THE POINT AT WHICH BRITISH AND CANADIAN FORCES HAVE BEEN FIGHTING.

30.24-8195

"ENEMY FORCES WHICH LAST NIGHT LANDED AT THE GULF OF EUFEMIA IN CALABRIA HAVE BEEN SUBJECTED TO CONCENTRATED ATTACKS SINCE EARLY TODAY," SAID THE COMMUNIQUE, BROADCAST BY THE GERMAN RADIO AND RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

AN ALLIED COMMUNIQUE, ANNOUNCED EARLIER AT HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, MADE NO MENTION OF ANY LANDING ON THE INSTEP OF THE ITALIAN BOOT.

SEP 9 1943

GH846AEW

AXIS INVASION REPORTS

BY EDWARD B.BALL

LONDON, SEPT. 8-(AP)-THE NAZI PROPAGANDA MACHINE BLARED FORTH REPORTS THAT TWO ALLIED CONVOYS OF 200 SHIPS WERE STEAMING TOWARD ITALY TODAY AS THE DESERTION OF ITALY LEFT GERMANY STANDING ALONE TO MEET NEW ALLIED ATTACKS ON THE FORTRESS OF EUROPE.

AS THE NERVOUS NAZIS THEMSELVES HAVE BEEN FORECASTING, THE BLOWS MAY NOT BE LONG IN COMING--FROM ONE OR MORE DIRECTIONS AT ONCE.

THE 200 ALLIED FREIGHTERS WHICH THE GERMANS SAID WERE STEAMING TOWARD ITALY NORTH OF SICILY PRESUMABLY WERE LOADED WITH AMERICAN TROOPS.

THE GERMAN RADIO ALSO REPORTED FRESH LANDINGS OF BRITISH TROOPS NEAR PIZZO, NORTHEAST OF CAPE VATICANO, ON THE GULF OF SANTA EUFEMIA. POSSIBLY WITH FOREKNOWLEDGE OF WHAT WAS ABOUT TO HAPPEN, THE NAZI COMMENTATOR ADDED THAT THESE FORCES WERE PUT ASHORE WITH THE AIM OF CUTTING OFF GERMAN UNITS STILL IN SOUTHERN ITALY.

ALLIED CONFIRMATION OF THESE ENEMY REPORTS WAS LACKING, BUT, ASSUMING THEY MIGHT BE TRUE, IT IS REASONABLE TO CONCLUDE THAT THE ALLIED COMMAND IS BENT UPON A QUICK CLEAN-UP OF ITALY BEFORE LAUNCHING A GRAND-SCALE INVASION OF THE EUROPEAN FORTRESS.

ON THE DAY BEFORE THE ALLIES MOVED INTO ITALY PROPER ON SEPT. 3, THE GERMAN RADIOS LET LOOSE A SERIES OF RADIO BROADSIDES, PREDICTING INVASION THRUSTS SIMULTANEOUSLY FROM GREAT BRITAIN IN THE WEST AND AGAINST THE ITALIAN MAINLAND FROM SICILY.

THE AXIS THEN SPOKE OF A "MASSIVE ANGLO-AMERICAN INVASION ARMADA, ASSEMBLING IN BRITAIN TO CROSS THE CHANNEL AND DISEMBARK ITS ARMIES ON THE FRENCH COAST."

THEY MAY HAVE BEEN CORRECT IN SAYING ALLIED ARMADAS WERE MASSING, BUT WHERE AND WHEN AND IN WHAT DIRECTION THEY WILL STRIKE IS SOMETHING FOR THE ALLIED COMMAND TO DECIDE AND FOR THE GERMANS TO FIND OUT WHEN THE TIME COMES.

SEP 9 1943

EJ712PEW

LONDON, SEPT. 8-(AP)-THE GERMAN INTERNATIONAL INFORMATION BUREAU REPORTED TODAY THAT TWO BIG CONVOYS TOTALLING 200 FREIGHTERS AND TRANSPORTS WERE MOVING OFF ITALY AND THAT THEIR PRESENCE "SUGGESTS AMERICAN TROOPS ARE ABOARD TO CARRY THROUGH YET ANOTHER LANDING" ON THE MAINLAND.

THE DISPATCH, BROADCAST BY THE BERLIN RADIO AND RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, SAID "CONSIDERABLE AMERICAN AND BRITISH SHIPPING MOVEMENTS" HAD BEEN OBSERVED NORTH OF SICILY AND WEST OF NORTHERN CALABRIA.

THE GERMANS SURMISED THAT THE CONVOYS HAD COME FROM PALERMO, SICILY.

GH146PEW

1943

OPENING OF THE

LONDON, SEPT.8-(AP)-- THE ANNIVERSARY OF THE GREAT GERMAN AIR OFFENSIVE AGAINST LONDON, WHICH BEGAN THE EVENING OF SEPT.7, 1940, AND CONTINUED WITHOUT A LETUP FOR 85 NIGHTS, PASSED LAST NIGHT WITH ONLY A FEW SCATTERED NAZI RAIDERS OVER ENGLAND TO REMIND BRITONS OF THE DATE.

SEP 9 1943

MORE THAN 250 GERMAN PLANES RAIDED THIS CITY THE FIRST NIGHT OF THE GREAT BLITZ, STRIKING AT ABOUT 8 P.M. AND RAINING INCENDIARIES AND HIGH EXPLOSIVES ON THE CAPITAL UNTIL 4:30 A.M. THEY KILLED 430 PERSONS AND INJURED 1,600 IN ADDITION TO CAUSING WIDESPREAD DESTRUCTION

BAD WEATHER OVER THE CONTINENT LAST NIGHT GROUNDED THE RAF'S HEAVY BOMBERS AND CAUSED A TEMPORARY LULL IN THE GREAT ALLIED AERIAL OFFENSIVE, WHICH HAD CONTINUED DAY AND NIGHT WITH SCARCELY A BREAK FOR 144 HOURS.

APL AGNE'S 00744 AND 00641--JA-- 311A

London, Sept. 8-(AP)-A multi-starred general swears this story is true, but both he and the American flier it's about must remain anonymous.

The flier was given a flask of brandy by a British friend just before he started on a recent mission. He stuck it in the top of his flying boot for luck.

SEP 9 1943

Shot down into the English channel, he sipped the brandy against the chill as he floated in his life jacket. He had emptied the flask when a rescue craft arrived.

The rescuers noted that the flier was slightly unsteady. Assuming that he was suffering from exhaustion, the ship's captain told him: "I believe you better go below, old fellow."

With offended dignity the flier replied, "I've never yet stayed around where I wasn't wanted," and dived back into the channel.

They fished him out again with apologies all around.

apl bunnelles 01347 for fol hab925aew

30.24 - 9197

LONDON, THURSDAY, SEPT 9-(AP)-A PROCLAMATION READ OVER THE GERMAN RADIO ANNOUNCED THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A NATIONAL FASCIST ITALIAN GOVERNMENT IN THE NAME OF BENITO MUSSOLINI, REUTERS SAID TODAY.

SEP 9 194

(THE GERMAN BRESLAU RADIO, IN A BROADCAST TO ITALY, SAID THE GOVERNMENT HAD BEEN CREATED TO "SAVE THE HONOR OF ITALY." IT APPEA TO ITALIAN SOLDIERS TO REFUSE TO SURRENDER TO THE ALLIES AND ENDED ITS TRANSMISSION BY PLAYING THE FASCIST HYMN, "GIOVANEZZA." THE BROADCAST WAS RECORDED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION.)

WHETHER MUSSOLINI, LAST REPORTED UNDER ARREST IN ITALY, HAD REACHED BERLIN OR WHETHER GERMANY WAS SIMPLY SETTING UP A FACADE AS TRIBUTE TO THE FALLEN DUCE WAS NOT MADE CLEAR.

ANKARA DISPATCH SAID MUSSOLINI WAS SUFFERING FROM CANCER AND THAT PHYSICIANS HAD SAID HE WAS BEYOND HELP.

SEVERAL FORMER FASCIST PARTY LEADERS WERE BELIEVED TO HAVE REACHED GERMANY AFTER MUSSOLINI'S FALL AND SOME GERMAN ATTEMPT TO SET UP ITS OWN ITALIAN "GOVERNMENT-IN-EXILE" HAS BEEN EXPECTED.

SB1153PEW

Lisbon, Sept. 8-(AP)-The surrender of Italy was welcomed throughout Portugal today as a step toward an earlier end ending of the war.

30.24 - 8197

lisbon, thursday, sept. 9-(ap)- enrico galeazzi, governor of vatic city, left lisbon by airplane en route to england last night.

galeazzi was reported to have left for the united states last week in connection with intense vatican diplomatic activity of recent days.

apl lupis 00030 ro 1109 (day report friday sept. 3)

burgos, spain, sept. 8-(ap)-jose luis arrese magraz, secretary general of the falange party and second only to generalissimo francisco franco as leader of the regime in spain, said today that the main international goal of spain is "anti-communism."

SEP 9 1943

in his speech, arrese said the spanish blue region was in russia not as a blood payment to the axis for their help in the civil war but because spain's fear of communism blinded it to all other considerations in the present war.

apl 1330 series ro 506p

1943

ADD ALLIED H.Q. AFRICA (KENNEDY) XXX MOVE

THE MESSAGE FROM CUNNINGHAM SAID "YOUR SHIPS ARE URGENTLY NEEDED TO ASSIST IN THE WORK OF POURING SUPPLIES TO ITALY AND YOUR WARSHIPS TO PROTECT THEM FROM THE GERMANS.

"TAKE HEED, THEREFORE, THAT YOU DO NOT SCUTTLE YOUR SHIPS OR ALLOW THEM TO BE CAPTURED."

IT GAVE DIRECTIONS FOR SHIPS IN THE MEDITERRANEAN TO SAIL TO ALLIED-HELD PORTS, FOR THOSE IN THE BLACK SEA TO GO TO RUSSIAN OR NEUTRAL PORTS, AND FOR SHIPS TO BE SCUTTLED ONLY AS "A LAST RESORT" TO KEEP THEM FROM THE GERMANS. SIGNALS WERE GIVEN FOR THE SHIPS TO USE.

SEP 9 1943

ITALY ENTERED THE WAR JUNE 10, 1940, WHEN MUSSOLINI ATTACKED A PROSTRATE FRANCE IN HOPES OF WINNING SOME CHEAPLY-GAINED LOOT. THE NATION THUS WAS AT WAR THREE YEARS, TWO MONTHS, AND 29 DAYS.

HER WAR HISTORY WAS ALMOST ENTIRELY ONE OF DEFEATS AND INCREASING GERMAN DOMINATION. AT THE START SHE WAS THEORETICALLY AN EQUAL PARTNER OF THE AXIS. AT THE END, SHE WAS REDUCED TO GERMAN VASSALAGE AND WAS THE OBJECT OF GERMAN SCORN.

DESPITE THEIR RECORD OF DEFEATS, THE ITALIAN SOLDIERS OFTEN SHOWED VALOR, HOWEVER, AND THE TASK OF DEFEATING ITALY WAS NOT AN EASY ONE.

ITALY'S CASUALTIES IN DEAD AND WOUNDED, WHILE CONSIDERABLE, WERE NOTHING LIKE THOSE SUFFERED BY THE NAZIS ON THE RUSSIAN FRONT. HER LOSSES IN SOLDIERS CAPTURED WERE ENORMOUS. THE TOTAL OF ITALIANS IN ALLIED PRISON CAMPS NOW APPROACHES 1,000,000.

ONE THING SEEMS CERTAIN --- THE ITALIAN PEOPLE NEVER HAD THEIR HEART IN THE WAR AND THEIR DISAFFECTION INCREASED WITH REVERSES AND THE GERMAN DOMINATION. FOR CENTURIES THE GERMANS HAVE BEEN ONE PEOPLE THE ITALIANS HEARTILY DISLIKED.

THE CAPITULATION WAS NO GREAT SURPRISE AS FOR WEEKS ITALY HAD BEEN TOTTERING, AND THE FEEBLENESS OF OPPOSITION TO THE BRITISH LANDIN IN CALABRIA LAST FRIDAY MADE IT PLAIN THERE WAS NOT MUCH FIGHT LEFT IN THE ITALIAN ARMED FORCES.

SEP 9 194

MORE THAN 200 PERSONS, INCLUDING WAR CORRESPONDENTS, SAW SOME OF THE ITALIAN NEGOTIATORS ARRIVE AT PALERMO AIRFIELD IN SICILY. THEY CAME IN A TRI-MOTORED ITALIAN PLANE ESCORTED BY SPITFIRES, AND GUNNERS AROUND THE FIELD HAD INSTRUCTIONS TO HOLD THEIR FIRE.

BUT THEIR PRESENCE REMAINED AN OFFICIAL SECRET UNTIL TODAY.

AN ADDITIONAL COMMUNIQUE ISSUED LATE TONIGHT SAID "THE ARMISTICE IS STRICTLY A MILITARY INSTRUMENT SIGNED BY SOLDIERS. NO POLITICAL, FINANCIAL, OR ECONOMIC TERMS ARE INCLUDED. THESE WILL BE IMPOSED LATER.

"GRANTING OF THE ARMISTICE MEANS ONLY CESSATION OF HOSTILITIES BETWEEN THE ARMED FORCES OF ITALY AND THOSE OF THE UNITED NATIONS.

"ON THE OTHER HAND, REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED NATIONS HAVE INDICATED THEY WILL ASSIST AND SUPPORT ANY ITALIAN ARMED FORCES OR ITALIAN INDIVIDUALS WHO OPPOSE THE GERMANS OR OBSTRUCT THE (GERMAN) WAR EFFORT."

MUSSOLINI AND THE OTHERS WHO LED ITALY INTO THE WAR FACE PUNISHMENT AT THE HANDS OF THE VICTORIOUS UNITED NATIONS.

WHILE ITALIAN ARMED FORCES UNDOUBTEDLY WILL BE ACCORDED THE RIGHT OF HONORABLE SURRENDER, THERE WAS NO MENTION OF THIS IN THE OFFICIAL STATEMENTS.

COLLAPSE OF THE ITALIAN WAR MACHINE GIVES THE GERMANS STAGGERING PROBLEMS OF OCCUPATION.

IT WAS REPORTED THAT ITALIAN OCCUPYING TROOPS IN FRANCE ALREADY

30.24-8199

30.24-8199

WERE MOVING HOME. THOSE IN THE BALKANS PRESUMABLY WILL TRY TO GET HOME.

SHOULD THE NAZIS ATTEMPT TO OCCUPY NORTHERN ITALY, IT WOULD BE ONE MORE COUNTRY TO BE GARRISONED AGAINST HOSTILE ACTS OF THE POPULATION.

THE COMMUNIQUE SAID THE TRUCE WAS APPROVED BY THE UNITED STATES, BRITISH AND RUSSIAN GOVERNMENTS, BUT MADE NO MENTION OF FRENCH OR OTHER UNITED NATIONS GOVERNMENTS. IT IS KNOWN, HOWEVER, THAT THE FRENCH COMMITTEE OF NATIONAL LIBERATION HERE WAS AWARE IN RECENT DAYS THAT THE NEGOTIATIONS WERE GOING ON.

SEP 9 1943

ALGIERS AND OTHER NORTH AFRICAN CITIES WERE FILLED TONIGHT WITH SINGING, JUBILANT SOLDIERS.

I HAVE LEARNED AUTHORITATIVELY THAT THE GERMAN FORCE IN ITALY IS FAR MORE POWERFUL THAN ANY THE ALLIED ARMIES YET HAVE ENGAGED ON THE SOUTHERN FRONT AND THAT IT IS MANY TIMES THE SIZE OF WHAT THE GERMANS HAD IN AFRICA AND SICILY.

(REPORTS FROM NEUTRAL SOURCES HAVE INDICATED THAT THE GERMANS HAD BETWEEN 12 TO 18 DIVISIONS IN THE PO REGION A MONTH AGO.)

SOME OF THE TOUGHEST AND BEST GERMAN DIVISIONS ARE ON THE PENINSULA.

ITALY, ALREADY BADLY TORN AND BLASTED BY THE WAR, APPARENTLY IS TO BECOME THE SCENE OF A TITANIC STRUGGLE.

THE GERMANS ARE SOLIDLY ENTRENCHED IN AIRFIELDS AND AT OTHER STRATEGIC POINTS.

THE ITALIANS--ALTHOUGH OBSESSED WITH A HATRED FOR THE GERMANS ARE EXHAUSTED AND NOT LIKELY TO BE ABLE TO GIVE REAL MILITARY ASSISTANCE IN THE CAMPAIGN TO DRIVE THE BOCHE OFF THE PENINSULA.

ITALY TONIGHT IS DOUBTLESS THE UNHAPPIEST OF ALL THE UNHAPPY COUNTRIES OF EUROPE AND THE MOST PAINFULLY OCCUPIED OF ALL THE NAZI-HELD COUNTRIES.

GERMANY'S WAR MACHINE HOLDS THE PENINSULA IN AN OCTOPUS-LIKE STRANGLE HOLD. ITS TENTACLES WILL HAVE TO BE SEVERED ONE BY ONE BEFORE THE COUNTRY CAN BE FREED.

THE ITALIANS FACE NOT ONLY THE GRIM PROSPECT OF HAVING THEIR COUNTRY TURNED INTO A FIERCE BATTLEGROUND BUT ALSO UNRESTRAINED GERMAN VENGEANCE.

SEP 9 1943

F.17PEW

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, SEPT.8-(AP)-PREMIER PIETRO BADOGLIO PERSONALLY READ TO THE ITALIAN PEOPLE TONIGHT HIS PROCLAMATION OF SURRENDER AND HIS APPEARANCE BEFORE THE ROME RADIO'S MICROPHONE INDICATED THAT HE WAS FREE OF GERMAN MOLESTATION.

HW441PEW

BY NOLAND NORGAARD

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, THURSDAY, SEPT.9-(AP)-THE IMMEDIATE FATE OF THREE LESSER PRIZES FROM ITALY'S SURRENDER -- SARDINIA, RHODES AND THE DODECANESE ISLAND GROUP IN THE EASTERN MEDITERRANEAN -- APPARENTLY REMAINED IN DOUBT EARLY TODAY.

THE ISSUE AS TO THE ISLANDS WAS OBSCURED BY THE MAJOR QUESTION OF WHERE ALLIED AND NAZI FORCES WERE LIKELY TO CLASH IN THE RACE FOR THE ALL-IMPORTANT ITALIAN MAINLAND.

THE ISLANDS WERE INCLUDED IN THE SURRENDER, BUT IN THE CASE OF

1943

SARDINIA IN PARTICULAR, THE PROBLEM WAS WHETHER THE NAZIS WERE THERE IN SUFFICIENT STRENGTH TO ATTEMPT TO RETAIN IT.

FOR A NUMBER OF WEEKS, U.S. FIGHTER BOMBERS ROAMED THE SKIES OVER SARDINIA ALMOST DAILY, BUT THEY SELDOM FOUND MILITARY TARGETS WORTH THE TROUBLE OF BOMBING. OCCASIONALLY, A FEW GERMAN OR ITALIAN FIGHTERS WERE SIGHTED, BUT ON THE WHOLE IT SEEMED THAT THE ONCE-FORMIDABLE FORCES OF NAZI BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS HAD BEEN REMOVED TO ESCAPE BLISTERING ALLIED ATTACKS.

THOSE SAME AIRFIELDS WOULD BE A SIZEABLE ASSET TO THE BIG AFRICAN AIR FORCE FOR OPERATIONS AGAINST GERMAN TROOPS IN CENTRAL OR NORTHERN ITALY -- POSSIBLY EVEN AGAINST GERMANY.

IN LIKE FASHION, THE NUISANCE VALUE OF RHODES AS A BASE, FROM WHICH ITALIAN BOMBERS FREQUENTLY ATTEMPTED TO HARASS BRITISH SHIPPING AND OTHER ALLIED WAR FACTORS, MIGHT EASILY BE CONVERTED TO THE USE OF ALLIED AIR FLEETS.

SEP 9 1943

NW1043PEW

BY NOLAND NORGAARD

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, THURSDAY, SEPT 9--(AP)--THE REACTION TO THE ITALIAN SURRENDER WHICH PERHAPS WAS MOST EAGERLY AWAITED HERE TODAY WAS THAT OF THE AXIS SATELLITES--NOTABLY BULGARIA, RUMANIA AND FINLAND.

ITALY'S FALL IS BELIEVED CERTAIN TO COME AS ONE OF THE MOST SEVERE BLOWS TO THE MORALE OF THOSE UNHAPPY MEMBERS OF HITLER'S DWINDLING CIRCLE OF ADHERENTS, AMONG WHOM THE GROWING CONVICTION THAT THEY CHOSE THE WRONG SIDE ALREADY HAS BEEN EVIDENT.

THE GERMAN NEWS AGENCY TRANSOCEAN IN A BROADCAST HEARD HERE SAID "MANY PEOPLE HAD EXPRESSED FEARS THAT NORTHERN ITALY MIGHT BECOME THE SCENE OF MILITARY OPERATIONS AS A RESULT OF ITALY'S UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER," BUT INDICATIONS WERE LACKING WHETHER THIS COULD BE CONSTRUED AS A SIGN THE NAZI HIGH COMMAND WOULD NOT ATTEMPT TO FIGHT IT OUT WITH THE ALLIES IN SOUTHERN ITALY.

THE BERLIN RADIO SAID TELEPHONE CONNECTIONS BETWEEN ROME AND BERLIN HAD BEEN HALTED BY ITALIAN EXCHANGES.

SEP 9 1943

THE UNITED NATIONS RADIO STATION MADE PROMPT USE OF PREMIER BADOGLIO'S ARMISTICE PROCLAMATION BY RE-BROADCASTING IN ALL ITALIAN PROGRAMS A RECORDING OF HIS VOICE READING THE MESSAGE OVER THE ROME RADIO.

THE FACT THAT THE GERMANS COULD NOT PREVENT BADOGLIO FROM ANNOUNCING THE CAPITULATION TO HIS PEOPLE AND THE REFUSAL OF ROME TO PERMIT TELEPHONE CONVERSATIONS TO AXIS COUNTRIES SHOWED HIS GOVERNMENT WAS STILL IN FULL CONTROL OF THE SITUATION IN ROME.

SB1150PEW

CAIRO--FIRST ADD WILSON BALKAN (ORIGINAL) XXX BE UTTERLY DESTROYED."

AT THE SAME TIME INSTRUCTIONS SIGNED BY WILSON WERE BROADCAST TO THE ITALIAN FORCE IN THE BALKAN AREA. TEXT OF THE MESSAGE:

"MEMBERS OF ITALIAN FORCES: AN ARMISTICE HAS BEEN SIGNED BY YOUR GOVERNMENT. WAR BETWEEN ITALY AND THE UNITED NATIONS IS AT AN END.

"BASED ON THE TERMS OF THE ARMISTICE, FOLLOWING ARE MY IMMEDIATE ORDERS TO ALL MEMBERS OF ITALIAN ARMED FORCES IN THE BALKAN AREA:

"1--ALL ACTS OF HOSTILITY TOWARDS PEOPLE IN WHOSE COUNTRIES

YOU FIND YOURSELVES WILL CEASE FORTHWITH.

"2--STRICTEST DISCIPLINE WILL BE MAINTAINED THROUGHOUT ALL UNITS AND ALL UNITS WILL RETAIN THEIR FORMATIONS.

3--ALL ATTEMPTS BY THE GERMANS OR THEIR SATELLITES TO DISARM OR DISBAND ITALIAN FORCES OR TO GAIN POSSESSION OF THEIR WEAPONS, THEIR STORES, PETROL OR WATER, OR THE POINTS NOW BEING GARRISONED BY THEM, WILL BE RESISTED TO THE UTMOST. ALL ORDERS TRANSMITTED BY THE GERMANS WILL BE DISREGARDED.

"4--ITALIAN FORCES IN THE DODECANESE WILL TAKE OVER BY FORCE ALL POINTS NOW IN THE POSSESSION OF THE GERMANS.

"5--ALL UNITS OF THE ITALIAN NAVY AND ITALIAN MERCHANT MARINE WILL PROCEED IMMEDIATELY AS FOLLOWS:

"MERCHANT SHIPS EAST OF 17° EAST DIRECT TO ALEXANDRIA, EXCEPT, IF NECESSARY TO FUEL, THEY MAY CALL AT AN INTERMEDIATE UNITED NATIONS PORT. WARSHIPS IN THE AEGEAN TO HAIFA.

SEP 9 1943

"6--ALL AIRCRAFT OF THE ITALIAN AIR FORCES WILL BE FLOWN IMMEDIATELY TO NICOSIA (CYPRUS), DERNA OR TOBRUK AND SEAPLANES TO EL ADEM.

"THE PROCEDURE TO BE FOLLOWED BY ITALIAN AIRCRAFT IN APPROACHING AND LANDING ON ALLIED TERRITORY WILL BE: A--TO GIVE WIDE BERTH TO ALL SHIPPING AT SEA AND TO AVOID PORTS ON APPROACHING A COAST; B--TO FLY AT 3,000 FEET WITH THE UNDERCARRIAGE DOWN FOR 20 MILES TO SEAWARD OF THE COAST AND TO THE AIRDROME SELECTED FOR THE LANDING; C--COMPLETE TWO LEFT-HAND CIRCUITS OF THE AIRDROME AT 1,000 FEET BEFORE COMING IN TO LAND.

"DISREGARD OF THESE ORDERS OR OF SUBSEQUENT ORDERS I SHALL ISSUE [illegible] CONSIDERED AS A BREACH OF THE TERMS OF THE ARMISTICE

30.24-8201

30.24-8201

WILL BE [illegible]

ACCEPTED BY YOUR COMMANDERS IN CHIEF AND WILL BE TO THE PREJUDICE OF YOUR FUTURE TREATMENT."

SB1203AEW

BY HAL BOYLE

AN AMERICAN BIVOUAC AREA IN NORTH SICILY, SEPT 1-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE FIGHTING THIRD INFANTRY DIVISION WHICH THE GERMANS LEARNED TO KNOW AND DREAD IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR HAS WON PRAISE FROM LT.GEN.GEORGE S. PATTON, JR., FOR THROWING THE FINAL PUNCH WHICH KNOCKED THE NAZIS OUT OF SICILY.

SEP 9 1943

"THE NEXT TIME THE GERMANS KNOW THE THIRD DIVISION IS COMING INTO THE LINE IT WILL SCARE HELL OUT OF THEM," PATTON SAID IN COMPLIMENTING THE DIVISION, MADE UP LARGELY OF WEST COAST BOYS WHO SPENT 31 DAYS OF THE 38-DAY CAMPAIGN IN THE LINE AND MARCHED FARTHER THAN ANY OTHER AMERICAN DIVISION.

IN ADDITION TO ITS WORLD WAR TRADITION OF VALOR THIS DIVISION FROM THE FAR WEST BROUGHT TO THE TASK OF CONQUERING SICILY A BATTLE SKILL WHICH WAS THE PRODUCT OF ONE OF THE MOST STRENUOUS AND PROLONGED TRAINING ROUTINES GIVEN ANY AMERICAN TROOPS. AMPHIBIOUS LANDINGS--MOST DIFFICULT OF ALL MILITARY MANEUVERS--WERE OLD STUFF TO THEM.

BEFORE COMING OVERSEAS LAST NOVEMBER TO KNOCK OUT FRENCH MOROCCO IN THREE DAYS, THEY HAD MADE PRACTICE LANDINGS ON BOTH THE EAST AND WEST COASTS OF THE UNITED STATES. WHEN ASSIGNED TO INVADE SICILY THEY WERE STILL MAD BECAUSE THEY GOT TO TUNISIA ONLY IN TIME TO POLIC THE BATTLEFIELD AFTER THE AXIS ARMIES THERE COLLAPSED.

LANDING AT LICATA ON JULY 10 WITH THREE REGIMENTS ABREAST--INSTEAD

OF HOLDING BACK ONE REGIMENT FOR RESERVES. THEY CHOSE TO SMACK THEM WITH EVERYTHING THEY HAD FROM THE OPENING GUN--THEY SPREAD OUT LIKE A FAN AND IN THREE DAYS OVERRAN 500 SQUARE MILES OF ENEMY TERRITORY AND THOUSANDS OF ITALIAN TROOPS.

CAMPOBELLO, PALMA DI MONTECHIARO, CANICATTI AND FAVARA WERE AMONG THE TOWNS WHICH MAJOR GENERAL LUCIEN K.TURSCOTT, THE DIVISION'S TEXAS-BORN COMMANDER, TOOK IN THE SPREADING THREE-PRONGED ATTACK. ADVANCING WEST WITHOUT REST HIS TROOPS ENVELOPED AND SEIZED ON JULY 17 AGRIGENTO AND PORTO EMPEDOCLE--CONQUESTS WHICH LED TO THE EASY CAPTURE OF THE ENTIRE REMAINING WESTERN HALF OF THE ISLAND.

SWINGING NORTH IN A MOUNTAINOUS MARCH AGAINST WELL DUG-IN GERMAN AND ITALIAN FOES, THE THIRD DIVISION SMASHED ON FOOT IN FIVE DAYS TO PALERMO, PATROLS ENTERING THIS CAPITAL AND LARGEST CITY ON JULY 22, HOURS BEFORE THE ARMORED DIVISION WHICH HAD BEEN EXPECTED TO MAKE THE CAPTURE FROM THE SOUTHWEST. THIS ACTION WAS TYPICAL OF THE SLASHING, DASHING STYLE OF FIGHTING FOR WHICH THE DIVISION IS FAMOUS.

"WE PULLED OUT OF THE LINE FROM JULY 23 TO JULY 31 WHEN WE WENT BACK EAST TO SANTO STEFANO," RECALLED CAPTAIN HUGH SCOTT OF PORTLAND, ORE. "OUR BOYS NEEDED THAT REST ALL RIGHT, BUT THEY DIDN'T LIKE BEING OUT OF IT EVEN FOR THOSE EIGHT DAYS."

THE FIGHT FROM THERE ON INTO MESSINA PRODUCED SOME OF THE MOST COLORFUL AND TOUGHEST BATTLING OF THE CAMPAIGN. GERMAN RESISTANCE FINALLY WAS CRACKED BY TWO SPECTACULAR AMPHIBIOUS LANDINGS BEHIND THE ENEMY LINES BY A BATTALION LED BY LT.COL.LYLE BERNARD, A NATIVE DAHOAN.

SEP 9 1943

"WITH THE GERMANS ON THE RUN, WE THEN WERE ABLE TO PUSH MORE THAN 50 MILES TO MESSINA IN FOUR DAYS, DESPITE EXTENSIVE DEMOLITIONS AND THOUSANDS OF ROAD MINES AND BOOBY TRAPS," SAID LT.COL.MERCER WALTER OF WASHINGTON, D.C. AND CARMEL, CALIF.

MAJOR GROVER WILSON OF SPOKANE, WASH., HIKED IN ON FOOT WITH 26 DOUGHBOYS SHORTLY AFTER DAWN ON AUG.17 TO COLLAR A FEW SCORE ITALIAN TROOPS WAITING IN MESSINA FOR THE SURRENDER THAT MARKED THE END OF THE SUCCESSFUL SICILIAN CAMPAIGN.

SEP 9 1943

IN AN AGGRESSIVE STRUGGLE IN WHICH EVERY COMBAT SOLDIER WAS A HERO, IT IS HARD TO SINGLE OUT INDIVIDUAL FEATS, BUT THESE WERE AMONG THE OUTSTANDING:

SGT.MARTIN MORITZ, BENSON, ILL., OF THE MEDICAL CORPS, RECEIVED THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS FOR TRYING REPEATEDLY TO SAVE A WOUNDED SOLDIER AFTER HIS OWN RIGHT ARM WAS SO SHATTERED BY A SNIPER'S BULLET THAT IT HAD TO BE AMPUTATED. THE INJURY WAS SUFFERED DURING THE SECOND AMPHIBIOUS LANDING BY BERNARD'S BATTALION AT BROLO.

LT.DAVID C.WAYBUR, PIEDMONT, CALIF., BROKE UP AN ATTACK BY FOUR ITALIAN TANKS ALTHOUGH HIS THREE VEHICLES WERE ARMED ONLY WITH A MACHINE GUN. HE HIMSELF ENGAGED THE LEADING TANK AT 30 YARDS WITH A TOMMY GUN AND SENT IT CRASHING INTO A STREAM BED AFTER HE KILLED TWO MEMBERS OF THE CREW BY FIRING THROUGH THE TANK PORTS.

CAPT.CELON A.PETERSON, SEATTLE, WASH., AFTER HIS COMPANY WAS HELD UP BY ENEMY FIRE, PERSONALLY SCOUTED AND LLOCATED FIVE HEAVY ENEMY MACHINE GUNS AND THEN DIRECTED THE MORTAR FIRE WHICH KNOCKED THEM OUT.

PVT.CLAUDE R.MILLE, HOULTON, ORE., VOLUNTARILY DROVE A JEEPLOAD OF AMMUNITION THROUGH HEAVY SNIPER FIRE TO A MORTAR PLATOON WHICH WAS BADLY IN NEED OF IT.

PVT.ALEX SCHWARTZ, OAKLAND, CALIF., DISREGARDING ARTILLERY FIRE DURING LANDING OPERATIONS, HELPED TO LOAD THREE DROWNING FELLOW SOLDIERS INTO A RUBBER BOAT AND--HE IS A POWERFUL SWIMMER--THEN TOWED IT ASHORE.

30.24-8203

IT MEANT MORE TO SGT.JOHN C.MACKEY, A RADIO OPERATOR OF LAS VEGAS, NEV., TO GET A MESSAGE THROUGH THAN TO LEAVE HIS POST FOR ONE OF GREATER SAFETY. HE WAS CITED FOR STICKING BY THE RADIO WHEN THE COMBAT PATROL HE WAS WITH CAME UNDER HEAVY ENEMY FIRE. THE MESSAGES HE SENT WERE VITAL IN THE SUCCESSFUL AMERICAN ACTION WHICH FOLLOWED.

BY ADVANCING ALONE WITH BLAZING TOMMY GUN AGAINST AN ENEMY PILLBOX, SGT.OREL L.MONTGOMERY, CHEYENNE, WYO., WAS ABLE TO DIVERT THE FIRE OF THE MACHINE GUN FROM HIS SQUAD AND MANEUVER THEM INTO A BETTER POSITION TO KNOCK OUT THE PILLBOX.

SIMILARLY, SGT.LEO V.COATY, FRESNO, CALIF., EXPOSED HIMSELF TO DRAW ENEMY FIRE AND LOCATE PILLBOXES AND RAN THROUGH HEAVY FIRE TO PULL TO SAFETY A FELLOW SOLDIER STUNNED BY AN EXPLOSION. HE LATER RETURNED AND LED THE SQUAD WHICH CAPTURED THE PILLBOX.

QUICK-THINKING SGT.ALAN A.MUNSON, OAKLAND, CALIF., PAYING NO ATTENTION TO HEAVY MACHINEGUN AND LIGHT ARTILLERY FIRE, CUT A PATH THROUGH BARBED WIRE ON THE BEACHES, ORGANIZED A COMPANY AND HAD THEM CHAIN-CARRY MORTAR AMMUNITION TO A FORWARD UNIT IN COMBAT.

MACHINE GUNS WERE THE QUARRY OF SGT.WILLIAM H.WILSON, WALDO, TEX. HE LED SQUADS WHICHDESTROYED SIX OF THEM IN SPECTACULAR ASSAULTS. ANOTHER TEXAS PRIVATE, DAVID L.HOUSTON, WICHITA FALLS, RISKED BEING CRUSHED BETWEEN A SHIP AND AN ASSAULT BOAT TO RESCUE FOUR SOLDIER INJURED DURING DEBARKATION.

CPL.EMILIO J.VALDESPINO, DEMMING, N.M., LEFT A PLACE OF SECURITY TO CRAWL TO THE AID OF HIS CHIEF OF SECTION IN A FIELD ARTILLERY BATTERY. HE REFUSED TO TAKE COVER ALTHOUGH SHELLS LANDED WITHIN 15 FEET OF HIM.

30.24-8203

WHEN HIS MEDICAL AID STATION CAME UNDER ENEMY FIRE, MAJ.JOHN R. DARRAH, CODY, WYO., REMAINED, ALTHOUGH SHELLS KILLED TWO OF HIS MEN AND WOUNDED OTHERS. HE ORGANIZED VOLUNTEERS AND PERSONALLY DIRECTED LOADING THEM INTO AMBULANCES FOR MOVEMENT TO THE REAR AREA. HE LEFT ONLY WHEN THE LAST WOUNDED HAD BEEN REMOVED.

AMONG THOSE WHO SAW ACTION IN THE CAMPAIGN WAS LT.RUPERT PROHME, JR., OF 1206 BELLEVUE AVE., BURLINGAME, CALIF. PROHME, AN INFANTRY OFFICER, SERVED BRIEFLY BEFORE LEAVING THE UNITED STATES AS AIDE TO THE FORMER COMMANDING GENERAL OF THE DIVISION AND WAS IN A GUARD BATTALION AT THE FAMOUS CASABLANCA CONFERENCE LAST JANUARY. HE IS THE FORMER CITY EDITOR OF THE SALINAS (CALIF.) MORNING POST AND COMMENTATOR OF THE RADIO STATION KDON AT MONTEREY.

RELAXATION AND ENTERTAINMENT BETWEEN BATTLES WAS PROVIDED BY SPECIAL SERVICE OFFICER LT.JOHN LUEBSEN, LOS ANGELES, CALIF., A UCLA GRADUATE.

THE COMPLICATED JOB OF KEEPING THE RECORDS OF ALL THE MEN OF THE DIVISION WAS SUPERINTENDED BY MAJ.BASIL BASILA, NEW BRAUNFELS, TEX., WITH THE HELP OF SGT.E.H.CARPENTER, JR., OF LOS ANGELES, WHO WON A PHI BETA KAPPA KEY AT UCLA, AND SGT.GEORGE W.LA DAM, SAN DIEGO, CALIF.

PLEASED AT THE PERFORMANCE OF THE DIVISION IN COMBAT FOR THE FIRST TIME UNDER HIS COMMAND, GEN.TRUSCOTT, WHO IS TALL, GRAY-HAIRED, HANDSOME AND OUTSPOKEN, SAID, SMILING:

"WHY SHOULDN'T THE THIRD DIVISION DO WELL? AFTER ALL IT'S THE BEST DIVISION IN THE WORLD."

THE FACT THAT HIS MEN COCKILY HOLD THE SAME CONFIDENT VIEW GOES A LONG WAY TOWARD MAKING THE ASSERTION TRUE.

B7304AEW

1943

(EDITORS NOTE: CONFERENCES STARTED 12 DAYS AGO IN SICILY BETWEEN ALLIED AND ITALIAN LEADERS, PAVING THE WAY FOR THE ITALIAN CAPITULATION. WAR CORRESPONDENTS WHO SAW THE ITALIAN NEGOTIATORS ARRIVE KNEW THAT SOMETHING BIG WAS IN THE AIR, BUT DIDN'T KNOW EXACTLY WHAT, AND WERE UNABLE TO SEND DISPATCHES SPECULATING UPON THE POSSIBILITIES. HERBERT L.MATTHEWS, NEW YORK TIMES CORRESPONDENT, TELLS OF THE RUMORS IN THIS DELAYED DISPATCH, CLEARED THROUGH CENSORSHIP YESTERDAY.)

SEP.9 1943

BY HERBERT L.MATTHEWS

NEW YORK TIMES CORRESPONDENT REPRESENTING THE COMBINED AMERICAN PRESS

DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

AMERICAN SEVENTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN SICILY, SEPT.3-(DELAYED)-AN INCIDENT WHOSE CLARIFICATION MAY HAVE TO AWAIT THE END OF THE ITALIAN CAMPAIGN HAS BEEN KEEPING NORTHERN SICILY AGOG FOR FIVE DAYS.

ON AUG.29 AN ITALIAN SAVOIA MARCHETTI BOMBER FLEW TO PALERMO AND LANDED ON AN AIRFIELD.

INSTRUCTIONS HAD BEEN SENT ALL ALONG THE LINE THAT THE PLANE WAS COMING, AND WAS NOT TO BE SHOT AT OR MOLESTED.

OUT OF IT STEPPED AN ITALIAN COLONEL AND ANOTHER OFFICER.

NEXT DAY THE PLANE LEFT, ESCORTED BY THREE AMERICAN P-38 FIGHTER-BOMBERS.

ON THE 31ST THAT SAME MYSTERIOUS ORDER WAS SENT AROUND AGAIN AND THIS TIME THE PLANE LANDED AT TERMINI IMERESE, EAST OF PALERMO. THE SAME OFFICERS WERE RUSHED TO PALERMO IN CLOSED CARS.

THIS TIME THEY WERE NOT ALLOWED TO RETURN, BUT A MESSAGE WAS SENT BACK STATING THAT DUE NOTE HAD BEEN TAKEN OF THE PROPOSALS MADE AND IT WAS EXPECTED THEY WOULD BE CARRIED OUT. IF NOT, THE OFFICERS WERE HOSTAGES AND WOULD HAVE TO PAY THE CONSEQUENCES.

IT CAN BE IMAGINED WHAT A SENSATION THIS INCIDENT CAUSED AMONG THOUSANDS OF ALLIED SOLDIERS, WHO OF COURSE LEARNED SOMETHING ABOUT IT IMMEDIATELY. MANY HAD SEEN THE PLANE COME IN.

RUMORS ARE ALWAYS RIFE AND LURID IN ALL ARMIES, AND THIS TIME THEY BURNED LIKE A STRONG FOREST FIRE. ONE SOLDIER STOPPED THIS CORRESPONDENT IN PALERMO TO ASK IF THE WAR WAS OVER. OTHERS WHISPERED SOLEMNLY THAT KING VITTORIO EMANUELE AND MARSHAL PIETRO BADOGLIO HAD COME TO CAPITULATE.

SOMETHING HAS BEEN OFFERED, AND SOME DAY WE'LL LEARN WHAT. #

BY BILL WILSON

REPRESENTING THE CONDINED CANADIAN PRESS

DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WITH CANADIANS IN ITALY, SEPT. 7-(DELAYED)-RETREATING GERMANS ARE ABOUT 24 HOURS AHEAD OF CANADIAN TROOPS ADVANCING ALONG THE ITALIAN TOE.

THE NAZIS ARE ATTEMPTING BY DEMOLITIONS TO AVOID CONTACT RATHER THAN MAINTAIN REARGUARD ACTION.

THE ONLY CANADIAN CONTACT WITH THE GERMANS UP TO NOW HAS BEEN A SKIRMISH WITH A LIGHT FORCE PROTECTING ENGINEERS MAKING A DEMOLITION. FOR THE SAKE OF SPEED, ONE CANADIAN OFFICER STARTED OUT WITH A JEEP AND A TOMMY-GUNNER AND FOR TWO DAYS FOLLOWED UP THE GERMANS. HE DID NOT SUCCEED IN GETTING CLOSER THAN 10 HOURS BEHIND THEM.

THE CANADIANS PUSHED UP INTERIOR ROADS ON FOOT AND ON CAPTURED ITALIAN BICYCLES WHILE ENGINEERS WORKED WITH BULLDOZERS AND PNEUMATIC DRILLS, REPAIRING DEMOLITIONS BEHIND THEM. #

30.24-8205

by daniel deluce

associated press correspondent representing the combined american press

distributed by the associated press

SEP 9 1943

italy, sept. 7 (delayed)--- two british soldiers who landed in italy six days ahead of the eighth army and received the promise of italian troops not to fire on the invasion forces were liberated from prison today by civilian guards.

the former london "bobby" and the former yorkshire school teacher calmly told this story of the virtual complete breakdown of the italian army's will to resist:

"if the eighth army's invasion had been delayed a couple of days longer we could have persuaded the italians to surrender intact. as it was, any number of italians wanted to cross the messina straits and give themselves up in sicily. it seemed as if all of them were plotting to do that."

the two former prisoners are lance corp. eric hill of 3 laind street, macduff, banff, scotland, who once patrolled a police beat near buckingham palace, and gunner harold brook hodgson of 169 fairbank road, bedford, yorkshire.

they participated in a reconnaissance raid on the southern calabrian coast the night of aug. 28 which ran afoul of a german truck convoy of infantry that forced the raiders to fight a pitched battle on the beach in darkness and then scatter into the hills.

SEP 9 1943

"we lost our portable wireless set in the beach scramble at bova marina," they said, "and in the hills we played hide-and-seek for five days with german and italian patrols. once the germans walked along the next ridge while we hid under a covering of brush.

to

"at night we slipped down to the village wells to replenish our water for the hills were bone dry. we must have been spotted by some shepherd, for on the afternoon of sept. 1, while both of us were asleep under bushes, we suddenly were awakened by a voice and a number of italian hand grenades sailed over our heads. it was a typical bad aim for all the gernades burst too high to do us any damage, but 15 italian soldiers took us into custody."

1943

SEP 9 1943

they explained that the raiding expedition previously had broken up into groups of two to three men in order to more easily avoid detection.

"we've no idea what happened to the others," they continued, "but we were taken to town and the italian troops and civilians practically feted us. the soldiers said, 'you can be sure we won't fire on any englishmen who land in italy.' the civilians told us they detested the germans whom they accused of looting their homes."

the day they were captured allied planes raided the town and two british prisoners and 37 civilians were reported killed, the two british soldiers said. nevertheless, they added, the italians pressed gifts of grapes and ~~mi~~ figs on them and the italians soldiers excitedly discussed with them ways and means of italy quitting the war.

after the invasion of the mainland they were transferred to a civil jail where the inmates included two political prisoners. one was a trieste businessman arrested as an english spy on a trip through calabra province because he had an english dictionary in his baggage.

SEP 9 1943

his sentence already had run out but he was not released because there was no rail transportation to the north by which he could leave the province. the second was a farmer with strong social-democratic views who was jailed for declaring that british-american intervention was necessary to end the corrupt provincial government.

among the other prisoners

2.24 - 8207

were mothers with nursing infants and young boys. the mothers were there for stealing small amounts of food while the boys were thrown in jail because they snatched shoes from military stores.

a german artillery detachment left two days ago, but the jail guards did not release hill and hodgson until british bren gun carriers passed through his morning. this correspondent who was driving in a staff car with itish scouts met the two former prisoners standing in the ter of town in the midst of the residents who cheered and threw kisses at our 11 column.

23-126-128/1007p/1535/the/1150p

SEP 9 1943

BY DANIEL DE LUCE

ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT

REPRESENTING THE COMBINED AMERICAN EXPRESS

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES IN ITALY, SEPT.6-(DELAYED)-(AP)-SWEATY BRITISH TOMMIES WITH BLISTERED FEET AND KNAPSACKS DECKED WITH CLUSTERS OF SWEET BLUE-SKINNED GRAPES TRUDGED AHEAD TODAY IN PURSUIT OF THE WEAK-HEARTED AXIS REARGUARD WHICH CONTINUED TO FALL BACK.

GERMAN AND ITALIAN TNT EXPERTS WHO BLOCKED THE WEST COAST ROAD AT BAGNARA FOR 48 HOURS DURING THE RECENT WEEKENED SMASHED TWO RAILWAY AND TWO HIGHWAY BRIDGES OVER RIVERS TO HALT THE EIGHTH ARMY'S MOTOR TRANSPORT AGAIN.

ONE REGIMENT CROSSED A SHALLOW RIVER THIS AFTERNOON UNDER LIGHT MORTAR AND ARTILLERY FIRE AND BY NIGHTFALL HAD PASSED BY A DESERTED TOWN.

ONLY SIX BRITISH CASUALTIES WERE REPORTED ALL DAY IN THIS SECTOR AS THE SO-CALLED FRONT WAS ADVANCED SIX MILES FROM DAWN TO DARK.

THE ITALIAN CAMPAIGN SO FAR IS NOT WAR. IT IS A KIND OF HARE AND HOUNDS CHASE WITH DISPIRITED ITALIANS AND A HANDFUL OF SULLEN GERMAN TECHNICIANS TRYING TO BREAK THE STRIDE OF THE BRITISH PURSUERS BY DEMOLITION OF COMMUNICATIONS.

HUNDREDS OF ITALIAN SOLDIERS TRAMPED ALONG THE EIGHT-MILE STRETCH OF ROAD BETWEEN PALMI AND BAGNARA TODAY UNESCORTED AND WAVING HAPPILY AT OCCASIONAL DETACHMENTS OF THE EIGHTH ARMY GOING IN THE OTHER DIRECTION TOWARD THE FRONT LINE.

IN VILLAGES PRISONERS CHATTED GAILY WITH CIVILIANS, AGREEING "GUERRA FINITO." (THE WAR IS FINISHED.)

SEP 9 1943

30.24-8207

A REDCAPPED BRITISH MILITARY POLICEMAN EYED ONE BATCH OF ITALIANS MARCHING REARWARD UNGUARDED AND REMARKED: "THEY DON'T LOOK ONE BIT SHEEPISH, DO THEY, SIR? THEY LOOK RUDDY SATISFIED WITH THEMSELVES."

THE POLICEMAN SAID THAT A BRITISH INFANTRY OFFICER WAS TRYING ON A GERMAN HELMET THAT HE HAD PICKED UP IN A FIELD IN PALMI AND A CIVILIAN WHO DID NOT KNOW HE WAS NOT A GERMAN CHUCKED A ROCK AT HIM.

"BROKE TWO OF HIS RIBS, THAT ROCK DID, SIR. VERY FUNNY," THE REDCAP CHUCKLED.

SEP 9 1943

"CAPTURING PALMI WAS JUST A LARK FOR A BREN GUN CARRIER LAST EVENING," HE ADDED. "THE CARRIER FOUND AN ITALIAN CREW MANNING A MACHINEGUN IN THAT CONCRETE PILLBOX BY THE PALMI CROSSROADS. THE CREW COULDN'T DECIDE WHAT TO DO BUT ONE BURST PERSUADED THEM TO SURRENDER."

THIS MILITARY CHASE UP ITALY IS NOT ONLY HARD ON THE FEET ON THE FEET OF THE INFANTRY BUT IT IS A CEASELESS 24-HOUR-PER-DAY CHORE FOR THE ENGINEERS.

PS545AEW

BY ERIC LLOYD WILLIAMS

REPRESENTING THE COMBINED BRITISH PRESS

DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WITH THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY IN ITALY, SEPT.7-(DELAYED)--ADVANCE TROOPS OF THE EIGHTH ARMY ARE TEARING DOWN THE COASTAL MOUNTAINS INTO MINIATURE PLAINS WHICH EXTEND NORTH AND SOUTH OF THE RIVERS PETRACE AND MESIMA.

(THE MOUTH OF THE PETRACE RIVER IS ABOUT SIX MILES NORTH OF PALMI, CAPTURE OF WHICH WAS ANNOUNCED BY ALLIED HEADQUARTERS YESTERDAY, AND THE MESIMA RIVER IS ANOTHER EIGHT MILES NORTH.)

NO SHOT WAS FIRED AND NO GERMANS WERE SEEN AS THE INFANTRY MARCHED FORWARD.

APART FROM THE LOCAL POPULATION, THE ONLY PEOPLE PRESENT WERE PATHETIC LINES OF ITALIAN SOLDIERS, SOME OF THEM SITTING ON THE CURBING, SOME OF THEM STANDING IN GROUPS AND SOME OF THEIR OWN ACCORD ALREADY BEGINNING TO MARCH TOWARD THE ALLIED REAR--BUT ALL WANTING TO SURRENDER TO THE FIRST AVAILABLE SOLDIER.

SEP 9 1943

EIGHTH ARMY TROOPS STILL HAVE NOT FOUGHT THE GERMANS IN ITALY. THE INVASION CONTINUES TO BE A WALKOVER.

BY HENRY C.CASSIDY

MOSCOW, THURSDAY, SEPT.9-(AP)-THE RED ARMY'S RE-CONQUEST OF THE DONETS BASIN, RUSSIA'S RICHEST INDUSTRIAL REGION, WAS BEEN COMPLETED BY THE OCCUPATION OF STALINO, THE LAST OF A CLUSTER OF COAL AND IRON TOWNS LEFT TO THE GERMANS.

TWO RED ARMIES -- THE SOUTHERN UNDER GEN. FEODOR TOLBUKHIN AND THE SOUTHWESTERN UNDER GEN. RODION Y.MALINOVSK -- CARRIED OUT THE FULL RESTORATION OF THE REGION TO THE SOVIET UNION.

THREE OF THEIR DIVISIONS STORMED STALINO. PRESSING CLOSELY ON THE RETREATING GERMANS, THEY FOLLOWED THE ENEMY WEST TOWARD THE DNIEPER RIVER.

THE RUSSIANS NOW ARE LESS THAN 70 MILES FROM THE DNIEPER AT SOME POINTS.

TEHERAN, SEPT.8-(AP)-THE FIRST OVERSEAS WEEKLY EDITION OF THE NEW-YORK TIMES WAS DISTRIBUTED TODAY TO U.S. ARMY POST EXCHANGES.

PLASTIC EDITION PLATES WERE FLOWN FROM THE UNITED STATES AND IMMEDIATELY BOLTED TO AN ANCIENT FLAT-BED PRESS, THE ONLY AVAILABLE PRINTING UNIT IN THIS COUNTRY. THE PAPER WAS RUN OFF IN 48 HOURS AND WAS IMMEDIATELY DISTRIBUTED WITHOUT CHARGE THROUGHOUT THE COMMAND.

30.24 8209

30.24-8209

CHUNGKING, SEPT. 8-(AP)-CHINESE AUTHORITIES IN CHUNGKING TODAY STUDIED A REPORT FROM THE SHANTUNG PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT THAT CHINESE COMMUNISTS HAD MADE TWO ATTACKS ON THE PEACE PRESERVATION CORPS--EQUIVALENT TO THE AMERICAN STATE POLICE--IN THE SOUTHWESTERN PART OF THE PROVINCE.

SEP 9 1943

THE REPORT ARRIVED HERE YESTERDAY WHILE THE 11TH PLENARY SESSION OF THE KUOMINTANG'S CENTRAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, CHINA'S HIGHEST RULING BODY, WAS HOLDING ITS SECOND MEETING TO CONSIDER THE COUNTRY'S OUTSTANDING PROBLEMS.

SAYING MORE THAN 10,000 COMMUNISTS HAD PARTICIPATED, THE REPORT DECLARED THAT TWO UNPROVOKED ATTACKS WERE MADE ON THE POLICE FORCE JULY 20 AND AUG. NEAR CHUSHIEN, AN ENEMY-OCCUPIED TOWN 90 MILES SOUTHWEST OF TSINGTAO, JAPANESE HELD SEAPORT. THE CORPS WAS HOPELESSLY OUTNUMBERED, THE REPORT CONTINUED, AND ITS COMMANDER, IDENTIFIED AS CHIN CHI-YUNG, COMMISSIONER OF RECONSTRUCTION FOR SHANTUNG AND DIRECTOR OF THE SOUTH SHANTUNG OFFICE OF THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT, KILLED HIMSELF WITH HIS LAST BULLET. #

NEW DELHI, INDIA, SEPT.8-(AP)-THE 10TH U.S.AIR FORCE SAID TODAY THAT MEDIUM BOMBERS ATTACKED THE WYATUNG JUNCTION IN CENTRAL BURMA YESTERDAY, BLANKETING THE JUNCTION WITH BOMBS AND DESTROYING IT.

ON SEPT.6, THE AIR FORCE SAID, HEAVY BOMBERS DROPPED MORE THAN 57 TONS OF BOMBS ON SHIPPING AT RANGOON WITH HITS AND NEAR MISSES ON SEVERAL LARGE FREIGHTERS IN THE HARBOR.

RW1052PEW

U.S. TENTH AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, INDIA-(CORRESPONDENCE OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)-MOST OF THE YOUNG AMERICAN AIRMEN WHO MADE THE FIRST B-25 RAIDS LAST YEAR AGAINST THE JAPANESE IN BURMA, CHINA AND FRENCH INDO-CHINA ARE RETURNING TO THE UNITED STATES TO HELP TRAIN NEWLY-ACTIVATED SQUADRONS.

SEP 9 1943

SOME OF THOSE AIRMEN ALREADY ARE BACK HOME. OTHERS WILL REMAIN HERE UNTIL THEIR REPLACEMENTS HAVE BECOME COMBAT-WISE.

TO REACH THIS THEATER, THE MEDIUM BOMBER CREWMEN FLEW HALFWAY AROUND THE WORLD, STARTING IN MAY, 1942. AT FIRST, THEY WERE DISPERSED OVER A WIDE AREA BECAUSE THE JAPANESE WERE PRESSING--AND THE FEW B-25S WERE NEEDED IN A DOZEN PLACES AT ONCE. GRADUALLY, AS REINFORCEMENTS ARRIVED, MOST OF THE CREWMEN WERE REUNITED IN THE BOMBING EAGLE SQUADRON.

JAPANESE ZEROS AND ACKACK WERE CONSTANT MENACES, BUT WEATHER AND TERRAIN WERE EVEN WORSE. THE AMERICANS NOT ONLY HELD THEIR OWN WITH THE JAPANESE, BUT SOON SOLVED THE PROBLEMS PRESENTED BY THE WORLD'S HIGHEST MOUNTAINS, STEAMING JUNGLES AND MONSOONS.

SOME OF THE AMERICANS WERE LOST IN ACTION, BUT LOSSES WERE SURPRISINGLY SMALL IN PROPORTION TO THE SCOPE OF THEIR OPERATIONS. SOME WERE SHOT DOWN IN ENEMY HELD TERRITORY, BUT GOT BACK TO BASE ONE WAY OR ANOTHER.

NEARLY ALL OF THOSE PIONEER B-25 AIRMEN HAVE WON THE DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSS FOR MORE THAN 200 HOURS OF COMBAT FLYING.

ENROUTE TO THE STATES, OR ALREADY THERE, ARE:

CAPT.WILMER E.MCDOWELL OF SALEM, ORE., PILOT; T/SGT.JOHN D.VAN MARTE OF BURTON, KAS., RADIO GUNNER; LT.WALTER C.AMELUNKE OF MCGREGOR, TEX., PILOT; LT.HARRY G.LOCKNANE OF COVINGTON, KY., NAVIGATOR; CAPT.GORDON H.BERG OF PORTLAND, ORE., PILOT; CAPT.JOHN TYSON OF TIMPSON, TEX., PILOT; S/SGT.WILLIAM F.HEATER OF KOKOMO, IND., BOMBARDIER; T/SGT. WILLIAM J.CARLSON, JR., OF SUPERIOR, WIS., RADIO GUNNER; SGT.LLOYD A.KLAR OF SOMERVILLE, TEX., ENGINEER-GUNNER; LT.WILBUR O.MARCUS OF WEST FRIENDSHIP, MD., BOMBARDIER; T/SGT.CARL A.CHRISTIANSON OF HOLLYWOOD, CALIF., RADIO-GUNNER; S/SGT.THOMAS PRATT OF PORTLAND, ORE., PHOTOGRAPHIC GUNNER; CAPT.DONALD L.THOMPSON OF SEATTLE, WASH., PILOT; LT.PATRICK L.HAM OF LAS ANIMAS, COL., PILOT.

LT.JOHN L.BARBEROF SANTA ANA, CALIF., PILOT; LT.ROBERT H.SIKES OF SEYMOUR, TEX., BOMBARDIER; S/SGT.JAMES N.HOUSE OF PARIS, TEX., GUNNER; S/SGT.BELVIN L.JACKSON OF MEXIA, TEX., GUNNER; S/SGT.DUNCAN E. MCALISTER OF MACHIAS, WASH., GUNNER; T/SGT.PHILIP E.PATTERSON OF FARMINGTON, N.M., AND SAN FRANCISCO, GUNNERS; T/SGT.LAWRENCE W.BOWEN OF NEWTON, IA., GUNNER.

SEP 9 1943

B7404AEW

HQ ALLIED H.Q. S.W.PACIFIC (MAR-L-HAND)XXVIA

THE JAPANESE AIRFORCE, ALTHOUGH SEVERELY BATTERED BY RECENT ALLIED POUNDINGS OF ITS BASES IN NORTHEASTERN NEW GUINEA, WAS ACTIVE OVER A GREATER AREA THAN IT HAS BEEN IN WEEKS.

IN ADDITION TO ITS WEAK STRIKES IN THE BATTLE ZONE AND THE RAID ON DARWIN, IT SENT EIGHT ENEMY PLANES MORE THAN 100 MILES BELOW THE SALAMAUA-LAE SECTOR AGAINST ALLIED-HELD BUNA.

THEIR BOMBS, DROPPED FROM HIGH ALTITUDE, FELL HARMLESSLY INTO THE SEA, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID.

"IN HIS EFFORT TO REHABILITATE HIS AIRFORCES FROM A SUCCESSION OF RECENT HEAVY DEFEATS IN NEW GUINEA AND THE SOLOMONS," THE COMMUNIQUE ADDED, "THE ENEMY IS APPARENTLY DRAWING HEAVILY FROM OTHER FRONTS AND ATTEMPTING TO CONCENTRATE HIS MAIN AIR STRENGTH HERE. AS A RESULT HE IS BECOMING WEAKENED AND VULNERABLE TO AIR PENETRATION IN OTHER THEATERS."

SEP 9 1943

THE JAPANESE AT LAE AND SALAMAUA, 18 MILES SOUTH ACROSS HUON GULF, ARE COMPLETELY ENCIRCLED AS A RESULT OF THE TWO MOVEMENTS AND THE ALLIED ADVANCES ON SALAMAUA FROM THE SOUTHEAST.

LAE, WITH TWO AIRDROMES, AND SALAMAUA, WITH ONE, WERE IMPORTANT JAPANESE BASES UNTIL THEIR USEFULNESS WAS DESTROYED BY REPEATED BOMBINGS. BEFORE THE WAR LAE WAS SELECTED AS THE NEW CAPITAL OF THE TERRITORY OF NEW GUINEA TO REPLACE RABAUL, NEW BRITAIN, WHICH HAD TO BE EVACUATED FOR A TIME IN 1938 BECAUSE OF NEARBY VOLCANIC ERUPTIONS. THE WAR INTERRUPTED THE SHIFT.

THE HEADQUARTERS OF GENERAL DOUGLAS MAC ARTHUR REPORTED TH 100 JAPANESE TROOPS WERE ROUTED NEAR SINGAUA PLANTATION, 10 MILES EAST OF LAE, AND THAT AUSTRALIAN INFANTRYMEN WERE APPROACHING THE BUSU RIVER, LESS THAN FIVE MILES FROM MALAHANG, ONE OF LAE'S AIRFIELDS AND THREE MILES FROM LAE ITSELF.

THE AMERICAN PARATROOPS IN MARKHAM VALLEY, WHO CAPTURED THE NADZAB AIRFIELD SUNDAY, HAVE ALREADY CLEARED AWAY THE TALL GRASS AND PUT IT IN SHAPE FOR USE. AUSTRALIAN SOLDIERS ARE BEING MOVED IN

30.24 8211

30.24 - 8211

BY AIR TRANSPORT TO REINFORCE THE AMERICANS PUSHING IN TOWARDS LAE, 20 MILES DISTANT, FROM THE REAR.

SUPPORTING THE GROUND ACTIONS THE AIR FORCE IN TWO BIG RAIDS DROPPED 145 TONS OF BOMBS ON ENEMY POSITIONS AROUND LAE.

THE JAPANESE SENT 20 MEDIUM BOMBERS AND 10 FIGHTERS TO ATTACK ALLIED POSITIONS IN THE SECTOR MONDAY BUT WERE REPULSED WITH A LOSS OF AT LEAST SEVEN PLANES. ONE AMERICAN P-38 WAS DESTROYED.

IN THE SOLOMON ISLANDS THE ONLY ACTIVITY REPORTED WAS AMERICAN AIR RAIDS ON NOLOMBANGARA AND BOUGAINVILLE ISLANDS.

BY DEAN SCHEDLER

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA,WEDNESDAY,SEPT.8-(AP)-ALLIED LIGHTNING FIGHTERS, FLYING PATROLS HIGH OVER THE HUON GULF, SIGHTED A JAPANESE AIR FORMATION IN MID-AFTERNOON SEPT.6 HEADED FOR ATTACKS ON ALLIED POSITIONS EITHER AT LAE OR SALAMAUA.

TWENTY JAPANESE MEDIUM BOMBERS WERE IN A TIGHT FORMATION AT 16,000 FEET. ABOVE THEM WERE 10 ESCORTING ZEROS.

SEP 9 1943

AS THE LIGHTNINGS CAME IN, THE ZEROS DROPPED THEIR BELLY TANKS AND DOVE TO SCREEN THE BOMBERS. THE SIDE TURRETS IN THE BOMBERS FIRED HEAVILY AND WILDLY AT THE AMERICAN FIGHTERS.

2 LT.THERON (CORRECT) PRICE, 1026 CHESTER STREET, ALEXANDRIA, LA., AND OTHER PILOTS DOVE AT THE BOMBERS. ONE BOMBER CRASHED IN THE JUNGLE. ANOTHER BOMBER PRICE ATTACKED WAS LISTED AS PROBABLY DESTROYED. LT.WILBUR ARTHUR, OF TONICA,ILL., DOWNED A JAPANESE BOMBER AND WAS CREDITED WITH PROBABLY SHOOTING DOWN A ZERO.

(THIS AIR ACTION WAS REPORTED IN THE SEPT.8 COMMUNIQUE FROM GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR. IT LISTED TWO ENEMY BOMBERS AND FIVE FIGHTERS AS DEFINITELY DESTROYED, FIVE BOMBERS AND A FIGHTER AS PROBABLE, AGAINST THE LOSS OF ONE AMERICAN FIGHTER.)

FJ1254ACW

SYDNEY,AUSTRALIA,SEPT.8-(AP)-AMONG CASUALTIES VISITED BY MRS.ELEANOR ROOSEVELT ON HER HOSPITAL TOUR WERE FIRST LT.JOHN SWETNA OF NEW YORK CITY, SECOND LT.JEROME KRAMER OF (66 SEDGWICK RD.) WEST HARTFORD,CONN.; PVT.RALPY MCGAULLY OF LAKE CITY,IA.; PFC FREDERICK TEUEL OF TEKOMSHA,MICH.; PFC FLORIAN REWERD OF (170(S.LINCOLN ST.) BAY CITY,MICH.; PVT.HORACE TWIRBEVILLE (COPY) OF STRONG,ARK.; PFC WARNER HICKS OF (1826 AKDEN AVE., S.W.) CANTON,O.; SGT.ALBERT MARTINIKO KF (1814 OAKWOOD AVE.) HOUNGSTOWN,O.

CPL.ARNOLD THYSSEN OF KIMBERLY,WIS; SGT.CHARLES MALACHEK OF (5450 MONETOR AVE.) CHICAGO; PVT.JAMES HILLIARD DUNDET OF GRIFFIN GA.; PFC ROBERT ARNDT OF (2429 LINDALE AVE) MINNEAPOLIS; PFC RUSSELL BURCHAM OF (311 CENTER ST.) DECATUR,ILL. PFC. WILLIAM SHELDON OF (184 WEST DELASEN AVE.) YOUNGSTOWN,O.; SGT.R.BAILEY OF CLACK RIVER FALLS,WIS.; PVT.T.HAWKS OF (ROUTE 1) NICHOLSON,GA.; CPL.B.MARCHEWKA OF (2242 S. 15TH PL.) MILWAUKEE,WIS.; PFC. THOMSE REILLY OF (ROUTE 1) CAMPBELLS-PORT, WIS.; SGT.R.ROSE OF (105 HENDRICKS ST.) MERRILL,WIS.; PFC.W.JABLONSKI OF ARMSTRONG CREEK,WIS.; CPL.

SEP 9 1943

E.BAIRD OF (418 CENTER AVE.5 STURGIS,MICH.

FJ1222ANW

1943

BRISBANE, AUSTRALIA, SEPT.9-(THURSDAY)-(AP)-MRS.ELEANOR ROOSEVELT ARRIVED BY PLANE TODAY FROM SYDNEY, TO CONTINUE HER VISITS TO UNITED STATES SERVICE CENTERS IN AUSTRALIA.

SHE WAS GREETED BY GOVERNOR GENERAL SIR LESLIE ORME WILSON OF QUEENSLAND, AND A MILITARY GUARD OF HONOR.

SEP 9 1943

FJ1251ACW

CANBERRA, SEPT.9-(THURSDAY)-(AP)-PRIME MINISTER JOHN CURTIN OF AUSTRALIA SAID TODAY THE COLLAPSE OF ITALIAN RESISTANCE POINTS THE WAY TO VICTORY IN EUROPE AND FORESHADOWS THE DEFEAT OF JAPAN.

"NAZI GERMANY FACES UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER WHICH WILL BE DELAYED ONLY TO THE EXTENT THAT THE PEOPLE IN GERMANY CONTINUE TO SUFFER THE OVERLORDSHIP OF THE NAZI PARTY," HE SAID, ADDING:

"SLOWLY, ATTRITION IS TAKING ITS TOLL OF JAPANESE STRENGTH. THAT COMBINED WITH THE ULTIMATE LOSS OF BOTH AXIS PARTNERS, MAKES THE END FOR JAPAN INEVITABLE."

FJ1252ACW NN

(EDITORS: TOM YARBROUGH, ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT, WAS WITH THE UNITED STATES NAVY TASK FORCE WHICH HAMMERED JAPANESE-HELD MARCUS ISLAND SEPT.1. FOLLOWING IS HIS EYEWITNESS ACCOUNT OF THIS DARING ATTACK WITHIN THE PERIMETER OF JAPAN'S DEFENSES.)

BY TOM YARBROUGH

ABOARD A UNITED STATES AIRPLANE CARRIER NEAR MARCUS ISLAND, SEPT.1 (DELAYED)-(AP)-A 2,000-POUND BOMB SOUNDED REVILLE AT DAWN THIS MORNING ON MARCUS ISLAND, A TINY TRIANGULAR GEM OF THE PACIFIC ONLY 989 MILES FROM JAPAN, AND FOR EIGHT HELPLESS HOURS THE PLACE CAUGHT THE FULL FURY OF WAR FROM THE SKY.

"THERE SHE IS BOYS, LET'S GO," CAME THE RADIOED VOICE OF THE LEADER OF THE FIRST WAVE.

AND FROM THEN ON UNTIL MID-AFTERNOON THE PLANES WERE THERE PRACTICALLY EVERY HOUR, FLIGHT AFTER FLIGHT OF DIVE BOMBERS, TORPEDO BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS, METHODICALLY REDUCING THAT JAPANESE AIR BASE TO RUIN.

SEP 9 1943

THE FIGHTER PLANES WERE GRUMMAN HELLCATS IN COMBAT FOR THE FIRST TIME, BUT LACK OF OPPOSITION ROBBED THEM OF A FAIR TEST OF THEIR PROWESS.

THE POUNDING WAS UNMERCIFUL AND THEY KEPT IT UP WITHOUT OPPOSITION EXCEPT FOR A FEW ANTIAIRCRAFT GUNS ON THE ISLAND.

THE JAPANESE COULD HAVE PUT BOMBERS THER FROM OTHER BASES BEFORE IT WAS OVER, BUT THEY DIDN'T COME.

WITH A SURPRISE AS COMPLETE AS THE JAPANESE ACHIEVED IN THE PEARL HARBOR ATTACK, THE ENEMY WAS CAUGHT WITH HIS PLANES DOWN. IF THERE WERE ANY FIGHTERS ON THE ISLAND THEY DIDN'T GET INTO THE AIR AT ALL, AND ALL BOMBERS IN SIGHT WERE DESTROYED AS THEY RESTED IN LINE ON THE RUNWAYS ALONG TWO SIDES OF THE CORAL TRIANGLE. EACH RUNWAY WAS ABOUT 1,000 FEET WIDE AND A MILE LONG.

THE ATTACK WENT OFF WITH TIMETABLE PRECISION AND WITHOUT INTERRUPTION, AND WHEN IT WAS OVER WE STRUCK OUT FOR A POINT BEYOND--IN LINE WITH AN AXIOM OF NAVAL WARFARE ENUNCIATED BY THE CARRIER CAPTAIN:

"GET IN THERE AND HAVE A CRACK AT 'EM, THE HAUL OUT."

THERE WERE SEVERAL WAVES--ABOUT 300 INDIVIDUAL BOMBING RUNS. WHEN IT WAS OVER BLACK AND GRAY SMOKE BILLOWED UP IN COLUMNS FROM FIRES ALL OVER THE ISLAND AND FROM A SCORE OF BUILDINGS IN ASHES. THE

1943

30.24 8213

30.24-8213

BUILDINGS WERE SO CONCENTRATED THAT ONE PILOT DESCRIBING THAT PART OF THE ISLAND SAID: "X X X AND OVER THERE WAS BROOKLYN."

IT WAS LIKE USING A SLEDGEHAMMER TO SWAT A FLY, AND HITTING IT SQUARELY. IT WAS THE BIGGEST CARRIER FORCE EVER SENT OUT ON A SINGLE MISSION AND THE ENTIRE ISLAND TARGET COVERED ONLY 740 ACRES.

THE CARRIERS HAD TO GO FAR BEYOND ENEMY-HELD WAKE ISLAND AND WITHIN FEASIBLE RANGE OF JAPANESE BOMBERS. WHILE WE MANEUVERED AROUND IN THE NEAR-VICINITY OF MARCUS WE FULLY EXPECTED TO BE ATTACKED, BUT NOTHING CAME AND EVERYBODY WONDERED WHY.

GUNNERS ON THE CARRIERS AND ON THE MEN-OF-WAR THAT CAME OUT WITH THEM WERE DISAPPOINTED; THEY DIDN'T GET TO FIRE A SHOT. ONE DISCONSOLATE TRIGGER-MAN, MIFFED AT THE LACK OF SOMETHING TO SHOOT AT, SAID:

"IT'S MORE LIKE AN AIR CIRCUS THAN AN AIR RAID."

IT STARTED BEFORE DAWN. THERE IN THE HALF-LIGHT OF THE BROAD FLIGHT DECK THE SNUB-NOSED PLANES PACKED TOGETHER WITH FOLDED WINGS WERE LIKE GARGANTUAN GRASSHOPPERS ASLEEP. EVERYBODY WAS WAITING FOR THE SIGNAL.

AN IMPERATIVE VOICE BOOMED THROUGH THE LOUDSPEAKER:

"START ENGINES."

PROPELLERS TURNED AND THE DECK THUNDERED.

SEP 9 1943

AN OFFICER CROUCHED BY THE RIGHT WING OF THE PLANE IN FRONT AND TWIRLED A FLASHLIGHT. THE PILOT GAVE HER THE THROTTLE AND THEN LOOKED AROUND AND DIPPED HIS HEAD IN A QUICK NOD.

THE OFFICER WITH THE FLASHLIGHT MADE A SWEEPING FORWARD STROKE WITH IT AND THE PLANE SHOULDERED UP THE DECK, GAINED SPEED AND WAS OFF OVER THE BOW.

ANOTHER PLANE AND THEN ANOTHER, WITHOUT WAITING. ONE SWERVED TO PORT LONG BEFORE IT GOT TO THE BOW AND ROARED ACROSS THE DIM LINE OF DANGER LIGHTS, COMING CLOSE TO DISASTER. ONE AFTER ANOTHER OF THE BIG, DARK FORMS VANISHED INTO PINPOINTS OF RED AND GREEN LIGHT IN THE PREDAWN SKY. THEY BUZZED AROUND THE CARRIER AS THEY FORMED UP, WAITING FOR THE LAST ONE. THEN THEY WERE OFF.

DAY CAME AND WE COULD SEE OUR LITTLE DESTROYERS OUT THERE AROUND US ON THE FLAT, BLUE SEA. THEY WERE LIKE TOY SHIPS ON A REAL OCEAN AS THEY DUG THEIR RUMPS INTO THE WATER WITH UNACCUSTOMED SPEED, TO KEEP UP WITH US AS WE KNIFED INTO THE BREEZE.

BY THIS TIME ANOTHER CARRIER'S PLANES CAME BACK FROM MARCUS. THEY HAD DRAWN FIRST BLOOD AND NOW, BACK OVER THEIR SHIP, THEY WHEELED AND PLANED LIKE HAWKS.

SEP 9 1943

WE HAD AN ANXIOUS TIME WAITING FOR OUR FIRST FLIGHT TO COME BACK. WHEN THEY RETURNED, THE BOYS SAID IT WAS "DUCK SOUP." AFTER WORKING MARCUS OVER THEY HAD A BIG TIME STRAFING A JAPANESE SHIP, SOMETHING LIKE A TRAWLER, JUST OFF MARCUS. THE SHIP HAD A JAPANESE FLAG PAINTED ON ITS BOW AND THE RISING SUN ON A WHITE BACKGROUND MADE A FINE BULL'S-EYE.

THE SHIP WAS ONLY ABOUT 75 FEET LONG, BUT AS IT TURNED OUT IT STAYED AFLOAT UNTIL MID-AFTERNOON AND NEARLY EVERYBODY HAD A CRACK AT IT WAS MACHINEGUNS.

OFF AGAIN, ON AGAIN, THE TIMETABLE PROCESS WENT ON AND EVENTUALLY THE LAST PLANE CAME BACK--ALIGHTING ON THE DECK LIKE A TIRED, FAT PIGEON.

WE TOOK OUT IN HASTE BEYOND THE HORIZON. IN FIVE MINUTES WE WERE COVERED BY A RAINSTORM WHICH CAUSED SOMEBODY TO REMARK THAT THE CHAPLAIN HAD DONE A GOOD JOB.

CMDR.JOHN RABY OF PENSACOLA,FLA., A SECOND GENERATION NAVAL FLIER, WAS NOT CONTENT TO FLY IDLY FOR FIVE HOURS OVER MARCUS IN HIS ROLE OF MAJORDOMO. HIS WINGMAN SAW WHAT HE THOUGHT WAS A PLANE MOVING ALONG THE RUNWAY BELOW AND SAID "LET'S GET IT."

"LET'S WAIT UNTIL IT IS IN THE AIR," RABY REPLIED. THEY DROPPED DOWN AND WAITED, BUT THE OBJECT NEVER ROSE INTO THE SKY. IT WAS A TRUCK, AND THEY DESTROYED IT AGROUND.

DISASTER ON THE FLIGHT DECK SEVERAL TIMES WAS BARELY AVOIDED. ONE FIGHTER PLANE KNIFED ITS PROPELLER INTO THE DECK, BUT SUFFERED NO MORE THAN A RATHER SUDDEN STOP. THE PLANE PUSHERS DID THEMSELVES PROUD BY GETTING THE WRECK OUT OF THE WAY OF THE NEXT PLANE COMING IN.

A JUNIOR LIEUTENANT WHO HAD WON THE SILVER STAR AND PURPLE HEART DECORATIONS IN NORTH AFRICA, PUT HIS FIGHTER DOWN IN THE WATER -- WHICH HE SAID WAS "LIKE LANDING IN SNOW" -- AND A DESTROYER PICKED HIM UP IN EIGHT MINUTES.

ANOTHER PILOT GREW SO EXCITED OVER DROPPING HIS BOMBS ON MARCUS THAT HE DIDN'T NOTICE HIS ALTITUDE. THE FIRST THING HE KNEW HE SAW A BLINKER LIGHT DOWN THERE TRYING TO GIVE HIM A MESSAGE. THE BLINKER, IT DEVELOPED WHEN HE PULLED OUT OF A DIVE AT LESS THAN 1,000 FEET, WAS AN ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUN. HE GOT AWAY.

AFTER THE LAST PLANE HAD RETURNED AND WE PULLED OUT STILL EXPECTING A COUNTERATTACK, WE ASKED THE SHIP'S AIR OFFICER WHAT HE THOUGHT WE COULD HANDLE. THIS IS WHAT HE SAID:

"UP TO A HUNDRED BOMBERS."

AFTER THAT WE FELT BETTER.

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF MARCUS ISLAND AND THE ATTACK UPON IT LIES IN THE FACT THAT IT IS A LINK IN A SYSTEM OF FAR FLUNG BASES FROM WHICH THE JAPANESE KEEP WATCH ON THE WESTERN PACIFIC.

ITS ESPECIAL IMPORTANCE TO US IS ITS NEARNESS TO THE JAPANESE HOMELAND. THIS WAS EMPHASIZED BY THE SPEED WITH WHICH RADIO TOKYO REFERRED TO A POSSIBLE RAID UPON JAPAN ITSELF AS A CONSEQUENCE OF THE ASSAULT AGAINST MARCUS.

SEP 9 1943

COMMANDER RABY, FROM HIS FIVE HOURS OF OBSERVATION OVER THE TARGET, WAS ABLE TO MAKE A GOOD ESTIMATE OF THE DAMAGE DONE TO THE ISLAND. HE SAID MARCUS SHOULD BE OUT OF COMMISSION FOR TWO MONTHS

THIS RAID WAS THE FIRST ON MARCUS IN 18 MONTHS -- SINCE MARCH 4, 1942, WHEN A CARRIER TASK FORCE UNDER ADM. WILLIAM F.HALSEY,JR., STRUCK THE ISLAND FOR THE FIRST TIME WITH ABOUT 11 TONS OF BOMBS. THIS TIME THE BOMB LOAD WAS MORE THAN TEN TIMES AS HEAVY.

APART FROM ITS INTRINSIC VALUE -- WHICH MIGHT BE QUESTIONED IN VIEW OF THE GREAT SIZE OF THE FORCE EMPLOYED -- THE RAID HAD CONSIDERABLE INTANGIBLE VALUE IN PROVIDING A LIVE TARGET FOR A CONSIDERABLE NUMBER OF MEN, BOTH FLIERS AND SHIPS' CREWS, WHO HAD BEEN KEYED UP FOR THE REAL THING FOR MONTHS. IT GAVE THEM A CHANCE TO GET THEIR FEET WET WITHOUT STICKING THEM OUT TOO FAR.

FJ114OPCW NM

BY TOM YARBROUGH

PEARL HARBOR, SEPT.8-(AP)-CAPT.WALLACE M.BEAKLEY, OF VINELAND, N.J., AIR OPERATIONS OFFICER OF THE TASK FORCE THAT BLITZED JAPAN'S MARCUS ISLAND EXACTLY A WEEK AGO TODAY, DISCLOSED THE AMERICAN SHIPS WERE LOOKING FOR A JAPANESE NAVAL FORCE AT THE TIME OF THE RAID.

"WE HOPE TO FIND ONE AND WERE FULLY PREPARED FOR ANYTHING WE EXPECTED TO MEET," HE SAID.

30.24-8215

(WASHINGTON DISPATCHES WHICH GAVE PRELIMINARY REPORTS SEPT.1 ON THE RAID SAID THE PRESENCE OF THE AMERICAN FORCE 1,200 MILES SOUTHEAST OF TOKYO AMOUNTED TO A CHALLENGE TO THE JAPANESE NAVY TO COME OUT AND FIGHT.)

THE STORY OF THE RAID WAS TOLD BY CAPTAIN BEAKLEY AND TWO PARTICIPATING AIR FORCE OFFICERS, COMMANDER JAMES H.FLATLEY, OF GREEN BAY, WIS., AND COMMANDER JOHN RABY, OF PENSACOLA, FLA., WHO SHOT DOWN TWO AXIS PLANES IN NORTH AFRICA LAST NOVEMBER.

SEP 9 1943

COMMANDER FLATLEY SAID THE ENEMY FACILITIES ON NARCUS HAD BEEN IMPROVED 400 PER CENT SINCE THE ISLAND FIRST WAS RAIDED IN MARCH, 1942.

THE NEW DESTRUCTION "SHOULD CAUSE CONSTERNATION IN THE JAPANESE HOMELAND AND POSSIBLY A REDISTRIBUTION OF HIS FORCES," FLATLEY REASONED.

ONE-TON BLOCKBUSTER BOMBS WERE DROPPED FROM CARRIER-BASED PLANES FOR THE FIRST TIME BUT EVEN SO COMMANDER RABY, WHO WAS UP IN A FIGHTER FOR FIVE OURS SAID IT WAS "RATHER MONOTONOUS."

COMMANDER BEAKLEY EMPHASIZED THE EXTREME HAZARDS OF THE PRE-DAWN TAKEOFF WITH A DARK SKY, DARK OCEAN, NO HORIZON AND LITTLE WIND. HE SAID THE PILOTS DID A "SPLENDID JOB."

FOR THE LARGE PERCENTAGE OF THESE PILOTS, IT WAS THEIR FIRST ACTION.

IT WAS THE FIRST ACTION ALSO FOR A POWERFUL NEW FIGHTER, GRUMMAN HELLCAT (F6F) BUT IT WASN'T A VERY STERN TEST SINCE THERE WAS NO FIGHTER OPPOSITION. ITS PRIMARY MISSION WAS CHANGED FROM FIGHTING TO STRAFING. ON THE FIRST WAVE, THESE FIGHTERS DESTROYED ALL THE BOMBERS IN SIGHT--SEVEN PARKED IN A LINE. ALTOGETHER, THEY MADE 350 STRAFING RUNS, USING 150,000 ROUNDS OF AMMUNITION AND "HIT EVERYTHING OUR BOMBERS MISSED."

SOME BOMBS WERE SET FOR DELAYED ACTION, DESIGNED TO EXPLODE BETWEEN WAVES OF ATTACKING PLANES. COMMANDER RABY SAID THE MONOTONY WAS "BROKEN NICELY ONCE WHEN I SAW A WHOLE LINE OF THEM GO OFF."

COMMANDER FLATLEY SAID THE ABSENCE OF JAPANESE FIGHTERS ON NARCUS INDICATED A SCARCITY OF THEM.

RABY SAID THE "OUTSTANDING THING ABOUT THE RAID WAS THERE WERE NO OUTSTANDING INDIVIDUALS; EVERYBODY WHO WENT IN DID HIS JOB."

FR1002PCW NM

SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO, SEPT 8-(AP)-TWO COAST ARTILLERYMEN, CORP. KENNETH N.ECKLEBERRY OF NEVADA, OHIO, AND PVT.LAWRENCE M.ODEGARD OF 2716 JOSEPHINE STREET, OMAHA, NEB., RESCUED AN 18-YEAR-OLD PUERTO RICAN GIRL FROM DROWNING SUNDAY, IT WAS ANNOUNCED TODAY.

ATTRACTED BY SCREAMS, THE TWO SOLDIERS PLUNGED INTO THE SURF AND SWAM OUT 75 YARDS TO WHERE MARIA CARMONA MALDONADO WAS STRUGGLING IN THE WATER. THEY BROUGHT THE GIRL TO THE BEACH AND SUCCESSFULLY APPLIED ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION.

THEIR COMMANDING OFFICER SAID HE WAS RECOMMENDING EACH MAN FOR A MEDAL.

SEP 9 1943

SN1144PEW

NEW YORK, THURSDAY, SEPT 9-(AP)-MERRILL MUELLER, NATIONAL BROADCASTING COMPANY CORRESPONDENT, REPORTED IN A BROADCAST FROM ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA AT 1:19 A.M. (EASTERN WAR TIME) TODAY THAT THE AMERICAN SEVENTH ARMY HAS LANDED AT NAPLES.

MUELLER ADDED THAT "TWO AIRFIELDS OUTSIDE OF NAPLES PROBABLY ARE IN OUR HANDS."

SEP 9 1943

NEW YORK, SEPT 8-(AP)-ARTURO TOSCANINI, FAMED ITALIAN ORCHESTRA CONDUCTOR AND ANTI-FASCIST, TODAY COMPARED HIS THOUGHTS ON ITALY'S SURRENDER TO "WAVES IN A STORMY SEA."

THE MAN WHO WAS ASSAULTED BY MUSSOLINI'S BLACK SHIRTED FASCISTS IN ITALY IN 1931 BECAUSE HE REFUSED TO DIRECT THE FASCIST ANTHEM, SAID JUBILANTLY:

"I AM OVERWHELMED WITH JOY. THE NEWS OF THE SURRENDER OF THE ARMED FORCE OF ITALY CAME SO SUDDENLY THAT MY THOUGHTS ARE LIKE WAVES IN A STORMY SEA. I CAN ONLY SAY, "BLESSED ITALY, AT LAST YOU ARE FREE TO JOIN THE ALLIES WHO ARE STRUGGLING TO KEEP ALIVE THE NAME OF LIBEYOY IN THE WORLD.'"

THE MAESTRO ISSUED HIS STATEMENT IN THE MIDST OF PREPARATIONS FOR A HALF-HOUR "VICTORY PROGRAM" WHICH WILL BE BROADCAST AT 6 P.M. TOMORROW OVER THE NBC NETWORK. TOSCANINI, DIRECTOR OF THE NBC SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA, WILL INCLUDE IN THE PROGRAM HIS OWN ARRANGEMENT OF THE GARIBALDI HYMN.

C.L.MENSER, VICE PRESIDENT IN CHARGE OF PROGRAMS, SAID THE BROADCAST, "VICTORY, ACT ONE," WAS THE FIRST OF THREE, WITH ACTS TWO AND THREE TO FOLLOW WITH THE DEFEAT OF GERMANY AND JAPAN.

TOSCANINI, WMO WAS ASSAULTED OUTSIDE A BOLOGNA THEATER AFTER HE REFUSED TO DIRECT THE FASCIST HYMN "GIOVINEZZA" OR THE ITALIAN ROYAL MARCH, WAS KEPT UNDER GUARD AT HIS MILAN HOME AND THE FASCIST GOVERNMENT TOOK AWAY HIS PASSPORT. WORLD WIDE ATTENTION WAS ATTRACTED BY THE AFFAIR, AND EVENTUALLY HIS PASSPORT WAS RETURNED.

SN719PEW

SEP 9 1943

BY ALEX MCNEILL

NEW YORK, SEPT 8-(AP)-UNITED STATES AND GERMAN TROOPS, FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE THE ARMISTICE OF WORLD WAR 1, ALMOST 25 YEARS AGO, WERE REPORTED FACING EACH OTHER ON THE CONTINENT OF EUROPE TODAY.

WHILE THE AMERICANS HAVE MET, AND DEFEATED, THE GERMANS IN NORTH AFRICA AND SICILY IN WORLD WAR II, THEY ARE NOW PREPARED FOR THE FINAL OFFENSIVE AGAINST THE NAZIS IN EUROPE.

THE FINAL PHASE OF THE GREAT ALLIED DRIVE IN WORLD WAR I BEGAN FOR THE AMERICANS AT DAWN ON SEPT. 18, 1918 IN THE BATTLE OF ST.MIHIEL, AND ENDED NOV. 11, WITH THE AMERICANS AT SEDAN AND ASTRIDE THE MEUSE.

DISPATCHES FROM STOCKHOLM INDICATED THAT THE ALLIES HAD MADE LANDINGS AT HALF A DOZEN POINTS ON THE WEST COAST OF ITALY, THE SHORE LINE OF WHICH RANGES FROM FLAT, SANDY PLAINS TO RUGGED MOUNTAINS. AMONG THE POINTS NAMED AS LANDING SPOTS WERE GENOA, CIVITAVECCHIO, GAETA, NAPLES AND PIZZO.

THE PORT OF GENOA IS SHELTERED BY A STEEP RANGE OF HILLS AT THE FOOT OF THE APPENNINES, WHICH SURROUND THE SEMI-CIRCULAR BAY, UPON THE EAST SIDE OF WHICH THE GREAT PORTION OF THE CITY IS BUILT. A FEW MILES NORTHWARD LIES THE WEST END OF THE GERMANS' PO RIVER LINE.

30.24 8217

THE CITY IS DEFENDED BY THREE LINES OF FORTIFICATIONS, THE OUTER FORMING A SEMICIRCLE SEVEN MILES IN CIRCUMFERENCE, SUPPORTED BY NUMEROUS DETACHED FORTS, REDOUBTS AND EARTHWORKS, CROWNING THE SUMMITS OF THE HILLS WHICH COMMAND THE TOWN. THE STREETS ARE STEEP, NARROW AND IRREGULAR. THE CITY IS SUPPLIED WITH WATER BROUGHT TO IT PARTLY BY AQUEDUCTS. SEA WALLS SURROUND THE BAY.

FROM THE EASTERN MOLE OF GENOA THE COAST RUNS NEARLY STRAIGHT SOUTHEAST FOR NEARLY TEN MILES WHERE IT ABRUPTLY TURNS, SOUTH BY SOUTHWEST. THE COAST IS HIGH AND RUGGED.

CIVITAVECCHIO WAS THE PRINCIPAL SEAPORT OF THE FORMER ROMAN STATES AND IS STRONGLY FORTIFIED. THE PORT IS FORMED BY A CURVED MOLE. IN THE CENTER OF THE MOLE IS 1,105-FOOT BREAKWATER. THE HARBOUR ITSELF WILL NOT ACCOMMODATE A LARGE NUMBER OF VESSELS. FROM CIVITAVECCHIO SOUTHWARD THE COAST IS ROCKY FOR ABOUT FOUR MILES. SHOALS EXTEND IN SOME PLACES A HALF A MILE OFF SHORE. FROM CAPE LINARO THE COAST CURVES EASTWARD TO THE MOUTH OF THE TIBER RIVER. IT IS LOW AND WOODED BUT IS BACKED BY HILLS OF CONSIDERABLE ELEVATION, THEIR SUMMITS BEING THREE TO FOUR MILES INLAND. NUMEROUS STREAMS RUN THROUGH THE VALLEYS.

THE LAND AROUND THE MOUTH OF THE TIBER BELOW ROME IS COMPOSED [illegible] SEDIMENT, AND SOUTHWARD BRUSHWOOD BORDERS THE SANDY BEACHES. BACK OF THIS IS MARSHY LAND INTERSPERSED WITH LARGE CLUMPS OF TREES. FURTHER BACK ARE CLAY CLIFFS.

SEP 9 1943

GAETA IS A STRONGLY FORTIFIED TOWN FACING THE SEA FROM AN ELEVATED PROMOTORY 610 FEET HIGH. THE NARROW WOODED COUNTRY TO THE WEST OF IT IS SEPARATED FROM IT BY A LOW, NARROW ISTHMUS. THE SOUTH SIDE

30.24-8217

OF THE PROMONTORY IS FORMED OF INACCESSIBLE CLIFFS AND ON THE NORTH AND WEST ARE STRONGLY FORTIFIED DEFENSE WORKS.

SOUTH OF GAETA IS A LOW SANDY BEACH. THE COUNTRY BEHIND IS FLAT AND MARSHY.

THE BOMB-BATTERED CITY OF NAPLES RISES FROM THE SHORE IN THE FORM OF AN AMPHITHEATER DIVIDED INTO TWO UNEQUAL CRESCENTS BY THE HILL OF MARTINO; THAT TO THE EASTWARD CONTAINING THE GREATER PORTION OF THE CITY. ON THE NORTH ARE THE CAPODIMENTI HILLS. ON THE WEST IS THE HILL OF CHIAJA. TO THE EAST IS THE FERTILE PLAIN OF CAMPANIA.

PIZZO, SOUTH OF NAPLES, IS SITUATED ON THE SHORE WITHIN A SMALL PROJECTING ROCKY HEAD. THE SURROUNDING COUNTRY IS FAIRLY FLAT AND WELL CULTIVATED. SHOALS EXTEND A CONSIDERABLE DISTANCE FROM THE SHORE. THE MAIN OCCUPATION OF THE TOWN IS TUNA FISHING.

SN1205AEW

SEP 9 1943

NEW YORK, SEPT 8-(AP)-POWERFUL AMERICAN, BRITISH AND CANADIAN ARMIES, BACKED BY THE FULL WEIGHT OF ALLIED AIR AND SEA FLEETS, WERE REPORTED LANDING AT VARIOUS POINTS IN ITALY TONIGHT IN A MOVE TO SWEEP THE GERMANS FROM THAT SURRENDERED NATION.

FOR THE AMERICANS IT WOULD REPRESENT THE FIRST MEETING WITH THE GERMANS ON THE EUROPEAN CONTINENT SINCE THE ARMISTICE OF WORLD WAR 1 WAS SIGNED NEARLY 25 YEARS AGO.

THE UNITED NATIONS RADIO AT TUNIS ANNOUNCED THAT THE ALLIED TROOPS WERE MOVING IN "AT VARIOUS POINTS IN THE HEART OF ITALY" AND URGED THE ITALIANS TO COOPERATE IN THROWING FROM THE PENINSULA THE NAZIS IT DESCRIBED AS "THE TRADITIONAL ENEMY."

30.24 8217

THE CITY IS DEFENDED BY THREE LINES OF FORTIFICATIONS, THE OUTER FORMING A SEMICIRCLE SEVEN MILES IN CIRCUMFERENCE, SUPPORTED BY NUMEROUS DETACHED FORTS, REDOUBTS AND EARTHWORKS, CROWNING THE SUMMITS OF THE HILLS WHICH COMMAND THE TOWN. THE STREETS ARE STEEP, NARROW AND IRREGULAR. THE CITY IS SUPPLIED WITH WATER BROUGHT TO IT PARTLY BY AQUEDUCTS. SEA WALLS SURROUND THE BAY.

FROM THE EASTERN MOLE OF GENOA THE COAST RUNS NEARLY STRAIGHT SOUTHEAST FOR NEARLY TEN MILES WHERE IT ABRUPTLY TURNS, SOUTH BY SOUTHWEST. THE COAST IS HIGH AND RUGGED.

CIVITAVECCHIO WAS THE PRINCIPAL SEAPORT OF THE FORMER ROMAN STATES AND IS STRONGLY FORTIFIED. THE PORT IS FORMED BY A CURVED MOLE. IN THE CENTER OF THE MOLE IS 1,105-FOOT BREAKWATER. THE HARBOUR ITSELF WILL NOT ACCOMMODATE A LARGE NUMBER OF VESSELS. FROM CIVITAVECCHIO SOUTHWARD THE COAST IS ROCKY FOR ABOUT FOUR MILES. SHOALS EXTEND IN SOME PLACES A HALF A MILE OFF SHORE. FROM CAPE LINARO THE COAST CURVES EASTWARD TO THE MOUTH OF THE TIBER RIVER. IT IS LOW AND WOODED BUT IS BACKED BY HILLS OF CONSIDERABLE ELEVATION, THEIR SUMMITS BEING THREE TO FOUR MILES INLAND. NUMEROUS STREAMS RUN THROUGH THE VALLEYS.

THE LAND AROUND THE MOUTH OF THE TIBER BELOW ROME IS COMPOSED LARGELY OF SEDIMENT, AND SOUTHWARD BRUSHWOOD BORDERS THE SANDY BEACHES. BACK OF THIS IS MARSHY LAND INTERSPERSED WITH LARGE CLUMPS OF TREES. FURTHER BACK ARE CLAY CLIFFS.

SEP 9 1943

GAETA IS A STRONGLY FORTIFIED TOWN FACING THE SEA FROM AN ELEVATED PROMOTORY 610 FEET HIGH. THE NARROW WOODED COUNTRY TO THE WEST OF IT IS SEPARATED FROM IT BY A LOW, NARROW ISTHMUS. THE SOUTH SIDE

30.24-8217

OF THE PROMONTORY IS FORMED OF INACCESSIBLE CLIFFS AND ON THE NORTH AND WEST ARE STRONGLY FORTIFIED DEFENSE WORKS.

SOUTH OF GAETA IS A LOW SANDY BEACH. THE COUNTRY BEHIND IS FLAT AND MARSHY.

THE BOMB-BATTERED CITY OF NAPLES RISES FROM THE SHORE IN THE FORM OF AN AMPHITHEATER DIVIDED INTO TWO UNEQUAL CRESCENTS BY THE HILL OF MARTINO; THAT TO THE EASTWARD CONTAINING THE GREATER PORTION OF THE CITY. ON THE NORTH ARE THE CAPODIMENTI HILLS. ON THE WEST IS THE HILL OF CHIAJA. TO THE EAST IS THE FERTILE PLAIN OF CAMPANIA.

PIZZO, SOUTH OF NAPLES, IS SITUATED ON THE SHORE WITHIN A SMALL PROJECTING ROCKY HEAD. THE SURROUNDING COUNTRY IS FAIRLY FLAT AND WELL CULTIVATED. SHOALS EXTEND A CONSIDERABLE DISTANCE FROM THE SHORE. THE MAIN OCCUPATION OF THE TOWN IS TUNA FISHING.

SN1205AEW

SEP 9 1943

NEW YORK, SEPT 8-(AP)-POWERFUL AMERICAN, BRITISH AND CANADIAN ARMIES, BACKED BY THE FULL WEIGHT OF ALLIED AIR AND SEA FLEETS, WERE REPORTED LANDING AT VARIOUS POINTS IN ITALY TONIGHT IN A MOVE TO SWEEP THE GERMANS FROM THAT SURRENDERED NATION.

FOR THE AMERICANS IT WOULD REPRESENT THE FIRST MEETING WITH THE GERMANS ON THE EUROPEAN CONTINENT SINCE THE ARMISTICE OF WORLD WAR I WAS SIGNED NEARLY 25 YEARS AGO.

THE UNITED NATIONS RADIO AT TUNIS ANNOUNCED THAT THE ALLIED TROOPS WERE MOVING IN "AT VARIOUS POINTS IN THE HEART OF ITALY" AND URGED THE ITALIANS TO COOPERATE IN THROWING FROM THE PENINSULA THE NAZIS IT DESCRIBED AS "THE TRADITIONAL ENEMY."

"WHEREVER ALLIED FORCES ARE TO BE FOUND," THE TUNIS STATION URGED THE PEOPLE IN AN ITALIAN-LANGUAGE TRANSMISSION, "GIVE THEM YOUR SUPPORT AND OBEY THE ORDERS OF THE COMMANDERS TO THE LETTER."

TWO STOCKHOLM NEWSPAPERS, THE DAGENS NYHETER AND SVENSKA DAGBLADET, REPORTED SUNDRY OPERATIONS ALONG A STRETCH OF MORE THAN 500 MILES OF THE WEST COAST FROM PIZZO TO GENOA.

MOREOVER, SVENSKA DAGBLADET SAID THE ALLIES ALSO HAD LANDED ON SARDINIA, THE LAST MAJOR AXIS BASTION IN THE WESTERN MEDITERRANEAN.

COUPLED WITH STOCKHOLM RUMORS THAT ALLIED PARACHUTE TROOPS HAD DROPPED AT PIZZO, ON THE GULF OF EUFEMIA 50 MILES NORTH OF REGGIO CALABRIA, WERE TWO SIGNIFICANT REPORTS FROM OPPOSING CAMPS:

1--A GERMAN RADIO BROADCAST RECORDED BY CBS SAID FOUR OF FIVE ALLIED INFANTRY DIVISIONS WERE REPORTED TO HAVE LANDED AT THE GULF OF EUFEMIA ABOUT 30 MILES AHEAD OF THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY'S LEFT WING. THE MISSION OF SUCH A TASK FORCE LOGICALLY WOULD BE TO

THE MISSION OF SUCH A TASK FORCE LOGICALLY WOULD BE TO TRAP AS MANY GERMAN TROOPS AS POSSIBLE IN A COASTAL PINCER.

2--THE BRITISH RADIO SAID IN A BROADCAST HEARD BY NBC THAT GEN. SIR BERNARD L. MONTGOMERY'S MEN HAD AT LAST CAUGHT UP WITH NAZI INFANTRYMEN AND A BITTER BATTLE WAS DEVELOPING ON THE PLAIN OF GIORI, BETWEEN PALMI AND PIZZO.

THE STOCKHOLM DISPATCHES, BASED ON ADVICES FROM THE ITALIAN FRONTIER, SAID THE ALLIES HAD STRUCK UP THE BOOT AT PIZZO, NAPLES, GAETA, CIVITAVECCHIO AND GENOA. #

SEP 9 1943

(BA)..UNDATED--ADD ITALIAN COMMENT XXX YET

GOVERNOR MATTHEW M.NEELY OF WEST VIRGINIA: "TONIGHT THE AMERICANS AND THEIR ALLIES HAVE MORE THAN EVER BEFORE FOR WHICH TO PRAISE THE LORD BUT THEY SHOULD NOT FOR AN INSTANT STOP PASSING THE AMMUNITION UNTIL HITLER AND HIROHITO HAVE BEEN HANGED AS HIGH AS HAMAN, AND THEIR CUTTHROAT MINIONS HAVE BEEN SUBDUED BEYOND THE POSSIBILITY OF THEIR EVER AGAIN SETTING THE WORLD ON FIRE WITHIN A THOUSAND YEARS."

GOV.PRENTICE COOPER (TENN.)--"ITALY'S CAPITULATION SHOULD BE AN INCENTIVE TO AMERICANS TO WORK ALL THE HARDER TO INSURE ABSOLUTE VICTORY IN THE NEAR FUTURE FOR THE ALLIED NATIONS."

SEP 9 1943

REP. SIKES (D-FLA): "LET US NOT BE OVER-OPTIMISTIC. THERE IS HARD FIGHTING AHEAD AND MUCH WORK TO BE DONE XXX. MUDDLING ON THE HOME FRONT, BY WHATEVER AGENCIES, MUST BE STOPPED."

BRIG.GEN.NORMAN RANDOLPH, CHIEF OF STAFF OF THE SECOND ARMY WITH HEADQUARTERS IN MEMPHIS: "IT IS NOT ONLY A STEP IN THE EVENTUAL DESTRUCTION OF THE AXIS X X X BUT A STEP WHICH FORECASTS THE DOWNFALL OF HITLER AND HIS ARMY."

WENDELL WILLKIE, 1940 PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE: "MAGNIFICENT" NEWS WHICH MAKES THIS "ONE OF THE SIGNIFICANT DAYS IN HISTORY." IT MEANS AVOIDANCE OF "UNNECESSARY SLAUGHTER."

REPRESENTATIVE MCCORMACK (D-MASS), MAJORITY HOUSE LEADER: THE "UNITED NATIONS ARE INCREASING TREMENDOUSLY IN STRENGTH AND THE UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER POLICY MUST BE MAINTAINED. IT WILL BE ONLY BY UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER THAT WE CAN DESTROY ANOTHER ATTEMPT AT WORLD CONTROL AND REPETITION OF VICIOUSNESS WE ARE NOW UNDERGOING."

30.24-8219

MAJ.GEN.F.E.UHL, OMAHA, COMMANDING GENERAL OF THE SEVENTH SERVICE COMMAND:

"THE SURRENDER OF ITALY HAS DEALT A STAGGERING PSYCHOLOGICAL BLOW, AS WELL AS A STRATEGIC ONE, TO THE SATELLITE BALKAN COUNTRIES. OUR INVASION TROOPS, TRAINED AND SEASONED, ARE POISED FOR A THRUST INTO GERMAN-HELD EUROPE. YET THE ROAD AHEAD IS A LONG ONE, NOT ONLY IN MILES BUT IN EFFORT."

SEP 9 1943

MANUEL L.QUEZON PRESIDENT OF THE PHILIPPINES: "THE SURRENDER OF ITALY IS AN EVENT WHICH WILL MAKE THE TYRANTS TREMBLE, FROM TOKYO TO BERLIN. THE FILIPINO PEOPLE WILL TAKE HEART FROM THIS NEWS, FOR IT IS ANOTHER SIGN OF THEIR LIBERATION WHICH IS TO COME." #

INDATED ITALY'S RECORD IN WORLD WARS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ITALY EMERGED FROM WORLD WAR 1 AS A MEMBER OF THE VICTORIOUS ALLIES --IN DEEP CONTRAST WITH THE LONG SERIES OF HUMILIATING DEFEATS, LOSS OF HER EMPIRE AND DEVASTATION OF HER HOMELAND SHE SUFFERED IN WORLD WAR 2.

SHE HITCHED HER WAGON TO A "LUCKY STAR" AT THE OUTSET, IN WORLD WAR 1, BY MAKING THE NATURAL CHOICE OF SIDING WITH THE ALLIES. IN THE PRESENT CONFLICT, SHE MISTAKENLY THOUGHT SHE WAS PICKING A WINNER IN JOINING UP WITH NAZI GERMANY. IT WASN'T LONG BEFORE THE ROME-BERLIN AGGRESSION BEGAN TO SPELL NOTHING BUT GRIEF FOR ITALY.

FATE HAD IT THAT MUSSOLINI, WHO WHOLLY DETERMINED ITALY'S CHOICE IN 1940 AND THUS SET THE STAGE FOR THE DOWNFALL OF HIMSELF AND THE FASCIST REGIME HE HAD BEEN BUILDING FOR TWO DECADES, HAD A BIG PART IN MAKING ITALY'S MORE FORTUNATE DECISION A QUARTER-CENTURY EARLIER. MUSSOLINI WAS A POWERFUL FACTOR IN SHAPING THE PUBLIC OPINION OF

30.24-8219

ITALIANS WHICH LED TO HER DECLARATION OF WAR ON AUSTRAIA, A TRADITIONAL ENEMY, MAY 23, 1915.

ALTHOUGH FAR FROM EQUIPPED FOR WAR, ITALY STARTED OFF WITH AN OFFENSIVE WHICH CARRIED HER SEVERAL MILES INTO AUSTRIA AND CULMINATED IN THE CAPTURE OF GORIZIA IN 1916 AFTER HARD FIGHTING IN EXCEEDINGLY DIFFICULT MOUNTAINOUS TERRAIN. SHE ALSO SCORED AN ASSIST FOR THE ALLIES BY BEGINNING THE WEARING DOWN OF AUSTRIAN FORCES AND CUTTING DOWN ON THE AID THEY MIGHT HAVE GIVEN GERMANY ON THE WESTERN FRONT AND AGAINST RUSSIA TO THE EAST.

FINALLY AUSTRIA--LIKE ITALY IN WORLD WAR 2--HAD TO CALL ON HER "BIG BROTHER," GERMANY, FOR HELP. THE RESULT WAS THE GERMAN-AUSTRIAN CAPORETTO DRIVE OF 1917 WHICH PUSHED GENERAL CADORNA'S FORCES BACK INTO ITALY TO THE PIAVE RIVER, ABOUT 70 MILES FROM THE AUSTRIAN FRONTIER. BUT THERE THE ITALIANS HELD, THEREBY BOOSTING ALLIED MORALE AND WORKING FOR ALLIED UNITY IN WAR STRATEGY WHEN BOTH WERE BADLY NEEDED BECAUSE OF GERMAN'S CRUSHING VICTORIES ON THE WESTERN FRONT.

SEP 9 1943

B49

IN JUNE, 1918, THE TROOPS OF GENERAL ARMANDO DIAZ, SUCCESSOR TO CADORNA, FRUSTRATED A FURTHER AUSTRIAN OFFENSIVE AT THE PIAVE. THIS THE ITALIANS FOLLOWED UP IN OCTOBER WITH THEIR DECISIVE AND VICTORIOUS VITTORIO VENETO CAMPAIGN WHICH THREW THE AUSTRIANS BACK TO AND BEYOND THEIR BORDER AND FORCED THE AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN ARMISTICE ON NOV. 4.

1943

..ALIAN TROOPS ALSO FOUGHT WITH THE ALLIES ON THE WESTERN FRONT AND IN SALONIKA. THEY THRIVED AND GREW IN STRIKING POWER AS WORLD WAR 1 PROGRESSED. BUT IN THE PRESENT WAR THEIR GRADUAL DETERIORATION WAS OBVIOUS AS EARLY AS 1940 WHEN THEIR GRECIAN CAMPAIGN FLOPPED AND THEY HAD TO BE RESCUED BY HITLER'S POWERFUL FORCES.

THE BACKTRACKING OF THE FASCIST ARMIES WAS DEFINED BY SUCH MILESTONES AS THEIR LOSS OF ETHIOPIA TO THE BRITISH, WINTERTIME DEFEATS AT THE HANDS OF THE RED ARMY IN RUSSIA, THE LOSS OF ALL HER HOLDINGS IN AFRICA AND THE ITALIAN ISLANDS IN THE MEDITERRANEAN, AND THE FAILURE OF HER AIR FORCES TO FEND OFF INCESSANT ALLIED BOMBING ATTACKS WHICH MONTH-BY-MONTH LAID HER GREAT INDUSTRIAL CENTERS IN RUINS.

THUS ITALY HAS BEEN ABLE IN NO WAY TO DEFEND EVEN HER HOMELAND IN THIS WAR AS SHE DID SUCCESSFULLY IN THE BRIGHTER YEARS OF 1917-18.

SEP 9 1943

SIMILARLY, HER NAVY SCORED A BIG ZERO THIS TIME, AS COMPARED WITH GIVING A GOOD ACCOUNT OF ITSELF IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR BY BOTTLING UP THE AUSTRIAN FLEET IN THE ADRIATIC, PROTECTING THE FLANK OF THE LAND FORCES IN THEIR RETREAT TO THE PIAVE, AND EVACUATING THE REMNANTS OF THE SERBIAN ARMY AND REFUGEES FROM OVERRUN SERBIA.

A SHORT TIME AFTER ITALY ENTERED WORLD WAR 2 MUSSOLINI'S NAVY FOUND IT WAS NO MATCH FOR BRITISH WARSHIPS.H
DECIDING THAT DISCRETION WAS THE BETTER PART OF VALOR.
THE FASCIST SAILORS YIELDED SURFACE CONTROL OF THE MEDTIERRANEAN TO THE ALLIES AND CHOSE WELCOME SANCTUARY IN HOME PORTS.

ALL IN ALL, ITALY'S HELP CAME IN MIGHTY HANDY TO HER WORLD WAR 1 ALLIES--BUT HER COLLABORATION WITH NAZI GERMANY GAVE HITLER, AS WELL S HERSELF, NOTHING BUT A HEADACHE.

NOW THAT THE ITALIAN FLEET IS IMMOBILIZED FOR GOOD, IF NOT WEAPON OF THE ALLIES, THE BRITISH MAY DIVERT MUCH OF THEIR EDITERRANEAN FLEET TO THE FAR EAST IN THE FIGHT AGAINST THE JAPANESE. HAT IS ONE POSSIBLE EFFECT OF ITALY'S SURRENDER.

ANOTHER MILITARY ADVANTAGE IS THE FACT THAT THE ALLIES NO LONGER AVE TO BOMB OR FIGHT THE ITALIANS.

SEP 9 1943

THE OTHERS DEPEND ON WHAT THE GERMANS DO. IF THE ALLIES GAIN THE IRFIELDS OF NORTHERN ITALY THEY CAN BASE BOMBERS THERE FOR ATTACKS N SUCH GERMAN INDUSTRIAL OBJECTIVES AS THE SKODA ARMS WORKS IN ZECHOSLOVAKIA, THE COMMUNICATION LINES IN HUNGARY, INSTALLATIONS N AUSTRIA, PERHAPS THE OIL FIELDS OF RUMANIA.

THROUGH ITALY, TOO, MAY LIE AN EVENTUAL ROUTE TO THE BALKANS O FIGHT THE GERMANS ON A FRONT THERE.

REGARDLESS OF WHETHER SUCH BENEFITS ACCRUE TO THE ALLIES, THE APITULATION OF ITALY MAKES HER ISLAND BASES AVAILABLE TO THE ALLIES--HODES AND THE DODECANESE IN THE BALKAN SECTOR OF THE EASTERN EDITERRANEAN, SARDINIA AND PERHAPS THE FRENCH ISLAND OF CORSICA ON HE WEST.

AS FOR THE PSYCHOLOGICAL REPERCUSSIONS, THE CRACK IN THE AXIS HAT CAME WITH MUSSOLINI'S FALL AS DICTATOR OF ITALY HAS RESOUNDED LREADY IN THE SATELLITE COUNTRIES.

HUNGARY MAY BE THE NEXT TO BUBBLE WITH THE FERMENT OF REVOLT. SHE S ALWAYS LOOKED TO FASCIST ITALY AS HER PROTECTOR IN THE AXIS, THE EFENDER OF HER INTERESTS. WITH FASCISM FALLEN AND ITALY OUT OF HE WAR, HUNGARY'S LEADERS MAY FEEL THERE IS NOTHING TO HOPE OR FROM GERMANY.

IF HUNGARY GOES, SO TOO MAY RUMANIA. CAUTION IS INDICATED.

30.24 - 8221

OWEVER. IN ASSAYING THEIR POSITION. FOR GERMANY. NEEDING UNGARIAN WHEAT. RUMANIAN OIL AND THE DANUBE COMMUNICATIONS. IS OT LIKELY TO LET THEM GO AS READILY AS SHE ABANDONED HER ITALIAN IABILITY.

BULGARIA MIGHT BE THE FIRST TO DRAW OUT OF THE WAR. NE. TOO. HAS BEEN CLOSELY ATTACHED TO ITALY. SINCE QUEEN OANNA OF BULGARIA IS A DAUGHTER OF ITALY'S KING VITTORIO EMANUELE. N THE OTHER HAND. SO LONG AS THE GERMANS OCCUPY GREECE THEY RE NOT LIKELY TO LET GO OF BULGARIA AS A BUFFER ON THE SIDE OF URKEY ALONG A POSSIBLE INVASION ROUTE FROM THE NEAR EAST.

FINALLY. THE EFFECT ON GERMAN MORALE ITSELF MAY BE IMPORTANT. OR ITALY'S CAPITULATION SHOWS TO THE GERMAN THE FALSITY OF THE AZI PROPAGANDA THAT ALL EUROPE WAS KNIT TOGETHER IN HITLER'S NEW RDER SO SOLIDLY THAT THE ALLIES WOULD NEVER SHAKE THE CONTINENTAL COUN- RIES APART. IT ALSO PROVES THE MIGHT OF AMERICAN AND BRITISH ARMS ND BRINGS HOME THE FACT THAT THIS MIGHT IS KNOCKING AT THE DOOR F GERMANY HERSELF.

HY/SU1241PEW

SEP 9 - 1943

UNDATED VICTORY CELEBRATION

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

JUBILANT CHEERS--INCLUDING THOSE OF ITALIAN PRISONERS OF WAR--ECHOED ACROSS THE NATION YESTERDAY (WED) AS THE NEWS OF ITALY'S SURRENDER SPREAD.

IMPROMPTU PARADES FORMED. TORN PAPER FLOATED FROM OFFICE BUILDINGS. WAR WORKERS HALTED AT THEIR MACHINES TO SHOUT LUSTILY, THEN TURNED BACK TO THEIR TASKS TO FINISH THE JOB STILL AHEAD.

30.24 - 8221

ALL WAS NOT SHOUTING, HOWEVER. MANY WERE SEEN ENTERING CHURCHES TO OFFER PRAYERS OF THANKFULNESS.

IN NEW YORK'S TIMES SQUARE, 30,000 PERSONS ATTENDING A WAR BOND CELEBRATION ROARED APPLAUSE, AND SLAPPED EACH OTHER ON THE BACK WHEN THE NEWS WAS ANNOUNCED. IN HERALD SQUARE PEOPLE HUGGED EACH OTHER AND DEPARTMENT STORE CLERKS SHOWERED BITS OF PAPER ON CROWDS BELOW.

IN LOS ANGELES WORKERS AT THE DOUGLAS, NORTH AMERICAN, LOCKHEED AND VULTEE AIRCRAFT PLANTS SENT UP TREMENDOUS CHEERS AS THE NEWS WAS ANNOUNCED OVER LOUDSPEAKER SYSTEMS, THEN WENT BACK TO THEIR LATHES WHEN ANNOUNCERS SAID "NOW, LET'S GET BUSY AND FINISH THE JOB."

THERE WERE SIMILAR SCENES IN SEATTLE AT THE BOEING AIRCRAFT PLANT THERE AND AT SHIPYARDS.

THRONGS GATHERED ON BALTIMORE'S MAIN STREETS AND WITHIN 15 MINUTES STREET TRAFFIC WAS BROUGHT TO A STANDSTILL. FLAGS WAVED IN WINDOWS.

IN MILWAUKEE, ITALIAN WOMEN GATHERED IN GROUPS, SHEDDING TEARS AND SHOUTING JOYFULLY TO EACH OTHER. MANY SWARMED INTO CHURCHES TO GIVE THANKS.

SEP 9 - 1943

THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF LETTER CARRIERS, MEETING IN DENVER, BROKE INTO A 10-MINUTE CHEERING DEMONSTRATION, THEN 1,800 DELEGATES SANG "GOD BLESS AMERICA," AND ORDERED A CONGRATULATORY TELEGRAM SENT TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

A SPEAKER INTERRUPTED A PITTSBURGH WAR BOND RALLY TO ANNOUNCE THE NEWS. FOR A MOMENT THE CROWD APPEARED STUNNED. THEN ALL STARTED TO CHEER.

IN LOUISVILLE THE ASSOCIATED PRESS RECEIVED A CALL FROM THE POST EXCHANGE MANAGER AT FORT KNOX, KY., AND WHEN THE NEWS WAS CONFIRMED, THE CALLER SAID, "I'LL BET YOU CAN HEAR US ALL THE WAY TO LOUISVILLE."

IMPROMPTU CELEBRATIONS BROKE OUT AROUND NEW ORLEANS NEWS STANDS AND HUNDREDS OF ITALIAN-AMERICANS DROPPED THEIR WORK IN THE OLD FRENCH MARKET AREA AND HURRIED TO CHURCH TO GIVE THANKS.

IN MACON, GA., ITALIAN PRISONERS OF WAR AT CAMP WHEELER GREETED WITH CHEERS THE NEWS THEIR COUNTRY HAD SURRENDERED.

MAYOR SAMUEL DICKER OF ROCHESTER, N.Y., ORDERED A RINGING OF THE CITY HALL BELL, WHICH ORDINARILY TOLLS ONLY DURING FUNERALS OF VETERANS OF THE WAR BETWEEN THE STATES. BUFFALO, N.Y., CITIZENS WERE ASKED TO DISPLAY THE AMERICAN FLAG BY MAYOR JOSEPH J.KELLY, JR.

IN WILMINGTON, DEL., ST.ANTHONY'S CATHOLIC CHURCH RANG ITS BELLS, AND THE PASTOR, REV.FRANCIS J.TUCKER, TOLD 12,000 PARISHONERS OF ITALIAN EXTRACTION THAT THE SURRENDER WAS "VICTORY IN DISGUISE FOR ITALY."

SEP 9 1943

IN THE LITTLE ITALY SECTION OF NEW YORK'S HARLEM, 1,200 MEMBERS OF OUR LADY QUEEN OF THE ANGELS CHURCH TAKING PART IN A RELIGIOUS PROCESSION ALONG FIRST AVENUE SHOUTED JOYFULLY, "ITALY HAS SURRENDERED, ITALY WILL BE FREE AGAIN," AND SUDDENLY PRODUCED AN ITALIAN FLAG.

TWO GREEK-BORN FLORISTS GAVE AWAY SEVERAL THOUSAND ROSES TO PASSERS-BY IN WASHINGTON, D.C., AND JUBILANT ITALIAN RESTAURANT OPERATORS PASSED OUT FREE FOOD AND DRINK.

SN714PEW

THE WAR TODAY

- - -

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

- - -

ITALY'S SURRENDER IS A GOOD DEAL LIKE THE CHRISTMAS PRESENT WHICH WE KNEW WE SHOULD FIND IN OUR STOCKING BUT WHICH IS NONE THE LESS A MATTER OF MUCH REJOICING.

SEP 9 1943

THE CAPITULATION OF THIS FIRST MEMBER OF THE AXIS TO GO UNDER IN THE ALLIED FLOOD REPRESENTS A MILITARY TRIUMPH, BUT THE MORAL EFFECT MAY BE EVEN GREATER. THIS IS PARTICULARLY TRUE OF THE BALKANS, WHERE DISAFFECTION IS RUNNING THROUGH THE AXIS SATELLITES AND THE OCCUPIED COUNTRIES ARE EAGER TO GET AT HITLER'S THROAT. IT WILL CAST A LONG SHADOW ACROSS THE UNHAPPY PEOPLE OF GERMANY ITSELF.

ITALY'S COLLAPSE HAS ROBBED THE NAZI FUEHRER OF HIS MAGIC.

MANY ADVANTAGES LIE IN THIS TRIUMPH, BUT IT SEEMS TO ME THAT THE VITAL CONSIDERATION IS THAT IT REPRESENTS THE LIQUIDATION OF AXIS POWER IN THE WHOLE MEDITERRANEAN THEATER. ONE THING THE ALLIES HAVE HAD TO KEEP CONSTANTLY TO THE FORE IN THEIR PLANS--THAT CONTROL OF THE MEDITERRANEAN WAS ESSENTIAL FOR FINAL VICTORY. HAD HITLER BROKEN THROUGH THE RUSSIANS INTO THE LOWER CAUCASUS AND MIDDLE EAST, OR HAD HE OVERRUN EGYPT, THERE'S NO TELLING TO WHAT STRAITS HE MIGHT HAVE DRIVEN THE UNITED NATIONS BY THIS TIME.

THE PRELIMINARIES TO THE CONQUEST OF ITALY ARE GREAT PAGES IN THE HISTORY OF A GLOBAL WAR WHICH UNDOUBTEDLY IS USHERING IN A NEW EPOCH IN THE PROGRESS OF MANKIND. IT IS THE RECORD OF A REALLY UNITED EFFORT, IN WHICH ALL THE ALLIES PLAYED THEIR PARTS TO THE LIMITS OF THEIR ABILITY.

THERE WAS THE STONEWALL STAND OF THE MAGNIFICENT RED FORCES AT STALINGRAD, WHERE HITLER BROKE HIS BACK LAST WINTER. HAD HE WON THERE HE LIKELY WOULD HAVE SWEPT DOWN THE CAUCASUS INTO THE MIDDLE

1943

30.24-8223

EAST. THERE WAS THE GALLANT ALLIED DEFENSE WHICH STOPPED ROMMEL'S DRIVE TOWARD THE SUEZ CANAL. THEN CAME LIBYA, TRIPOLI, TUNISIA AND SICILY. ALL THESE CONTRIBUTED TO THE PRESENT VICTORY.

JUST AS IN THOSE GRIM DAYS OF A YEAR AGO, SO NOW THE OPERATIONS OF THE BIG THREE--AMERICA, BRITAIN AND RUSSIA--AND THE OTHER ALLIES, HAVE SERVED BY COINCIDENCE OR DESIGN TO COMPLEMENT ONE ANOTHER. THE COLLAPSE OF ITALY HAS SET HITLER'S BALKAN BULWARKS TO SHAKING LIKE REEDS IN A STORM, THEREBY WEAKENING HIS DEFENSES AGAINST BOTH THE WESTERN ALLIES AND THE RUSSIANS. SIMULTANEOUSLY MARSHAL STALIN TRIUMPHANTLY ANNOUNCES THE RED CAPTURE OF STALINO, HITLER'S KEY BASE IN THE RICH DONETS BASIN, AND PROCLAIMS IN AN ORDER OF THE DAY THAT "THE DONETS BASIN IS CLEARED OF THE GERMANS."

THUS THE NAZI FUEHRER'S WHOLE VAST EASTERN FRONT, AND ITS CONTINUATION DOWN INTO THE COCKPIT OF THE BALKANS, IS ROCKING UNDER THE IMPACT, DIRECT OR INDIRECT, OF THE VARIOUS ALLIED OPERATIONS. THE EFFORTS OF EACH ALLY ARE BOLSTERING THOSE OF THE PARTNERS. IT'S IMPORTANT THAT WE KEEP THIS FIRMLY IN MIND, IN THE INTERESTS OF UNITY.

ITALY DOESN'T, OF COURSE, PROVIDE A SPRING-BOARD FOR DIRECT INVASION OF GERMANY WITH GROUND FORCES. HOWEVER, IT WILL BE A MAGNIFICENT BASE FOR NUMEROUS OPERATIONS, ONCE THE PENINSULA HAS BEEN CLEARED OF NAZIS. IF THE HITLERITES DECIDE TO DEFEND THE STRONG LINE OF THE PO RIVER ACROSS NORTHERN ITALY, THERE IS LIKELY TO BE BITTER FIGHTING.

ALLIED TROOPS WHICH MADE A FRESH LANDING NEAR NAPLES THIS MORNING HAVE MADE CONTACT WITH GERMAN FORCES. THIS MEANS THAT THE NAZIS STILL REMAINING IN SOUTHERN ITALY ARE ATTEMPTING TO FIGHT A DELAYING ACTION. WHILE THERE MAY BE SOME FIERCE ENGAGEMENTS, IT SEEMS UNLIKELY THAT THE ALLIES WILL ENCOUNTER HEAVILY SUSTAINED RESISTANCE UNTIL THE NORTHERN PART OF THE COUNTRY IS REACHED.

POSSESSION OF ITALY AS A BASE NATURALLY WILL PERMIT OF NUMEROUS OPERATIONS. ONE OF THE GREATEST GAINS WILL BE ACQUISITION OF AIRFIELDS WHICH WILL BRING ALLIED BOMBING FLEETS MUCH NEARER EASTERN GERMANY. WE SHALL BE ABLE TO COMB THIS HITHERTO COMPARATIVELY ISOLATED AREA AND REACH HANDILY SUCH VITAL TARGETS AS THE ENORMOUS SKODA ARMAMENT WORKS IN CZECHOSLOVAKIA--ONE OF HITLER'S CHIEF SOURCES OF SUPPLY NOW THAT SO MANY OF HIS WAR INDUSTRIES IN THE RUHR LIE IN RUINS.

SEP 9 1943

1943

Allies Fighting Germans for Port of Naples, Hitler Reported Deciding on Stand at the Po

STIFF RESISTANCE IS OVERCOME AT NEW BRIDGEHEAD

KENNEDY

'Operations Are Proceeding Satisfactorily,' Says Allied Communique.

PRISONERS CAPTURED

Three Waves of Fortresses Destroy Nazi Center at Frascati.

ITALIANS TAKE BRENNER

Germans Say Vital Alps Pass Now Controlled by Ex-Partner.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 9.—(AP) Strong American and British forces under U. S. Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark hammered out a bridgehead near Naples today in a dawn landing that overpowered a number of stoutly resisting German troops embittered by Italy's unconditional surrender.

Allied reinforcements were reported tonight still streaming ashore.

"Operations are proceeding satisfactorily," said an Allied communique of this daring stroke one-third of the way up the Italian peninsula.

The troops led by General Clark, hero of the submarine mission to North Africa that paved the way for the successful Allied invasion there last November, "are in contact with German forces and prisoners have been taken," the bulletin added. "The disembarkation of troops with their guns and vehicles is proceeding according to plan."

(Berlin said the landing was in Salerno gulf, and broadcast a report from the International Information bureau that German planes attacking landing barges and warships had sunk one Allied cruiser. There was no Allied confirmation of this Nazi propaganda agency report.

Sharp Fighting at Genoa

(A Swiss Telegraphic agency dispatch from Chiasso, on the Italian border, said the Italian garrison at Genoa was sharply resisting German troops, who were said to have occupied the entire city. Other reports said German divisions were advancing toward all the principal ports on the Ligurian sea above Naples as a precaution against more Allied landings.)

Before the troops struck the shore near Naples three waves of Flying Fortresses had destroyed the German military nerve center at Frascati, 12 miles outside Rome, in a neat culmination of events that has staggered the Axis both politically and militarily.

The paralyzing blow at Frascati occurred six hours before yesterday's announcement of the Italian surrender. Nearly every building in the resort city, famous for its wine, had been occupied by German military authorities. These were leveled by the big avenging American Eagles, official reports said.

American Liberators from the Middle East also dumped 150 tons of explosives on the Foggia expanse of airdromes less than 100 miles east of Naples to facilitate the big amphibious operation.

Powerful Barrage

The landing occurred a few moments after 4 a. m. (10 p. m. Wednesday, E.W.T.) under cover of a powerful barrage laid down by the American and British navies. This terrific rain of explosives smashed wooded hills overhanging the invasion coast, and left great columns of smoke as the Allied shock troops plunged ashore into the Italian no-man's land.

An idea of the size of the Allied force was gained from a Canadian reconnaissance pilot, John Anthony Vasicek of Chatham, Ont., who said the convoy expedition to Naples covered a sea surface of 1,000 square miles "swarming with an invasion fleet."

(Berlin radio in saying that the landing occurred in the Salerno gulf at Amalfi, 20 miles below Naples, also acknowledged that Italian troops deserting the Axis banner by Marshal Badoglio's orders had clashed with German forces in various parts of Italy. One German broadcast recorded by the Associated Press also said that Italians had "occupied Brenner pass" —vital link between northern Italy and Germany — on Tuesday, 24 hours before the delayed announcement of Italy's surrender. It was not immediately clear whether these Italians were pro-Allied or pro-German.

New Sardinia Landings

(Italians in Madrid reported additional Allied landings had been made on the island of Sardinia, and said that Italian troops in Corsica, between Sardinia and the French mainland, were expecting Allied planes to make at least "token landings" at Corsican airfields which are in Italian possession.

(There was no Allied confirmation of reports that Allied troops also landed at Civitavecchia above Rome and at Leghorn on the Gulf of Genoa).

German reaction was resolute, but it was said here that the opposition was no greater than had been anticipated. Some of the first Allied units ashore collided with German defenders, but in an all-day fight established a foothold in the area of the big Italian port.

The crucial period is likely to come when the first strong enemy counter-attack is hurled at the Allies, as was the case in Sicily. The Germans are believed to have strong armored and artillery forces in the area in anticipation of Allied "leap-frogging" tactics along the Italian coast.

Eighth Army Leaps Ahead

In southern Italy, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army, which includes Canadian contingents, executed another successful coastal leap early Wednesday at Vibo Valentia on the Gulf of Eufemia, 30 miles north of Palmi. General Montgomery put his troops on boats and sent them up the coast after finding that demolitions were checking his direct land thrusts.

The Eighth army already holds a 40-mile section of the Italian toe after gaining possession of the trans-peninsular road between Gioia and Locri, and is being steadily reinforced with troops dispatched from Sicily. More German prisoners have been seized in the fighting on that front, the communique said.

A smashing thrust toward Naples only ten hours after announcement of Italy's surrender threatened seizure of the huge port which adjoins an immense north-south rail network in Italy. A German collapse in the area would trap sizeable enemy forces trying to stem General Montgomery in the south.

Seizure of bomb-shattered Naples also would give the Allies a greater bridgehead for the landing of reinforcements in the drive toward central and southern Italy, where the Germans apparently have taken over control of large segments of the country.

New Fascist Regime

There still was no definite indication whether the Italian army is engaged in the conflict — except for possible clashes with the Germans — although Berlin broadcasts heard here asserted that a new Fascist government had been set up in Italy.

Marshal Badoglio's regime apparently still was in the saddle at Rome, however. The Rome radio was heard broadcasting again this morning the text of Premier Badoglio's announcement of unconditional surrender to the Allies, and his order to Italian troops to resist should they be attacked from any other quarter—meaning Germany.

(The Italian Stefani news agency in a broadcast recorded by U. S. government monitors said the Germans had blown up the exits from the port and industrial regions of Naples and Genoa. The agency also quoted "rumors" that three German armored divisions were moving toward Genoa, and that the British Navy was off that port.

Navy Order Countermanded

(Berlin broadcasts quoted a German military spokesman as saying that the new Fascist government had countermanded Marshal Badoglio's orders to the Italian Navy to flee to North Africa.)

General Clark's new invasion strike apparently functioned smoothly despite opposition. Reports said that artillery, vehicles, ammunition, food, medicine, and other supplies were unloaded soon after the first soldiers surged ashore.

General Clark formerly commanded the American Fifth army when it trained in French Morocco. He and several other American officers made a secret submarine trip to French North Africa to gain valuable information from pro-Allied French officers just before the invasion of that territory last fall.

Detailed identification of his assault forces in the Naples area was not permitted for fear that it would aid the enemy. (Secretary of War Stimson said in Washington that some Fifth army units were involved in the operation).

British Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, who commanded Allied ground forces through the Tunisian and Sicilian campaigns, is directing the operations of all troops in Italy. He in turn is responsible to the Allied commander in chief, U. S. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who made the dramatic announcement yesterday of Italy's surrender.

Allies Battle on Beachhead.

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—A powerful American and British force under United States Lieut.-Gen. Mark W. Clark surged ashore in the vicinity of Naples, a third of the way up the Italian boot, at 4 A. M. today.

It was immediately engaged by German forces fighting fiercely in the midst of the chaos of Italy's unconditional surrender, but Allied headquarters announced that operations were going according to plan and that prisoners already had been taken.

[A German broadcast said American formations landed at Amalfi, twenty-one miles south of Naples and on the north side of the Gulf of Salerno, yesterday. The broadcast declared, however, that the Americans had not yet come into contact with German forces.]

At the same time it was announced that waves of Flying Fortresses, striking six hours before the armistice with Italy yesterday, had wiped out German military headquarters in Italy with a terrific half-hour bombing of Frascati, twelve miles outside Rome. Official reports said the town, nearly every building of which was occupied by German officers, was leveled. The town, with a population of about 12,000, is famous for its wine.

Campaign Likely to Be Bitter.

The landing operations this morning (10 P. M. Wednesday Eastern wartime), putting Americans into combat in Italy for the first time, initiated what was likely to prove the grimmest campaign yet fought in the Mediterranean theater.

British Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, who commanded Allied ground forces through the Tunisian and Sicilian campaigns, is directing the new operations of all troops in Italy, it was announced

[In Washington, Secretary of War Stimson said troops making the landing near Naples included units of the American Fifth Army which had been commanded by Gen. Clark in North Africa. The Fifth Army as a whole never has been in action.]

The opening of the new Italian front in the Naples area promised the seizure of Naples, Italy's second greatest port, and also put the Germans in southern Italy under pressure from two directions as the British Eighth Army under Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery continued to drive up the tortuous Italian toe.

39 24- 8225

British Advance Speeds Up.

While other Allied forces executed a second landing early Wednesday at Vibo Valentia on the Gulf of Eufemia, thirty miles north of Palmi, the Eighth Army, it was announced, swept forward until it held the road running across the peninsula from Locri to Gioia. This gave the Allies complete possession of about forty miles of the length of the tie. Here the Allies were being steadily reinforced.

The German plan apparently was to fight a stubborn delaying action in southern Italy as long as possible until their main defense line is reached in the mountains south of the Po Valley. Northern Italy appeared to be under German domination.

The Italian Stefani News Agency, in a broadcast recorded by United States Government monitors, gave this summary of the situation around Naples and Genoa: "Exits from the port and industrial region are blown up by German troops. Three principal arteries leading to and from Genoa also are blocked. There is a rumor that three German armored divisions are moving toward Genoa."

Stefani also broadcast "another rumor that the British fleet is off the port of Genoa, and it is said that German forces have occupied the heights of San Giuliano and also the barracks of Sturla. German lorries full of troops are passing at full speed through the streets."

[Swiss radio reports said Allied planes in hundreds were descending on newly obtained Italian airfields.

Aside from the landings in the Naples area, rumors flew of Allied landings all along the western coast of the Italian peninsula. Reports reaching Madrid said United Nations troops were at Ostia, port of Rome, and also at Leghorn, important port and naval base, 160 miles north of Rome. Stockholm newspapers said the Allies were attacking from bridgeheads at two other places on both sides of Rome, at Civitavecchia, forty miles north of the capital, and at Gaeta, seventy-five miles to the south of the capital. These reports said landing attempts also were under way at Genoa.

[Illustrating the apparent confusion inside Italy, Madrid reports said battles had taken place between Germans and Italians throughout the Po region, and that Italian Army leaders had rushed troops to leading airports in the Milan region to hold the bases against German seizure.]

Navies Support Landings.

Events in Italy were moving at a dizzy speed since the Kingdom's capitulation was announced yesterday, as the Allies rushed men and guns to the Peninsula in a race against German forces.

British and American warships added to the assaults by bombardments of the Germans along the coasts.

Critical as was the Italian situation, however, Marshal Badoglio's proclamation calling upon Italians to lay down their arms against the Allies, was rebroadcast at 8 A. M. (2 A. M., Eastern wartime) today, indicating that his Government still was in control in Rome at that time. Since then the station had been silent except for family messages to prisoners of war.

The Allied Headquarters announcement of the new landing came just twelve hours after news of the armistice which took Italy out of the Axis partnership and left Germany and Japan as the two major enemies of the United States.

The communique said: "Further operations have started on the Italian mainland in the vicinity of Naples."

Major Test for Allies.

For the British and Canadians the forthcoming battles loomed as the first major test against German forces on the European mainland since the days of Dieppe, a year ago in August, and for Americans the first since the the first world war a quarter of a century ago.

Naples, in peacetime a city of almost 1,000,000 population, has been battered often and hard by the Allied air arm, and warships stole in some weeks ago to bombard enemy shipping and military installations in the harbor. It is a vital link in Italy's north-south railway communications and one of that country's major ports.

NAPLES ARMADA SIGHTED BY FLYER

SEP 10 1943

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—Back from a flight over the Naples district, a Canadian flyer said today "the whole area of approximately 1,000 square miles was swarming with an invasion fleet."

Flying Officer John Anthony Vasicek, 20-year-old Spitfire pilot from Chatham, Ont., brought back the first eyewitness account of the Allied landings. He flew over the region on his way to a reconnaissance mission shortly after dawn.

"Through the haze I suddenly saw what at first appeared to be a moderately large amount of shipping," he said. "Then as I got closer to the bay I got a more accurate picture and realized the whole area of approximately 1,000 square miles was swarming with an invasion fleet.

"The ships varied in size from assault barges to warships. The barges were sailing in dozens and dozens of large formations.

"It was a calm sea with no whitecaps, so that the straight lines of foam made by the assault flotillas showed very clearly against the blue of the sea as they moved to and from the shore."

NAZI STAND AT PO MAPPED BY HITLER AT WAR PARLEY

BALKAN

River Line Will Be Reinforced for Fight to Finish, Says Berlin.

SEIZE DALMATIA

Germans, Aided by Croat Puppets, Seek to Block

Balkan Gateway.

LONDON, Sept. 9 — (AP) Adolf Hitler, trapped in the center of his own wavering European fortress, was reported to have called a hurried war conference today at which it was decided to reinforce the Po river line in Italy and fight there to the last man.

Apparently determined to make Italy a bloody battlefield despite her capitulation, Germany moved swiftly to seize important communication centers and strategic points to offset gains already made by Allied landing forces and appeals to Italian forces to turn against their former allies.

Berlin announced that Italian troops had occupied the vital Brenner pass and, with announcement that some key communications were held by Italians "loyal to the Axis," intimated that the pass itself might be in friendly hands. Civilian railway traffic between the two countries was halted by the Germans.

Nazi Seize Dalmatia

Germany also swung quickly into action across the Adriatic, occupying the Dalmatian area of Yugoslavia's southwestern coast in an attempt to block any Allied invasion of the Balkans through that gateway. The seizure, the broadcast said, was carried out with the aid of Croat puppets.

Other German broadcasts acknowledged that Italian troops already had turned against the Germans in some parts of Italy, but claimed that the Italian internal situation was generally under German control.

Reports from the Balkans said that Italian divisions which have been used as occupation troops were being disarmed and replaced by German divisions.

Switzerland rushed reinforcements to her own frontiers today to await any eventuality, and dispatches to Madrid said the Swiss had mobilized about four-fifths of their frontier forces.

A dispatch to the Bern newspaper Der Bund said strong Italian formations were drawn up within a few miles of German troops in northern Italy and near Venice.

Allies Move North

Allied forces which landed on the Tyrrhenian coastline were reported in Bern to be moving northward with an advance guard of Italian troops.

Milan, Turin and other northern Italian industrial cities were said to be completely under Italian control, with German troops leaving those places.

Clashes between German and Italian troops were reported to have taken place at Genoa, Tortona, Certosa and Pavia.

The island of Corsica, in the northern Tyrrhenian sea and possible sprinboard to an Allied invasion of northern Italy or southern France, was reported from Madrid to be in Italian hands although there had been rumors all morning that the Germans planned an aerial assault on the island.

Other reports said that an Allied fleet lay off Corsica today ready for any action, and that Allied planes were already landing on Corsican bases.

The reports reaching Madrid did not disclose the fate of the few Germans known to have been on Corsica, or those on Sardinia at the time of the Italian surrender. German planes have been using airports on Sardinia for attacks on Allied forces in the Mediterranean.

Hitler Transfers Forces

Underlying the wave of contradictory reports were clear indications that Hitler was hastily redistributing his depleted forces across the length and breadth of the continent.

The mounting threats to his security included the rapidly-progressing advance of the American and British invasion forces; the smashing Red army gains in the east; resurgent guerrilla armies throughout the conquered lands; and, in last night's rehearsal invasion by the British in the channel, the threat of still another Allied thrust from the west.

It is problematical how much of a fight the Germans could really put up along the Po river in face of the massive Allied power streaming into Italy in spite of the Nazis' reported determination to fight there to the last man.

Germany's strength in Italy has been estimated at about 300,000 men—roughly 18 divisions—but a military commentator in London said only half that number had been concentrated behind the Po.

Swift Reinforcement

Indications that these forces were being feverishingly reinforced were seen in Madrid dispatches telling of a great column of military traffic flowing into Italy from Germany and southeastern France.

The recall of large contingents of Nazi occupation troops from Norway also was reported. The Germans will rely, these reports said, chiefly upon coastal batteries to head off any Allied invasion thrust across the North sea.

It appeared possible that the first big battle on the Italian mainland would be fought in the Naples area where Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's American forces made their predawn landing today.

With the Germans reported massing forces there, it appeared that the next few hours would be critical.

Berlin Is Reported Determined To Make Stand in North Italy

SEP 10 1943

Germans Said to Have Seized Strategic Points, Say Italians Hold Brenner Pass; Clashes Between Ex-Axis Partners Are Reported

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Fuehrer Adolf Hitler was reported today to have called a hurried war conference at which it was decided to reinforce the River Po line in Italy for a strong fight there.

Apparently determined to make Italy a battlefield despite her capitulation, Germany moved swiftly to seize important communication centers and strategic points to offset gains already made by Allied landing forces and Allied appeals to Italian forces to turn against their former partners.

Berlin announced that Italian troops had occupied the Brenner Pass on Tuesday and, with announcement that some essential communications were held by Italians "loyal to the Axis," intimated that the pass itself might be in friendly hands. Civilian railway traffic between the two countries was halted by the Germans.

Other German broadcasts acknowledged that Italian troops already had turned against the Germans in some parts of Italy, but asserted that the Italian internal situation was generally under German control. Stockholm said the Germans described Italian resistance to being disarmed as "harassing actions."

A dispatch to the Bern newspaper "Der Bund" said strong Italian formations were drawn up within a few miles of German troops in northern Italy and near Venice.

Allied forces which landed on western Italy's Tyrrhenian coast line were reported, according to Bern, to be moving northward with an advance guard of Italian troops.

Milan, Turin and other northern Italian industrial cities were said to be completely under Italian control, with German troops leaving those places.

Clashes between German and Italian troops were reported to have taken place at Genoa, Tortona, Certosa and Pavia.

[A United Press dispatch from Stockholm said reports reaching there from the Italian-Swiss frontier told of Italian warships patrolling the Gulf of Genoa with British vessels. Genoa itself was said in these reports to be in German hands, with German tank units being sent as reinforcements. Another report to Stockholm said Allied naval units had entered the Adriatic Sea.

[Stockholm heard that street fighting was going on at many points in Italy between Italian and German troops. The reports said Verona and Brescia also were in German hands, but that the Italians controlled Milan, Turin and Venice and were preparing to counter expected German attacks. The Italians were said to have driven out the Nazis at Tortona after street clashes.]

A German military spokesman announced that "north and central Italy have been occupied by German troops," a Berlin broadcast said. "In so far as the occupation had not been carried out already it has now been done. In most towns of Italy the armed forces allowed those forces to be disarmed (by Germans) without offering resistance," declared the broadcast, still quoting the Nazi military spokesman.

1943

Berlin Radio Reports German Occupation of North, Central Italy

'Fight to Last Man' in Po Region Reported Ordered by Hitler

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—A German military spokesman announced today that "North and Central Italy have been occupied by German troops," a Berlin broadcast said today.

"In so far as the occupation had not been carried out already it has now been done. In most towns of Italy the armed forces allowed those forces to be disarmed (by Germans) without offering resistance," declared the broadcast, still quoting the Nazi military spokesman.

At the same time, the spokesman declared Allied troops which landed Tuesday on the Gulf of Eufemia, north of Palmi, had been enveloped by German troops and "their annihilation was imminent Wednesday evening."

Hitler War Council Reported.

Reuters reported from Stockholm that Adolf Hitler had held a war council today at which it was decided to reinforce the German Po line in Northern Italy and fight to the last man.

Meanwhile, the German radio is issuing a stream of orders, apparently for the purpose of confusing the Italians and contradicting earlier steps taken by the surrendering Badoglio regime in Italy.

One Berlin broadcast said a new "Italian Fascist government" set up by the Germans in Germany had issued orders to Italian ships to remain in continental ports and that the "air force would bomb ships which sail for North Africa," as was ordered by Marshal Badoglio yesterday.

A second announcement from the Berlin radio said a military spokesman declared that "conformably with an agreement with the Italian army in Greece, Italian troops, after surrendering heavy material, will withdraw to the coast and there await further instructions from the German high command."

(Another Nazi-controlled radio in Norway said Nazi and Croat puppet police units occupied the Italian legation and consulate in Zagreb, Croatia, last night after disarming all Italian forces in the city and arresting Italian personalities, United States Government monitors reported.)

"In Name of Mussolini."

Another Reuters dispatch from Stockholm indicated the Italian peace was having repercussions in Germany itself. The dispatch said blackshirted elite guards were patrolling the streets of Berlin and that Swedish correspondents reported an atmosphere of tension prevailed in the city.

In announcing formation of a "national Fascist government," the German radio said this was done in the name of Mussolini.

Facing 18 Nazi Divisions.

This announcement over the Berlin radio foreshadowed bloody fighting for control of Italy between the Allied armies which landed far up the coast at Naples during the night, and 18 belligerent German divisions believed to be garrisoned in the northern and northwestern sectors of the country.

In his broadcast to the Italian people announcing creation of the new "government which stands and acts in Mussolini's name," the Berlin commentator cried:

"Soldiers! Do not obey the false orders of treason. Refuse to surrender to the enemy. Refuse to fight against your German comrades in arms. Those who can, continue to fight at their side. Let the others reach their homes and await orders, which will be promptly given.

"From shame and suffering, let us make Italy emerge untainted and powerful. The Italian National Fascist government will inexorably punish the traitors, the men who are solely responsible for defeat."

Accused of Treachery.

Berlin correspondents of neutral Swedish newspapers reflected the nervousness with which the Germans apparently received the news of Italy's surrender. A Berlin spokesman was quoted as saying the capitulation failed to catch the German government by surprise, but that Italy was guilty of treachery "of a kind one seldom sees in history."

Dispatches to Swedish newspapers quoted other Nazi spokesmen as declaring, "the German government took its steps to secure victory for Germany and its allies and the world will see on Thursday that Germany expected the collapse of Italy."

These spokesmen, however, gave no further enlightenment as to what moves Germany is expected to

---

Dalmatian Coast Seized

Germany also swung quickly into action across the Adriatic, occupying the Dalmation area of Yugoslavia's southwestern coast in an attempt to block any Allied invasion of the Balkans through that gateway. The seizure, the broadcast said, was carried out with the aid of Croat puppet troops.

Reports from the Balkans said that Italian divisions which have been used as occupation troops were being disarmed and replaced by German divisions.

The Berlin radio said a military spokesman declared that "conformably with an agreement with the Italian Army in Greece, Italian troops, after surrendering heavy material, will withdraw to the coast and there await further instructions from the German high command."

[Another Nazi-controlled radio in Norway said Nazi and Croat puppet police units occupied the Italian Legation and Consulate in Zagreb, Croatia, Wednesday night after disarming all Italian forces in the city and arresting leading Italian personalities, American government monitors reported.]

The Island of Corsica, in the northern Tyrrhenian Sea and possible springboard for an Allied invasion of northern Italy or southern France, was reported by Madrid to be in Italian hands, although there had been rumors that Germans planned an aerial assault on the island.

Other reports said that an Allied fleet lay off Corsica today, ready for any action and that Allied planes were already landing on Corsican bases.

The reports reaching Madrid did not disclose the fate of the few Germans known to have been on Corsica, or those on Sardinia at the time of the Italian surrender. German planes have been using airports on Sardinia for attacks on Allied forces in the Mediterranean.

Underlying the wave of contradictory reports were clear indications that Hitler was hastily redistributing his depleted forces across the Continent. Germany's strength in Italy has been estimated at about 300,000 men—roughly eighteen divisions—but a military commentator in London said only half that number had been concentrated behind the Po.

Indications that these forces were being hastily reinforced were seen in Madrid dispatches telling of a great column of military traffic flowing into Italy from Germany and southeastern France.

The recall of large contingents of Nazi occupation troops from Norway also was reported.

[The Rome radio was silent for four hours Thursday morning, the Federal Communications Commission reported. Swiss reports said telephone and telegraphic communications from Italy had been cut off.]

Earlier today, while declaring that the Germans had control of all north and central Italy, the Berlin radio quoted a military spokesman to the effect that under the terms of a "comfortable" agreement the Italian Army in Greece, after surrendering heavy material, will withdraw to the coast and there await further instructions from the German High Command.

London, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—The Germans announced tonight that Italian troops, presumably friendly to Germany, "occupied the Brenner Pass" on Tuesday—one day before the announcement of Italy's unconditional surrender to the Allies—and acknowledged that Italian troops have been fighting the Nazis in some parts of Italy. SEP 10 1943

In a broadcast restating and emphasizing the Nazi line that Italy's surrender was treacherous, the International Information Bureau, a German official propaganda agency, made these disclosures while claiming that the internal situation in Italy was still generally in German control. The most important lines of communication are in the hands of the Germans or of "Italian troops loyal to the Axis," Berlin said in the broadcast, which was recorded by the Associated Press. This was an indirect claim that Premier Badoglio's orders to the Italian armed forces not to resist the Allies any further were not in all cases being obeyed.

In some places (in Italy) instigated Italian detachments are attempting to harass the German troops," the information bureau declared, adding that as far back as the end of July an Italian commanding general issued a "shooting order" against the Germans, which was, however, not carried out by the Italian officers under him.

DNB Tells of Resistance Too.

Instances of "local resistance" to German demands that the Italians lay down their arms were reported by DNB, the German official news agency, in a dispatch broadcast by Berlin and picked up here by Reuters. Resistance had been broken, however, DNB said.

The first instance of the disarming of Italian troops in the Balkans also was recounted by DNB, which said that the Italian forces in Belgrade turned in their arms without incident.

[An unconfirmed Spanish report from the Swiss frontier declared that three German divisions stationed in the Verona and Trentino districts of northern Italy were pulled back into Germany through the Brenner Pass yesterday, the Associated Press said in a dispatch from Madrid.]

Meanwhile Reuters reported from Stockholm that Adolf Hitler had held a war council today at which it was decided to reinforce the German Po line in northern Italy and fight to the last man.

At the same time the German radio began issuing a stream of orders, apparently for the purpose of confusing the Italians and contradicting earlier steps taken by the surrendering regime in Italy. Berlin even announced that a new "Italian Fascist government" set up in Germany had issued orders to Italian ships to remain in continental ports and that the "air force would bomb ships which sail for North Africa," as they had been ordered to do by Marshal Badoglio yesterday.

All day long today German radios broadcast in Italian numbers of proclamations from this "new Fascist government" in Berlin, calling on Italian airmen and sailors to disregard the orders of "Traitor Badoglio" and the "ridiculous instructions" of the Allies. One broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said that the German Air Force had been ordered to "sink or attack" Italian vessels attempting to join the Allies.

'Most Pure and Beloved.'

Italian seamen were ordered to "maintain the most cordial contact with the German forces, who have taken part with us in the defense of our homes, our families, our honor."

Another broadcast said, "Airmen of Italy: What Traitor Badaglio and the enemy general would like to impose on you today is the most monstrous insolence which can be addressed to you. The thought that the Italian Air Force, the most pure and beloved creation of Mussolini, which always lived in a flaming atmosphere of revolution from which it reached the highest goals in peace as well as in wartime, may today lay down its arms or even fight against the German Allies, is so naive and perfidious that it is worthy of those who wove the criminal plan."

The flyers were instructed to remain in touch with the National Fascist government, collaborate with the German Allied forces, refuse the use of Italian airfields to the Allies and destroy all installations that might otherwise fall in "the hands of the enemy."

Appeals to Troops.

In his broadcast announcing the creation of the new "government in Mussolini's name," the Berlin commentator cried:

"Soldiers! Do not obey the false orders of treason. Refuse to surrender to the enemy. Refuse to fight against your German comrades in arms. Those who can, continue to fight at their side. Let the others reach their homes and await orders, which will be promptly given.

"From shame and suffering, let us make Italy emerge untainted and powerful. The Italian national Fascist Government will inexorably punish the traitors, the men who are solely responsible for defeat."

Repercussions in Germany.

On the other hand a Reuters dispatch from Stockholm indicated that the Italian surrender was having severe repercussions in Germany. The dispatch said that blackshirted Elite Guards were patrolling the streets of Berlin and that Swedish correspondents reported an atmosphere of tension prevailed in the city.

It certainly threw into confusion the entire German position in the Balkans, and Hitler's whole ramshackle political structure there seemed in danger today of falling to pieces even before the Germans are driven from Italy.

Dispatches to London newspapers told of Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary, anxiously summoning his chief of staff and promising a "most important declaration" later on; of heightened fears and restiveness in already fearful Rumania and the shakiness of Bulgaria, now minus her pro-Axis King Boris.

Berlin correspondents of neutral Swedish newspapers reflected the nervousness with which the Germans apparently received the news of Italy's surrender. A Berlin spokesman was quoted as saying that Italy had been guilty of treachery "of a kind one seldom sees in history."

Another spokesman bitterly attacked King Victor Emmanuel and his Government, the Swedish correspondents reported. He recalled that "this is the second time under King Victor Emmanuel that Italy has stabbed Germany in the back."

30. 24- 8227

make.

In accusing Italy of treachery, a German spokesman bitterly attacked King Victor Emmanuel and his government, the Swedish correspondents reported. He recalled that "this is the second time under King Victor Emmanuel that Italy has stabbed Germany in the back." And as late as 5 p.m. yesterday, the spokesmen said, the chief of the Italian general staff had declared that Allied broadcasts announcing the surrender were "only enemy propaganda."

Nazi Consulate in Milan Guarded.

The Italians themselves greeted the news of the surrender with demonstrations of joy, Associated Press dispatches from Bern, Switzerland, reported. A cordon of troops was placed around the German consulate in Milan in anticipation of anti-Nazi outbreaks.

The Berlin radio said telephone connections between Rome and Berlin had been halted by Italian exchanges.

The United Nations radio station at Algiers made prompt use of Premier Badoglio's armistice proclamation by rebroadcasting in all Italian programs a recording of his voice reading the message over the Rome radio.

The fact that the Germans could not prevent Badoglio from announcing the capitulation to his people and the refusal of Rome to permit telephone conversations to Axis countries showed his government was still in full control of the situation in Rome.

Nazis Denounce King And Marshal Badoglio

SEP 1 0 1943

London, Sept. 9 (AP)—Nazi propagandists turned suddenly and viciously against Italy's civil and military leaders today in an apparent effort to divert German thought from the grave potentialities of Italian capitulation.

Deposed Italian Fascists, attacked a few weeks ago when Mussolini fell as incompetent, now were being courted again.

Thousands of words streamed from the Berlin radio registering accusations and anger.

Charged With Treachery

King Vittorio Emanuele III, Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Gen. Mario Roatta, chief of the Italian general staff, and "certain political cliques" were charged variously with treachery, incompetence and cowardice.

These broadcasts, recorded by the Associated Press, were in much the same vein that Reichsminister Paul Joseph Goebells' staff members used six weeks ago, but then it was to denounce "the failure of Fascism" after the resignation of Mussolini.

Goebbels' "One Sin"

The effort to set up a fresh whipping boy coincided with publication in the propaganda organ Das Reich of a Goebbels article which told the German people:

"There is only one sin we can commit at present, namely that of cowardice. He who avoids decision will one day have to capitulate. He who gets weak in the knees should at least hide his weakness to prevent his state of mind from affecting other people."

A Transocean dispatch said German suspicion that treachery was afoot developed after a frontier meeting between Joachim von Ribbentrop, Nazi Foreign Minister, and Raffaele Guariglia, Italian Foreign Minister, Badoglio's representative, four weeks ago.

Badoglio Assailed

"From the very beginning of the new regime he (Badoglio) opposed a German offer to send reinforcements for assistance of Italian defense at particularly threatened points of the Italian mainland," Transocean said. "He said the Italian army insisted on defending the fatherland themselves at those danger points.

"What actually happened was that General Roatta sent Italian reinforcements to northern Italy instead of to the south."

Expressing sympathy for Italian soldiers and people, the Berlin radio said "the fate of the compromised Italian dynasty is a matter in which Germany is not interested."

"The danger of Italian civil war now has become acute," it said.

DNB declared Mussolini was kidnapped after his visit with the King July 25, when the King told him he was to be replaced by Badoglio, this to imply that the Government shakeup itself involved internal treachery.

NAZIS IN ITALY CALLED DOOMED

DAILY EXPRESS SEP 10 1943

London Observers Say Foe Can't Hold in North.

London, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—Bottled up in northern Italy and harassed by a vengeful population, the German Army's 300,000 occupation troops in Italy stand little chance of successfully resisting Allied forces which were reported from neutral quarters to be landing today all along the shin of the Italian boot.

That is the prevailing military opinion in London where it was almost unanimously forecast that the Allied Mediterranean forces will roll back the Germans to the very gates of the fatherland and proceed to the reduction of the southeastern outer bastian of the European fortress in the Balkans.

Amid jubilation over the greatest of Anglo - American military victories there can be no doubt, however, that the Germans, with whom Allied military forces have already made contact in the Naples area, would try desperately to stall off defeat.

Serious doubt was expressed in London that with German shortages of troops, supplies and transport the German army would be able to undertake any more than a delaying action on the Po River line.

Fate Deemed Sealed.

Surrounded by a hostile population and dependent on the narrow Alpine passes for all supplies and reinforcements, the Germans sooner or later will have to rest content with guarding the passes and little more, predicted Lieut.-Gen. H. G. Martin, military correspondent of the Daily Telegraph.

Brigadier E. C. Anstey, military correspondent of the Daily Sketch, said that Germans now south of the Po should have no reasonable chance of escape at all.

German forces concentrated north of the Po are estimated in London to include roughly half of the eighteen divisions in Italy. The remaining forces are scattered all down the length of Italy to the toe, where some are engaged in fighting the British Eighth Army north of Palmi.

Predicting a delaying action along the Po, the Daily Express said that at least thirty divisions would be needed to hold this line and that the Germans would not be able to concentrate that number without seriously weakening their forces elsewhere.

Defense Line Estimated.

The Daily Herald said that once northern Italy was cleared— or perhaps even before then—the most likely plan would be an Allied sweep into the Balkans.

Gen. Martin suggested that as soon as the heel of Italy has been cleared, an invasion of Albania or the whole coast of Yugoslavia becomes a feasible proposition. The Balkans, he found, are ripe for invasion.

He forecast that the Germans would withdraw to a line running along the northern border of Italy across the gulf of Venice and along the Sava river to the Danube and on to the Black Sea —a line guarding the European crossroads of Vienna and Budapest.

Great Allied Air Armada May Soon Reach Italy

SEP 10 1943

Military Commentators in London Foresee Early Decision in Drive to Berlin.

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE

LONDON, Sept. 9—(AP) General Eisenhower's smash into the Naples area was of such scope and pace tonight as to foreshadow the landing soon of a great Allied air armada to aid ground troops produce a reasonably early decision on the Italian pathway to Berlin.

This was the view of military commentators here, nearly all of whom went so far as to predict a disaster for Germany's 300,000 troops should they try to hold the Po river line in northern Italy, as they are reported to have decided to do.

Ignoring the oft-repeated theme of two years past that Germany had the advantage of fighting from within a circle, these commentators' confident expressions on the battle of Italy boiled down to one elementary belief—they just don't think Germany has the power.

That is, the power to hold effectively the Allied tide on any one front at the expense of the multiple sectors in which Adolf Hitler's fortress is menaced.

Vulnerable Point

Italy, they say, certainly is a vulnerable front for the Germans despite all of Berlin's boasting that the Po river line would be made impregnable. Aside from the fact that the same thing was said by Berlin regarding the Italian mainland before the invasion of that "impregnable wall" began, there are these factors to consider about Italy:

1—The Germans are not going to get any more help out of Italy with false-faced "new Fascist regimes." They are in for trouble from now on there. A people as harassed and as embittered toward the Germans as are the Italians will become an effective force even if they don't follow to the letter the Allied instructions to sabotage German communications and actually take up arms against the Germans.

2—The German Air force is declining. That was made clear in Gen. George C. Marshall's biennial report. How can the German Air force stand up against the Allies in Italy when they were unable to do so in Sicily and North Africa?

Planes Needed in East

The former German argument, parrotted by Benito Mussolini's Fascists before they were kicked out, was that German planes were needed more on the Russian front, in western France and the homeland. Those fronts still have priority call on the depleted German air strength in view of continuing Russian successes, Allied invasion rehearsals along the English channel, and mounting blows on Germany herself.

Holding the Po river line, the argument here runs, would not keep the Allies from bombing Germany from the south. They've already done that from as far away as North Africa. They can do it heavily from central Italy as well as the Lombardy plains north of the Po river. Even bigger American bombers with greater range and bomb load are on the way, Gen. H. H. Arnold, commander of the American air forces, has promised.

Other Military Factors

Even conceding a successful German stand on the Po, there are other military factors that must weigh heavily on the Nazi high command. Once central and southern Italy are overcome—before the Po is reached—there is nothing to prevent new Allied landings on the German Balkan and French flanks. That is, nothing but badly-strained [illegible] lines and battered German defense lines and battered railways and rolling stock which some military men say will produce the first big crack in Germany's own war machine.

Political factors are another explosive matter. Some believe Hungary, Bulgaria and Rumania may crack soon now that Italy has stepped to the sidelines.

GREATEST DAY RAID BATTERS NORTH FRANCE

Record Air Assault by U.S. and British Linked to West Invasion.

NOT ONE PLANE IS LOST

Berlin Says Paris Is Hit—Biggest Landing Drill Is Held in Channel.

SEP 10 1943

London, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—With Allied forces swarming into the heart of fallen Italy, the greatest formations of American and British bombers ever hurled across the channel by daylight pounded today at enemy ports and airfields in northern France, carrying into the eighth consecutive day a terrific aerial offensive which may form the final prelude to invasion from the west.

The unprecedented assault, launched in conjunction with the largest invasion exercises ever seen in the channel, climaxed eighteen hours of steady pounding of Adolf Hitler's Atlantic fortifications during which not a single Allied plane was downed by German air units charged with defending Europe against the long-awaited Allied push.

Enemy naval vessels and coast artillery were among the prime targets of the vast bombardment accompanying the invasion rehearsal which kept the French coastline alight all night with bomb bursts and anti-aircraft fire and rattled windows this morning six miles inland from the English shore.

"It was like the battle of Britain the other way around," said a resident on the Dover-Folkestone road.

Paris is Reported Bombed.

The huge combined operations workout started rumors that the invasion of France finally was under way, despite an early communique announcing that the maneuvers were only exercises.

American Flying Fortresses and Thunderbolt fighters spearheaded the widespread daylight attacks. The first announcements from United States headquarters and the British Air Ministry said that American heavy bombers and Royal Air Force fighter-bombers struck at airfields and other targets in northern France while fighter squadrons patroled the channel and swept over France—all with remarkably little opposition.

American and British medium and light bombers started off the intensified attack late yesterday, sowing devastation around Boulogne. An authoritative announcement said that Marauders of the United States Eighth Air Force hit the same targets in daylight today.

The Berlin radio quoted the German news agency DNB as saying that Paris was the target of at least a portion of the huge bomber fleet which headed for Europe early today. The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said that the attack was made on the northwestern part of Paris by both American and British planes.

A German communique, broadcast by Berlin, declared that eleven Allied planes were shot down.

Dispatches from Folkestone said that the great burst of daylight activity started shortly before 7 A. M. and that during the first hour alone hundreds of Marauders, Venturas, Mitchells and other bombers roared out across the coast in packed formations.

Almost simultaneously observers on the high cliffs between Dover and Folkstone heard the air raid warning sounding clearly in Dover, but so far as could be learned not one German plane appeared on the British side of the channel or even offered opposition to the bombers and their fighter escort.

1943

The paucity of enemy aircraft testified to the thoroughness of the Allies' seven-day preliminary campaign against German operational bases in France and indicated the enemy's wariness to match his declining air strength against the Allies' mounting superiority.

English coastal residents who went through the Battle of Britain and subsequent Allied forays said they never saw such a big fleet over a such a short time as the procession of hundreds of planes which started over soon after dawn and still was being augmented two hours later.

Explosions, reverberating across narrow Dover Strait, rocked buildings on the English shore as the great fleet of aircraft of all categories carried the Allied aerial offensive into its eighth successive day. The daylight assaults followed a night bombardment of targets in occupied territory by R. A. F. planes.

There seemed to be no limit to the number of planes leaving England. They appeared in groups of fifty to sixty, flying low and fast, and headed for France.

Many bomber squadrons headed for their targets just over the French coastline without escort —an indication of the high efficiency of the recent raids on more than thirty of the Axis fields, which were believed to have knocked out much of the German fighter force.

But if the Allied raiders were meeting with little or no opposition in today's sorties it was merely compensation for yesterday's effort when Allied raids on fields in occupied France touched off what was described as one of the biggest dog fights of the war.

Polish Fighters Win Victory.

The attacks yesterday by United States Marauders on Lille-Vendeville and Lille-Nord and by R. A. F. Mitchells on Vitry-en-Artois were covered by the largest Spitfire fighting force ever to take the air. At one time more than ninety Nazi fighters rose to meet the attackers, and a Polish Spitfire unit with the American Marauders shot down six enemy planes and damaged many more.

The German flying field at Mardyck, near Dunkirk, took its third pounding in a week yesterday, this time from R. A. F. Typhoons. It was attacked last Thursday by American Flying Fortresses and again on Sunday by R. A. F. Typhoons.

Yesterday's choice of targets indicated that the Allied air forces were embarked on a systematic program to stamp out Nazi fighter nests one by one. Lille-Vendeville was attacked August 31, and since that time the Allies have rained destruction on about thirty other fields. Yesterday's return to Lille-Vendeville indicated that they had run through the list and were starting out at the top of the batting order again.

RECORD AIR RAIDS BATTER FRANCE

SEP 10 1943

Vast Sweeps Accompany Cross-Channel Invasion Maneuver.

LONDON, Sept. 9. — (AP) In crashing synchronization with the new Allied landings in Italy, record fleets of American and British aircraft battered Nazi ports and airfields in northern France today and in day-long operations also formed an umbrella for naval and landing craft that filled the Straits of Dover in an unprecedented dress rehearsal of a cross-channel invasion.

Under cover of the mightiest daylight air fleet ever lofted from the British Isles, combined operations launched naval vessels, landing barges and all other manner of invasion craft in the biggest and boldest exercises of the kind ever held.

A night communique, issued jointly by the Air ministry and U. S. Army headquarters summarizing the day's operations against the continent, said American planes flew a record number of more than 1,000 sorties to hit multiple targets, including the Paris area where, it was announced Flying Fortresses downed 15 enemy fighters.

Five French Airfields Hit

Subsequently an Air ministry communique announced that R.A.F. medium and light bombers had attacked five airfields in France and Belgium and shot down one of the few enemy fighters encountered.

Two fighters lost on these operations raised to ten the announced total of Allied losses for the day—two heavy bombers, three medium bombers and five fighters.

In their record operations, the American raiders blasted targets in nine areas of northern France. Chief target of the Fortresses in the Paris area was an airplane engine factory. Among Nazi airfields hit by the Americans were those at Lille-Vendeville, Beauvais-Lille and Vitry-Artois.

The channel invasion show—mock today; perhaps reality very soon—climaxed the eighth consecutive day of terrific aerial offensive which may form the final prelude to assault upon Europe from the west. It was accompanied by far-flung operations whose reverberations rocked buildings six miles inland in England.

So tremendous was the muscle-flexing demonstration, carried on under the noses of Nazi coastal defenses, that many British coastal dwellers were convinced the invasion of France was actually under way.

Valuable Lessons Learned

But a terse official summary said only: "Full-scale amphibious exercises were x x x most successful. Valuable lessons were learned."

And as remarkable as the maneuvers was the almost utter absence of resistance by the dwindling German airforce to the aerial coastal onslaught. Allied bombers, many unescorted, droned through the skies unopposed, not one falling to Nazi air units charged with defending the western gastion of Hitler's Europe.

The daylight operations, which began shortly after 7 a. m., followed night bombardment of occupied territory by R.A.F. planes.

"It was like the battle of Britain the other way around," said a resident of the Dover-Folkestone road in describing the terrific pre-rehearsal bombing which kept the French coastline alight all night with bomb bursts and anti-aircraft fire. Enemy naval vessels and coast artillery were the prime targets of this bombardment.

Then with the dawn U. S. Flying Fortresses and R.A.F. fighter-bombers struck at more airfields and other targets in northern France. Then followed Thunderbolts and Spitfires—to patrol the channel skies and make sweeps in northern France as the advance of the umbrella.

Hundreds of Other Planes

Next rose hundreds of other planes as combined operations put out its amphibious fleet that choked the channel with impunity under the shadow of Nazi coastal guns.

For the Army and Navy it was an exercise, but for the Air forces it was a real and lethal climax to a week-long hammering of critical Nazi airfields and railroads on the continent, preliminary not only to today's channel rehearsal but to the approaching decisive struggle for mastery of the continent.

The paucity of enemy aircraft testified to the thoroughness of the Allies' seven-day preliminary campaign against Nazi operational bases in France and indicated the enemy's timidity to match his waning air strength against the Allies' mounting superiority.

RUSSIANS TIGHTEN VISE ON BRYANSK IN SWIFT DRIVE

SEP 10 1943

Fall of Bakhmach Broadens Whole Offensive Front Close to Dneiper.

300 VILLAGES TAKEN

Soviet Airmen Continually Pound German Retreat Road.

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 10—(AP) Russian armies have stormed into Bakhmach, key railroad junction on the road to Kiev, squeezed a menacing vise on Bryansk and dashed within 60 miles of the Dnieper river in a swift advance from the liberated Donets basin in the south, Moscow reported today.

More than 300 towns and villages were captured and more than 4,100 Germans were killed in the day's victories that saw the Soviet armies push into the town of Nedrigailov, 20 miles east of Romni, and capture Lyudinovo, 45 miles north of Bryansk.

The Moscow communique, recorded here by the Soviet monitor, told of Soviet aircraft ceaselessly pounding the German retreat road, destroying 18 locomotives which hauled back German troops and material while 80 trucks and several railway bridges were pounded from the air. More than 20 planes were destroyed or burned in one airdrome.

A German radio report, meanwhile, told of a new Russian threat in the south. It said Soviet troops made landings along the Sea of Azov coast south of Stalino, which would be in the vicinity of Mariupol. The Germans said the beachhead was "sealed off" and the Russians were "facing annihilation."

80 Miles in Two Days

Even without the landings, the Soviet troops have driven 80 miles in two days as Nazi resistance appeared to be collapsing in this sector. Petrovka, 30 miles southwest of Stalino and 44 miles northwest of Mariupol, was taken yesterday, the Soviet communique said, and a total of 180 populated places was captured in advances up to 10 miles.

A B.B.C. broadcast reported Russian patrols 31 miles from Pavlograd which is 40 miles east of Dnieperopetrovsk.

These advances in South Russia mean increasing peril for the German garrisons in the Crimea.

With the capture of Bakhmach and Nedrygailov, the Soviet forces were moving toward Priluki, 80 miles east of Kiev, and Nezhin is 75 miles from this major base. A general Soviet advance of six miles took 80 hamlets in this area, the communique said.

Moving on Bryansk from the north and south, the Red army captured 40 villages.

Nazi Defenses Split

The victory at Bakhmach, announced by Marshal Stalin in a triumphant order of the day to Gen. Constantin Rokossovsky, virtually split the German central and southern defenses in Russia.

Bakhmach is 15 miles west of Konotop and 110 miles northeast of Kiev. Troops which captured Borzna yesterday are less than 100 miles from Kiev, capital of the Ukraine and fourth city of Russia. Bakhmach is a junction for the Moscow-Kiev railway and another leading from Gomel in White Russia to Kremenchug on the Dnieper.

The city was taken by storm after a bitter two-day battle. The order was broadcast by the Moscow radio and recorded here by the Soviet monitor.

Marshal Stalin in his communication spoke of Bakhmach as "a decisive strongpoint in the Kiev direction," the first time the Russians officially had mentioned Kiev in connection with the north Ukraine drive and apparently indicating that they expect soon to carry the Germans back to that distant citadel on the banks of the middle Dnieper.

Only a few days ago in announcing the fall of Konotop the Russians mentioned "the Bakhmach direction."

Offensive Front Broadened

The victory broadened the whole offensive front. In addition virtually to splitting the German central and southern defenses, it cut one of the last lateral railways short of the Pripet marshes. The city had been flanked to the northwest in a Russian sweep that has been averaging close to 10 miles a day for a week and a half.

Marshal Stalin ordered Moscow's 124 victory cannon to thunder salutes of 12 salvoes to the forces of General Rokossovsky, which he warmly praised. The divisions which stormed Bakhmach were given the name of the town.

"For the excellent execution of these operations, I thank all troops under your command," Marshal Stalin's order told General Rokossovsky, "eternal glory to the heroes who have fallen in fighting for the freedom and independence of our country. Death to the German invaders."

Moscow advices said troops in the northern Ukraine had reached the Desna river on a broad front between Borzna and Shostka and were consolidating their hold to facilitate later crossings to the west bank. The Desna flows into the Dnieper just north of Kiev.

Drive From Stalino

Farther south, the Russians driving from Stalino already were eighty miles northwest of that recaptured steel center.

The German communique, broadcast from Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press, said the Russians "are throwing fresh forces into the battle" in the Donets basin. Several Soviet attacks south and west of Kharkov were declared repulsed. Russian attacks mounted by strong forces west of Kirov, on the distant approaches to Smolensk, also were reported by the Germans.

Russian forces in the northern Ukraine were much farther west than those striking from the Donets basin. The first fall rains have fallen in the north, however, and may soon bog down the forward drive in mud. In the south, the normal expectancy is for several more weeks of dry weather.

THE NEW YORK SUN, FR

REDS CAPTURE KEY RAIL TOWN IN THE UKRAINE

Bakhmach on Kiev Route Seized and Stalin Gives Special Recognition.

NAZIS FLEE TOWARD DNIEPER

Russians Gain on a 600-mile Front and Imperil Foe's Right Flank in South.

SEP 10 1943

London, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—Gen. Constantine Rokossovsky's swift-striking central front army stormed and captured the rail junction town of Bakhmach, key to the German communications and supply system in the Northern Ukraine and outer bastion on the route to Kiev, Premier Stalin announced tonight in a triumphant order of the day.

This broadened the whole offensive front along which parallel columns of Gen. Rokossovsky and Gen. Nikolai Vatutin have smashed to within a little over 100 miles of Kiev and the middle Dnieper River, cutting the last lateral rail lines short of the Pripet marshes and virtually splitting the Germans' central and southern defenses.

Bakhmach, fifteen miles beyond Konotop on the main rail line to Kiev, already had been flanked to the northwest in an advance which cut the railway to Gomel. The Russian advance has been averaging close to ten miles per day for a week and a half.

Premier Stalin's order, broadcast by the Moscow radio and recorded here by the Soviet Monitor, included a tribute to Gen. Rokossovsky's forces for the capture of Konotop last Monday on the way west to Bakhmach.

By order of Marshal Stalin, the city of Moscow—familiar with the thunder of artillery salutes to its victorious armies in the great summer offensive—echoed again tonight to twelve salvoes from 124 guns.

30.24— 8229

Italian and Donets Battles Well Timed, Pravda Says

SEP 10 1943

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Pravda, Communist party organ, was quoted in a Moscow broadcast as saying today that "it was not accidental that Italy should fall at the same time as the brilliant victory of the Red Army in the Donets Basin."

Declaring that the Red Army had disrupted Hitler's plans for a summer offensive and had killed off the best of Italy's divisions fighting on the eastern front, Pravda said that "blows struck at the Hitlerite army at Orel and Belgorod knocked Mussolini from his perch."

Without referring directly to repeated Russian requests for an Allied invasion of Western Europe to draw off some of the German divisions fighting on the Russian front, Pravda said:

"Now as never before favorable conditions have been created for the armed forces of the Allied powers to deal a blow on the common enemy, Hitlerite Germany. * * * The Soviet people are confident that the hour of complete victory over the enemy is approaching."

INVASION DRILL OFF DOVER MEETS NO NAZI ATTACKS

SEP 10 1943

Fleet of Barges Sails, Many Planes Support Move; No Boats Damaged.

By JOHN F. CHESTER

LONDON, Sept. 9—(AP) From a cliff high above the English channel I watched the British Army, Navy and Air force, aided by heavy units of the American Air force, sail out toward France today in an invasion rehearsal, and then return with hardly a gesture of opposition from the once-mighty German sky armada.

Squadron after squadron of R.A.F. planes returned with "no report," meaning that they had not sighted a single German fighter.

A group of nearly 40 men climbed Abbots bluff between Dover and Folkestone this morning just as the sun was rising, and from that cliff, nearly 500 feet high, we could see far out across the misty channel.

By 7 a. m. big fleet invasion barges swept out into the channel, guarded by naval forces, and although we could see hardly a single Spitfire we know the barges were covered behind the clouds by a huge umbrella of British fighter planes.

Intense Air Activity

The next hour was filled with intense air activity. Formation after formation of medium and light bombers—Mitchells, Bostons, Venturas, Whirlwinds and Typhoons—some of them manned by American crews, swept overhead, and a short while later a series of rumbling heavy explosions reverberated through the mists covering the coast of France.

The explosions were so heavy that the ground atop the cliff actually shook and from the sounds of gunfire we could guess the bombers were being met by heavy German anti-aircraft bursts.

The Air ministry said later that two bombers were lost.

The heaviest explosions came from the direction of Boulogne. Returning pilots reported they had blasted coastal gun emplacements, damaged bridges, and left the harbor almost a solid sheet of oil.

As an invasion show it was slightly disappointing. The sun was bright, the clouds fleecy, and it was pleasant to lie in the tall grass watching the planes roar by. But nothing happened.

Valuable Maneuver

However, as a maneuver, and it was strictly that and not an invasion attempt, both the war office and Air ministry described it as "most successful and valuable."

There was considerable speculation as to whether the Germans simply had lacked the planes to come out and fight, whether the mists on the airports kept them grounded, or whether they took a chance that this was not "the real thing," and ignored it.

But the fact remains that the combined operations went through without a single attack on a single boat.

The size of the operation can be seen in the fact that in yesterday's preliminaries and today's "show" Allied planes flew 2,000 fighter sorties and 1,000 bomber sorties with losses given by the Air ministry as seven planes.

British Rehearse Invasion Plans With All Arms

SEP 10 1943

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—In a full-dress rehearsal of invasion plans for the future all arms of the British services have completed a giant amphibious exercise in the English Channel, it was announced today.

A brief communique issued jointly by the Admiralty, the War Office and the Air Ministry said:

"A full-scale amphibious exercise has recently taken place in the English Channel. It has been most successful and valuable lessons have been learned by the service and civil authorities concerned."

TINY ARCTIC ISLE RAIDED BY NAZIS

SEP 10 1943

Spitsbergen Attacked by Naval Units, Marines, Says Berlin Radio.

LONDON, Sept. 9. — (AP) The Berlin radio said tonight that German naval units and Marines had made a heavy attack Wednesday on the Arctic island of Spitsbergen, inflicted casualties on the holding forces and captured prisoners.

Implying that the Allies had established a substantial base on Spitsbergen, the broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said that radio and meteorological installations and munitions and fuel supplies were wrecked.

German losses were described as small, despite "violent resistance from the military garrison."

(British naval sources here said they were unable to comment on the German account of the operation.)

The object of their raid, the Germans said, was the destruction of military establishments observed by their aerial reconnaissance which were "of particular importance to enemy air and sea forces in the northern sea."

Ports Were Target

Also objects of the raiders, the broadcast said, were coal mines and ports.

Spitsbergen is about 600 miles east of Greenland and consists of a group of islands about 660 miles from the North Pole.

Allied troops raided the islands exactly two years ago today and removed 1,000 Norwegian miners, destroyed coal and oil reservoirs and rescued Russian and French prisoners of the Germans.

Whether they left an occupational force was never brought out officially, but there were unconfirmed reports in London in April, 1942, that a German force had landed there.

British naval sources in London made no comment.

Spitsbergen has little strategic importance, giving rise to the theory that the Germans were seeking some means of distracting attention from the fall of Italy.

The islands, about 400 miles north of Norway, were awarded to that country in 1919 and coal mines were developed. Early in the war the Germans established a meteorological station there.

GALEAZZI REPORTED ON WAY TO LONDON

SEP 10 1943

LONDON, Sept. 9. — (AP) A plane with Italian markings, escorted by American-manned Spitfires, was seen in the skies over a British airdrome today after earlier Lisbon reports said that Enrico Galeazzi, governor of Vatican City, had left there for Britain.

A Vatican radio broadcast tonight denied a report in the Italian newspaper Il Popolo di Roma which said that Galeazzi was enroute to the United States, taking important documents for safekeeping.

"The journey of Signor Galeazzi had nothing but ordinary church administrative aims," the Vatican radio said.

The station also denied the newspaper's report that Pope Pius XII had a 50-minute telephone conversation with President Roosevelt Sept. 4 in which they discussed "certain misunderstandings which had arisen between the Holy See and the Anglo-Saxon powers in the last few days since the Pope's latest message."

In his broadcast Sept. 1, the Pope had called for a just peace.

ITALIAN CAPTIVES WANT TO GO HOME

London, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—"When do we go home?"

That was the question some 40,000 Italian prisoners of war at work in England's harvest fields asked today. At the same time the Ministry of Agriculture confessed itself apprehensive of a labor shortage.

"We have heavy potato and sugar beet harvests to lift and even now we are calling for volunteers to work through September and October to save the crops," it stated. "The situation is really serious."

The Italian prisoners had made up some of the shortage, especially by serving as harvest hands, and if they are now drained out of the fields and from other work it may cause a further stringency in the labor supply, necessitating a new call-up of English men and women. The prisoners work on a voluntary basis under the Geneva Convention and are paid for their work.

72,000 TO GO FREE

SEP 10 1943

London, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—Italy's surrender is expected to mean freedom for approximately 2,000 Americans and 70,000 British and Canadian troops and civilians now held as Italian prisoners of war.

"It can be assumed that the unconditional surrender accepted by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower took into account the immediate release of all prisoners of war and that they will reach Allied hands as soon as conditions allow," the British War Office said today.

High British officers held in Italy include Air Marshal O. T. Boyd and Major-Gen. Carton Dewiart.

Associated Press War correspondents Larry Allen and Godfrey H. P. Anderson also are prisoners.

Italy's 3 Ace Warships Reported Fleeing Base

SEP 10 1943

LONDON, Sept. 10 (Friday) (AP).—"The London Daily Mail" said todty that Italy's most powerful warships—three 35,000-ton battleships, the Littorio, Vittorio Veneto and Impero—had escaped with a fleet of cruisers and destroyers from the Spezia naval base and were now on the way to Allied ports. Other London morning newspapers carried the same report, quoting the Rome radio.

The "Mail's" account of the escape said there were indications that British warships were providing protection as the Italian ships steamed swiftly down the Italian west coast.

ALLIED CRUISER SUNK NEAR NAPLES, SAY NAZIS

SEP 10 1943

LONDON, Sept. 9 — (AP) The German International Information bureau said tonight that German Air forces had attacked an Allied flotilla of landing barges in the Gulf of Salerno, south of Naples, and had sunk one cruiser.

The report, broadcast by Berlin radio and recorded by the Associated Press, was without confirmation by any Allied source.

BOMBS FALL ON ROME FROM MYSTERY PLANE

SEP 10 1943

LONDON, Sept. 9—(AP) The Italian radio reported tonight that an unidentified plane had bombed Rome, which the Allies have not attacked since the massive Fortress raid on Aug. 13 and led the Italians to declare the capital an open city.

The report, credited to Stefani news agency, said an alert was sounded in Rome and several bombs were dropped.

London, Friday, Sept. 10 (AP). A Reuter dispatch from Stockholm quoted the Italian newspaper Corriere Della Sera as saying that Benito Mussolini, deposed Fascist Duce, had already been delivered to the Allies and transported to North Africa.

ITALY'S BERLIN EMBASSY SEIZED BY GERMANS

SEP 10 1943

LONDON, Sept. 9—(AP) Radio France at Algiers said tonight that the Italian embassy in Berlin had been taken over by police and that all Italian residents in the German capital had been put in preventive detention.

The Rome radio said, meanwhile, that a special train was placed at the dispcsal of the German Embassy and the legations of Croatia and Slovakia in Rome for those who wished to leave the Italian capital.

(Swiss broadcasts reported earlier that all rail, telephone and telegraphic communications between Germany and Italy had been cut off, and a Berlin broadcast announced that the border between the two former Axis partners had been closed to civilians traveling by train.)

Reported in Safekeeping.

London, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—The Swedish newspaper Dagens Nyheter published a dispatch from its Zurich correspondent today which said that Benito Mussolini has been removed from Italy to the island of La Maddalena, off the northern coast of Sardinia, to prevent any attempt to rescue him.

London, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—Reuters reported today that the Italian News Agency Stefani, in a Rome broadcast, quoted the newspaper "Il Popolo Di Roma" as saying Pope Pius XII had a 50-minute telephone conversation with President Roosevelt on September 4.

The broadcast said it was believed they discussed "certain misunderstandings which had arisen between the Holy See and the Anglo-Saxon powers in the last few days since the Pope's latest message.

In his broadcast on September 1, the Pope called for a just peace to end the war in its fifth year.

A Lisbon dispatch last night said Enrico Galeazzi, Governor of Vatican City, left Lisbon by airplane last night for England on a mission the nature of which was not disclosed.

Say Eisenhower Saw Badoglio.

London, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—London morning newspapers today quoted an Algiers radio report that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower flew to the Italian mainland Sunday and met Marshal Pietro Badoglio for final discussions on Italy's surrender.

London, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—The Italian news agency Stefani said today that Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring, commander of German air forces in Italy, escaped "only by a miracle" when a bomb hit his house during the Allied raid yesterday on Nazi headquarters in Frascati near Rome. The broadcast was heard by Reuters.

Iran Reported Declaring War Against Germany

Supply Corridor to Russia Has Army of 120,000

LONDON, Sept. 9 (AP).—Reuters reported from Teheran tonight that Iran, which for many months has permitted the Allies to use its territory in sending supplies to Russia, has declared war on Germany.

The country has 12,000,000 inhabitants and, according to latest available figures, a standing army of 120,000, including 32,000 officers.

Formerly known as Persia, Iran has an air force equipped with modern planes, many of them made in Britain. At last reports its navy consisted of two sloops armed with four-inch guns, five patrol vessels with three-inch guns and several tugs and motor patrol boats for service in the Persian Gulf. It also has an imperial yacht and motor patrol boats in the Caspian Sea.

Its neighbor, Irak, was the first Arab nation to declare war against the Axis—on Jan. 16, 1943.

FRENCH-SWISS BORDER CLOSED BY GERMANS

LONDON, Sept. 9—(AP) The Germans closed the French-Swiss frontier today even as Switzerland rushed troop reinforcements to all her borders.

The Germans posted additional troops along the French border and ordered that all persons seeking to cross must have Nazi visas.

There was no explanation for the German action, but it may have been taken to conceal troop movements or possible disturbances in France. The Swiss move came as tension between Germany and Italy reached a climax.

United Kingdom-Africa Flight Taes 16 Hours

London, Sept. 9 (AP)—A Liberator of the RAF transport command made the first passenger flight from the United Kingdom to Bathurst, British West Africa, yesterday, covering the 3,150 miles nonstop in 15 hours, 58 minues, the Air Ministry news service announced tonight.

Passengers included Viscount Swinton, Cabinet Minister resident in British West Africa, and Colonial Minister Colonel Oliver Stanley.

London Subways Underground

LONDON (AP)—Between 8,000 and 10,000 people still sleep in the London subways every night.

Most of them are from the poorer classes whose homes were bombed and who have been living as underground squatters ever since the blitz nearly three years ago.

During the height of the air raids on London the subway tunnels offered protection to as many as 140,000 at a time, and a night alert still sends an average of 2,000 to 3,000 additional persons there for shelter.

The permanent "residents" use double-deck steel bunks which remain in many of the larger subway stations. Some of them have fashioned cozy little bedrooms within ter feet of the tracks and the noise of the crowds and roaring trains does not seem to affect their sleep.

They drape curtains and blankets over the sides to shut out the light and dress and undress in all the privacy of a pullman berth. Some of the bunks are equipped with mirrors, clothes hooks and portable reading lights.

EVACUATE AUSTRIAN CITIES

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 10.—(AP) The Daily Express quoted a Swiss frontier report today as saying that Berlin had officially announced that the great cities of southern Germany and Austria would be evacuated as soon as possible. They include Vienna, Munich, Augsburg, Graz and Stuttgart.

British Destroyer Lost

London, Sept. 9 (AP)—The loss of the British destroyer Puckeridge was announced tonight by the Admiralty, which did not say whether the vessel was sunk by enemy action nor when and where the loss occurred.

Anthony Eden Works In Suit That Shines At Knees and Elbows

By the Associated Press.

LONDON.—Benito Mussolini's fall was a personal triumph for the tall, slender man in a shiny blue suit who holds Great Britain's second biggest wartime job.

The man, Anthony Eden, is familiar— but not the suit, which is often his working garb as Britain's Foreign Minister and leader of the House of Commons. The suit (unlikely attire for the fashion plate he was once supposed to be), the man and his job make up the personality most likely to succeed Winston Churchill as Prime Minister.

"Anthony Eden," said one of his friends recently, "is one of those rare men who decided to make a stand on principle and was vindicated 100 per cent."

Millions of Britons shared his principle of not appeasing the dictators and the political miracle of his vindication made him their messiah.

Led Forces of Democracy.

Eight years ago this summer Eden led the forces of democracy in their effort at the League of Nations to impose economic sanctions on Italy for its attack on Ethiopia. Public revulsion against the Hoare-Laval treaty which would have given British and French consent to the Italian conquest of Ethiopia swept 38-year-old Anthony Eden into the Foreign Office as Britain's youngest Foreign Secretary in 40 years.

His distaste for administering Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's appeasement policy became more obvious and finally, on February 22, 1938, he walked out of the government. He did not return to the cabinet until Britain had taken up arms.

Before the House convenes at 11 a.m. Mr. Eden usually has done half a day's work at the Foreign Office. Just before 11 he walks bareheaded from his office to the House.

"Sartorially, the news about Mr. Eden today is that he has no hat," said one of his assistants. "Rather, he has one for more formal occasions, but he rarely wears it." (Although he set an international style five years ago with a black homburg.)

Dislikes Speechmaking.

When not at the foreign office or in the House, Mr. Eden may be engaged in the proceedings of any of several government committees on which he serves. Or he may be making a speech—the task he detests most. His voice is as slender as his form, his delivery unspectacular, his platform manner retiring, although he is engagingly talkative in private.

It is the results he gets, not the speeches he makes, that have lifted him to the top in public estimation. Mr. Churchill places great reliance on him, and has put him forward more prominently than any other potential successor. As a member of the inner policy-making war cabinet, Mr. Eden served intimately with the Prime Minister in deciding the closely interwoven military strategy and diplomatic policy.

Although a Conservative, Mr. Eden is regarded as a progressive one, often more popular with the Labor party than with his own. When he resigned from the government in 1938, it was the Laborites who introduced a motion of censure against the government for its conduct of foreign affairs.

Met With Hitler.

When Mr. Eden and Sir John Simon went to Berlin 10 years ago on a fruitless disarmament mission, Hitler as usual delivered a two-hour harangue to his guests, expecting them to sit respectfully at attention and refrain from smoking.

In the middle of the harangue, Eden, who has learned German from a grammar while shaving, stretched his long legs, relaxed against the back of his chair, and yawned. But Mr. Eden's policy has gone beyond denouncing Mussolini and yawning at Hitler. It is based on what the Foreign Office calls the "four cornerstones of freedom," Great Britain, the United States, Russia and China.

Mr. Eden's talks with Stalin were, he said, the most exhaustive ever attempted between two nations. Out of them came the British-Soviet 20-year mutual assistance treaty. Still more exhaustive were his later talks with Secretary Hull and President Roosevelt, which were intended to accomplish in diplomacy what Mr. Churchill's trips had done in military strategy.

Long Friendly With Russia.

His attitude toward Russia, well-formed even before the war, was that ideological differences should not be allowed to interfere with amicable relations between that country and his. With the United States, he proposed to strengthen Britain's traditional bond of friendship on the basis of mutual self-interest—not on the less solid foundation of mutual language, culture and inheritance.

The British, though, don't understand the American myth that Eden succeeded the former Prince of Wales as a world fashion plate. His clothes are tasteful and well tailored by renowned British craftsman—nothing more. He simply has a figure that carries them well.

"And he never makes an ungraceful move," one friend said, adding, "I should not think he had bought a suit in years." The blue suit he often wears to work is shiny, not only at the seat, but at the elbows and knees.

GERMANS STRIVE TO OFFSET FALL OF ITALIAN ALLY

COLBURN

Puppet Regime Is Created; Troops Withdrawn from Norway.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 9—(AP) The Germans strove mightily by political as well as military action today to repair the damage caused by the bombshell thrown into their Mediterranean arrangements by Italy's divorce from the war.

They set up a puppet Italian regime to lure Italians from Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio and the attractive promises of peace with appeals to save the 'honor of Italy,' but they admitted by implication that political and military events had taken a highly confusing turn, so much so that instances of "local resistance" by Italian troops to German forces had occurred.

Italians here regarded the new government as little more than a "comic opera" regime, which would gain few followers.

Berlin emitted a stream of radio proclamations and "orders" from the new government set up to carry on where Mussolini left off.

One instructed Italian naval commanders and ship captains to disregard Premier Badoglio's orders to flee to North African or other Allied ports, and threatened that such ships as obeyed Premier Badoglio's instructions would be bombed.

Seek Army Reorganization

Another declared that steps had been taken to form Italian volunteer units to join the German army and serve as the "nucleus of a reorganized Italian army."

Italians said that the new puppet government probably would be headed by Roberto Farinacci, former Fascist party secretary, and that its seat probably would be in Turin.

Other reports indicated that Premier Badoglio's military leaders were firmly established at Turin and Milan in northern Italy, however, and that the German-sponsored Italian government might have to find its seat in Germany.

As part of the front put up by the Germans, it was claimed that Italian troops—friendly to Germany—had occupied the Brenner pass, vital connecting link between Italy and Germany, on the day before Italy's unconditional surrender was announced.

Harassing Operations

Nevertheless, it was admitted that at some places Italian troops had taken to "harassing actions" against the German forces in Italy and that in some cases where the Germans attempted to disarm the Italians there had been clashes. Dispatches from Bern, in fact, said an Italian vanguard was leading Allied troops northward from their beachheads near Naples.

Germany appeared to have been left virtually alone amid her wavering Axis satellites and the oppressed millions of Europe by the capitulation of Italy.

Hungarians here predicted that their country's leaders, long reported seeking a way out of the war, would withdraw now from the alliance with Germany. They pointed out that Italy's action in breaking the Axis bloc freed Hungary as a signatory of the tripartite pact.

The Finns, also trying in recent months to free themselves of the German grip, watched Italy's action as a pattern for getting Nazi forces out of their country.

Nazis Thin Norwegian Ranks

From Norway came new signs that the German high command was thinning the ranks of the Scandinavian garrison to get badly needed men to combat Allied offensives in the east and south.

In Berlin, a German military spokesman told neutral correspondents that the evacuation of Stalino in the Donets basin was a result of the shifting of reserves to other European battle zones.

No longer can German forces afford to hold east front lines for the sake of prestige, he said.

Most men taken from Norway were from ski and mountaineer detachments, it was learned, and these, it was presumed, were intended for action in the Alps or the Balkan mountains.

Tanks, armored cars and guns from inland fortifications in Norway, it was reported, also were being transferred to Germany where there would be less risk of losing valuable military equipment.

Balkan Invasion Path Open

Swedish press comment noted that the Allied foehold in Italy opened the door to a Balkan invasion through guerrilla-torn Albania, Yugoslavia and Greece and leaderless Bulgaria.

Along with stories from London telling of the severe pummeling of Nazi airfields in France by Allied bombers, Swedish newspapers printed reports from Germany that Nazi military chieftains expect the next big battle to be fought where the Allies will not be able to utilize their skill in amphibious warfare. These dispatches gave no other hint of the location of the probable battleground, but said the Germans held a 'healthy respect" for British-American landing operations.

Nazi officials made it clear that hundreds of thousands of Italians would be kept in Germany to work, by force if necessary.

But a German military spokesman insisted the upset would not "save Italy from being a battleground for a long time" and indicated that Adolf Hitler had made up his mind to make a determined fight in Italy.

They declared strong troop contingents, mainly Austrian, had been sent to Italy recently.

What the Nazis Plan.

Stockholm, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—The Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm Aftonbladet said today that he was told by a German Government spokesman that the Italian surrender "cannot save Italy from being a battleground for a long time."

The correspondent added: "There is every sign that Adolf Hitler intends to continue the fight on Italian ground and it is no secret that strong German troop contingents, mainly Austrians have been sent to Italy in the last few days.

He also reported the establishment in Berlin of a Quisling Fascist government, probably under the direction of the former Fascist party Secretary, Roberto Farinacci. This "government," the correspondent said, was busily engaged in issuing proclamations to the Italian people in an effort to win them over from Marshal Badoglio.

Germany has secured her military positions in Rome and other large Italian cities as well as airdromes and ports, the correspondent quoted the Germans as saying. The Germans, however, also are counting on the Quisling Fascist government, in which they have confidence because the men have long been associated with Berlin and believe they may be able to take over the lead.

30. 24— 8231

Berlin officials emphasized to the Swedish correspondents that the hundreds of thousands of Italian workers in Germany would remain at their jobs, implying that they would be kept there by force if necessary.

Despite an outward show of confidence that Italy's surrender had been anticipated, German army leaders predicted that war developments would reach a climax within the next four weeks.

NAZIS BRAND BADOGLIO THUG

SEP 10 1943

Stockholm, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio, in the view of the German press, has joined the ranks of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Joseph Stalin as a gangster."

The Nazi press and official spokesmen today began hurling at Italy all the abuse heretofore reserved for the United States, Britain and Russia. Paul Joseph Goebbels, German propaganda chief did not call Nazi editors together for a conference, but simply gave them the signal to cut loose.

NAZIS DRAW PLANS FOR MONUMENTS

SEP 10 1943

Stockholm, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—The Germans have notified the Swedish stone industry to halt the quarrying of granite which they had ordered for the post-war construction of German victory monuments and official Nazi buildings.

An enormous contract for the stone was issued at the beginning of the war. Huge blocks of red, black and grey granite have been stored in Sweden pending delivery to the Nazis.

Signs on the blocks of stone read: "Property of the Building Inspector-General of the Reich Capital of Berlin."

guard of Italian troops, reports from the Italian frontier said.

Milan, Turin and other industrial centers of northern Italy were said to be completely in the hands of Italian military authorities, with German soldiers leaving those places.

A Swiss telegraphic agency dispatch from Chiasso on the Swiss-Italian border said today that German and Italian troops were fighting in the streets of Tortona, between Genoa and Milan, while reports of grave incidents in northern Italy increased.

At Voghera, south of Milan, the Germans were said to have disarmed Italian troops guarding a bridge. The Germans also were reported to have occupied the Tessin Bridge near Voghera, guarding it with machine-guns and light artillery.

There were reports of fighting between German and Italian troops near Pavia, between Milan and Voghera, and Certosa, to the east. Tension between the former allies was said to be increasing hourly.

workers in Germany who were besieging the police bureaus in great numbers.

Italian officers and soldiers in Vienna sought refuge in the Italian consulate, this dispatch added, while from Geneva it was reported that a number of Italian soldiers had crossed into Switzerland and were interned.

A dispatch to the Bern newspaper Der Bund said strong Italian formations were drawn up within a few miles of German troops in the region of the Etsch River in the Trentino district of Northern Italy and near Venice.

This newspaper added that all German consulates, travel agencies and business establishments in Italy were being guarded by Italian troops.

Switzerland Rushes Troops To Frontier

SEP 10 1943

By the Associated Press.

BERN, Sept. 9.—Switzerland in the heart of German-held Europe rushed troop reinforcements to her frontiers today to await any eventuality as press reports here said tension between Germany and Italy was fast approaching a climax.

All Swiss newspapers published a Federal Council order reinforcing frontier units.

(The Berlin radio, in a Bern dispatch recorded by the Associated Press, said the Federal Council had mobilized the special frontier troops and they were moving into positions on the Swiss border.)

A German frontier report to the Gazette de Lausanne, meanwhile, said Nazi police were refusing exit visas since last Tuesday to Italian

Federal Council order reinforcing frontier units.

[The Berlin radio in a Bern dispatch said the Federal Council had mobilized the special frontier troops and they were moving into positions on the Swiss border.]

A German frontier report to the "Gazette de Lausanne" said Nazi police since Tuesday had been refusing exit visas to Italian workers in Germany, who were besieging the police bureaus in great numbers.

Italian officers and soldiers in Vienna sought refuge in the Italian consulate, this dispatch added, while from Geneva it was reported that a number of Italian soldiers had crossed into Switzerland and were interned.

IN ITALIAN PRESS

SEP 10 1943

Berne, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—Italian newspapers today carried enormous headlines on Italy's quitting the war. Corriere Della Sera of Milan devoted its entire front page to the caption, "Armistice. Hostilities ceased between Italy, England, United States."

In an editorial the paper said the day brought "profound sadness even if the first moment of the end of the war, which was not popular, gave a feeling of liberation."

The newspaper said the news of the armistice, received at Milan when thousands were beginning their nightly flight from the city for fear of bombings, at first was not believed. There were no big demonstrations, the paper added, but there were vast gatherings of people who were "moved but not joyful."

Swiss Manning Frontiers With Special Troop Units

SEP 10 1943

Government on Alert as German-Italian Tension Mounts

BERN, Sept. 9 (AP).—Switzerland rushed troop reinforcements to her frontiers today to await any eventuality as published press reports here said tension between Germany and Italy was fast approaching a climax.

All Swiss newspapers published a

Riviera Rail Lines Reported Sabotaged

Madrid, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—A French report, said today rail lines along the Riviera had been sabotaged at several points and that German reinforcements from Bordeaux, Toulouse and Avignon were moving into the Riviera by all possible routes to strengthen its garrisons.

The Riviera forms a bottleneck for the withdrawal or reinforcement of German troops in the Po Valley of Italy.

Pavelic Reported Packed Up.

Madrid, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—The Italian embassy in Madrid indicated clearly today that the Roberto Farinacci puppet regime set up by Germany would get little support from the Italians. A spokesman said that the embassy here remained under orders of the Badoglio Government and had no communication with Farinacci.

One curious development was the reaction of the Croats here. A Croat diplomat told a friend that under present circumstances the Nazi puppet regimes of Croatia and Yugoslavia would "fall to pieces at the first news of an Allied landing in the Balkans." Ante Pavelic, the puppet Premier of Croatia, was reported packing his bags ready to leave the kingless kingdom.

Fall Of Italy Played Down In Spanish Press

SEP 10 1943

Madrid, Sept. 9 (AP)—The Spanish press printed the announcement of Italy's surrender today, but found it of less interest than a visit by Generalissimo Francisco Franco to a youth camp a speech by the Falange party secretary.

The newspaper Arriba found room for the capitulation well down toward the bottom of a page.

BRITISH REPORTED LANDING AT LA SPEZIA

SEP 10 1943

MADRID, Friday, Sept. 10—(AP) Unconfirmed reports reaching here from Switzerland today said that British troops, under the protection of U. S. naval forces, had landed at La Spezia on the Italian northwest coast.

(La Spezia, about 75 miles southeast of Genoa, is the site of an important Italian naval base. There was no confirmation from any Allied source of the reported landings there.)

4 U.S. Warships Pass Gibraltar

MADRID, Sept. 9 (AP).—Dispatches from La Linea today reported that four American destroyers had passed through the Strait of Gibraltar last night and continued eastward into the Mediterranean at top speed after a brief exchange of signals with Gibraltar. The only large warship in harbor at Gibraltar last night, the dispatches said, was an American battleship of the Texas class.

Hears Firing on French Coast

SEP 10 1943

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Sept. 9 (AP).—Sounds of heavy firing apparently coming from a point off the French coast were heard late last night in this town on the Bay of Biscay near the French frontier. The noise stirred speculation that Allied warships might be exchanging fire with German coastal batteries.

EISENHOWER CALLS FOR HOME RUNS

By CLARK LEE,

Representing the Combined American Press. Distributed by the Associated Press

With Gen. Eisenhower at an Advanced Allied Command Post, Sept. 9.—"We are playing in the big leagues. You can't hit a home run by bunting. You have to step up there and take your cut at the ball."

In those words Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower explained why the Allies decided upon an all-out invasion of Italy rather than attacking other "stepping stones" such as Sardinia, Corsica or Crete.

Gen. Eisenhower told me on the eve of the invasion:

"The time has come to discontinue nibbling at islands and hit the Germans where it hurts. I don't believe in fighting battles to chase some one out of somewhere. Our object is to trap and smash the enemy."

would cause tremendous confusion in the German high command and not give them time to reorganize the beach defenses which mostly were manned by Italians.

The Nazis have massed extremely strong forces in Italy, undoubtedly, and will fight stubbornly. The German strength in Italy perhaps equals that assembled in any comparably sized section in Europe

Strong German Force Entrenched in North Italy

SEP 10 1943

Sector Is as Heavily Patrolled as Any of Same Size in Europe.

By CLARK LEE

Representing the combined American Press
(Distributed by the Associated Press)

WITH GENERAL EISENHOWER AT AN ADVANCED ALLIED COMMAND POST, Sept. 9 — The Anglo-American forces which landed in the Naples area this morning are expected to meet strong, skilfull and sustained German resistance, despite Italy's unconditional surrender.

Italy's collapse, however, is expected to facilitate the ultimate Allied victory.

Even the officers, who negotiated the armistice as representatives of General Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Allied commander, are not prepared to predict how far Italian military commanders will be able to enforce it, but they are certain it will complicate Germany's military operations, trying to defend Italy.

Essentially the armistice was granted Italy for one reason: We had nothing to lose and everything to gain by it, whereas the Germans are certain to be the losers, regardless of exactly how it works out.

Sabotage Helpful

The best possible thing, of course, would be for the Italians to turn their guns against the Germans, but, failing that, they can assist us greatly by hampering German rail, sea and highway transportation, by general strikes, sabotage and non-cooperation.

The armistice was announced nine hours before the invasion began to give time for word to spread to Italian beach defense units, who, it was hoped, would throw down their arms and not oppose the landing.

It was believed the announcement

Nazis Had No Tips

Authentic sources believe the Germans had no advance knowledge that the negotiations were underway or the armistice was signed, otherwise they probably would have seized Premier Marshal Badoglio and set up an Italian Quisling government in Rome.

For military reasons the terms of the armistice can't be published yet but it can be said that the Badoglio government saw its problem this way:

Regardless of whether Italy surrendered or continued to fight as Germany's ally it was certain to be invaded and its cities bombed either by us or the Nazis. Italy was caught in the middle and certain to suffer.

However, the Italian government was convinced Germany was certain to lose the war and therefore it was obviously better to surrender to us in the hope its suffering would be mitigated and the eventual peace terms would be less severe than otherwise.

All in all, it is felt that the surrender of Italy will greatly hamper the Germans and assist us but will not save us from a very hard fight against the Germans in Italy.

with most of these forces situated north of Naples. German resistance may be expected to be intensified as we move closer to Rome, which, if captured, offers flying fields from which our planes could bomb Germany.

ITALIANS HAIL BRITISH TOMMY

SEP 10 1943

Escort Lone Soldier Into

Berne, Switzerland, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—Allied forces which landed on the Tyrrhenian coastline (presumably in the Naples area), began moving northward with an advance

1943

Church at Palmi.

By DANIEL DE LUCE.

Associated Press correspondent Representing the combined American Press.

Palmi, Italy, Sept. 8 (Delayed) (A. P.).—In Palmi joyous citizens heard the news of the armistice tonight and took a lone British Tommy to their hearts.

Lance Corporal John Rennison of Liverpool was literally swamped by Italians hailing him as a representative of the Allied Powers with which they were at last at peace.

The armistice report first heard here was from a London broadcast. It spread like wildfire through the little town which after month-long air raids and a final naval shelling was occupied by the British Eighth Army last Monday.

People streamed down the hillside streets to the church of Santa Maria overlooking the beach. Bronze bells in the tower were tolled.

Townsfolk surrounded Corporal Rennison—the only Briton in sight—and escorted him into the church. Of Catholic faith, he was embraced by Carmelite Father Leopardi.

Special prayers were said as the sunset glow from the sea came through the broken windows and illuminated the altar and the image of the Holy Virgin.

An Italian woman who said that her son was killed in the war wept and clasped the young British soldier's hand.

"I didn't know what to say," Corporal Rennison remarked later. "I was just as glad as the Italians that we don't have to fight them any more."

Italians Feted Captives.

Italy, Sept. 7 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Two British soldiers who landed in Italy six days ahead of the British Eighth Army and received the promise of Italian troops not to fire on the invasion forces were liberated from prison today by civilian guards.

The soldiers are Lance Corporal Eric Hill of MacDuff, Banff, Scotland, who once patrolled a police beat near Buckingham Palace, and Gunner Harold Brook Hodgson of Bedford, Yorkshire, England, a former school teacher.

"If the Eighth Army's invasion had been delayed a couple of days longer we could have persuaded the Italians to surrender intact," they said. "As it was, any number of Italians wanted to cross the Messina Strait and give themselves up in Sicily. It seemed as if all of them were plotting to do that."

The two soldiers participated in a reconnaissance raid on the southern Calabrian coast the night of August 28, running afoul of a German truck convoy of infantry that forced the raiders to fight a battle on the beach in darkness and then scatter into the hills.

"We lost our portable wireless set in the beach scramble at Bova Marina," they said, "and in the hills we played hide-and-seek for five days with German and Italian patrols.

"At night we slipped down to the village wells to replenish our water, for the hills were bone dry. We must have been spotted by some shepherd, for on the afternoon of September 1, while both of us were asleep under bushes, we suddenly were awakened by a voice, and a number of hand grenades sailed over our heads. It was a typical bad aim for all the grenades burst too high to do us any damage, but fifteen Italian soldiers took us into custody."

The Britishers explained that their expedition previously had broken up into groups of two to three men in order to avoid detection.

"We've no idea what happened to the others," they continued, "but we were taken to town and the Italian troops and civilians practically feted us. The soldiers said, 'You can be sure we won't fire on any Englishmen who land in Italy.' The civilians told us they detested the Germans, whom they accused of looting their homes."

MAFIA SMASHED IN JOINT COUP

SEP 10 1943

N. Y. Racket Buster and Scotland Yard In on Kill.

By MICHAEL CHINIGO.

Representing the Combined American Press.

(Distributed by the Associated Press.)

With American Forces in Sicily, Sept. 9.—The Mafia, Sicilian extortionist gang, which Fascism tried for years to rub out and then incorporated as one of its own criminal appendages, has been smashed from the top.

Two of its notorious ringleaders, Domenico Tomaselli and Giuseppe Piraino, and seventeen district bosses were nabbed in a joint British-American coup in which even Scotland Yard had a hand.

All of them are safely behind bars and the responsible Allied authorities have enough leads on the other regional chiefs to insure their capture.

Mafia men already in the clinker and those on the way to joining them controlled the black market, which still has a stranglehold on Sicilian life. It follows, therefore, that breaking the Mafia gang means breaking the black market.

It is true also that within the secret society there are men who have fought Fascism. This small minority, genuinely interested in the future of Sicily, has been one of the first to denounce the activity of the others.

Like a Movie Thriller.

Operations which led to the first raid and roundup of these criminals followed the plot pattern of a movie thriller with Louis Bassi of Stockton, Cal., technician fifth grade, in the hero role.

Bassi, a clerk in a special staff section, insists it was fate and luck, but his officers concur that he did a really first-rate detective job.

A major who also had the distinction of helping Mike Fiaschetti bust the New York markets racket was drawn into the case from the food supply angle and was in on the kill.

The curtain on this real life drama of intrigue rose a few weeks back, when the Third Division, then on the Messina drive with the Forty-fifth Division, looked for a quiet inland town for its rear Echelon administration services and chose Castel D'Accia, directly inland from Trabia, which is roughly twenty-two miles from Palermo.

Making use of his Italian to gain the confidence of the man in the street, Technicial Bassie quickly discovered that the tiny hamlet, famous for the best Sicilian wine, was nothing more or less than the Mafia fortress.

He reported to his colonel, investigated by day and by night alone and reported again and again until he had accumulated enough evidence for an open and shut case against the racketeers.

BRITISH UNAWARE OF ITALY'S FALL IN PIZZO LANDING

SEP 10 1943

Troops Established Bridgehead, Checked Nazis Before Hearing News.

By DANIEL DELUCE

Representing the Combined American Press

SOUTH OF PIZZO, Italy, Sept. 8.—(Delayed)—(AP) Landing from the sea in the half-moon Bay of Pizzo and fighting throughout the day to consolidate their beachhead 17 miles behind the Axis front, the British Eighth army carried out the last offensive operation against the Italian army today not knowing the world was celebrating Italy's unconditional surrender.

While London and Washington were telling the world of the Italian capitulation, game companies of khaki-clad troops were having a hot fight against superior enemy forces and our dead lie now, in heroic sleep, beneath dusty blankets, for their comrades have not had time yet to dig their graves in alien soil.

Even now orange flashes stab the horizon where British warships are carrying bombardment of distant enemy coastal batteries.

Highest Courage

Today's amphibious attack, which gained Capes Vaticano and Cozzo and the prosperous towns of Mileto and Vibo Valentia, may seem in historical perspective to have been of military irrelevancy but it lived up to the highest standards of Commando courage.

The desperate German rearguard, fearful of being bottled up in the 17-mile stretch between Messina and Angitola rivers, nearly smashed the small Pizzo bridgehead before their counter-attack was broken up.

Three German motorized units struck at the British flank but a well-directed British grenade exploded inside the lead vehicle, killing all the occupants. The other armored cars stopped, withdrew and the entire German force behind them turned and dashed towards the interior.

The British Commandos continued inland but failed to contact the Germans again.

At one point 200 Italian officers and men, waving soiled white linen came out of a tunnel and surrendered.

Since the morning of the invasion of Italy, our party of four Allied war correspondents has tended to become rather blase about demonstrations of native good will, but this afternoon's greetings to our troops touched a new high in warmness.

Public Reaction in Brief

Previously, we agreed on the formula taken by the Italian public in reaction to the occupation:

"The first day, vivas and free wine; the second day, demands for food; the third day, boredom and requests for chocolate."

As we drove into Vibo Valentia, we still didn't know the war was ended with the Italian government, but the effusive displays of relief and affection by the farmers and townsfolk in Mileto, San Costatino and other minor settlements convinced us of the rising tide of Italian friendship as never before.

These people didn't know any more than we did that Italy was formally out of the war, but obviously they felt this fact in their hearts.

Mothers with infants nursing at their breasts; white-haired, toothless grand parents; young boys and girls seemed to go wild with joy at the sight of our troops.

Nephew of U. S. Banker

The Commandos started when a well-dressed civilian youth appeared from a farmyard waving a small American flag. He said he was Amadeo Alessandria and that he was the nephew of Amadeo Giannini, a California banking magnate.

(Poor's Register of directors and executives lists an Amadeo P. Giannini as chairman of the board and director of the Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association of San Francisco.)

"My two brothers live in San Francisco," the youth said. "I am an ally of America and Britain."

He insisted on accompanying a Commando patrol which was placed on guard along the southern approaches to Pizzo and which mined the road—just in case.

NAZI BASE IN ITALY DESTROYED IN RAID

BY U. S. AIRMEN

NORGAARD

Frascati, 12 Miles from Rome, Is Completely Demolished.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 9—(AP) Waves of Flying Fortresses of the Northwest African Airforce's strategic command dropped hundreds of tons of bombs yesterday on Frascati, 12 miles east of Rome, completely demolishing the German military headquarters in Italy there.

The returning pilots were greeted on their arrival at their bases by the news of the Italian surrender.

Coming over in three waves starting exactly at noon yesterday, the Fortresses were officially reported today to have left the town demolished and burning with a cloud of smoke billowing thousands of feet into the sky.

Yesterday was a day of widespread aerial activity, but the raid on Frascati shadowed all else.

The villas where the German officers of the general staff had been living and working got direct hits and returning pilots reported a thick pall of smoke soon hung over the whole area.

28 Nazi Planes Downed

The first wave of Fortresses took the enemy so completely by surprise that little or no fighter opposition was encountered.

Succeeding waves had it hot and heavy, but they gave a good account of themselves, shooting down 28 out of 50 interceptors that rose to meet them.

Going over in seven-minute waves, the Fortresses poured their high explosives on the town, where, an official statement said, "practically every building in the town was being used by the Germans."

The toll taken of enemy planes for the 24-hour period totaled 33, including a few of the fast-dwindling number of Italians fighters which were operating under the command of the Germans prior to Italy's surrender.

Four ME-109s out of 25 were shot down when the enemy tried to stave off an attack by American B-25 Mitchells which concentrated on bridges in the Trebisacce region of the east coast of the Italian toe.

The Mitchells scored hits squarely on the middle of the railway bridge and on both ends of the south bridge.

Strategic Highway Blasted

Another Mitchell formation bombed an important highway at Lauria near Sapri, encountering no interference, while American Marauders raided railroad and highway bridges at Sapri, meeting only weak anti-aircraft fire.

British Land at Eufemia

British Eighth army forces, meanwhile, moved ashore yesterday in the Gulf of Eufemia in an enflanking landing under a heavy Spitfire screen set up by the tactical branch of Lt. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz's Northwest African airforce. The patrolling planes, however, were not given an opportunity for air combat.

Patrolling railroads and highways ahead of Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's advancing forces United States, British, Australian and South African fighter-bombers damaged at least 24 trucks and two gun trailers.

Among the areas coming under the Allied aerial scourge were Vibo Valentia, Pizzo, Catanzaro and La Mezia.

The day's reported activities also included a sharp bombing of the dispersal area at the Pabillonis landing field on Sardinia by American P-40 Warhawks.

Rail Yard Hit

In other operations, R.A.F. Bostons raided the railroad yards at Metaponto and Benevento on the Gulf of Taranto; American Mitchells attacked the Pontenza railroad yards east of Salerno, and R. A.F. and Canadian Wellingtons made night attacks on rail targets at Battipaglia, Eboli, just east of Battipaglia, and Formia, northwest of Naples.

In addition to attacking the enemy's communications system, Allied planes swooped low over troop concentrations, strafing and bombing military installations.

Crews Learn of Surrender

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 9 (AP).—The crewmen of the Flying Fortresses which leveled the German military headquarters in Italy at Frascati returned to their bases to get the good news of the Italian surrender, it was learned today.

All of the crewmen were delighted on hearing the news, but one of the most heartfelt declarations came from Staff Sergeant Joseph Graziani, of Syracuse, aerial photographer on one of the Fortresses.

Graziani, whose parents were born in Italy, said: "It was really good news. I feel I did my part, even though I only handle a camera. I'm glad my relatives are out of the war now. They never did give a damn about the war. Maybe I can drop in on the folks now."

1943

30. 24- 8233

ITALY'S FALL POSES FRENCH PROBLEM

SEP 10 1943

Algiers, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—The French Committee of National Liberation hurriedly called a meeting today to discuss French problems in connection with Italy's capitulation.

The French expressed disappointment and some uneasiness over the fact that the official statement issued here said that the armistice terms were approved by the American, British and Russian governments but failed to mention France.

The committee is concerned over the fate of thousands of French war prisoners in Italy. If these are returned to France it is feared that the Germans will recapture them.

The Italians also are still theoretically occupying the Nice area of France, though the Germans are believed to have recently gone in there. The French, in turn, are occupying some Italian territory—the Fezzen region of southern Libya, conquered by the army of Brig.-Gen. Jacques Le Clerc on its march from Lake Chad to Tunisia early this year.

TALKS TO GUERRILLAS

Cairo, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, the Allied commander in chief in the Middle East, called upon all Italian garrisons in the Balkans last night to cease all hostile acts, and to surrender their equipment to the Allies, but warned the Greek and Yugoslav patriots against a premature uprising against the German forces of occupation.

In a special broadcast Gen. Wilson said that the Italian troops in the Balkans are "now obeying my, not German, orders."

"Their ships must be handed over to the United Nations, their aircraft must be flown to Allied airfields. They must not hand over their arms or equipment or defended points to the Germans," he warned them.

Greek Premier Sees End Of Fascist Systems

Cairo, Sept. 9 (AP)—Italy's collapse marks the beginning of the end of Fascist systems and of the war itself, Greek Premier Emmanuel Tsouderos declared in a statement today.

Greek circles here were cheered by the possibility of early landings in Crete as a consequence of the Italian surrender and expressed confident expectation that the liberation of Greece itself would be only a matter of a short time.

Yugoslavs here also are anticipating Allied landings in Yugoslavia from Italy.

Italian Army In Greece Ordered To Be Neutral

MCCAFFIN

General Vecchiarelli Tells Troops To "Have No Dealings With Americans, British Or Germans"

SEP 10 1943

[By the Associated Press]

Cairo, Sept. 9—Italian General Carlo Vecchiarelli told Italian garrisons in Greece via the Athens radio last night to "have no dealings with either the Germans, British or Americans," General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, Allied Middle Eastern commander, disclosed tonight.

Smiling grimly, General Wilson said: "He'll get nowhere with that policy. If the Italians persist in that policy, their food and all supplies can and will be cut off."

General Wilson had asked Italians in the Balkans to go home and surrender their arms to Allied soldiers, and others to "take possession by force of all fronts occupied by the Germans in the Dodecanese Islands." He made his broadcasts from here last night, and said Italian troops "are now obeying my, not German, orders."

First Reaction To Wilson's Order

Today Wilson told a press conference that Vecchiarelli's passive instructions were the first reaction to his own orders.

Wilson said the Italian general was tasting bitter fruits of the war since he was a representative on the Italian Armistice Commission which dealt with France after that nation collapsed in 1940.

Wilson said that no Italian aircraft or ships had arrived in Allied territories as yet to comply with his broadcast orders.

This, however, was not taken as an indication that the Italians were attempting to evade fulfillment of the armistice terms, the press conference was told by Richard Gardiner Casey, the Australian who is Minister of State in the Middle East.

Italians In Control In Athens

The impression prevailed in Cairo that things might move swiftly in the Balkans, where Italians are in considerable numbers. In Greece alone, it is estimated, there are between twenty and thirty Italian divisions.

There is a German commander in Athens, but Vecchiarelli outranks him. The fact that the Italian was able to make the broadcast was significant in that the Italians could control a broadcasting station when Germans were around.

Casey said all arrangements were made in the armistice terms for getting back British prisoners of war, numbering about 59,000. He said most of them were in northern Italy, from Pisa up.

As To Cirenaica's Future

Discussing the Italian colonies, Casey said the British military administration would continue until the peace conference, "although it may be possible to make greater use of the Italians in administering."

Continued on Page 2, Col. [illegible]

Political terms of the armistice are still to come, Casey said. In answer to a question on the possible fate of Cirenaica (eastern Libya), he recalled Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's pronouncement that the Senussi (a Moslem brotherhood scattered all over North Africa from Tripoli to Egypt) would never be allowed to come under Italian rule again.

Wilson said the Italian surrender, faithfully observed, would remove sixty-five divisions from the ranks of the enemy.

Turkey Sees New Developments

Istanbul, Sept. 9 (Delayed, A. P.). The Italian collapse was greeted with unofficial but unveiled enthusiasm in Turkey. There were predictions that the surrender of one Axis partner would be followed quickly by most important military developments in northern Europe as well as the south.

Yanks Adopt Iran Urchin

SEP 10 1943

By CLYDE A. FARNSWORTH

SOMEWHERE IN IRAN — This is Matthew.

He used to be Hassan, or Mohammed or Ali or something like that but now he's Matthew—Matthew J. Casey, about 10 years old, though no one knows his age for sure.

He used to sleep on the floor at the railroad station (if someone didn't boot him out) under an old piece of gunny-sacking which in his waking hours he used as a coat, but now he sleeps in a soldier's bunk, under a mosquito net.

The American soldier-railwayman used to call him a little yankahoola but now he calls them big yankahoolas.

He used to wear filthy rags but now they have been burned and he has a set of drastically cut down uniforms and he takes a shower four times a day, not to mention brushing his teeth morning and night.

He used to dog the heels of the Americans, whining for backsheesh, but now he has a slotted taffy can under his cot where he keeps his savings, and — noblesse oblige—he will dig down and lend a soldier a few tomans pending payday.

"No papa, no mama, no bungalow," he used to chant at the Americans, and he will still do so, on request, for a laugh. It's funny to hear Matthew burlesque his old calling.

So far as anyone knows, including Matthew, he has neither parents nor home (bungalow) — or rather, hadn't until he grinned his way into the hearts of the Americans. He has been unofficially adopted, his particular sponsors being Privates Jack Robinson, 26, of Lewiston, Mont., and Kenneth Charles Burke, 30, of 2823 Market Street,, St. Louis.

Inducted Properly

It was a great day when Matthew came to live at the camp. He was inducted with a haircut, a bath and the destruction of his old rags. He got a full broadside of the officers (with somewhat more style and dispatch than some of his foster parents), attends church when the chaplain comes to camp, and as part of his rudimentary English knows how to count to 100.

He earns his keep by taking his turn at KP, shining shoes and running errands. He seems to be a completely happy little boy, as smart as they come, an example of what a little kindness could do for a lot of people.

Robinson and Burke say they would like to legalize the adoption, jointly, and take him home with them when it comes time, but there are natural complications.

So they figure, sometime, to see if an American mission school at Teheran couldn't take over and finish the job on Matthew J. Casey.

Iran has need of all the Matthew J. Caseys she can find.

Win-Burma Drive Seen As Monsoon Abates

New Delphi, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—The first break in the stormy monsoon season in three months today enabled American medium bombers to blast at the Japanese-held rail link between Mandalay and Lashio, rail head of the Burma Road, a Tenth United States Air Force announcement said today.

The end of the rainy season, which ordinarily lasts from June into September, was expected to be the signal for a general Allied land and aerial offensive to recapture Burma and reopen the Burma Road, vital supply route to China.

In today's raid, bomb bursts were observed beneath the towering steel Gokteik viaduct, and three direct hits were scored on railway tracks at the southern approach.

"All crews returned safely," the announcement said.

2 Enemy Freighters Destroyed

WITH AMERICAN LIBERATOR BOMBERS OVER RANGOON, Sept. 6 (Delayed) (AP).—In the most successful raid ever made on Rangoon, a swarm of American Liberators today destroyed two large freighters totaling 8,000 to 10,000 tons, damaged a cargo vessel, sank several smaller craft and started many fires in the dock area.

VIANT

Then the big four-engined bombers beat off fifteen to twenty Japanese Zeros in a savage aerial battle that lasted almost fifty minutes. The Liberator gunners shot down at least five enemy fighters, probably destroyed nine and damaged one.

All the American planes returned safely.

Russians Claim Credit For Italy's Capitulation

CASSIDY

Italy's Best Divisions Annihilated on Eastern Front, Says Moscow Press.

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, Sept. 9 — (AP)—News of Italy's capitulation was received jubilantly in the Soviet Union, where it was attributed largely to the Red army's victories on the eastern front.

It was interpreted to mean that the way is now open for the early defeat of Germany. The broken Axis camp, said the government newspaper Izvestia, "is approaching its catastrophe."

The official Izvestia said in explaining the Italian surrender:

"It is because of defeats on the Soviet front in which all contingents of picked Italian troops were exterminated.

"The victory of the Red army gave our Allies the possible opportunity to land troops in Sicily."

Premier Mussolini appealed to Hitler on July 18 and 19 for arms, Izvestia said, but the Germans were tied up on the Orel and Belgorod fronts and were unable to spare them.

Determined Whole Drive

"Events on the Soviet-German front," said Izvestia, "determined the whole international situation x x x. Every blow of the Red army makes all the links of the Hitlerite chain shake."

The government organ estimated that Italy during three years of war lost more than a million of her best troops, most of them on the Don, Voronezh and northern Donets fronts.

The official Russian press had reserved judgment overnight, but came out today with the claim that the Red army deserves the lion's share of the credit for Italy's capitulation.

Reports of the negotiations and subsequent surrender of Italy were fully published here and the dispatches underlined the act that the armistice conditions were approved by the Soviet Union.

No official comment from responsible Soviet authorities was immediately available.

Despite the expression of pleasure at the news, the reaction of the Russian man in the street was also that of skepticism as to the exact size of the battle of Italy and what the future effect of these battles would be on the situation on the Soviet-German front.

When questioned whether it was considered a second front or not, the answer was usually "vryad-ly," which is Russian for "scarcely."

Until the Germans begin drawing away large numbers of divisions from the Soviet front, the Allied operations can not be considered a second front, is the conclusion of the man in the street.

The first sign of the Soviet reaction was a cartoon, entitled "Serious Amputation" by Boris Yefimov, published in the Soviet Army newspaper, Red Star. It showed two hands on the left, presumably American and British, and one hand on the right, presumably Russian, cutting the Italian leg off Adolf Hitler.

People who heard the news on the way to work discussed it excitedly and agreed that "more big things are coming."

Highly Favorable Outlook

Izvestia said, "now that Italy is out of the ranks and the Hitlerite camp is split, all thinking people will have no doubt that new, extremely favorable conditions have been created for the quickest defeat of Hitlerite Germany, itself, main enemy of all freedom-loving people."

The Communist party organ, Pravda, added, "the summer victories of the Red army compelled Hitler to abandon completely his Italian ally.

"No doubt the capitulation of Italy will make a strong impression on the Allies and adherents of Hitler in Europe who still remain in his robbers' coalition. The fate of Italy is a warning to them.

"The Soviet people are sure that the date of final victory over the enemy is approaching."

Second Front Sermon

The party newspaper made no direct mention of the second front question, but in between the lines of the article could be read a second front sermon.

Both Izvestia and Pravda appeared with an unusual make-up, devoting half of the front page to the announcement of the re-occupation of the Donets basin and most of the other half to editorials on the Italian capitulation.

The back foreign news pages were dominated by dispatches from abroad reporting the surrender.

Nazis Flee Toward Dnieper.

Moscow, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—With the great steel center of Stalino and the rich Donets industrial basin safely in their grasp, two victorious Red Armies swept forward today on the heels of the demoralized Germans fleeing toward the Dnieper River, their last main line of defense on Russian territory.

Front dispatches placed the Russian troops less than seventy miles from the Dnieper at some points, but the Germans were exposed to a greater immediate danger in the region to the south of Stalino. Here their entire southern flank was now exposed to the terrific pressure of the Russian armored offensive, from Mariupol on the Sea of Azov westward to the Isthmus of Perekop and the gateway to the Crimea.

The entire 600-mile front stretching as far north as Smolensk was ablaze as the Russian war machine plunged ahead to rid Russian soil of the invaders before the heavy rains—already beginning—make mobile warfare impossible.

Red divisions, slashing west of captured Konotop in the north, stormed into Borzna, 100 miles from Kiev, key Nazi strongpoint on the center of the Dnieper defense wall.

More than 200 towns were captured in the Soviet drive from Kharkov north to Smolensk yesterday, the Moscow midnight communique reported.

On the Bryansk front, Red Army troops outflanked German forces holding Nvlya, thirty miles north of Bryansk, and stormed into the town to kill 1,200 of the enemy and capture twenty-five guns, the bulletin said. West and southwest of Kharkov another 1,200 Germans fell before the Soviet bayonets, and thirty-two enemy tanks were wrecked.

In the drive for Borzna, which lies northwest of Bakhmach, another 1,000 Nazi soldiers were reported killed before the enemy lines cracked. Stores of military equipment were captured in this salient.

Sees Allies Reinforcing Far East Naval Strength

Chungking, Sept. 9 (AP)—Chinese Minister of War Gen. Ho Ying Chin, commenting on the surrender of Italy, predicted today that Allied naval strength in the Far East would be substantially reinforced and the Japanese fleet forced into a showdown battle.

The Japanese navy, he said, has avoided major action whenever possible, but when the full weight of the American and British navies are thrown into the battle it will be the beginning of the end.

Chungking Is Elated Over Italian Collapse

Chungking, Sept. 9 (AP)—The news of Italy's unconditional surrender was received with elation by the Chinese today, and optimism over German'ys early collapse reached a new high.

The official central Daily News said that "the Italian surrender is more worthy of our excitement than any other event since the outbreak of the war in Europe."

ALLIES CLOSE IN ON LAE AIRPORT

Defenses Smashed During Week of Pounding by Bombers.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Friday, Sept. 10 — (AP) Australian troops have closed within two miles of the Malahang airdrome at Lae, New Guinea, and the Japanese defenses of Lae have been reduced "to practical ruin" by more than 500 tons of bombs dropped by Allied planes in less than a week.

Softening up the enemy air and shipping base for capture by Allied forces advancing virtually unopposed from both the northeast and northwest through difficult jungle terrain, Allied Liberators and Mitchells have demolished enemy artillery, destroyed or disrupted installations and heavily punished the Japanese garrison, headquarters said today.

New big guns are being rolled forward to add their fire power in devastating the isolated enemy garrison.

'Chutists Approach Town

The Malahang airdrome is on the eastern outskirts of Lae. To the northwest, Allied troops which parachuted into the Markham valley Sunday and seized an airstrip 20 miles from Lae now are approaching fortified Japanese positions only eight miles from the town.

These advances within the past 48 hours brought nearer the final assault phase of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's offensive against a trapped enemy army estimated at 20,000 in the Lae-Salamaua sector.

Every hour of the day in which weather permits, big air transports are flying across the Owen Stanley mountains to land men and equipment on the captured Markham valley airfield of Nadzab.

Huon Peninsula Shelled

Allied warships ventured once more into narrow waters between New Guinea and New Britain to shell the Huon peninsula coastal area around Finschhafen. Warships previously had entered these waters to escort the Australians in their landings northeast of Lae Sept. 4.

Finschhafen is 60 miles above Lae.

At Lae "our ground advance continues," today's communique said.

"Our northeastern (Australian) forces at the Busu river are within two miles by air of the Malahang airfield at Lae.

"Artillery is being brought up to develop the attack positions. The terrain difficulties of the advance through jungle and swamp are great."

Allied paratroopers and Australian reinforcements who have been landing since Sept. 5 in the Markham valley behind Lae are sending forward advance elements.

"They have passed through Mumum and Narakapor and are approaching the main western bastion of the enemy's prepared positions at Heaths plantation," headquarters said.

Earlier in the week Heaths plantation defenses virtually were demolished by a heavy Allied air attack.

No Heavy Resistance Told

Since the new operations were sprung on Lae there has been no mention of any heavy Japanese resistance.

Ninety-six tons of bombs were dumped on Lae defenses prior to the Australian landings. Ninety-five tons were dropped on Heaths plantation as the paratroopers landed to seize an airstrip in the Markham valley. Later 145 tons of bombs blasted at Malahang and Jacobsen plantations, and yesterday's communique told of 96 tons dropped on the terrace area. Today's communique reported 73 more tons aimed at the perimeter of defenses.

"Continuous and concentrated air bombardments on strong points of Lae fortifications appear to have reduced them to practical ruin," today's communique summarized.

Troops Heavily Punished

"Artillery has been demolished, installations destroyed or disrupted and troops heavily punished."

Allied warships also put in an appearance near Salamaua, bombarding the waterfront and shooting down at least two of the enemy planes which attacked them. A third plane probably was downed. The communique said the warships which shelled the Finschhafen area were "light surface units" probably destroyers.

To Southwest Pacific

By the Associated Press.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 9.—The Japanese air force, staggered by losses approximating 1,000 planes in little over a month in the South and Southwest Pacific, is believed depleting its strength in China and Japan to support worsening ground situations in New Guinea and the Solomons.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said today "the enemy apparently is drawing heavily from other fronts" in efforts to "rehabilitate his air forces from a succession of recent heavy defeats" such as the destruction of more than 360 planes at Wewak, New Guinea.

Vulnerable Elsewhere.

Then headquarters added:

"As a result, he is becoming weakened and vulnerable to air penetration in other theaters."

New Jap air losses were listed in today's communique, which also reported Australian veterans of African campaigns brushing aside Japanese patrols 5 miles northeast of Lae, New Guinea, and strengthening of Allied paratroop positions seized to the northwest.

Twenty-one Japanese planes were destroyed and nine others probably destroyed as the enemy attempted to raid Darwin, Australia; attack Allied positions on New Guinea and resist a heavy American plane raid on Bougainville in the Solomons.

Today's communique reported a continued absence of heavy resistance by the Japanese at Lae, but more than 20 miles below in the Bobdubi region south of Salamaua there was sharp fighting. Ground troops nearer to Salamaua maintained their pressure on the enemy at the bottom hinge of a trap being clamped on an estimated 20,000 Japanese in the Salamaua-Lae area.

The Allied Air Force kept up the deadly accurate work of blowing up strongpoint after strongpoint of Lae garrison. Today's communique said 96 tons of bombs were dropped Tuesday by waves of Liberators on supply dumps and installations in the terrace area. In the Markham Valley between Lae and the airstrip which paratroopers seized Sunday, Mitchell medium bombers made 17 strafing passes along the valley road.

Japs Believed Shifting Planes From China

Senators See Speed Up In War Against Japan

Brewster and Mead Anticipate More Aid With Italy Out of It

GENERAL MAC ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS IN NEW GUINEA, Sept. 9 (AP).—Speeding up of the war against Japan appeared to a Senate committee today as the inevitable aftermath of the fall of Italy.

"Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Foreign Minister Anthony Eden assured us that the instant Italy was eliminated from the war and the Mediterranean cleared, the British Mediterranean fleet would be available in the Indian Ocean," Senator Ralph O. Brewster, Republican, of Maine, told newsmen here.

Senator James M. Mead, Democrat, of New York, said the collapse of Italy would mean additional transportation for the Pacific theater, as well as increased naval strength, and that such increase in shipping would enable American generals in the Pacific and Asiatic theaters to do an even better job.

The five members of the committee arrived here today to be greeted by General Douglas MacArthur at the airfield from which he led paratroopers in action Sunday against the Japanese.

The other three Senators who reached this Allied base after a tour of battlefields which has already taken them to North Africa, China and India, were Henry Cabot Lodge jr., Republican, of Massachusetts; Albert B. Chandler, Democrat, of Kentucky, and Richard R. Russell, Democrat, of Georgia.

Buenos Aires, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—Foreign Minister Segundo Storni told a press conference last night that the surrender of Italy was not expected to cause any change in the foreign policy of Argentina, only Western Hemisphere nation still maintaining relations with the Axis.

STORNI RESIGNS ARGENTINE POST

Foreign Minister's Move Is Aftermath to U.S. Denial of Lend-Lease Aid.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 9.—(AP) Segundo R. Storni, retired vice admiral who was a pro-Democratic member of Pedro Ramirez' government, resigned as Foreign minister tonight following disclosure of a sensational exchange of letters with Secretary Hull.

Withdrawal of the bluff old officer came as the Argentine press, profiting by government authorization to comment on the diplomatic incident, generally criticized the Foreign minister for having placed Argentina in a position to receive a public admonition from the United States government.

It came with rejection of a bid for U. S. Lease-Lend aid for Argentina, the only American nation which still maintains relations with the Axis.

Mr. Storni told President Ramirez his resignation was motivated by a desire to facilitate "the forward progress" of the government.

Sought to Collaborate

"I have tried to collaborate in the best manner possible to me," he said. "In resigning, I am moved only by patriotic interest in removing every obstacle which my person may present to the success of the government of Your Excellency, which in these grave moments represents the hope of the country. I fervently hope for this success; I am grateful for all the attentions I received from Your Excellency and my colleagues in the cabinet."

Mr. Storni was Minister of the Interior in the government of Gen. Arturo Rawson, which unseated by armed revolt the isolationist regime of President Ramon Castillo on June 4. Gen. Rawson yielded the presidency on June 7 to Mr. Ramirez, who made Mr. Storni foreign minister.

Mr. Ramirez declared on assuming the Presidency that Argentine's policy would be one of friendship toward the American peoples and of neutrality toward others.

Secretary Hull in Washington Tuesday charged that "it is notorious that Axis agents in Argentina have been and are engaging in systematic espionage against the United Nations" and "vicious propaganda against the United Nations is published in Argentina."

Ill-Advised Note

Although Mr. Storni stated in his letter asking for Lease-Lend aid that he was acting with the authorization of President Ramirez, it is known that some cabinet members considered the note ill-advised and ineptly phrased and its publication unwarranted.

30. 24- 8235

Mr. Storni was severely criticized by the Nationalist press, the pro-Axis newspaper Pampero going so far as to state it was evident the government contained a representative who failed to express Argentina's sentiments or those which inspired the June 4 revolution.

Resignation Accepted

The resignation was accepted.

It was announced in Washington Tuesday night that Secretary Hull had rejected the bid of the government of President Ramirez for Lend-Lease aid on the ground that Argentina has failed to do its share in protecting the Western Hemisphere from aggression.

Mr. Hull based his action on the failure of the Argentine government to fulfill its commitments to break relations with the Axis and sever financial and commercial dealings with Axis countries.

EIGHT FOUND DEAD IN U. S. BOMBER HIGH IN ANDES

SEP 10 1943

Army Transport, Missing Five Days, Located in Colombia.

BOGOTA, Colombia, Sept. 9—(AP) The War ministry announced tonight that a U. S. Army transport plane, overdue since Saturday on a flight from Manaos, Brazil, to Cali, Colombia, had been found wrecked in the Andes mountains of western Colombia with all its eight occupants dead.

All victims were members of a U. S. Army photographic unit based at Cali. Officials here said their names would be [illegible] public at Washington.

The War depart[illegible]s announcement gave no det[illegible] but aviation circles said the m[illegible]-engined craft was found by a g[illegible]und searching party in mountains 10,000 feet high near Roncevalles, Department of Tolima. A five-day search by United Sta[illegible]s and Colombian officials had centered there after farmers had reported seeing a plane descend in that area.

Finding of the eight bodies today brought to 14 the number of soldiers killed in the Cali squadron this week. On Monday a plane searching for the lost craft crashed at Iquitos, Peru, killing six.

Peru Congratulates U. S. and Britain

SEP 10 1943

Lima, Peru, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—President Manuel Prado cabled congratulations to President Roosevelt and King George VI of Great Britain last night on the Italian surrender and the Chamber of Deputies passed a motion congratulating the heads of the Allied Nations.

President Prado's message to Roosevelt said that the Italian capitulation "takes us a step nearer complete victory and the triumph of Democratic doctrines."

SEP 10 1943

CANADIAN AIDE DROPPED

Toronto Lawyer Is Dismissed as Labor Board Member

OTTAWA, Sept. 9 (AP)—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King announced tonight that the Cabinet had dismissed J. L. Cohen, Toronto lawyer, from the National War Labor Board after considering a charge that his "attitude is completely inconsistent with the principles" of the board.

The dismissal order said the announced conception of the board "clearly envisaged an independent and judicial attitude on the part of its members."

The inconsistency charge was made in a letter from Justice C. P. McTague, board chairman, saying "I cannot accept responsibility for conducting the work of the board on the principles agreed upon, in continued association with Mr. [illegible]hen."

SEP 10

SOLDIER WOUNDED

OTTAWA, Sept. 9. — (AP) Pvt. Thomas Frederick DeWitt of Hartford, Conn., was wounded in the Sicily campaign, a Canadian army casualty list revealed tonight. His father, Stanley DeWitt, lives at 1 Watner street Extension, Hartford.

SEP 10 1943

Italy Surrendered To Avoid Ruin, Badoglio Tells Hitler

"One Cannot Ask People To Fight When All Hope Is Gone." Message Says

[By the Associated Press]

New York, Sept. 9—A Rome broadcast disclosed today that Premier Pietro Badoglio sent a telegram to Adolf Hitler in Berlin yesterday telling him that Italy was forced to ask the Allies for an armistice "to avoid total ruin."

"One cannot ask the people to continue to fight when all legitimate hope—I do not say victory, but even of resistance—has vanished," Badoglio's message said.

Similar telegrams were sent to Italian diplomatic missions in Tokyo, Budapest, Bucharest, Sofia, Zagreb and Bratislava, the broadcast said, so that they "might inform the governments to which they are accredited" of Italy's reason for seeking an armistice.

Text Of The Telegram

Following is the text of the telegram as broadcast by the Rome radio and recorded by the United States foreign broadcast intelligence service:

"When I took over the Government at the moment of crisis brought about by collapse of the Fascist regime, my first decision and my first appeal which I addressed to the Italian people were for continuation of the war to defend Italian territory against the imminent danger of foreign invasion.

Sacrifices Indicated

"I did not hide from myself the very grave situation in which Italy found herself, her poor chances of resistance and the immense sacrifices she would yet be called upon to make.

"But the sense of duty which every responsible statesman owes to his people prevailed over these considerations. That is to say, it was necessary to avoid Italian territory falling prey to foreigners.

"And Italy continued to fight, continued to suffer destructive bombardment, continued to face sacrifices and sorrow in the hope of preventing the enemy who already was master of Sicily—a great loss most deeply felt by the Italian people—from crossing to the mainland.

"Defense Has Crumbled"

"Notwithstanding all our efforts, our defense has crumbled. The enemy advance could not be halted. The invasion is proceeding. Italy has no powers of resistance left.

"Her large cities beginning with Milan and Palermo have either been destroyed or occupied by the enemy. Her industries have been paralyzed, her communications—of such importance because of the topography of the country—have been thrown into confusion.

"No Part Of Italy Safe"

"Her resources are completely exhausted, one reason being the serious and increasing restrictions on imports from Germany.

"No part of Italy is safe from enemy attack, having no adequate defense, as has been proved by the fact that the enemy was able to land as he pleased, where he pleased and when he pleased, in considerable force which grew each day in numbers and in might, crushing all resistance and laying waste the country.

"Under these conditions the Italian Government could no longer assume responsibility for continuing the war which already has cost Italy—apart from loss of her colonial empire—destruction of her towns, annihilation of her industries, of her merchant navy, of her railway network and, lastly, invasion of her own soil.

"No Hope Left"

"One cannot ask the people to continue to fight when all legitimate hope—I do not say of victory, but even of resistance—has vanished.

"To avoid total ruin Italy, therefore, was forced to address a request for an armistice to the enemy.

"Signed, Badoglio."

U. S., BRITISH TROOPS CLOSE COMRADES

SEP 10

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP) Sir Donald Bradley Somervell, attorney general of Great Britain, tonight termed American soldiers "a great army of ambassadors" and said the comradeship growing between British and American fighters would be "of great importance" in post-war co-operation between the countries.

"On the battle field, in our towns and villages, Britons and Americans are meeting, liking and learning to understand each other," he told the New York Bar association.

Pacific Fighting Only Prelude, Says Veteran Correspondent

SEP 10 1943

J. Norman Lodge, Home from Pacific, Sees Long Battle Ahead.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: J. Norman Lodge, soldier in two wars and reporter of a third, has just returned from a year in the South Pacific with word that the war against Japan is only starting. His interviewer, John A. Moroso, 3rd, recently returned from covering the war on the other side of the world, in Africa and Sicily, as Associated Press correspondent with the Atlantic fleet).

By JOHN A. MOROSO, 3d

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 — (AP) "Don't start selling your war bonds. The war in the South Pacific to date is only the prelude to the fight that is to come. We will lose thousands of men, scores of ships, hundreds of planes and tons of supplies before we even make a dent in the Baron Tanaka 'empire'."

That advice was given today by J. Norman Lodge, Associated Press war correspondent, who landed in New York after a 14,000 - mile plane ride that began in Vella Lavella, the upper Solomons—a little island captured by American forces on Friday, Aug. 13.

Baron Tanaka was the originator of the Japanese plan of conquest designed to give Japan her "greater Asiatic co-prosperity sphere."

Mr. Lodge, tanned and lean from grueling experiences in the foxholes of Guadalcanal, Rendova, New Georgia and Vella Lavella, had this to say about the war situation in the Pacific:

"Excepting for a few small islands which are available for advance echelons and badly needed airfields our conquests to date consist of:

"Much-needed jungle training for troops who had never before been under combat fire or conditions such as they met in the South Seas.

Double Loss of Face

"Double loss of face to the Japanese in the taking of Guadalcanal and New Georgia.

"The American ability to overcome logistical blunders and to supply advance troops with the use of a much smaller amount of shipping bottoms than would have been considered feasible a year ago.

"And the unearthing of the world's greatest fighter and bomber pilots, in many cases handling aircraft inferior in maneuverability—because of added instruments and pilot armor—to that of the enemy.

"On the debit side, the few small islands we have taken we now have to supply. That in itself is no small feat, for every convoy that 'runs the slot' is under constant bombing in waters as yet uncharted.

"The veterans of these campaigns who are now jungle-wise must now be dispersed among green divisions to give untried troops the benefit of their experience—an experience which can not be gained by textbook or by theorizing.

"The loss of face which the Japs have suffered may backfire in the respect that a Jap would rather lose his life many times over than lose face.

"While logistical blunders are bound to occur, we have had no fur coats, winter uniforms or other 'cartoon blunders' but we have taken hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of valuable mechanized cannon without always delivering the ammunition to supply them.

Special Ammunition Missing

"For instance, in Rendova we were able to fire our long-range rifles only a few times because the ammunition peculiar to this certain gun was not available.

"Shipping necessary to negotiate waters such as are encountered in Gizo strait must be of shallow draft. Such vessels, mostly LST's (landing ship tanks), are slow, vulnerable to air attack and of themselves inadequately armed. The boys who manned them never complained and they are among the foremost heroes of the South Pacific.

"It is no secret that there has been no fighter plane in the world as maneuverable as the Japanese Zero. To offset the Zero we have been forced to rely upon the human quotient. It has been a case of 'guts against guns.' To date guts have won out."

Mr. Lodge said that this criticism did not apply to new and still secret types of American planes which he had not seen in action.)

"In behalf of the American boys, many of them civilians a year ago, I want to tell their folks that pound for pound, gun for gun, knife for knife, and viciousness for viciousness, they can spot the Jap 'cards, spades and big casino' and come out best every time.

Florist Repulses Japs

"For instance, on Bibilio hill, foremost stumbling block on the march to capture Munda airfield, one American unit with an officer leading them—a former florist—took on the best the Japs had—the Emperor's own 13th shock troops, and with fixed bayonets met their charge, turned them back and those they didn't stick in the back they blew out of seemingly impossible defenses with hand grenades. That took what the Americans have the most of—guts."

Mr. Lodge, father of two children and a veteran of two wars as a soldier—the Mexican and first World war—has covered this war from Narvik, in Norway, through the London blitz to the furthest reaches of the South Pacific. He has been under naval gunfire and he has gone along in dive bombers and B-17's that pounded the Japanese.

After 10 consecutive months of watching the battle against the Japanese, he has returned for a month's vacation before resuming his place on the fighting front.

New York, Sept. 9 (AP)—The Brazzaville radio said today in a French-language broadcast recorded by United States Government monitors that Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary, had dismissed Premier Nicholas von Kallay.

"There probably will be an important announcement shortly by the Government," said the station in French equatorial Africa.

Von Kallay had been Hungarian Premier since March, 1942.

Nazis Say Allies Drop Agents In Reich By Air

SEP 10

New York, Sept. 9 (AP)—The German news agency DNB said in a Berlin broadcast tonight that Allied parachute agents were being dropped occasionally in Germany "in an attempt to shake the internal front" and warned that persons who previously had aided such parachutists had been shot.

The broadcast, recorded by the Office of War Information, said anyone helping such agents "will be subjected to the full rigors of the law, irrespective of his private position and regardless of the motives of his action."

Hope Of Progress Gone, Italian Radio Mourns

New York, Sept. 9 —The Italian news agency, Stefani declared tonight that Italy's surrender marked the end of "legitimate aspirations" for prestige and national progress which "every people without exception has always nourished at the bottom of its heart."

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, asserted the "drama of the Italian people is today less than ever a drama of deception or of excessive illusion. It is a drama which is terribly and uniquely Italian."

Say Mussolini Was Seized, Strapped to Stretcher and Kidnaped.

SEP 10 1943

ACCUSE KING AND BADOGLIO

Berlin Version of Palace Events on Day Fascist Leader Fell Is Melodramatic.

By Associated Press.

The Berlin radio today broadcast its version of Benito Mussolini's downfall, declaring that Mussolini was "dragged by brute force" from the Royal Palace, strapped to a stretcher and spirited away in an ambulance. His removal on July 25, the broadcast said, was the result of a secretly planned coup d'etat between King Victor Emmanuel and the present Premier, Pietro Badoglio.

It seems to be certain, the broadcast said, that Il Duce was taken to Ponza Island, in the Gulf of Gaeta, about seventy-five miles southeast of Rome.

The radio gave this version of the alleged abduction:

Il Duce had requested an interview with the King to request full powers to halt sabotage, the cowardly desertion of generals and other officers of the air force in Sicily, the unsocial attitude of superior Italian officers and corruption in the army.

He was taken completely by surprise when, at the close of the interview, the King said: "I must inform you that your successor . . . has already been designated and, in fact, has entered office. This man is Marshal Badoglio. Put yourself at his disposal."

Mussolini answered that he felt strong enough, in order to save the Italian people, to oppose the Crown and, if necessary even the army.

As he left, he noted that his car and special guard had been removed from the palace entrance and ordered servants to bring it. Instead a colonel approached him and said:

"Your Excellency, I have received an order to arrest you. Please enter this car."

The German broadcast went on to say that the Fascist Militia had been crippled by traitors and that Mussolini was powerless to resist. It termed the abduction "criminal and disgraceful" and said it was brought about by a clique of traitors, by which disgrace and dishonor were brought upon the Italian people.

Schuschnigg's Son Reported Fatally Beaten Before His Eyes

SEP 10 1943

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Kurt von Schuschnigg, son of the former Austrian Chancellor, was beaten to death by Nazi storm troopers early last year in a concentration camp near Berlin, according to Austrian Action, Inc., unofficial Austrian organization here.

Ferdinand Czernin, chairman of Austrian Action, made public yesterday copies of an affidavit, containing an eyewitness account of the youth's death. Mr. Czernin said the affidavit was signed by Ludwig Victor von Tohathy, an Austrian, now a war prisoner held at Ellis Island.

Mr. Czernin quoted the statement as saying:

"On February 23, 1942, while at work and carrying a stone of 70 pounds, young Schuschnigg collapsed and was beaten to death on the orders of SS Sturmfuehrer Eiserne Gustav' (which was the name we knew him by).

"Chancellor Schuschnigg and I were present. We tried to interfere, and were knocked senseless."

NAZIS DECLARE PLOTTERS USED FORCE ON DUCE

SEP 10 1943

Weak-Kneed Are Warned By Goebbels

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, in his first statement since Italy's capitulation, told the Germans today that "he who gets weak in the knees should at least hide his weakness to prevent his state of mind from affecting other people."

"There is only one sin we can commit at present, namely that of cowardice," the Nazi propaganda minister asserted in the latest edition of "Das Reich."

The article, quoted by the Berlin radio in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, declared that the "German people is rejecting all enemy propaganda to which it lent its ear in the second half of the first World War with the result that Germany found herself enslaved for a long and disgraceful period."

"In time of war," Goebbels went on, "everybody should look at crises and burdens from the angle in which they will represent themselves a year or even ten years later. Crises and burdens will then be more easily borne."

"One day the hour will come when the last battle is fought," he concluded. "Lucky will be those people who are then on the side of the victors We have never doubted for a single moment that we shall be on the winning side."

'LEGITIMATE' AIMS CRUSHED, SAYS ITALY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Italian news agency Stefani declared last night that Italy's surrender marked the end of "legitimate aspirations" for prestige and national progress which "every people without exception has always nourished at the bottom of its heart."

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, asserted that the "drama of the Italian people is today less than ever a drama of deception or of excessive illusion. It is a drama which is terribly and uniquely Italian."

It added that history would at least record that the Italians did not surrender until confronted by "a combination of facts stronger and more inexorable than their will."

MOSCOW UNIT CALLS FOR HITLER'S FALL

SEP 10 1943

By Associated Press.

The Free German National Committee, recently formed in Moscow, broadcast to the German people today a declaration that "Hitler must go."

"There is only one way to save Germany," said the statement, broadcast by the official Soviet radio and recorded by the Federal Communications Commission here. "Hitler must be forced to resign and make way for a new German government."

Chaos threatens Germany, the committee added, and the only way to avert it is for German forces to withdraw to the Reich frontier.

REGENCY COUNCIL NAMED IN BULGARIA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Sofia dispatch broadcast yesterday by the Berlin radio said that Premier Bogdan Philov, Prince Cyril and Secretary of War Lt. Gen. Nikola Michov had been appointed to a regency council to rule the country after the death of King Boris, 3rd.

The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

Prince Cyril is an uncle of King Boris' son, Simeon, who was named King after the death of his father. He is regarded as pro-German.

The British radio, in a broadcast last night recorded by C.B.S., said the Bulgarian parliament "met today in Sofia and the atmosphere was very tense."

What's Behind The War News

SEP 10 1943

By JOHN H. WIGGINS

The Allied vise is squeezing harder on Hitler's Europe, compressing the Nazi-held fortress into a smaller — and from now on — tougher nut to crack.

As the Russian end of the vise continues to push on relentlessly, the British and American side is digging northward through fallen Italy undoubtedly toward the harder outer core of concentrating German resistance.

Swift Allied landings along the western coast of the boot are bringing closer a test of that German mettle near the valley of the river Po to the north.

As President Roosevelt remarked, the war will become "tougher rather than easier during the long months to come." Obviously, Allied targets — war industries, oil fields, military installations — are within much closer striking distance of bombers based on Italian airfields. But vast German battle units, too, will be grouping tighter and deeper about narrowing defense lines.

Difficult and costly as the Allied route to victory may be, the surrender of Italy definitely is a long step toward that goal. At least a portion of the Allied sea strength in the Mediterranean may be diverted now to the war in the Pacific.

While Allied forces are swarming up the Tyrrhenian seacoast, perhaps joined by the Italians in some instances, Japanese military, naval and air strength is suffering telling losses in the south and southwest Pacific.

The heavy reduction in Nipponese air strength apparently is forcing Japan to draw replacements from other — and thus weakened — fronts in an effort to hold what remains in New Guinea and the Solomons.

Increasing sinkings of Japanese merchantmen are weakening the supply lines faster than Japanese industrial capacity can restrengthen them.

Continuation of the staggering losses of planes and men suffered by Japan in the last month may force her to retreat faster and faster from outlying islands and likely lead to establishment of a much condensed line of defense closer to Tokyo, itself.

Stimson Says Allies Advance On Schedule in Naples Battle

SEP 10 1943

Reveals Part of U. S. Fifth Army Effected Landing—Warns That Principal Axis Partners Are Not Yet Out of War.

Washington, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—American troops which landed in considerable force under the command of Lieut.-Gen. Mark W. Clark in the vicinity of Naples are in contact with German forces and making satisfactory progress, Secretary of War Stimson reported today.

The capitulation of Italian armed forces is a hard blow to the enemy, Mr. Stimson told his press conference, but cannot be interpreted as meaning that the Italian peninsula can be occupied without considerable hard fighting. As many as fifteen to twenty German divisions may be in Italy, he said, and this is a larger force than any met by the Allies in Tunisia or Sicily.

Furthermore, he added, the Germans can increase their strength in Italy if they choose.

While the Italian surrender climaxed a week of good news from all war fronts, said the Secretary, the two chief enemies—Germany and Japan—are still fighting and "there is no justification for any assurance that they will be soon eliminated."

Celebration Due Later.

"It will be time to celebrate when they are defeated," he added.

American and British airmen hold command of the sky over Sicily and southern Italy, Mr. Stimson continued, and this has been an important factor in the success of Allied forces. Allied planes have penetrated far inland, destroying railroad and other communication facilities which Germany might use to reinforce her troops.

Passing from these "material and physical factors of the situation," Mr. Stimson called attention to a "moral factor" to be kept in mind in estimating the importance of the Italian surrender. It is significant, he said, that the Italian armed forces have surrendered to the Allies while the Germans still hold a great part of Italy and in considerable strength, so that the surrender was an act of defiance to the Germans which may well subject the Italians to harsh reprisals.

Omen of Importance.

"The significance of this to us is that it demonstrates, in my opinion, the underlying sympathy of the Italian people for the cause of freedom," said Mr. Stimson, "and that they recognize that we—that our forces—represent that cause of freedom.

"That is an omen of great importance, an omen of great hope for our future campaigns. It shows that the people of Europe recognize the cause that we represent.

"Human memories are pretty short, and our generation is apt to forget that less than a century ago Italy wrote a glorious chapter in the history of human freedom. I refer to what the Italians term the 'Risorgimento,' that wonderful, swift period in which Italy became united in what we call a liberal government, in which the individual Italian achieved his individual freedom.

"We should make it clear that our purpose is to re-create and restore, not to destroy, the freedom so gloriously achieved by Italy such a short time ago."

30.24- 8237

Report on Other Fronts.

Mr. Stimson reported also on other battlefronts, noting that:

In the great air offensive against Western Europe by the United States Eighth Air Force and the Royal Air Force, our own losses are considerable, but not out of proportion to the numbers of planes engaged and the results achieved. The Allies are not only replacing battle losses, but are increasing their overall air strength.

In the Southwest Pacific, the skillful integration of all forces under Gen. Douglas MacArthur have pocketed the Japs in the Lae - Salamua area of New Guinea, but the American and Australian troops probably will have a hard fight to eliminate the cornered Japanese.

The campaign in the Solomons is progressing on schedule, and throughout the South and Southwest Pacific Allied flyers are establishing definite air superiority, and inflicting a heavy toll on enemy shipping.

In India and China, the Tenth and Fourteenth Air Forces are continuing a successful series of attacks on enemy positions and installations.

AMERICAN COAL SHIPPED TO ITALY

SEP 10 1943

Washington, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—Secretary of Interior Ickes said today the coal situation in the United States is bad and it's going to get worse, partly because it will be necessary to furnish more coal to the military services to maintain operations in fallen Italy.

Simultaneously, Mr. Ickes told a press conference that the Northern Appalachian and Illinois coal operators are conferring here with John L. Lewis's United Mine Workers about a new contract, one feature of which might be a forty-eight-hour work week.

Mr. Ickes said that coal already is being shipped for the use of the Army in Italy, to enable it to keep utilities, ships, locomotives, manufacturing plants and other facilities in operation.

These needs, he said, could be met only with coal from England, the United States and South Africa, and he asserted that "we will do our share" although, he added, "it will have an adverse effect on the domestic coal situation at a time when we can't stand many more setbacks."

Asked why he had not yet taken action under the two-week-old presidential authorization to order the Government mines on a forty-eight-hour week, Mr. Ickes said that there was a serious question as to the advisability of such an order.

IRAN TO DECLARE WAR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP) The Iranian legation said tonight it had received advices indicating that Iran would declare war on Germany, but had not received word of an actual declaration.

SIX JAP VESSELS SUNK BY U.S. SUBS

SEP 10 1943

Successes Raise to 223 Number of Ships Sent to Bottom.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. — (AP) Pressing their campaign to wreck Japan's sea communications, United States submarines have destroyed six more enemy merchant vessels and damaged four others, the Navy disclosed today.

The vessels sunk were listed in a communique as one small and two large freighters, one medium tanker and one large and one medium cargo ship.

Damaged were one large and two small cargo carriers and a medium sized freighter.

The latest report raised to 223 the number of enemy ships of all types which have been reported sunk by American submarines and to 319 the total of those sunk or damaged.

American undersea raiders, which often operate in waters immediately adjacent to the Japanese home islands, are carrying the main force of the attack on enemy shipping. Secretary Knox disclosed earlier this week that they had been chiefly instrumental in Allied destruction of one-third of Japan's cargo and transport ships.

The rate of destruction by submarines is increasing, Mr. Knox said, and the belief here is that if it can be further increased with the dispatch of additional new submarines to the western Pacific and China sea areas the Japanese will find it increasingly difficult and in some cases impossible to maintain their more distant military outposts. They will also face serious obstacles in developing the natural wealth they captured in such rich areas as Malaya and the Dutch East Indies.

Army Show Offers Thrills For Churchills

SEP 10 1943

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP) A big Army show dramatizing the opening of the $15,000,000,000 war loan drive drew thousands to the Washington monument grounds today and no one enjoyed it more than Mrs. Winston Churchill and her daughter Mary.

The wife of Britain's Prime Minister and their daughter, trim in her uniform and an ATS subaltern, were taken around the "Back the Attack" display by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. They were obviously impressed by the show of military might and equipment.

Mrs. Churchill especially liked the Army's kitchens, Mary went for the WAC uniforms.

The tour was arranged in connection with the official opening of the huge war loan drive, which President Roosevelt last night said would help buy "that death-dealing, life-saving power we need for victory."

Mr. Morgenthau earlier in the day reported the campaign off to a good start owing to its promotional build up, Mr. Roosevelt's radio address and Italian Premier Badoglio's "good judgment" in surrendering.

EARLY HAS NO WORD OF TALK TO VATICAN

SEP 10 1943

Washington, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—The presidential secretary, Stephen Early, said today that he had not read of any telephone conversation, such as had been reported by the Rome radio, between Mr. Roosevelt and the Pope.

To Ease Latin-America Export Restrictions

Washington, Sept. 9 (AP)—Restrictions on exports to Latin-America will be eased October 1.

Leo T. Crowley, director of the Office of Economic Warfare, announced today that beginning next month individual export licenses will not be required for shipment to Latin-American countries of commodities which are in free supply.

Move No Surprise In Washington

SEP 10 1943

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP) News of the resignation of Argentina's Foreign Minister Segundo R. Storni came as no surprise to official and diplomatic quarters here after the recent disclosure of Mr. Storni's appeal to Secretary of State Hull for Lend-Lease aid and Mr. Hull's rejection.

Publication of his letter to Mr. Hull here Tuesday, together with the text of Mr. Hull's note refusing to recommend any Lend-Lease aid to bolster Argentina's military position in South America at a time other American republics were uniting in defense of the Western Hemisphere, left Mr. Storni, in the opinion of some diplomats, no choice but to resign.

OIL IMPORTS GAIN FROM CARIBBEAN AREA

SEP 10 1943

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP) Interior Secretary Ickes acknowledged today that oil imports from the Caribbean area had increased recently and indicated cautiously that this might "alleviate" the drain on the Atlantic seaboard's oil stocks, but said it was "too early to say how much."

However, he told a press conference that he saw no chance to increase gasoline allotments to eastern civilians now although the situation might change later—it might be weeks or months—if efforts to build up the area's stocks are successful.

He commented that consumption by civilian motorists is still exceeding gasoline allotments made to them in the eastern, midwestern and southwestern rationed areas.

C.A.B. Reports on Cause Of Lisbon Clipper Crash

SEP 10 1943

Says Wing Probably Dipped Into Water by Accident

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP).—The Civil Aeronautics Board said today an accidental contact of a wing with the water probably caused the crash of a Pan American flying boat at Lisbon, Portugal, Feb. 22, in which nineteen passengers and five crew members were injured fatally. The board said there were no signs of fire or explosion in the wreckage, and no indications of malicious tampering or sabotage.

Among those killed or injured were several theatrical and radio performers en route to entertain American troops abroad. Ben Robertson jr., of New York, and Frank Cuhel, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, foreign correspondents, were among those fatally injured, and Jane Froman, radio singer, was injured seriously.

The board said the "preponderance of evidence" indicated the captain, R. O. Sullivan, a veteran ocean-flying pilot, "erred in his judgment of the position of the aircraft in relation to the water."

Captain Sullivan testified that in attempting to bring the flying boat down he found the elevators inoperative and, realizing a crash was inevitable, throttled the engines and, to absorb some of the shock, put the left wing down.

Opposes Secret Treaties

Cole's Bill Warns World Such Pacts Would Not Bind U. S.

SEP 10 1943

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP).—A stiff, plain-spoken Congressional stand against secret agreements between the United States and foreign powers was proposed by Representative W. Sterling Cole, Republican, of New York, today as a warning to the world that such pacts will not be binding upon the American people.

In the midst of mounting debate over United States foreign policy after the war, Representative Cole drafted a fifty-four-word, one-sentence measure which would serve notice upon friend and foe alike that no official can commit this government except under specific law. His bill reads:

"No promise, agreement, commitment or undertaking made by any person with any foreign country, government or power, shall be binding upon the people of the United States, except such as may have been made or be made in accordance with and under authority expressly and specifically contained in a statute of the United States."

Edible Fats And Oils Sent To Soviet Russia

Washington, Sept. 9 (AP)—The War Food Administration turned over 264,000,000 pounds of edible fats and oils to Soviet Russia under lend-lease during the first seven months of this year.

This compared with 115,000,000 made available to Russia in the corresponding period last year, according to the WFA announcement.

Ship Deliveries Outstrip Losses 'Several Times'

O. W. I. Says U. S. Yards Have Produced 20 Million Tons Since Pearl Harbor

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP).—The Office of War Information reported today that American shipyards have delivered more than 20,000,000 tons of merchant vessels since Pearl Harbor.

Exact figures on United Nations shipping losses in the third quarter were not given, but the O. W. I. said: "We are now delivering ships several times faster than the enemy is sinking them."

Although deliveries of new merchant shipping by American builders since Pearl Harbor will reach an estimated 27,000,000 deadweight tons by the end of this year—more than a third of the world's pre-war tonnage—the report said actual 1943 construction may fall below the 19,000,000-ton schedule "because of steel shortages, lack of propulsion equipment, man-power shortage and unforeseen circumstances."

Ships Built in 45.8 Days

By turning out 110 Liberty ships during August in an average construction period of forty-five and eight-tenths days for each vessel, United States yards trimmed another seven days off the January average of fifty-two and six-tenths days. Production schedules drawn up in early 1942 had allowed an average of 105 days for Liberty-ship construction.

This year's program called for 1,195 Liberties out of a total of 2,005 cargo ships, but the O. W. I. said the Maritime Commission foresees a shift-over from the plodding Liberty, with its average eleven-knot speed, to bigger and faster Victory ships.

Mass production of Victory ships will begin in 1944, the report said.

In discussing future shipbuilding, the report said that the concrete barge continues "experimental and subject to controversy among the experts," and that this program has recently been curtailed. It added that the barges had performed well and filled a definite war need, but that they have been "slow in building and are costly for tonnage delivered."

ROOSEVELT HAS TAX CONFERENCE

SEP 10 1943

Washington, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—A conference on taxes was the only item on President Roosevelt's agenda today, but his talks with Prime Minister Churchill were continuing. Called to the White House for the tax discussions were Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau; James F. Byrnes, Director of War Mobilization; Fred M. Vinson, Economic Stabilization Director; Randolph Paul, Treasury tax expert and Samuel I. Rosenman, presidential adviser.

Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill planned to have luncheon together. The Prime Minister had no special engagements for the day, but White House officials said that both he and the President would be calling in people from time to time. Mr. Roosevelt had said on Tuesday that he expected more progress in twenty-four to forty-eight hours toward a three-way conference with Russia and when Secretary Stephen Early was asked about that, he said that possibly the President referred to the collapse of Italian resistance, since Russia was a party to the armistice agreement.

Morgenthau Sees Drive Well Started

SEP 10 1943

Washington, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, discussing the bond drive start at his press conference today, said the campaign "got off to a good start, thanks to the newspapers, the radio and President Roosevelt's address—and Badoglio's good judgment" in surrendering.

"Certainly the stage couldn't be set better for War Bonds than it is right now," Mr. Morgenthau added.

SANK TWO U-BOATS

Washington, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—Sinking of an enemy submarine by a destroyer commanded by Lieut. Thomas H. Byrd, 35 years old, of 65 Dwight Place, Englewood, N. J., was announced yesterday by the Navy.

The Navy said that Lieut. Byrd is commander of the George E. Badger, a 25-year-old modernized ship which attacked the submerged U-boat five times with depth charges.

A carrier-based Avenger plane sank another submarine the same day, the Navy said. The Axis craft were attempting to attack a Mediterranean-bound convoy, they said.

Col. P. K. Smith Gets D. S. M.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP).—Colonel Perry K. Smith, commanding officer of a Marine aircraft group in the Southwest Pacific during the conquest of Guadalcanal, reiceved the Distinguished Service Medal today from Lieutenant General Thomas Holcomb, commandant of the Marine Corps, for exceptionally meritorius service. Colonel Smith's home is at Coronado, Calif. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norrell E. Smith, live in Rochester.

SEP 10 1943

TWO WIN D.S.C.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. — (AP) The War department announced today a list of decorations to more than 350 officers and enlisted men of the U. S. Army Eighth Air force stationed in England, including the following from Connecticut:

Distinguished Flying Cross: Winfield S. Scovell, first lieutenant, Portland; and Joseph F. Devine, staff sergeant, Willimantic.

Additional Casualties Announced by Navy

SEP 10 1943

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP).—The Navy announced today twenty-four casualties, including six dead, thirteen wounded and five missing.

The names of three men, previously listed as missing, also are included as dead.

This brings to 29,275 the total of Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard casaulties reported to next of kin since Dec. 7, 1941. The grand total includes 10,116 dead, 5,166 wounded, 9,832 missing and 4,161 prisoners of war.

The casaulties announced today (those listed are Navy and non-commissioned personnel unless otherwise specified) included:

NEW YORK
Dead

GALLO, LAWRENCE VINCENT; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gallo, 25-27 Thirty-third Street, Astoria, Queens.

Wounded

GIRAGOSIAN, GEORGE; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon H. Giragosian, 18-14A Twenty-first Drive, Long Island City, Queens.

None was listed from Connecticut or New Jersey.

Army Lists More Men As Killed in Action

SEP 10 1943

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP).—The War Department announced today names of 208 United States soldiers killed in action, including the following:

NEW YORK
North African Area, Including Sicily

DIGAN, EDWARD C., second lieutenant; father, Thomas J. Digan, 132 Broadway, Rockville Centre, L. I.

DUNIGAN, JOHN W., private first class; brother, William Dunigan, 1670 Glenwood Road, Brooklyn.

LOVE, WALTER E., private; mother, Mrs. George M. Love, Alexandria Bay.

McNAMARA, TIMOTHY J., private; mother, Mrs. Mary McNamara, 136 West 109th Street, New York.

MAGINI, VICTOR J., corporal; wife, Mrs. Maria T. Magini, 9 Castleton Avenue, New York.

MAYHEW, MARTIN D., private; mother, Mrs. Ellen Mayhew, 599 West 190th Street, New York.

SHEPARD, LEO F., private; father, Morris W. Shepard, 908 Walnut St., Elmira.

SIMPSON, CHARLES R., private; brother, William Simpson, Mineville.

SOTO, HECTOR M., private; wife, Mrs. Carmen L. Soto, 782 Prospect Avenue, the Bronx.

VELTRI, BONAVENTURA, private first class; father, Anthony Veltri, 730 East Main Street, Mount Kisco.

Southwest Pacific

CARRINGTON, HAROLD F., first lieutenant; wife, Mrs. Ethel R. Carrington, 6 Beverly Place, Johnson City.

NEW JERSEY
North African Area, Including Sicily

FATTORE, LOUIS F., technician 4th grade; mother, Mrs. Minnie Fattore, 826 South Fifth Street, Camden.

MARTIN, ERNEST V., staff sergeant; mother, Mrs. Iva M. Martin, Box 506, Pleasantville.

ST. ANGELO, JAMES, corporal; mother, Mrs. Helen J. St. Angelo, 74 North Sussex Street, Dover.

SICO, PAUL M., corporal; sister, Miss Sarah T. Sico, 426 Bath Avenue, Long Branch.

SMITH, LEONARD R., private; father, Thomas Smith, Fifth Street, West Keansburg.

Southwest Pacific Area

FREZZA, ROLAND P., private; sister, Miss Isabella Frezza, 8 Columbus Place, Bound Brook.

CONNECTICUT
North African Area, Including Sicily

ADAMS, THOMAS D., private first class; mother, Mrs. George D. Adams, 16 Knoll Avenue, Milford.

HATCH, JAMES W. Jr., second lieutenant; father, James W. Hatch, 56 Norwood Road, West Hartford.

WILCOX, EDMOND C., technician fifth grade; father, Martin Wilcox, Route 2, Box 693, Torrington.

Southwest Pacific Area

HAFNER, FRITZ, corporal; father, Emil Hafner, 178 Bradley Street, New Haven.

MORRIS, ROBERT, second lieutenant; father, Louis Morris, 41 Westfield Avenue, Bridgeport.

PEROTTI, JOHN W., sergeant; mother, Mrs. Florence Perotti, Box 181, Bantam.

PINGAL, FREDERICK J., corporal; mother, Mrs. Mary Pingal, 49 Main Street, Willimantic.

U. S. Soldiers Missing In Action Are Listed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP).—The War Department announced today the names of 209 United States soldiers missing in action, including these with next of kin in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut:

SEP 10 1943

NEW YORK
European Area

ALSHEIMER, WILBUR, staff sergeant; father, Albert Alsheimer, 22 Wagner Avenue, Whitesboro.

BAYNE, JAMES A., staff sergeant; aunt, Mrs. Violet O. Vause, 50 Cambridge Avenue, Garden City.

CARON, PATRICK, staff sergeant; mother, Mrs. Elise Caron, 307 East Orvis, Massena.

COSTA, JOSEPH S., second lieutenant; uncle, Salvatore Cauatalo, 313 East Ninety-second Street, Manhattan.

DOUGHERTY, JOHN, second lieutenant; mother, Mrs. Anna C. Dougherty, 632 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn.

FREUND, KURT W., second lieutenant; mother, Mrs. Mathilde Freund, Harwood Boulevard, Scarsdale.

KEARIN, GEORGE T., second lieutenant; father, Thomas Kearin, 2840 Barley Avenue, the Bronx.

KNUDSEN, ELMER T., staff sergeant; mother, Mrs. Ingrid Knudsen, 461 Forty-eighth Street, Brooklyn.

MAGOWAN, DAVID jr., first lieutenant; father, David Magowan, 18 Circle Road, Scarsdale.

MARTINI, ATTILIO J., sergeant; mother, Mrs. A. Martini, 49-09 Ninety-seventh Street, Corona, Queens.

PADUCH, THEODORE, staff sergeant; mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Wohn Paduch, 504 South Jay Street, Rome.

PENTZ, ARTHUR H., first lieutenant; mother, Mrs. Robert H. Pentz, 205 St. Marks Place, Manhattan.

POCHILY, THEODORE M., second lieutenant; father, Theodore U. Pochily, 811 Congress Street, Schenectady.

SCOURSI, SPIRIDON J., second lieutenant; wife, Mrs. Eileen M. Scoursi, 71 Brown Road, Scarsdale.

SHEETS, ROBERT M., staff sergeant; mother, Mrs. Daisy M. Sheets, 523 Liberty Street, Schenectady.

STERNBERG, ROBERT D., first lieutenant; wife, Mrs. Maxine S. Sternberg, 208 West Ninetieth Street, Manhattan.

WHEELER, LEONARD J., captain; wife, Mrs. Edna R. Wheeler, East State Street, Sherburne.

Middle Eastern Area

MALONE, HUGH J., staff sergeant; mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Blue, 585 East 140th Street, the Bronx.

REITER, JACK, first lieutenant; father, J. Reiter, 1018 Bryant Avenue, the Bronx.

North African Area, Including Sicily

BENCE, RAYMOND J., private; father, Charles Bence, 327 Sixty-ninth Street, Brooklyn.

COOLEY, HARRY T., flight officer; mother, Mrs. Marion Vorse Cooley, 54 Pulaski Street, Amsterdam.

FEELEY, FREDERICK J., private first class; mother, Mrs. Helen A. Feeley, 28 Easterly Avenue, Auburn.

MARTELLI, JAMES, private; mother, Mrs. Anna Martelli, 220 Hopkins Street, Brooklyn.

MILTON, WILLIAM E., private; father, Joseph P. Milton, 68 Cragg Road, Rochester.

MOWER, KENNETH W., private; brother, John Mower, 247 West Sixty-eighth Street, Manhattan.

MURRAY, MICHAEL J., second lieutenant; uncle, G. Brazel, 88-89 Winchester Boulevard, Queens Village, Queens.

PEPLOWSKI, SIGMUND F., private first class; mother, Mrs. Sophie Peplowski, 95 First Street, Albany.

RAUX, RAYMOND P., second lieutenant; mother, Dr. Jehanne Lesauze, 44 Lincoln Avenue, Massapequa Park, L. I.

SCIASCIA, JOHN; private; mother, Mrs. Manie Sciascia, 34-56 Ninth Street, Long Island City, Queens.

NEW JERSEY
European Area

GERKE, WRIGHT E., second lieutenant; wife, Mrs. Lavinia F. Gerke, 141 East Park Avenue, Merchantville.

GHESQUIER, VICTOR R., sergeant; mother, Mrs. Mae Ghesquier, 7 Chadwick Street, Paterson.

MACRAE, DONALD P., second lieutenant; sister, Mrs. Jean A. Duvall, State Hospital, North Marlboro.

MATTOON, WILLIAM E., technical sergeant; wife, Mrs. William E. Mattoon, 80 Grant Avenue, Nutley.

SEAMAN, JOHN R., sergeant; wife, Mrs. Vera Seaman, 269 Ocean Avenue, Jersey City.

North African Area, Including Sicily

ATKINS, JAMES A., private; mother, Mrs. Emma Atkins, 302 Johns Street, Harrison.

MORAN, JOSEPH J., sergeant; mother, Mrs. Sarah Moran, 110 Van Horne Street, Jersey City.

MURCHIE, DONALD J., second lieutenant; wife, Mrs. Edith P. Murchie, Woods Lane, Colonia.

O'DONNELL, VINCENT J., private; mother, Mrs. Francis H. Bowers, Route 1, Lake Iliff, Newton.

STIVALE, THOMAS C., private first class; mother, Mrs. Anna Stivale, 11 Newark Avenue, Bloomfield.

Middle Eastern Area

CRAMPTON, HARRY W., technical sergeant; father, William H. Crampton, Route 2, Lebanon.

CONNECTICUT
European Area

ANGARANO, DANIEL J., staff sergeant; father, Joseph Angarano, 152 Bill Avenue, Groton.

MARKO, JOHN, staff sergeant; wife, Mrs. John Marko, 85 William Street, Bridgeport.

MURPHY, WILLIAM C., staff sergeant; mother, Mrs. Anna E. Murphy, 101 Broad Street, Middletown.

PRENTISS, LAURENCE F., sergeant; mother, Mrs. Emma Prentiss, 93 Elm Street, Winsted.

Middle Eastern Area

LEETE, JONATHAN, first lieutenant; sister, Mrs. Robert H. Morse, 286 Sigourney Street, Hartford.

North African Area, Including Sicily

MEEHAN, EDWARD J., second lieutenant; wife, Mrs. Dorothy S. Meehan, Jersey Street, Waterbury.

EXEMPTING DADS HELD INADVISABLE

SEP 10

Army May Have to Revise Plans if Draft Is Barred, Says Colonel.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP) A Selective Service spokesman warned senators today that enactment of legislation halting the induction of fathers into the armed forces might force the high command to rewrite its war plans.

Lieutenant Colonel Francis V. Keesling, Jr., chief liaison officer for the Selective Service system, told a Senate Military Affairs subcommittee investigating West coast manpower conditions:

"In view of the grave responsibility that Congress would be assuming in this regard, I believe it is imperative for the Committee on Military Affairs and Congress to obtain full and complete facts and make their determinations only after weighing them very carefully."

Col. Keesling referred to a bill, approved by the committee just before Congress took its summer recess, which would grant blanket deferment until Jan. 1 to all Selective Service registrants who were married before Pearl Harbor and who have children under 18.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.), author of the legislation, has announced he will call it up in the Senate quickly after Congress reassembles next Tuesday.

Col. Keesling reminded the committee that the Selective Service's "best guess" is that 446,000 fathers "will have to be taken before the end of this year after allowing for induction of the maximum that can be obtained" from class 4-F and other deferred groups.

W. P. B. Curbs Army 'Raids' on Civilian Goods

Orders Manufacturers to Sell Specified Part of Output for Non-War Use

SEP 10

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP).—The War Production Board issued today a directive to several hundred manufacturers of about thirty types of civilian goods, directing that they distribute specified proportions of their total output in civilian channels.

The directive was intended to stop the "raiding" of civilian supplies through direct purchase by the armed services and other government agencies from the manufacturers. Government buying frequently has prevented civilians from receiving the goods intended by the W. P. B. for them.

The directive, effective during the fourth quarter of the year, starting Oct. 1, specifically names the Army, Navy, Maritime Commission, Aircraft Resources Control Office and persons buying for direct export as being ineligible to purchase the earmarked goods from manufacturers.

The directive, it was explained, does not permit manufacturers to disregard priority-rated orders outright, but instructs manufacturers to notify the W. P. B. immediately if the filling of these orders would cause the firms to dip into their civilian allocations. The W. P. B. then will either authorize the manufacturer to disregard the government orders or "make whatever other adjustments it considers appropriate."

The latter phrase left the way open for the W. P. B. to permit the sale of civilian goods to the armed services or other government agencies if it felt circumstances warranted. This was a considerable recession from an earlier and stronger version of the directive which would have been issued about three weeks ago if Army officials had not lodged a protest. That would have prevented any sale to the armed services out of civilian quotas, except on the emergency triple-A rating usually reserved for strategic needs of the highest urgency.

The proportion of goods which manufacturers must set aside for civilians will vary from factory to factory, it was stated, and the products covered by it will be subject to change from time to time.

The products for which quotas will be assigned for the fourth quarter include:

Glass cooking utensils; lamps and lanterns burning liquid fuels; bedsprings and inner-spring mattresses; metal hospital beds; razors (not electric); razor blades; plated silverware; clocks, watches and chronometers; kitchen and household articles; common and safety pins; office supplies, including marking devices, pens and pencils; church goods; cutlery.

Also cast-iron radiators; warm-air furnaces; cast-iron boilers; warm-air distribution equipment, including registers, stoves and smoke pipes; hot-water equipment (not electric), including heaters and tanks for domestic use; metal insect screen cloth; nails and tacks (but not steel wire nails); fiber, steel and wire brushes; surgical and medical instruments and equipment; electrical physiotherapy apparatus; X-ray apparatus and tubes; dental instruments, apparatus and equipment; dental supplies and appliances, ophthalmic goods; surgical and medical supplies and orthopedic appliances.

NEW HELLCAT SPEEDY PLANE

Grumman Fighter Is Bigger, Faster Than Famed Predecessor, The Wildcat

SEP 10 1943

[By the Associated Press]

New York, Sept. 9—The navy disclosed today the details of its new fighter plane, the Grumman Hellcat, as the answer to prayers of American pilots for a plane to fight the Zero on any terms. The plane saw action for the first time in the navy's raid on Marcus Island September 1.

The ship is the pilots' own plane in the sense that it incorporates the combined experience of our naval aviators in the Pacific and is the first American fighter to reach production on plans coming entirely from experiences of the present war.

Speed And Climb Secret

Its speed and climb are secret, but the navy's Bureau of Aeronautics says:

"Speed is the word for the Hellcat. It is one of the fastest fighters in the skies."

The Hellcat is a successor to the Grumman Wildcat, and was designed and built by the Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corporation, under direction of the navy's Bureau of Aeronautics.

The new plane is both bigger and faster than the Wildcat, which Under Secretary James V. Forrestal said saved Guadalcanal, and the Bureau of Aeronautics said, stopped the Japanese planes in the Coral Sea, at Midway and in the Solomons.

New Gasoline Tank

The new Hellcat is a single seater, better armed than the Wildcat, and with improved protective armor. Best of all, in the bureau's opinion, is a new flexible type of gasoline tank, which is a step ahead of the ordinary puncture-proof tank. The official explanation is limited to the statement that the tank functions like a rubber bag inside a canvas hammock.

The fighting altitude of the Hellcat is higher than its predecessor. Some idea of what this means is seen by the surprise the Japanese got at Guadalcanal last October, when Wildcats met them at 25,000 feet and shot down thirty Zeros in ten minutes without losing one ship.

3-24-8239

"From the beginning," says the bureau, "the fighting pilots were crazy about the new airplane. Its superb handling qualities gave them confidence. It came aboard a carrier as easily as a bird.

Armor, Leakproof Tanks

"After the Japanese hit Pearl Harbor with swarms of slithering, silver Zeros—faster and more maneuverable than any United States plane—stunned but stubborn navy fighter pilots went into huddles in the face of stern necessity and schemed up ways and means of beating the Japs with what they had—the Grumman Wildcat.

"Though the Zero held the advantage in climb and maneuverability, United States pilots had guns, armor and leakproof tanks—something that would hold together when it was hit—the Wildcat.

"From such grim-faced sessions and from battles waged by carrier and land based squadrons over the South Pacific in succeeding months came tactics—based on long peacetime training—which piled up a five-to-one ratio against the Japs. Our pilots learned to shun like poison the vicious circle of the individual dogfight, for there the Zero held mastery with its tight turns and steep angles of climb.

Took To Heights

"Instead they took to the heights, and from there tore into the Zeros on straight runs, igniting vulnerable fuel tanks, killing pilots and wrecking engines with their .50-caliber guns. They found they could outshoot the Japs, so they hit and got out of there. Frequently they concentrated in their runs on deflection (off to the side) shots which the navy had been practicing for twenty years.

"They hunted in pairs, or fours, or eights, never leaving a tail unprotected if they could help it. Air fighting became the old football game in which these American boys were so proficient."

Noted Musician Exultant in Triumphant Concert, Weeps at Close.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP) Tears of exultation streamed from the eyes of Arturo Toscanini tonight as he stepped from the podium after leading his orchestra in a triumphant salute to the end of Fascism in Italy.

"Will this be heard in Italy?" anxiously inquired the man who was assaulted in his native land 12 years ago by Mussolini's blackshirts for his refusal to play the Fascist hymn, "Giovenezza."

The world-acclaimed maestro was assured that the symphonic program, "Victory, Act One," broadcast by N.B.C., would be heard via short-wave in Italy later tonight.

Moved so greatly by the news of Italy's unconditional surrender, Mr. Toscanini personally requested that tonight's concert be private with only members of his personal household present.

Seated in the balcony of the streamlined, empty theater were the maestro's wife, Carla, their son, Walter, the family's cook, and a maid, both Italians. All overcome by emotion, wept.

The single other spectator was Samuel Chotzinoff, director of N.B.C.'s musical division and lifelong friend of the musician.

Maestro 'Exalted'

"The maestro was terribly moved, very exalted," Mr. Chotzinoff said. "Both before and immediately after the concert he asked me whether it would be rebroadcast in Italy—yesterday, you know, he was so moved by the news that he took no food or drink the whole day."

As the concert ended Mr. Toscanini was told this was the first of three N.B.C. broadcasts, the remaining two to follow with the defeat of Germany and Japan.

"Margari (I hope so)," replied the maestro, as tears welled from his eyes.

For this, one of the most personally important concerts of his long career, Mr. Toscanini was clad in his informal rehearsal clothes, including his identifying black alapaca buttoned-to-the-throat rehearsal jacket.

The musical victory salute began with the "victory theme" first movement of Beethoven's Fifth symphony, followed by the William Tell overture, and featured by Italy's Garibaldi hymn which Mr. Toscanini had specially arranged for the program and which was played at his direction three times in succession. The broadcast closed with his arrangement of the Star Spangled Banner.

Salute to Fall of Fascism Broadcast by Toscanini

A. P. Flash on Surrender Prize in War Bond Drive

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The news flash the Associated Press sent out yesterday telling of Italy's unconditional surrender will be used in the new War bond drive.

Radio Station WQXR here will give its copy of the momentous announcement and the bulletin that followed to the person who buys the most War bonds through its facilities today.

1,200 ITALIAN PRISONERS SOUGHT FOR N. Y. FARMS

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 9.—(AP) Governor Dewey, taking quick cognizance of the fall of Italy, urged the U. S. Army today to assign at least 1,200 Italian prisoners of war to relieve a "desperate" labor shortage in New York fields and canneries.

The appeal, directed to Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, elicited no immediate reply from Washington.

Gov. Dewey's telegram, reporting an acute shortage in farm and canning-factory help, followed within a fortnight his plea for 30,000 volunteers to handle a fruit and vegetable crop estigated above 2,000,000 tons.

Terming "additional help imperative," Gov. Dewey informed Gen. Marshall that, "despite widespread success of the state recruitment program, volunteer labor is not sufficient to meet temporary peak needs resulting from unseasonable weather."

AUBURN PRISON GETS WAR AWARD

Auburn, N. Y., Sept. 9 (A. P.).—Auburn prison has been awarded a pennant by the War Production Board for excellent performance in filling war contracts, and the prisoners will have a holiday for exercises commemorating the event.

Floyd M. Avery, superintendent of industries, announcing the award today, said that 300 inmates have been making Coast Guard and Maritime blankets, carpenters' and demolition chests for the Army and that 600 men have donated blood for the Red Cross.

The award will be made September 22 by a WPB representative.

LOWELL SCION PROTESTS WAR

Writes Roosevelt He Cannot Take Part In Conflict "Betraying Country"

[By the Associated Press]

Manchester, Mass., Sept. 9—Robert Traill Spence Lowell, Jr., said by a New York selective service official to have failed to report for induction yesterday, has made public a communication to President Roosevelt in which the scion of the famous Lowell family says he cannot participate in a war which he said might leave Europe and China "to the mercy of the U. S. S. R., a totalitarian tyranny committed to world revolution."

The young writer, cousin of the late A. Lawrence Lowell, president emeritus of Harvard University, and of Amy Lowell, the poet, addressed a 1,000-word "declaration of personal responsibility" to the President which concluded with the words, "I cannot honorably participate in a war whose prosecution, as far as I can judge, constitutes a betrayal of my country."

Cites It As "Principle"

Lowell, who studied at Harvard and specialized in poetry at Kenyon College, Gambrier, Ohio, said "it is a fundamental principle of our American democracy . . . that with us each individual citizen is called upon to make voluntary and responsible decisions on issues which concern the national welfare."

He said, "let us be honest; we intend the permanent destruction of Germany and Japan," adding: "If this program is carried out . . . it will destroy any possibility of European or Asiatic national autonomy; it will leave China and Europe . . . to the mercy of the U. S. S. R."

Refers It To U. S. Attorney

In New York, Col. Arthur V. McDermott, city selective service director, said that local Board 17 would refer Lowell's case to the United States Attorney's office.

K. Bertram Friedman, Assistant United States Attorney, announced he had received a letter from Lowell dated September 5 and advising Friedman of his decision not to appear for induction.

Friedman said he wrote Lowell, asking him to appear at his office to discuss the matter, and telling him no action would be taken against him pending further notification from selective service headquarters.

BULLITT'S INCOME RECORDS SOUGHT

Philadelphia GOP Regime Acts Against Democratic Aspirant For Mayor

[By the Associated Press]

Philadelphia, Sept. 9—The Republican-controlled city government of Philadelphia today filed a bill in equity against William C. Bullitt, Democratic candidate for Mayor and former Ambassador to France and Russia, seeking to require him to produce all records relating to his income and expenses for the years 1939 to 1942, inclusive.

"If the defendant is a resident of Philadelphia, as represented by him," the bill said, the city is unable "to properly compute and assess" tax payments due from him under Philadelphia's four-year-old, Republican-enacted, one per cent. municipal wage tax.

Some Democratic candidates, seeking to break the Republicans' twenty-seven-year tenure in the city government, have campaigned on a platform pledging repeal of the tax.

Filed Tax Returns

The bill said that the Girard Trust Company, acting for Bullitt, filed three yearly tax returns last August 19, giving Bullitt's address as in care of the bank. Notice that additional information would be required was served immediately, the suit said.

Girard Trust said in a letter filed with the bill that "in Mr. Bullitt's position as Ambassador to France, it was necessary for him to incur large expenses for which he was not reimbursed by the United States Government" and that all records of these expenses, like other embassy records, were destroyed on State Department orders when the Nazis entered Paris in 1940.

Bullitt has thirty days in which to file an answer.

GIANT AIRCRAFT HELD VICTORY KEY AGAINST JAPS

Major De Seversky Urges 3,000 Super-Planes of Nearly 100 Tons Each.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 9.—(AP) Major Alexander P. De Seversky, hailing Italy's capitulation as a "victory through airpower" for the Allies, believes 3,000 super-planes larger than the 70-ton Martin Mars flying boat can turn the same trick against Japan.

Germany, he believes, can be blasted out of the war by the aerial route in less than a year.

"Man for man and gun for gun we probably can defeat the Japanese in the kind of warfare in which they are proficient, to which they are used, on land and on the sea.

"But why waste the lives and the time when Japan probably could be defeated by 3,000 planes, of the proper size and design. On the other hand, it could take 500,000 little planes to do the job."

The giant planes needed to defeat Japan are "something we don't have but could have had," continued the note dadvocate of aerial offensive as a major military weapon.

Expects No Reich Invasion

Major De Seversky, in Baltimore in connection with the opening of "Victory Through Airpower," a Walt Disney adaptation of his book by that name, said in an interview that he did not believe that Germany ever would be invaded, but would merely be "occupied" when the time comes, just as Italy is now being occupied.

The war, speed and stunt flyer said the Italian surrender became inevitable when the Allied planes took over supremacy of the skies.

"Victory through airpower does not mean the destruction of a nation," he said, adding that conquest could be accomplished by "assuming control of the air over the enemy's territory and holding over him the power to destroy."

HANDLING OF NEWS TO UNDERGO CHANGE

Managing Editors Told of Post-War Outlook at Conference.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9. — (AP) The possibility of a number of changes in methods of handling news in the future was considered today at the wartime conference of the Associated Press Managing Editors association.

William J. McCambridge, general manager of Press association, spoke of developments in radar, television and facsimile transmission, and advised news executives to "be alert to the changing conditions."

Stanley Barnett of the Cleveland Plain Dealer reported none of the newspapermen he consulted "expressed fear of the news competition of radio," and that they felt "radio newscasting had stimulated interest in the press." He quoted one of them as saying newspapers would have to meet post-war radio competition by improving themselves in a manner that would call for "more specialists, more background, higher speed and considerable resourcefulness."

Mr. McCambridge said for six or seven years he had advocated that newspapers get into the field of frequency modulation," not only because it would tie them into the radio field but because of the latent advantages it will eventually give them in other fields tied up with the dissemination of information to the public."

Bahamians To Harvest Apples

Winchester, Va., Sept. 9 (AP)—Approximately 125 Bahamians, who will assist with the apple harvest in this section, are expected to reach Winchester Saturday or Sunday, and will be ready for work Monday morning. They will be quartered at a camp near here.

Two Flyers Killed in Crash

VINCENNES, Ind., Sept. 9 (AP).—Second Lieutenant Charles E. Thompson, of Duquesne, Pa., and Aviation Cadet George Friga, of Auburn, N. Y., were killed in an airplane crash early today at George Field, Ill.

CARRIERS SEEN AS STRIKING AT JAPAN'S HEART

Forrestal Calls Them One of Our Most Potent Fleet Weapons.

Kansas City, Sept. 9 (A. P.).—James V. Forrestal, Under - Secretary of the Navy, described aircraft carriers today as one of America's most potent weapons for striking at the heart of Japan and said that by the year's end there would be more than fourteen first - line carriers with the fleet. "This does not include the small converted merchant-ship carriers which have already rendered distinguished service in combating the U-boats in the Atlantic," Mr. Forrestal told a War-Bond campaign luncheon here.

He pleaded for Mid-Western understanding of the Navy's role in world affairs and said that the powerful force being created should not be destroyed at the end of the war. The Under - Secretary said that since July 1, 1940, the Navy had spent $35,000,000,000 and that by the end of 1944 the tonnage would total about 5,000,000, or three and one-half times the fighting strength in mid-1940. The present tonnage is in excess of 2,000,000.

The Navy has ten times as many planes as in 1940 and an equal increase in the number of pilots, who total about 25,000, Mr. Forrestal said. He said that he was citing the Navy's accomplishments not because of a great feeling of satisfaction, but to show how the Navy was spending the money which the people are putting into War Bonds.

"We would like to have done better," he said. "We are by no means satisfied with the production of combat airplanes, in spite of the fact that seven out of every ten of the planes that we now receive are in the combat category."

Mr. Forrestal hinted that the American offensive in the Pacific saved Russia from a Japanese attack in Siberia and that the Russians were very appreciative. He said he believed that the Midway and Solomons battles were two of the great pivotal points of the war.

"I consider their importance in the great over-all global strategy is still not given full weight," he said, "although I have a sound basis for the statement that our Russian Allies, even in the midst of their appeal for a second front in Europe, were fully conscious and fully appreciative of the contribution the Navy made to the Russian cause in its bold seizure of the offensive at Guadalcanal last August." At the time of the Guadalcanal invasion many American military authorities believed that Japan was preparing to go to war with Russia.

WITH THE GERMAN FORCES, WHO HAVE TAKEN PART WITH US IN THE DEFENSE OF OUR HOMES, OUR FAMILIES, OUR HONOR."

ANOTHER BROADCAST SAID, "AIRMEN OF ITALY: WHAT TODAY TRAITOR BADOGLIO AND THE ENEMY GENERAL WOULD LIKE TO IMPOSE ON YOU IS THE MOST MONSTROUS INSOLENCE WHICH CAN BE ADDRESSED TO YOU. THE THOUGHT THAT THE ITALIAN AIR FORCE, THE MOST PURE AND BELOVED CREATION OF MUSSOLINI (BENITO MUSSOLINI), WHICH ALWAYS LIVED IN FLAMING ATMOSPHERE OF REVOLUTION FROM WHICH IT REACHED THE HIGHEST GOALS IN PEACE AS WELL AS IN WARTIME, MAY TODAY LAY DOWN ITS ARMS OR EVEN FIGHT AGAINST THE GERMAN ALLIES IS SO NAIVE AND PERFIDIOUS THAT IT IS WORTHY OF THOSE WHO WOVE THE CRIMINAL PLAN."

THE FLIERS WERE INSTRUCTED TO REMAIN IN TOUCH WITH THE NATIONAL FASCIST GOVERNMENT, COLLABORATE WITH "GERMAN ALLIED FORCES," REFUSE THE USE OF ITALIAN AIRFIELDS BY THE ALLIES AND DESTROY INSTALLATIONS WHICH MIGHT FALL IN "THE HANDS OF THE ENEMY."

XM1123AEW SEP 10 1943

LONDON, SEPT.9-(AP)-GERMAN RADIO BROADCAST IN ITALIAN TODAY A NUMBER OF PROCLAMATIONS FROM THE "NEW NATIONAL FASCIST GOVERNMENT" IN BERLIN, CALLING ON ITALIAN AIRMEN AND SAILORS TO DISREGARD THE ORDERS OF THE "TRAITOR BADOGLIO" (MARSHAL PIETRO BADOGLIO) AND THE "RIDICULOUS INSTRUCTIONS" OF THE ALLIES.

A BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, SAID THE GERMAN AIR FORCE HAD BEEN GIVEN ORDERS TO "SINK OR ATTACK" ITALIAN VESSELS ATTEMPTING TO JOIN THE ALLIES.

ITALIAN SEAMEN WERE ORDERED TO "MAINTAIN THE MOST CORDIAL CONTACT

SEP 10 1943

LONDON, SEPT. 9 -(AP)- THE WORD "DINO" WAS CHALKED UP TODAY ON MANY DOORS AND WALLS OF LONDON'S SOHO DISTRICT.

IT IS THE FIRST NAME OF COUNT GRANDI, FORMER ITALIAN AMBASSADOR TO BRITAIN, WHO IS POPULAR AMONG LONDON ITALIANS.

LONDON, SEPT 9-(AP)-THE BERLIN RADIO REPORTED TODAY THAT THE SWISS GOVERNMENT HAD ORDERED ITS TROOPS TO TAKE UP POSITIONS ALONG SWITZERLAND'S FRONTIERS.

LO SEPT 9-(AP)-COL. ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT whose PHOTOGRAPHIC RECONNAISSANCE UNIT WITH THE NORTHWEST AFRICAN AIR FORCES HELPED LAY THE GROUNDWORK FOR THE INVASION OF SICILY, HAS ARRIVED IN LONDON ON A SECRET MISSION, IT WAS DISCLOSED TODAY.

THE PRESIDENT'S SON CAME FROM WASHINGTON, WHERE HE HAD ATTENDED A SERIES OF MILITARY CONFERENCES.

IMMEDIATELY UPON HIS ARRIVAL HERE, COL. ROOSEVELT, WHO SAID HE WAS STILL ATTACHED TO THE NORTH AFRICAN THEATER OF OPERATIONS, CONFERRED WITH HIGH AIR FORCE OFFICIALS, INCLUDING COL. JAMES HALL, OF FORT WORTH, TEXAS, CHIEF OF THE PHOTOGRAPHIC RECONNAISSANCE UNIT OF THE U.S. EIGHTH AIR FORCE.

A LARGE PART OF ARMY INTELLIGENCE WORK, ESPECIALLY IN PREPARING FOR INVASION OPERATIONS, IS DONE BY THESE AERIAL PHOTOGRAPHIC OUTFITS--KNOWN AS THE "EYES OF THE ARMY"--AND FROM THEIR REPORTS THE ARMY TECHNICAL STAFFS ARE ABLE TO LAY OUT MODELS OF BEACHES AND EVEN CITIES BEFORE AN ATTACK IS LAUNCHED.

M[illegible]3AEW

30.24——8241

BY RICE YARNER

A BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, SEPT 9-(AP)-WITH THE SKY FULL OF "ANGELS" -- PROTECTING THUNDERBOLT FIGHTERS -- FLYING FORTRESS CREWS WENT OUT WHISTLING AND CAME BACK SMILING FROM SMASHING ANOTHER FRENCH AIRBASE TODAY IN THE NON-STOP ATTACK ON WHAT REMAINS OF THE AXIS.

MOST PILOTS OF THE FORMATION WHICH PLASTERED THE FRENCH AIRBASE SAID THE MISSION BETWEEN BREAKFAST AND LUNCH ALMOST RESEMBLED AN AIRLINE TRIP. ALL HAD SLEPT CONTENTEDLY LAST NIGHT AFTER ITALY'S SURRENDER.

ONLY A FEW BURSTS OF FLAK WERE REPORTED AND, ACCORDING TO LT.J.A.BUTLER, ALAMO, TEX., ONE OF THE RAIDING PILOTS, THERE WERE "NO FIGHTERS CLOSE ENOUGH TO RECOGNIZE THEM."

"IT WAS SOMETHING YOU DREAM ABOUT GOING ON," HE ADDED, "EVEN THE P-47S DIDN'T HAVE ANYTHING TO DO EXCEPT RIDE, SO FAR AS WE COULD SEE."

SGT.HERTBERT MAY, INDIO, CALIF., BALL TURRET GUNNER IN BUTLER'S SHIP, CALLED THE ESCORTING FIGHTERS, ANGELS WITH WINGS."

LT.MEYER BEGAD, 1830 SOUTH BRIDGEWAY AVE., CHICAGO, NAVIGATOR, SAID: "THEY'RE WELCOME TO WHAT'S LEFT OF THAT TARGET."

"THE P-47S REALLY DID A GOOD JOB," SAID LT.LESTER O.HEGSTAD, 651 NORTH LEAMINGTON AVE., CHICAGO, NAVIGATOR ON A FORTRESS.

"NOTHING COULD GET CLOSE TO US ON THE WAY IN OR ON THE WAY BACK, EVEN IF THERE WERE ENEMY PLANES TO TRY IT," HE DECLARED.

"IT WAS PRETTY EASY," SAID LT.ERNEST E.BOYCE, LODI, WIS., ONE OF THE COPILOTS IN A FORMATION LED BY MAJ.WILLIAM F.GILMORE, 24, ATLANTA, GA.

"WE PLASTERED BOMBS ALL OVER THE PLACE AND WE SAW LOTS OF OTHER FIELDS THAT HAD JUST AS GOOD A JOB DONE ON THEM," BOYCE SAID.

1943

BY ROBERT N.STURDEVANT

SEP 10 1943

AT A U.S. BOMBING BASE IN ENGLAND, SEPT 9-(AP)-TRAFFIC OVER NORTHERN FRANCE TODAY LOOKED LIKE TIMES SQUARE AT ITS WILDEST.

VIRTUALLY SKY-DARKENING FORMATIONS OF AMERICAN FLYING FORTRESSES, SUPPORTED BY CLOUDS OF THUNDERBOLTS, GAVE A DEMONSTRATION OF THEIR CRUSHING AIR SUPERIORITY.

"THERE WERE SO MANY FORTS IN THE AIR TODAY IT LOOKED LIKE TIMES SQUARE ON NEW YEAR'S EVE," OBSERVED SGT.CLIFFORD M.HART OF WENATCHEE, WASH., TOP TURRET GUNNER, WHO PARTICIPATED IN A RAID ON VITRY-EN-ARTOIS.

LT.JOHN G.WINANT, JR., SON OF THE AMERICAN AMBASSADOR TO GREAT BRITAIN, WHO PILOTED THE FORT "TECH SUPPLY" IN A RAID ON BEAUMONT, SAID "THERE WERE MILLIONS OF GERMAN FIGHTERS UP THERE TODAY BUT THE AMERICAN P47S (THUNDERBOLTS) TOOK CARE OF THEM. I SAW SOME FLAK OFF THE RIGHT WING, BUT ONLY GOT ONE HOLE. THAT IS A RECORD FOR MY SHIP."

